3.1.2. DFAS Office of General Counsel, Garnishment Law Directorate is the designated agent for service of process for all military retiree bankruptcy notices and withholding orders.

3.1.3. The following information should be included with the withholding order:
3.1.3.1. Full name and
3.1.3.2. Full social security number.

3.1.4. The notice is effective when it is received in the office of the designated official.

3.1.5. When the notice does not sufficiently identify the retiree, it will be returned directly to the person who submitted the order with an explanation of the deficiency.

3.2 Case Review and Execution of Bankruptcy Withholding Order

Upon receipt of notice of a bankruptcy, together with all the required information, the office of the designated official will review the case to determine if there are any garnishments or debt collections that must be terminated as a result of the automatic stay (child support, alimony, child support arrears, alimony arrears, and division of property awards are not terminated unless the bankruptcy order requires it). If a bankruptcy withholding order is submitted, the office of the designated official will establish the withholding against the retiree’s pay to comply with the bankruptcy order within 30 days. Withholdings will continue until the amount specified in the order is collected, or the order is modified or terminated, or the bankruptcy case is dismissed or discharged.

3.2.1. Within 30 calendar days after the date of receipt of the order, the designated official will send notice to the retiree.

3.2.2. The letter will inform the retiree the date that the bankruptcy withholding is scheduled to begin and the amount or percentage that will be deducted.

3.2.3. When the retiree identified in the order is found not to be entitled to money due from or payable by DFAS, the designated official will return the order to the person who submitted it and advise him or her that no money is due from or payable by DFAS to the named individual. When it appears that amounts are exhausted temporarily or otherwise unavailable, the authorized person must be told why and for how long any money is unavailable, if known.

CHAPTER 19

GENERAL PROVISIONS GOVERNING ALLOTMENTS OF RETIRED PAY

1.0 GENERAL (1901)

1.1 Purpose (190101)

1.1.1. Allotments are designed for the convenience and privilege of retirees and are not to be exploited or abused. The retired pay activity acts solely as an agent of the retiree in the payment of the allotments and assumes no liability concerning any contract between the retiree and the allottee. Allotments paid erroneously through administrative error must be recovered from the allottee, if possible, or may be collected from the retiree if such payment provided a benefit to that retiree.

1.1.2. Voluntary allotments of retired pay or retainer pay for military retirees are limited to discretionary and nondiscretionary allotments. To aid personnel in the transition from active duty to retired status, all existing authorized allotments of members on active military service may be continued as approved allotments. Authorized allotments include a maximum of six discretionary allotments, as outlined in paragraph 190201 and Volume 7A.

1.2 Authoritative Guidance (190102)

The pay policies and requirements established by DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.). Due to the subject matter in this chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in a reference section at the end of the chapter.

2.0 DISCRETIONARY ALLOTMENTS (1902)

2.1. Discretionary Allotments (190201)

Retirees are authorized no more than six discretionary allotments. A retiree may start a new allotment as long as the total number of discretionary allotments does not exceed six. Discretionary allotments are identified as “class D” allotments. The retiree must certify that the allotment is within the limits of the law (e.g., allotments may not be used to repay gambling debts in a state where gambling is not permitted). Discretionary allotments include, but are not restricted to, the allotments described in this section. A retired member may terminate a discretionary allotment upon request using the procedures set out in paragraph 190402.

2.2 Allotments for Insurance Premiums (190202)

Allotments are authorized for paying various types of commercial insurance premiums. This includes payment for life, dental, health, and vehicle insurance. Premium payments are combined when a retiree has more than one life insurance allotment within the same company. All payments to an insurer are made via Electronic Funds Transfer (EFT). The insurer is responsible for establishing an account for these payments. The start, change and stop dates for the insurance allotments are set out in Tables 19-1, 19-2, and 19-3.

2.2.1. Cash Deposit for Insurance. If a retiree’s retired pay account is in a nonpay status due to full waiver of pay, failure to report for periodic physical examination, or the expiration of 3 years after the date the member’s name was placed on the Temporary Disability Retired List, the member may request the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) pay VA insurance premiums by deduction from disability compensation benefits, or the member may pay premiums by sending remittances directly to:

Department of Veterans Affairs
P.O. Box 7787
Philadelphia, PA  19101

2.2.2. Eligible Allottees. Eligible allottees include:

2.2.2.1. U.S. Government Life Insurance/National Service Life Insurance (USGLI/NSLI);

2.2.2.2. Navy Mutual Aid Association;

2.2.2.3. American Armed Forces Mutual Aid Association (AAFMAA);

2.2.2.4. Dental and Health Insurers;

2.2.2.5. Vehicle Insurers; and

2.2.2.6. Commercial Insurers.

2.3 Allotments to Dependents or Relatives (190203)

Voluntary payment may be made by allotment to a spouse, other dependent(s), or to a relative(s) not legally designated as a dependent(s). Allotments must be made payable to the allottee through a financial institution for credit to the account of the allottee. An allottee can be a state agency, court trustee, welfare agency, former spouse, or a child’s guardian or custodian. The member or allottee must make satisfactory arrangements with the financial institution to accept EFT payment before starting the allotment.

2.4 Allotment Deposits to Financial Organizations (190204)

Retirees may authorize allotments of pay to financial organizations for credit to the account of the member. Allotments may be deposited to:

2.4.1. A financial organization for credit to a savings, checking, or trust account of the allotter; or 2.4.2. A mutual fund or other company or investment firm.

2.5 Allotments for Payment of Mortgage or Rent (190205)

Retirees may authorize allotments for mortgage or rent payment to a financial institution, mortgage company, realtor, or landlord.

2.6 Other Allotments (190206)

Retirees may authorize an allotment for payment of personal loans; however, the restrictions in paragraph 190408 apply. Personal loans may include, but are not limited to the following:

2.6.1. Payment of a car loan; and

2.6.2. Payment of a loan to repay consumer credit, such as to a finance company.

2.7 Air Force Retired Members Only (190207)

Only retired Air Force members may authorize allotment payments to the Air Force Enlisted Members Widow’s Home.

3.0 NONDISCRETIONARY ALLOTMENTS (1903)

3.1 Nondiscretionary Allotments (190301)

Nondiscretionary allotments of retired and retainer pay are limited to those described in this section.

3.2 Voluntary Liquidation of Indebtedness (190302)

An allotment for repayment of indebtedness to the United States is registered for a definite period required to liquidate the indebtedness. Retired members may make allotments for payment of:

3.2.1. Indebtedness incurred due to defaulted notes insured by the Federal Housing Administration or guaranteed by the VA;

3.2.2. Any other indebtedness to any department or agency of the U.S. Government (except DoD) debts, to include those assigned to a collection agency;

3.2.3. Delinquent Federal income taxes. A member may execute an agreement with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) to pay delinquent taxes by monthly deductions from retired pay. Agreements are made by executing an IRS Form 2159, Payroll Deduction Agreement;

3.2.4. Delinquent state or local income or employment taxes; and
3.2.5. Loan debt to Navy-Marine Corps Relief Society, Army Emergency Relief, Air Force Aid Society, or American Red Cross.

3.3 Charitable Contributions (190303)

Retirees are authorized to establish an allotment for making charitable contributions to any of the Service Relief Organizations including the Army Emergency Relief, Navy-Marine Corps Relief Society, or affiliates of the Air Force Assistance Fund. Payment of pledges for these specified charities is authorized. These payments are for a definite period. Individual organizations are responsible for identifying an account for receipt of payment.

3.4 Savings Bonds Allotments (190304)

3.4.1. Purchasing and Establishment of Savings Bonds by Nondiscretionary Allotment. As of October 1, 2010, the U.S. Treasury no longer issues paper savings bonds to federal employees (military, retired, and civilian personnel members) through payroll deduction. Retired members may purchase electronic savings bonds by establishing a personal TreasuryDirect account with the Treasury through TreasuryDirect. This account can be used to purchase multiple bonds. Members are authorized one nondiscretionary allotment for the purchase of bonds. For information on TreasuryDirect, go to www.treasurydirect.gov.

3.4.2. Establishment of Savings Bonds Nondiscretionary Allotment. To establish an allotment to their TreasuryDirect account, members must either contact the Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS) Retired and Annuitant Pay or create the allotment through myPay. The following information is required to initiate the allotment:

3.4.2.1. The routing transit number for TreasuryDirect: 051736158;

3.4.2.2. The TreasuryDirect account number provided by Treasury; and

3.4.2.3. The specific dollar amount to be deducted monthly.

NOTE: The myPay system also requires that the member designate the account type, either checking or savings, even though that designation is not applicable to an allotment to a TreasuryDirect account. Send written requests to begin Savings Bonds Allotments to:

Defense Finance and Accounting Service
U.S. Military Retired Pay

4.0 ALLOTMENT ADMINISTRATION (1904)

*4.1 Definitions (190401)

4.1.1. Allotment. An allotment is a definite portion of the retired pay of a person retired from a Military Service, which the retiree authorizes to be paid to a person, institution, or agency. This payment may be for the purpose of supporting relatives or for any other purpose that the Secretary of the military department concerned considers proper.

4.1.2. Allottee. An allottee is a person, institution, or agency to whom the allotment is made payable.

4.1.3. Allotter. An allotter is the person from whose retired pay the allotment is made.

4.1.4. Financial Institution. A financial institution is a bank (to include a military banking facility), credit union, or thrift association.

*4.2 Excluded Amounts in Retired Pay Allotment (190402)

The amount of retired pay which may be allotted can be limited administratively to exclude amounts required to be withheld for:

4.2.1. Tax purposes;

4.2.2. Liquidation of an indebtedness determined under applicable provisions of law to be chargeable against the member’s retired pay account;

4.2.3. Cost of participation in the Retired Serviceman’s Family Protection Plan and/or Survivor Benefit Plan;

4.2.4. Garnishments;

4.2.5. Continuing tax levies;

4.2.6. VA compensation; and 4.2.7. Payments to a former spouse.

*4.3 Establishment, Discontinuance, and Changes to Existing Allotments (190403)

A properly executed DoD (DD) Form 2558, Authorization to Start, Stop or Change an Allotment, a written request, or an automated data exchange (from specific organizations) may be used to establish, discontinue, or change an allotment. Automated computer programs that allow members to establish, discontinue, or change an allotment using a personal identification number are also permitted. In addition, requests may be accepted telephonically from members without written documentation, but only after the member’s identity has been validated. Requests for allotment actions should be provided to DFAS, Retired and Annuitant Pay. Normally, allotments are not established retroactively.

4.4 Administrative Changes (190404)

4.4.1. Changes beyond the control of the retiree are considered administrative in nature. These are dictated by events incidental to the purpose of the allotment. Examples include changes to the name, address, account number, and financial institution of the allottee. Other examples include amount changes due to contractual obligations existing at the time the allotment was executed (such as a mortgage payment changed because of variable rate mortgage or change in escrow requirement). Administrative changes may be made without the allottee’s consent.

4.4.2. In addition to the situations described in subparagraph 190404.A, upon notice and request from an insurance allottee, administrative changes may be made without the member’s consent under the following circumstances:

4.4.2.1. Death of retired member;
4.4.2.2. Policy terminated;
4.4.2.3. Policy has been surrendered;
4.4.2.4. Policy changed;
4.4.2.5. Policy paid up, no premiums due;
4.4.2.6. Policy not in force; or
4.4.2.7. Lapsed policy.

The allotment will be terminated or reduced at the insurance allottee’s request; refund and notification of the returned premium must be forwarded to the retired member.

4.5 Duration of Allotments (190405)

Allotments are registered for an indefinite period except in the following circumstances:

4.5.1. Repayment of indebtedness to the United States, to include payment of delinquent Federal income taxes; and

4.5.2. Charitable contributions as specified in paragraph 190303.
*4.6 Allotment Overpayment Responsibilities (190406)

Any check issued and mailed to a recipient or transmitted via EFT to the recipient’s financial institution for which an entitlement does not exist must be recovered immediately by the issuing office. If an allotment is made after deductions from retiree’s retired pay have stopped, and the recipient does not return the amount of that payment, then the office of issuance must start a recovery action of an equal amount from the recipient, or the retiree, if that office determines that the retiree benefited from the payment. If the retiree is liable, then the overpayment must be recovered through deductions from the retired pay due the retiree.

4.7 Method of Payment (190407)

EFT is the method of payment required for all individual allotments. For a list of exceptions to this requirement see Title 31, Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), part 208.4 (31 CFR 208.4) and Volume 8, Chapter 1.

4.8 Restrictions (190408)

The following restrictions apply to allottees:

4.8.1. Minors. Allotments (except to purchase U.S. Savings Bonds) may not be made payable to children under 16 years of age. Allotments may be made payable to the child’s guardian or custodian. Spouses of retirees may be named as allottees regardless of age.

4.8.2. Mental Incompetents. Allotments are not payable to mentally incompetent persons. Such allotments are payable to a guardian or the institution where confined.

4.8.3. Multiple Allotments. See restrictions in paragraphs 190101 and 190201.

4.8.4. Special Power of Attorney. A special power of attorney may be used to establish, change, or stop an allotment. This special power of attorney must specifically grant the authority to establish, change or stop allotments. A general power of attorney is not acceptable to establish, change, or stop an allotment.

4.8.5. Reduced Retired Pay of Allotter. When a stoppage or reduction of retired pay does not leave enough funds for deduction of allotments in force, then those allotments are stopped administratively by the disbursing officer without the signature of the retiree, as described in section 1904 and Figure 19-1.

4.8.6. Administrative Stops. Allotments may be stopped because of the required deductions from retired pay listed in paragraph 190402. When possible, the retiree is allowed to determine the allotments to be stopped. However, if the retiree involved refuses or is unable, to identify which allotments should be stopped, then the allotments of that retiree will be stopped involuntarily in accordance with the order of precedence contained in Figure 19-1.
5.0  RIGHT TO ALLOTMENTS IN CASE OF DEATH (1905)

5.1  Death of Retiree (190501)

Entitlements to allotments end with the death of the member. No further allotment payments may be made after receipt of notice of the allotter’s death. Deductions made from the retiree’s pay, but not paid to the allottee, become part of the arrears of retired pay. Allotments paid after the retiree’s death may not be collected from the allottee, except:

5.1.1. Allotments erroneously established after notice of death of the retiree; and

5.1.2. Unearned insurance premiums (insurance premiums are paid 1 month before the day payment is actually due).

5.2  Death of Allottee (190502)

An allotment check, even though endorsed, does not become part of an allottee’s estate if it is not cashed or negotiated before the allottee’s death. Allotment checks are not subject to expenses incurred by or on behalf of the allottee before or after death. All unnegotiated allotment checks must be returned to the office that issued the check. The returned checks are then credited to the retiree’s account.

CHAPTER 22

FUNERAL HONORS DETAIL STIPEND FOR RETIREES

1.1 Overview

The Secretary of a Military Department is authorized to provide support for persons participating in a funeral honors detail, including retired military members, in the form of either transportation allowances (or reimbursement for transportation allowances) and expenses, or a daily stipend as prescribed by the Secretary of Defense. The prescribed daily stipend must be set at a single rate designed to defray the typical costs of transportation and other miscellaneous expenses for persons participating in a funeral honors detail who are members of the Armed Forces in a retired status and other persons who are not members of the Armed Forces or employees of the United States. See Volume 9, Chapter 4 for information regarding reimbursement for transportation allowances and expenses.

1.2 Purpose

This chapter provides policy for the entitlement, funding, and amount payable for funeral honors detail stipends.

1.3 Authoritative Guidance

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.), including Titles 10 and 37. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in a reference section at the end of the chapter.

2.0 ENTITLEMENT TO STIPEND

Secretaries of Military Departments are asked to authorize stipend payments for retirees under 10 U.S.C. § 1491(d) in lieu of authorizing an allowance under 37 U.S.C. § 435(a). These stipends ensure uniform payments to all volunteers who assist in providing funeral honors. A member of the Armed Forces in a retired status, including a member of the Retired Reserves without pay, may receive a daily stipend payment, in addition to any payment of retired or retainer pay or other compensation to which they are entitled, for performing funeral honors detail. Only one daily stipend may be earned and paid for 1 calendar day.

2.1 Amount Payable

The Secretary of Defense is required to prescribe annually a flat rate daily stipend for certain individuals who volunteer to assist the active military in the delivery of funeral honors. The daily stipend payable to a member receiving retired or retainer pay, or a member of the Retired Reserves without pay, is currently $50.
2.2 Taxability

The daily stipend payment under 10 U.S.C. § 1491(d) is not reported as taxable income.

2.3 Funding

The approving Military Department must make the payment under this chapter from Operation and Maintenance funds for the fiscal year in which the payment is made.

2.4 Payments

2.4.1. Retirees considered for the stipend must be an authorized provider to participate in the specific honor detail and perform the honors as anticipated. The retirees that perform funeral honors should be a provider under the Authorized Provider Partnership Program (AP3). The DoD established the AP3 for the benefit of commanders who have the responsibility to provide funeral honors to active duty Service members, retirees, and veterans.

2.4.2. The Military Department concerned is responsible for processing claims for authorized providers (retirees). The authorized provider (retiree) must complete and submit Optional Form 1164, Claim for Reimbursement for Expenditures on Official Business, to the parent Service of the honored veteran.

CHAPTER 23

SPECIAL SEPARATION BENEFITS (SSB) AND VOLUNTARY SEPARATION INCENTIVE (VSI) PAY

1.0 GENERAL

1.1 Purpose

The purpose of this chapter is to provide policy for the authorization, administration, and payment of the SSB and VSI programs to mid-career Service members of the military services in over-strength inventories. The applicable period for SSB and VSI was January 1992 through December 2001. Both programs required member affiliation with a Reserve Component.

1.2 Authoritative Guidance

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.), including Titles 10 and 31. Due to the subject matter in this chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in a reference section at the end of the chapter.

2.0 RESPONSIBILITIES

2.1 Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS), Cleveland (CL)

DFAS-CL will:

2.1.1. Maintain the VSI account until all annual installments are paid, or until the death of the VSI member recipient. A member’s entitlement to VSI is not transferable, except that the member may designate beneficiaries to receive the payments in the event of the member’s death, in accordance with paragraph 5.0; and

2.1.2. Make all VSI annual beneficiary payments. Following the death of a VSI member recipient, DFAS-CL will provide customer service support for designated beneficiaries and be the primary source for VSI member beneficiary account assistance and maintenance.

2.2 Defense Manpower Data Center (DMDC)

DMDC will:

2.2.1. Maintain a personnel database that identifies and tracks participation in the VSI programs; and

2.2.2. Provide information concerning Reserve participation to DFAS-CL due to the requirement of Reserve affiliation.
2.3 Secretary of the Treasury

The Secretary of the Treasury administers the VSI Fund (hereafter referred to as the “Fund”). All VSI payments made by the Secretary of Defense after December 31, 1992, pursuant to 10 U.S.C. § 1175, are to be paid out of the Fund. The Fund is classified as a trust fund and has been designated as account number 97X8335. This fund consists of a receipt and expenditure account.

2.4 DoD Board of Actuaries

For each fiscal year (FY) after September 30, 1999, the Board:

2.4.1. Carries out an actuarial valuation for the Fund and determines any new unfunded liabilities arising from gains and losses to the Fund;

2.4.2. Determines an amortization schedule for liquidating these new unfunded liabilities; and

2.4.3. Determines for the upcoming FYs the amount of DoD contributions to the Fund necessary to comply with the amortization schedules for the Fund’s original and new unfunded liabilities in sufficient time to be included in the FY budget requests.

3.0 PAYMENT PROCESSING

3.1 VSI Payments

3.1.1. Upon Separation. A Service member completed a DoD (DD) Form 2058, State of Legal Residence Certificate, and Internal Revenue Service (IRS) Form W-4, Employee’s Withholding Allowance Certificate at the time of separation and a DD Form 2864, VSI Beneficiary Designation in order to designate any beneficiaries if desired.

3.1.2. Annual Payments. DFAS-CL issues annual payments on the anniversary of the member’s separation. In the event that the anniversary date falls on a weekend or holiday, DFAS-CL will make the payment according to the same rules followed for regular active duty paydays. DFAS-CL will send annual VSI payments to the VSI recipient’s bank via Electronic Funds Transfer (EFT). The Service member should complete an updated Standard Form (SF) 1199A, Direct Deposit Sign-Up Form, as information changes. If an SF 1199A is not available, the VSI recipient must submit a signed and dated request with the address of the bank and a canceled check that shows account number and routing transit number.

3.2 Effect of Disability Compensation

A member receiving VSI must not be deprived of the VSI by reason of entitlement to disability compensation under the laws administered by the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA).
3.2.1. Deduction. The amount of any such disability compensation concurrently received must be deducted from VSI payments.

3.2.2. No Deduction. No deduction is made from VSI for any disability compensation received because of an earlier period of active duty if the VSI is received because of discharge or release from a later period of active duty.

3.3 Withholding Requirements for Members

3.3.1. Federal Income Tax Withholding (FITW) is withheld from VSI payments based upon the annual Percentage Method of Withholding Table. A valid IRS Form W-4 is required to compute the proper withholding amount under this method. If the member has not submitted an IRS Form W-4, the tax withholding is computed as if the member is single, with no withholding exemptions.

3.3.2. State Income Tax Withholding. VSI payments are subject to state income tax withholding for residents of states that have entered into an agreement with the Secretary of the Treasury. State withholding and reporting for the SSB and the initial VSI payment is based on the member’s legal residence at the time of separation from active duty. For annual VSI payments, state income tax is withheld based upon the state of legal residence claimed on the member’s DD Form 2058. See Volume 7A, Chapter 44 for those states that have entered into an agreement with the Secretary of the Treasury.

3.3.3. Withholding of Federal Insurance Contributions Act (FICA). FICA (or any other payroll taxes) is not withheld from VSI payments.

3.4 Recoupment of SSB or VSI

A member who has received SSB or VSI and who later qualifies for retired or retainer pay will have the amount of the SSB or VSI received deducted from each payment of such retired or retainer pay. SSB will also be deducted from disability compensation under the laws administered by the VA. See Chapter 4 for detailed information on recoupment.

4.0 DEBT COLLECTION

SSB and VSI initial payments were subject to offset for debt collection. If a Service member separated from active duty with debts due to the United States (including non-appropriated fund instrumentalities and non-DoD debts), the amount of the debt was subject to offset from the SSB and initial VSI entitlement. In the case of VSI, if the debt was greater than the initial payment, the remaining debt will be collected from subsequent installments. Collections are made according to the administrative offset provisions contained in 31 U.S.C. § 3716 and are subject to standard debt collection procedures and policies in Volume 16. Garnishment orders remain in effect for VSI recipients and must be transferred to DFAS-CL for administration.
5.0 BENEFICIARY PAYMENT

5.1 Designation of Beneficiaries

5.1.1. Service members may designate beneficiaries to receive VSI installments that remain unpaid after the death of the member using a DD Form 2864. The VSI recipient may designate different percentages for multiple recipients to receive. In the event percentage elections are not made, payments are divided evenly among the designated beneficiaries. The VSI recipient may change his/her beneficiary information by sending a signed and dated DD Form 2864 to DFAS-CL at any time after separation.

*5.1.2. DFAS-CL will maintain beneficiary forms for all VSI accounts at least until the end of the VSI entitlement period. If the member dies before the end of the VSI entitlement period, the beneficiary forms will be retained and will not be disposed until after the settlement and payment of any claims made by beneficiaries and until after the retention periods in DFAS 5015.2M (Records Disposition Schedules for Administrative Records Manual) expire.

5.2 Notification of Death and Beneficiary Claim

5.2.1. DFAS-CL requires notification of a VSI recipient’s death. Proof of death, such as a certified death certificate, is required. Upon receipt of proof of death, DFAS-CL will close out the member account and establish the beneficiary account. If the beneficiary is responsible for the death of the retiree, the annuity may not be paid to that person unless evidence is received which clearly absolves the beneficiary of any felonious intent.

5.2.2. No specific form is required for making a claim for beneficiary payments. A statement signed by the beneficiary claiming future VSI payments will be sufficient. A claim by a beneficiary for VSI payments will be settled in accordance with 31 U.S.C. § 3702 and therefore must be received within 6 years after the date the claim accrues in order to be timely. The statement should include the beneficiary’s social security number. Mail beneficiary claims to DFAS-CL, Retired and Annuitant Pay (R&A):

DFAS Indianapolis
Attn: Uniques
8899 East 56th Street
Indianapolis, IN 46249-1300

5.3 Beneficiary Payment

5.3.1. Death of the Member. Upon the death of the member, DFAS-CL will make all remaining annual payments to the member’s designated beneficiaries for the remainder of the deceased VSI recipient’s entitlement period. If a valid designation was not made or received, payments will be distributed to the person highest on the list, living on the date of death (see 10 U.S.C. § 2771) as follows:
5.3.1.1. The Beneficiary designated by the member in writing, if the designation is received by the Military Department concerned before the member’s death;

5.3.1.2. The surviving spouse;

5.3.1.3. The children and their descendants, by representation:

5.3.1.3.1. Adopted Child. An adopted child is a legal heir in every state and, therefore, is entitled to payment of unpaid pay and allowances, if otherwise proper. If others adopt the deceased member’s child, the child is a beneficiary only in those states where an adopted child inherits from its natural parent.

5.3.1.3.2. Stepchild. A stepchild is not an eligible beneficiary unless adopted by the deceased retiree.

Note: In certain instances, evidence of paternity may be required to determine eligibility.

5.3.1.4. The father and mother in equal parts or, if either is dead, the survivor;

5.3.1.5. The legal representative; or

5.3.1.6. The person entitled under the law of the domicile of the deceased retiree.

5.3.2. Death of the Beneficiary. Upon presentation of a claim, payments will be distributed to a beneficiary’s estate in the event a beneficiary dies after a VSI recipient’s date of death. DFAS-CL will make such payments according to the laws governing the beneficiary’s state of legal residence.

5.3.3. Withholding Requirements

5.3.3.1. A payment to a beneficiary is subject to FITW. The FITW is based upon the IRS Form W-4P, Withholding Certificate for Pension or Annuity Payments, submitted by the recipient. If an IRS Form W-4P is not submitted, the DFAS site will calculate withholding as for a married person claiming three withholding allowances.

5.3.3.2. State income taxes or FICA will not be withheld from beneficiary payments.

5.3.3.3. DFAS-CL will issue an IRS Form 1099-R, Distributions From Pensions, Annuities, Retirement or Profit-Sharing Plans, IRAs, Insurance Contracts, etc., to each beneficiary recipient.

5.3.4. Garnishment of Beneficiary Payments. DFAS-CL will not honor garnishment orders against beneficiary payments.

5.3.4. Offset of Beneficiary Payments. Beneficiary payments generally are not subject to offset. For instance, VSI beneficiary payments are not offset even though the beneficiary is entitled to receive Social Security on behalf of the deceased VSI recipient. However, if a beneficiary is indebted to the government, the debt may be collected from VSI installment payments.

CHAPTER 24

COMPUTATION OF WAGES SUBJECT TO FEDERAL INCOME TAX WITHHOLDING (FITW)

1.0 GENERAL (2401)

1.1 Purpose (240101)

The purpose of this chapter is to provide information on retired pay subject to FITW. FITW is based on payments actually or constructively paid, regardless of the date earned. Retired pay is considered constructively paid (or received) when credited to the account for a retiree or set apart for a retiree to draw on it at any time, although it is not actually reduced to possession. The retired pay also must have been credited to or set apart for the retiree without any substantial limitations or restrictions as to the time and manner of payment or condition under which it is to be made and brought within the retiree’s control and disposition.

1.2 Authoritative Guidance (240102)

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.), specifically Titles 10 and 26. Due to the subject matter in this chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in a reference section at the end of the chapter.

*2.0 GROSS RETIRED PAY AND FITW (2402)

2.1 Subject to FITW (240201)

Retired pay is income and constitutes wages subject to FITW, except as otherwise indicated in this chapter.

2.2 Not Subject to FITW (240202)

The gross retired pay of a member may not be subject to FITW if the member is on the Temporary Disability Retired List (TDRL) or Permanent Disability Retired List (PDRL), receiving disability retired pay and if:

2.2.1. On or before September 24, 1975, the member was entitled to receive retired pay computed on the basis of percentage of disability in accordance with 26 U.S.C. §§ 104(a)(4) and 104(b)(2)(A);

2.2.2. On September 24, 1975, he or she was a member of the Armed Forces (or Reserve Component thereof) or under a binding written commitment to become such a member (26 U.S.C. §§ 104(a)(4) and 104(b)(2)(B).
2.2.3. The member is receiving disability retired pay because of a combat-related injury. The term “combat-related injury” means personal injury or sickness incurred as a direct result of armed conflict, or while engaged in extra hazardous service, or under conditions simulating war, or caused by an instrument of war. See 26 U.S.C. §§ 104(a)(4) and 104(b)(2)(C). The applicable Service makes the determination at the time of discharge. See DoD Instruction (DoDI) 1332.18, Disability Evaluation System (DES); or

Note: The amount of disability-retired pay described in subparagraph 2.2.3 not subject to FITW is the amount related to the combat-related injury, but in no circumstances will the nontaxable amount be less than the amount the member would be entitled to receive from the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) for that injury.

2.2.4. The member would be entitled to disability compensation from the VA. See 26 U.S.C. §§ 104(a)(4) and 104(b)(2)(D). For those members who have waived all or a portion of retired pay in order to receive disability compensation from the VA, subtract the amount of retired pay waived from the gross retired pay to compute the member’s taxable income. Subtract the waived retired pay amount prior to subtracting other income reducing amounts, such as Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP) premiums. For members who receive retired pay computed based upon years of service and have a portion of retired pay that is tax exempt due to their retirement for disability under 10 U.S.C., Chapter 61, taxable pay is determined by reducing the gross retired pay by either the VA disability compensation entitlement or by the retired pay that would be exempt due to the percentage of disability, whichever is greater.

*3.0 DISABILITY COMPENSATION NOT SUBJECT TO FITW (2403)

A member is entitled to exclude the disability compensation, additional amount, and retroactive disability compensation from the taxable portion of retired pay. In order to exclude retroactive amounts, a member must follow applicable IRS procedures. Amended 1099-Rs are not provided for the retroactive period.

3.1 Disability Compensation (240301)

Disability compensation is the maximum amount that a member would be entitled to receive upon application to the VA.

3.2 Additional Amount (240302)

An additional amount is the difference between a prospective VA disability compensation award and the amount excluded under section 2.0.

3.3 Retroactive Disability Compensation (240303)

The retroactive disability compensation is the amount of a VA disability compensation award not previously excluded from retired pay.
4.0 GROSS RETIRED PAY PARTIALLY TAXABLE (2404)

For members who are entitled to have their retired pay computed based on both percentage of disability and years of service, a portion of their retired pay may be subject to FITW. Any reduction of wages subject to FITW for disability retired pay must meet one of the conditions set forth in paragraph 2.2.

4.1 Permanent Disability Retired List (PDRL) (240401)

If the member is placed on the PDRL, subtract retired pay based on the percentage of disability from retired pay based on the years of service. The difference is the amount of wages subject to FITW.

4.2 Temporary Disability Retired List (TDRL) (240401)

If the member is placed on the TDRL, use one of these methods:

4.2.1. If the member’s disability rating is 50 percent or more, compute as in paragraph 4.1.

4.2.2. If the member’s disability rating is less than 50 percent on the TDRL and the member is receiving retired pay computed based on years of service, subtract the amount of retired pay the member would have received if retired pay were computed solely on the basis of the member’s actual percentage of disability from the gross retired pay the member is receiving. The difference is the amount of wages subject to FITW.

4.2.3. If a member with 20 years or less of service is placed on the TDRL, has a disability rating of less than 50 percent, and elects to receive disability retired pay based on the percentage of disability, the retired pay received is not subject to FITW.

5.0 FITW WAGE REDUCTIONS (2405)

Deductions that reduce the amount of wages subject to FITW include participation in the Retired Serviceman’s Family Protection Plan (RSFPP), participation in the SBP, and VA Disability Compensation.

5.1 RSFPP Participation (240501)

The amount of the member’s retired pay subject to FITW is reduced by the full amount of the RSFPP costs deducted from the member’s retired pay in order to participate in the RSFPP. Effective January 1, 1966, tax laws changed to permit a dollar-for-dollar reduction in taxable income. Prior to January 1, 1966, deductions did not reduce taxable income. See section 9.0 for information on tax implications for a member who pays for this protection by direct remittance.
5.2 SBP Participation (240502)

The amount of the member’s retired pay subject to FITW is reduced by the full amount of the SBP costs deducted from the member’s retired pay in order to participate in the SBP. See section 9.0 for information on the tax implications for a member who pays for this protection by direct remittance.

5.3 VA Disability Compensation (240503)

There is a waiver of military retired pay when a member receives disability compensation or a pension from the VA, unless the member is entitled to concurrent retirement and disability pay on or after January 1, 2014, as provided under 10 U.S.C. § 1414.

5.3.1. If the member’s gross retired pay is fully subject to FITW, subtract the amount of the retired pay waived applied to wages. The amount of retired pay waived reduces the member’s retired pay entitlement.

5.3.2. If a member has retired due to physical disability, reduce wages subject to FITW, if any, by the amount of retired pay waived or the portion of the member’s retired pay based on the actual percentage of disability, whichever is greater.

6.0 U.S. CITIZENS ABROAD (2406)

The retired pay of members who temporarily or permanently reside in a foreign country is subject to FITW the same as if they resided in the United States or its possessions. The same withholding rules from section 2.0 apply.

7.0 ARREARS OF PAY (2407)

For information on taxation policies that apply to deceased members and their beneficiaries, see Chapter 30.

*8.0 DELINQUENT FEDERAL TAXES (2408)

8.1 Voluntary Withholding (240801)

A retiree may, with the consent of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), have deductions made from his or her retired pay to satisfy a debt due to tax delinquency. The class T, nondiscretionary allotment, allows a member to make payments to the IRS for this purpose.

8.2 Involuntary Withholding (240802)

If a retiree neglects or refuses to pay his or her federal income tax liability within 10 days after receiving notice of liability, the IRS District Director may collect the amount by placing a levy on the member’s retired pay. The IRS is required to give the member 10 days notice prior to levy execution. This notice is normally included with the notification of liability. For additional information on the collection of delinquent federal tax debts by tax levy, see Chapter 28.

9.0 SBP/RSFPP PREMIUMS (2409)

*9.1 Paid by Deduction From Retired Pay (240901)

SBP/RSFPP premiums are deducted from retired pay, which reduces the retiree’s taxable income.

9.2 Paid by Direct Remittance (240902)

SBP/RSFPP premiums paid by direct remittance do not reduce the retiree’s taxable income.

*10.0 MILITARY CORRECTION OF RECORDS PAYMENTS (2410)

If a correction of military records results in payment, the payment is processed according to whether or not it is subject to FITW.

10.1 Amounts Previously Paid and Reported (241001)

When amounts previously paid and reported as FITW wages are not subject to FITW as a result of the correction of record pursuant to 10 U.S.C. § 1552, the member may be provided a corrected IRS Form 1099-R, Distributions From Pension, Annuities, Retirement or Profit-Sharing Plans, Individual Retirement Accounts, Insurance Contracts, etc., for the 3 calendar years before the year that the correction action is made, if such correction is appropriate in accordance with the Internal Revenue Code. Alternatively, the member may be provided a letter citing the previous amount taxed and the amount that would have been withheld based upon the record as corrected. The member may seek to obtain a tax refund, if any is due, from the IRS based on his or her total tax liability. Any additional claims for tax liability may be treated as a claim for pecuniary benefits under 10 U.S.C. § 1552.

10.2 Subject to FITW (241002)

When the member’s retired pay is subject to FITW, the payment is reported as FITW wages for the current year and paid out of the Military Retirement Fund.

11.0. DISABILITY SEVERANCE PAY (2411)

For information on the taxability and withholding of disability severance pay, see Volume 7A, Chapter 35.
12.0 RETIRED PAY FOR FLEET RESERVIST/FLEET MARINE CORPS RESERVIST (FR/FMCR) NOT PHYSICALLY QUALIFIED FOR RETENTION (2412)

The retired pay of a member of the FR/FMCR, who is transferred to the retired list after being found physically unqualified for retention in the FR/FMCR, is subject to FITW. See Chapter 2, subparagraph 1.1.2.

COMPUTATION OF FEDERAL INCOME TAX WITHHOLDING (FITW)

1.0 GENERAL (2501)

1.1 Purpose (250101)

This chapter provides information pertaining to Retired and Annuitant (R&A) pay that is subject to FITW and the computation of FITW.

1.2 Authoritative Guidance (250102)

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with Title 26 of the United States Code (U.S.C.). Due to the subject matter in this chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each section are listed in a reference section at the end of the chapter.

2.0 RATES FOR REGULAR AND ADDITIONAL WITHHOLDING OF FITW (2502)

2.1 FITW (250201)

Federal income tax will be withheld in accordance with the Department of the Treasury, Internal Revenue Service (IRS), Publication 15 (Circular E) Employer's Tax Guide. Taxable pay, as computed under provisions of Chapter 24, is subject to FITW.

2.2 Request Additional FITW (250202)

A member may authorize an additional monthly amount of federal income tax to be withheld.

2.3 FITW for an Annuitant (250203)

The gross monthly amount of the annuity, or the monthly amount of the Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP) annuity remaining after it has been reduced by a Dependency and Indemnity Compensation award and/or Social Security offset (as applicable), is taxable income and subject to FITW unless the annuitant elects no withholding. See also Chapter 37, Retired Serviceman’s Family Protection Plan (RSFPP) Annuities and Chapter 46 for SBP Annuities.

2.4 Nonresident Alien (250204)

Federal income tax is withheld for a nonresident alien pursuant to 26 U.S.C. § 871 and Title 26, Code of Federal Regulations, section 1.861-4 (26 CFR 1.861-4). Taxable retired pay, as determined under Chapter 24, is subject to FITW at the rate of 30 percent, without being reduced by withholding allowances of personal exemptions, unless the member is a citizen of a country. that has a tax treaty with the United States. Use the withholding rate specified in the treaty if the member files \textit{IRS Form W-8BEN}, Certificate of Foreign Status of Beneficial Owner for United States Withholding and Reporting (Individuals), with the Defense Finance and Accounting Service, U.S. Military Retirement Pay, 8899 E. 56th Street, Indianapolis, IN 46249-1200.

Note: When a member files an income tax return, the IRS will refund any excess tax withheld. A member who is not a U.S. citizen or resident alien is responsible for reporting the income to the country of the member’s citizenship and paying any tax owed on this income.

3.0 RATES OF FITW FOR ONE-TIME PAYMENTS (2503)

3.1 One-Time Payments (250301)

When DFAS Retired Pay pays a one-time payment concurrently with a regular monthly payment, it separately identifies the one-time payment from the regular payment. As such, the same FITW computation rules apply if the one-time payment is made concurrently with or separately from the regular monthly payment. There are two computation methods, and the method that may be used depends upon whether Federal income tax was withheld from regular monthly payments of retired pay made to the member during the current or immediately preceding calendar year. (See IRS Publication 15, section 7.)

3.1.1. When federal income tax was not withheld from regular payments during the current or preceding calendar year, the one-time payment must be combined with the wages paid for the last pay period (in the same calendar year) or with the wages paid for the current pay period. The amount of withholding is then computed as if this was a single payment, taking into consideration the member’s claimed withholding exemptions. Compute the aggregate withholding amount. Subtract the amount of federal income tax previously withheld or the amount scheduled to be withheld from the regular wages for the current period. The excess amount then would be deducted from the one-time payment.

3.1.2. When federal income tax was withheld from regular monthly payments made during either the current or immediately preceding calendar year, there are two alternatives:

3.1.2.1. Use the procedure described in subparagraph 3.1.1; or

3.1.2.2. Withhold a flat 22 percent of the taxable portion of the one-time payment without regard to the withholding exemptions claimed. (See Revenue Ruling 66-190, 1966 CB 457.)

3.2 Blended Retirement System (BRS) Lump Sum Payments (250302)

BRS lump-sum payments made under \textit{10 U.S.C. § 1415(b)} are treated as supplemental wages for tax purposes. Federal income tax is withheld from BRS lump sum payments in the same manner as described in paragraph 3.1.

CHAPTER 26

STATE TAXES

1.0 GENERAL

1.1 Purpose

The state taxing authority of a member’s residence(s) may tax the member’s retired or retainer pay. The designated state must have a signed, standard written agreement with the DoD for the voluntary withholding of state income tax. This agreement will provide the Secretary concerned the authority to withhold state income tax from the member’s monthly retired or retainer pay.

1.2 Authoritative Guidance

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.), including Title 10. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in a reference section at the end of the chapter.

2.0 WITHHOLDING

2.1 State Income Tax Withholding (SITW)

A retiree may request voluntary SITW from their retired or retainer pay. The request must include the member’s full name, signature, Social Security number, the fixed amount withheld monthly from retired pay, the state designated to receive the withholding, and the member’s current address of residence. The retiree may submit the request via letter, email, or fax to the address in section 4.0 or submit the request through the member’s myPay account. If using myPay, the member’s signature is not required. In the case of mental incompetence, the member’s guardian or trustee must sign the request.

2.2 Amount

The withholding amount requested must be in a whole dollar amount and at least $10 or the state’s minimum, if that amount is higher.

3.0 PAYMENTS AND REPORTS

3.1 Amounts Withheld

The Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS) will disburse amounts withheld to the states in the month following the month of collection. Payment procedures and state income tax withholdings will follow the usual fiscal practices of the uniformed services.
3.2 Internal Revenue Service (IRS) Form 1099-R

The DFAS will provide each retiree an IRS Form 1099-R, Distributions From Pensions, Annuities, Retirement or Profit-Sharing Plans, IRAs, Insurance Contracts, etc., that indicates the total tax withheld for each state, following each calendar year end.

Chapter 27

GARNISHMENTS

1.0 GENERAL

1.1 Purpose

The purpose of this chapter is to provide information unique to the collection of child support and/or alimony from military retired pay. The provisions of Title 42, United States Code (U.S.C.), section 659 (42 U.S.C. § 659) and Title 5, Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), part 581 (5 CFR 581) take precedence when in conflict with this chapter.

1.1.1. Pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 659(h)(1)(A) and 5 CFR 581.103, remuneration for employment includes retired and retainer pay, including disability retired pay. These entitlements are hereafter referred to as “retired pay.”

1.1.2. The processing of garnishment orders for child support and/or alimony from the pay of individuals receiving remuneration for employment from the United States is governed by 42 U.S.C. § 659 and 5 CFR 581.

1.2 Authoritative Guidance

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the U.S.C., including Titles 15, 26, and 42. Due to the subject matter in the chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in a reference section at the end of the chapter.

2.0 DEFINITIONS

2.1 Alimony

Alimony is defined as periodic payments of funds for the support and maintenance of a spouse or former spouse. Subject to and in accordance with state law, alimony includes separate maintenance, alimony pending legal process, maintenance, and spousal support. It also includes attorney fees, interest, and court costs when, and to the extent that they are, expressly made recoverable as such by a decree, order, or judgment issued in accordance with applicable state law by a court of competent jurisdiction. Alimony, as used in the DoD Financial Management Regulation (FMR), Volume 7B, Chapters 27 and 29, excludes payments or transfers of property made in compliance with any community property settlement, equitable distribution of property, or other division of property between the spouse(s) or former spouse(s).
2.2 Child Support

Child support is defined as periodic payments of funds for the support and maintenance of a child or children. Subject to and in accordance with state law, child support includes (but is not limited to) payments to provide for health care, education, recreation, clothing, or other specific needs. It also includes related attorney fees, interest, court costs, and other relief. Child Support, as used in the DoD FMR, Volume 7B, Chapters 27 and 29, excludes payments made in compliance with the satisfaction of child abuse garnishments under the DoD FMR, Volume 7B, Chapter 29, paragraph 3.6.

2.3 Disposable Earnings

Disposable earnings are defined as an individual’s gross retired pay less deductions for the following items:

2.3.1. Amounts withheld in payment of debts owed to the United States, except that an indebtedness based on a levy for income tax under 26 U.S.C. § 6331 will not be excluded in complying with legal process for the support of minor children if the legal process was entered prior to the date of the levy;

2.3.2. Deductions required by law (e.g., Survivor Benefit Plan and Retired Serviceman’s Family Protection Plan cost deductions and deductions for Department of Veterans Affairs waivers); and

2.3.3. Regular Federal income tax withholding (FITW) and state income tax withholding, if required or authorized by law and amounts withheld are not greater than would be the case if the individual claimed all dependents to which he/she were entitled.

2.4 Legal Process

Legal process is defined as any writ, order, summons, or other similar process in the nature of garnishment. Legal process may be issued by:

2.4.1. A court of competent jurisdiction within any state, territory, or possession of the United States;

2.4.2. A court of competent jurisdiction in any foreign country with which the United States has entered into an agreement that obligates the United States to honor such process; or

2.4.3. An authorized official according to an order of such a court of competent jurisdiction or pursuant to state or local law.
3.0 DESIGNATED AGENT

The Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS), Office of General Counsel, Deputy General Counsel of Garnishment Law Directorate, or his or her representative, is responsible for receiving and implementing all legal process concerning retired members. Legal process may be served by regular mail or by fax to:

DFAS Office of General Counsel
Attn: Garnishment Law Directorate
P.O. Box 998002
Cleveland, OH 44199-8002
Fax: 216-367-3675; Toll-Free Fax: 877-622-5930

Any legal process served on DoD entities other than the designated agent, for the purpose of enforcing payment of child support and/or alimony, will be forwarded to the designated agent for processing. For additional information or assistance call:

Garnishment Law Directorate Customer Service
Toll-Free: 888-DFAS411 (888-332-7411)

4.0 IMPLEMENTING LEGAL PROCESS

4.1 Legal Review

Once legal process has been served on the designated agent, the designated agent will review the legal process to determine that it is regular on its face, appears to conform to the laws of the jurisdiction from which it was issued, was issued to enforce a member’s legal obligation to provide child support and/or alimony, and contains sufficient information to accurately identify the member.

4.2 Written Notification

The designated agent will notify the member within 15 days after valid service of legal process. The written notification will explain the potential effect of the legal process on the member’s pay, including allotments, and advise the member that the member has the burden of raising any available defenses, such as violation of the member’s rights under the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act or lack of personal jurisdiction over the member, to the court who issued the order. A copy of the legal process will be included with the written notice. The notice will be sent to the member’s address of record in the retired pay system. When the designated agent has the capability to make notification through electronic means such as email, the notice will be made using those electronic means.
4.3 Response

Within 30 days of effective service, or such longer period as may be allowed by applicable state law, the designated agent will:

4.3.1. Determine the amount of the member’s disposable earnings, as defined in paragraph 2.3;

4.3.2. Where required, file an answer to the legal process with the court in which the proceeding was brought and answer any interrogatories regarding the disposable earnings due the member (the designated agent may use its standard answer form for this purpose); and

4.3.3. Establish deductions from the member’s disposable earnings. In accordance with 5 CFR 581.305(f), governmental agencies, including DoD agencies, are not required to vary their pay or disbursing cycles to comply with the legal process.

4.4 Maximum Percentage of Pay Subject to Garnishment

Unless a lower maximum garnishment percentage limitation is provided by applicable state or local law, the maximum part of disposable earnings for any pay period which is subject to legal process will not exceed:

4.4.1. Fifty percent of disposable earnings if the member concerned asserts by affidavit or other acceptable evidence that he or she is providing over half of the support for a spouse or dependent child (other than a spouse or dependent child with respect to whose support the legal process is issued);

4.4.2. Sixty percent if the member concerned is not supporting a spouse or dependent child as stated in subparagraph 4.4.1; or

4.4.3. If it appears from the face of the legal process that the member is in arrears for a period that is 12 weeks or greater, the maximum percentage under subparagraph 4.4.1 is 55 percent and under subparagraph 4.4.2 is 65 percent.

4.5 Allotments to be Discontinued

If the member does not have enough net pay available to comply with the legal process, then one or more of the member’s allotments will be stopped in accordance with the order of precedence for items 1 through 14 in Figure 19-1 of DoD FMR Volume 7B, Chapter 19.
4.6 Priority of Legal Obligation

If the designated official is served with legal process concerning more than one legal obligation owed by the same member, then the legal obligations will be satisfied from the available funds in the following order of priority:

4.6.1. Legal process to enforce current support will have priority over legal process to enforce support arrearages;

4.6.2. Legal process to enforce current child support will have priority over legal process to enforce current alimony; and

4.6.3. If the legal process is to enforce more than one child support obligation, and there are not enough funds available to fully satisfy all legal process served, then the available funds will be allocated among the obligations in proportion to the amounts of current child support due. Alimony obligations will be satisfied on a first-come, first-served basis.

5.0 APPEALS

Where notice is received that the member has appealed either the legal process or the underlying alimony and/or child support order, payment of money subject to the legal process will be suspended, i.e., money will continue to be withheld, but these amounts will be retained until the Government is ordered by the court, or other authority, to resume payments or otherwise disburse the suspended amounts. However, no suspension action will be taken where the applicable law of the jurisdiction wherein the appeal is filed requires compliance with the legal process while an appeal is pending.

6.0 GARNISHMENT OF RENOUNCED RETIRED PAY

6.1 Retired Pay Subject to Garnishment

Legal process, as defined in paragraph 2.4, must be honored even though the member has renounced receipt of retired pay. The member’s refusal to receive retired pay does not permit the Government to deny satisfying a writ, order, summons, or other similar process in the nature of a garnishment. The entitlement to retired pay, even if renounced, continues to be treated as an amount “due from or payable by” the United States, which accrues to a member’s retired pay account and is subject to garnishment.

6.2 Waiver of Retired Pay

The right to accrue retired pay may not be waived, except as authorized by law. See DoD FMR, Volume 7B, Chapter 12 concerning the waiver of retired pay.
7.0  INDEMNIFICATION

7.1  Liability for Payment

Neither the DoD, nor any disbursing officer or employee, will be liable for any payment made from money due from, or payable by, the DoD, to any individual pursuant to the legal process, if such payment is made in compliance with 42 U.S.C. § 659, 5 CFR 581, and this chapter.

7.2  Disciplinary Action, Civil or Criminal Liability, or Penalty for Disclosure of Information

DoD employees, whose duties include responding to relevant interrogatories, will not be subject to any disciplinary action, civil or criminal liability, or penalty for any disclosure of information made in connection with answering such interrogatories.

7.3  Liability for Failure to Comply With Legal Process

Neither the DoD, nor any disbursing officer or employee, will be liable to pay monetary damages for failure to comply with legal process.

CHAPTER 28

COLLECTION OF NON-DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE (DoD) DEBT AND DELINQUENT FEDERAL TAXES BY TAX LEVY

1.0 GENERAL

1.1 Purpose

The purpose of this chapter is to provide guidance on the collection of non-DoD debt from the retired pay of members. Non-DoD debt discussed in this chapter include debts owed to other non-DoD federal creditor agencies and debt owed to the United States as a result of a civil judgment against a member. This chapter also provides guidance on tax levies issued by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) in order to collect delinquent income tax debt from members. See Volume 16 for the collection of DoD debts from members.

1.2 Authoritative Guidance

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.), including Titles 5, 26, 31, and 37. Due to the subject matter in this chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in a reference section at the end of the chapter.

2.0 INVOLUNTARY COLLECTION

2.1 Recovery of Debt

Current pay is available for repayment of indebtedness without the member’s consent only if such recovery is expressly authorized by statute.

2.2 Offsetting Retired Pay to Collect Debts Owed to Non-DoD Federal Creditor Agencies

Title 5, U.S.C., section 5514 provides authority to offset retired pay in order to collect debts owed to non-DoD federal creditor agencies.

2.2.1 Non-DoD Federal Creditor Agencies. A non-DoD federal creditor agency is a non-DoD federal agency to which an employee owes a debt. Examples of non-DoD federal creditor agency debts include debts owed by members for overpayments of civilian pay the member earned as an employee of a non-DoD federal agency or federal loan debts from non-DoD agencies. See section 3.0 for collection of delinquent federal tax by levy. See paragraph 2.4 for court judgments.

2.2.2 Offset Authority. Non-DoD federal creditor agency debts may be collected by offset of retired pay under 5 U.S.C. 5514. When non-DoD federal creditor agencies identify members as having outstanding debts, those agencies must address their salary offset requests to the Secretary of Defense designee for such collection, which is the Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS). The following designated agent is responsible for receiving these collection requests:

Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS)-AHADC
1240 E. 9th Street
Cleveland, OH 44199-8002

2.2.3. Due Process. A request for offset must include certification that due process rights have been afforded to an indebted employee by the non-DoD creditor agency. A federal tax levy takes precedence over other pay or salary offset deductions, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. § 5514. See also Volume 16, Chapter 3, paragraph 4.4.

2.2.4. Deduction Limitation. Collection may be made in monthly installments or at established pay intervals not to exceed 15 percent of disposable pay for any pay period, unless a greater percentage is authorized by written consent of the member. Unsatisfied debts at retirement must be deducted from subsequent payments of any nature due the member. See Volume 16, Chapter 3, subparagraph 3.6.2.

2.3 Administrative Offset of Debts Owed to Non-DoD Federal Creditor Agencies

Debts owed to non-DoD federal creditor agencies may be collected by administrative offset under 31 U.S.C. § 3716. See also Volume 16, Chapter 3, paragraph 4.4.

2.4 Collection of Other Debts

A member’s retired pay may be subject to garnishment, tax levy, or a court judgment.

2.4.1. Garnishment or Levy

A retired member may not be deprived of pay by the civil process of garnishment or tax levy except as set out in Chapter 27 (garnishment of child support and alimony) or in section 3.0 (levy of delinquent federal taxes) of this chapter.

2.4.2. Judgments in Favor of the United States

Court judgments against a member, or retired member, in favor of the United States may not be collected under Public Law (P.L.) 97-276, section 124. However, such judgments in favor of the United States may be collected under 5 U.S.C. § 5514.

2.4.3. Judgments in Favor of Private Individuals

Court judgments ordered to be collected to pay private individuals are not debts owed to the United States government and cannot be collected by offset under 5 U.S.C. § 5514 or 31 U.S.C. § 3716.
3.0 COLLECTION OF DELINQUENT FEDERAL TAXES BY LEVY

3.1 General

When a member does not pay any federal income taxes due within 30 days after the IRS has issued a notice and demand for payment to the member, the IRS may collect the tax by levy on the member’s salary or other income, including retired or retainer pay. IRS tax levies are requests on IRS Form 668-W, Notice of Levy on Wages, Salary, and Other Income, for a continuous levy from a member’s retired pay to collect taxes owed. The effect of a levy on wages, salary, or other income payable to or received by the member will be continuous from the date such levy is first made until such levy is released by the IRS on Form 668-D, Release of Levy. Medal of Honor recipients are exempt from tax levy.

3.2 IRS Form 668-W

The IRS will transmit IRS Form 668-W or Form 668-W(c), in five parts (the letter “c” designates a computer-generated form which is the same as the version of the form without the “c”). The IRS Form 668-W will identify the member, specify the amount of the tax liability, give instructions for providing due process, show how to compute the levy based on input from the taxpayer, and give the payment address. The DFAS Retired and Annuitant Pay Office (hereinafter “Office”) must follow the instructions on the IRS Form 668-W. In general, the Office must notify the taxpayer (see Figure 28-1 for an example of a sample letter), compute the amounts available for payment to the IRS, and make the payment. Currently, the IRS Form 668-W requires the employer to send to the IRS all of the taxpayer’s net pay less what is exempt from levy. Net pay is gross retired pay less all deductions and allotments in effect as of the date of receipt of IRS Form 668-W. The Office must follow the instructions on IRS Form 668-W when computing exemptions.

3.3 Problem Cases

When the IRS has determined the taxpayer’s case is a problem case, the taxpayer will be furnished with the IRS Form 668-W, a statement of the amount of delinquent taxes and a statement that “net pay” is not enough to pay the levy and that all available accrued pay should be sent to the IRS. Available accrued pay is gross retired pay less:

3.3.1 Withholding for current Federal taxes (statutory amounts only);

3.3.2. Amounts required to satisfy prior overpayments of pay;

3.3.3. Amounts waived in favor of compensation from the Department of Veterans Affairs;

3.3.4. United States Government Life Insurance/National Service Life Insurance premiums;

3.3.5. Deductions for Retired Serviceman’s Family Protection Plan and/or Survivor Benefit Plan costs;
3.3.6. Voluntary child-support allotments to satisfy court orders, provided the court order is dated prior to the date of the levy from the IRS;

3.3.7. Pay attached or garnished for child support or alimony; and

3.3.8. The levy exemptions calculated under normal levy procedures.

NOTE: The main difference between a regular levy and a problem case levy is that, under the latter, the Office must stop the member’s voluntary allotments of retired pay to satisfy the levy. If it is not necessary to stop all allotments, the Office should request the member elect which allotments to stop.
If the member does not respond to the request, the Office must stop such allotments as are necessary, stopping any commercial insurance allotments last. See Chapter 19, Figure 19-1 for the order of precedence.

Retired and Annuitant Pay

December 1, 20XX

CMSGT John Doe, U.S. Air Force (Retired)
1240 East 97th Street
Cleveland, OH 44199-2055

Dear CMSGT Doe,

The IRS has sent us the attached IRS Form 668-W, (Notice of Levy on Wages, Salary, and Other Income). Please read the IRS Form 668-W carefully, as it may be advisable to discuss it with your attorney or other tax adviser.

Complete the attached form and return it to us within 3 working days to claim your partial exemption. If we do not receive the completed form, we will compute your exemption for you, using the exemption for a married person filing separately with one personal exemption. Please note that the exemptions you claimed for tax withholding purposes are NOT the same and we will not use them to compute your exemption from levy.

This is a continuous levy against your retired pay to collect delinquent federal taxes. We will deduct the levy from your (month/year) retired pay. We will make a specified collection from your retired pay and continue the collection until the levy has been satisfied. This levy remains in force and effect until the IRS serves our office with IRS Form 668-D, (Release of Levy).

If you have been awarded the Medal of Honor, you are exempt from levy. Send us a copy of the citation awarding you the Medal of Honor to prevent the levy of your retired pay.

Please contact the IRS office that issued the levy for questions that you may have concerning the levy.

Sincerely,

Military Pay Technician
Retired and Annuitant Pay

CHAPTER 29

FORMER SPOUSE PAYMENTS FROM RETIRED PAY

1.0 GENERAL (2901)

1.1 Purpose (290101)

This chapter explains how a former spouse can apply for direct payments from a military member’s military retired pay and how the former spouse’s payments will be administered.

1.2 Authoritative Guidance (290102)

The pay policies and requirements established by DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.), including Titles 10, 15, 28, 31, 38, 42 and 50. Due to the subject matter in this chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in a reference section at the end of the chapter.

2.0 DEFINITIONS (2902)

2.1 Alimony (290201)

Alimony is a legal obligation where a member is ordered to pay an amount for the support and maintenance of a spouse or former spouse. This definition includes attorney’s fees, interest, and court costs. Alimony does not include child support, property settlement, equitable distribution of property, or any other division of property.

2.2 Child Support (290202)

Child support is a legal obligation where a member is ordered to pay an amount for the support and maintenance of a child. This definition includes costs for health care, arrearages, attorney’s fees, interest, penalties, and other related relief.

2.3 Court (290203)

Court means any court of competent jurisdiction of any state (in the United States), the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, Guam, American Samoa, the Virgin Islands, the Northern Mariana Islands, and the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands and any court of the United States, as defined in 28 U.S.C. § 451. Court also includes a court of a foreign country with which the United States has an agreement requiring the United States to honor any court order of such country.
2.4 Court Order (290204)

Court order means a final decree of divorce, dissolution, annulment, or legal separation issued by a court, or a property settlement incorporated into such an order. Court order also includes orders issued incident to a divorce, such as an order dividing military retired pay or a domestic relations order (DRO) that divides military retired pay. NOTE: A DRO is not required, but will be accepted. A court order also includes a support order as defined in section 453 of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. § 653(p)).

2.5 Creditable Service (290205)

Creditable service means years and full months of military service creditable for the purpose of computing a member’s retired pay entitlement if the member is on active duty or the Reserve retirement points creditable if the member is a Reserve component member. See 10 U.S.C. §§ 1405 and 12733, Chapter 1, and Chapter 3.

2.6 Designated Agent (290206)

Designated agent is the agent authorized to review applications for direct payments made. See paragraph 4.0 for specific designations.

2.7 Disposable Retired Pay (290207)

Disposable retired pay is defined in paragraphs 7.1 and 8.2.

2.8 Entitlement (290208)

Entitlement is the legal right of a military member to receive military retired pay. The term refers to members who actually receive retired pay rather than those who qualify by completing the required years of service.

2.9 Final Decree (290209)

A final decree is an order from which no appeal may be taken or from which no appeal has been taken within the time allowed for taking such appeals under the laws applicable to such appeals, or a decree from which timely appeal has been taken and such appeal has been finally decided under the laws applicable to such appeals.

2.10 Former Spouse (290210)

Former spouse is the former husband or wife, or if the parties are legally separated, the current husband or wife, of a military member.
2.11 Formula Award (290211)

A formula award computes a former spouse’s property interest in a military member’s retired pay based on the relationship of the length of the parties’ marriage during the member’s creditable service (numerator) to the member’s total service that is creditable toward retirement (denominator). A formula award is stated as a marital fraction in which the numerator and denominator are multiplied by a given percentage.

2.11.1. For members qualifying for an active duty (i.e., regular service) retirement, the numerator is the number of months the parties were married while the member was performing creditable military service and the denominator is the number of months of the member’s total creditable military service. The elements must be expressed in terms of whole months. The former spouse’s award is usually calculated by multiplying the marital fraction by one-half or 50 percent, or any other given percentage amount. See paragraph 6.7 for acceptable active duty formula award language.

2.11.2. For members qualifying for a Reserve (i.e., non-regular service) retirement, the numerator is the number of Reserve retirement points earned during the parties’ marriage, and the denominator is the member’s total number of Reserve retirement points. The elements must be expressed in terms of Reserve retirement points. The former spouse’s award is usually calculated by multiplying the marital fraction by one-half or 50 percent, or any other given percentage amount. See subparagraph 6.7.2 for acceptable Reserve formula award language.

2.12 Garnishment Order (290212)

A garnishment order is an order directing the designated agent to issue payments from a member’s pay to satisfy a legal obligation for child support, alimony, or division of property other than a division of military retired pay, or a monetary judgment rendered against a member for the physical, sexual, or emotional abuse of a child. See Public Law (PL) 115-91, section 534.

2.13 Hypothetical Retired Pay Award (290213)

Hypothetical retired pay award is an award based on a percentage of retired pay that is calculated using variables provided in a court order that are different from the member’s actual retirement variables (i.e., hypothetically what would the member’s retired pay be if the member retired on this date). The retired pay calculated using the court ordered variables is called the member’s hypothetical retired pay. A hypothetical award typically attempts to define the property interest in the retired pay as if the member had retired at the time the court divided the member’s military retired pay based upon the member’s rank, or high-3 amount, and years of service accrued to that point in time. Thus, the former spouse does not benefit from the member’s pay increases due to promotions or increased service time after the divorce.

2.14 Member (290214)

A member is an individual who is on active duty, one who is a reservist, or one who is retired from military service.
2.15 Renounced Pay (290215)

Renounced pay is military retired pay to which a member is entitled, but which the member has waived receipt.

2.16 Retired Pay (290216)

Retired pay is the statutory entitlement due a member based on conditions of the retirement law, pay grade or high-3 pay amount, years of service, and the date of retirement. Retired pay includes “retainer pay.”

2.17 Retired Pay Award (290217)

Retired pay award is a portion of a member’s disposable military retired pay awarded to a former spouse or current spouse by a court of competent jurisdiction as a property division.

2.18 Standard Retired Pay Multiplier (290218)

The standard retired pay multiplier used to compute retired pay for members with a Date of Initial Entry into Military Service (DIEMS) prior to January 1, 2018 who have not elected to participate in the Blended Retirement System (BRS) is 2.5 percent times the member’s years of creditable service. See Chapter 3. The retired pay or retainer pay multiplier for a member with a DIEMS on or after January 1, 2018, or a member with a DIEMS before January 1, 2018, who elected to enroll in the BRS, is 2 percent times the years of creditable service. See Chapter 3.

2.19 Uniformed Services Former Spouses’ Protection Act (USFSPA) (290219)

PL 97-252, enacted on September 8, 1982, states that the section of Title 10 addressing former spouse protection may be cited as the “USFSPA.” Therefore, USFSPA is used throughout and refers to the provisions of 10 U.S.C. § 1408.

3.0 AWARDS THAT CAN BE COLLECTED UNDER THE USFSPA (2903)

3.1 Child Support (290301)

A former spouse can collect child support if there is a court order that awards child support, and the former spouse and military member have ever been married to each other.

3.2 Child Support Arrearages (290302)

To collect child support arrearages, a former spouse must submit a recent court order that lists the total arrearages. The order cannot be older than two years from the date the designated agent receives it.
3.3 Alimony (290303)

A former spouse can collect current alimony under the USFSPA, but not alimony arrearages.

3.4 Retired Pay Award (290304)

A former spouse can collect current retired pay award payments, but not retired pay award arrearages.

3.5 Property Other Than a Division of Retired Pay (290305)

A former spouse can collect a property division, other than a retired pay award, by garnishment if an order awards it to the former spouse and if the former spouse was also awarded alimony, child support, or a division of retired pay. A former spouse must be receiving at least one type of payment (i.e., division of property, alimony, or child support) from the designated agent and must provide the designated agent a garnishment writ to commence payments under this provision. See subparagraph 4.1.2 for more information.

3.6 Child Abuse Garnishments (290306)

Garnishment of a military retiree’s retired pay in satisfaction of a judgment for physical, sexual or emotional abuse of a child under 18 years of age.

3.6.1. Subject to a court order, any payment of retired pay that would otherwise be made to a member shall be paid (in whole or in part) by the designated agent to another person as provided for in the terms of a child abuse garnishment order. The total amount payable under a child abuse garnishment order cannot exceed 25 percent of the member's disposable retired pay.

3.6.2. A court order providing for the payment of child support, alimony, or division of property, to the spouse or a former spouse of the member, is given priority over a child abuse garnishment order.

3.7 Blended Retirement System (BRS) Lump Sum Awards (290307)

3.7.1. A member who retires under the BRS has the option of electing to receive a lump sum of a portion of their retired pay (either 25 or 50 percent) as a “discounted present value of his or her retired pay.” The lump sum amount is classified as retired pay and therefore is subject to division between a member and a spouse or former spouse pursuant to the provisions of a court order. A member has several options of how to receive the lump sum, including a number of annual payments. A spouse or former spouse who is entitled to receive a portion of those payments will be paid at the time the member receives each payment.
3.7.2. In order for a spouse or former spouse to receive a portion of lump sum payments made to a member pursuant to the member’s election under the BRS, the designated agent must have received and approved the application for former spouse payments prior to the member’s receipt of the lump sum amount. Lump sum payments will not be divided retroactively if the application for former spouse payments was not received prior to the members’ receipt of the lump sum payment. For example, if the retiree elects to receive the lump sum amount in four annual payments, (June 2026, 2027, 2028 and 2029) but the former spouse does not submit an application for former spouse payments until January 2028, the designated agent upon approval of the application, will only divide the June 2028 and June 2029 annual lump sum payments. See 10 U.S.C. § 1415 and Chapter 3 for complete information on the BRS.

4.0 APPLICATION BY FORMER SPOUSE (2904)

4.1 Application Process (290401)

4.1.1. The former spouse must submit a completed DoD (DD) Form 2293, Application for Former Spouse Payments From Retired Pay, and a certified copy of the court order awarding alimony, child support, or military retired pay. A court order for child support arrearages cannot be older than 2 years from the date the designated agent receives it. The court order must be certified by the clerk of the court that issued the order.

4.1.2. If the former spouse is applying for a property division other than a retired pay award, the former spouse must submit a garnishment order (writ of garnishment) in addition to the DD Form 2293 and the court order. To be eligible for payments under this section, a former spouse must be receiving at least one type of payment (i.e., division of property, alimony, or child support) from the designated agent.

4.1.3. The former spouse may mail the application to the appropriate designated agent given in paragraph 4.3, or may fax it to the number provided in paragraph 4.3. Please read the instructions and certification on the DD Form 2293 carefully.

*4.2 Additional Documentation (290402)

4.2.1. A former spouse may need to provide additional documentation if the designated agent cannot determine whether the former spouse is eligible for USFSPA payments based solely on the DD Form 2293 and the court order.

4.2.2. A person designated by the former spouse in a Power of Attorney (POA) form may assist the former spouse in completing the DD Form 2293 and in notifying the designated agent of address changes. However, a person designated in the POA form cannot change the payment account number. Only the former spouse can request such changes. Additionally, payments can only be made to the account in the name of the former spouse. A copy of a POA form that properly references entitlement of payments under USFSPA must be provided.
4.2.3. A person appointed by the court to hold fiduciary responsibilities over the estate and/or property of the former spouse may make address and account changes on behalf of the former spouse. A certified copy of the order (i.e., conservatorship and guardianship) must be provided within one year of the appointment or before the specified termination date.

4.3 Where to Send an Application for USFSPA Payments (290403)

The former spouse should send the application and all supporting documents to the following designated agent for the appropriate Uniformed Service.

4.3.1. For Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marine Corps mail to:

4.4 When to Apply for USFSPA Payments (290404)

A former spouse may apply for payments any time after the court has issued a court order enforceable under the USFSPA. Although payments will not start under the USFSPA until after the member starts to receive retired pay, the designated agent can conditionally approve a former spouse’s application prior to that, and retain the application pending the member’s retirement.

4.5 Conditional Preapproval (290405)

4.5.1. If the former spouse applies prior to the member receiving retired pay, the designated agent will perform a legal review of the application, and may conditionally approve it based on information available at the time of the review concerning the member’s duty status (active or Reserve).

4.5.2. At the time the member begins to receive retired pay, the designated agent will perform a second review prior to establishing the former spouse’s direct payments. If the former spouse’s award was based on a formula or hypothetical retired pay amount, and the member’s status has changed since the initial legal review, it may be necessary to reject the application and require the former spouse to submit a clarifying order providing the necessary information. For example, if the formula or hypothetical award lists the Reserve retirement points, but the member retires from active duty, the designated agent will need a new court order that lists a valid active duty formula. See paragraph 6.7 concerning formula awards and paragraph 6.8 concerning hypothetical retired pay awards.

5.0 NOTIFICATION (2905)

5.1 Notification to Former Spouse of Approval or Disapproval (290501)

Within 30 days of the date of receipt of a former spouse’s application, the designated agent will notify the former spouse if his or her application has been approved or disapproved. If approved, the designated agent will state the month the former spouse’s payments will tentatively begin. If the designated agent cannot approve the application, the notice will include an explanation regarding the reason(s) why.

5.2 Notification to the Member of Approval of an Application (290502)

If a former spouse’s application is approved, the designated agent will notify the member affected within 30 days of the date of receipt of the application. The member will not be notified if the application is not approved.

5.3 Second Notice (290503)

If the designated agent notified the member as part of a conditional preapproval more than 90 days prior to the member’s becoming entitled to receive retired pay, the designated agent will provide a second notice to the member when the designated agent establishes the former spouse’s payments at the time the member begins to receive retired pay.

5.4 Contents of Notice to Member (290504)

5.4.1. The notice will explain that payments issued under the USFSPA cannot exceed 50 percent of the member’s disposable retired pay (or 65 percent of the member’s disposable pay when also withholding for an income withholding order issued pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 659), and will contain the month that the payments will tentatively begin.

5.4.2. The notice will inform the member that he or she must notify the designated agent if the court order has been amended, superseded, or set aside.

5.4.3. The notice will inform the member that if he or she submits information in response to this notice, he or she consents to the disclosure of that information.

5.4.4. The notice will include a copy of the court order.

5.4.5. The notice will advise that the member’s failure to respond within 30 days of the date that the notification is mailed may result in the payment of a portion of the member’s retired pay to a spouse or former spouse as set out in the notice to the member.
5.5 How to Prevent USFSPA Payments From Starting (290505)

The member must provide documentary evidence that a former spouse’s court order is legally defective or has been appealed, amended, or set aside. If the designated agent determines that the documentary evidence is sufficient to bar payments to a former spouse, the designated agent will not start the payments. The designated agent will then inform the former spouse that payments will not start, and provide copies of the documentary evidence to the former spouse.

6.0 COURT ORDERS (2906)

6.1 Contents of Court Order (290601)

6.1.1. The court order must be regular on its face. This means that a court of competent jurisdiction issued the order and nothing on its face provides reasonable notice that it was issued without authority of law.

6.1.2. If the court order awarding child support or alimony appears on its face to conform to the laws of the jurisdiction from which it was issued, the designated agent will not be required to ascertain whether the court had obtained personal jurisdiction over the member.

6.1.3. The court order must award former spouse alimony, child support, or a retired pay award. There is no requirement in Federal law that specifies how military retired pay is to be divided.

6.1.4. If the order contains a retired pay award, that award must be expressed as a fixed dollar amount or as a percentage of disposable retired pay. A retired pay award expressed as a percentage will automatically receive a proportionate share of the member’s cost-of-living adjustments (COLA), while one expressed as a fixed amount will not. There is no authority for a retired pay award to state a fixed dollar amount and also order COLAs. Retired pay awards phrased in that manner will be construed as a fixed dollar amount and will not receive COLAs.

6.1.5. The designated agent will construe percentage awards such as a percentage of gross retired pay, as a percentage of disposable retired pay regardless of the language in the order.

6.1.6. If the former spouse and the member were divorced before the member became entitled to receive military retired pay, the retired pay award may be expressed as a formula or hypothetical retired pay award in accordance with paragraphs 6.7 and 6.8. Since the computation of formula and hypothetical retired pay awards result in a percentage, they are considered a type of percentage award, and would automatically receive a proportionate share of the member’s retired pay COLAs.

6.2 Divorces Finalized While the Member is Still on Active Duty (290602)

6.2.1. For court orders issued prior to December 19, 2003, the court order must show that the member’s rights under the Soldiers’ and Sailors’ Civil Relief Act of 1940 (50 U.S.C. Appendix 501 et. seq.) were complied with.
6.2.2. For court orders issued on or after December 19, 2003, the court order must show that the member’s rights under the Servicemembers Civil Relief Act 50 U.S.C. § 3901 et. seq. (formerly cited as 50 U.S.C. Appendix 501 et. seq.) were complied with.

6.3 Domestic Relations Order (DRO) (290603)

There is no requirement in USFSPA that a former spouse submit a DRO, but the designated agent will accept one if it is submitted and if it meets the requirements of the USFSPA.

6.4 Requirements Specific to a Retired Pay Award (290604)

6.4.1. In the case of a retired pay award, the designated agent must be able to determine from the court order that the court dividing military retired pay had jurisdiction over the member in one of the following ways:

6.4.1.1. The member resided in the territorial jurisdiction of the court at the time of the legal proceeding due to other than military assignment;

6.4.1.2. The court finds that member’s domicile was in the territorial jurisdiction of the court at the time of the legal proceeding; or

6.4.1.3. The member consented to the jurisdiction of the court. If the court order does not “explicitly” state that the member consented to the court’s jurisdiction, the designated agent will regard the member’s participation in the legal proceeding, other than to contest the court’s jurisdiction, as evidence of the member’s consent to the court’s jurisdiction in the proceeding dividing the member’s military retired pay.

6.4.2. Also, in the case of a retired pay award, the designated agent must be able to determine from the application that the former spouse and the member were married for at least 10 years during which the member performed 10 years or more of service creditable toward retirement eligibility (the “10/10” requirement). The 10 years of creditable service is determined upon the effective date of the divorce, dissolution, legal separation, or annulment. There is no “10/10” requirement for payment of alimony, child support awards, or child abuse garnishments under USFSPA.

6.5 State Law Jurisdiction (290605)

The satisfaction of state law jurisdictional requirements is not sufficient alone to satisfy the additional jurisdictional requirement stated in paragraph 6.4. If the court states that it has USFSPA jurisdiction, it must state the basis for the finding, i.e., member’s residence, member’s domicile or member’s consent.
6.6 Member’s Consent to a Separation Agreement (290606)

If the member signed a separation agreement, the designated agent will presume that the member consented to the jurisdiction of any court that at any time incorporates the agreement into a court order.

6.7 Acceptable Formula Awards (290607)

6.7.1. If the former spouse’s award is expressed in terms of a formula, all the variables needed to calculate the formula must be included in the court order, with the exception of a member’s total number of months of creditable service or total number of Reserve retirement points, which the designated agent will provide in accordance with subparagraphs 6.7.2 and 6.7.3. If the order provides all the variables needed to do the calculation, including total months of military service or total Reserve retirement points, the designated agent will calculate the formula using the variables provided, even if the figure is different from the member’s actual total. If the member disagrees with the number listed in the court order (i.e., the denominator), the member will have to petition the court to get the order corrected to show the member’s actual total months or points of military service. If any needed variable besides the total number of months of creditable service or total number of Reserve retirement points is not provided in the order, the applicant will have to provide the designated agent with a clarifying court order, which provides the necessary variable. The designated agent will carry out any percentages derived from formulas to four decimal places.

6.7.2. If the court order requires the designated agent to supply the denominator of a marital or coverture fraction, and the member qualifies for an active duty (i.e., regular service) retirement, the formula award must be expressed in terms of whole months. The numerator of the formula fraction is the number of months of marriage during military service. This number must specifically be provided in the court order. The denominator of the formula is the member’s total number of months of creditable military service. The designated agent will provide the denominator if needed to compute the formula. Any days or partial months of service will not be considered. If the award is expressed in terms of years instead of months, the designated agent will convert years into whole months by rounding down to the nearest month.

6.7.3. If the court order requires the designated agent to supply the denominator of a marital or coverture fraction, and the member qualifies for a Reserve (i.e., non-regular service) retirement, the formula award must be expressed in terms of Reserve retirement points. In the case of a Reserve retirement, the numerator of the formula is the number of Reserve retirement points earned during the marriage. The Reserve retirement points that are to be used for the numerator must be provided in the court order. The denominator of the formula is the member’s total number of Reserve retirement points at the time of retirement. If needed, the designated agent will provide the denominator if the order states it represents the member’s total number of Reserve retirement points at the time of retirement. If the denominator represents anything other than the member’s total Reserve retirement points at the time of the retirement (for example, Reserve retirement points as of the date of divorce), the designated agent is unable to provide it. The designated agent cannot honor a formula award for a member that qualifies for Reserve retirement that is expressed in terms of whole months, even if both the numerator and denominator are provided.
6.7.4. The sample Military Retired Pay Division Orders (see Figures 29-1 and 29-2) provide examples of acceptable formula award language. All the blanks in the sample awards represent variables that must be provided in the court order. The sample language is not required, but any award expressed using the applicable sample language will be acceptable.

Example of active duty formula: The court order awarded the former spouse a percentage of the member’s disposable retired pay calculated by multiplying 50 percent times a fraction, where the numerator is 144 months of marriage during military service, and the denominator is the member’s total months of active duty service. The member later retired after 20 years (or 240 months) of creditable service. The former spouse’s award would be computed as follows: 50% x 144 months/240 months = 30%. The designated agent would pay 30 percent of the member’s disposable retired pay.

6.8.1. Military retired pay is computed at the time the member retires and it is based on two possible methods depending on when the member initially enters service. It will either be computed by using the member’s rank and total years of service at the time of retirement, or the member’s retired pay base, also known as high-3 (highest 36 months of earnings), and total years of service at the time of retirement. For members who entered military service before September 8, 1980, the member’s rank is used. For members who entered military service on or after September 8, 1980, the member’s retired pay base (high-3) is used.

6.8.2. A hypothetical retired pay award determines the amount awarded to a former spouse by using retirement information different from what will exist at the time a member actually retires. Typically, the court will use variables to determine the retired pay award as though the member had retired at the time of the court order dividing military retired pay or some other date prior to the member’s actual retirement. In this manner, the former spouse is awarded a portion of the member’s retirement without accounting for promotions or service completed after the date of the order.

6.8.3. The hypothetical retired pay amount is calculated by multiplying the hypothetical retired pay multiplier (see subparagraph 6.8.4) times the hypothetical retired pay base (i.e., the member’s active duty pay based on their rank and years of service or the average of their monthly pay for their highest 36 months of pay; their “high-3”). If the initial retired pay computation is not a multiple of $1, it is rounded down to the next lower multiple of $1. See Chapter 3 for retired pay calculations.

6.8.4. Retired Pay Multiplier

6.8.4.1. The standard retired pay multiplier is 2.5 percent multiplied by the member’s years of creditable service. For example, the retired pay multiplier for an active duty member who serves 20 years will be 50 percent (2.5% x 20 years = 50%). In the case of a hypothetical retired pay award, the hypothetical retired pay multiplier is determined by multiplying
2.5 percent times the hypothetical years of creditable service provided in the court order. The resulting percentage is rounded to two decimal places. See Chapter 3 for retired pay calculations.

6.8.4.2. For members who retire under the BRS, the retired pay multiplier is 2 percent multiplied by the member’s years of creditable service.

6.8.4.3. A hypothetical retired pay award for a reservist must be expressed in terms of Reserve retirement points rather than years of creditable service. The Reserve retirement points are converted into years of creditable service by dividing the Reserve retirement points on which the award is based by 360. The resultant figure is carried to three decimal places; then rounded to two. (See Chapter 3.) This resultant figure is used to compute the hypothetical retired pay multiplier. For example: 5,258 Reserve retirement points would convert to 14.61 years of service for multiplier purposes (5,258 points/360 = 14.61 years).

6.8.5. Retired Pay Base

6.8.5.1. For members entering military service before September 8, 1980, the retired pay base is the member’s basic pay at retirement based on the member’s rank and years of service for basic pay purposes. See Chapter 3. When computing a hypothetical award for one of these members, their hypothetical retired pay base would usually be their basic pay as of the hypothetical retirement date.

6.8.5.2. For members entering military service on or after September 8, 1980, the retired pay base is the average of the member’s highest 36 months of basic pay at retirement (high-3 amount). See Chapter 3. For these members, their hypothetical retired pay base would usually be their average basic pay for the most recent 36 months prior to the hypothetical retirement date. If the court order provides the annual amount of retired pay base (high-3), the designated agent will convert it to a monthly amount by dividing the yearly amount by 12 to arrive at the monthly average.

6.8.6. In order to enable the designated agent to calculate the hypothetical retired pay amount, the court order must provide:

6.8.6.1. The percentage the former spouse was awarded;

6.8.6.2. The hypothetical years of creditable service, or, in the case of a reservist, the Reserve retirement points on which the hypothetical retired pay is to be based;

6.8.6.3. The hypothetical retired pay base (high-3). In the case of members entering military service before September 8, 1980, the court order may provide either the member’s hypothetical retired pay base or the member’s hypothetical rank and years of service for basic pay purposes; and

6.8.6.4. The hypothetical retirement date.
6.8.7. For members whose divorce, dissolution, legal separation, or annulment was effective on or before December 23, 2016 (the effective date of the National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA) 2017), if the court intends that the hypothetical retired pay be calculated based on the pay tables in effect at the time the member becomes entitled to receive military retired pay, the designated agent will use as the retired pay base either the basic pay for the hypothetical rank and years of service as of the date the member becomes eligible to receive retired pay, or the member’s actual retired pay base, whichever is lower. The court order must provide:

6.8.7.1. The percentage the former spouse is awarded;

6.8.7.2. The hypothetical years of creditable service, or, in the case of a reservist, the Reserve retirement points on which the hypothetical retired pay is to be based and the member’s years of service for basic pay purposes;

6.8.7.3. The member’s hypothetical rank; and

6.8.7.4. An unequivocal statement that the calculation is to be made as of the member’s actual retirement date.

6.8.8. If the award language is missing any necessary variables, the court will have to clarify the award. See the sample Military Retired Pay Division Order (Figures 29-1 and 29-2) for examples of acceptable hypothetical retired pay award language.

6.8.9. All percentage hypothetical retired pay awards will be converted into a percentage of a member’s actual disposable retired pay according to the following example:

The court order awarded the former spouse 50 percent of the disposable retired pay the member would have received had the member retired with 17 years of creditable service, a retired pay base of $2,200.00 per month, and a hypothetical retirement date of June 1, 1999. The member actually retired on June 1, 2002, with 20 years of creditable service, a retired pay base of $2,400.00 per month, and an initial gross retired pay of $1,200.00 per month (2.5% x 20 years = 50%; 50% x $2,400.00 = $1,200.00).

First, the designated agent will calculate the member’s hypothetical retired pay multiplier, which in this example is 42.5 percent (2.5% x 17 years = 42.5%).

Next, the designated agent will calculate the hypothetical retired pay amount, which in this example is $935.00 per month (42.5% x $2,200.00 = $935.00).

Then, the designated agent will apply retired pay COLAs to the hypothetical retired pay amount from the hypothetical retirement date to the date the member became eligible to receive retired pay, unless the court order directs otherwise.
This calculation will determine the present value of the hypothetical retired pay as of the member’s actual retirement date. In this case, if the member had become eligible to receive retired pay on June 1, 1999, the hypothetical retirement date, the hypothetical retired pay, after adding the COLAs, would have been $1,008 per month on June 1, 2002, the actual retirement date.

In these examples, the addition of the partial annual COLAs would be as follows:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Year</th>
<th>COLA</th>
<th>Formula</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>12/1/1999</td>
<td>1.7 percent</td>
<td>$935.00 x 1.017 = $950.00 (rounded down)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12/1/2000</td>
<td>3.5 percent</td>
<td>$950.00 x 1.035 = $983.00 (rounded down)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12/1/2001</td>
<td>2.6 percent</td>
<td>$983.00 x 1.026 = $1,008.00 (rounded down)</td>
</tr>

Finally, the designated agent will convert the former spouse’s percentage of hypothetical retired pay to a percentage of the member’s actual disposable retired pay as follows: 50% x 1,008.00/$1,200.00 = 42%. (All percentages derived from hypothetical computations will be carried out to four decimal places if applicable without rounding). In this example, 42 percent is the amount that the designated agent would enter into the retired pay system as the spouse/former spouse’s retired pay award.

6.8.10. The military retired pay of a post-July 1986 member who has accepted a Career Status Bonus (CSB) is calculated using a reduced multiplier. (See Chapter 3.) However, when computing a retired pay award based on a hypothetical, the CSB member’s hypothetical retired pay will be calculated using the standard multiplier. The retired pay of a member who has accepted a CSB will be recomputed using a standard multiplier effective the first day of the month after the member attains age 62. The former spouse’s percentage will also be adjusted at the same time in accordance with subparagraph 6.8.8, using the member’s recomputed retired pay in the denominator of the conversion fraction. This adjustment will result in a lower percentage being applied to a higher disposable pay figure, and will ensure that the former spouse continues to receive the amount intended in the court order.

6.8.11. When computing hypothetical awards for members under the BRS the former spouse’s hypothetical award (percentage) will be calculated in accordance with subparagraph 6.8.8. However, since the actual military retired pay for members who retire under the BRS is calculated using the 2 percent multiplier, the BRS member’s hypothetical retired pay will also be calculated using the 2 percent multiplier. Additionally, the designated agent will use the unreduced gross retired pay in the denominator of the conversion fraction, even if the member elects to receive a lump sum payment. Using the unreduced gross retired pay for the denominator ensures that the numerator and denominator are computed in an equalized manner (i.e., the same variables are used and one is not reduced).
6.9 Orders Issued Before June 26, 1981 That Did Not Divide Retired Pay (290609)

Any court order that contains a retired pay award that was issued before June 26, 1981 will be honored if it otherwise satisfies the requirements and conditions shown in this chapter. If a pre-June 26, 1981 decree or property settlement incident to the decree did not divide the member’s military retired pay, and did not reserve jurisdiction to divide it, the designated agent cannot honor an application for payment based on a subsequent order issued on or after June 26, 1981, dividing retired pay as property.

6.10 Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP) Premium (290610)

6.10.1. Pursuant to 10 U.S.C. § 1452, the SBP premium must be deducted from the member’s retired pay. The SBP premium cannot be deducted from the former spouse’s portion of the member’s retired pay. Any provision in a court order stating that the premium should be deducted from the former spouse’s portion is unenforceable by the designated agent. Any adjustments between the parties for the SBP premium payment will need to be made outside of the stated procedures. However, those adjustments will not be considered by the designated agent when computing the retired pay award.

6.10.2. SBP premiums for members who elect a lump sum payment or payments will not be collected from the lump sum payment. Premiums will be deducted from the portion of retired pay that the member receives as regular retired pay after the lump sum payment. For more information on SBP premiums and BRS see Chapters 3, 42, and 45.

*Note: A court order associated with a divorce that requires a retired member to establish former spouse Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP) coverage is not self-executing. If a former spouse seeks to be deemed as the former spouse SBP beneficiary (to commence or continue SBP coverage after a divorce) (s)he must complete a DD Form 2656-10 (“Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP) Former Spouse Request for Deemed Election”) and submit it along with a copy of the relevant court order, within one year of the order requiring the member to elect former spouse coverage. See DoDFMR Volume 7B, Chapter 43, paragraphs 430302 and 430504(C).”

6.11.1. If the designated agent is served with court orders issued by different jurisdictions which contain conflicting awards enforceable under the USFSPA, the designated agent will deduct an amount equal to the largest amount required to be paid to the former spouse by either order, but will pay to the former spouse the least amount directed to be paid. The designated agent will retain the difference between the upper and lower ordered amounts until served with an order certified by the member and former spouse to be valid, and then pay the retained funds in accordance with the order.
6.11.2. If the designated agent is served with a court order containing conflicting retired pay award language within the same court order, or two orders issued on the same date that do not contain a time stamp, the designated agent will pay the former spouse the lower award amount; if the orders contain a time stamp, the order issued last controls. If one of the parties disagrees with the amount being paid, that party must provide the designated agent with a new court order stating the correct amount.

6.12 Court Orders Modifying Retired Pay Awards (290612)

6.12.1. If the designated agent is served with a court order containing valid award language in accordance with this chapter and the USFSPA, that modifies or clarifies a retired pay award, the designated agent will implement the order issued most recently. The order with valid award language issued most recently supersedes all prior orders.

6.12.2. If the designated agent is served with a court order containing valid award language that modifies or clarifies a retired pay award that was issued by a court of a state other than the state that issued the prior court order, the designated agent may implement the new order containing valid award language only if the court issuing this order had jurisdiction over both the member and former spouse in the manner specified in subparagraph 6.4.1.

* 6.12.3. If the designated agent is served with a court order containing invalid award language that modifies or clarifies a retired pay award and the order does not vacate or set aside a prior order with valid award language, the designated agent will continue to honor the prior valid court order. If the designated agent is served with a subsequent court order containing invalid award language that vacates or sets aside a prior order with valid award language, the designated agent will terminate former spouse payments until served with a subsequent order containing valid award language.

The designated agent cannot honor a court order that makes the former spouse’s payments conditional on the occurrence of some other event. There is no authority for the designated agent to ascertain whether a condition in a court order has been satisfied. The former spouse will need to obtain a modified court order without the condition.

6.14 Awards Based on Retired Pay Accrued During Marriage (290614)

The designated agent cannot honor awards based on the value of the member’s retired pay that has “accrued” during the marriage because military retired pay does not accrue over time. Military retired pay is not a pension. Rather, it is a statutory entitlement computed at the time the member retires and it is based on the member’s rank and total years of service at the time of retirement, or member’s high-3 and total years of service.
6.15 Awards of a Percentage of the Marital Portion (290615)

The designated agent cannot honor an award of a percentage of the “marital portion” or “marital share” of a member’s retired pay unless the court order also provides all variables necessary for the calculation of the marital portion/share. See paragraphs 6.7 and 6.8 for examples.

6.16 Factual Errors in Court Orders (290616)

If a party submits documentary evidence that shows a factual error in a court order, this will not be sufficient to modify or stop payments being made pursuant to the court order. Subject to compliance with existing law, if a court order provides elements needed to calculate a former spouse award, including but not limited to, formulas, hypotheticals, and/or NDAA awards, the designated agent will use the elements provided even if the elements vary from the member’s actual figures. The party asserting the error must petition the court to correct the order. The designated agent does not have the authority to correct errors in court orders.

7.0 DISPOSABLE RETIRED PAY (2907)

7.1 Disposable Retired Pay (290701)

7.1.1. Disposable retired pay is defined by the USFSPA as a member’s total monthly retired pay (gross pay) entitlement minus authorized deductions. See 10 U.S.C. § 1408(a)(4).

7.1.2. If the former spouse and member were divorced on or before February 2, 1991, then USFSPA authorizes the following deductions:

7.1.2.1. Amounts owed to the United States;

7.1.2.2. Amounts withheld as Federal and state income tax withholding, consistent with the member’s current actual tax liability;

7.1.2.3. Fines and forfeitures ordered by a court-martial;

7.1.2.4. Amounts waived in order to receive compensation under Titles 5 or 38 of the U.S.C.;

7.1.2.5. SBP premiums paid, but only if the former spouse applying for a retired pay award payment under USFSPA is the beneficiary of the SBP; and

7.1.2.6. The amount of retired pay for a member retired under Title 10, Chapter 61 computed based on percentage of disability.

7.1.3. If the former spouse and member were divorced on or after February 3, 1991, then the USFSPA authorizes the following deductions:
7.1.3.1. Amounts owed to the United States due to the overpayment of retired pay, or amounts required to be recouped due to the member’s entitlement to retired pay;

7.1.3.2. Fines and forfeitures ordered by a court-martial;

7.1.3.3. Amounts waived in order to receive compensation under Titles 5 or 38 of the U.S.C.;

7.1.3.4. SBP premiums paid but only if the former spouse applying for a retired pay award payment under USFSPA is the beneficiary of the SBP; and

7.1.3.5. The amount of retired pay for a member retired under Title 10, Chapter 61 computed based on percentage of disability.

7.3 Other Deductions Included in Court Order (290702)

If a court order directs the use of deductions other than those authorized in paragraph 7.1 to compute the former spouse’s award, that provision of the court order is unenforceable. The designated agent will use only the deductions authorized in paragraph 7.1 for the computation of disposable retired pay.

8.0 DISPOSABLE RETIRED PAY UNDER THE NDAA (2908)

8.1 Application of the NDAA (290801)

The provision of the NDAA FY 2017, section 641, applies to divorces, dissolutions, annulments, and legal separations effective after December 23, 2016, that award the former spouse a retired pay award and:

8.1.1. That occur prior to an active duty member receiving military retirement pay, or 8.1.2. That occur prior to a reserve member receiving retired pay (generally 60).

8.2 NDAA FY 2017 Disposable Pay Limits (290802)

In addition to the definition of Disposable Retired Pay in paragraph 7.1, and the authorized deductions in subparagraph 7.1.2, the NDAA also limits disposable retired pay as follows:

8.2.1. The amount of retired pay is limited to that which the member would have been entitled using the member’s retired pay base (rank or high-3) and years of service on the date of the final decree of divorce, dissolution, annulment, or legal separation; and

8.2.2. Increased by any COLA awards added from the effective date of divorce, dissolution, annulment, or legal separation to the member’s date of retirement. A provision in a court order purporting to restrict COLAs from being applied to a former spouse’s award of retired pay is not enforceable and will not be honored.
8.3 Variables Required to Calculate the NDAA FY 2017 Disposable Retired Pay (290803)

In order to enable the designated agent to calculate the NDAA FY 2017 disposable retired pay amount, the court order must provide the three variables listed in subparagraphs 8.3.1 or 8.3.2:

8.3.1. If the member entered the service before September 8, 1980:

8.3.1.1. The fixed amount, the percentage, the formula, or the hypothetical award that the former spouse is granted;

8.3.1.2. The member’s pay grade (rank) at the time of divorce, dissolution, legal separation, or annulment; and

8.3.1.3. The member’s years of creditable service, on the date of divorce, dissolution, annulment, or legal separation. In the case of a reservist, the Reserve retirement points, on the date of divorce, dissolution, annulment, or legal separation and years of creditable service for basic pay purposes.

8.3.2. If the member entered the service on or after September 8, 1980:

8.3.2.1. The fixed amount, the percentage, the formula, or the hypothetical award that the former spouse is granted;

8.3.2.2. The member’s retired pay base (high-3) amount at the time of divorce, dissolution, legal separation, or annulment (the actual dollar figure); and

8.3.2.3. The member’s years of creditable service, on the date of divorce, dissolution, annulment, or legal separation. In the case of a reservist, the Reserve retirement points, on the date of divorce, dissolution, annulment, or legal separation.

8.4 Clarification Order (290804)

If the award language in the court order is missing any of the listed variables in paragraph 8.3, then the applicant will need to obtain a clarifying court order that provides the variables as described in paragraph 8.3.

9.0 STARTING PAYMENTS (2909)

9.1 Starting Payments (290901)

If the former spouse’s application is approved, payments will start no later than 90 days after the date the designated agent received the former spouse’s complete application, or no later than 90 days after the date the member becomes entitled to receive military retired pay, whichever is later.
9.2 Timing of Payments (290902)

Payments will be issued in conformity with normal pay and disbursement cycles, which mean that payments will be issued monthly. Payments will be deducted from the month’s pay and paid on the first business day of the following month. For example, a payment issued for the month of March would be sent at the beginning of April.

10.0 PAYMENT AMOUNT (2910)

10.1 Limitations (291001)

10.1.1. If the spouse or former spouse applies for payments under the USFSPA only, the maximum amount a former spouse can receive is 50 percent of the member’s disposable retired pay.

10.1.2. If the spouse or former spouse applies for payments under the USFSPA and there is also a garnishment order for support, the maximum amount that can be paid toward both obligations is 65 percent of the member’s disposable earnings calculated in accordance with 42 U.S.C. § 659 (child and spousal support statute) and its implementing regulation.

10.1.3. For garnishments for property other than a retired pay award, the maximum amount payable is 25 percent of disposable earnings in accordance with 15 U.S.C. § 1673.

* 10.1.4. In the event a member receives a retroactive award for Disability Compensation (under Title 38 of the U.S. Code) or a retroactive award for Combat-Related Special Compensation (under 10 U.S.C. § 1413a), the payments of retired pay previously made to a former spouse pursuant to a valid court order that were proper when paid do not become erroneous overpayments.

If a retired pay award is expressed as a percentage of disposable retired pay, the former spouse will automatically receive a proportionate share of the member’s COLAs regardless of any language in a court order to the contrary. Formula and hypothetical retired pay awards are considered a type of percentage award, and thus will automatically include a proportionate share of the member’s COLAs. If a court order on a non-NDAA 2017 case awards a percentage, formula, or hypothetical retired pay award and specifically states that COLAs are not to be added, we will calculate the award and setup as a fixed amount to avoid COLAs. If the retired pay award is a fixed amount, COLAs cannot be added, even if awarded in the court order, and the former spouse’s payments will remain fixed. In an NDAA applicable case, COLAs will be added to the disposable income calculation on all awards regardless of what the court order states. Also, the former spouse will automatically receive a proportionate share of the member’s COLAs on all NDAA applicable cases in which the award is a percentage, formula, or hypothetical regardless of what the court order states.
10.3 Offset of Former Spouse’s Payment for Garnishment or Other Obligation (291003)

A former spouse’s payment cannot be offset or garnished by the designated agent for any legal obligation, including child support owed to the member.

11.0 PRIORITY OF PAYMENTS (2911)

11.1 Multiple Awards (291101)

If a court order includes multiple types of awards to a former spouse, the former spouse may designate the priority of payments on the DD Form 2293. If the former spouse does not specify otherwise, the designated agent will pay the retired pay award first, child support second and spousal support third.

11.2 Multiple Former Spouses (291102)

If the designated agent is served with applications from more than one former spouse, the designated agent will honor the applications on a first-come, first-served basis. Subsequently served USFSPA applications shall be satisfied out of the disposable retired pay that remains after the satisfaction of all previously served court orders, subject to the limitations of paragraph 10.1.

11.3 Garnishment Orders for Support and Applications under USFSPA (291103)

If the designated agent is served with both a garnishment for support and an application under USFSPA, the designated agent will pay whichever is served first. If the garnishment is served first and is payable directly to the former spouse, the former spouse may reverse the priority of payments by instructing the designated agent to terminate deductions pursuant to the garnishment, and then later requesting that garnishment deductions be reestablished. The designated agent will not change the priority of payments between a retired pay award and a support garnishment if the garnishment was served by an IV-D agency unless the agency agrees to withdraw (terminate) the support order in order to allow the retired pay award to have priority over the support order.

12.1 Erroneous Payment Information from Former Spouse (291201)

The former spouse has a continuing duty to provide the designated agent with correct payment instructions and current contact information. If a former spouse’s payments are returned due to erroneous payment instructions (i.e., invalid address or incorrect account number for direct deposit payments), the designated agent will send notice to the last known correspondence address that, unless new payment instructions are received within 30 days of the date of the notice, payments will stop. If the former spouse submits new payment instructions after the payments have terminated, the designated agent will restart the payments on a current basis, and will not make up any missed payments.
12.2 Termination and Suspension of Retired Pay Award Payments (291202)

12.2.1. Unless the court order specifies otherwise, payments will stop upon the designated agent’s receipt of notice of the death of either party. Payments will be prorated for the month of the death of either party.

12.2.2. Unless the court order specifies otherwise, retired pay award payments will not stop upon the designated agent’s receipt of notice of the former spouse’s remarriage.

12.2.3. If the designated agent is served with an order staying payments, the designated agent will stop the payments until served with an order indicating that the former spouse’s payments are to resume.

12.2.4. If the designated agent has already started payments and is served with documentation showing that an appeal of the order has been filed within the forum state’s appeal timeframe, payments will stop. The designated agent will not recoup any payments already issued.

12.2.5. A former spouse may stop payments under USFSPA by sending the designated agent a letter with his or her signature notarized withdrawing their application for payments under the USFSPA. A former spouse can later reapply for payments by submitting a new DD Form 2293 and a certified copy of the court order that awards him/her the division of military retired pay.

12.3 Termination of Child Support Payments under USFSPA (291203)

Child support payments will stop in accordance with the provisions of the court order. If the court order is silent as to when the payments should stop, payments will stop in accordance with the law of the state that issued the court order. The member has the burden of providing sufficient documentation to justify stopping payments on or before a child’s age of majority. The former spouse has the burden of providing sufficient documentation to justify continuing payments after a child’s age of majority.

12.4 Termination of Alimony Payments under USFSPA (291204)

Alimony payments will stop in accordance with the provisions of the court order. If the court order is silent as to when the payments should stop, payments will stop in accordance with the law of the state that issued the court order, or upon receiving a court order terminating the alimony payments. (NOTE: The law of some states does not provide that an alimony obligation automatically terminates upon a former spouse’s remarriage. For such states, a court order terminating the alimony will need to be provided.) If the designated agent does not already have sufficient documentation to stop payments, additional evidence such as a marriage certificate will be required.
12.5 Payments and Bankruptcy (291205)

Absent a court order, there is no authority to stop a former spouse’s retired pay award, current and arrearage child support payments, and current spousal support payments, if a member files bankruptcy.

12.6 Certification of Eligibility (291206)

The designated agent may request that a former spouse submit a signed certification of continued eligibility to receive payments under USFSPA. The certificate of eligibility should include notice of a change in status or circumstance that affects eligibility, if any such change exists. If the former spouse fails or refuses to comply with the certification requirement, the designated agent may stop the payments after notice to the former spouse.

13.0 RETIRED PAY ARREARS OWED A DECEASED FORMER SPOUSE (2913)

13.1 Applicability (291301)

This section applies to the settlement of arrears of a retired pay award that may be due a deceased former spouse pursuant to a previous application for direct payment completed under section 4.0. Arrears of a retired pay award may result from prorating a member’s disposable retired pay for the month of the former spouse’s death, from checks not negotiated before the former spouse’s death, or the designated agent’s failure to establish and/or make payments to the former spouse in the correct amount prior to the former spouse’s death for a period that the former spouse was entitled to a property division.

To settle the arrears of retired pay owed a deceased former spouse, the following documentation must be on file:

13.2.1 Copy of Death Certificate. A notification of death from any source (next of kin, post office, or neighbor) is sufficient to suspend future payment of the retired pay award. However, an official copy of a certificate of death for the former spouse is required before the arrears of a retired pay award are paid under this section.

13.2.2 Written Claim. A written claim must contain the claimant’s signature and address, or that of the claimant’s authorized agent or attorney. A Standard Form 1174, Claim For Unpaid Compensation of Deceased Member of the Uniformed Service, is not required, but may be used for this purpose, as long as the claim specifies the claimant’s relationship to the deceased former spouse and documents other living relatives of the deceased former spouse.
13.2.3. Additional Documentation as Required. A claimant may be required to submit any additional documentation the designated agent deems necessary to establish the claimant’s status and entitlement to the retired pay award arrears including, but not limited to, marriage certificates, birth certificates, divorce decrees, or other documentation that validates the living beneficiaries of a former spouse in any class of persons entitled to the arrears pursuant to paragraph 13.4.

13.3 Recoupment of Outstanding Payments (291303)

All outstanding checks or direct deposits (not negotiated before the former spouse’s death or made after the former spouse’s death) or the proceeds thereof must be returned to the designated agent before a settlement of arrears may be made.

13.4 Payment of the Arrears (291304)

Former spouse payments from retired pay are prorated for the month of the former spouse’s death. When all documentation has been received and all outstanding payments have been recouped, payment of the arrears is made to the person living on the date of the former spouse’s death who is highest on the order of precedence set forth in Chapter 30. For the purpose of payment of arrears under this paragraph, the provisions of Chapter 30, subparagraphs 300204.C, D, and E apply, and all references to a “retiree” in subparagraphs 300204.A.2 through A.6, C, D, and E should be considered as referring to a deceased former spouse rather than a retiree.

Any indebtedness resulting from overpayment to a deceased former spouse must be liquidated before retired pay award arrears can be settled.

13.6 Claim for Arrears (291306)

A claim for arrears must be filed within the 6-year statute-of-limitation restriction. See 31 U.S.C. § 3702(b)(1). Any claim received 6 years after the date of the former spouse’s death is barred.

13.7 Taxability (291307)

In the case of deceased former spouses, one or more Treasury Department (TD) Forms 1099-R, Distributions From Pensions, Annuities, Retirement or Profit-Sharing Plans, IRAs, Insurance Contracts, etc., may be used. If no former spouse arrears are paid, one TD 1099-R will be issued in the former spouse’s name to cover any entitlement through date of death. If arrears are paid, an additional TD 1099-R is issued to each claimant to whom the arrears were paid.

14.0 ADMINISTRATIVE APPEAL PROCESS (2914)

14.1 Either Party Disagrees (291401)
If either party disagrees with the designated agent’s determination concerning a former spouse’s entitlement to payments under the USFSPA, that party may request reconsideration by writing to the designated agent. If the party requesting reconsideration asserts that the designated agent has erroneously overpaid the other party, the request for reconsideration will be considered a claim against the designated agent. An attorney will review the request and issue a decision in writing.

14.2 Party Requesting Reconsideration Disagrees (291402)

If the party requesting reconsideration disagrees with the attorney’s determination, that party may submit an appeal to the designated agent, which must be received within 30 days of the date of the initial determination. The designated agent will forward the appeal to the Defense Office of Hearings and Appeals for their decision.

14.3 Additional Information (291403)

Parties are referred to Department of Defense Instruction (DoDI) 1340.21 for additional information concerning the submission of claims and appeals.

15.0 LIABILITY (2915)

15.1 Payments Made In Accordance With the USFSPA (291501)

Neither the United States nor any employee of the United States shall be liable regarding any payment made from retired pay to a retiree or former spouse pursuant to a court order that is regular on its face, if such payment is made in accordance with the USFSPA.

15.2 Designated Agent Liability (291502)

If the designated agent processes a former spouse’s USFSPA application and administers the former spouse’s payments in accordance with the USFSPA and in accordance with all documentation in its files, the designated agent is not liable for any former spouse payments issued after a former spouse’s eligibility to receive payments has ended. Nor is the designated agent liable for any payments that the former spouse may have been entitled to prior to the designated agent’s beginning direct payments pursuant to the former spouse’s USFSPA application.

CHAPTER 30

DEATH OF A RETIRED MEMBER

1.0 GENERAL

1.1 Purpose

This chapter provides policy on the death of a retired member. This includes but is not limited to: required documentation, arrears of pay (AOP), death gratuity, and taxable income.

1.2 Authoritative Guidance

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.), including Titles 10, 26, 31, and 38. Due to the subject matter in this chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in a reference section at the end of the chapter.

2.0 ARREARS OF PAY

2.1 Basic Information

Entitlement to retired pay terminates on the date of the retired member’s death. The AOP is the retired member’s final month of prorated retired pay and all unencumbered amounts due the deceased retired member. If the retired member waived retired pay in favor of a civil service annuity, there is no AOP due. A retired member who waived retired pay in order to receive disability compensation from the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) may be due retired pay for the month of death because VA disability compensation entitlement terminates on the last day of the month before death. Upon the Defense Finance and Account Service (DFAS) being notified of a retired member’s death, a retired member’s account is placed in a suspended status until the date of death can be verified. The DFAS must attempt to obtain proof of death before closing an account. Acceptable forms of proof of death documentation include:

2.1.1. Death certificate;

2.1.2. DoD (DD) Form 1300, Report of Casualty;

2.1.3. Funeral Director's Report;

2.1.4. VA Cemetery Files;

2.1.5. The Defense Enrollment Eligibility Reporting System;

2.1.6. Social Security Reports; or
2.1.7. Other forms of official notification of death.

2.2 Related Inquiries

The Military Department concerned advises the surviving spouse to contact the VA or the Social Security Administration on matters relating to entitlement benefits payable by those agencies.

2.3 Responsibilities

When the Military Department concerned receives notification of the death of a retired member, they will notify DFAS-Cleveland. The DFAS-Cleveland site:

2.3.1. Terminates payment of retired pay,

2.3.2. Reclaims outstanding retired pay checks or direct deposit payments,

2.3.3. Discontinues and collects overpayments of allotments,

2.3.4. Pays death gratuity if applicable,

2.3.5. Collects debts,

2.3.6. Provides claim forms to prospective beneficiaries, and

2.3.7. Prepares vouchers and tax statements for final account settlement.

2.4 Eligible Beneficiaries

Each Military Service and DFAS periodically advise retired members of their right to designate a beneficiary or beneficiaries to receive any AOP amount that may be available upon the retired member’s death, and the disposition of AOP when no beneficiary or beneficiaries have been designated. Any person or persons, or legal entity, including the estate or trust of the retired member, may be designated. In order for the retired member’s estate to be an eligible beneficiary, the estate must be established pursuant to the laws of the retired member’s domicile after the retired member’s death. If the estate is not established, the designation to the estate will fail.

2.4.1. Pursuant to 10 U.S.C., § 2771, upon presentation of a Standard Form (SF) 1174, Claim for Unpaid Compensation of Deceased Member of the Uniformed Services, arrears of retired pay are to be paid to the person highest on the following list, living on the date of the retired member’s death in the following order of precedence:

2.4.1.1. Beneficiary designated by the retired member in writing, if received by DFAS-Cleveland or the Military Department concerned before the retired member’s death;

2.4.1.2. Surviving spouse;
2.4.1.3. Children and their descendants, by representation:

2.4.1.3.1. Natural Child;

2.4.1.3.2. Adopted Child. An adopted child is a legal heir in every state and, therefore, is entitled to payment of unpaid pay and allowances, if otherwise proper. If another person(s) adopts the deceased retired member’s natural child, the child is a beneficiary only in those states where an adopted child may still inherit from a natural parent;

2.4.1.3.3. Stepchild. A stepchild is not an eligible beneficiary unless adopted by the deceased retired member;

2.4.1.4. Father and mother in equal parts or, if either is dead, the survivor;

2.4.1.5. Legal representative; or

2.4.1.6. Person entitled under the law of the domicile of the deceased retired member.

2.4.2. The retired member may change a designated beneficiary either in writing or electronically via myPay as long as the change is received by DFAS-Cleveland before the retired member’s death.

2.4.3. Where payment is to be made to the person entitled under the law of the domicile of the deceased individual in subparagraph 2.4.1.6, DFAS may require the claimant(s) to submit evidence of entitlement under state law. This includes, but is not limited to funeral expense receipts, small estate affidavit, trust documents, court orders granting summary administration and where necessary, the deceased person’s will.

2.4.4. A person may not profit from their own wrongful acts. It is against public policy to permit payment by the government of arrears of pay, compensation or other such benefits to an heir or beneficiary who feloniously kills the person upon whose death such payments hinge. No payment is authorized if the beneficiary is involved in the member’s death, even in cases where that beneficiary has not been convicted of criminal charges, if the facts do not reasonably establish a lack of felonious intent on that person’s part. Where the beneficiary or heir causes the member's death, before any payment can be made, there must be a showing that the claimant is entitled to the payment notwithstanding the claimant's actions, as opposed to the record having to establish felonious intent before payment will be withheld. Any indication that the beneficiary feloniously or wrongfully participated in the death the retired member bars payment to that beneficiary. The arrears are not paid to that person unless evidence is received which clearly absolves the beneficiary of any felonious or wrongful intent. The burden of proving the absence of felonious or wrongful intent falls on the beneficiary.

2.4.5. If the beneficiary dies after the retired member but before receiving final settlement, upon presentation of a SF 1174 claim form, the AOP may be paid to the beneficiary’s estate. If the beneficiary does not have an estate established and the AOP is $3,000 or less, the AOP may be paid to the deceased beneficiary’s survivors in the order of precedence set out in subparagraph 2.4.1.2 through 2.4.1.5. If the AOP is greater than $3,000, DFAS may pay the AOP in accordance with laws of the domicile of the deceased beneficiary. If doubt exists as to entitlement, the DoD will settle the claim.

2.5 Substantiating Documents and Collection of Overpayments

2.5.1. Substantiating Documents. To effect settlement of AOP, the following documents must be a matter of record:

2.5.1.1. Completed SF 1174, Claim for Unpaid Compensation of Deceased Member of the Uniformed Services, from the beneficiary;

2.5.1.2. DD Form 1300 or a copy of the death certificate;

2.5.1.3. Retirement orders; and

2.5.1.4. Miscellaneous documentation (e.g., adoption papers; court orders of appointment; custodianship papers; Internal Revenue Service Form W-8BEN; Certificate of Foreign Status of Beneficial Owner for United States Tax Withholding and Reporting (Individuals) (for individuals who are not United States citizens or resident aliens)) as required.

2.5.2. Collection of Overpayments. Every attempt should be made to recover all outstanding checks or direct deposits (not negotiated before the retired member’s death or outstanding checks forwarded past the date of entitlement) or the proceeds thereof. Unrecovered funds are treated as erroneous payments to the retired member or the withdrawer of funds with the indebtedness subject to the debt collection authority.

2.5.2.1. If the funds are not recovered, there is no AOP due until the arrears due to the retired member exceed the erroneous payment. In situations where the recipient of the retired member’s erroneous payment is also the beneficiary for the AOP, the amount of arrears due the individual is offset administratively by the erroneous payments received by the individual. The remaining erroneous payment, if any, is still subject to the debt collection authority.

2.5.2.2. If there has been an erroneous payment of AOP made to an individual not entitled to the retired member’s AOP, and another individual is entitled to the retired member’s AOP, the payment of the amount due as arrears must be made to the appropriate payee, regardless of whether collection has been made from the recipient of the erroneous pay.

2.6 Questionable Date of Death

2.6.1. When the date of death is shown as a “found date,” DFAS-Cleveland will verify whether an autopsy was performed. If an autopsy was performed, the date of death determined by the coroner is used. If the results of the autopsy are reported on the death certificate, a copy of the autopsy report is not required. If an autopsy was not performed, but the state has certified the date of death on the death certificate, that date is used. If two dates are shown, such as the retired member died between 11:00 p.m. June 10, 2008, and 4:00 a.m. June 11, 2008, use the earlier date since that was the last date the retired member was known to be alive. If neither is available, obtain a statement from one or more disinterested persons attesting to the last known date that the retired member was alive. When this statement is received, the AOP is settled based on that date.

2.6.2. In claims involving missing persons, provided there is no evidence to the contrary, assume the date of death to be the presumed date established by state court decree.

2.6.3. If evidence exists that a retired member died on a particular date several years before the date of presumptive death declared by a state court, the AOP is payable only through the earlier date of suspected death.

2.6.4. A judicial decree is not necessary to establish Retired Serviceman’s Family Protection Plan or Survivor Benefit Plan annuity payments if a person has been missing for more than 30 days under circumstances from which a reasonably prudent person would conclude that such person is dead and the Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee) makes a determination that presumes the retired member is deceased. See Chapters 37 and 42.

2.7 Doubtful Claims

2.7.1. In accordance with Title 32, Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), part 282.5, cases involving questions of fact or law are submitted to the Defense Office of Hearings and Appeals (DOHA) for resolution. These include cases when:

2.7.1.1. Doubt exists as to the amount or validity of the claim, or

2.7.1.2. Doubt exists as to the person or persons properly entitled to the payment. Upon receipt of a doubtful claim, notify the claimant that the claim has been forwarded to DOHA for approval of settlement.

2.8 Six Year Statute of Limitations

2.8.1. Title 31 U.S.C. § 3702 provides general authority for settling claims against the United States. Section 3702 provides that any claim against the U.S. Government is barred forever unless such claim, bearing the signature and address of the claimant or authorized agent or attorney is received by the responsible agency within 6 years after the date such claim first accrued. Under authority delegated from the Secretary of Defense, the Director, DOHA, may waive the time limitation for late claims involving the pay, retired pay, and survivor benefits of military personnel. Any claim that became payable as a result of waiver of time limitation is limited to $25,000.

2.8.2. In any case where two or more beneficiaries are entitled to share a retired member’s AOP equally, each claimant/beneficiary will become entitled to their own proportional share upon presentation of a timely claim. In the event that one (or more) of the claimant/beneficiaries fails to make a timely claim within 6 years, such claimant/beneficiary’s claim will be barred under 31 U.S.C. § 3702 as untimely; however the time limitation may be waived by DOHA if appropriate. In no event will the share of the untimely claimant/beneficiary be paid to the claimant/beneficiary who submitted a timely claim.

2.9 Death of Mentally Incompetent Retired Member

If retired pay was waived in favor of VA compensation, but compensation was withheld because the retired member’s estate exceeded $1,500, contact the VA to ascertain periods and reasons for nonpayment of VA compensation and verify whether withdrawal of the waiver was made by guardian or trustee before the retired member’s death. See Chapter 12 regarding withdrawal of waiver.

Note: Nonpayment of compensation could occur at any time from the effective date of VA waiver through the month of death and is not limited to the month of death.

3.0 DEATH GRATUITY

3.1 Basic Information

3.1.1. Death gratuity is payable when the military member’s death occurs within the 120-day period which begins on the day after release from active duty or active duty for training. The VA must certify entitlement to death gratuity. The Secretary of the VA must determine that the decedent was discharged or released under conditions other than dishonorable from the last period of the duty of training that he or she performed. The Secretary of the VA must also determine that death resulted from an injury or disease that was incurred or aggravated during the period of service of active duty, inactive-duty training or travel directly to or from such duty. See 10 U.S.C. § 1476.

3.1.2. Death gratuity is not payable for a member who retires for non-Regular service (age and service) unless the member was on active duty the day before retirement.

3.1.3. Submit the application for Death Gratuity on a DD 397, Claim Certification and Voucher for Death Gratuity Payment.

Note: For detailed information on Death Gratuity, see Volume 7A, Chapter 36.

3.2 Eligible Beneficiaries

3.2.1. Eligible Beneficiaries Prior to July 1, 2008. Before May 25, 2007, payment of a death gratuity was made to or on behalf of the deceased member’s living survivors as prescribed by the statute in effect at the time. Beginning on May 25, 2007, and ending on June 30, 2008, a qualified member was able to designate another person to receive not more than 50 percent of the death gratuity payable upon the death of the member with any remaining amount not designated paid in the order prescribed by statute. The designated amount of the death gratuity had to be specified in increments of 10 percent. Death gratuity payments were made to the deceased member’s living survivors as prescribed by the statute at the time. (For order of precedence prior to July 1, 2008, please see the archived version of Chapter 30, dated July 2008).

3.2.2. Eligible Beneficiaries On and After July 1, 2008. Effective July 1, 2008, a qualified member may designate up to 100 percent of their death gratuity entitlements, in 10 percent increments, to any person(s) of their choosing. If the qualified member has a spouse, but designates a person other than the spouse to receive all or a portion of the amount payable, the Secretary concerned must provide notice of the designation to the spouse. If a qualified person does not make a designation or designates only a portion of the amount payable, then pay the amount of the death gratuity not covered by a designation as follows:

3.2.2.1. To the surviving spouse of the person, if any;

3.2.2.2. If there is no surviving spouse, any surviving children of the person and the descendants of any deceased children by representation. Surviving children without regard to age or marital status include:

3.2.2.2.1. Legitimate children,
3.2.2.2.2. Adopted children,
3.2.2.2.3. Stepchildren who were a part of the decedent's household at the time of death, or 3.2.2.2.4. Illegitimate children of the decedent (see subparagraph 3.3.1.4);

3.2.2.3. If there is no surviving spouse or children, the decedent’s surviving parents in equal shares or the survivor of them. Surviving parents as prescribed by the following:

3.2.2.3.1. Parents include fathers and mothers through adoption;
3.2.2.3.2. Only one father and one mother may be recognized in any case;
3.2.2.3.3. Those who exercised a parental relationship on the date, or most nearly before the date of the member’s death are given preference;
3.2.2.3.4. If there is no surviving spouse, child, or parent of the decedent, the duly appointed executor or administrator of the estate of the decedent; or 3.2.2.3.5. If there are no survivors as prescribed in subparagraphs 3.2.2.1 through 3.2.2.4, other next of kin of the person entitled under the laws of domicile of the person at the time of the person’s death.

3.3 Documentary Evidence

3.3.1. In some cases, the beneficiary must furnish proof of relationship:
3.3.1.1. Lawful Spouse. Documentation may be required to substantiate the marriage or proof of termination of prior marriages entered into by the beneficiary or deceased member;

3.3.1.2. Legally Adopted Child. A copy of adoption papers;

3.3.1.3. Stepchild. Information to prove that the child was a member of the deceased member’s household;

3.3.1.4. Illegitimate Child. Documentation is required as proof that the member was the parent of the child and must include one of the following:

   3.3.1.4.1. An acknowledgement in writing signed by the decedent;

   3.3.1.4.2. A judicial determination made before the decedent's death that the claimant is a child of the decedent;

   3.3.1.4.3. Evidence that the Secretary of VA has determined the claimant to be the child of the decedent; or

   3.3.1.4.4. A copy of the court order that ordered the parent to contribute to the child’s support; or

3.3.1.5. Designated Relative

   3.3.1.5.1. Designated relative must provide documentary evidence that any marriage entered into by the deceased member has been terminated and a notarized statement that there are no living children.

   3.3.1.5.2. Persons in loco parentis must furnish satisfactory evidence of the relationship as deemed necessary by the Military Department concerned.

3.3.2. Custodianship documents or court orders of guardianship appointments must support all payments made for minor children.

3.4 Death of Eligible Survivor Before Receipt of Death Gratuity

If a person entitled to all or a portion of a death gratuity under subparagraph 3.2.2 dies before the person receives the death gratuity, it will be paid to the living survivor next in the order prescribed in subparagraph 3.2.2.

3.5 Determinations Affecting Entitlement

   3.5.1. Death as Lawful Punishment. No death gratuity is payable in the case of a military member whose death is the result of a lawful punishment for a crime or military offense, except when such death was inflicted by any hostile force with which the armed forces of the United States was engaged in armed conflict.
3.5.2. Military Member Killed by Beneficiary. No death gratuity is payable to a beneficiary or survivor who kills a military member, unless there is evidence that clearly absolves the beneficiary or survivor of any felonious intent.

3.6 Amount Payable

3.6.1. Deaths On or After October 7, 2001. For deaths on or after October 7, 2001, the amount of death gratuity is $100,000.

3.6.2. Debt Collection. Do not collect debts from death gratuity payments.

3.7 Erroneous Payment

An erroneous payment of death gratuity is one made because of administrative error to a person clearly not entitled to that payment, rather than a payment made reliant on statements of record made by the member about matters such as marital status and dependency status. Make a second payment to the rightful beneficiary when the error resulted from improper maintenance of records or administrative negligence. This payment should not be delayed pending recovery of the erroneous payment from the ineligible recipient. The respective DFAS site will follow the prescribed collection procedures in an attempt to recover an erroneous payment.

4.0 TAXABLE INCOME

4.1 Taxability of AOP

4.1.1. The AOP due the deceased retired member at time of death is taxable to the beneficiary who receives payment if the AOP was taxable to the retired member. The tax liability is in accordance with the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended.

4.1.2. If AOP is paid, a Treasury Department (TD) Form 1099-R is issued to each beneficiary using the tax identification number of the beneficiary. If no AOP is paid, the retired pay activity issues one TD Form 1099-R in the decedent’s name.

4.2 Taxability of Death Gratuity

4.2.1. Death Occurred Between August 20, 1996 and September 10, 2001. The amount of death gratuity payments made to survivors of military members who died after August 20, 1996, that is excludable from income may not exceed $3,000, regardless of the number of beneficiaries. If there are multiple beneficiaries, apply proportionately the $3,000 exclusion. All death gratuity payments are reported separately, using TD Form 1099-R. The total amount of the gross distribution is entered in Box 1. The appropriate taxable amount is entered in Box 2a. For members who died on or before August 20, 1996, the maximum exclusion amount is $5,000.

4.2.2. Death Occurred On or After September 11, 2001. The total amount of death gratuity is excludable from gross income for tax purposes.

CHAPTER 31

DEATH OF A SURVIVOR ANNUITANT

1.0 GENERAL

1.1 Purpose

This chapter addresses the settlement of the arrears of an annuity where the annuitant is a spouse (or former spouse) with no eligible child annuitant, the last remaining child annuitant, or a natural person with an insurable interest. In accordance with the procedures in section 2.0, the Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS) pays the arrears of the annuity under Retired Serviceman’s Family Protection Plan, Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP), and minimum income widow provisions of the SBP law.

1.2 Authoritative Guidance

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.), including Titles 10, 26 and 31. Due to the subject matter in this chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in a reference section at the end of the chapter.

2.0 SETTLEMENT OF THE ARREARS

2.1 Documentation

A notification of death from any source is sufficient to suspend future payment of the annuity. To settle (pay) the arrears of an annuity, the following documentation must be on file:

2.1.1. A copy of the death certificate;

2.1.2. A written claim containing the signature and address of the claimant or of the claimant’s authorized agent or attorney; and

2.1.3. Proof of recoupment of outstanding payments. All outstanding checks or direct deposits (not negotiated before the annuitant’s death or forwarded past the date of entitlement) or the proceeds thereof must be returned to DFAS Cleveland before a settlement of arrears of annuity may be made.

Note: Refer to the DFAS website on how to Report an SBP Annuitants Death for more information.

2.2 Payment of the Arrears

The annuity is not prorated for the month of the annuitant’s death. Entitlement stops as of the last day of the month before the date of the annuitant’s death. When all documentation is received, payment of the arrears is made to the person living on the date of the annuitant’s death who is highest on the order of precedence set forth in Chapter 30. For the purpose of payment of the arrears of an annuity under this section, the provisions of Chapter 30, subparagraphs 2.4.3 through 2.4.5 apply, and all references to a “retiree” in Chapter 30, subparagraphs 2.4.1.2 through 2.4.1.6, and 2.4.4 through 2.4.5 should be considered as referring to the deceased annuitant rather than a retiree.

2.3 Claim for Arrears

A claim for arrears of an annuity must be filed within the 6-year statute-of-limitation restriction. Any claim received 6 years after the date of the annuitant’s death is barred.

3.0 TAXABILITY

In the case of deceased annuitants, one or more Department of the Treasury – Internal Revenue Service (IRS) Form(s) 1099-R, Distributions From Pensions, Annuities, Retirement or Profit-Sharing Plans, IRAs, Insurance Contracts, etc., may be used. If no arrears of an annuity are paid, then one Form 1099-R will be issued in the annuitant’s name to cover any payments received by the annuitant before death. If arrears of an annuity are paid, then an additional Form 1099-R is issued to each claimant to whom the arrears were paid.

CHAPTER 32

RECOVERY OF PAYMENTS MADE TO A FINANCIAL ORGANIZATION

1.0 GENERAL

1.1 Purpose

This chapter provides information regarding the accountability of a financial organization for direct deposit payments returned to the Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS) because of the death of a retiree or annuitant. By accepting a recurring benefit payment from the government, a receiving financial institution agrees to the provisions of Title 31, Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), Part 210, including the reclamation actions and debiting of the financial institution’s Federal Reserve Bank account for any reclamation for which it is liable. The government's right to reclaim funds is established in 31 CFR 210, section 210.10(a).

1.2 Authoritative Guidance

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.), including Titles 5, 12, and 31. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in a reference section at the end of the chapter.

2.0 LIABILITY OF FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS FOR DIRECT DEPOSIT PAYMENTS

2.1 Liability of Financial Institution

A financial institution is liable for all benefit payments received after the death or legal incapacity of a recipient, or death of a beneficiary, unless the financial institution meets the qualifications for limiting its liability under paragraph 2.3.

*2.2 Reclamation

Upon the notification of the death of a military retiree or annuitant, the DFAS Cleveland Disbursing Officer (DO) will contact the decedent’s financial institution to request the return of all payments made since the retiree’s or annuitant’s death via a Notice of Reclamation in the amount of all post death payments.

2.2.1. The DO must initiate reclamation within 120 days after actual or constructive receipt of notification of the death of a retiree or annuitant. The financial institution is not liable for payments made more than 6 years prior to date of reclamation.
2.2.2. Effective January 2, 2008, the Department of the Treasury, Financial Management Service (FMS) established a policy for the reclamation of federal payments disbursed electronically through the Automated Clearing House. On October 7, 2012, the FMS and the Bureau of the Public Debt were consolidated into the Bureau of the Fiscal Service. See the Department of the Treasury’s Green Book for detailed instructions on the reclamation procedures.

*2.3 Limiting Liability

A financial institution may qualify to limit its liability by full compliance with the regulations if it:

2.3.1. Certifies it had no actual or constructive knowledge of the death at the time of the deposit of any post-death benefit payments;

2.3.2. Returns all post-death benefit payments it receives after it learns of the death of a retiree or annuitant; and

2.3.3. Responds to the reclamation notice to ensure that it is received by the DO within 60 days of the date on the notice.

*2.4 Calculating Limited Liability Amount

If a financial institution qualifies for limited liability, the amount which can be debited from the financial institution is the amount of the account balance at the time it first receives notice of death plus the lesser of the outstanding balance of the reclamation notice amount (after any collection from the withdrawers) or the 45-day amount. The 45-day amount is the dollar amount of the post-death benefit payments received within 45 calendar days following the death. See the Department of the Treasury’s Green Book for examples of calculating the limited liability amount.

3.0 LIABILITY OF DISBURSING OFFICER

The accountability of the financial institution does not affect the liability of the DO for any amounts not recovered. The DO may be relieved of liability for amounts not recovered when the officer has shown that he or she did not know and could not have known of a retiree’s or annuitant’s death prior to making payments after the date of death.

1.0 GENERAL (3701)

1.1 Purpose (370101)

The purpose of the RSFPP was to permit members of the uniformed services who retired on or before September 20, 1972, to elect to receive a reduced amount of any retired pay in order to provide an annuity payable to eligible annuitant(s) upon that retired member’s death. This election was subject to certain limitations specified in the law and elaborated in the regulations in this chapter. The Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP) replaced the RSFPP (see Chapters 42 through 49) as the primary military retired pay annuity protection plan on September 21, 1972. An annuity payable under the RSFPP is not assignable or subject to execution, levy, attachment, or garnishment, except for child support or alimony, or to collect a debt caused by an overpayment described in section 9.0. A debt to the United States or its instrumentalities incurred by the annuitant may be offset from the annuity. The annuity may be paid to a trustee through bankruptcy court proceedings.

1.2 Authoritative Guidance (370102)

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.), including Titles 10, 11, 26, 31, and 42. Due to the subject matter in this chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in a reference section at the end of the chapter.

2.0 EFFECTIVE DATE OF ANNUITY (3702)

2.1 Annuity Accrual (370201)

Each annuity payable normally accrues as of the first day of the month in which the retired member dies. If the Secretary concerned makes a determination that a participating retired member is presumed dead, the annuity accrues from the first day of the month in which retired or retainer pay was suspended on the basis of the retired member’s missing status. For retired members who elected coverage for spouse and children (often referred to as “Option 3”), an annuity is payable to the eligible children on the first day of the month in which the widow or widower becomes an ineligible annuitant. For a child who is at least age 18, but under age 23, and pursuing a full-time course of study at a recognized educational institution (see section 12.0 for more information), the annuity accrues:

2.1.1. As of the first day of the month in which the retired member dies, if the eligible child’s 18th birthday occurs in the same or a preceding month; or
2.1.2. As of the first day of the month in which the child’s 18th birthday occurs, if the retired member died in the preceding month; or

2.1.3. As of the first day of the month in which the child becomes or again becomes eligible, if that child’s 18th birthday and the retired member’s death occurred in a preceding month or months.

2.2 Application (370202)

2.2.1. A completed application is required for payment of the annuity.

2.2.2. Payments are made in equal monthly installments thereafter as long as entitlement exists. If a properly completed application was received, the first payment must be made no later than:

2.2.2.1. The 15th of the month after the month in which the retired member dies, or

2.2.2.2. The 15th of the month after the month in which the Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee) has made a determination that the retired member is presumed dead.

2.3 Annuitant Eligibility (370203)

No annuity accrues or is paid for a month in which all annuitants lose eligibility.

2.4 Special Circumstance (370204)

If a member retires and dies during the same month, the annuity is payable for the full month.

3.0 ANNUITY PAYMENTS (3703)

3.1 Upon Death or Presumption of Death (370301)

Upon official notification of death or Secretarial determination that a participating retired member is presumed dead, annuity accounts are established in accordance with the provisions of the election made by or on behalf of the retired member using DoD (DD) Form 2656-7, Verification for Survivor Annuity to validate the annuity account. Payment of annuity is barred when the member is retired for disability before completing 19 years of service (18 years of service before October 1968) if beneficiaries are eligible for Veterans Affairs (VA) Dependency and Indemnity Compensation (DIC). Payments for a representative payee of an RSFPP annuitant follow the same requirements as payment under the Survivor Benefit Plan. See Chapter 46 for more information.
3.2 Additional Annuity Information (370302)

Annuities payable are in addition to any pension(s) or other payment(s) to which the beneficiaries may now or later be entitled by law, and may not be considered income under any law administered by the VA, except when the annuitant is entitled to DIC as a parent of a veteran. For additional information affecting annuity payments, see Table 37-1.

3.3 Settlement of Arrears (370303)

For information concerning the settlement of arrears of annuities, see Chapter 31.

4.0 CLAIMS FOR ANNUITY (3704)

The claim for annuity payments must be properly completed and signed by the person(s) authorized to receive the annuity.

4.1 Power of Attorney (370401)

An individual holding a valid power of attorney may complete (including the signature element) and file the annuity application form on behalf of an annuitant provided:

4.1.1. The payments are to be made directly to the annuitant; and

4.1.2. The annuitant has not been determined to be incompetent of managing their own affairs by a state court, physician, or psychologist.

NOTE: For additional information on annuity payments, see Chapter 46. An annuitant whose application is signed with an “X” must be witnessed (by two disinterested persons), notarized, or countersigned by the person holding the power of attorney. A copy of the power of attorney and explanation why the annuitant required assistance must be submitted with the annuity application.

4.2 Court Order (370402)

A claim signed by a legal representative must be accompanied by a copy of the court order of appointment.

4.3 Custodianship (370403)

A claim signed by the custodian of a minor child or children must be accompanied by a document evidencing custodianship.

4.4 Doubtful Claim (370404)

A doubtful claim must be submitted to the Defense Office of Hearings and Appeals (DOHA) for certification before payment.
4.5 Limitation (370405)

4.5.1. The Barring Act. This act bars payment of any claim not received within 6 years from the date it accrues. See 31 U.S.C. § 3702.

4.5.2. Denial of Claim. A claim not received within 6 years of the retired member’s death must be denied as untimely pursuant to the Barring Act and Department of Defense Instruction (DoDI) 1332.42.

5.0 ANNUITY AMOUNTS (3705)

5.1 Single Option (370501)

5.1.1. Retirements Before November 1, 1968. The monthly annuity payable, as elected by the retiree, is one-eighth, one-quarter, or one-half of the retired member’s reduced retired pay as computed on the date of retirement or effective date of election, whichever is later.

5.1.2. Retirements From November 1, 1968 Through September 20, 1972. The monthly annuity payable as elected by the retired member is:

5.1.2.1. One-eighth, one-quarter, or one-half of the retired member’s gross retired pay on date of retirement; or

5.1.2.2. A specific dollar amount of not more than 50 percent, nor less than 12.5 percent of the retired member’s gross retired pay on date of retirement, but in no case less than $25.

5.2 Multiple Options (370502)

5.2.1. Retirements Before November 1, 1968. The monthly annuity payable for each option, as elected by the retired member, is one-eighth or one-quarter of the retired member’s total reduced retired pay as computed on the date of retirement or effective date of election, whichever is later. The combined amount of annuities cannot exceed 50 percent of the retired member’s total reduced retired pay.

5.2.2. Retirements From November 1, 1968 Through September 20, 1972. The monthly annuity payable for each option, as elected by the retired member, is:

5.2.2.1. One-eighth or one-quarter of the retired member’s gross retired pay on date of retirement; or

5.2.2.2. A specific dollar amount of not more than 25 percent, nor less than 12.5 percent of the retiree’s gross retired pay on date of retirement, but in no case less than $25.
*5.3 Cost-of-Living Adjustments for Annuities (370503)

Whenever retired pay is increased through a COLA, each annuity payable on the day before the effective date of that increase to a spouse or child of a member who died on or before March 20, 1974, is increased at the same time by the same percentage. Annuities payable on September 30, 1978 to a spouse or child of a member who died on or before March 20, 1974 were increased by 66.1 percent, effective October 1, 1978. The 66.1 percent increase was the percentage change in retired and retainer pay authorized by 10 U.S.C. § 1401a from September 21, 1972 to September 30, 1978.

*5.4 Rounding (370504)

All monthly annuities to which a survivor becomes entitled on or after October 1, 1983, if not a multiple of $1, is rounded to the next lower multiple of $1. Annuities to which survivors were entitled on September 30, 1983 were not rounded until there was an adjustment made in accordance with 10 U.S.C. § 1401a; then, and with each subsequent adjustment, the amount as adjusted, if not a multiple of $1, is rounded to the next lower multiple of $1. All subsequent adjustments are based on the rounded amount.

*6.0 PAYMENTS (3706)

6.1 Payments to Widow(ers) (370601)

For unique conditions affecting entitlement of annuity payments to widow or widower, see Table 37-2 for Comptroller General (Comp Gen) decisions.

6.2 Payment to Children (370602)

6.2.1 Whom Payable. Annuities for a minor child or children are paid to the legal guardian or, if there is no legal guardian, to the natural parent who has care, custody, and control of the child or children as the custodian, or to a representative payee of the child or children.

6.2.2 Majority Age. Annuities may be paid directly to the child when the law governing the state of residence stipulates the child to be majority age. The child is considered an adult for annuity payment purposes, and a custodian or legal fiduciary is not required. See Appendix H for majority age.

6.2.3 Equal Shares. The annuity is payable in equal shares to or on behalf of all eligible children. If there are no other eligible children, the annuity entitlement terminates when the youngest child becomes an ineligible annuitant.

6.2.4 Unique Conditions. For unique conditions affecting entitlement and payment of annuities for a child or children, see Table 37-3 for Comp Gen decisions.
7.0 CAUSES OF OVERPAYMENTS (3707)

One or more of the following situations may cause overpayments in annuity payments:

7.1 Failure to Notify (370701)

Failure of the annuitant, custodian, or guardian to notify the Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee) of:

7.1.1. Remarriage of the annuitant, before age 60 or death;
7.1.2. Youngest child reaching age 18;
7.1.3. Marriage or death of a child annuitant;
7.1.4. Recovery of an incapacitated child;
7.1.5. Termination of student status;
7.1.6. Erroneous computation; or
7.1.7. Correction of member’s military records.

7.2 Concurrent Payment (370702)

Concurrent payment of RSFPP annuity and DIC if the RSFPP was payable based on the service of a member who retired for disability before completing 18 years of service after October 5, 1961, or before completing 19 years of service after November 1, 1968.

7.3 Presumption of Death (370703)

A Secretarial determination that a retired member is alive after the Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee) previously determined that the retired member was presumed dead. The retired member is liable for any indebtedness created where the annuity payments were made based on the presumption of such retired member’s death. The retired member’s indebtedness cannot be considered for waiver under 10 U.S.C. § 2774 or 10 U.S.C. § 1442. If the retired member dies before those payments are fully recovered, the annuitant may be liable for the indebtedness if the annuitant was the recipient of the annuity payments made under the presumption of death. (See Volume 16, Chapter 3 and Table 3-7, for collection of indebtedness from retired or retainer pay.)

8.0 RECOVERY OF OVERPAYMENTS (3708)

Upon discovery of an overpayment, recovery action will begin immediately. The annuitant will be advised of the debt and the method in which the overpayment is being, or may be, recovered, in accordance with Volume 16.
9.0 METHOD OF RECOVERY (3709)

One of the following methods will be used to liquidate the debt resulting from an annuity overpayment:

9.1 Direct Remittance (370901)

Send a direct remittance to the Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS), Cleveland (CL) Center.

9.2 Future Payment Amounts (370902)

The DFAS-CL Center reduces the later RSFPP annuity payments, or withholding of future annuity payments until debt has been liquidated.

10.0 WAIVER OF INDEBTEDNESS (3710)

When applicable, the DFAS-CL Center advises the annuitant of the right to request a waiver of indebtedness.

10.1 Overpayment Recovery (371001)

Recovery of an overpayment of the RSFPP annuity is not required if, in the judgment of the DFAS Director or the Director’s designee, there was no fault by the person to whom the amount was erroneously paid and recovery would be contrary to the purpose of the plan or against equity and good conscience. Proof of hardship is not required if the waiver otherwise is in order. Suspension of collection action may be authorized on receipt of a waiver request. Refund of an amount withheld before receipt of a request for waiver is not authorized. When a waiver is granted, refund amounts collected after receipt of the waiver request.

10.2 Failure to Withhold (371002)

Failure to withhold the cost of coverage from retired pay of a member cannot be considered an overpayment of annuity to a designated beneficiary to authorize waiver of recovery of the overpayment.

10.3 Correction of Records (371003)

RSFPP annuitants who obtain a correction of records for entitlement to additional survivorship annuity under a second election may not retain the benefits of the original election. A correction made under 10 U.S.C. § 1552, except when procured by fraud is final and conclusive on all officers of the United States. Recovery of overpayments that occur in these instances may not be waived under 10 U.S.C. § 1442. Repayment may be made over a reasonable period-of-time as determined by the retired pay activity.
11.0 TERMINATIONS (3711)

11.1 Time of Termination (371101)

Entitlement to the RSFPP annuity terminates as of the end of the month that precedes the month in which eligibility ceases.

11.2 Reasons for Termination of the RSFPP Annuity (371102)

11.2.1. Death of Widow or Widower. Payments are terminated the last day of the month that precedes the month in which widow or widower dies. If children are involved, see paragraph 12.2 for further information.

11.2.2. Remarriage of Widow or Widower Before Age 60. Payments are terminated the last day of the month that precedes the month in which widow or widower, younger than age 60, remarries. If children are involved, see paragraph 12.2 for further information.

11.2.3. Loss of Eligibility by Child Annuitant. Reasons for loss are:

11.2.3.1. The youngest child reaching age 18 and not incapable of self-support (applicable to children of members who retired before November 1, 1968);

11.2.3.2. The youngest child reaching age 18 and not pursuing a full-time course of study nor incapable of self-support (applicable to children of members retiring on or after November 1, 1968);

11.2.3.3. The youngest child who is pursuing full-time course of study, reaching age 23 and not incapable of self-support (applicable to children of members who retired on or after November 1, 1968);

11.2.3.4. The marriage or death of child annuitant;

11.2.3.5. The recovery of an incapacitated child over age 18. Annuity may be suspended if the annuitant becomes independently capable of earning amounts sufficient for his or her own particular personal needs through substantial and sustainable gainful employment. The annuitant will receive advance written notice from DFAS prior to suspension. The annuitant will be given an opportunity to submit rebutting evidence. The annuity may be reinstated (see subparagraph 12.2.2);

11.2.3.6. The termination of student status of a child over age 18 and under age 23 (applicable only to retirees who retired on or after November 1, 1968); or 11.2.3.7. The reinstatement to widow or widower of annuity previously terminated.

11.2.4. Secretarial Determination. Payments are terminated the last day of the month preceding the month in which the Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee) determines that a participating member previously presumed to be dead is now alive.

11.3 Due and Unpaid Annuity (371103)

If, upon death of the annuitant, an amount remains payable to the annuitant but is unpaid because the annuity checks were not negotiated or because payments had not been established, the account is settled in accordance with Chapter 31. There is no designated beneficiary for settlement of arrears of an annuity.

12.0 REINSTATEMENTS (3712)

12.1 Remarriage Before Age 60 (371201)

The RSFPP annuity is not reinstated.

12.2 Reinstatement on Behalf of Children (371202)

12.2.1. If an annuity was terminated because of the death or remarriage of the widow or widower before age 60, and the member’s election also included coverage for children, then the full annuity is reestablished in equal shares in favor of the eligible children (see section 6.0). The effective date is the first day of the month in which the death or remarriage of the widow or widower occurred.

12.2.2. An annuity to an incapacitated child over 18 years of age may be reinstated upon either a recurrence of the original disability that rendered the annuitant incapable of self-support or upon receipt of evidence from the annuitant that, although engaged in substantial and sustainable gainful employment, wages are not sufficient to cover his or her particular needs.

12.3 Annulment (371203)

12.3.1. Annulment of a Void Marriage

12.3.1.1. The annuity may not be reinstated for any period earlier than the date of separation after the discovery that the marriage was void. A void marriage is invalid and never existed therefore; it requires no formal termination.

12.3.1.2. The annuity may not be reinstated for any period in which annuity payments were made on behalf of children under paragraph 12.2. When notice is received that the widow or widower’s remarriage was void, payment to these children is suspended pending resolution of the issues involved.

12.3.1.3. In the absence of a judicial decree terminating the marriage as void, the case be sent to the DOHA for a decision.
12.3.2. Annulment of a Voidable Marriage. The annuity may not be reinstated when a voidable marriage is annulled.

12.4 Reinstatement After Age 60 Remarriage (371204)

If the annuity was terminated because of remarriage, and the widow or widower was 60 years of age or older, the annuity may be reinstated not earlier than October 1, 1978. The annuity will be increased by the COLA, if appropriate, in accordance with paragraph 5.3.

13.0 ANNUAL CERTIFICATE OF ELIGIBILITY (COE) (3713)

13.1 Purpose (371301)

The certificate validates the continued eligibility of annuitants, whether widow or widower, or eligible child. Only the following persons are eligible to be made the beneficiaries of, or to receive payments under, an annuity elected by a member of the Armed Forces:

13.1.1. The spouse of the member on the date when the member is retired or becomes entitled to retired or retainer pay, or if the member was already retired or entitled to retired or retainer pay on November 1, 1953, the spouse on that date;

13.1.2. The children, living on November 1, 1953, of the member already retired or entitled to retired or retainer pay on that date, or the children who are living on the date the member retires with pay, and who:

13.1.2.1. Are unmarried;

13.1.2.2. Fall in one of the following age categories:

13.1.2.2.1. Under the age of 18;

13.1.2.2.2. At least 18, but under 23, years of age and pursuing a full-time course of study or training in a high school, trade school, technical or vocational institute, junior college, college, university, or comparable recognized educational institution. A child is considered to be pursuing a full-time course of study or training during an interval between school years that:

13.1.2.2.2.1. Does not exceed 150 days and 13.1.2.2.2.2. He or she has demonstrated to the satisfaction of the Secretary concerned to have a bona fide intention of commencing, resuming, or continuing to pursue a full-time course of study or training in a recognized educational institution immediately after that interval.

NOTE: This applies only to children of members who retired on or after November 1, 1968; or 13.1.2.2.3. More than 18 years of age and incapable of self-support because of a mental defect or physical incapacity, if that condition existed before they reached age 18;

13.1.2.3. Are legitimate or adopted children of the member, or step-children dependent upon the member for their support; or 13.1.2.4. Have not been adopted by a third person before the parent-member's death. See 36 Comp Gen 325.

NOTE: A child’s eligibility for an annuity under the plan is not affected if a third person adopts the child after the parent-member’s death.

13.2 Certification Frequency (371302)

13.2.1. Annually. A COE must be sent to the DFAS-CL Center each year by either of the following:

13.2.1.1. Widow or Widower of Any Age. The widow or widower must sign the form. An electronic signature may be used provided access to the Defense Retiree and Annuitant Pay System was gained using both the Social Security number and a personal identification number via myPay. The legal fiduciary must sign the form or use the electronic signature if the annuitant is mentally incompetent. If the electronic signature is used, it must include the annuitant’s name.

13.2.1.2. Custodian or Legal Fiduciary for Minor Children. The COE form signed by the custodian or legal fiduciary must be accompanied by a document evidencing custodianship.

13.2.2. Biennially. A medical certification must be submitted every 2 years for any incapacitated child over 18 years of age, unless a medical prognosis indicates that the disability is permanent.

13.2.3. Other. A student between ages of 18 and 23 must provide evidence of intent to continue study or training at a recognized educational institution. The certificate is required for the school semester or other period in which the school year is divided.

13.2.3.1. Payments to students continue during any interval between school years that does not exceed 150 days if the students have demonstrated to the satisfaction of the DFAS-CL Center that they have a bona fide intention of starting, resuming, or continuing a full-time course of study or training in a recognized educational institution immediately after that interval.

13.2.3.2. An eligible student annuitant under the RSFPP who is properly enrolled in a recognized educational institution employing the usual quarter or semester system and who becomes ill or requires non-elective surgery during the school term retains the student status for the rest of that term.
13.2.4. COE Not Required

13.2.4.1. Effective August 1, 2013. As of August 1, 2013, all annuitants over age 55, not mentally incompetent, living in the United States, or living outside the United States and receiving their pay by direct deposit will not be required to submit an annual COE.

13.2.4.2. Effective November 23, 2016. As of November 23, 2016, child annuitants under the age of 14 will not be required to submit an annual COE.

*13.3 Failure to Return COE (371303)

The annuity payment is suspended if the annuitant, custodian, or legal fiduciary fails to furnish the certificate as required. Payments will be restarted only after receiving satisfactory proof of eligibility.

NOTE: The Director, DFAS, or designee may suspend COE requirements when a Federal or State disaster, a pandemic, or any other natural emergency is declared. The Director, DFAS, or designee may also determine the amount of time of the suspension, not to exceed 90 days. Upon expiration of the 90-day term, the suspension may be reviewed for further extension, but in no instance may the suspension exceed one year. The action to suspend the COE requirement should take into consideration audit and risk management protocols including the ability to validate the identity of the annuitant from other government sources.

*14.1 Purpose of ROE (371401)

The ROE fulfills the requirement to prove the existence of an annuitant who receives payment through foreign postal channels. The ROE is not required when the payment is addressed to a U.S. Consulate, American Embassy, military attaché, Fleet Post Office, or Army Post Office address. Checks will not be mailed to an annuitant living in currency-blocked countries. See Title 31 of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), section 211.1, for withholding the delivery of checks to addresses outside of the United States.

14.2 ROE Requirement (371402)

An ROE is required on a semi-annual basis for those annuitants that meet the criteria of paragraph 14.1. Receipt of the certificate within the prescribed timeframe verifies the annuitant’s existence. Under no circumstances may the ROE be signed by other than the annuitant, custodian, or legal fiduciary; however, electronic signature as referenced in paragraph 13.2 is authorized.
14.3 Failure to Return ROE (371403)

The annuity payment is suspended if the annuitant, custodian, or legal fiduciary fails to return the ROE as required. Payments held in suspension are released and future payments are resumed only after receiving satisfactory proof of existence.

NOTE: The Director, DFAS, or designee may suspend ROE requirements when a Federal or State disaster, a pandemic, or any other natural emergency is declared. The Director, DFAS, or designee may also determine the amount of time of the suspension, not to exceed 90 days. Upon expiration of the 90-day term, the suspension may be reviewed for further extension, but in no instance may the suspension exceed one year. The action to suspend the ROE requirement should take into consideration audit and risk management protocols including the ability to validate the identity of the annuitant from other government sources.

15.0 FEDERAL INCOME TAX (3715)

Annuities paid under the RSFPP are taxable for Federal income tax purposes. Refunds for coverage premiums are taxable income to the annuitant. The refund of premiums may result from administrative error, corrections of record, late receipt of withdrawal request, or youngest child attaining age 18.

16.0 FEDERAL INCOME TAX WITHHOLDING (FITW) (3716)

16.1 General Provisions (371601)

RSFPP annuity payments are subject to FITW. An annuitant has the right to elect no withholding. In the absence of such an election, or if the annuitant does not otherwise submit a withholding certificate, the DFAS-CL Center will withhold on a “married-three exemptions” basis. See Internal Revenue Service (IRS) IRS Publication 15-A.

16.2 Notice Requirements (371602)

The DFAS-CL Center must advise the annuitant of the withholding requirement and the right to elect “no withholding” when making the first payment to the annuitant. Thereafter, the DFAS-CL Center must send an annual notice to the annuitant of the right to elect no withholding, to revoke an election, or to submit a new withholding certificate. An annuitant also may submit a withholding certificate at any time to elect no withholding, revoke such election, or request any rate of withholding.

16.3 One-Time Payments (371603)

RSFPP annuity payments, other than the regular monthly entitlement, are subject to FITW at the rate of 22 percent unless the annuitant has elected no withholding.
17.0 INCOME EXCLUSION (3717)

17.1 Gross Income Exclusion (371701)

The annuitant may exclude from gross income:

17.1.1. Premiums for coverage deducted from retired pay before January 1, 1966, not previously excluded from the member’s retired pay; and 17.1.2. The amount of direct remittance for any RSFPP premiums not previously excluded from the member’s retired pay.

17.2 Special Exclusion (371702)

In addition, the annuitant may exclude from the RSFPP annuity gross income an amount not to exceed $5,000 if the member retired on disability and dies prior to attaining retirement age (Public Law (PL) 89-365). As of August 20, 1996, PL 104-188, section 1402(a) repealed the $5,000 exclusion.

18.0 FEDERAL ESTATE TAX (3718)

The value of the annuity at the time of the member’s death may be subject to Federal estate tax if any portion of the cost was paid by direct remittance, or if the value of the annuity exceeds the amount that may be excluded from the gross estate. The DFAS-CL Center may furnish the annuitant the current annuity amount and/or a summary of annual payments, and total cost paid (separate totals for deductions and direct remittances). For more information on the computation of the amount of an annuity that will be subject to the tax, if any, the executor of the member’s estate may go to the IRS Pension and Annuity tax page.

19.0 STATE TAXATION (3719)

Whether RSFPP annuities are subject to state inheritance or income tax and the method of calculating such tax depends upon the laws of the state concerned; however, the IRS Form 1099-R, Distributions From Pensions, Annuities, Retirement or Profit-Sharing Plans, IRAs, Insurance Contracts, etc., information is furnished to the appropriate state tax authority.

20.0 FURTHER TAX INFORMATION (3720)

Survivors should be advised that further information concerning taxation of RSFPP annuities may be obtained from the District Director of Internal Revenue or the state tax authority (see Appendix J, for state tax reporting addresses).

CHAPTER 42

SURVIVOR BENEFIT PLAN (SBP) - APPLICATION OF THE PLAN

1.0 GENERAL (4201)

1.1 Purpose (420101)

This chapter provides an overview of the establishment of the SBP (referred to as the Plan), eligibility and benefits, and specialized terminology and definitions used when referring to the Plan.

1.2 Authoritative Guidance (420102)

The pay policies and requirements established by DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.), including Titles 10 and 37. Due to the subject matter in this chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in a reference section at the end of the chapter.

2.0 SBP OVERVIEW (4202)

2.1 Establishment of SBP (420201)

On September 21, 1972, Public Law (PL) 92-425 established the SBP to provide a survivor benefit program for military personnel in retirement to complement the survivor benefits under Social Security laws. The Plan gives all retiring uniformed services retirees an opportunity to elect to have their retired pay reduced by a designated amount in order to provide their survivors an annuity payable after the retiree’s death.

2.1.1. Under the Plan, a member who retired before September 21, 1972, and who had previously elected to participate in the Retired Serviceman’s Family Protection Plan (RSFPP) had the option to retain or cancel the RSFPP coverage when electing to participate in the SBP.

2.1.2. The Plan provides, without cost, a minimum guarantee to an unmarried widow or widower of a member who died before March 21, 1974. For additional information, see Chapter 46. A surviving spouse of a member who died before November 1, 1953, is entitled to an annuity, which may be in addition to the annuity payable under the minimum income annuity provisions.

2.2 Additional Coverage (420202)

The Plan also includes:

2.2.1. Survivor benefits for the child, limited insurable interest, surviving spouse, or former spouse of a member who dies on active duty;
2.2.2. A Reserve Component (RC) annuity on behalf of a member who is eligible to provide a Reserve Component Survivor Benefit Plan (RCSBP) Annuity and dies:

2.2.2.1. Before notification of retirement eligibility;

2.2.2.2. During the 90-day period following notification of retirement eligibility if the member had not made an election; or

2.2.2.3. After electing to participate in RCSBP following notification of retirement eligibility but before reaching the age of eligibility to receive retired pay; and

2.2.3. An annuity calculated in the same manner as an annuity based on an active duty death paid to the qualified survivors of a member who, under certain circumstances, dies in the line of duty during inactive duty training (IDT) (see Chapter 54); or

2.2.4. An annuity calculated in the same manner as an annuity based on an RC death paid to the qualified survivors of a member who, under certain circumstances, dies during IDT but not in the line of duty (see Chapter 54).

2.3 Death Presumption Authority (420203)

2.3.1. The Plan provides for annuity payments under a determination by the Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee) that a participating member is presumed dead. Upon application of the beneficiary of a participant in the Plan who is missing, the Secretary of the Military Department concerned may determine that the participant is presumed dead.

2.3.2. A determination of presumed death is a determination by the Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee) that a participating member is presumed dead if:

2.3.2.1. The member’s retired or retainer pay has been suspended or would have been suspended had the member been in receipt of pay; and

2.3.2.2. The member has been missing at least 30 days under circumstances that lead to a reasonable conclusion that the member is dead.

*2.4 Effects of Lump Sum Retirement Payment on SBP (420204)

A member covered under the Blended Retirement System (BRS) who chooses to receive a lump sum of retired pay, in accordance with 10 U.S.C. § 1415, will have their SBP premiums calculated using the full base amount of their unreduced retired pay without regard to a reduction in retired pay pursuant to the lump sum. The member may choose to lower the amount of coverage, with spousal concurrence, if married. Premiums are to be deducted from the portion of retired pay that the member continues to receive after the lump sum payment. For more information about SBP premiums, see Chapter 45.
3.0 ELIGIBLE MEMBERS (4203)

3.1 Members Eligible to Participate in the Plan (420301)

The following members are eligible to participate in the Plan:

3.1.1. Members entitled to retired pay; and

3.1.2. Members who would be eligible for non-regular retired pay, but have not yet become entitled to receive retired pay because of age. See Chapter 54.

3.2 Participants in the Plan (420302)

3.2.1. Standard Annuity Participants. The Plan applies to a person who is eligible to participate in the Plan under subparagraph 3.1.1 and who is married or has a dependent child when the member becomes entitled to retired pay, unless the member elects (with the spouse’s concurrence, if required) not to participate in the Plan.

3.2.2. RCSBP Annuity Participants. The Plan applies to a person who is eligible to participate in the Plan under subparagraph 3.1.2 and is married or has a dependent child when the member is notified that he or she has completed the years of service required for eligibility for RC retired pay, unless the member elects (with spousal concurrence, if required) not to participate in the Plan. Note: If such member elects not to participate in the Plan (chooses option “A”) upon becoming entitled to retired pay, the member may elect to participate in the Plan as a Standard annuity participant under subparagraph 3.2.1.

3.3 Exceptions (420303)

A member otherwise eligible according to subparagraph 3.2.1 or 3.2.2, except that:

3.3.1. The member does not have a spouse or dependent child and did not elect coverage for a former spouse (if applicable) at the time of eligibility for the program, may elect coverage for a person who has an insurable interest in the member; or

3.3.2. The member does not have a spouse or dependent child at the time of eligibility for the program, may elect SBP or RCSBP coverage upon notification to the Secretary concerned within the 1-year period after acquiring a spouse or dependent child. Such an election must be written, signed by the person making the election, and received by the Secretary concerned. An election is effective as of the first day of the first month following the month in which the Secretary concerned receives the election.
3.4 Member on the Temporary Disability Retired List (TDRL) (420304)

A member’s eligibility ends when the member is removed from TDRL without further entitlement to retired pay. The coverage continues when the member is transferred from TDRL to Permanent Disability Retired List (PDRL). If the member’s retired pay is reduced to an amount less than the base amount originally elected, the full retired pay to which the member is entitled thereafter is considered the base amount.

3.5 Mentally Incompetent Member (420305)

If a person to whom the Plan applies is determined to be mentally incompetent, the Secretary of the Military Department concerned, upon request, may act on behalf of the member and elect other than the maximum automatic coverage. In the absence of an eligible spouse or children, the Secretary of the Military Department concerned, upon request, may elect coverage for a natural person with an insurable interest. The person applying to have an election made is not given preference in designation as the beneficiary.

3.6 Qualifying Member During an Open Enrollment Period (420306)

The Plan applies to any member who qualifies during an open enrollment period according to the provisions established by law. Open enrollment periods typically occur when there are major changes to the SBP program and must be specifically prescribed by law.

3.7 Retired Member After a Record Correction (420307)

3.7.1 A member whose military record is corrected on or after September 20, 1972, to show retirement before September 21, 1972, is not automatically covered under the Plan. Coverage may be established upon request of the member if the election is received within 18 months from the date of notification of the correction action.

3.7.2 A member who retroactively becomes entitled to retired pay on a date on or after September 20, 1972, generally, will be given automatic full SBP coverage. However, the member may elect reduced coverage or decline participation, (with proper concurrence of the eligible spouse, if applicable) within 18 months of the correction entitling the member to retired pay unless the member’s Service Secretary or Service’s Board for Correction of Military Records directs the member to do so within 12 months of the member’s record correction.

4.1 Base Amount (420401)

The base amount is the money amount selected by the member, with the concurrence of the member’s spouse if required, or the amount selected on behalf of a member by the Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee), on which the annuity is based. The base amount may range from a $300 minimum up to full gross retired pay entitlement. The base amount is adjusted consistent with the cost-of-living increases in retired pay. For a member entitled to retired pay under a regular retirement, non-regular retirement, or disability retirement, the full base amount is the amount of money to which the member:

4.1.1. Was entitled to when he or she became eligible for retired pay without regard to any reduction in retired pay pursuant to:

4.1.1.1. An election of a lump sum of retired pay in accordance with 10 U.S.C. § 1415; or

4.1.1.2. An election of a Career Status Bonus (CSB) in accordance with 10 U.S.C. § 1409(b)(2) and 37 U.S.C. § 354. NOTE: After December 31, 2017, CSB could not be elected. For more information concerning the selection of CSB refer to Volume 7A, Chapter 66; or

4.1.2. Later became entitled to by being advanced on the retired list, performing active duty subsequent to eligibility for retired pay, being transferred from the TDRL to the PDRL, or having his or her retired pay re-computed at age 62 due to credit for community service under Temporary Early Retirement Authority or a reduced retirement.

4.2 Change in Coverage (420402)

A change in coverage is an action taken because of a change in the member’s family status that requires a change in beneficiaries.

4.3 Change in Election (420403)

A change in election is an authorized change in the type of beneficiary eligible for SBP coverage because of a change in the retiree’s family status.

4.4 Consideration for Contract (420404)

The total amount of premiums paid by the participant member for the type of SBP selected is known as consideration for contract.

4.5 Cost of Coverage (420405)

The cost of coverage is the cost for coverage under the Plan paid by deductions from retired pay, from the retired member’s Combat-Related Special Compensation (CRSC), or by direct remittance when member is not receiving retired pay.

NOTE: Beginning April 2018, if a member’s SBP premium cannot be deducted in the full amount required and the retired member has been awarded CRSC pay under 10 U.S.C. § 1413a the deduction that would otherwise have been made from the retired pay will be taken from the retired member’s CRSC for that period. See 10 U.S.C. § 1452(d)(2). This new deduction is due to a change in the law (PL 114-328, section 643) which requires SBP premiums to be deducted from CRSC.
4.6 Cost Refund (420406)

A cost refund is the difference between cost paid by the member and the recalculated cost of the annuity after Dependency and Indemnity Compensation (DIC) reduction.

4.7 Date of Receipt (420407)

The date of receipt is the day of receipt of an election or election change by the office administering payment of retired pay. The postmarked date of an election may be considered as date of receipt when the validity of such election might be prejudiced because of a limited time factor.

*4.8 Dependency and Indemnity Compensation (DIC) Offset (420408)

DIC offset is the reduction of the SBP annuity due to compensation entitlement from the Department of Veterans Affairs to the widow or widower of a member who dies from a service-connected or comparable disability. A multi-year phase out of the DIC offset of SBP annuities began January 1, 2021. See Chapter 46 for details regarding the phase out periods and corresponding offset amounts.

4.9 Former Spouse (420409)

A former spouse is the surviving former husband or wife of a person who is eligible to participate in the Plan. For more information about former spouses, see Chapter 29.

4.10 Maximum Level (420410)

The maximum level is the full, gross retired pay used as a base amount for coverage. For members who elect lump sums under the BRS, the full base amount will be equivalent to what full retired pay would have been without the lump sum. A member who elected to receive a CSB prior to January 1, 2018 will, at the time of program election, have the maximum base amount computed as if that member had not been subject to the Military Retirement Reform Act of 1986 (referred to as REDUX) under 10 U.S.C. § 1409(b)(2).

4.11 Minimum Income Widow (420411)

A minimum income widow is a person who on September 21, 1972 was, or during the period beginning on September 22, 1972 and ending on March 20, 1974 became, the widow of a person who was entitled to retired or retainer pay when they died. This individual must have income below the threshold and meet the eligibility criteria in Chapter 46.
4.12 Natural Person With an Insurable Interest (420412)

A natural person with an insurable interest is a person who has a reasonable and lawful expectation of pecuniary benefits from the continued life of the participating member. For further information, see Chapter 44. Insurable interest for active duty or IDT death is limited to someone not otherwise covered by the law as an SBP beneficiary who has a Military Dependent Identification Card as the deceased member’s dependent or would have qualified as the member’s dependent in accordance with 10 U.S.C. § 1072(2).

4.13 Pre- and Post-September 21, 1972 Retiree (420413)

A pre-September 21, 1972 retiree is a member who retired before September 21, 1972; a post-September 21, 1972 retiree is a member who retired on or after September 21, 1972.

4.14 Reduced Base Amount (420414)

The reduced base amount is an amount less than the member’s full gross retired pay or what the full retired pay would have been if the CSB or lump sum retired pay had not been elected but not less than $300 unless the full gross retired pay (or what the full retired pay would have been) is less than $300.

4.15 Reduction Factor (420415)

The reduction factor is a four-digit actuarially determined decimal used to compute the monthly cost for reservists who become entitled to receive retired pay before age 60.

4.16 Reserve Component Survivor Benefit Plan (RCSBP) Annuity (420416)

The RCSBP Annuity is the annuity provided to the survivor(s) of a reservist, who completed the years of service required for eligibility for RC retired pay or was a member of a RC and died in the line of duty during IDT. For additional information about the RCSBP, see Chapter 54.

4.17 Social Security Offset (420417)

Social Security offset means a reduction from the SBP annuity due to the widow’s or widower’s Social Security entitlements. Social Security offset was eliminated effective April 1, 2008.

4.18 Standard Annuity (420418)

The standard annuity is the annuity provided to a survivor(s) by virtue of eligibility of persons entitled to retired pay.
4.19 Supplemental Survivor Benefit Plan (SSBP) (420419)

An SSBP annuity is a type of annuity provided to a spouse or former spouse. SSBP was repealed effective April 1, 2008.

4.20 Surviving Spouse (420420)

A surviving spouse applies to:

4.20.1. The surviving husband or wife of a retired member:

4.20.1.1. Married to the member at the time the member became eligible for retired pay. Members of the RC become eligible for retired pay upon completion of the requisite years of service necessary to become entitled to retired pay at a later age; or

4.20.1.2. If not married to the member at the time the member became eligible for retired pay:

4.20.1.1.1. Was married to the member for at least 1 year before the member's death, or

4.20.1.1.2. Is the parent of issue by that marriage;

4.20.2. The surviving spouse of a member who dies while on active duty or IDT:

4.20.2.1. While in the line of duty,

4.20.2.2. After becoming eligible to receive retired pay,

4.20.2.3. After qualifying for retired pay except that the member has not applied for or been granted that pay, or

4.20.2.4. After completing 20 years of active service but before the member is eligible to retire as a commissioned officer, because the member has not completed the required years of active commissioned service (usually 10 years);

4.20.3. The surviving spouse of a member who is eligible to provide an RCSBP Annuity and dies:

4.20.3.1. Before being notified under 10 U.S.C. § 12731(d) that the member has completed the years of service required for eligibility for RC retired pay, or

4.20.3.2. During the 90-day period beginning on the date the member receives notification under 10 U.S.C. § 12731(d) that they have completed the years of service required for eligibility for RC retired pay if an election to participate in the Plan was not made, provided:
4.20.3.2.1. That the parties were married at the time the member became eligible for retired pay; or

4.20.3.2.2. If not married at the time the member became eligible for retired pay, was married to the member for at least 1 year before the member's death, or is the parent of issue by that marriage.

4.20.4. The surviving spouse of a member of an RC not described in subparagraphs 4.20.2.1, 4.20.2.2, or 4.20.2.3 who dies before being eligible to elect to participate in the Plan from an injury or illness incurred or aggravated in the line of duty during IDT.

4.21 Threshold (420421)

The threshold amount is an alternative to the base amount that may be used to calculate the reduction in retired pay described in basic premiums. The original threshold amount was established on October 1, 1985, in the amount of $300. This amount has been increased by the same percentage as the annual increase in basic military pay for each year subsequent to 1985. The threshold increases at the same time and by the same percentage as the average increase in basic pay. Threshold increases are published in the annual DoD Retirement Cost of Living Adjustments (COLA) Memorandum. For example, using the cost formula of 2.5 percent of the first $XXX.XX, plus 10 percent of the remainder of the base amount (see paragraph 4.1), the portion of the base amount upon which the member is charged 2.5 percent cost is the threshold. See Chapter 45, section 4503, subparagraph 450301.A and subparagraph 450301.B for more information.

CHAPTER 43

SURVIVOR BENEFIT PLAN (SBP) - ELECTIONS AND ELECTION CHANGES

1.0 GENERAL (4301)

1.1 Purpose (430101)

The purpose of this chapter is to provide information for SBP election options, changes to elections, coverage, and termination of coverage.

*1.2 Authoritative Guidance (430102)

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.), including Titles 5 and 10. The Department of Defense Instruction (DoDI) 1332.42 establishes and administers the policy. Due to the subject matter in the chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in a reference section at the end of the chapter.

2.0 ELECTION OPTIONS (4302)

2.1 Base Amount (430201)

A member who participates in SBP must elect a base amount of maximum coverage or reduced coverage. The base amount at any level is adjusted with each cost-of-living increase after retirement. See Chapter 42.

The annuity amount is 55 percent of the base amount elected. See Chapter 46.

2.2 SBP Elections (430202)

In the case of a member electing a standard SBP annuity, the member must make such election before retired pay becomes payable, or if there is no eligible beneficiary at that time, within 1 year of acquiring an eligible beneficiary. All elections are irrevocable once the member is placed on the retired list, unless otherwise provided by law. See paragraph 3.1.

2.3 Reserve Component SBP (RCSBP) Elections (430203)

In the case of a member electing a Reserve Component annuity, the member must designate either an immediate or deferred annuity. In the case where a Reserve Component member has elected an immediate annuity, or dies while being eligible to make such an election, the annuity to the beneficiary will commence the day following the death of the member. In the case of a member electing a deferred annuity, the annuity commences the later of the day following the member’s death, or the date the member would have been age 60. See Chapter 54.
2.4 Special Rules Concerning Elections (430204)

2.4.1. In the case of a member electing SBP or RCSBP coverage for a spouse who was not married to the member at the time the member became eligible for retired pay, the surviving spouse must have been married to the member for at least 1 year immediately before the member’s death or be the parent of issue by that marriage to be an eligible beneficiary.

2.4.2. A member who did not elect child coverage for a dependent child, either at the time of becoming eligible for retired pay (if applicable) or within 1 year of acquiring the first dependent child, may not elect child coverage for subsequently acquired child or children unless otherwise provided by law.

2.4.3. A member who elected insurable interest coverage under Chapter 42 may upon death of such beneficiary, elect to cover a new beneficiary who is a natural person with an insurable interest in the member. Such an election must be made prior to the end of the 180-day period beginning on the date of the death of the previous beneficiary. The member is required to pay, if applicable, an additional amount and interest. The additional amount is equal to the difference in the amount of the reduction in the member’s retired pay for the previous beneficiary and the reduction in retired pay that would have been made had the previous beneficiary not died and been a covered beneficiary through the date of the new election. The interest on the additional amount is computed from the date on which the retired pay would have been reduced and charged at such rate or rates as determined by the Secretary of Defense.

2.4.4. In the case of a member who is already participating in the SBP and elects to change spouse coverage or spouse and child coverage to former spouse coverage or former spouse and child coverage, any such election terminates any previous coverage under the SBP.

2.5 Beneficiaries (430205)

Coverage may be provided for:

2.5.1. Spouse and/or child(ren);

2.5.2. Former spouse and/or child(ren); or

2.5.3. Natural person with an insurable interest (at maximum level of coverage only).
3.0 IRREVOCABLE ELECTIONS AND EXCEPTIONS (4303)

3.1 Irrevocability and Exceptions (430301)

An election is irrevocable, except under the following circumstances:

3.1.1. A member retired March 1, 1986, or later, who elected and received less than maximum SBP coverage without the spouse’s concurrence, will have such coverage changed to full coverage if the Secretary concerned later determines that the spouse’s concurrence in such election was appropriate, but not obtained;

3.1.2. The Secretary concerned may revoke an election when necessary to correct an administrative error. Revocation or correction based on administrative error is a Secretarial prerogative and, except when procured by fraud, is final and conclusive on all officers of the United States;

3.1.3. A mentally incapacitated member who is later determined to be mentally competent may revoke or change the SBP election within 180 days after such determination of judgment.

4.0 ELECTION COVERAGE (4304)

4.1 Spouse and/or Child (430401)

4.1.1. A member may elect coverage at the maximum level or at a reduced amount with spouse’s concurrence, if required, for:

4.1.1.1. An eligible spouse only;

4.1.1.2. An eligible spouse and dependent child(ren); or 4.1.1.3. Dependent child(ren) only.

4.1.2. Every retiring member who is married at retirement is automatically enrolled in SBP for full coverage unless the spouse consents in writing to reduced coverage or no coverage before the first day of eligibility to retired pay. See subparagraph 4.1.4.

4.1.3. A member with an eligible spouse and dependent child on the date of retirement who has obtained the concurrence of their spouse:

4.1.3.1. Declines coverage is prohibited from electing into the SBP, even after obtaining a new spouse, except under section 8.0;

4.1.3.2. Refuses coverage for an eligible spouse, and chooses to elect coverage for child only, is prohibited from electing spouse coverage at a later date, even after obtaining a new spouse, except under section 8.0; or
4.1.3.3. Refuses coverage for the member's dependent child, and elects coverage for spouse only, is barred from electing child coverage at a later date.

4.1.4. A married member who is eligible to provide SBP may not, without the concurrence of their spouse, decline participation in SBP, elect a reduced annuity for the spouse, or elect an annuity for a dependent child, but not for a spouse, unless the member establishes to the satisfaction of the Secretary concerned that:

4.1.4.1. The spouse’s whereabouts cannot be determined; or

4.1.4.2. Due to exceptional circumstances, a requirement that the member seek the spouse’s consent would otherwise be inappropriate.

4.1.5. A member with a dependent child, who was unmarried on the date of retirement, may elect spouse coverage upon subsequent marriage regardless of whether coverage was elected for their dependent child. The election must be received by the Secretary concerned within 1 year of the marriage date.

4.1.6. A member with an eligible spouse who did not have a dependent child on date of retirement later may elect coverage for a dependent child. The election must be received by the Secretary concerned within 1 year of the date of acquiring their first dependent child.

4.1.7. If a member elects to provide an SBP annuity for a former spouse or a former spouse and child and the member has remarried, the member’s spouse must be notified of that election. The member may make this election without spousal concurrence.

4.2 Same-Sex Spouses (430402)

4.2.1. Any claims to SBP spouse coverage for same-sex spouses of eligible SBP participants for periods before June 26, 2013, are not valid as the Defense of Marriage Act was still the law and in effect prior to June 26, 2013. As a result, no SBP premiums for such coverage will be charged prior to June 26, 2013. Further, no SBP annuity payments for such coverage will be paid for deaths occurring before June 26, 2013.

4.2.2. Effective on June 26, 2013, a person who becomes eligible to participate under 10 U.S.C. § 1448(a)(1) and is married to a same-sex partner has the SBP program applied as for any other married couple under 10 U.S.C. § 1448, including the requirements for spousal consent for less than full annuity coverage of the spouse.

4.2.3. A person who was married to a same-sex partner upon becoming eligible to participate in the plan prior to June 26, 2013, and who had married that same-sex partner before June 26, 2013, had 1 year from June 26, 2013, to make a spouse election under 10 U.S.C. § 1448(a)(3). Such person may not participate at less than maximum coverage described in 10 U.S.C. § 1448(a)(3) without the concurrence of the person’s spouse unless they already had provided an annuity for a dependent child. If an election was not received on or before June 25, 2014, full spousal coverage was entered and the member was responsible for payment of premiums effective from June 26, 2013.

4.2.4. A person who was not married upon becoming eligible to participate in the plan, but who married a same-sex partner before June 26, 2013, had 1 year from June 26, 2013, to make a spouse election under 10 U.S.C. § 1448(a)(5). The election must have been received on or before June 25, 2014, or the person was prohibited by law from making such election.

4.2.5. Generally, a person who is a participant in the plan and is providing coverage under SBP for a spouse, who later does not have an eligible spouse beneficiary may, under 10 U.S.C. § 1448(a)(6), elect not to provide coverage for a new spouse in the event of a remarriage.

4.2.5.1. For a person who enters into a same-sex marriage after June 26, 2013, the election to discontinue participation under 10 U.S.C. § 1448(a)(6) must be made within 1 year of the remarriage. If a member does not discontinue participation, pursuant to 10 U.S.C. § 1448(a)(6), spouse coverage will resume effective on the first anniversary of the marriage.

4.2.5.2. If the remarriage took place prior to June 26, 2013, the participant has 1 year from June 26, 2013, to elect out of SBP. If a member does not make such an election within 1 year of June 26, 2013, pursuant to 10 U.S.C. § 1448(a)(6), spouse coverage will resume effective no earlier than June 25, 2014.

4.2.5.3. Any such person falling within the parameters of 10 U.S.C. § 1448(g), had 1 year from June 26, 2013, or the date of any marriage subsequent to June 26, 2013, to elect to increase the level of coverage under 10 U.S.C. § 1448(g).

4.2.6. A person who is married to a same-sex partner on June 26, 2013, and has insurable interest coverage under 10 U.S.C. § 1448(b) may terminate the insurable interest coverage as provided for in that section and, if eligible, elect spouse coverage under 10 U.S.C. § 1448(a)(5) as described in subparagraph 4.4.3.

4.3 Natural Person With Insurable Interest (430403)

An election for a natural person with an insurable interest may be made only when the member is not married and does not have any dependent children upon becoming eligible to participate. The Secretary concerned must receive the election before the first day of eligibility for retired pay. A member must elect full coverage when electing for a natural person with an insurable interest. If the member is retired for reasons of disability under 10 U.S.C., Chapter 61, refer to paragraph 7.3.

4.4 Former Spouse or Former Spouse and Child (430404)

When a member elects former spouse coverage, the member and the former spouse must complete an election statement indicating whether the election is being made pursuant to the requirements of a court order or by a voluntary written agreement. If the member entered into a voluntary written agreement as a part of, or incident to, a proceeding of divorce, dissolution or annulment, the member must indicate on the written statement whether the agreement has been incorporated in, ratified or approved by a court order. If the member has a spouse or child, a former spouse election prevents an annuity to that spouse or child (other than the child beneficiary under an election for a former spouse and child). If there is more than one former spouse, the member must designate which former spouse is to receive the annuity:

4.4.1. Upon Retirement (Retiring Members)

4.4.1.1. If a member becomes eligible to participate and has a former spouse and dependent child, who resulted from that marriage, member may elect former spouse or former spouse and child coverage.

4.4.1.2. If the former spouse is the member’s former spouse at the time the member becomes eligible to participate in SBP, an election for former spouse must take place at or before the member’s retirement.

4.4.1.3. If the former spouse is the member’s former spouse at the time the member becomes eligible to participate in RCSBP (date of Notice of Eligibility (NOE)), an election for former spouse coverage must take place at or before the end of the 90-day period following receipt of the NOE.

4.4.1.4. If a member has a former spouse upon becoming eligible to participate, but is not required by a court order or court-approved agreement to provide former spouse coverage, any subsequent court order that requires former spouse coverage will not be honored.

4.4.2. Following Retirement (Retired Members)

4.4.2.1. A member with spouse or spouse and child coverage may, within 1 year of date of the decree of divorce, dissolution, or annulment, whichever is later, change that election to provide an annuity to a former spouse or to a former spouse and child.

4.4.2.2. A member may elect coverage for a former spouse who the member acquired after becoming eligible for retired pay. The member and former spouse must have been married at least 1 year or the former spouse must be the parent of a child or children born of that marriage in order for the former spouse to be an eligible beneficiary. For provisions regarding the effective date of former spouse coverage, see subparagraph 4.4.4.

4.4.3. Deemed Elections. Deemed elections are applicable in cases where a member enters, incident to a proceeding of divorce, dissolution, or annulment, into a written agreement to elect to provide an SBP annuity to a former spouse, and such agreement has been incorporated in, ratified or approved by a court order, or has been filed with the court of appropriate jurisdiction in accordance with applicable State law. Deemed elections are also applicable in cases where the member is required by a court order to make a former spouse election. If such member fails or refuses to make such election, the member is deemed to have made such election if the Secretary concerned receives a completed Department of Defense (DD) Form 2656-10, SBP Former Spouse Request for Deemed Election, from a former spouse or the former spouse’s attorney on behalf of the former spouse. A copy of the pertinent court order or agreement referring to the SBP coverage must accompany the DD 2656-10. See subparagraph 4.4.3.1. Effective September 27, 2008, use of the DD 2656-10 to make a deemed election is mandatory.

4.4.3.1. The former spouse will provide a copy of the court order, regular on its face, which requires such election, or incorporates, ratifies, or approves the written agreement of the member; a statement from the clerk of the court (or other appropriate official) that such agreement has been filed with the court in accordance with applicable state law; or for a deemed SBP election only, a copy of the court order which requires the SBP election. A court order which requires the member to elect SBP for a former spouse or former spouse and child or an agreement to provide former spouse or former spouse child coverage must be issued on or after November 14, 1986. If the member was ordered by a court to elect former spouse coverage before November 14, 1986, a second court order, issued on or after November 14, 1986, enforcing the original order which requires a former spouse election, constitutes a modification of the previous order and establishes a new 1-year period during which a request for a deemed election may be filed.

4.4.3.2. The Secretary concerned must receive the request from the former spouse within 1 year of the date of the court order or filing involved. If an election of former spouse coverage was agreed to or ordered by an earlier court order, a subsequent order or modification that merely restates the previous provision and imposes no new obligation on the member does not begin a new 1-year period. A subsequent court order holding a member in contempt of court for failing to fulfill the prior agreement is not the type of court order that can be used to begin a new 1-year period to deem an election.

4.4.3.3. No election may be deemed to have been made which could never have been made by the member concerned.

4.4.3.4. If a member dies before making an election, a former spouse’s request, which is otherwise qualified, must be honored even if the date of the request is after the date of the member’s death. However, if the request for a court order was initiated with the court after the member’s death, the order will not be honored.

4.4.3.5. If a member has more than one former spouse, the first request for a deemed election received with complete documentation must be the one honored.

4.4.4.1. Married on the Date of Death of Former Spouse. The following applies when a person who is married at the time of the death of the former spouse beneficiary and elects to provide coverage to their spouse:
4.4.4.1.1. The election must be received by the Secretary concerned within one year after the date of the death of the former spouse beneficiary;

4.4.4.1.2. The effective date of election will be the first day of the first calendar month following the death of the former spouse beneficiary;

4.4.4.1.3. The level of coverage on the annuity base amount cannot be changed; and

4.4.4.1.4. An election under this paragraph is irrevocable.

4.4.4.2. Marriage After Death of Former Spouse Beneficiary. The following applies when a person who married after the death of the former spouse beneficiary elects to provide coverage to their spouse:

4.4.4.2.1. The election must be received by the Secretary concerned within 1 year after the date on which that person marries;

4.4.4.2.2. The effective date of the election will be the first day of the first calendar month following the month in which the election is received by the Secretary concerned;

4.4.4.2.3. The level of coverage on the annuity base amount cannot be changed; and

4.4.4.2.4. An election under this paragraph is irrevocable.

4.5 Federal Civil Service Retiree (430405)

4.5.1. A member with SBP coverage who: (1) retires under the civil service retirement program; (2) waives military retired pay to combine civilian and military service credits; and (3) elects survivor coverage, at any level, under the civil service retirement, has SBP coverage suspended while the waiver is in effect. If the waiver is terminated for any reason, SBP coverage resumes concurrent with the resumption of retired pay. The type of coverage and level of participation, as adjusted by any changes in retired pay during the period of waiver, is as first elected. If the retired service member dies while the waiver of military retired pay is in effect, no SBP annuity becomes due and payable to either the surviving spouse and/or child.

4.5.2. An election in SBP with concurrent cancellation of previous Retired Servicemen Family Protection Plan (RSFPP) coverage is without force or effect if retired pay previously was waived for civilian retirement and survivor coverage from the civilian annuity was elected.

4.5.3. A member who elects SBP coverage, and who does not waive military retired pay for civil service retirement, may have survivor coverage under both retirement plans.

4.5.4. Provisions in subparagraph 4.5.1 do not apply to a member who retired under 10 U.S.C. § 12731 or who retired due to a combat-incurred disability as determined by the service.
4.5.5. The survivor of a federal civil service employee who was awarded military retired pay based on any period of military service and whose death occurs before separation from civil service, will receive a survivor annuity computed using military service. The survivor annuity from civil service will be reduced by any military survivor benefits payable. The survivor may elect not to be covered by this provision, which automatically uses military service credit in computing the federal survivor annuity.

4.5.6. Except for participation in federal service survivor annuity programs, SBP coverage does not terminate when a member participates in other survivor benefit plans administered by the United States Government such as under the Foreign Service or Federal Judges Retirement systems.

*5.0 ELECTION DATA (4305)

5.1 Elections by the Member (430501)

The DD Form 2656, Data for Payment of Retired Personnel, DD Form 2656-1, Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP) Election Statement for Former Spouse Coverage, DD Form 2656-2, Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP) Termination Request, DD Form 2656-6, Survivor Benefit Plan Election Change Certificate, when available, are recommended for use by the member. Elections in writing signed by the member, other than a request for termination, which contain all information necessary for establishing or declining coverage, are acceptable. Spousal concurrence of certain elections has been required since March 1, 1986.

5.1.1. Former Spouse Elections (Retiring Members). A member who is retiring and is electing former spouse coverage should complete the former spouse election on a DD 2656. In addition to the former spouse election, the member must also provide a separate written statement on a DD 2656-1 (when applicable), that is signed by the member and the former spouse certifying whether the former spouse election is pursuant to court order or a voluntary written agreement. Information concerning content of the separate written statement and the proper court order appears in paragraph 4.4.

5.1.2. Change in Election Coverage Spouse to Former Spouse (Retired Members). Members who are already retired should complete changes from spouse coverage to former spouse coverage on a DD 2656-1.

5.2 Deemed Elections Requested By the Former Spouse (430502)

A former spouse or former spouse’s legal representative requesting the Secretary concerned to deem on his/her behalf must request the deemed election by completing the DD 2656-10 and must be accompanied by a court order or a statement from the clerk of the court. Both the DD 2656-10 and court order must be provided. Information concerning content of the request by the former spouse or the former spouse’s attorney and the statement from the clerk of the court, where necessary, appears in subparagraph 4.4.3.
5.3 Election Data Requirements (430503)

The election data requirements are:

5.3.1. Identification. Enter the member’s name, social security number, birth date, and date of retirement.

5.3.2. Base Amount. The election form must specify full coverage, in lieu of a dollar amount, when maximum coverage is selected. When a reduced base amount is chosen, the dollar amount must be specified on the election form. The reduced base amount must not be less than $300. When retired pay is less than $300, the election form must indicate full coverage.

5.3.3. Beneficiary. Provide the name, birth date, and social security number for each beneficiary named.

5.3.3.1. If coverage includes a spouse, or former spouse, the member must provide the date of marriage and divorce, as applicable.

5.3.3.2. When the beneficiary is a natural person with an insurable interest, the address and relationship must be shown. For the natural person with an insurable interest, the member must provide a signed statement to show proof of financial benefit if the person designated is a first cousin or anyone more distantly related than a first cousin if such statement is requested.

5.3.3.3. If the beneficiary designation is for a former spouse, then, in addition to the former spouse election, the member must submit in writing whether the election is being made pursuant to a written agreement previously entered into voluntarily by the member as a part of or incident to a proceeding of divorce, dissolution, or annulment and (if so), whether that voluntary written agreement has been incorporated in, ratified or approved by, a court order. This information should be provided on a DD 2556-1.

5.3.4. Signature. The member must sign and date the election. If the document is signed with an “X”, two impartial persons must witness the signature. NOTE: An election made on behalf of the member through a power of attorney is not valid. Such an election is not binding and is without force or effect of law.

5.3.5. Spousal Concurrence. Written spousal concurrence is required when the member elects to decline coverage or provide the spouse with less than the maximum SBP coverage available, include electing child-only coverage, and when a member eligible for RCSBP declines coverage or elects coverage that provides less than a maximum immediate spouse annuity. The signature of the spouse must be notarized. The requirement to have the spouse’s signature notarized is not to suggest that the spouse has received additional counseling regarding the option being selected. It simply provides certification that the spouse signed the form and acknowledges the election made on the form.
5.3.5.1. If all requirements for an election needing the spouse’s concurrence have not been satisfied prior to retirement, full spouse costs and coverage will be implemented, regardless of any request by the member to do otherwise. In such cases, when the member has requested any form of child coverage, full spouse and child coverage will be implemented. Any change in SBP election subsequent to retirement will be done through an administrative correction of records as permitted by law. The requirements for spousal concurrence do not affect any obligation or right of the member to provide coverage for a former spouse. If former spouse coverage is elected or deemed, the spouse’s concurrence is not required; however, the spouse will be notified of that election.

5.3.5.2. The Secretary concerned may waive the requirement for spousal consent when the spouse’s whereabouts cannot be determined or, when due to exceptional circumstances, requiring the member to seek the spouse’s consent would otherwise be inappropriate. Exceptional circumstances, such as mental or physical incapacitation of the spouse, require appropriate documentation such as a physician’s statement attesting to the spouse’s incapacity. Exceptional circumstances will be evaluated on a case-by-case basis.

5.3.5.3. The Secretary concerned notifies the member’s current spouse when a member who is eligible to provide an annuity to that spouse elects former spouse or former spouse and dependent child coverage.

5.3.5.4. The Secretary concerned notifies the affected beneficiary when a member elects to discontinue coverage for a former spouse or insurable interest beneficiary.

6.0 CHANGES IN ELECTION AND COVERAGE (4306)

*6.1 Later-Acquired Spouse and/or Child (430601)

A member who acquires a new spouse and/or child after retirement must make an election within 1 year of the event with the exception that there is no time restriction on the election period for a change under subparagraph 6.1.2.5.

6.1.1. A member who is participating with spouse or spouse and child coverage and who does not have an eligible spouse beneficiary may, upon remarriage: resume coverage, increase the level of coverage up to and including full retired pay, or elect not to have spouse coverage resumed. Unless a member elects not to cover the new spouse within 1 year after the marriage, spouse coverage automatically resumes at the first anniversary of the marriage.

6.1.1.1. The member may not add child coverage by virtue of remarriage alone if child coverage was previously bypassed; and

6.1.1.2. The level of SBP coverage may not be reduced nor may child coverage be eliminated.
6.1.1.3. SBP elections become effective when the new spouse becomes an eligible beneficiary, and any increase in premium, plus interest, has been paid. When the level of SBP coverage is increased, the member must pay the difference between the present premium and the premium that would have been incurred had the higher level of coverage been elected originally, plus interest. Interest is compounded monthly using a factor equal to the 12th root of one plus the current annual interest rate approved by the DoD Board of Actuaries to calculate the retirement accrual costs. Interest is to be compounded monthly on the accumulated difference existing prior to any computation month. If payment of cost plus interest is not completed before the spouse becomes an eligible beneficiary, the election becomes null and void and a refund of cost and interest and reinstatement of original election coverage occurs. Cost plus interest will be paid to member’s estate should the member die before refund is completed.

6.1.1.4. If a member has spouse or spouse and child coverage and elects not to resume SBP participation for the spouse, the spouse must be notified. An election to terminate spouse coverage is irrevocable. If the member elects to increase the level of spouse coverage to an amount less than full retired pay, the spouse must be notified.

6.1.1.5. Any newly acquired dependent child is automatically covered if child or spouse and child coverage was previously elected.

6.1.2. If, on date of retirement the member:

6.1.2.1. Has no eligible beneficiaries and does not elect to participate; the member may, within 1 year of the acquisition of a spouse or child, elect for that spouse and/or child;

6.1.2.2. Has no eligible spouse and elected for child only; the member may, within 1 year after marriage or remarriage, include the spouse with coverage previously elected for the child;

6.1.1.3. Has no eligible child and elected for spouse only; the member may, within 1 year of acquisition of a child, include the child with coverage previously elected for the spouse;

6.1.1.4. Has no eligible spouse and declines coverage for an eligible child; the member may, within 1 year of the acquisition of a spouse, elect for that spouse; or

6.1.1.5. Has elected coverage for a former spouse or former spouse and child, or has elected coverage for a natural person with an insurable interest; the member may later change the election to spouse and/or child, if not otherwise prohibited. See paragraph 6.2. The member is not required to change the election to spouse and/or child; however, if such a change is made, it permanently terminates the eligibility of the former spouse or the natural person with insurable interest. It is not necessary that maximum level coverage be elected for the spouse and/or child. See subparagraph 6.2.2 and paragraph 6.3, for additional information concerning changes in former spouse coverage.
6.2 Change From Spouse or Spouse and Child (430602)

A member who elected spouse or spouse and child coverage may terminate that election for that spouse or spouse and child and provide an SBP annuity for a former spouse or former spouse and child, provided the child resulted from the member’s marriage to that former spouse. If the member is married when the former spouse election is made, that spouse must be notified. See subparagraph 4.1.7. A former spouse may request that an election be deemed by the Secretary concerned (or designee).

6.2.1 Notification

The Secretary concerned must notify the former spouse of any changes in the former spouse election.

6.2.2 Changes to a Former Spouse Election

6.2.2.1 If a member was required to elect former spouse coverage by a court order, incident to a proceeding of divorce, dissolution, or annulment, the member may change to spouse or child coverage if the member furnishes, to the Secretary concerned (or designee) a certified copy of a court order that permits such a change. The court order, regular on its face, must modify the provisions of all previous court orders relating to the former spouse election so that the member is permitted to change the election. The member must certify to the Secretary concerned that the court order is valid and in effect. These same restrictions apply to the member who elected former spouse coverage pursuant to a written agreement that was incorporated in, or ratified or approved by, a court order.

6.2.2.2 In the case of a written agreement that has not been incorporated, ratified or approved by a court order, the member must furnish, a statement signed by the member and the former spouse that evidences the former spouse’s agreement to an election change. The statement must be furnished to the Secretary concerned in a format prescribed by that Secretary. The member must certify that the statement is current and in effect.

6.3 Change to Former Spouse Coverage Under Insurable Interest (430603)

A member was allowed to change an election for former spouse coverage under the insurable interest category to former spouse coverage under the spouse category during the period November 8, 1985 through November 7, 1986. A member also could add child coverage to former spouse coverage provided the child was the result of the member’s marriage to that former spouse and if the member was providing coverage for the former spouse under the spouse category. These election changes apply to elections effective before March 1, 1986.
6.4 Changed Retirement Eligibility (430604)

If a member elects the RCSBP coverage and subsequently becomes eligible for retirement under another law, thereby losing eligibility under 10 U.S.C. § 12731, the RCSBP election remains effective until the member actually retires. A member may make a new election as any other retiring member.

6.5 Mental Incompetency (430605)

The Secretary of the Military Department concerned may make an SBP or RCSBP election on behalf of a member who is declared incompetent by medical officers of the armed force concerned, by the VA, or by a court of competent jurisdiction. In the event the member is later declared competent by one of these authorities, the member may elect to revoke that election within the 180-day period following a determination of competency. There are no refunds of premiums paid for coverage during a period of declared incompetence.

6.6 Correction of Administrative Error (430606)

The Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee) may correct any election or any change or revocation of an election when the Secretary considers it necessary to correct an administrative error. See Chapter 42.

7.0 DISCONTINUANCE OF PARTICIPATION (4307)

7.1 Discontinuance of SBP Participation on Second Anniversary (430701)

7.1.1 An SBP participant may choose to voluntarily discontinue SBP participation during a 1-year period which begins on the second anniversary of the date of commencement of retired pay. The date of commencement of retired pay is defined as the date that the retiree becomes entitled to retired pay. A recall to active duty following retirement will not alter this date.

7.1.2 An SBP participant who is eligible to discontinue participation must send a written request to the Defense Finance and Accounting Services (DFAS) on a DD 2656-2. A request for information or a request for termination that is not on a DD 2656-2 is not considered a valid request to discontinue.

7.1.2.1 A married participant may not discontinue spouse coverage without the spouse’s written concurrence, unless it is established that the spouse’s whereabouts cannot be determined, or that, due to exceptional circumstances, obtaining the spouse’s consent would be inappropriate. In exceptional circumstances, such as mental or physical incapacitation of the spouse, DFAS requires the appropriate documentation such as a physician’s statement, which attests to the spouse’s mental or physical incapacitation. Additionally, the incapacity must exist continuously since the date of the member’s request.
7.1.2.2. If the SBP participant is providing former spouse coverage based on a court order, an amended court order should accompany the request, even if the former spouse concurs with the request.

7.1.3. If termination is not otherwise prohibited by \(10\ U.S.C. \, \text{§} \, 1448\), a spouse or former spouse who concurs in the request for termination is considered notified in accordance with the law. A spouse or former spouse who changes his/her mind after concurrence has 30 days from the date of the first request to submit a letter withdrawing their concurrence. If concurrence is withdrawn within 30 days, the request to withdraw from SBP participation is void. The concurrence of the former spouse is applicable even though the coverage may be currently in a suspended status due to the former spouse’s remarriage. Child concurrence is not required when a member elects to discontinue SBP participation for child coverage.

7.1.4. DFAS must ensure that a natural person or former spouse who is not required to concur in the request for termination is notified of the termination of SBP coverage by sending a letter to such beneficiary at the address in the retired member’s file.

7.1.5. A member’s participation terminates on the first day of the month following the month in which DFAS receives a request for discontinuance. Any premiums deducted for periods on or after the effective date must be refunded and the member notified of the final action concerning termination of coverage.

7.1.6. A member may withdraw the request to discontinue participation within 30 days of having submitted such request to DFAS. The 30-day period begins on the date that DFAS considers the withdrawal request received. Generally, this is the received date stamped on the DD 2656-2 by DFAS.

7.1.6.1. To withdraw the request to discontinue SBP participation, the member must notify DFAS by a legible, signed, written notice. The request must identify the member by name and social security number and state that the member no longer wants to discontinue SBP participation. When available, the request should include a photocopy of the original DD 2656-2.

7.1.6.2. If the member withdraws a request to discontinue participation within the prescribed 30-day period, the member’s participation will not be discontinued. If the withdrawal notice is received after the prescribed date, it will have no effect and the member must be so notified within 30 days. If the member provides proof of the date of mailing and such date is favorable to honoring the member’s withdrawal request, the date of mailing serves as the date submitted.

7.1.6.3. If the member effectively withdraws a request to discontinue participation, that member must be so notified within 30 days. If participation had already been discontinued, it must be reinstated as though no break in coverage existed. Premiums not collected or paid, or that were refunded will be collected from the member’s retired pay and the member notified of the final action concerning participation.
7.1.7. Once participation is discontinued under this provision, no benefits may be paid in conjunction with the member’s previous participation. No refund of any premiums properly collected will be made.

7.1.8. A member who discontinues SBP participation pursuant to this paragraph may not later resume coverage or elect SBP coverage upon acquisition of another class of beneficiary.

7.2 Voluntary Termination of Coverage (430702)

7.2.1. A member who is participating in SBP with coverage for a natural person with an insurable interest (not a former spouse) may voluntarily terminate their participation in SBP.

7.2.2. A member considering termination of insurable interest coverage under RCSBP should contact the responsible agent at DFAS or the Military Service Reserve Component Personnel Center (or an appropriately determined office for non-DoD Uniformed Services).

7.2.3. A member who is eligible and wants to terminate coverage may send a written request to the responsible agent identified in subparagraph 7.2.2. The request, signed by the member, must identify the member and state that the member wants to terminate SBP participation. A request for information is not a request to terminate SBP participation.

7.2.4. When the responsible agent receives a request from an SBP participant eligible to terminate coverage, the agent will determine whether the request is for information or actually is a request to terminate participation. In either case, the member will be mailed two fact sheets that explain the procedures for terminating participation, the advantages and disadvantages of participation, and, the disadvantages of terminating participation. If the request is determined to be a request for termination, the member will be advised in the cover letter that a request for termination can be withdrawn within 30 days of the date of that letter.

7.2.5. No premiums are refunded as a result of terminating coverage. No premiums will be charged after the effective date of termination unless the member had RCSBP coverage. See Chapter 54, for recomputation of the original “add-on” portion of the RCSBP premium when member terminates coverage before age 60.

7.2.6. A member who wishes to withdraw the request to terminate participation must notify the Secretary concerned (or designee) using a legible, signed written notice to the member’s responsible agent in subparagraph 7.2.2. The notice must identify the member’s name and social security number and state that the member no longer wants to discontinue SBP participation. Such requests are handled in accordance with the provisions of subparagraphs 7.1.6.2 and 7.1.6.3.

7.2.7. The member may only resume SBP participation by electing coverage for a spouse or dependent child within 1 year of acquiring the family member.
7.3 Invalidation of Certain SBP Elections Made by Disability (430703)

7.3.1. The SBP elections for a natural person with an insurable interest, other than for a person who is a qualified dependent, is void for members who retired for reasons of disability under 10 U.S.C., Chapter 61, if they die within 1 year after the disability retirement date with the cause of death being related to the disability for which the member retired.

7.3.2. For voided election, SBP deducted from the member's retired pay is refunded to the person to whom the SBP annuity would have been paid pursuant to such election.

7.4 Withdrawal by a Totally Disabled Member (430704)

7.4.1. Any person who elects to participate in SBP with a service-connected disability rated by the VA as totally disabling and is so rated for 10 or more continuous years (or, if so rated for a lesser period, at least 5 years from the date of last discharge or release from active duty) may request to discontinue participation in the Plan by submitting a request to the Secretary concerned (or designee). The initial date for determining the 5- or 10-year period is the effective date of the VA rating of total disability. Validation must be obtained from the VA if not available from the individual.

7.4.1.1. The request for discontinuance must be with the written consent of the beneficiary or beneficiaries under the Plan. Should that beneficiary be a dependent child, written consent may be accepted from a parent, stepparent, foster parent, guardian, or an individual appointed by a court of competent jurisdiction.

7.4.1.2. The Secretary concerned must furnish to each person requesting discontinuance a written statement of the advantages of participating and the possible disadvantages of discontinuing participation in the plan.

7.4.1.3. A person may withdraw the discontinuance request within 30 days of submission to the Secretary concerned.

7.4.1.4. Participation in the Plan and cost of SBP coverage is discontinued on the first day of the month after receipt of the request by the Secretary concerned.

7.4.1.5. If a member dies after the date that the request for withdrawal has been received by the Secretary concerned, but before the effective date of that request, the beneficiary is entitled to the annuity.

7.4.2. Upon the death of a person who has discontinued participation in the Plan who is a totally disabled member, a refund of SBP amounts deducted from retired or retainer pay without interest will be made to the widow or widower.
7.4.3. Any person who has discontinued participation in the Plan may again elect to participate if the VA reduces the disability rating to less than total and the person applies within 1 year to participate in the Plan and includes the required information determined by the Secretary concerned.

7.4.3.1. Participation in the Plan and reduction in pay is effective the first day of the month after receipt of the application to the Secretary concerned on the DD 2656. Documentation attesting to the less than total disability rating must accompany the application.

7.4.3.2. If the member applies for resumption of participation, but dies before the effective date, the beneficiary is entitled to an annuity on the date the election would have been effective.

7.4.3.3. Resumption of participation is limited to the type and level of coverage initially elected allowing for beneficiary changes as otherwise provided for in Chapters 42 through 54.

8.0 OPEN ENROLLMENT PERIODS (4308)

8.1 Regular Recurring Open Enrollment (430801)

There are no regular recurring open enrollment periods. Open enrollment must be specifically prescribed by law. The last SBP open enrollment, which was authorized by PL 108-1375, began October 1, 2000, and ended September 30, 2006, under 10 U.S.C § 1448. In the absence of such a legislatively prescribed period, members may only enroll or disenroll as specified in this chapter.

8.2 Former Spouse SBP Coverage Open Enrollment (430802)

The NDAA FY 2016 amended the SBP statute to allow a member who had made an election to provide SBP or RCSBP coverage for a former spouse the ability to cover a subsequent spouse if the former spouse dies. The enactment of this legislation included provisions for an open enrollment period (November 25, 2015 through November 24, 2016) to accommodate members whose covered former spouse beneficiaries were already deceased when the legislation was enacted. This former spouse SBP coverage open enrollment did not apply if the member was not currently married or if the former spouse SBP coverage was discontinued for any reason other than the death as of November 25, 2015. See subparagraphs 4.4.4 and 4.4.5.

1.1 Purpose

The eligible beneficiaries under the SBP (also referred to as the Plan) are the spouse and/or dependent children, a former spouse and/or dependent children, or a natural person with an insurable interest, providing they meet certain eligibility requirements. The election, if required, must be received within the time period allowed. An individual may not receive more than one annuity as the surviving spouse or former spouse of different members (see Chapter 46); however, an individual may be the recipient of two or more annuities concurrently, as long as only one is a spouse or former spouse annuity. For example, the child of two members could receive an annuity from each parent, or an individual who was a spouse beneficiary of one member could also be a beneficiary of another member under the insurable interest category.

1.2 Authoritative Guidance

The pay policies and requirements established by Department of Defense in this chapter are derived primarily from and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.), including Titles 10 and 38. Due to the subject matter in this chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in a reference section at the end of the chapter.

2.0 ELIGIBLE BENEFICIARIES

2.1 Spouse (Including the Spouse of a Common-Law Marriage)

2.1.1. If the spouse is married to a retiree on date of retirement, the spouse is an eligible beneficiary. The spouse is automatically designated as the beneficiary even if the beneficiary data is not received before date of retirement. However, the spouse is not automatically the beneficiary if prior to retirement the member elects, with the spouse's written concurrence, to not participate in SBP or to provide child, but not spouse coverage.

2.1.2. If the member elected spouse coverage at retirement and the member’s previous spouse has become ineligible for SBP due to death or divorce, the spouse who marries the member after the date of retirement is the eligible beneficiary. Spouse coverage is resumed upon the first anniversary of remarriage or birth of a child of that remarriage, whichever is earlier, unless the member elects not to resume spouse coverage within 1 year of the remarriage.
2.1.3. If the spouse marries the member after the date of retirement, and the member did not have a spouse at retirement and did not elect insurable interest coverage, the spouse is an eligible beneficiary only if the member elects to provide spouse SBP coverage within 1 year of the marriage. The spouse coverage is effective on the first anniversary of the marriage or birth of a child of that marriage, whichever is earlier.

2.1.4. If the spouse is married to a retiree at the time of retirement and the member elected spouse coverage, then divorced (and no former spouse coverage is established), and later remarried the same spouse, the spouse becomes eligible immediately upon remarriage provided spouse coverage was resumed. However, the member may elect to decline the resumption of spouse coverage within one year of remarriage.

2.1.5. If the spouse marries a retiree after date of retirement (and spouse coverage is elected), then divorces (and no former spouse coverage is established), and later remarries the member, the spouse becomes eligible upon the first anniversary of remarriage or date of the birth of a child of that remarriage. However, the member may elect to decline the resumption of spouse coverage within one year of remarriage.

2.1.6. A spouse who is married to a member who dies in the line of duty while on active or inactive duty, or to a retirement eligible member regardless of the line of duty determination, is an eligible SBP beneficiary. See Chapters 46 and 54.

2.1.7. A member may change election coverage from a natural person with insurable interest to coverage for a spouse within 1 year of marriage. The spouse becomes an eligible beneficiary upon the first anniversary of the marriage or the date of birth of a child of that marriage, whichever is earlier, provided the member changes to spouse coverage. Until the spouse and/or child are eligible, the previously elected class of beneficiary remains eligible.

2.1.8. A member may change election coverage from former spouse to coverage for a spouse in accordance with Chapter 43, paragraph 6.2 at any time following remarriage, provided the former spouse is still living at the time the Secretary concerned receives the member’s election. The spouse becomes an eligible beneficiary on the date of the election receipt and the associated premium is effective on the first day of the month following receipt of election.

2.2 Children (Including Children of a Common-Law Marriage)

2.2.1. Child Is An Eligible Beneficiary. The child is an eligible beneficiary only if the child is:

2.2.1.1. Unmarried and:

2.2.1.1.1. Under age 18 (including a child serving on active duty in the Uniformed Services);

2.2.1.1.2. At least 18 but under 22 and pursuing a full-time course of study in a recognized educational institution; or
2.2.1.3. Incapable of self-support because of physical or mental incapacity, which existed before the child’s 18th birthday or was incurred before age 22 while pursuing a full-time course of study; and

2.2.1.2. A child of the member, which includes:

2.2.1.2.1. A child determined by paternity test or a court of competent jurisdiction to be a child of the member (documentation will be required to substantiate a claim);

2.2.1.2.2. An adopted child; or

2.2.1.2.3. A stepchild, foster child, or recognized natural child, if that stepchild, foster child, or recognized natural child lived with the retiree in a regular parent-child relationship.

2.2.2. Special Eligibility Rules for Child Seeking Full-Time Course of Study.

2.2.2.1. A child whose 22nd birthday occurs before July 1st or after August 31st of a calendar year, and while regularly pursuing such a course of study or training, is considered to have become 22 years of age on the first day of July after that birthday.

2.2.2.2. The eligibility of a child over the age of 18 terminates if the child does not maintain a certified program of full-time course of study or training in a high school, trade school, technical or vocational institute, junior college, college, university or comparable recognized educational institution. If the child resumes schooling as described, eligibility is reinstated (see Chapter 46).

2.2.3. Special Eligibility Rules for Foster Child. A foster child must have resided with the retiree at time of death, received over one-half of his or her support from the retiree, and not be cared for under a social agency contract.

2.2.4. Relatives or Grandchildren. A relative of the member (such as a grandchild) may qualify as an eligible child beneficiary if a foster parent/foster child relationship exists. Adoption of a grandchild is not required for the member to designate that child as an eligible child beneficiary.

2.2.5. Child of Former Spouse. A child of the member and the former spouse is an eligible child beneficiary, if the member elects former spouse and child coverage. If a member who elected spouse and child coverage later divorces, the child coverage continues after the divorce. However, if the coverage is changed to provide coverage for the former spouse only, the child coverage will not continue. The election of former spouse coverage will terminate the child coverage unless the new coverage elected includes both former spouse and child coverage.
2.2.6. Active or Inactive Duty. A child of a member who died on active or inactive duty is an eligible beneficiary provided:

2.2.6.1. There is no eligible former spouse established by a court order;

2.2.6.2. There is no eligible surviving spouse; or

2.2.6.3. The Service Secretary has determined the annuity is payable to the child(ren) in lieu of the surviving spouse. See Chapters 46 and 54.

2.2.7. Termination by Marriage. Child eligibility terminates by marriage of the child, regardless of whether the child is an incapacitated child entering into a valid marriage with another incapacitated individual. The termination of a child’s marriage by death or divorce does not serve as a basis for reinstating child coverage, regardless of age or school attendance. An annulment of the child’s marriage which renders the marriage void or invalid, or a judicial decree by a court of competent jurisdiction declaring the marriage void, may serve as a basis for reinstating child coverage.

2.2.8. Child Entering Active Duty. The child of a deceased member who is under 18 years of age and serving on active duty in a uniformed service is an eligible beneficiary until their 18th birthday even though they are provided pay, quarters, and subsistence by the Government.

2.2.9. Child Serving as a Cadet or Midshipman at Service Academy or Scholarship Student. The child of a deceased member who is under age 22 and serving as a cadet or midshipman at a service academy, or are enrolled in an institute of higher learning under a military scholarship program, is an eligible beneficiary even though they provided pay, quarters, and subsistence by the Government.

2.3 Spouse and Children

Eligibility requirements are as shown in paragraphs 2.1 and 2.2.

2.3.1. General. The spouse is the primary beneficiary with coverage passing to the children if the spouse remarries before age 55, dies, or otherwise becomes ineligible. If the spouse again becomes eligible due to a remarriage ending in death or divorce, the annuity to the spouse resumes.

2.3.2. Death on Active or Inactive Duty. If the annuity is payable because the member dies on active or inactive duty, and there is no eligible spouse or former spouse, the annuity will be paid to any dependent children. In the case of a surviving spouse and children, the Service Secretary may pay the annuity to the member's dependent children in lieu of an annuity to the spouse. See Chapters 46 and 56 and subparagraph 2.2.6.

2.4 Former Spouse

A former spouse is an eligible beneficiary if:
2.4.1. The former spouse was the member’s former spouse when the member became eligible to participate in the Plan and the member elected the former spouse as beneficiary or the former spouse submits a valid deemed election (see Chapter 43); or

2.4.2. The former spouse was not the member’s former spouse at the time the member became eligible to participate in the Plan, and the prior spouse election is changed to provide coverage for the former spouse or the former spouse submits a valid deemed election pursuant to Chapter 43. A former spouse acquired after the member became eligible to participate in the Plan may only be an eligible beneficiary if married to the member for at least 1 year or the parent of an issue of the marriage.

2.4.3. See Chapter 46, paragraph 3.1 if the annuity is payable because the member dies on active or inactive duty.

2.5 Former Spouse and Child

If coverage includes child, then the former spouse is the primary beneficiary with coverage passing to the children if the former spouse remarries before age 55, dies, or otherwise becomes ineligible. The child is an eligible beneficiary provided the conditions in subparagraph 2.2.1 are met and the child resulted from the member and former spouse’s marriage.

2.6 Natural Person with Insurable Interest

An eligible natural person with insurable interest is:

2.6.1. A person who has a reasonable and lawful expectation of pecuniary benefit from the continued life of the member. This category may include parents, stepparents, grandparents, grandchildren, aunts, uncles, sisters, brothers, half-sisters, half-brothers, dependent or non-dependent child or stepchild, or any other person more closely related than cousin;

2.6.2. Any individual having a reasonable and lawful basis, founded upon the relationship of parties to each other, either pecuniary or of blood or affinity, to expect some benefit or advantage from the continuance of the life of the retiree. Proof of financial benefit from the continuance of the life of the member is required for persons other than those listed in subparagraph 2.6.1; or

2.6.3. In the case of a member who dies on active or inactive duty and no other beneficiary is eligible to receive an annuity, a person who is, as determined by the Secretary concerned, a dependent of that member as defined in 10 U.S.C. section 1072(2).
2.7 Special Needs Trust (SNT)

Service members and retirees who elect child coverage may direct payment of a SBP annuity for a dependent child to a SNT. If a SNT was not designated as a beneficiary prior to the death of the Service member or retiree who had previously elected child coverage, the disabled dependent child’s surviving parent, grandparent, or court-appointed legal guardian or fiduciary may irrevocably elect to designate a SNT as beneficiary. A SNT is also known as a supplemental needs trust. A SNT is a legal instrument that can be established by certain individuals in order to ensure that assets are retained that can be used for the supplemental needs of a certain disabled individual, without disqualifying that individual from other Federal or State benefits which that person may be entitled to receive. To be an eligible beneficiary, the SNT must be for the benefit of a person considered disabled under 42 U.S.C. § 1382c(a)(3) and in accordance with the SBP statute. The SNT must also comply with 42 U.S.C. § 1396p(d)(4). See Chapter 46 for further information regarding qualifying a SNT as a beneficiary.

2.8 Exception

If the beneficiary is responsible for the death of the retiree, the annuity may not be paid to that person unless evidence is received which clearly absolves the beneficiary of any felonious intent.

CHAPTER 45

SURVIVOR BENEFIT PLAN (SBP) PREMIUMS

1.0 GENERAL (4501)

1.1 Purpose (450101)

The purpose of this chapter is to provide information on premiums for SBP coverage based on the type of coverage, as well as the computation and payment of these premiums.

1.2 Authoritative Guidance (450102)

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.), including Title 10. Due to the subject matter in this chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in the reference section at the end of the chapter.

2.0 PREMIUM (4502)

2.1 Premium Coverage (450201)

The premium for SBP coverage is based on the type of coverage natural person with an insurable interest, (also referred to as natural interest person (NIP)), spouse and/or child, former spouse or former spouse and child and the base amount, maximum or reduced, as elected by or on behalf of the retired member. The SBP premium increases at the same time and by the same percentage as do increases for retired or retainer pay.

2.2 Premiums Not Specified (450202)

All premiums not specified in this chapter are calculated by the DoD using assumptions (as to mortality and economic conditions) consistent with those approved by the DoD Board of Actuaries for the Valuation of the Military Retirement Fund. The Director of Military Compensation approves these calculations and resulting premiums. For more information refer to the Office of the Actuary site.

2.3 Effective Date of Premium (450203)

See Table 45-2 or Table 45-3 as applicable.
*2.4 Cost of Living Adjustment (COLA) (450204)

SBP premiums normally increase at the same time, and by the same percentage, that retired pay increases by COLA. When the payment of increased retired pay resulting from a COLA is delayed, the increase to SBP premiums will occur at the same time the retired pay is increased rather than the effective date of the COLA increase (or the date that the retired pay would have increased if the retired member were currently in receipt of retired pay).

3.0 BASIC SPOUSE/FORMER SPOUSE PREMIUM CALCULATION (4503)

3.1 Initial Premium Calculation (450301)

There are two methods for calculating the initial premium for the standard SBP annuity coverage for a spouse or former spouse. These methods are:

3.1.1. An amount equal to 6.5 percent of the base amount (see Chapter 42, paragraph 420401), and

3.1.2. An amount equal to 2.5 percent of a threshold-amount plus 10 percent of the difference between the base amount and the threshold-amount. The threshold-amount is adjusted at the same time and by the same percentage as the average increase in basic pay. See paragraph 3.4. The original threshold-amount of $300 has been increased by the same percentage increase as basic pay since October 1, 1985.

3.2 Premium Calculation Before March 1, 1990 (450302)

3.2.1. A person who became a member before March 1, 1990 or who is entitled to disability or non-regular (Reserve) retirement, is entitled to whichever method is more favorable as described in subparagraphs 3.1.1 and 3.1.2.

3.2.2. For a person who first participates in SBP for spouse or former spouse coverage before March 1, 1990, the initial premium was computed on a standard cost formula of 2.5 percent of the threshold-amount, plus 10 percent of the base amount in excess of the threshold-amount. The threshold-amount is increased as set out in paragraph 3.4.

3.2.3. If the individual first became a member of a uniformed service before March 1, 1990, is providing spouse coverage, and the SBP premium exceeds 6.5 percent of the base amount, the SBP premium was recomputed effective March 1, 1990, on the flat-rate reduction formula of 6.5 percent.

3.3 Premium Calculation On or After March 1, 1990 (450303)

Effective March 1, 1990, the initial SBP premium formula for spouse or former spouse coverage for a member who did not have a disability or non-regular (Reserve) retirement became 6.5 percent of the base amount as described in subparagraph 3.2.3.
3.4 Threshold-Amount Increase (450304)

The threshold-amount is increased by:

3.4.1. The same percentage as the increase in basic pay effective on or after October 1, 1985. The increase occurs at the same time. This applies to a retired member whose retired pay is computed on the basic pay rate in effect or after the effective date of such increase in basic pay; or

3.4.2. The same percentage as a cost-of-living adjustment (COLA) applied to the retired member’s retired pay on or after October 1, 1985, if the retired member first participates in the SBP after the effective date of the COLA increase and after the effective date of the basic pay rates on which the retired member’s retired pay is computed. This is in addition to the increase in subparagraph 3.2.1 and the increase occurs at the same time as the COLA increase.

4.0 COMPUTATION OF PREMIUMS (4504)

4.1 Spouse Only or Former Spouse Only (450401)

See Table 45-1, Rule 1.

*4.2 Spouse and Child, Former Spouse and Child, or Child Only (450402)

If the SBP coverage is for spouse and child, former spouse and child, or child only, a formula must be applied against the base amount (or base amount times 55 percent before April 1983) to determine the charge for coverage of the child. The age of the youngest child is used to determine the premium. If there is an incapacitated child over 18 years of age and there also is a competent child over age 18 but younger than the incapacitated child, or there is an incapacitated child over age 22 who is eligible for SBP benefits and there are no other eligible children, then age 17 is used to determine the premium. The premium can be determined from the SBP Factor Tables by contacting Defense Finance and Accounting Service-Cleveland (DFAS-CL), Retired and Annuitant Pay Directorate. A cost computation can be obtained by contacting an SBP counselor at the nearest military installation. See Table 45-1, Rules 2 and 3.

4.2.1. The following steps are used to compute the premium:

4.2.1.1. Determine the age of the:

4.2.1.1.1. Retired member, spouse, and child for spouse and child coverage;

4.2.1.1.2. Retired member, former spouse, and child for former spouse and child coverage; or

4.2.1.1.3. Retired member and child for child coverage;

4.2.1.2. Determine the cost factor from the appropriate SBP Factor Tables;
4.2.1.3. Multiply the base amount by the factor to determine the child premium; then

4.2.1.4. Add the child premium to the spouse (or former spouse) premium.

4.2.2. The following are examples of computing premiums:

Example 1: A member retires on February 1, 2018, with 20 years of active service. The gross retired pay is $1,000.00. The retired member elects maximum coverage for spouse and child. Birth dates are: February 1, 1979 (retired member); June 2, 1983 (spouse); and May 1, 2009 (child).

Step 1. Compute ages. Six months or more is considered a full year. Note: Months are computed in 30 day increments for pay purposes only.

Step 2. Using the SBP Factor Table as determined by the Department of the Actuary to locate the combination of a retired member age 39, spouse age 35, and child age nine. A cost computation can be obtained by contacting the DFAS-CL, Retired and Annuitant Pay Directorate or by contacting an SBP counselor at the nearest military installation.

Steps 3 and 4. Determine total premium:

Spouse premium:
(Flat-rate formula) $1,000.00
\times \frac{.065}{.065} = 65.00
$65.00

Child premium:
$1,000.00
\times \frac{.00001}{.00001} = .01
$0.01

Total Premium:
$65.01
Example 2: The spouse in Example 1 becomes an ineligible beneficiary on March 3, 2019. Coverage changes to child only.

Step 1. Recompute the ages for retired member and child.

Step 2. The SBP Factor Table is used to locate the combination of a retired member age 40 and child age 10. The resulting factor is .0016.

Step 3. Determine total premium: $1,000.00 x .0016 = $1.60

Example 3a: The retired member elects spouse and child coverage (Example 1) at retirement on February 1, 2018. The spouse becomes an ineligible beneficiary (dies or divorces) and coverage changes to child only (Example 2) on March 3, 2019. The retired member marries a different spouse on May 14, 2019. The birth date for the new spouse is October 12, 1982. Spouse and child coverage resumes on May 14, 2020 unless the retired member elects not to resume spouse coverage. The new premium for spouse and child is effective on May 14, 2020. See Table 45-3, Rule 9 and Note 8.

Step 1. Recompute ages for retired member, spouse, and child.

Step 2. The SBP Factor Table is used to locate the combination of a retired member age 41, spouse age 38, and child age 11.

Steps 3 and 4. Determine the total premium:

Spouse premium:
(Flat-rate formula) $1,000.00 x .065 = $ 65.00

Child premium: $1,000.00 x .000001 = $ .01 + $ .01

Total Premium $ 65.01
Example 3b: The member elects spouse and child coverage at retirement on February 1, 2018 (Example 1). The spouse becomes an ineligible beneficiary and coverage changes to child only (Example 2) effective March 3, 2019. The retired member remarries on May 14, 2019. The birth date for the new spouse is October 12, 1982. Coverage would have resumed for the spouse and child on May 14, 2020, the first anniversary of the marriage; however, the spouse becomes the parent of issue by that marriage before the first anniversary. Coverage changes to spouse and child on the date the child is born of that marriage. The new premium is effective the first day of the month following the birth. See Table 45-3, Rule 9 and Note 8. Assume that the child is born March 27, 2019.

Step 1. Recompute ages for retired member, spouse, and child.

Step 2. The SBP Factor Table is used to locate the combination of a retired member age 40, spouse age 36, and child age 0.

Steps 3 and 4. Determine total premium:

Spouse premium:
(Flat-rate formula) $1,000.00
\[ \times .065 \]
\[ $65.00 \quad $65.00 \]

Child premium:
$1,000.00
\[ \times .00001 \]
\[ $.01 \quad + $.01 \]

Total Premium $65.01
Example 4: The retired member elects spouse and child coverage at retirement on February 1, 2018 (Example 1). The retired member divorces on March 3, 2019, and coverage changes to child only. See Example 2 for recomputation. The retired member elects coverage for former spouse and child based on a court order dated June 2, 2019, and received June 28, 2019. The premium for the former spouse and the child is effective July 1, 2018. The ages are recomputed on the date the election is received.

Step 1. Recompute ages.

</table>

Step 2. Use The SBP Factor Table to locate the combination of a retired member age 40, spouse age 35, and child age 10.

Step 3. Determine the premium as in Example 1.

4.3 Natural Interest Person (NIP) (450403)

In some cases, the insurable interest category may include former spouse. The premium formula for the insurable interest category is 10 percent of retired pay plus 5 percent for each full 5 years the individual designated is younger than the retired member. However, the total insurable interest premium cannot exceed 40 percent and must be based on full retired pay. Refer to Table 45-1, Rule 4.

*5.0 COLLECTION AND PAYMENT OF PREMIUM (4505)

Members electing SBP coverage must pay a premium for such coverage. Premiums are collected either through reduction of retired pay, deductions from the retired member's Combat-Related Special Compensation (CRSC), or direct remittance.

5.1 Payments (450501)

5.1.1. When Retired Pay is Sufficient. A retired member who receives enough retired pay to cover the premiums for SBP has those premiums withheld from his or her retired pay.

5.1.2. When Retired Pay is Not Sufficient or Not Paid

5.1.2.1. Not Sufficient. In the case of a person who has elected to participate in SBP and who has been awarded both retired pay and CRSC under 10 U.S.C. § 1413a, if a deduction from the person's retired pay for any period cannot be made in the full amount required, there shall be deducted from the person's CRSC in lieu of deduction from the person's retired pay the amount that would otherwise have been deducted from the person's retired pay for that period. (See Chapter 42, paragraph 420205).

5.1.2.2. Not Paid. If a person who has elected to participate in SBP has been awarded retired pay and is not entitled to that pay for any period, that person must remit the premium in the amount that would otherwise have been deducted from his pay for that period, except to the extent that the required deduction is made pursuant to subparagraph 5.1.2.1.

5.2 Waiver of Retired Pay (450502)

5.2.1. For any period in which the retired member is not receiving retired pay because of non-entitlement to or waiver of such pay or the pay received is not enough to cover the total cost of coverage, the payments are to be deducted from the retired member’s CRSC or the retired member must remit the amount due to DFAS-CL. Premiums are due on the effective date of coverage. For example, member retires June 1; the first payment is due June 1, for the period June 1-30. A retired member who waives full retired pay for Veterans Affairs (VA) disability compensation may pay the premium by direct remittance or by deduction from the VA disability compensation payments (see Chapter 12, subparagraph 120207.A).

5.2.2. If the retired member waives participation in the military SBP and elects participation in the civil service SBP, and the civil service waiver later becomes ineffective for any period for any reason, previous participation in the military SBP is resumed and military SBP premium is due from the retired member.

5.3 Emergency Officer’s Retired List (EORL) (450503)

A retired member on the EORL may pay premiums by direct remittance or by deduction from EORL payments.

5.4 Active Duty Recall (450504)

If a retired member is recalled to active duty for more than 30 days after a break in service, the retired member does not pay the premium while on active duty.

5.5 Active Judicial Duty (450505)

The retired member remains an SBP participant while on active judicial duty and is required to pay the SBP premiums while military retired pay is suspended.
6.0 SUSPENSION, CHANGE, AND TERMINATION OF PREMIUM (4506)

6.1 No Eligible Beneficiary (450601)

Premiums are suspended for spouse or former spouse coverage when there is no longer an eligible beneficiary. Premiums are also suspended for child coverage when there is no eligible child beneficiary (see Chapter 54 for Reserve Component Survivor Benefit Plan (RCSBP) child coverage).

6.2 School Nonattendance (450602)

If the SBP premium was adjusted or discontinued based on school nonattendance of the child beneficiary, the premium is adjusted retroactively to the first day of the month after the child resumed school attendance.

6.3 Premium Changes (450603)

The premium changes when:

6.3.1. Coverage is for spouse and child (or former spouse and child) and the last dependent child is no longer an eligible beneficiary. The premium for coverage is changed to spouse (or former spouse) only. The child coverage is suspended. See Table 45-3, Rule 8; or

6.3.2. Coverage is for spouse only and the spouse is no longer eligible and the retired member remarries. Within 1 year after retired member’s remarriage, the retired member may:

6.3.2.1. Resume coverage;

6.3.2.2. Elect not to resume spouse coverage; or

6.3.2.3. Increase the base amount up to and including full retired pay for spouse or spouse and child coverage. The retired member may increase the base amount at any increment up to full coverage. An increase in level of coverage will result in an increased premium. When level of coverage is increased upon remarriage, a retired member must pay for premiums as if that level of spouse coverage had always been in effect. The retired member must pay for premiums which would have been charged had this level of coverage always been in effect less the amount of premiums already paid by the retired member. In addition, this amount owed will be charged with interest. Full coverage is based on full retired pay which means the spouse will receive 55 percent of the retirement pay. If lesser coverage is selected then the spouse will receive 55 percent of the elected base amount. See Table 45-3, Rule 6;

Note: If no action is taken, coverage will resume at the same amount on the first day of the month following the first anniversary of the new marriage.
6.3.3. Coverage is for spouse and child and the spouse is no longer eligible or the coverage is for former spouse and child and the former spouse is no longer eligible. See Table 45-3, Rule 7, for computation for the child premium.

6.3.4. Coverage is for spouse at the time of the retired member’s retirement (on or before March 21, 1974 for a pre-September 21, 1972 retired member), and the retired member subsequently divorces and then remarries that former spouse. The premium is effective the first day of the month following the remarriage, unless the remarriage is the first day of the month, then the premium is effective on the date of marriage;

6.3.5. Coverage is for spouse after date of retirement and the retired member subsequently divorces and then remarries that former spouse. The premium of coverage is resumed the first day of the month following the first anniversary unless the remarriage is the first day of the month, then the premium resumes on the first day of the first anniversary;

6.3.6. Coverage is for spouse or spouse and child and is changed to former spouse under Chapter 43. In the case of a person required to make the election by reason of a court order or the filing of which is after October 16, 1998, then the premium is effective the first day of the month after the date of that court order or filing. See Table 45-3, Rule 10; or

6.3.7. Coverage for spouse begins after the death of a covered former spouse. Upon electing coverage for a spouse after the death of a covered former spouse, the retired member may not increase or decrease the amount of coverage. The retired member must have been:

6.3.7.1. Married for at least 1 year on the date of former spouse’s death. If the retired member had been married for at least 1 year on the former spouse’s date of death, and the retired member makes a spouse election within 1 year of the former spouse’s death, premiums will resume on the first day of the month following the death of the former spouse.

6.3.7.2. Married within the 1 year period preceding the date of death of the former spouse. If the retired member married within the 1 year period preceding the date of death of the former spouse and the retired member makes a spouse election within 1 year of the former spouse’s death, premiums will resume on the first day of the month following the first anniversary of the marriage; or 6.3.7.3. Married after the death of the former spouse. If the retired member marries after the former spouse’s date of death, and the retired member makes a spouse election within 1 year of the marriage, premiums will resume on the first day of the month following the first anniversary of the marriage.

6.4 Premium Termination (450604)

The SBP premium terminates for a NIP under the following circumstances:

6.4.1. When the beneficiary dies;

6.4.2. When the retired member terminates coverage for the NIP; or 6.4.3. On the date a spouse or child acquired after retirement becomes the eligible beneficiary if the retired member elected coverage for such spouse or child. The SBP premium is terminated as of the date shown in Table 45-4. See Chapter 43, section 4307 for more information on termination procedures.

6.5 Voluntary Termination (450605)

If a retired member voluntarily discontinues SBP participation under Chapter 43, the premium terminates on the effective date of the election which is the first day of the month following the date of the receipt of the request. Any premium deducted for periods on or after such effective date must be refunded and the retired member notified of the final action concerning termination of coverage.

6.6 Other Suspension and Termination Situations (450606)

See Table 45-4 for other suspension and termination of premium situations.

*7.0 DELINQUENT SBP PREMIUMS (4507)

Interest is owed for any delinquent SBP premiums. The interest rate is a percentage that is compounded annually and based on assumptions approved by the DoD Board of Actuaries for the Valuation of the Military Retirement Fund. Any delinquent Retired Serviceman’s Family Protection Plan (RSFPP) premiums existing on date of conversion to SBP continue with interest, until paid. Upon the death of a retired member, any delinquency, plus interest, is collected from the annuitant’s benefits before payment of any annuity will commence.

8.1 Paid-Up Premiums (450801)

8.1.1. Premiums for SBP participation are permanently paid up (no further reductions to retired pay or remittances) when a retired member attains age 70 and has paid 360 months of premium payments.

8.1.2. A retired member who became an SBP participant or increased the base amount coverage during April 1, 1992 through March 31, 1993 was required to pay the basic SBP premium and an additional premium, which was a percentage of the basic premium determined by the actuary. The additional premium accounted for the premiums the retired member would have paid if the retired member had elected SBP at the earliest possible date. A retired member who paid the additional premium received credit towards the paid-up 360 months based upon the additional premium paid.

8.2 Coverage In Effect October 2008 (450802)

Effective with the retired pay entitlement and SBP coverage in effect for the month of October 2008, SBP premium reductions will no longer be made if the retired member is a qualified SBP participant described in paragraph 8.3. Deposits of monthly SBP premiums made by an SBP participant during a period when the participant is not entitled to retired pay qualify as premium reductions.

8.3 Birthday Month (450803)

A retired member is a qualified participant for purposes of paid-up SBP coverage if the retired member is age 70 or older whose retired pay has been reduced for SBP coverage for 360 months or more. If the retired member’s 70th birthday occurs later than the 360th month for which the retired member paid SBP premiums, no SBP premiums will be required for the month in which the member reaches age 70, regardless of the day on which that occurs in the month.

8.4 Effective Date (450804)

The first payment that can be affected is the payment for the period of retired pay entitlement beginning October 1, 2008 (due November 3, 2008).

8.5 Buy-In Premium (450805)

A retired member who elected or changed SBP coverage during the open enrollment periods March 1, 1999 through February 29, 2000 and October 1, 2005 through September 30, 2006 was charged a one-time buy-in premium in addition to the prospective monthly premium. The buy-in premium was due and payable in a lump sum payment at the time the retired member filed the election. A retired member who paid the lump sum, buy-in premium received credit toward the 360 months as if the retired member’s retired pay had been reduced monthly for SBP premiums.

9.0 TAXABILITY OF PREMIUMS (4509)

A retired member whose pay is subject to tax reporting will, while in a pay status, receive the tax benefit through a reduction in the taxable income reported to the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). No reduction against the taxable income can be given for interest paid on the delinquent premiums.
10.0 INCOME EXCLUSION (4510)

For federal income tax purposes, premiums for SBP/RSFPP coverage are excluded from taxable income when they are directly withheld from the retired member’s gross retired pay. Only premiums directly withheld from the retired member’s pay qualify for this exclusion.

NOTES:

1. Retired members who first became a member of a uniformed service on or after March 1, 1990, and receive a regular retirement will have their spouse premium computed under the flat rate formula of 6.5 percent of the base amount. The following retired members are entitled to spouse premium computation under the formula that provides the lesser premium:
   a. A retired member who is entitled to retired pay based on disability;
   b. A retired member who is entitled to retired pay based on a non-Regular service retirement; or
   c. A retired member who first became a member of a uniformed service before March 1, 1990.
2. The threshold-amount is subject to indexing equal to the percentage increases for active duty basic pay rates.
3. Do not recalculate premiums when a child different from the child first established as the youngest child becomes the youngest eligible child.
4. For a dependent child the age of the youngest child is used in the formula. Exception: Use age 17 for an incapacitated child over 18 years of age when there is a competent child also over 18, but younger than the incapacitated child, or there is an incapacitated child over age 22 who is eligible for SBP benefits and there are no other eligible children.

Notes:

1. Retired member must elect within 1 year of marriage or acquiring dependent child.
2. Compute the child premium using the ages of the retired member and the youngest child as of date of receipt of the election.
3. The child only premium is established and continues until the first of the month following the first anniversary of the marriage. Compute child only premium using the ages of the retired member and youngest child on date of receipt of the election. When the spouse becomes an eligible beneficiary, child only coverage is changed to spouse and child coverage and compute the new premium using the ages of the retired member, spouse, and the youngest child on the date the spouse becomes an eligible spouse beneficiary.
4. If the first anniversary is on the first day of the month, the premium is charged for that month.
5. If a child is born of that marriage before the first anniversary, the premium for spouse and child coverage is effective the first of the month following the birth of the child. If the birth or anniversary is the first day of the month, the premium is charged for that month.
6. The effective date of the premium for an election for a former spouse election made from September 8, 1982 through January 31, 1983 is February 1, 1983.

Notes:

1. Retired member must elect within 1 year of (re)marriage or acquiring the dependent child or child. If the election change is from former spouse coverage to spouse coverage, there is no time limitation on the election period so long as the former spouse is still living. If the retired member elects to change from former spouse to spouse coverage after 1 year of remarriage, the coverage is effective on the date of election receipt and the associated premium is effective on the first day of the month after election receipt.
2. Compute premium for additional child using ages of retired member, spouse, and youngest child as of date of receipt of election.
3. Compute premium for child using ages of retired member and youngest child as of date of receipt of election.
4. Child only premium is effective until the first of the month following the first anniversary of the (re)marriage. Compute child only premium using ages of retired member and youngest child on the date of receipt of the election or on the day after the date spouse eligibility is lost (Rules 5 and 8). When spouse becomes an eligible beneficiary, child only coverage is changed to spouse and child coverage and compute child premium using ages of retired member, spouse, and youngest child on date spouse becomes an eligible spouse beneficiary.
5. Compute child only premium using ages of retired member and youngest child as of the first date following the date the spouse (or former spouse) became an ineligible beneficiary or October 1, 1976, whichever is later. If eligibility was lost the first day of the month, the child only premium begins the following month.
6. If the retired member gives exact date of loss of last dependent child, the change in premium is effective the first of the month following date provided. If the exact date is not given, use first day of the month after receipt of notification.

7. The premium for spouse coverage is effective on the first day of the month following the birth of the child of that marriage if earlier than first anniversary of the marriage.
8. If birth or anniversary is the first day of the month, the premium is effective that month.
9. Before enactment of PL 94-496, October 14, 1976, the deduction for spouse premium continued past the date spouse became an ineligible beneficiary.
10. The retired member must make election within 1 year of the date of a decree of divorce, dissolution, or annulment of marriage to spouse. Election for former spouse only may not be effective before September 24, 1983 (earliest day for premium is October 1, 1983). Election for former spouse and child may not be effective before March 1, 1986 (earliest date for premium is March 1, 1986).
11. An election to terminate coverage for a NIP premium, a former spouse, a spouse or spouse and child must be done in accordance with Chapter 43.
12. If a retired member elects former spouse (or former spouse and child) coverage, and if the retired member is married at the time the former spouse dies, the retired member may elect spouse coverage within 1 year of the death of the former spouse (10 U.S.C. § 1448(a)(7)(B)(ii)).
13. If a retired member elects former spouse or former spouse and child coverage at the time the retired member becomes eligible to participate (10 U.S.C. § 1448(b)(2)), but is not married when the retired member becomes eligible to participate and remarries after the former spouse dies, the retired member may elect spouse coverage within 1 year of the marriage to that spouse (10 U.S.C. § 1448(a)(5)).
14. The effective date of premium and coverage is on the later of: (a) retired member’s retirement date; (b) the first day retired member could have voluntarily made such an election; or (c) the first day of month after the effective date of court order involved.

Notes:

1. If the retired member returns to active duty and is subsequently retired, a new election must be made. Any election in effect while on TDRL is void.
2. A child is no longer an eligible beneficiary when he or she dies, marries, is between ages 18 and 22 and not attending school, or has reached age 22 (see Note 3).

3. A student whose 22nd birthday occurs before July 1st or after August 31st of any calendar year is considered age 22 on July 1st after that birthday and the premium is discontinued.

4. When the birthday is the first day of the month, the premium terminates the first day of that month.

5. If the retired member gives the exact date of loss of last dependent child, the cost is terminated the first of the next month. If the exact date is not given, use the first day of month after receipt of notification.

6. Once an election from spouse or spouse and child is changed to former spouse or former spouse and child, all previous coverage under the Plan terminates (10 U.S.C. § 1448(b)(3)). In that instance, if the retired member remarries, an election from former spouse coverage to spouse coverage can only be made while the former spouse is still living. However, if a retired member elects former spouse or former spouse and child coverage at the time the retired member becomes eligible to participate (10 U.S.C. § 1448(b)(2)), but is not married when the retired member becomes eligible to participate and remarries after the spouse dies, the retired member may elect spouse coverage within 1 year of the marriage to that spouse (10 U.S.C. § 1448(a)(5)).

CHAPTER 46

SURVIVOR BENEFIT PLAN (SBP) – ANNUITIES

1.1 Overview

1.1.1. The SBP provides a monthly annuity of up to 55 percent of the annuity base amount with a cost-of-living adjustment (COLA), to an eligible spouse or children. The monthly annuity for a natural person with an insurable interest, which also includes a COLA, is 55 percent of the amount of the gross retired pay after the cost of participation is subtracted.

1.1.2. Effective December 23, 2016, Public Law (PL) 114-328, Section 642 of the National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA) for Fiscal Year (FY) 2017, amended Title 10, United States Code (U.S.C.), sections 1448, 1450, and 1451. The amendments expanded entitlement to the Special Survivor Indemnity Allowance (SSIA) and updated the amount of the annuity payable and the processes for paying an annuity to the survivors of Reserve Component (RC) members who die in the line of duty and RC members who die after completing the years of service to be eligible for a non-regular retirement. See Chapter 54.

1.1.3. Public Law (PL) 116-92, Section 622 of the National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA) for Fiscal Year (FY) 2020, signed into law on December 20, 2019, amended 10 U.S.C. §1450(c). This legislation created a multi-year phase out of the SBP-Dependency Indemnity Compensation (DIC) offset, beginning in FY 2021, as follows:

1.1.3.1. For amounts payable for all periods prior to and including the period ending on December 31, 2020, the full amount of DIC paid by the Veterans Administration (VA) to the surviving spouse and former spouse will continue to offset the SBP. The spouse or surviving spouse will continue to receive SSIA, if eligible.

1.1.3.2. For amounts payable for the period beginning on January 1, 2021, but ending on December 31, 2021, two-thirds of the amount of DIC paid by the VA to the surviving spouse or former spouse will offset the SBP annuity amount. The spouse or surviving spouse will continue to receive SSIA, if eligible.

1.1.3.3. For amounts payable for the period beginning on January 1, 2022, but ending on December 31, 2022, one-third of the amount of DIC paid by the VA the surviving spouse or former spouse will offset the SBP annuity. The spouse or surviving spouse will continue to receive SSIA, if eligible.

1.1.3.4. For amounts payable for all periods beginning on or after January 1, 2023, there will be no reduction.
Example: A surviving spouse who is entitled to a $1,200 SBP annuity and $1,500 DIC paid by VA, will continue to have his or her SBP fully offset in 2020. Because DIC is greater than the amount of SBP, it results in a net SBP payment of $0 after offset for all months of 2020. Beginning in 2021, this same spouse would receive a $200 SBP payment, because only $1,000 of the $1,500 DIC paid by VA (i.e., two-thirds of the $1,500 amount of DIC) would be counted against the SBP. In addition, this spouse would receive SSIA because he or she remains subject to the SBP-DIC offset. In 2022, this same surviving spouse would receive $700 for SBP, because only $500 DIC paid by VA (i.e., one-third of the $1,500 amount of DIC) would be counted against the SBP. This spouse would remain eligible for SSIA. In 2023, the offset is lifted and the surviving spouse receives both SBP and DIC in full. In 2023, SSIA is no longer payable.

1.1.4. The SBP annuity is restored on January 1, 2023, to any eligible surviving spouse for whom the service previously determined it was appropriate to provide an annuity for the dependent child(ren) of the member instead of the surviving spouse in accordance with paragraph 3.2.3.

1.1.5. Effective January 1, 2023, SSIA is discontinued.

1.2 Purpose

The purpose of this chapter is to provide information for those eligible to receive annuities, how they are paid, and the amounts to be paid.

1.3 Authoritative Guidance

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.), including Titles 10, 26, and 38. Due to the subject matter in this chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in a reference section at the end of the chapter.

2.0 ANNUITIES

2.1 Eligible Annuitants

2.1.1. Spouse or Former Spouse Only. The SBP annuity for an eligible spouse or former spouse may be reduced by a percentage of Dependency and Indemnity Compensation (DIC) if the annuity is payable on behalf of the same member. See paragraph 1.1.5, section 5.0 and Table 46-1.

2.1.2. Child Only. If there is more than one eligible child, the annuity is paid in equal shares. The annuity for children is not subject to DIC offset.

2.1.3. Spouse and Child or Former Spouse and Child. The annuity is paid to the spouse or former spouse as long as eligibility exists. If the surviving spouse or former spouse dies, remarries before age 55, or otherwise loses eligibility, the annuity is paid to the child annuitant(s). An election for the former spouse and child includes only the children that resulted from the member/former spouse marriage. The annuity amount for the spouse or former spouse is shown on Table 46-l. The annuity for children is divided into equal shares.

2.1.4. Natural Person With an Insurable Interest. The annuity is payable only to the natural person with an insurable interest as designated by, or on behalf of, the member. The initial annuity amount is 55 percent of the member’s gross retired pay less the SBP premium cost at the time of member’s death.

2.2 Payment of Annuity

2.2.1. Payments in General. Payment of an SBP or RC-SBP annuity is not automatic. Before any claim for an annuity can be considered, it is necessary for the claimant to submit a claim in writing. The claim must minimally contain a signature and an address. Before the annuity can be paid, the claimant must submit a DD Form 2656-7, “Verification for Survivor Annuity.” The information of that form allows DFAS to verify information necessary to start annuity payments.

The SBP annuity is paid monthly to the eligible annuitant. The SBP payment is effective the first day after the death of a member unless death occurs on the 30th day of a 31-day month. In that case, the annuity starts on the first day of the next month. Annuity payments end effective the last day of the month before the month in which the annuitant becomes ineligible.

2.2.1.1. Payments subject to offset:

2.2.1.1.1. When the payment of premiums is in arrears, no annuity may be paid until the unpaid premiums, with interest accrued at the rate approved by the Department of Defense (DoD) Board of Actuaries under 10 U.S.C. § 1465 for the purpose of determining the retirement accrual cost, has been recovered. See Office of the Actuary and subparagraph 6.2.3. For the establishment and collection of a debt for unpaid SBP premiums, see Volume 16, Chapter 2.

2.2.1.1.2. Debts to the United States or any of its instrumentalities incurred by the annuitant may be offset from the annuity.

2.2.1.2. Debts of a deceased member, other than for delinquent premiums, are not the responsibility of the annuitant and may not be offset involuntarily against the annuity.

2.2.1.3. The annuity is neither assignable nor subject to execution, levy, attachment, or garnishment (except for alimony or child support).

2.2.1.4. If the Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee) determines that a participating member is presumed dead, the annuity accrues from the first day after retired or retainer pay was suspended or would have been suspended had the member been in receipt of pay on the basis that the member is missing.
2.2.1.5. Checks are not mailed to an annuitant living in a currency-blocked country. See Title 31, Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), section 211.1 for specific conditions for withholding the delivery of checks to addresses outside the United States.

2.2.2. Third Party Payees

2.2.2.1. Trustees in Bankruptcy. The annuity may be paid on behalf of an annuitant to a trustee in bankruptcy pursuant to an order of the bankruptcy court in a proceeding under Chapter 13 of the Bankruptcy Code since such proceeding is voluntary.

2.2.2.2. Incapacitated Annuitants. An annuity may be paid to a third party on behalf of an incapacitated annuitant only if the third party has been appointed as guardian, custodian, or other fiduciary pursuant to a state court order or has been designated a representative payee under subparagraph 2.2.3. Otherwise, the annuity may be paid only to the annuitant unless the annuitant has been determined to be incompetent of managing his or her own affairs by a state court, physician, or psychologist. If the annuity cannot be paid directly to the annuitant or to a third party, amounts will remain unpaid and credited on account until the annuitant is determined to be competent or until a third party has been properly appointed to receive the annuity on behalf of the annuitant. The annuity payment will still be treated as income to the annuitant. Regardless of whether the Representative Payee is a trustee (unless a trustee of Special Needs Trust as described in subparagraph 2.2.3.6.), an Internal Revenue Service (IRS) Form 1099, Miscellaneous Income, will be issued in the annuitant’s name.

2.2.2.3. Power of Attorney. An eligible annuitant who is physically or mentally incapacitated (but who has not been determined to be mentally incompetent by a state court, physician, or psychologist) may accept assistance from a person holding a power of attorney in completing (including the signature element) and filing the annuity application form. Benefit payments based on an annuity application signed by the person holding the power of attorney must be made payable directly to the annuitant.

2.2.2.4. Minor Child Annuitants. An annuity for a minor child is paid to the legal guardian or, if there is no legal guardian, to the natural parent who has care, custody, and control of the child as the custodian, or to a representative payee of the child. An annuity may be paid directly to the child when the child is considered to be of majority age under the law in the state of residence. The child is considered an adult for annuity purposes and a custodian or legal fiduciary is not required. See Appendix H for age of majority by state.

2.2.2.5. Surety Bonds. In cases where it appears necessary to protect the annuitant, the Secretary of the Military Department concerned may require a person receiving payments on behalf of the annuitant to provide a surety bond in an amount sufficient to protect the interests of the annuitant. The payee may pay for such bond(s) out of the SBP annuity. This is part of the periodic financial accounting by the payee. The Secretary of the Military Department concerned will determine the amount necessary in the surety bond(s) based on the amount of the SBP annuity payable. A surety bond ordinarily will not be required if the payee is a close family member or a government or financial institution.
2.2.2.6.  Special Needs Trusts (SNT). A special needs trust is also known as a supplemental needs trust. An SNT is a legal instrument that can be established in order to ensure that assets are retained that can be used for the supplemental needs of a certain disabled individual, without disqualifying that individual from other Federal or State benefits that the disabled individual may be entitled to receive. The NDAA for FY 15, PL 113-291, amended 10 U.S.C. §§ 1448, 1450, and 1455, to give Military Service members and retirees the option to direct payment of an SBP annuity for a dependent child to an SNT. An SNT is a legal instrument specifically designed for the benefit of a person considered disabled under 42 U.S.C. § 1382c(a)(3). State law governs an SNT. In accordance with the SBP statute, an SNT must also comply with 42 U.S.C. § 1396p(d)(4). If an SNT was not designated as a beneficiary prior to the death of the Service member or retiree who had previously elected child coverage, the disabled dependent child’s surviving parent, grandparent, or court-appointed legal guardian or fiduciary may irrevocably elect to designate an SNT as beneficiary. The following documentation is required to establish an SNT as beneficiary:

2.2.2.6.1. A written statement of the decision to have the annuity paid to the SNT;

2.2.2.6.2. An attorney’s SNT Certification; and

2.2.2.6.3. The name and tax identification number for the SNT by or before the time the beneficiary applies for their annuity. Certified SNT paperwork must be submitted to the following Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS) address:

DFAS
U.S. Military Retired Pay
8899 East 56th Street
Indianapolis, IN 46249-1200

There are two types of SNTs that comply with 42 U.S.C. § 1396p(d)(4), a “First-Party SNT” prepared in compliance with 42 U.S.C. § 1396p(d)(4)(A), and a “Pooled Trust” prepared in compliance with 42 U.S.C. § 1396p(d)(4)(C).

2.2.2.6.3.1. First-Party SNT. A First-Party SNT is a type of SNT that is established by a disabled dependent child’s parent, grandparent, legal guardian, or a court for the benefit of the disabled dependent child. Transfers into a First-Party SNT do not prevent a person with special needs from accessing government benefits. See 42 U.S.C. § 1396p(d)(4)(A).

2.2.2.6.3.2. Pooled Trust. A pooled trust is a type of SNT established by a non-profit organization, with individual beneficiaries creating accounts within the larger trust. Thus, the assets of many people with special needs are "pooled." Transfers into a pooled trust, like transfers into a First-Party SNT, do not prevent a person with special needs from accessing government benefits. See 42 U.S.C. § 1396p(d)(4)(C).

2.2.2.7. Accounting. Any person receiving payment on behalf of the annuitant, except as stated in subparagraph 2.2.3., is required to maintain and, upon request by the Secretary of the Military Department concerned, provide a periodic accounting of expenditures and investments of amounts paid to the payee. If the payee is a close family member or a government or financial institution, a periodic accounting will not be required, but may be requested. In situations where a periodic accounting is required, it ordinarily will be submitted annually, unless the Secretary of the Military Department concerned determines that a more frequent submission is required.

2.2.2.7.1. Final financial reporting will be required upon the loss of a beneficiary’s eligibility, a change of representative payee, or the determination later that an annuitant is competent to manage their financial affairs.

2.2.2.7.2. Major expenditures (i.e., those in excess of $1,000 or the value of the annuity for 1 year, whichever is less) from the payee’s bank account for the annuitant require prior written approval by the Secretary of the Military Department concerned.

2.2.2.7.3. If the Secretary of the Military Department concerned has evidence to suggest that the annuity funds have been or are being misused by the payee, the annuity may be suspended. An investigation will be conducted to determine if a new payee should be appointed or if payments may be resumed to the payee.

2.2.3. Representative Payee. The SBP annuity due a minor who is a mentally incompetent, or otherwise legally disabled person for whom a guardian or other fiduciary has not been appointed may be paid to a representative payee who, in the judgment of the Secretary of the Military Department concerned, is responsible for the care of the annuitant. The representative payee is required to spend or invest the amount paid on behalf of the annuitant solely for the benefit of the annuitant. The representative payee must certify that SBP payments received on the annuitant’s behalf are used for the annuitant’s benefit.

2.2.3.1. An annuitant is determined to be incompetent if the Secretary of the Military Department concerned receives an actual determination of incompetency made either by a state court or by a physician or psychologist. A representative payee will not be established solely on the basis of a letter from a third party that an annuitant is incapable of handling financial affairs. The annuitant will be notified of actions being taken to make a determination of incompetency and will be provided an opportunity to review the evidence being considered. The annuitant will also have the opportunity to submit additional evidence before a determination is made.

2.2.3.2. If a court order provides for payment of a fee to the representative payee, or if the Secretary of the Military Department concerned determines that payment of a fee is necessary in order to obtain the fiduciary services of a representative payee, a monthly fee will be allowed. In such circumstances, a fee of 4 percent of the monthly SBP annuity will be allowed, unless a court order dictates a lesser fee. In the case of a spouse or former spouse annuitant, the fee will be no more than 4 percent of the adjusted annuity (gross annuity less any DIC offset). Any court order that provides for a fee in excess of 4 percent will be limited to 4 percent. The representative payee will be notified of the fee percentage allowed. The fee is not a separate payment mailed to a representative payee, but can be withheld by the representative payee from the monthly annuity payment. The fee is part of the periodic financial accounting by the representative payee.

2.2.3.3. The selection of a representative payee will be made on the basis of the individual annuitant’s circumstances. Generally, the order of preference for appointing a representative payee is:

2.2.3.3.1. Spouse,
2.2.3.3.2. Son or daughter or legally adopted son or daughter,
2.2.3.3.3. Brother or sister,
2.2.3.3.4. Parents,
2.2.3.3.5. Head of federal or state institution,
2.2.3.3.6. Trustee of a private trust, or
2.2.3.3.7. Any other individual whose appointment appears to be in the best interest of the annuitant.

Note: If more than one person or institution requests to be named the representative payee of the annuitant, the Secretary of the Military Department concerned will determine which applicant is a more appropriate payee.

2.2.3.4. In addition to SBP annuity payments (including payments to Minimum Income Widows covered under section 15.0), annuity payments under the Uniformed Services Contingency Option Act Retired Serviceman Family Protection Plan (RSFPP), and RCSBP may also be made to a representative payee.

2.2.3.5. The representative payee will be required to submit a Report of Existence (ROE) and a Certificate of Eligibility (COE) as specified in section 12.0 or 13.0.

2.2.3.6. An annuity paid to a person on behalf of the annuitant in accordance with these provisions discharges the obligation of the United States for the payment to the annuitant in the amount of the annuity paid.

2.2.4. Rounding. Monthly annuities, if not a whole dollar, are rounded to the next lower whole dollar (for example, if a monthly annuity is calculated to be $500.99 the annuity paid will be $500).
2.2.5. COLA

2.2.5.1. Normally, SBP annuities increase at the same time and by the same percentage that retired pay increases. Exception: When the payment of increased retired pay due to a COLA is delayed by law, the increased annuity due to a COLA is not delayed. The COLA applies to the monthly gross annuity amount before any reductions, such as DIC.

2.2.5.2. See subparagraph 15.2.1 regarding COLA for the minimum income widow annuity.

2.3 More than One Annuity

A spouse or former spouse who is a potential SBP or RC-SBP beneficiary due to marriages to more than one member who participated in SBP may not receive a double SBP benefit and must choose which annuity to receive. Therefore, a surviving spouse may not receive more than one annuity concurrently as (a) the surviving spouse of two different members, (b) the surviving former spouse of two different members, or (c) the surviving spouse of one member and also the surviving former spouse of a different member. For example, if an individual is the surviving spouse of a member and also the surviving former spouse of a different member, the individual may only receive one annuity. In that circumstance, the surviving spouse must choose which annuity to receive. However, an individual may be the recipient of two or more annuities concurrently, as long as only one is a spouse or former spouse annuity.

Example: A child of two members could receive an annuity from each parent, or an individual who was a spouse beneficiary of one member could also be a beneficiary of another member under the insurable interest category.

3.0 DEATH OF MEMBER ON ACTIVE DUTY

3.1 Active Duty Deaths

3.1.1. SBP Benefits. SBP benefits under this section may be payable as provided in section 1.0 for:

3.1.1.1. A member who dies while on active duty after:

   3.1.1.1.1. Becoming eligible to receive retired pay;

   3.1.1.1.2. Qualifying for retired pay, except that the member has not applied for or been granted that pay; or

   3.1.1.1.3. Completing 20 years of service but before the member is eligible to retire as a commissioned officer, because the member has not completed the required years of active commissioned service (usually 10 years); or 3.1.2. Death in the Line of Duty. If the member was on active duty at the time of death and death is in the line of duty, the death qualifies for SBP benefits under this section.

3.1.3. Death is Not in the Line of Duty

3.1.3.1. If the member was on active duty and retirement eligible at the time of death, as described in paragraph 3.1 and death is not in the line of duty, the SBP base amount is equal to the member’s retired pay. The retired pay is computed as if the member were retired for length of service under applicable law of the respective service of the deceased member.

3.1.3.2. If the member was not on active duty, or was on active duty but was not eligible for retired pay and death is not in the line of duty, the member’s death does not qualify for SBP benefits.

3.2 Qualified Annuitants

The annuity payment will be made based on the following priority:

3.2.1. Former Spouse Based on the Court Order. The annuity is payable to a former spouse if the member is required by a court order or spousal agreement or has made an election to provide such coverage or if the former spouse has deemed an election in accordance with 10 U.S.C. § 1450(f)(3). No payment may be made to a surviving spouse if the member is required under a court order to provide an annuity to a former spouse even if the former spouse has not deemed an election in accordance with 10 U.S.C. § 1450(f)(3). If there are multiple court orders ordering the member to elect former spouse SBP coverage, the court order with the earliest date will take precedence.

3.2.2. Current Spouse. The annuity is payable to a surviving spouse unless the annuity is payable to a former spouse.

3.2.3. Child. The annuity is payable to the dependent children of the member when:

3.2.3.1. There is no eligible former spouse and either there is no eligible surviving spouse or the surviving spouse later dies; or

3.2.3.2. For a member who dies on or after October 7, 2001, but before January 1, 2023, the Secretary of the Military Department concerned, in consultation with the surviving spouse, determines it appropriate to provide an annuity for the dependent children instead of paying an annuity to the surviving spouse.
3.2.3.3. Effective January 1, 2023, if after consultation with the surviving spouse, the service previously determined it was appropriate to provide an annuity for the dependent child(ren) of the member instead of the surviving spouse, the annuity will be restored to the surviving spouse if still eligible. If the surviving spouse is ineligible to receive SBP, the annuity shall continue to be paid to the eligible child or children, unless and until the spouse regains SBP eligibility.

3.2.4. Insurable Interest Deemed Election. If no annuity is payable under subparagraphs 3.2.1, 3.2.2, or 3.2.3, the Secretary of the Military Department concerned may pay an annuity to a natural person with an insurable interest in the member, if the person is a dependent of the member as defined in 10 U.S.C. § 1072(2).

3.3 Annuity Amount

3.3.1. Qualified Death in the Line of Duty. The SBP base amount is equal to the higher of the retired pay of the member based on length of service, or the retired pay as if the member retired with a total (100 percent) disability equal to 75 percent of the appropriate retired pay base. The annuity is computed at 55 percent of the SBP base amount. For members of the RCs who die while serving on active duty, the retired pay base will be computed as if the member had been entitled to basic pay for the 36 months preceding retirement or the entire period the member was a member of a uniformed service (if less than 36 months), regardless of whether the member served the entire period on active duty.

3.3.2. Qualified Death Not in the Line of Duty. The SBP base amount will be computed as if the member retired for length of service based on the final basic pay or high-36 average as applicable. However, for members who elected to receive the Career Status Bonus (see Volume 7A, Chapter 66), the SBP base will be computed using the Reduced Retirement (REDUX) method with the prescribed reduced COLA. The annuity is computed at 55 percent of the SBP base amount.

3.3.3. Insurable Interest Deemed Election. If an annuity is payable pursuant to subparagraph 3.2.4., the SBP base amount is equal to retired pay computed as if the member retired with a total (100 percent) disability, which is equal to 75 percent of the appropriate retired pay base, less the cost of participation. The annuity is computed at 55 percent of the SBP base amount.

3.4 Line of Duty Determination

3.4.1. Purpose. For the purpose of determining eligibility for SBP benefits, a member’s death will generally be considered to have occurred in the line of duty unless the death:

3.4.1.1. Occurred while the member was not serving on active duty;

3.4.1.2. Was the result of the member’s own intentional misconduct or willful negligence; or

3.4.1.3. Occurred during a period of unauthorized absence.
3.4.2. Investigation to Determine the Cause of Death. The Military Services will conduct an investigation and make a written finding as to whether a member’s death was in the line of duty while the member was on active duty. The written finding must describe the circumstances under which the member died, and it also must address whether the death was caused by the member’s own intentional misconduct or willful negligence, or whether the death occurred during a period of unauthorized absence.

3.5 Responsibilities

3.5.1. Military Services. The Military Services must review the death of each member who died on active duty to ascertain whether the death was in the line of duty and whether there are any qualified survivors entitled to an SBP annuity. The Military Services will inform DFAS-CL of their line of duty determinations using the DoD (DD) Form 1300, Report of Casualty; section 10 of the DD Form 261, Report of Investigation Line of Duty and Misconduct Status; or any other form authorized under individual Service regulations. All in the line of duty determinations must be supported by a written finding describing the circumstances of death that support the line of duty determination.

3.5.2. DFAS-CL. DFAS-CL does not require a copy of the written finding, only an official communication from the Military Service to indicate the Military Service’s determination that death is in the line of duty, i.e., “YES” or “NO.” Once DFAS-CL receives the determination, they will compute and pay SBP annuities to qualified survivors for qualified deaths.

4.0 DEATH OF MEMBER ON INACTIVE DUTY TRAINING (IDT)

An RC member who dies from injuries or illness incurred or aggravated while performing IDT is entitled to coverage under the SBP program if the death is determined to have occurred in the line of duty. See Chapter 54.

5.0 DEPENDENCY AND INDEMNITY COMPENSATION (DIC) OFFSETS AND SPECIAL SURVIVOR INDEMNITY ALLOWANCE (SSIA)

5.1 When Required

The gross SBP annuity payable to a surviving spouse may be offset by an award of DIC, unless the eligible surviving spouse remarries after age 57 (after age 55 on or after January 5, 2021), and thereby, retains entitlement to DIC and SBP. A surviving spouse who receives DIC due to remarriage after age 57 (or age 55 as applicable) becomes entitled to the full SBP annuity unreduced by DIC, as well as the full DIC entitlement. Effective January 5, 2021, 38 USC § 103(d)(2)(b) was amended, reducing the DIC remarriage provision from age 57 to 55.

A multi-year phase out of the DIC offset of SBP annuities began on January 1, 2021. See subparagraphs 1.1.3 – 1.1.5 for details regarding the phase out periods and corresponding offset amounts.
5.2 DIC Offset

The Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) determines entitlement to and the amount of the DIC award. DIC rates are listed in Appendix L. DIC rates were based on pay grade of member until January 1, 1993. Effective January 1, 1993, DIC is payable at a flat rate, with COLA. The survivors of members who died before January 1, 1993 continue to receive DIC rates based on pay grade if it exceeds the flat rate. The award is effective the first day of the month in which the retiree dies. The DIC payment begins on the first day of the month after the effective date of the award. Except as provided in subparagraph 5.2.3., the SBP annuity is reduced as of the date on which the DIC payment begins. For offset purposes, the DIC entitlement does not include any amount attributable to child entitlement or aid and attendance. Payment of the SBP annuity is not withheld or delayed pending verification of the DIC award if the annuitant signs a statement authorizing the VA to collect any overpayment that may result. A multi-year phase out of the DIC offset of SBP annuities began on January 1, 2021. See subparagraphs 1.1.3 – 1.1.5 for details regarding the phase out periods and corresponding offset amounts.

5.2.1 Premium Refund Due to DIC Award

5.2.1.1 Partial Refund. When an annuity is reduced due to DIC entitlement, a refund of SBP premiums is made based on the difference between the actual premiums paid and the premiums that would have been needed to provide the annuity payable after the DIC reduction. If DIC entitlement was lost due to the remarriage of the surviving spouse occurring before January 5, 2021, after age 55, but prior to age 57, SBP may be reinstated in full. See subparagraph 5.2.3.

5.2.1.2 Full Refund. For periods prior to January 1, 2020, when DIC is equal to or greater than the annuity, a portion of the SBP annuity is withheld, except under the conditions shown in subparagraph 5.2.3. The SBP premium is then refunded after any annuity debt is liquidated. If the annuitant dies before a refund of SBP premium is made, the refund must be made to the annuitant’s beneficiaries in the order of precedence. See Chapter 31 for further information.

5.2.1.3 Surviving spouses of retired members who received a refund of SBP or RC-SBP premiums, whether in part or in full, due to the DIC offset prior to January 1, 2020 will not be required to repay such premiums when SBP or RC-SBP payments are adjusted in accordance with subparagraphs 1.1.3 – 1.1.5.

5.2.1.4 Surviving spouses of retired members who died on or after January 1, 2020, but before January 1, 2023, will receive a prorated refund of SBP or RC-SBP premiums for the period of time that the surviving spouse is subject to the DIC offset. Surviving spouses of retired members who die on or after January 1, 2023, will not receive a refund of SBP or RC-SBP premiums.

5.2.1.5 Supplement Survivor Benefit Plan (SSBP). SSBP premiums are not refunded. SSBP was repealed effective April 1, 2008.
5.2.2. Sample Computation of Refund. See Tables 46-2 and 46-3 for a sample computation of a refund. SSBP was repealed effective April 1, 2008.

5.2.3. Reinstatement of SBP Annuity Upon Loss of Entitlement to DIC Because of Remarriage Between Ages 55 and 57

5.2.3.1. If the spouse whose SBP annuity entitlement was adjusted under subparagraph 5.2.1 subsequently loses entitlement to DIC because of remarriage before January 5, 2021, and occurring on or after the beneficiary's 55th birthday, but before age 57, the annuity is reinstated under conditions specified in subparagraph 5.2.3.2 on the effective date of the loss of DIC entitlement. Effective January 5, 2021, 38 U.S.C. § 103(d)(2)(B) was amended, reducing the DIC remarriage provision from age 57 to 55. The annuity is adjusted to reflect all authorized COLAs.

5.2.3.2. The surviving spouse who loses entitlement to DIC must repay all amounts refunded under subparagraphs 5.2.1.1 and 5.2.1.2, in either a lump sum or installments. If the repayment is in installments, the installment payments are deducted from the SBP annuity payable. The installment will be 50 percent of the DIC amount or 50 percent of the gross annuity, whichever is less. When annuity is increased by a COLA, the same percentage increase will be applied to the installment deduction. Thereafter, interest accumulates on any unpaid balance until the full amount has been repaid. Thus, the remaining amount on the date of each installment deduction will be increased by a monthly factor based on the 12th root of 1 plus the current annual interest rate approved by the DoD Board of Actuaries under 10 U.S.C. § 1465 for the purpose of determining the retirement accrual cost. For the establishment and collection of a debt for refunded SBP premiums, see Volume 16, Chapter 2.

5.2.4. Late Award of DIC. When a claim for DIC is not filed within 1 year after the member’s death, and the spouse received an SBP annuity, no cost refund is made when DIC is later awarded. The effective date of the reduced annuity is the date that the VA received the claim.

5.2.5. Special Survivor Indemnity Allowance (SSIA). A surviving spouse who is entitled to DIC under 38 U.S.C. § 1311 and who is not collecting the full amount of SBP due to receipt of DIC may be entitled to SSIA. SSIA is a separate fixed monthly entitlement, but may not exceed the amount of the annuity in any month that is subject to offset by the DIC. See 10 U.S.C. § 1450(m). Receipt of the SSIA is conditional upon the requirements enumerated in the law. See subparagraphs 1.1.3 – 1.1.5 for details on the DIC offset phase out period.

5.3 Social Security Offset

Effective April 1, 2008, the Social Security Offset Method was eliminated permanently for all annuitants.

6.0 CAUSES OF OVERPAYMENTS AND SUSPENSION OF PAYMENT

6.1 General Causes of Overpayment
Generally, SBP annuity overpayments are caused by:

6.1.1. Failure to reduce an annuity by the amount of DIC;

6.1.2. Non-termination of annuity because of ineligibility;

6.1.3. Erroneous computation;

6.1.4. Insufficient or untimely information; or

6.1.5. A determination by the Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee) that a participating member is alive after the Secretary of the Military Department concerned previously determined that the member was presumed dead.

6.2 General Reasons for Suspension of Payment

Generally, payments are suspended for:

6.2.1. Non-receipt of a COE or ROE;

6.2.2. Non-receipt of verification of school attendance;

6.2.3. An annuitant will not receive annuity payments while there are still premiums owed on the SBP account. Once all premiums (with interest accrued at the rate approved by the DoD Board of Actuaries under 10 U.S.C. § 1465 for the purpose of determining the retirement accrual cost) that are owed have been recouped, payment of the annuity will commence/recommence;

6.2.4. Adjustment of the annuity due to administrative error; and/or

6.2.5. An incapacitated child over age 18 becomes independently capable of earning amounts sufficient for his or her own particular personal needs through substantial and sustainable gainful employment. Once suspended, payments can be reinstated. See paragraph 11.2.

7.0 LIABILITY AND OVERVIEW OF ANNUITANT INDEBTEDNESS

The annuitant is liable for debts created from the overpayment of an annuity. The member is liable for any indebtedness created because annuity payments were made based on the presumption of such member’s death. The member’s indebtedness cannot be considered for waiver under 10 U.S.C. § 2774 or 10 U.S.C. § 1453. If the member dies before such payments are fully recovered, the annuitant may be liable for the indebtedness if such annuitant was the recipient of the annuity payments made under the presumption of death. See Volume 16, Chapter 2 for the collection of member’s indebtedness.

8.0 LIQUIDATION OF DEBT

8.1 Debt Liquidation
Upon discovery of an overpayment, the annuitant must be provided with due process notice in accordance with Volume 16, Chapter 2, or in other regulations pertaining to debt collection found elsewhere. The due process notice must include the amount of the debt and the method in which the overpayment is being, or may be, liquidated.

8.2 Direct Remittance

The annuitant may liquidate the overpayment by making direct remittance to DFAS-CL.

8.3 Reduced DIC

The VA may reduce DIC and remit the amount collected to DFAS-CL.

8.4 Reduced SBP Annuity

DFAS-CL may reduce later SBP annuity payments.

9.0 WAIVER OF INDEBTEDNESS

9.1 Request a Waiver of Indebtedness

When applicable, DFAS-CL advises the annuitant of the right to request a waiver of indebtedness. The right to request a waiver does not constitute removal of the responsibility for repayment of the debt. If a waiver request is granted, repayment of the debt is not required.

9.2 Receipt of Waiver Request

Suspension of collection action may be authorized upon receipt of a waiver request. Refund of an amount withheld before receipt of a request for a waiver is not authorized. When a waiver is granted, any amount collected after the receipt of the waiver request is refunded to the annuitant.

10.0 TERMINATION OF ANNUITY

10.1 Time of Termination

Entitlement to an SBP annuity terminates effective as of the first day of the month in which eligibility is lost. The annuity is terminated immediately if a determination is made by the Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee) that a participating member is alive after it was previously determined that the member was presumed dead.
10.2 Reasons for Termination

The SBP annuity is terminated when:

10.2.1. The spouse or former spouse (spouse category) annuitant remarries before age 55 or dies. If the member also provided coverage for children, the full annuity is payable, in equal shares, to the remaining eligible dependent children effective on the first of the month in which the spouse or former spouse dies or remarries;

10.2.2. The child annuitant(s) lose eligibility because of:
   10.2.2.1. Child’s attaining age 18 and not pursuing a full-time course of study;
   10.2.2.2. Marriage or death of child annuitant;
   10.2.2.3. An incapacitated child over age 18 becomes independently capable of earning amounts sufficient for his or her own particular personal needs through substantial and sustainable gainful employment. This termination is not automatic; an annuitant will be given an opportunity to submit rebutting evidence. This annuity may be reinstated; see paragraph 11.2;
   10.2.2.4. Termination of student status (child over age 18 and under age 22). If the student reaches age 22 before July 1 or after August 31 of a calendar year, the child’s annuity terminates on the first of July after the student’s 22nd birthday. If a student reaches age 22 between July 1 and August 31 (inclusive) of a calendar year, the student loses eligibility and the annuity terminates on the first day of the month in which the age of 22 was reached; or 10.2.2.5. Reinstatement of a spouse or former spouse (spouse category) annuity following divorce or annulment;

10.2.3. A natural person with an insurable interest dies. The termination is final because there are no provisions for designating a contingent survivor annuitant; or 10.2.4. The Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee) determines that a participating member is alive after it was previously determined that the member was presumed dead.

10.3 Death of Annuitant

For the payment of any unpaid annuity amounts, see Chapter 31.

11.0 REINSTATEMENT OF ANNUITY

11.1 Reinstatement of Spousal Annuity

11.1.1. Remarriage Before Age 55 Terminated by Death of Spouse. Reinstatement of the annuity is effective the first day of the month in which the death occurs. If annuity entitlement from the terminated marriage exists, the spouse or former spouse may not receive both annuities but must elect the one desired. If the spouse or former spouse elects to receive the annuity that had formerly been terminated, the annuity is updated by any COLA increases that occurred after termination.

11.1.2. Remarriage Terminated by Divorce or Annulment. Reinstatement of the SBP annuity is effective the first day of the month in which the marriage terminated by divorce or annulment. Legal review is appropriate if discrepant information or annotations result in doubt or if the divorce or annulment was granted by a court in a foreign country. If the spouse or former spouse elects to receive the annuity that had formerly been terminated, the annuity is updated by any COLA increases that occurred after termination.

11.1.3. Loss of DIC Entitlement Because of Remarriage Between Ages 55 and 57. For periods prior to January 5, 2021, the annuity is reinstated effective as of the date of the loss of the DIC entitlement, adjusted to reflect all COLAs. Effective January 5, 2021, 38 U.S.C.§ 103(d)(2)(B) was amended by reducing the DIC remarriage provision from age 57 to 55. See subparagraph 5.2.3.

11.2 Reinstatement of Child Annuity

11.2.1. Reinstatement of Annuity to Incapacitated Annuitant. An annuity to an incapacitated child over 18 years of age may be reinstated upon the recurrence of the original disability rendering the annuitant incapable of self-support, or if the annuitant furnishes evidence that, although engaged in substantial and sustainable gainful employment, wages are not sufficient to cover his or her particular personal needs.

11.2.2. Child Resumes School Attendance. The child’s eligibility for an annuity that was terminated for school nonattendance is reinstated effective the first day of the month that the child resumes school attendance.

11.2.3. Child’s Marriage Terminated by Annulment. An annulment of a child’s marriage which renders the marriage void or invalid, or by a judicial decree by a court of competent jurisdiction declaring the marriage void, would serve as a basis for reinstating a child’s eligibility for annuity prospectively from the date of the judicial decree. The termination of a child’s marriage by death or divorce does not serve as a basis for reinstatement of annuity eligibility.

12.0 CERTIFICATE OF ELIGIBILITY (COE)

12.1 Purpose

The certificate validates continued eligibility of annuitants, whether eligible spouse, former spouse, or children. The spouse, former spouse, and the child must meet the eligibility requirements as outlined in Chapter 44.
12.2 Failure to Furnish Certificate

Annuity payments are suspended if the annuitant, custodian, or legal fiduciary fails to furnish the certificate as required. Payments are restarted only after receiving satisfactory proof of eligibility.

12.3 Method of Completing COEs

The annuitant as identified in paragraph 460201 may submit the required certification in writing or by electronic signature via myPay. A valid electronic signature must include the annuitant’s Social Security number (SSN) and personal identification number. If annuity payments are made to a representative payee or other third party on behalf of the annuitant, the third party may submit the required COE by electronic signature via myPay, but the annuitant’s name must also accompany the electronic signature. An electronic signature is not authorized for medical certifications or intent to attend school.

12.4 COE Not Required

12.4.1 Effective August 1, 2013. As of August 1, 2013, all annuitants over age 55, not mentally incompetent, living in the United States, or living outside the United States and receiving their pay by direct deposit will not be required to submit an annual COE.

12.4.2 Effective November 23, 2016. As of November 23, 2016, child annuitants under the age of 14 are not required to submit an annual COE.

*12.5 Frequency of Certification

12.5.1 Annually. A COE must be submitted annually for a spouse or former spouse annuitant under age 55, and custodian, or legal fiduciary for a minor child. After the spouse/former spouse has reached age 55, the certificate is no longer required.

12.5.2 Biennially. A medical certification must be submitted to DFAS-CL every 2 years for an incapacitated child over 18 years of age, unless medical prognosis indicates the disability is permanent.

12.5.3 Other. A student between the ages of 18 and 22 must submit evidence of intent to continue study or training at a recognized educational institution. The certificate is required for the school semester or other period in which the school year is divided.

12.5.3.1 A payment to a student continues during any interval between school years that does not exceed 150 days if the student demonstrates, to the satisfaction of DFAS-CL, that the student has a bona fide intention of resuming or continuing a full-time course of study or training in a recognized educational institution immediately after that interval.

12.5.3.2 An eligible student annuitant under SBP properly enrolled in a recognized educational institution employing the usual quarter or semester system, who becomes ill or requires non-elective surgery during the school term, retains his or her student status for the rest of that term.

*12.6 Exceptions to COE and ROE Requirements

The Director, DFAS or designee may temporarily suspend COE/ROE requirements when a Federal or State disaster, a pandemic, or any other natural emergency is declared. The Director, DFAS, or designee may also determine the amount of time of the suspension. The action to suspend the ROE takes into consideration audit and risk management protocols including the ability to validate the identity of the annuitant from other government sources.

13.0 Report of Existence (ROE)

13.1 Purpose

The ROE fulfills the requirement for:

13.1.1 An annuitant who receives payment through foreign postal channels.

Note: The ROE is not required when the payment is addressed to a U.S. Consulate, American Embassy, military attaché, Fleet Post Office, or Army Post Office address.

13.1.2 A mentally incompetent annuitant who receives payments through either a court-ordered legal representative or representative payee.

13.2 Frequency

The ROE is required on a semiannual basis for an annuitant described in paragraph 13.1. Receipt of the certificate semiannually verifies the annuitant’s existence. Under no circumstances may the ROE be signed by other than the annuitant, custodian, or legal fiduciary; however, an electronic signature is authorized via myPay. A valid electronic signature must include the annuitant’s SSN and personal identification number. If annuity payments are made to a representative payee or other third party on behalf of the annuitant, the third party may submit the required certification by electronic signature via myPay, but the annuitant’s name must also accompany the electronic signature.

13.3 Failure to Return ROE

Annuity payments are suspended if the annuitant, custodian, or legal fiduciary fails to return the ROE as required. Payments held in suspension are released and future payments are resumed only after receiving satisfactory proof of existence.

*13.4 Exceptions to ROE Requirements

See subparagraph 12.6
14.0 TAXABILITY OF ANNUITIES

14.1 Taxability of SBP Annuity Payments

SBP annuity payments are taxable for Federal income tax purposes. See IRS Publication 525 for exceptions. In the case of a representative payee receiving an annuity payment on behalf of an annuitant, the income is attributable to the annuitant and an IRS Form 1099 will be issued in the annuitant’s name.

14.2 Taxability of SBP Cost Refunds

A refund of SBP costs (i.e., SBP premiums), resulting from an administrative error, correction of records, or award of DIC may or may not be taxable income to the member or the annuitant. The taxability of an SBP cost refund depends on the source from which it is made, as discussed in this section (also see Table 46-3). The SBP cost refund:

14.2.1. Constitutes taxable gross income to the retired member or the annuitant when it includes premium deductions taken from the retired member’s taxable retired pay in order to pay for the cost of SBP coverage;

14.2.2. Does not constitute taxable gross income to the retired member or the annuitant when it is made from the retired member’s direct remittance payments (by check or electronic mechanism, i.e., Pay.gov or Electronic Fund Transfer) to pay for the cost of SBP coverage; and

14.2.3. Does not constitute taxable gross income to the retired member or the annuitant when it is made from the retired member’s VA disability compensation or by deduction from nontaxable military disability retired pay.

14.3 Federal Income Tax Withholding (FITW)

14.3.1. Monthly or Periodic Payments. Monthly or periodic SBP annuity payments are treated as income for FITW purposes. An annuitant, however, may elect no withholding of Federal income tax. In the absence of an annuitant election, or if the annuitant does not otherwise submit a withholding certificate, DFAS-CL will withhold on the basis of “married, three exemptions.” The annuitant may use Form W-4P, Withholding Certificate for Pension and Annuity Payments, or any substitute form furnished by DFAS.

14.3.2. Notice Requirements. DFAS-CL must advise the annuitant of the withholding requirement, as well as the right to elect that no tax be withheld, when making the first monthly or periodic payment to the annuitant. Thereafter, DFAS-CL must provide annual notice to the annuitant of the right to elect no withholding, to revoke an election, or to submit a new withholding certificate. An annuitant also may submit a withholding certificate at any time to elect no withholding, revoke an election, or request any rate of withholding.
14.3.3. Lump-Sum (One-Time) or Non-Periodic Distribution Payments

14.3.3.1. SBP Cost Refunds. An SBP cost refund is a refund of premiums rather than a distribution of benefits. As a non-periodic distribution, an SBP cost refund is subject to FITW at the rate of 10 percent. The annuitant, however, may elect no withholding of FITW. The annuitant has the right to make an FITW election for this refund separately from any election already in operation for all other SBP annuity payments.

14.3.3.2. Other. Retroactive SBP annuity payments paid in a lump sum constitute periodic distributions and are subject to the tax withholding rules of subparagraph 14.3.1. Likewise, if the lump sum payment of an SBP annuity is the result of administrative error or delay in the start of an annuity, the payment is treated as a periodic payment subject to the withholding rules of subparagraph 14.3.1.

14.4 Income Exclusion

14.4.1. Consideration for Contract. The SBP annuitant is entitled to an income exclusion when, upon the death of the participant member, the “consideration for contract” has been excluded in whole from the member’s gross income. The member’s survivor receiving the annuity may exclude from gross income such annuity payments received until the total exclusion equals the portion of the “consideration of contract” not previously excluded from the member’s taxable income. DFAS-CL will accomplish the applicable direct reduction in taxable income for the annuitant and report the residual amount as taxable income on the annuitant’s IRS Form 1099-R, Distributions From Pensions, Annuities, Retirement or Profit Sharing Plans, IRAs, Insurance Contracts, etc. Contact the IRS for further assistance.

Example: When a member dies, and $1,000 of the total “consideration for contract” was not excluded from the member’s non-disability retired pay, DFAS-CL will report the taxable annuity less $1,000, and the surviving spouse will use this reported residual amount in his or her income-tax computation for the calendar year.

14.4.2. Direct-Cost Payments. The tax-free benefit on SBP premiums is not available to members who waived military retired pay to receive disability compensation from the VA. See Chapter 12. Instead, upon the member’s death, the annuity paid to the member’s survivor may qualify to be exempt from Federal income tax until the amount excluded equals the total of the member’s direct cost payments, as explained in paragraph 14.2.

14.5 Amount of Annuity Subject to Federal Estate Tax

The value of the annuity at the time of the member’s death may be subject to Federal estate tax if any portion of the cost was paid by direct remittance, or if the value of the annuity exceeds the amount that may be excluded from the gross estate. DFAS-CL may furnish the annuitant the current annuity amount and/or a summary of annual payments, and total cost paid (separate totals for deductions and direct remittances). For a computation of the amount of an annuity that will be subject to the tax, if any, the executor of the member’s estate can contact the IRS for further assistance.

14.6 State Taxation

The IRS Form 1099-R information is furnished to the appropriate state tax authority regardless of whether SBP annuities are subject to state inheritance or income tax. The method of calculating such tax depends upon the laws of the state concerned.

15.0 MINIMUM INCOME WIDOW/SURVIVING SPOUSE

15.1 Eligibility Criteria

An annuity under the minimum income widow/surviving spouse provision of the SBP law (see Chapter 42) is payable to surviving spouses who meet all of the following conditions:

15.1.1. The surviving spouse is not otherwise entitled to an annuity under other provisions of the SBP, or to DIC from the VA;

15.1.2. The surviving spouse is eligible for a widow’s non-service connected death pension from the VA;

15.1.3. The surviving spouse has annual income from all sources (including amount of RSFPP annuity entitlement, but excluding the amount of VA pension), as determined by the VA, that is less than the annual income rate in Appendix R. If the surviving spouse previously was denied an annuity because of income in excess of income limitations, entitlement may exist upon notice from the widow or from the VA that his or her current yearly income, as determined by the VA, is less than the income limitation; and 15.1.4. The surviving spouse is a person who, on September 21, 1972, was, or during the period beginning on September 22, 1972, and ending on March 20, 1974 became, a surviving spouse of a person who was entitled to retired or retainer pay when he or she died. Remarriage by the surviving spouse bars entitlement to an annuity under this provision of law unless the remarriage is terminated by an annulment. If there are questions as to whether an annuity should be reinstated after an annulment, refer the matter to the appropriate legal office.

Note: The DD 1885, Survivor Benefit Plan – Minimum Income Claim, and DD 1895, Request for Veterans Administration Pension and Annual Income Information, are used in administering the minimum income widow annuity. These forms are not currently available electronically. Hardcopies may be obtained by contacting the DoD Forms Management Program office.

15.2 Amount of Annuity

The maximum annuity payable is shown in Appendix R. The VA determines the yearly entitlement and advises DFAS-CL. This amount is prorated by DFAS-CL and is paid on a monthly basis.

15.2.1. The amount of the annuity is neither rounded nor increased to reflect retired pay COLA however, the annual income rates (Appendix R) is increased by the same amount and has the same effective date whenever there is an increase in the limitation on annual income for the purposes of eligibility for pension benefits.

15.2.2. The annuity is subject to Federal income tax.

15.2.3. The annuity is neither assignable nor subject to execution, levy, attachment, or garnishment (except for alimony or child support).

15.3 Effective Date of Entitlement

The effective date of entitlement is the date on which the requirements of law are met, subject to the 6-year statute of limitations.

15.4 Annuitant, Mentally or Physically Incapacitated

15.4.1. If, for any reason, a minimum income surviving spouse is mentally or physically incapable of applying for or negotiating the payment of the annuity, a court-appointed guardian may act on his or her behalf. If no guardian has or will be appointed, the person having care, custody, and control of the incapacitated annuitant is authorized to act on his or her behalf.

15.4.2. An ROE is required when the annuitant receives payments through foreign postal channels, or through a third party if the annuitant is incapacitated. See section 13.0.

15.4.3. The yearly certificate of continued eligibility is not required.

15.5 Changes and Termination

Changes in the amount of the annuity payable or termination of the annuity must be in accordance with the effective date of change or termination as shown by the VA. If termination is due to death of the annuitant, entitlement ceases as of the first day of the month in which death occurs. Any amounts that are due and payable at the time of annuitant's death may, upon receipt of a properly executed and documented claim, be paid to the person living on the date of the annuitant’s death who is the highest in the order of precedence. See Chapters 30 and 31.

15.6 Reopened Claim

DFAS-CL will reestablish an annuity that has been temporarily suspended because of the excessive income or net worth of the surviving spouse as of the first day of the month in which the surviving spouse meets the income level for an annuity as determined by the VA. Notification of any change in income is the responsibility of the surviving spouse.

15.7 Causes of Overpayment

The following are possible causes of overpayments of an annuity, but such list is not exhaustive:
15.7.1. The minimum income annuity for the surviving spouse was not timely terminated when his or her annual income exceeded the applicable rates shown in Appendix R;

15.7.2. Erroneous computation; or 15.7.3. Insufficient or untimely information.

15.8 Liability

The annuitant is liable for debts caused by overpayment of the annuity. The annuity may not be used as an offset against an indebtedness incurred by the member. The debt may be liquidated by:

15.8.1. The annuitant by making direct remittance to DFAS-CL;

15.8.2. The annuitant authorizing the VA to reduce the pension and remitting the amount collected to DFAS-CL; or 15.8.3. DFAS-CL by reducing later annuity payments to minimum income widows.

15.9 Waiver of Indebtedness

The request for waiver consideration is handled under the provisions of section 9.0.

Notes:
1. For a member married to the same spouse at time of retirement and date of death, the statute does not require that an intervening divorce be followed by 1 year of remarriage immediately before date of death.
2. An annuity ends for a spouse of former spouse if remarried before age 55. If the annuity is terminated because of remarriage, it is be reinstated if the new marriage ends.
3. Minimum requirement for a marriage is 1 year.
4. “Living issue” means the “issue by that marriage” or a child of such marriage who dies shortly after birth (such child’s birth is the criterion, not the duration of the child’s life).
5. If member is required under a court order or spousal agreement to provide an annuity to a former spouse upon becoming eligible to participate in the SBP or if a member has made an election to provide former spouse annuity, the Secretary of the Military Department concerned may not pay the annuity to the surviving spouse.
6. All SBP monthly annuities if not a multiple of $1, is rounded to the next lower multiple of $1.
7. If the “forgotten widow” is entitled to an SBP annuity resulting from a subsequent marriage to a member, the individual may not receive the two annuities, but must elect in writing which to receive. The annuity for a “forgotten widow” is effective December 1, 1980.
8. An offset for DIC must be removed if, prior to January 5, 2021, an annuitant remarries subsequent to their 57th birthday. DIC offset must be removed when an annuitant remarries after 55 on or after January 5, 2021.
9. The Secretary of the Military Department concerned may determine, after consulting with the surviving spouse, if it is more advantageous to pay the annuity to the child instead of the spouse due to the DIC offset of spouse SBP. See 10 U.S.C. § 1448(f)(1) and (2), and Chapter 54 for additional information. Effective January 1, 2023, the option for a surviving spouse of a member who dies on active or inactive duty, in consultation with the Secretary concerned to transfer the annuity to a surviving child will be discontinued. An eligible surviving spouse, who previously elected to transfer the annuity to a surviving child or children under the provisions of 10 U.S.C. § 1448(d)(2)(B), will have their eligibility restored. If the surviving spouse is ineligible to receive SBP, the annuity shall continue to be paid to the eligible child or children, unless and until the spouse regains SBP eligibility.
10. See 10 U.S.C. § 1448(f) for additional information.
11. Per the NDAA for FY 2020, SBP-DIC offset will be phased out over multiple years beginning in FY 2021. See subparagraphs 1.1.3 – 1.1.5 for specific details regarding the phase out.
Table 46-2. Refund of Monthly Premium for SBP Effective January 4, 1994

REFUND OF MONTHLY PREMIUM FOR SBP EFFECTIVE JANUARY 4, 1994
(See Note)

The refund of premiums due a spouse or former spouse is determined using the following defined values:

Current Basic Premium (CBP): The actual current premium amount for the basic SBP spouse coverage elected by the member. This does not include premiums for child coverage, SSBP premiums, open-enrollment premium additions, or any interest charges.

Current Recalculated Premium (CRP): The implied current premium associated with recalculated SBP basic annuity as reduced due to receipt of DIC. This does not include premiums for child coverage, SSBP premiums, open-enrollment premium additions, or any interest charges.

Total Premiums (TP): The Total Premiums paid by the member for basic SBP. (Lump sum open enrollment buy-in premiums are not refundable). This does not include any premiums for child coverage, SSBP premiums, or interest charges. This amount may be obtained from historical pay files pertaining to the member and/or from a file of total spouse premiums to be produced under the Director of Compensation, Office of the Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense (Military Personnel Policy) by the DoD Actuary and the Defense Manpower Data Center in coordination with DFAS-CL.

Premium Refund (PR): This is the premium refund amount. The premium refund is determined according to the following formula:

For example: Member is a retired O-5, deceased July 1, 1993. Data is for June 1994.

Note:
1. Under 26 U.S.C. § 122, amounts deducted from military retired pay to fund an SBP annuity are excluded from income. Had the deducted amount been paid directly to the member instead, it would have been fully taxable. Consequently, refunded costs that were taken from military retired pay constitute gross income to the member.
2. Under 26 U.S.C. § 691, the refund is income in respect of a decedent. The tax status of the refund is the same to the annuitant as it would have been had it been refunded to the member. Since the refund of costs deducted from military retired pay would have been gross income to the member, it is also gross income to the annuitant.
3. VA disability compensation is exempt from taxation, as shown in 38 U.S.C. § 5301. Under certain circumstances, military disability retired pay is also nontaxable, as shown in 26 U.S.C. § 104. If the deducted amount had been paid directly to the member instead, it would have been exempt from taxation. Consequently, refunded costs that were taken from VA disability compensation or nontaxable military disability retired pay are also exempt from taxation.
4. Under 26 U.S.C. § 691, the refund is income in respect of a decedent. The tax status of the refund is the same to the annuitant as it would have been had it been refunded to the member. Since the refund of costs deducted from VA disability compensation or from nontaxable military disability retired pay would have been excluded from the gross income of the member, it is excluded from the gross income of the annuitant.
5. Amounts paid directly by the member to fund the SBP annuity were subject to tax before they were paid by the member. Direct payments by the member do not result in any tax benefit to the member. Consequently, refunds of premiums that were directly paid by the member constitute a nontaxable return of capital and do not constitute gross income.
6. Because the refund would have been a return of capital in the hands of the decedent (and would not have been includible in the decedent’s gross income), it is also a return of capital to the decedent’s beneficiary (and is not includible in the gross income of the beneficiary of the decedent).

CHAPTER 54

RESERVE COMPONENT SURVIVOR BENEFIT PLAN (RCSBP)

1.0 GENERAL

1.1 Purpose

This chapter provides information for RCSBP. RCSBP extends eligibility to the Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP) to Reserve Component members who completed the years of service to be eligible to receive retired pay but have not yet reached retirement age. RCSBP allows members to provide an annuity based on their retired pay to qualified survivors.

1.2 Authoritative Guidance

The pay policies and requirements established by DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.). Due to the subject matter in this chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in a reference section at the end of the chapter.

2.0 DEFINITIONS OF SPECIALIZED TERMS

2.1 Base Amount

The dollar amount selected by the member upon which the SBP premium and the annuity are calculated. A member may elect a full base amount or a reduced base amount. See paragraph 4.3 for base amount elections.

2.2 Date of Receipt of Election for RCSBP

The date of the receipt of the election by the member’s records custodian, or the date of postmark on the envelope in which the records custodian received the election when the election intent may be prejudiced.

2.3 Date of Retirement

The first day the member is entitled to receive retired pay or the first day the member would have received pay if alive at retirement age.

2.4 The 90-Day Period

The 90-day period in which the member must complete an election for RCSBP begins on the date that the member receives notification that the member has completed the requisite years of service to be eligible for retired pay at a later age (usually age 60).
2.5 Eligible for Retired Pay

A member becomes eligible for non-regular retired pay upon completion of 20 qualifying years of satisfactory service. Often notification is provided by letter referred to as the “20-year letter” because it notifies the member that he or she has served the requisite years of service to be eligible for retired pay, but is not yet entitled to receive the pay because of his or her age. See Chapter 1, subparagraph 2.8.6.

2.6 Eligible to Participate in RCSBP

The date the member receives notice of eligibility for retired pay except for not having reached the age for entitlement to retired pay (usually age 60).

2.7 Entitled to Retired Pay

A person who has completed the requisite service and reached the requisite age (usually age 60) is entitled to receive retired pay for non-regular service.

2.8 Member

A member of a Reserve Component.

2.9 RCSBP

The RCSBP is a benefit plan that enables members who served in the Reserve Components to leave a benefit called an “annuity.” An annuity is a monthly payment that normally lasts the lifetime of the beneficiary after the member passes away. The amount of the monthly payment is a percentage of the retired pay, and that percentage depends upon the election the member made when the member signed up for RCSBP.

2.10 SBP

The SBP is for members of the Uniformed Services. NOTE: SBP (see Chapter 42) and RCSBP share many of the same terms. Chapter 42, section 2.0 provides additional terms not specifically defined in this section.

2.11 SBP Premium

SBP Premium is the combination of the “Standard Premium,” the “Reserve Component Premium,” and the “Survivor’s Annuity Premium Deduction.”

2.12 Standard Premium

Standard Premium is the reduction in retired pay made to provide the member with SBP coverage for the period after a member becomes entitled to retired pay. The Standard Premium is described in Chapter 45. It is distinct and separate from the Reserve Component Premium and the Survivor’s Annuity Premium Deduction which are described in paragraphs 2.13 and 2.14.

2.13 Reserve Component Premium

When a Reserve member participates in the RCSBP after first becoming eligible based on 20 qualifying years of satisfactory service, coverage for the member’s survivors commences but premiums are not paid until the member first becomes actually entitled to retired pay (usually age 60). Note: See also Chapter 1, subparagraphs 3.8.6.1 through 3.8.6.5 which reduces the eligibility age below 60 years of age for a reservist to receive retirement pay. At that time, reductions in the member’s retired pay are made that are specifically related only to the RCSBP coverage that was already provided while the member awaited the requisite age of entitlement to retired pay. These reductions are the Reserve Component Premium. They are made after the member begins receiving retired pay for the RCSBP coverage that was provided before the member received retired pay. They are distinct from the Standard Premium (in paragraph 2.12) which are reductions made for the SBP coverage that is provided after the member becomes entitled to retired pay. They are also distinct from the Survivor’s Annuity Premium Deduction.

2.14 Survivor’s Annuity Premium Deduction

When an RCSBP participant dies, any annuity payable to a survivor is reduced for the RCSBP coverage provided while the member awaited the requisite age of entitlement to retired pay. This reduction is unique to RCSBP coverage. The DoD Office of the Actuary, herein referred to as the Actuary, sets the rate of the reduction of the survivor’s annuity and the rate is currently set at .0001 of the base amount. The reduction in the annuity is known as the Survivor’s Annuity Premium Deduction. The Survivor’s Annuity Premium Deduction is distinct from the Standard Premium and Reserve Component Premium described in paragraphs 2.12 and 2.13.

2.15 Reserve Components

The following is a listing of the Reserve Components:

2.15.1. The Army National Guard of the United States,
2.15.2. The Army Reserve,
2.15.3. The Navy Reserve,
2.15.4. The Marine Corps Reserve,
2.15.5. The Air National Guard of the United States,
2.15.6. The Air Force Reserve, and
2.15.7. The Coast Guard Reserve.
*3.0 ELIGIBLE BENEFICIARIES

Eligible beneficiaries under the RCSBP include spouse, child, former spouse, and natural person with an insurable interest. Members eligible to participate in RCSBP may elect coverage in one of the following coverage categories: spouse; spouse and child; child only; former spouse; former spouse and child; natural person with an insurable interest; or Special Needs Trust (SNT).

3.1 Spouse (Including the Spouse of a Common-Law Marriage)

A spouse is an eligible beneficiary if he or she:

3.1.1. Was married to the member on the date that the member became eligible to participate in RCSBP and was continuously married to the member through the date when the member died;

3.1.2. Married the member after the date the member became eligible to participate in RCSBP and, as set forth in Section 6.0:

3.1.2.1. The member had a spouse at the time the member became eligible to participate in RCSBP and elected spouse coverage;

3.1.2.2. The original spouse became ineligible due to divorce or death;

3.1.2.3. The member did not choose within one year of the marriage to not elect coverage for the new spouse and has no eligible former spouse beneficiary (i.e., defaulted to resuming spouse coverage); and

3.1.2.4. The spouse and member were continuously married for at least one year on the date the member died or the spouse is a parent of a child from that marriage.

3.1.3. Married to the member after the date the member became eligible to participate in RCSBP and, as set forth in Section 6.0:

3.1.3.1. The member had elected to participate in RCSBP when eligible (Option B or Option C);

3.1.3.2. The member had no spouse at the time of becoming eligible for RCSBP, but after marrying the spouse, the member elected spouse coverage within one year of the marriage (or, where former spouse coverage had been previously elected, within one year of the former spouse’s death if occurring after the marriage, as set forth in Section 6.2); and

3.1.3.3. The spouse and member were continuously married for at least one year on the date the member died or the spouse is a parent of a child from that marriage.

3.1.4. Married to a member who completed the years of service required to be eligible for a non-regular service retirement but died before receiving notice of eligibility or during the 90-day period and had not made an RCSBP election.
3.2 Children (Including Children of a Common-Law Marriage)

Children are eligible beneficiaries if they are:

3.2.1. Children of a member who elected child coverage when he or she initially became eligible to participate in RCSBP. Note: Child age requirements are described in Chapter 44, paragraph 2.2;

3.2.2. Children of a member who elected child coverage within one year of first acquiring a dependent child after initially becoming eligible to participate in RCSBP;

3.2.3. Children of a member who died after meeting years of service requirements for a non-regular retirement, but before being notified of retirement eligibility or during the 90-day period immediately following such notification without having made an RCSBP election; or

3.2.4. Children of a member who elected spouse and child or former spouse and child coverage, if the spouse or former spouse dies, remarries before age 55 or otherwise becomes ineligible. If former spouse coverage is in place, only the child(ren) who resulted from the marriage to the former spouse are eligible beneficiaries.

3.3 Former Spouse

The former spouse is an eligible beneficiary if he or she:

3.3.1. Is the member’s former spouse when the member becomes eligible to participate in RCSBP and was elected as the beneficiary by the member or an election of former spouse coverage was deemed to have been made by the Secretary concerned upon timely request by the former spouse;

3.3.2. Was not the member’s former spouse when the member became eligible to participate in RCSBP and a prior spouse election is changed to provide coverage for a former spouse in accordance with subparagraph 7.2.3. A former spouse must have been married to the member for at least one year or be a parent of a child born of the marriage; or

3.3.3. Was the former spouse for whom coverage was provided under the insurable interest category for an election made before November 8, 1985. The former spouse will remain an eligible beneficiary following a remarriage, unless the remarriage is to a member who is providing the former spouse coverage.

3.4 Natural Person With Insurable Interest

A member may make an election for a natural person with an insurable interest only when there is no eligible spouse or dependent child(ren). A member must elect gross retired pay as the base amount under an election for a natural person with an insurable interest. Pursuant to 10 U.S.C. § 1448(b), any Reserve member who is not married and does not have a dependent child, may elect to provide RCSBP coverage for a natural person with an insurable interest. Additionally, a member who is unmarried but who has one dependent child may provide coverage for that child under the insurable interest provision. The natural person with an insurable interest is an eligible beneficiary if the beneficiary that member designated is:

3.4.1. A person who has a reasonable and lawful expectation of pecuniary benefit from the continued life of the member. This may include parents, stepparents, grandparents, grandparents, aunts, uncles, sisters, brothers, half-sisters, half-brothers, a dependent or non-dependent child or step-child, or any other person more nearly related than a cousin; or 3.4.2. Any individual having a reasonable and lawful basis, founded upon the relationship of parties to each other, either pecuniary or of blood or affinity, to expect some benefit or advantage from the continuance of the life of the retiree.

NOTE: Proof of financial benefit from the continuance of the life of the member may be required.

3.5 Special Needs Trust (SNT)

The National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA) for Fiscal Year (FY) 2015, Public Law (PL) 113-291, amended 10 U.S.C. §§ 1448, 1450, and 1455, to give Military Service members and retirees the option to direct payment of an annuity for a dependent child to an SNT. See Chapter 46.

*3.6 Same-Sex Spouses

See DoD Instruction (DoDI) 1332.42, Section 4.3(d), December 30, 2020 and Chapter 43, paragraph 4.2.

4.0 ELECTION TO PARTICIPATE

4.1 90-Day Period

Any member who is notified of his or her completion of the years of service required for retired pay eligibility for non-regular retirement may elect to participate in RCSBP before the end of the 90-day period. A member who is married or has a dependent child, and who receives notice of eligibility for retired pay, after January 1, 2001, is automatically an immediate participant in RCSBP unless the member elects (with spousal concurrence, if required) not to participate or to defer the decision or delay coverage before the end of the 90-day period. See subparagraph 5.2.7.

4.2 Annuity Options

A member electing to participate must designate an immediate election, a deferred election, or indicate a decision to delay the election until reaching retirement age. These are described as Options A, B, or C.

4.2.1. Option A. The member defers a survivor annuity election or declines coverage until retirement age. There is no coverage for the years between becoming eligible for retirement and reaching retirement entitlement age. If a member dies before reaching retirement age, no survivor annuity is payable. At retirement age, regardless if that age is before age 60, the member may elect to participate in SBP as any other member becoming entitled to retired pay. If a married member chooses Option A, spousal concurrence is required. See subparagraph 5.2.7.

4.2.2. Option B. The member elects to provide a deferred survivor annuity that begins on the date that the member would have attained the age of 60, or on the day after the member’s death, whichever is later. If a married member chooses Option B, spousal concurrence is required. See subparagraph 5.2.7.

4.2.3. Option C. The member elects to provide an immediate survivor annuity beginning on the day after the member’s death, whether before or after reaching retirement age.

4.3 Base Amount

A member who receives a 20-year notification of eligibility and who elects to participate in RCSBP must elect to cover:

4.3.1. One hundred percent of retired pay or a given dollar amount which is greater than or equal to $300, but less than 100 percent of retired pay;

4.3.2. One hundred percent of retired pay, if member’s full retired pay computed as of the effective date of election, is less than $300.00;

4.3.3. One hundred percent of retired pay, if the member elects to cover a dollar amount greater than 100 percent of his or her retired pay as of the effective date of election; or 4.3.4. An elected dollar amount of retired pay, but which is not less than $300.00. However, any dollar election is converted to a percentage of retired pay as of the effective date of the election. A member who elects less than full base amount should be advised that his or her election will be converted to a percentage of retired pay as would be payable if he or she were of retirement age on the date the RCSBP election becomes effective. The base amount is that same percentage of retired pay regardless of the changes in the retired pay that may occur because of pay rate increases, additional points accumulated, promotion or longevity step increases. Note: Spousal concurrence is required when member elects spousal coverage for less than the maximum coverage. See subparagraph 5.2.7.1.

5.0 ELECTION DATA

5.1 RCSBP Election Certificate

The DoD (DD) Form 2656-5, Reserve Component Survivor Benefit Plan (RCSBP) Election Certificate, is required for making an RCSBP election and is also required if the member defers the election under Option A in subparagraph 4.2.1.
5.2 Contents of DD 2656-5

The contents of the election document should show:

5.2.1. The member’s name, Social Security number, date of birth, and date of retirement (if known);

5.2.2. If participating, the member has elected coverage for:

   5.2.2.1. Spouse and/or children,
   5.2.2.2. Former spouse or former spouse and children, or
   5.2.2.3. Natural person with an insurable interest (at maximum level of coverage only);

5.2.3. If participating, the member has elected coverage amount or percentage;

5.2.4. If participating, the member’s election must contain an election for Option B or Option C. See subparagraphs 4.2.2 or 4.2.3;

5.2.5. If participating, the member’s designated beneficiary. Show the name, birth date, and Social Security number for each beneficiary named. If the coverage includes spouse, the member must furnish the date of marriage. Show the address and relationship when the beneficiary is a natural person with an insurable interest. For a natural person with an insurable interest, the member must provide a signed statement to show proof of financial benefit if the person designated is more distantly related than cousin;

5.2.6. The member must sign and date the election. The member’s signature must be witnessed. The witness may not be the member’s spouse or beneficiary. The witness should not be a minor, but minority of a witness will not necessarily invalidate the member’s election. In the event a member is unable to complete his signature and instead makes his mark (such as an “X”), two disinterested persons must witness the election form. An addendum to DD 2656-5 will suffice in such situations. NOTE: An election made on behalf of the member through a power of attorney is not valid. Such an election is not binding and is without force or effect of law; and

5.2.7. Spousal concurrence in certain elections is a requirement. The spouse signature must appear on DD 2656-5, the spouse’s signature must be notarized, and the spouse must sign after the member has signed the form. If the spouse and member are not co-located, exception to the use of the DD 2656-5 to record the concurrence may be approved in accordance with DoDI 1332.42, Subsection 4.2.a.(3).

5.2.7.1. A retirement eligible Reserve member who elects RCSBP spouse coverage for less than maximum coverage when the member becomes eligible to participate must obtain the concurrence of the spouse in writing. With respect to members who receive notification of retired pay eligibility pursuant to 10 U.S.C., Chapter 1223 after January 1, 2001, a retirement eligible Reserve member must obtain the concurrence of the spouse in writing. Spousal concurrence is required if the member declines coverage (Option A), elects deferred coverage (Option B), elects coverage for spouse at less than the maximum level, or elects coverage for a dependent child but not for the spouse. Without spousal concurrence, an election for less than maximum coverage is invalid.

5.2.7.2. If a member marries during the 90-day period (see paragraph 4.1), spousal concurrence is not required, but the spouse must be notified of the member’s election. Note: The failure to retain evidence that the spouse was notified of the member’s election will not invalidate the member’s election.

5.2.7.3. If former spouse coverage is elected or deemed, the spousal concurrence is not required; however, a reasonable attempt will be made to notify the spouse of the former spouse coverage. Note: The failure to retain evidence that the spouse was notified of an election for coverage for a former spouse will not invalidate the former spouse election.

5.2.7.3.1. To elect former spouse coverage, the member must complete a DD Form 2656-1, Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP) Election Statement for Former Spouse Coverage. If the member elects former spouse coverage, the election must include information setting forth whether the election was made pursuant to the requirements of a court order, or a voluntary written agreement previously entered into by the member as part of, or incidental to, a proceeding of divorce, dissolution, or annulment, and, if so, whether such agreement was incorporated, ratified, or approved by a court order.

5.2.7.3.2. In order for a former spouse to deem an election, the former spouse must, within one year of the date of the court order involved, complete and send a DD Form 2656-10, Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP)/Reserve Component (RC) SBP Request for Deemed Election, and a copy of the court order, regular on its face, which requires the former spouse SBP election, or which incorporates, ratifies, or approves the voluntary, written agreement of such a person or a statement from the clerk of the court (or other appropriate official) that such agreement has been filed with the court in accordance with applicable State law. A deemed election will fail unless both the DD 2656-10 and a copy of the court order or written agreement are received in accordance with the applicable instructions in the form.

*6.0 CHANGE IN ELECTION AND COVERAGE

In some circumstances, a member may make a change in RCSBP election or coverage after first becoming eligible for RCSBP (at the time of receiving notice of eligibility (NOE) of meeting service requirements for a non-regular retirement) and making an initial election. See DoDI 1332.42, Section 4.4.
6.1 Later-Acquired Spouse and/or Child

6.1.1. Remarriage of Participating Member. If a member participating in RCSBP with spouse or spouse and child coverage loses the spouse beneficiary through death or divorce, the member may, within one year of remarriage, increase the level of coverage up to and including full-retired pay if a reduced base amount was previously elected, or elect not to resume spouse coverage (child coverage, if previously elected, remains irrevocable). If a member takes no action, spouse coverage will automatically resume upon the one year anniversary of the remarriage at the coverage amount originally elected. If the member elects not to resume spouse coverage or provides spouse coverage at a less-than-maximum level, the spouse must be notified. Note: The failure to retain evidence that the spouse was notified of the member’s election will not invalidate the member’s election.

6.1.2. Marriage Where No Spouse at NOE. A member who had no eligible spouse at NOE (and was not required to elect former spouse coverage) and later marries may elect RCSBP spouse coverage as follows.

6.1.2.1. Member Participating. If the member elected to participate in RCSBP at NOE (i.e., elected Option B or C for a child or insurable interest), the member may elect to add spouse coverage to child coverage or terminate an insurable interest beneficiary coverage in favor of spouse coverage. The election must be made on a DD Form 2656-6 and received within one year of the marriage. The level of coverage cannot be changed. The member is not required to have the concurrence of the new spouse to elect not to add spouse coverage. Failure to make the election within one year terminates eligibility for that spouse and any subsequent spouse. See section 6.3 regarding spouse elections where a former spouse election was made and the former spouse subsequently dies.

6.1.2.2. Member Not Participating. If the member deferred the SBP election and declined RCSBP coverage for a child at NOE (i.e., elected Option A), the member cannot elect RCSBP coverage for the spouse upon marriage. The one year election requirement in subparagraph 6.1.2.1 does not apply. The member cannot elect to cover the spouse until making an election for SBP coverage upon reaching the age of eligibility to receive retired pay. Once reaching eligibility age, the member may not without the concurrence of the spouse elect- (i) not to participate in the Plan; (ii) to provide an annuity for the spouse at less than the maximum level; or (iii) to provide an annuity for the dependent child but not for the spouse.

6.1.2.3. Member Not Participating Because There Was Neither a Spouse Nor a Dependent Child at NOE. If the member had neither a spouse nor a dependent child at NOE and made no election to participate in RCSBP at NOE, the member may elect to participate with spouse coverage. The election must be made on a DD Form 2656-6 and received within one year of the marriage. Failure to make the election within one year terminates eligibility for that spouse and any subsequent spouse. The decision to cover or not cover the new spouse is the member’s unilateral decision; the new spouse is not required to concur.
6.1.3. Dependent Child After NOE. A member who had no eligible dependent child at NOE, but subsequently has a dependent child, may elect RCSBP child coverage as follows.

6.1.3.1. Member Participating. A member already participating in RCSBP (i.e., election Option B or C at NOE for a spouse) may elect to add child coverage using a DD Form 2656-6. The election must be received within one year of acquiring the dependent child. The level of coverage cannot be changed. Failure to make the election within one year terminates eligibility for that child and any subsequent child.

6.1.3.2. Member Not Participating. If the member deferred the SBP election and declined RCSBP coverage for a spouse at NOE (i.e., elected Option A), the member cannot elect RCSBP coverage for the newly acquired child and must wait to make an election for SBP coverage upon reaching the age of eligibility to receive retired pay. The one year election requirement in subparagraph 6.1.3.1 does not apply.

6.1.3.3. Member Not Participating Because There Was Neither a Spouse Nor a Dependent Child at NOE. If the member had neither a spouse nor a dependent child at NOE and made no election to participate in RCSBP at NOE, the member may elect to participate with child coverage. The election must be made on a DD Form 2656-6 and received within one year of acquiring the child. Failure to make the election within one year terminates eligibility for that child and any subsequent child.

6.1.3.4. Member Who Had a Dependent Child at NOE. A member who had a dependent child at NOE and who did not elect child coverage at that time cannot later elect child coverage for subsequent dependent children. Except as provided for in subparagraph 6.1.3.2, a member with no dependent child at NOE who subsequently acquires a dependent child and does not elect child coverage within one year may not later elect child coverage for subsequent dependent children unless otherwise provided by law.

6.2 Former Spouse or Former Spouse and Child Elections

6.2.1.1. A former spouse election prevents an annuity to the member’s current spouse and child (other than a child beneficiary under a former spouse and child election).

6.2.1.2. If the member is married at the time of the former spouse election, a reasonable attempt must be made to notify the spouse of the member’s election for coverage for a former spouse. Note: The failure to retain evidence that the spouse was notified of an election for coverage for a former spouse will not invalidate the former spouse election.

6.2.2. Former Spouse Elections When the Member Becomes Eligible to Participate.

6.2.2.1. A member who has a former spouse and/or dependent child when becoming eligible to participate may elect former spouse or former spouse and child coverage provided the child is the result of the member-former spouse marriage.
6.2.2.2. If there is no court order or voluntary written agreement requiring the member to elect former spouse coverage in place at the time the member makes the election, the former spouse’s ability to retain former spouse coverage could be affected at a later date.

6.2.3. Former Spouse Elections After the Member Becomes Eligible to Participate but Before the Member Meets Age Requirements.

A member who elected spouse or spouse and child coverage when becoming eligible to participate in the RCSBP, may within one year of the date of the decree of divorce, dissolution, or annulment of that marriage, change that election to provide the RCSBP annuity to the former spouse or the former spouse and child.

6.2.4. Deemed Former Spouse Elections.

Upon written request of a former spouse or their legal representative, the Secretary concerned may deem an election for former spouse coverage when a member is ordered by a court or voluntarily enters into a written agreement, incidental to a proceeding of divorce, dissolution, or annulment, to elect former spouse SBP coverage, and the agreement has been incorporated in, or ratified or approved by the court, and the member fails or refuses to make the election. The provisions for deemed former spouse elections for SBP coverage contained in Chapter 43, paragraph 5.2 apply to RCSBP deemed former spouse elections.

*6.3 Electing Spouse Coverage Upon Death of Covered Former Spouse

In accordance with Section 1448(b) of Title 10, U.S.C., as amended by Section 641 of Public Law (PL) 114-92, a retiree who is participating in SBP or RC-SBP with former spouse coverage, may, upon the death of that former spouse, elect to cover his or her spouse under certain conditions described in subparagraph 6.4.1 through 6.4.3.

6.3.1. Remarried Before Death of Former Spouse on or After November 25, 2015.

6.3.1.1. If the covered participant was married to a new spouse before the death of his or her former spouse, the participant may elect to cover his or her spouse if the former spouse died on or after November 25, 2015.

6.3.1.2. The election to cover the new spouse must be made by the participant in writing to the Secretary concerned within 1 year of the death of the former spouse. Coverage is not automatic.

6.3.1.3. The covered participant may not change level of coverage already in place.

6.3.1.4. Coverage for the new spouse is effective as of the first day of the first month following the month of the death of the former spouse beneficiary, or the first anniversary of the marriage, whichever is later.
6.3.2. Remarried After Death of Former Spouse on or After November 25, 2015.

6.3.2.1. If the covered participant marries a new spouse after the death of his or her former spouse, the participant may elect to cover his or her spouse if the former spouse died on or after November 25, 2015.

6.3.2.2. The election to cover the new spouse must be made by the participant in writing to the Secretary concerned within 1 year of remarriage. Coverage is not automatic.

6.3.2.3. The covered participant may not change the level of coverage.

6.3.2.4. Coverage for the new spouse is effective as of the first day of the first month following the month in which the election is received by the Secretary concerned, or the first anniversary of the marriage, whichever is later.

6.3.3.1. In the case of a covered participant who was already remarried before November 25, 2015, and whose former spouse beneficiary died before November 25, 2015, there is a 1 year window to designate the new spouse as beneficiary, in accordance with PL 114-92. The enrollment window for such participants ended on November 24, 2016. While the level of coverage was required to remain the same, the effective date of coverage depended on how long the covered participants was married to the new spouse in relation to the death of the former spouse:

6.3.3.1.1. If the covered participant was married to the new spouse for at least 1 year at the time of the death of the former spouse, the effective date of spouse coverage is the first day of the first month after the death of the former spouse.

6.3.3.1.2. If the covered participant married the new spouse within the year immediately before the death of the former spouse, or after the death of the former spouse, the effective date of spouse coverage is the first day of the first month following the first anniversary of the remarriage.

6.3.3.2. If the former spouse died before November 25, 2015, but the covered participant was not yet married to the new spouse as of November 25, 2015, that covered participant has 1 year from the date of marriage to elect coverage for the new spouse. Coverage is not automatic.

7.0 IRREVOCABLE ELECTIONS AND DISCONTINUED PARTICIPATION

7.1 90-Day Period

Elections filed during the 90 day period referred to in paragraph 4.1 are generally irrevocable unless revoked before the expiration of the 90 day period.
7.2 Exceptions

Exceptions to the general rule on irrevocability occur under the following circumstances:

7.2.1. The member discontinues participation as a totally disabled member as described in Chapter 43, paragraph 7.4.

7.2.2. A mentally incapacitated member is later determined to be mentally competent and revokes or changes the RCSBP election within 180 days after such determination of judgment. See Chapter 43, subparagraph 3.1.3;

7.2.3. The member elected less than maximum coverage without spousal concurrence and the member fails to establish to the Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee) that spousal concurrence was not required, either because the spouse’s whereabouts cannot be determined or other exceptional circumstances prevent obtaining the spouse’s concurrence. In this instance, the member’s election is invalid. See subparagraph 5.2.7.1;

7.2.4. The Secretary concerned revokes an election when necessary to correct an administrative error. Revocation or correction based on administrative error is a Secretarial prerogative and, except when procured by fraud, is final and conclusive on all officers of the United States;

7.2.5. A member may change the beneficiary election to provide former spouse coverage or to remove former spouse coverage as described in section 6.0 and Chapter 43, section 6.0; or 7.2.6. The member voluntarily terminates RCSBP coverage for a natural person with an insurable interest who is not a former spouse.

7.3 Changed Retirement Eligibility

If a member elects RCSBP coverage and subsequently becomes eligible for retirement under another law, thereby losing eligibility, the RCSBP election remains effective until the member actually retires under the law. A member may at that time make a new election as any other retiring member.

8.0 PREMIUMS

The Government does not subsidize the cost of providing RCSBP coverage under the immediate or deferred annuity option, but the members and beneficiaries who potentially will benefit from the coverage share the cost. The cost to the retiree, known as the Reserve Component Premium, is in the form of an additional deduction from his or her retired pay beyond the Standard Premium. The RCSBP, unlike SBP, requires a reduction in the survivor annuity. That reduction, known as the Survivor’s Annuity Premium Deduction, begins when the survivor begins to receive an annuity. The Reserve Component Premium and the Survivor’s Annuity Premium Deduction increase at the same time and by the same percentage that retired pay increases by cost-of-living adjustments.
9.0 RCSBP COST RATE TABLES

The Actuary provides RCSBP rate tables to reflect military-specific death rates, to include remarriage and divorce rates and to incorporate dynamic actuarial assumptions. The tables are built on a “years younger or older than member” concept. The ages at the nearest birthday to date of election receipt are used. When ages expressed in years are the same, the table is determined by comparing months and days. Note: The tables for child only rates use the ages of the member and child; not years younger or older. If a member elects spouse and child or former spouse and child, the premium is based only on the member and spouse ages in the RCSBP cost tables; i.e., there is no cost for the child coverage.

10.0 CALCULATION OF THE RESERVE COMPONENT PREMIUM AND THE SURVIVOR’S ANNUITY PREMIUM DEDUCTION

10.1 Premium Description

The SBP Premium consists of a Standard Premium, Reserve Component Premium, and a Survivor’s Annuity Premium Deduction. The Standard Premium is the reduction in retired pay made to provide coverage for the period after a member becomes entitled to retired pay. The Reserve Component Premium is the reduction in retired pay made for the RCSBP coverage that was already provided while the member awaited the requisite age of entitlement to retired pay. The Survivor’s Annuity Premium Deduction is a premium applied to the survivor’s annuity for the RCSBP coverage provided while the member awaited the requisite age of entitlement to retired pay. The premiums described in paragraph 10.2 pertain only to the Reserve Component Premium and the Survivor’s Annuity Premium Deduction. The method to compute the Standard Premium may be found in Chapter 45. The amount of the Reserve Component Premium depends on the type of beneficiary option elected, the annuity type elected, and the ages of the member and the beneficiary.

10.2 Calculating the Premiums Based on RCSBP Coverage Amount

10.2.1. The member must elect a given dollar amount or full retired pay as the base amount. Convert any dollar election to a percentage of gross retired pay as of the effective date of an election to guarantee full indexing in proportion to member’s retired pay.

10.2.2. Address questions to the Actuary about the methods and assumptions used to determine the RCSBP rate in calculating the Reserve Component Premium. Go to http://actuary.defense.gov/ and select “Contact Us” and then “Survivor Benefit Plan.”
10.2.3. The following table serves as an example for calculating the premium based on the RCSBP coverage amount:

<td>$2,000.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>

<td>.30 (30 percent) x $2,000.00 = $600.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>

</tr>
<tr>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>Survivor’s Annuity Premium</td>
<td>$0.03 (.0001 X $330.00)</td>
</tr>

10.2.3.1. If the dollar amount elected by the member as the base amount exceeds 100 percent of the member’s retired pay on the effective date of the election, the base amount is 100 percent of the monthly retired pay. If the given dollar amount is less than 100 percent of gross retired pay, but greater than $300.00 when computed against the retired pay, use the ratio against the gross retired pay entitlement at age 60, assuming the member has met age and service requirements.

10.2.3.2. To calculate the Reserve Component Premium, multiply the member’s base amount at age 60 by the ratio of the elected base/retired pay of .30 (30 percent) and then by the applicable rate from the Actuary RCSBP table for the election and coverage type, here of 1.61 percent. See also subparagraph 10.2.2. The example in subparagraph 10.2.3 provides the member's base amount at age 60 as $600.00 ($2,000.00 x .30). Therefore, the Reserve Component Premium would be computed as follows: $600.00 x .0161 = $9.66.

10.2.3.3. To calculate the Survivor’s Annuity Premium Deduction, first multiply the member’s base amount by .55 to compute the Survivor’s Annuity, next multiply the Survivor’s Annuity amount by the rate of .0001. The example in subparagraph 10.2.3 provides the calculation for the survivor’s annuity and the survivor’s annuity premium. Therefore, the survivor's annuity would be $600 x .55 = $330 and the Survivor’s Annuity Premium would be $330.00 x .0001 = $0.03.
11.0 INITIAL PREMIUM AND EFFECTIVE DATE OF THE RESERVE COMPONENT PREMIUM

11.1 Beginning Date

If a member has eligible beneficiaries, the Reserve Component Premium begins on the first day of the month after the member meets the age and service requirements necessary to be entitled to non-regular retired pay even if the member meets those age and service requirements before age 60. The payment of premiums will be required if the member chose Option B or Option C from paragraph 4.2. If the member meets the age and service requirements on the first day of the month, the premium is effective that month. If the member specifies a retirement date which is after the date the member meets age and service requirements, or if the member delays application for retirement, the premium is retroactive to the date that the member meets age and service requirements.

11.2 Member’s Death

If a member who elected RCSBP (Option B or Option C) dies before reaching the age required to receive retired pay, the Survivor’s Annuity Premium Deduction for the pre-eligibility age coverage begins with the immediate or deferred annuity as an actuarial reduction of the survivor’s annuity.

11.3 Coverage Change

In some instances, a member may change the type of coverage before retired pay and premiums begin. See section 6.0 for allowable election changes. The initial premium for election changes is effective on the first day of the month after the member meets age and service requirements (or, if the member meets age and service requirements on the first day of the month, the premium is effective that month).

12.0 RESERVE COMPONENT PREMIUM

12.1 Changes in Reserve Component SBP Coverage

A change in the type of Reserve Component SBP coverage elected can impact the Reserve Component Premium that will be deducted from a member’s retired pay. There are an extensive number of possible changes available under the law depending on changes to a member’s individual family circumstances. The most prevalent election options and changes, and the impact of those elections and changes are reflected in Tables 54-1 and 54-2. Note: The premium deduction rules reflected on those tables pertain only to the Reserve Component Premiums.

12.2 RCSBP Premium Deductions

The Reserve Component Premiums are the deductions from the member’s retired pay that are made for RCSBP coverage provided while the member waits to attain the requisite age necessary to become entitled to retired pay. Tables 54-1 and 54-2 do not reflect the Standard Premium which is the reduction in the member’s retired pay made to provide coverage for the period after a member becomes entitled to retired pay. Chapter 45 provides the method to compute the Standard Premium. The tables also do not reflect the Survivor’s Annuity Premium Deduction which is a further premium applied to the survivor’s annuity for the RCSBP coverage provided while the member awaited the requisite age of entitlement to retired pay.

12.3 RCSBP Premium Deductions for Qualifying Reservist Retired Pay Before Age 60

Pursuant to 10 U.S.C. § 12731(f), after January 28, 2008, the eligibility age for non-regular retiree’s to receive retired pay may be reduced below 60 years of age. When this happens, a reduction factor at Figure 54-1 is applied to the RCSBP premium. See also Chapter 1, subparagraph 3.8.6.

13.0 DEATH OF MEMBER ON INACTIVE DUTY TRAINING (IDT)

Effective December 23, 2016, section 642 of the NDAA for FY 2017 amended 10 U.S.C. §§ 1448, 1450, and 1451. The amendments changed the calculation of SBP annuities paid to the survivors of Reserve Component members who die in the “line of duty” while performing IDT to align that benefit with the annuity paid to the survivors of Reserve Component members who die on active duty. Additionally, the amendments allow the payment of an RCSBP annuity in certain circumstances to dependent children of covered Reserve Component members who die in the line of duty on IDT or after completing the years of service required for a non-regular retirement and clarifies how retired pay is calculated for those Reserve Component members who die after completing the years of service but prior to notification or prior to electing RCSBP coverage. See also Table 54-3 and Table 54-4.

13.1 Entitlement

A Reserve Component member who dies from injuries or illness incurred or aggravated while performing IDT in which the death is determined to have occurred in the line of duty is entitled to automatic coverage under the SBP program whether or not the member is retirement eligible.

13.1.1. Death in the Line of Duty

13.1.1.1. The Secretary concerned will make a written determination as to whether the member's death occurred while in the line of duty while performing IDT. A member who is determined to have died in the line of duty is one who is in an authorized duty status and whose death is determined not to be the result of his or her own intentional misconduct or willful negligence. A member is considered to be in a duty status as set forth in 37 U.S.C. § 204(g)(1). The finding must describe the circumstances under which the member died.
13.1.1.2. In accordance with PL 114-328, the survivor of a Reserve Component member who died in the line of duty while performing IDT will receive an RCSBP annuity calculated as if the member was a fully-disabled retiree on the date of his or her death. Survivors of Reserve Component members who died in the line of duty on IDT prior to December 23, 2016, are entitled to prospective recalculation of future benefits beginning December 23, 2016, or the date the survivor annuity commenced, whichever is later. Note: These calculations are not retroactive for any payments made prior to December 23, 2016.

13.1.2. Not in the Line of Duty Death Prior to Retirement Eligibility. The death of a Reserve Component member who is not retirement eligible and whose death is determined to have occurred “not in the line of duty” does not qualify under this section.

13.1.3. Not in the Line of Duty Death After Retirement Eligibility But Before Notification. The survivor of a Reserve Component member whose death is determined to have occurred “not in the line of duty,” and who had completed 20 qualifying years of satisfactory service but had not yet been notified of such completion as required by 10 U.S.C. §12731(d), is eligible for an RCSBP annuity. The annuity is computed based upon that member's or former member's years of service in accordance with 10 U.S.C. § 12733.

13.1.4. Not in the Line of Duty Death Within 90 Days of Notification. The survivor of a Reserve Component member whose death is determined to have occurred “not in the line of duty” after completing 20 qualifying years of satisfactory service and within 90 days of notification of such completion as required by 10 U.S.C. § 12731(d) but before making an RCSBP election is eligible for an SBP annuity. The annuity is computed based upon that former member's years of service in accordance with 10 U.S.C. § 12733.

In order of precedence, qualified annuitants are former spouse by court order, current spouse, and children.

13.2.1. Former Spouse by Court Order. The annuity is payable to the former spouse if the member was required under a court order or spousal agreement to provide an annuity to the former spouse upon becoming eligible to participate in the RCSBP or if the member has made an election to provide an annuity to the former spouse. No deemed election under subparagraph 6.2.4 is necessary.

13.2.2. Surviving Spouse. The annuity is payable to the current surviving spouse unless the annuity is payable to the former spouse.

13.2.3. Dependent Children

13.2.3.1. In the case the surviving spouse becomes ineligible to receive an annuity, the Secretary concerned may pay an annuity to the dependent children of that person under 10 U.S.C. §§ 1448(f)(2) and 1450(a)(2).
13.2.3.1.1. For deaths occurring prior to December 23, 2016, dependent children were not considered eligible annuitants if a surviving spouse lost entitlement to an annuity for a reason other than death. Note: Pursuant to NDAA FY 2017 and PL 114-328, December 23, 2016, dependent children became eligible annuitants if the surviving spouse lost entitlement to an annuity for reasons other than death.

13.2.3.1.2. For deaths occurring on or after December 23, 2016, if the annuity was suspended because the spouse became ineligible due to remarriage, that annuity may resume and be paid to a dependent child or children, if any. These payments may resume no sooner than December 23, 2016, or the date the annuity suspended, whichever is later.

13.2.3.2. If, in consultation with an eligible surviving spouse who has an eligible dependent child or children, the Secretary concerned determines it is more appropriate for the dependent child or children to receive the RCSBP annuity rather than the surviving spouse, the RCSBP annuity may be paid directly to a dependent child or children in lieu of payment to the eligible spouse.

13.3 Line of Duty Determination

The Secretary concerned will make a written determination as to whether the member's death occurred while in the line of duty while performing IDT. For the purpose of determining eligibility for SBP benefits, a service member’s death will be generally considered being in the line of duty unless:

13.3.1. The death occurred while the member was not serving on IDT;

13.3.2. The death was the result of the member’s own intentional misconduct or willful negligence; or 13.3.3. The death occurred from injuries or illness incurred or aggravated during a period of unauthorized absence.

14.0 ANNUITY AMOUNT

14.1.1. RCSBP Annuity. Compute the amount of RCSBP annuity payable to a surviving spouse, former spouse, or dependent child beneficiary in the same manner as the SBP (see Chapter 46) except that the annuity amount is 55 percent of the difference between the base amount and the cost of the Survivor’s Annuity Premium Deduction. Compute the monthly annuity for a natural person with an insurable interest or former spouse (insurable interest category) as 55 percent of the member’s retired pay as reduced by both the Insurable Interest premium (which continues for the lifetime of the annuitant) and the Survivor’s Annuity Premium Deduction. The Actuary determines amount of the Survivor’s Annuity Premium Deduction. See section 10.0. Round monthly RCSBP annuities, if not a multiple of $1.00, to the next lower multiple of $1.00.
14.1.1.1. If a member dies before attaining the eligibility age applicable to that member to begin receiving retired pay and elected the immediate annuity option, Option C, the initial annuity amount is payable beginning immediately following death and is computed on the basis of what the member’s retired pay would have been on the date of the member’s death using the basic pay rates on that date. Note: If a member retires before age 60 pursuant to 10 U.S.C. § 12731, and subsequently dies before what would have been his 60th birthday, the initial annuity amount is payable beginning immediately following death.

14.1.1.2. If a member dies before attaining the eligibility age applicable to that member to begin receiving retired pay and elected the deferred annuity option, Option B, the initial annuity amount is payable beginning the first day of the month following the date the member would have attained the age of 60. Compute the initial annuity amount based on the retired pay the member would have received at age of eligibility.

14.1.2. RCSBP Annuity - Death in Line of Duty. An annuity paid to the survivor of a member who died or who dies in the line of duty while performing IDT will be 55 percent of the retired pay the member was or would have been entitled to on the day the member died, computed as if the member was retired with a total (100 percent) disability under 10 U.S.C. § 1201.

14.1.3. Age 62 Offset. Prior to March 31, 2008, a spouse or former spouse incurred a reduction of RCSBP at age 62 because of entitlement to Social Security benefits. The age 62 offset was eliminated effective April 1, 2008.

14.2 Eligible Annuitants and Amounts

14.2.1. Spouse or Former Spouse. See Chapter 46, Table 46-1. The RCSBP annuity may be less than 55 percent, depending on the Survivor’s Annuity Premium Deduction, which is deducted in determining the annuity amount.

14.2.2. Children Only. If there is more than one eligible child, pay the annuity in equal shares. The annuity for children is not subject to Dependency and Indemnity Compensation (DIC) offset.

14.2.3. Spouse and Child or Former Spouse and Child. Pay annuity to the spouse or former spouse, as long as eligibility exists. If the surviving spouse or former spouse loses eligibility due to death or remarriage before age 55, or otherwise become ineligible, pay the annuity to the child annuitants. A former spouse and child election includes only the children of the member’s marriage to the former spouse. See also Chapter 42 for definition of a surviving spouse.

14.2.4. Natural Person With an Insurable Interest. The annuity is payable only to the natural person with an insurable interest as designated by or on behalf of the member. The annuity is not transferable to another person.
14.3 Payment of Annuity

The provisions in Chapter 46 for making annuity payments to representative payees also apply to the RCSBP program.

15.0 OFFSETS TO THE ANNUITY

See Chapter 46 for DIC offsets paid to a surviving spouse by the Department of Veteran Affairs. Public Law (PL) 116-92, Section 622 of the National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA) for Fiscal Year (FY) 2020, signed into law on December 20, 2019, amended 10 U.S.C. § 1450(c). This legislation created a multi-year phase out of the SBP-Dependency Indemnity Compensation (DIC) offset, beginning in FY 2021. Note: The information in Chapter 46, excluding the minimum-income annuitant material, applies to the RCSBP annuitant.

16.0 TAXABILITY OF ANNUITY

The provisions of Chapter 46 regarding the taxability of annuities also apply to annuities under RCSBP.

Table 54-1. Reserve Component Premiums for Spouse, Former Spouse, and Child Only Coverage

The Premium deduction rules reflected on this table pertain only to the Reserve Component Premiums. The Reserve Component Premiums are the deductions from the member’s retired pay that are made for RCSBP coverage provided while the member waited to attain the requisite age necessary to become entitled to retired pay. This table does not reflect the Standard Premium which is the reduction in the member’s retired pay made to provide coverage for the period after a member becomes entitled to retired pay. The method to compute the Standard Premium may be found in Chapter 45. This table also does not reflect the Survivor’s Annuity Premium Deduction which is a further premium applied to the survivor’s annuity for the RCSBP coverage provided while the member awaited the requisite age of entitlement to retired pay. The method to compute the Survivor’s Annuity Premium Deduction may be found in section 10.0.

NOTES:

(a) If the member subsequently remarried (i.e. acquired a subsequent spouse) before meeting the age and service requirements to become actually entitled to receive retired pay and spouse coverage was established for the subsequent spouse, full spouse premium deductions will be made in accordance with Rule (1) in Table 54-1. The premium rate is based on the ages of the member and the spouse for whom the initial election is made. If the base amount was increased, the premium rate is applied against the increased base amount.

(b) If, after the divorce from the spouse upon whom the initial election was based, former spouse coverage is elected by the member (or deemed to be elected by the former spouse) before the member meets the age and service requirements to become actually entitled to receive retired pay, full former spouse premium deductions will be made from the member’s retired pay in accordance with Rule (4) in Table 54-1.

(c) If premiums are suspended because the former spouse loses eligibility due to remarriage before age 55, in the event that marriage ends due to death or divorce, the former spouse regains eligibility and deductions will be restarted and made until the earlier of (a) the first day of the month in which the former spouse is no longer eligible due to death; (b) the first day of the month that the former spouse coverage is suspended again due to remarriage before age 55; or (c) the first day of the month following the month in which the member has retired pay reduced for a total of 360 months.

(d) If, after the former spouse died and before the time the member met the age and service requirements to become actually entitled to receive retired pay, the member had a spouse for whom and spouse coverage was established, full spouse premium deductions will be made from the member’s retired pay for the spouse in accordance with Rule 1.

(e) If premiums are suspended because the former spouse lost eligibility due to remarriage before age 55, in the event that the former spouse’s marriage ends due to death or divorce, the former spouse regains eligibility and deductions will be started and made until the earlier of (a) the first day of the month in which the former spouse is no longer eligible due to death; (b) the first day of the month that the former spouse coverage is suspended again due to remarriage before age 55; or (c) the first day of the month following the month in which the member has retired pay reduced for a total of 360 months.

(f) As long as one of the children for whom RCSBP coverage was provided is still living, premium deductions will be made until member has retired pay reduced for a total of 360 months. The child only deductions are made even after the child(ren)’s eligibility is lost due to age or marriage. See the “Special Rule for Certain RCSBP Participants” in 10 U.S.C. § 1452(b)(3). If a member acquires a new youngest child, the original Reserve Component Premium will remain.
Table 54-2. Reserve Component Premiums for Insurable Interest Coverage

The Premium deduction rules reflected on this table pertain only to the Reserve Component Premiums. The Reserve Component Premiums are the deductions from the member’s retired pay that are made for RCSBP coverage provided while the member waits to attain the requisite age necessary to become entitled to retired pay. This table does not reflect the Standard Premium which is the reduction in the member’s retired pay made to provide coverage for the period after a member becomes entitled to retired pay. The method to compute the Standard Premium may be found in Chapter 45. This table also does not reflect the Survivor’s Annuity Premium Deduction which is a further premium applied to the survivor’s annuity for the RCSBP coverage provided while the member awaited the requisite age of entitlement to retired pay. The method to compute the Survivor’s Annuity Premium Deduction may be found in section 10.0.

Note: An RCSBP participant who voluntarily terminates coverage for a natural person with an insurable interest (not a former spouse) before the member meets the age and service requirements to become actually entitled to receive retired pay, will pay a prorated Reserve Component Premium based on the number of months for which coverage was effective. To calculate the prorated premium, multiply the original RCSBP rate by the number of full months during which the member had coverage, dividing the result by the number of full months the member would have had coverage if coverage had not terminated before age 60. The result, rounded to 4 decimal places, will serve as the member’s prorated Reserve Component Premium.

CHAPTER 59

VICTIMS OF ABUSE - RETIREMENT-ELIGIBLE MEMBERS

1.1 GENERAL (5901)

1.1 Overview (590101)

Title 10, United States Code, section 1408(h) (10 U.S.C. § 1408(h)) authorizes various benefits for the spouses, former spouses, and dependent child(ren) of retirement-eligible members who lose eligibility for retired pay because of misconduct involving abuse of dependents. Generally, the spouses and former spouses are provided the same rights and benefits that they would have received had there been no abuse and the member had retired under normal circumstances.

1.2 Purpose (590102)

This chapter provides policy on benefits and payments of retired pay in compliance with a court order for spouses, former spouses, and dependent child(ren) of the retirement-eligible member or former member. A member or former member, while in the armed forces and after becoming eligible to retire from the armed forces on the basis of years of service, may have his or her eligibility to receive retired pay terminated as a result of misconduct involving abuse of the spouse or dependent child.

*1.3 Authoritative Guidance (590103)

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the U.S.C., including Titles 10 and 42. Due to the subject matter in the chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in a reference section at the end of the chapter.

2.0 DEFINITIONS (5902)

2.1 Court Order (590201)

A court order is:

2.1.1. A final decree of divorce, dissolution, annulment, or legal separation issued by a court;

2.1.2. A court ordered, ratified, or approved property settlement incident to such a decree (including a final decree modifying the terms of a previously issued decree of divorce, dissolution, annulment, or legal separation); or
2.1.3. A court ordered, ratified, or approved property settlement incident to such previously issued decree, or a support order, as defined in the Social Security Act, section 453 and 42 U.S.C. § 653(p), which:

2.1.3.1. Is issued in accordance with the laws of the jurisdiction of that court; and

2.1.3.2. Provides for:

2.1.3.2.1. Payment of child support (as defined in 42 U.S.C. § 659(i)(2));

2.1.3.2.2. Payment of alimony (as defined in 42 U.S.C. § 659(i)(3)); or

2.1.3.2.3. Division of property, which specifically provides for the payment of an amount, expressed in dollars or as a percentage of disposable retired pay, from the disposable retired pay of a member to the spouse or former spouse of that member.

2.2 Dependent Child (590202)

In this chapter, dependent child means an unmarried legitimate child, including an adopted child or stepchild, of the member or former member who is:

2.2.1. Under 18 years of age;

2.2.2. Incapable of self-support because of a mental or physical incapacity that existed before 18 years of age and is dependent on the member or former member for over one-half of the child’s support; or

2.2.3. Enrolled in a full-time course of study in an institution of higher education recognized by the Secretary of Defense for the purposes of this subparagraph, is less than 23 years of age and is dependent on the member or former member for over one-half of the child’s support.

2.3 Disposable Retired Pay (590203)

Disposable retired pay is the total monthly retired pay to which a member is entitled, less amounts which:

2.3.1. Are owed by that member to the United States for previous overpayments of retired pay and for recoupments from entitlement to retired pay as required by law;

2.3.2. Are deducted from the retired pay of such member as a result of forfeitures of retired pay ordered by a court-martial or as a result of a waiver of retired pay required by law in order to receive compensation under Titles 5 or 38 of the U.S.C.;

2.3.3. Are equal to the amount of the member’s retired pay under 10 U.S.C., Chapter 61, computed using the percentage of the member's disability on:
2.3.3.1. The date when the member was retired; or

2.3.3.2. The date on which the member's name was placed on the temporary disability retired list; or

2.3.4. Are deducted because of an election under 10 U.S.C., Chapter 73 to provide an annuity to a spouse or former spouse to whom payment of a portion of such member's retired pay is being made pursuant to a court order under section 5902.

Note: Public Law (PL) 114-328, section 641, (National Defense Authorization Act, Fiscal Year 2017) and 10 U.S.C. § 1408(a)(4)(B), authorized a new definition of disposable retired pay which applies to divorces that occur after December 23, 2016, where the court awards the former spouse a division of property and the member has not yet retired. The disposable retired pay for these cases will be computed in accordance with Chapter 29, paragraphs 290802 and 290803. Since members under Chapter 59 would have been considered retirement eligible but for the court martial and revocation of retired pay, Public Law (PL) 114-328, section 641 will not apply.

2.4 Spouse or Former Spouse (590204)

The term spouse or former spouse means the husband or wife, or former husband or wife, respectively, of a member who, on or before the date of a court order, was married to that member.

2.5 Retired Pay (590205)

The term retired pay includes retainer pay.

3.0 ELIGIBILITY (5903)

3.1 Eligibility (590301)

The following individuals are eligible for payments by the Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS):

3.1.1. Spouse or Former Spouse. A spouse or former spouse is eligible if the spouse or former spouse was married to the member for a period of 10 years or more, during which the member performed at least 10 years of service creditable in determining the member’s eligibility for retired pay; and

3.1.1.1. Was the victim of the abuse and married to the member or former member at the time of that abuse; or

3.1.1.2. Is a natural or adopted parent of a dependent child of the member or former member who was the victim of the abuse.

3.1.2. Dependent Child. A dependent child is considered eligible if the other parent of the child died because of misconduct that resulted in the termination of the member’s retired pay.
3.2 Court Order (590302)

3.2.1. The court order must specifically provide for the payment of an amount, expressed in dollars or as a percentage, from the disposable retired pay of a member to the spouse or former spouse of that member. The court order must satisfy the requirements of 10 U.S.C. § 1408(a)(2).

3.2.2. If a court order provides for the payment of child support from the disposable retired pay of a member or former member to an eligible dependent child of the member or former member, then the Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee) will:

3.2.2.1. Ensure payment of such amount is made to the dependent child; and

3.2.2.2. Ensure payments to the dependent child begin upon effective service of such court order.

3.3 Court-Martial (590303)

If a member of the armed forces receives a sentence by a court-martial that will terminate the member’s eligibility to receive retired pay, then the member’s eligibility to receive retired pay, as determined by the Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee), is terminated effective upon entry of judgment under 10 U.S.C. § 860c (Article 60c of the Uniform Code of Military Justice).

3.4 Civilian Court Conviction (590304)

If a member of the armed forces is convicted by a civilian court of a crime involving abuse of a spouse or dependent child(ren), after becoming eligible for retirement on the basis of years of service, and the Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee) discharges the member from the armed forces as a result of that civilian court conviction, then the member's eligibility to receive retired pay is terminated effective upon the member’s discharge from the armed forces.

4.0 APPLICATION FOR PAYMENT (5904)

An eligible spouse or former spouse must apply for payment from the supporting DFAS site in the same manner as an application for former spouse payments from retired pay, as described in Chapter 29, section 2904.

5.0 CONDITIONS FOR PAYMENT (5905)

5.1 Payment (590501)

5.1.1. The court or an eligible spouse or former spouse, or an eligible dependent child, of a member or former member of the armed forces, may request the Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee) to provide certification of the amount of the monthly retired pay in connection with a civil action for the issuance of a court order. The Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee) will determine and certify the amount of the monthly retired pay (including any cost-of-living increases to retired pay through the date of certification) to which the member or former member would have been entitled on the date of the certification if:

5.1.1.1. The member or former member’s eligibility for retired pay had not been terminated as a result of misconduct involving abuse of a spouse or dependent child; and

5.1.1.2. In the case of a member or former member not receiving retired pay immediately before termination of eligibility for retired pay, the member or former member had retired on the effective date of that termination of eligibility.

5.1.2. When certifying retired pay of a member separated for misconduct involving abuse of a dependent, the Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee) will ignore reductions in grade and forfeitures of pay or retired pay resulting from the administrative separation or court-martial for the misconduct.

5.1.3. The amount certified by the Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee) will be deemed to be the disposable retired pay of the member for the purposes of this provision. The total amount payable under this provision may not exceed 50 percent of such disposable retired pay.

5.1.4. A court order may provide that whenever retired pay is increased under 10 U.S.C. § 1401a (or any other provision of law), the amount payable under the court order to the spouse or former spouse will be increased at that time and by the percent retired pay would have increased if the member or former member were receiving retired pay.

5.1.5. Payments will not be made more frequently than once a month, and the Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee) will not be required to vary normal pay and disbursement cycles for retired pay in order to comply with a court order.

5.1.6. If a member’s eligibility for retired pay is terminated as described in paragraph 590303, then the effective date for computing retired pay will be the date that the sentence terminating eligibility for retired pay is approved by the appropriate official. If a member’s retired pay eligibility is terminated as described in paragraph 590304, then the effective date for computing retired pay will be the effective date of the member’s discharge.

5.1.7. Payments made to an eligible spouse based on being the natural or adopted parent of a dependent child, who was the victim of abuse, will not cease solely because the dependent child is no longer considered a dependent child. Payment requires only that the child was dependent at the time of the abuse, and not necessarily at the time of payment.

5.1.8. Payments will be made from funds in the Department of Defense Military Retirement Fund or, in the case of the Coast Guard, out of funds appropriated to the Department of Homeland Security for payment of retired pay for the Coast Guard.
5.1.9. Payments under this chapter must be coordinated with Transitional Compensation benefits payable to an eligible spouse under Chapter 60, paragraph 600401.

5.2 Termination of Payment (590502)

5.2.1. Payments from the disposable retired pay of a member will terminate pursuant to the terms of the applicable court order, on the date of death of the member or former member, or on the date of death of the spouse or former spouse to whom payments are made, whichever occurs first.

5.2.2. If a former spouse who is receiving payments under these conditions marries again after the payments begin, then his or her eligibility to receive further payments terminates on the date of the marriage. In the event of termination of that marriage by death, annulment, or divorce, payments resume as of the first day of the month in which the marriage is terminated. The monthly amount will be the amount that would have been paid if the continuity of the payments had not been interrupted by the marriage.

5.2.3. If the punishment that results in the termination of eligibility to receive retired pay is later remitted, set aside, or mitigated to a punishment that does not result in termination of eligibility, then benefits to the eligible dependent based on that punishment will cease. Such benefits cease on the first day of the first month after the month in which the Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee) notifies the recipient in writing that benefits will cease. The recipient will not be required to repay the benefits received prior to that effective date, excluding any erroneous payments.

5.3.1. A spouse or former spouse, while receiving payments under this chapter, will be entitled to receive medical and dental care, commissary and exchange privileges, and any other benefits a spouse or former spouse of a retired member may be entitled as if the member or former member was entitled to retired pay. This entitlement includes the right to the Survivor Benefit Plan if the spouse or former spouse is an eligible beneficiary pursuant to 10 U.S.C. § 1448.

5.3.2. A dependent child, who was a member of the household of the member or former member at the time of the misconduct, is entitled to receive medical and dental care, commissary and exchange privileges, and any other benefits provided to dependents of retired members of the armed forces in the same manner as if the member or former member was entitled to retired pay.

5.4 Accrual of Payments (590504)

No payments under this chapter will accrue for periods before October 23, 1992.
5.5 Taxability (590505)

The spouse or former spouse who receives payment under this chapter will be responsible for the tax liability. DFAS will withhold taxes and will issue the appropriate annual tax form, Form 1099-R, “Distribution From Pensions, Annuities, Retirement or Profit-Sharing Plans, IRA's, Insurance Contracts, etc.”

CHAPTER 60

VICTIMS OF ABUSE – NONRETIREMENT ELIGIBLE MEMBERS
(TRANSITIONAL COMPENSATION)

1.0 GENERAL

1.1 Purpose

This chapter covers transitional compensation, a congressionally authorized program pursuant to Title 10, United States Code (U.S.C.), section 1059 which provides temporary monetary payments and benefits to dependents or former dependents of Service members or former Service members who were separated from the military because they committed dependent-abuse offenses. It may be paid for a period of not less than 12 and not more than 36 months. For information on benefits for spouses and former spouses of retirement-eligible members who lose eligibility for retired pay because of misconduct involving abuse of dependents, see DoDFMR Volume 7B, Chapter 59.

1.1.1. Transitional compensation provisions apply to members who, on or after November 30, 1993:

1.1.1.1. Separate from active duty under a court-martial sentence resulting from a dependent-abuse offense;

1.1.1.2. Separate from active duty for administrative reasons if the basis for separation includes a dependent-abuse offense; or

1.1.1.3. Are sentenced to forfeiture of all pay and allowances by a court-martial that has convicted the member of a dependent-abuse offense.

1.1.2. Transitional compensation is payable to dependents who qualify on or after November 30, 1993. No payment will be made for any period before November 30, 1993. In cases where a spouse or former spouse is receiving payments and there is an eligible dependent child or children not residing in the same household as the spouse, former spouse, or member, transitional compensation is payable to the dependent children for periods on or after November 1, 1998. See paragraph 4.1 for detailed explanation.

1.2 Authoritative Guidance

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the U.S.C., including Titles 10 and 38. Due to the subject matter in the chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in a reference section at the end of the chapter.
2.0 DEFINITIONS

2.1 Dependent-Abuse Offense

A dependent-abuse offense is conduct by a member of the Armed Forces, while on active duty for more than 30 days, that involves the abuse of a then-current spouse or dependent child of the member or an attempt or conspiracy to commit such abuse, and that is a criminal offense defined by 10 U.S.C. §§ 801-940 or other criminal code applicable to the jurisdiction where the act of abuse is committed. The term “involves the abuse of the then-current spouse or dependent child” means that the criminal offense is against the person of that spouse or a dependent child. Crimes that may qualify as dependent-abuse offenses include sexual assault, rape, sodomy, maiming, assault, battery, murder, and manslaughter. The aforementioned offenses are not an exhaustive or exclusive listing of dependent-abuse offenses.

2.2 Punitive or Other Adverse Actions

Punitive or other adverse actions are actions in which a member of the Armed Forces who has been on active duty more than 30 days is:

2.2.1. Convicted of a dependent-abuse offense that results in separation from active duty under a court-martial sentence or forfeiture of all pay and allowances under a court-martial sentence; or

2.2.2. Administratively separated, voluntarily or involuntarily, from active duty according to applicable Military Service regulations, if the basis for separation includes a dependent-abuse offense.

2.3 Cohabitation

Cohabitation is when the spouse, former spouse, or dependent child is residing in the same household as the former member after punitive or other adverse action is executed against the member or former member.

2.4 Dependent Child

A dependent child:

2.4.1. Is an unmarried child, including an adopted child or stepchild:

2.4.1.1. Who resided with the member or eligible spouse at the time of the dependent–abuse offense resulting in the separation of the former member; or 2.4.1.2. As of January 2, 2013, a child who was carried during pregnancy at the time of the dependent-abuse offense resulting in the separation of the former member, and was subsequently born alive to the eligible spouse or former spouse. However, such child will not receive payment until after the child is born and is not entitled to payment for any period prior to the birth of the child; and

2.4.2. Meets one of the following age requirements:

2.4.2.1. Is under age 18;

2.4.2.2. Is age 18 or older and incapable of self-support due to a mental or physical incapacity that existed before age 18 and is (or, at the time a punitive or other adverse action was carried out in the case of the former member, was) dependent on the former member for over one-half of the child’s support; or

2.4.2.3. Is age 18 or older, but less than age 23, is enrolled in a full-time course of study in an institution of higher learning approved by the Secretary of Defense, and is (or, at the time a punitive or other adverse action was carried out in the case of the former member, was) dependent on the former member for over one-half of the child’s support.

2.5 Spouse or Former Spouse

The term spouse or former spouse refers to the individual who was legally married to the member at the time of the commission of the dependent-abuse offense resulting in separation from military service.

3.0 ELIGIBILITY FOR TRANSITIONAL COMPENSATION

3.1 Eligibility for Transitional Compensation Payment

The dependents of a member or former member who is separated on or after November 30, 1993, the basis for the separation which includes a dependent-abuse offense, are eligible for transitional compensation payments. If a recipient is incapable of handling his or her affairs, then payments are made only to a court-appointed guardian. In the case of a dependent child under 18 years of age, payments are made only to a court-appointed guardian or a parent who has legal custody of the dependent child and who is not also the abuser.

3.1.1. Spouse or Former Spouse. In the case of a separation from active duty under punitive or other adverse action, payments are made to the person who was the member’s spouse at the time of the offense. The spouse or former spouse does not have to be the victim in order to receive transitional compensation.

3.1.2. Dependent Child. Payments may be made to a dependent child as prescribed in paragraph 4.1.
3.2 Exceptional Eligibility Authority

3.2.1. The Secretary of the Military Department concerned may authorize eligibility for transitional compensation benefits for a spouse, former spouse, or dependents of a member or former member of the Armed Forces who is not otherwise eligible for such benefits if the Secretary of the Military Department concerned determines that:

3.2.1.1. The member or former member engaged in conduct that is a dependent-abuse offense; and

3.2.1.2. The member or former member was separated from active duty in a manner other than those described in paragraph 2.2, on or after November 24, 2003.

3.2.2. The Secretary of the Military Department concerned may determine commencement and duration of payments in a manner similar to that described in paragraph 4.2.

3.2.3. For the purposes of the provision of benefits under this paragraph, a member shall be considered separated from active duty upon the earliest of:

3.2.3.1. The date an administrative separation is initiated by the commander of the member;

3.2.3.2. The date the court-martial sentence is adjudged if the sentence, as adjudged, includes a dismissal, dishonorable discharge, bad conduct discharge, or forfeiture of all pay and allowances; or

3.2.3.3. The date the member’s term of service expires.

3.2.4. Exceptional eligibility authority by the Secretary of the Military Department concerned may not be delegated.

3.3 Application

An individual can request transitional compensation through a Military Service representative. The Military Service representative:

3.3.1. Assists applicant in filling out the DD Form 2698, Application for Transitional Compensation;

3.3.2. Approves payment;

3.3.3. Requests the applicant submit a Standard Form 1199A, Direct Deposit Sign-up Form, completed by the applicant and the financial institution or a voided check/deposit slip with a written authorization for direct deposit of payments; and 3.3.4. Provides the Operation and Maintenance fund citation, and forwards the application and information for direct deposit to the Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS) at the following address:

4.0 PAYMENT

4.1 Recipients of Payments

Transitional compensation will be paid as follows:

4.1.1 If the member or former member was married at the time of the dependent-abuse offense, then compensation will be paid to the spouse or former spouse to whom the member or former member was married at that time. An amount will be included for each, if any, dependent child of the member or former member who resides in the same household as the spouse or former spouse.

4.1.2 If the spouse or former spouse is eligible to receive compensation and the member or former member has one or more dependent children who do not reside in the household of the spouse or former spouse, compensation is also paid to each of the dependent children who were residing in the household at the time of the abuse, but do not reside with the spouse or current spouse. This provision became effective November 1, 1998.

4.1.3. If a spouse or former spouse has forfeited his or her entitlement for reasons described in paragraph 4.5, then compensation will be paid only to each dependent child who was residing in the household at the time of the abuse, but does not reside with the spouse or former spouse.

4.1.4. If there is no eligible spouse or former spouse, then such compensation will be paid to each of the member’s dependent children who do not reside in the member’s or former member’s household.

4.2 Commencement and Duration of Payment

4.2.1. In the case of a member convicted by a court-martial of a dependent-abuse offense, payments begin:
4.2.1.1. As of the date that the court-martial sentence is adjudged if the sentence, as adjudged, includes a dismissal, dishonorable discharge, bad-conduct discharge, or forfeiture of all pay and allowances; or

4.2.1.2. If there is a pretrial agreement that provides for disapproval or suspension of the dismissal, dishonorable discharge, bad-conduct discharge, or forfeiture of all pay and allowances, as of the date the court-martial sentence was approved by the person acting under 10 U.S.C. § 860(c), only if the sentence as approved, includes an unsuspended dismissal, dishonorable discharge, bad-conduct discharge, or forfeiture of all pay and allowances.

4.2.2. In the case of a member administratively separated based on a dependent-abuse offense, payment begins as of the date that the separation action was initiated by the commander under regulations determined by the Secretary of the Military Department concerned.

4.2.3. In the case of a total forfeiture of pay and allowances pursuant to a sentence of a court-martial, payment will not be made for any period for which an order:

4.2.3.1. Defers or suspends, in whole or in part, that part of a sentence that includes total forfeiture of the Service member’s pay and allowance; or 4.2.3.2. Otherwise results in continuation, in whole or in part, of the Service member’s pay and allowances.

4.2.4. Payments are made for a period of not less than 12 months, but cannot exceed 36 months, based on policies established by the Secretary of the Military Department concerned.

4.2.4.1. When the unserved portion of the member’s obligated active duty service, as of the starting date of payment, is greater than 12 months and less than or equal to 36 months, the duration of payments will be no less than the unserved portion.

4.2.4.2. For enlisted members, the obligated active duty service is the time remaining on their term of enlistment. For officers, the obligated active duty service is indefinite unless the officer has a date of separation established, in which case it is the time remaining until the date of separation.

4.2.5. As long as the payee meets the eligibility criteria at the time payments begin, the payee is entitled to transitional compensation for the duration established by Service regulations even if the payee ceases to meet the definition of dependent child at some point during receipt of the compensation.

4.3 Amount of Payment

Use the monthly Dependency and Indemnity Compensation (DIC) rates to pay transitional compensation. The Veterans Affairs (VA) website provides information on DIC rates at http://benefits.va.gov/Compensation/current_rates_dic.asp. DIC rates for prior years are located at the end of the VA webpage under “Historical Rate Tables.”
4.3.1. A spouse or former spouse receives transitional compensation in an amount equal to the monthly rate currently in effect for DIC. See Table 60-1 for transitional compensation rates paid to a spouse or former spouse.

4.3.2. If the spouse or former spouse has custody of a dependent child or children of the member who resides in the same household as that spouse or former spouse, then transitional compensation is increased for each child by an amount equal to the monthly DIC amount payable for dependent children. See Table 60-2 for additional transitional compensation rates paid to spouse or former spouse with an eligible dependent child or children.

4.3.3. If transitional compensation is payable to a dependent child under paragraph 4.1, then payments are made in equal shares, in an amount equal to the monthly DIC amount payable for dependent children. When paying multiple children and the payment amount does not divide equally, the youngest child will receive the odd cent(s). See Table 60-3 for transitional compensation rates paid to an eligible child or children.

4.3.4. Payments will be prorated for months when payments start or stop in the middle of a month (e.g., if the former spouse receiving transitional compensation remarries, then compensation terminates effective as of the date of the marriage).

4.3.5. Transitional compensation payments will stop effective the date of death of the recipient. Arrears of compensation will not be paid.

4.3.6. Advance payment of transitional compensation benefits is not authorized.

4.4 Effect of Continuation of Military Pay

In the case of payment of transitional compensation by reason of a total forfeiture of pay and allowances pursuant to a sentence of a court-martial, payment of transitional compensation will not be made for any period for which an order, in whole or in part:

4.4.1. Suspends that part of a sentence that includes forfeiture of the member’s pay and allowances; or 4.4.2. Otherwise results in the continuation of the member’s pay and allowances.

4.5 Forfeiture Provisions

4.5.1. The following will result in the forfeiture of transitional compensation:

4.5.1.1. If, after a punitive or other adverse action has been executed, the former member resides in the same household as the spouse or former spouse or child who is receiving transitional compensation, compensation terminates as of the date the former member begins residing in the household. The spouse or former spouse must notify DFAS within 30 days of the date the member begins residing in the same household as them or any dependent children receiving compensation payments. Any compensation paid before the member resides in the household will not be recouped. Once terminated for cohabitation, the payments do not resume.

4.5.1.2. If the former spouse receiving compensation remarries, then compensation terminates effective as of the date of the former spouse’s remarriage. The former spouse must notify DFAS within 30 days of the date of remarriage. Payments do not resume if the subsequent marriage is terminated. If the payments to the spouse terminate due to remarriage and there are dependent children not living in the same household as the spouse or member, payment will be made to each of those dependent children.

4.5.1.3. If the victim was a dependent child, and the competent authority designated by the Secretary of the Military Department concerned has found that the spouse was an active participant in the conduct constituting the criminal offense, or actively aided or abetted the member in such conduct against that dependent child, then the spouse or former spouse may not be paid transitional compensation.

4.5.2. To ensure compliance with subparagraphs 4.5.1.1 and 4.5.1.2, the following must be submitted to DFAS on an annual basis:

4.5.2.1. Spouse/Former Spouse Certification. A former spouse receiving transitional compensation must certify annually to DFAS that he or she has not remarried. A former spouse or spouse receiving transitional compensation must certify annually that he or she has not been cohabiting with the member. The form to be used is a Certificate of Eligibility (COE), which must be submitted to the DFAS Cleveland site.

4.5.2.2. Parent or Court-Approved Guardian COE. The parent or court-approved guardian will certify annually that the dependent child or children are not residing with the member or ineligible spouse via the COE process. If the COE is not received within 60 days of the date of the COE, then payments will be suspended until verification of eligibility is received.

4.6 Termination of Payments

Transitional compensation is not payable when a member’s court-martial sentence, which includes a dismissal, dishonorable discharge, or bad-conduct discharge, is remitted, set aside, or mitigated to a lesser punishment that does not include such punishment, or the administrative separation is disapproved. Any payment of transitional compensation that has started will stop effective the first day of the month after the Secretary of the Military Department concerned notifies the recipient in writing that payment will cease for such reason. The recipient is not required to repay transitional compensation received before the effective date of termination, excluding erroneous payments.

4.7 Taxability

Transitional compensation payments are considered benefits that are excludable from taxation and should not be reported on Internal Revenue Service Form 1099R, Distributions From Pensions, Annuities, Retirement or Profit-Sharing Plans, IRAs, Insurance Contracts, etc.
5.0 OTHER BENEFITS

5.1 Coordination of Benefits

5.1.1. Election of Benefits. A spouse or former spouse may not concurrently receive both payments of transitional compensation under 10 U.S.C. § 1059 and payments under 10 U.S.C. § 1408(h) (see Chapter 59 for spouses and former spouses of retirement-eligible members who lost eligibility for retired pay as a result of misconduct involving abuse of dependents). If a spouse or former spouse has obtained a court order awarding compensation pursuant to 10 U.S.C. § 1408(h), then the spouse or former spouse will elect which benefit to receive. An application for payment under 10 U.S.C. § 1408(h), pursuant to the requirements of Chapter 59, will be considered an election to receive 10 U.S.C. § 1408(h) payments. See Chapter 59, section 4.0 for application requirements.

5.1.2. Effective Date. The election to receive benefits under 10 U.S.C. § 1408(h) is effective on the date that a complete application is received. If the applicant is not eligible to receive benefits under 10 U.S.C. § 1408(h) on the date the application is received, then the effective date will be the date the applicant becomes eligible for payments under 10 U.S.C. § 1408(h). Payments of transitional compensation under 10 U.S.C. § 1059 will be terminated and payments under 10 U.S.C. § 1408(h) will commence on the first day of the first month after the date the election to receive payments under 10 U.S.C. § 1408(h) is effective.

5.2 Commissary and Exchange Benefits

5.2.1. A recipient of transitional compensation payments is entitled to use commissary and exchange stores to the same extent and manner as a dependent of a member of the Armed Forces on active duty for a period of more than 30 days.

5.2.2. If the recipient is entitled to use commissary and exchange stores under another provision of law, then the entitlement is determined under the other provision of law rather than under this paragraph.

5.3 Medical Benefits

5.3.1. The Secretary concerned will determine appropriate medical and dental care eligibility for transitional compensation recipients and affected dependents. At a minimum, an abused dependent who is receiving transitional compensation, may receive medical and dental care, including mental health services, in facilities of the military services or through the TRICARE program as outlined in 10 U.S.C. § 1076 and 10 U.S.C. § 1077.

5.3.2. Dental care may be provided on a space-available basis in facilities of the Military Services.

5.3.3. Eligible dependents of a member who is retirement eligible, but who loses eligibility for retirement pay because of dependent-abuse misconduct, may receive medical and dental care in accordance with 10 U.S.C. § 1408(h).

CHAPTER 61

ANNUITIES FOR CERTAIN MILITARY SURVIVING SPOUSES (ACMSS)

1.0 GENERAL (6101)

1.1 Purpose (610101)

The purpose of this chapter is to provide guidance, policy, delegation of authority, and assignment of responsibilities, as they apply to ACMSS.

*1.2 Authoritative Guidance (610102)

The pay policies and requirements established by DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.), including Title 10. Due to the subject matter in this chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in the reference section at the end of the chapter.

2.0 ELIGIBILITY FOR PAYMENT (6102)

2.1 General (610201)

Effective November 18, 1997, ACMSS was established under Public Law (PL) 105-85 to provide annuity payments to certain qualified surviving spouses.

*3.0 QUALIFIED SURVIVING SPOUSE AND DECEASED RETIRED MEMBER (6103)

3.1 Qualified Surviving Spouse (610301)

Only an individual who meets the following criteria qualifies for these annuity payments.

3.1.1. Is a surviving spouse of a deceased retired member, as defined in paragraph 3.2, who:

3.1.1.1. Was married to the retired member at the time the member became eligible for retired pay;

3.1.1.2. Had been married to the retired member for at least 1 year before the date of death; or

3.1.1.3. Is the parent of a child born of the marriage; and

3.1.2. Has not remarried.
3.2 Deceased Retired Member (610302)

A deceased retired member for the purpose of this annuity is one who:

3.2.1. Became entitled to retired or retainer pay before September 21, 1972, died before March 21, 1974, and was entitled to retired or retainer pay on the date of death; or

3.2.2. Died before October 1, 1978, and at the time of death, would have been entitled to retired pay under Title 10, United States Code (U.S.C.), Chapter 67 (renumbered to 10 U.S.C., Chapter 1223 by PL 103-337, effective December 1, 1994), but for the fact that he or she was under 60 years of age.

*4.0 ANNUITY APPLICATION (6104)

4.1 General (610401)

An annuity application is required before payment will be made.

4.2 Application Procedure (610402)

4.2.1. Application. A Department of Defense (DD) Form 2769, Application for Annuity Certain Military Surviving Spouses, must be submitted to the Military Service concerned.

4.2.2. Documentation. If information is unavailable from existing records, such as the Defense Enrollment Eligibility Reporting System, the applicant may be required to submit the following documentation to the Military Service concerned:

4.2.2.1. Certified copies of the retired member’s death certificate and/or marriage certificate;

4.2.2.2. DD Form 214, Certificate of Release or Discharge from Active Duty;

4.2.2.3. Retirement order;

4.2.2.4. Retired pay statement; and

4.2.2.5. Any additional information needed to substantiate the claim.

4.2.3. Review and Approval. The Military Service concerned will then:

4.2.3.1. Review the claim and determine whether the applicant is qualified for an ACMSS annuity;

4.2.3.2. Notify the applicant on the disposition of the claim within 60 days; and 42.3.3. Forward approved claims to the Defense Finance and Accounting Service Cleveland site (DFAS-CL) for payment.

5.0 PAYMENT OF ANNUITY (6105)

5.1 Payment Effective Date (610501)

Payment to a qualified surviving spouse begins within 30 days upon receipt by DFAS-CL of a validated claim endorsed by the Military Service. The monthly payments begin not earlier than December 1, 1997, except where entitlement is under subparagraph 610302.B, in which case entitlement begins not earlier than October 1, 1999.

5.2 Representative Payee (610502)

ACMSS payments due to a mentally incompetent or otherwise legally disabled person, for whom a guardian or other fiduciary has not been appointed, may be paid to a representative payee the same as the Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP). See Chapter 46.

5.3 Report of Existence (ROE) and Certificate of Eligibility (COE) (610503)

The procedures for ROE and COE on SBP annuity payments also apply to ACMSS payments. See Chapter 46.

5.4 Debt Collection (610504)

Overpayments of an annuity are subject to the same collection action as SBP. See Chapter 46.

5.5 Taxability (610505)

The taxability of ACMSS payments is similar to an SBP annuity. See Chapter 46.

5.6 Death of Annuitant (610506)

The annuity terminates the last day of the month before the date the annuitant dies. Any amounts that are due and payable at the time of the annuitant’s death may be paid in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 31. The unpaid annuity will only be paid upon receipt of a properly executed and documented claim, approved by the Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee).

5.7 Remarriage (610507)

The annuity terminates the first day of the month in which the annuitant remarries, without regard to the age of the annuitant.
6.0 ANNUITY AMOUNT AND OFFSET (6106)

6.1 Amount (610601)

The annuity to a qualified surviving spouse was initially established at $165 per month. The amount is subject to the same cost-of-living adjustment (COLA) and effective at the same time as military retired pay increases. The first COLA was effective December 1, 1997, as shown on Table 61-1. The annual COLA memorandums are published to the Military Pay and Benefits Website that is sponsored by the Office of the Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness. The provision for rounding monthly SBP annuity is not applicable.

6.2 Offset (610602)

The amount of annuity to which a surviving spouse is entitled under this section for any period is reduced (but not below zero) by any amount paid to the surviving spouse for the same period under any of the following:

6.2.1. Retired and Reserve Component SBP;

6.2.2. Retired Serviceman’s Family Protection Plan;

6.2.3. Minimum Widows Income-SBP; or

6.2.4. Dependency and Indemnity Compensation.

7.0 FUNDING (6107)

The approving Military Service must fund the annuities from operations and maintenance funds for the fiscal year in which the payment is made.

CHAPTER 63

COMBAT-RELATED SPECIAL COMPENSATION (CRSC)

1.0 GENERAL

1.1 Purpose

CRSC provides special compensation to members of the Uniformed Services who have retired pay reduced because of receiving U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) disability compensation where a portion of such VA disability compensation is the result of disabilities that are combat-related as determined by the Military Department.

1.1.1. Effective Date. The CRSC program became effective May 31, 2003. Payments are made on the first day of the first month following the month in which the compensation accrued, provided the member is receiving VA disability compensation for a disability that has been determined to be combat-related by the Military Department. No CRSC is payable for any month prior to June 2003.

1.1.1.2. For an eligible member whose disability percentage is less than 60 percent, compensation is effective January 1, 2004.

1.1.1.3. For an eligible member who is retired under Title 10, United States Code, Chapter 61 (10 U.S.C. Chapter 61) with less than 20 years of active duty or with less than sufficient service and age to qualify for retirement under 10 U.S.C. § 12731, compensation is effective January 1, 2008.

1.1.1.4. For a member who did not meet the qualifications on June 1, 2003, January 1, 2004, or January 1, 2008, but who later meets the qualifications, entitlement accrues the first day of the following month.

1.1.2. Funding and Payment. CRSC is not military retired pay. It is a monthly entitlement that is paid only in whole-month increments. Prior to October 1, 2003, CRSC was payable from funds appropriated for pay and allowances payable by the Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee) for that fiscal year (FY). Effective October 1, 2003, the source of funding is the Department of Defense (DoD) Military Retirement Fund.

1.1.3. Relationship to Other Provisions.

1.1.3.1. CRSC is not retired pay, and it is not subject to the provisions of 10 U.S.C. § 1408 relating to payment of retired or retainer pay in compliance with court orders.
1.1.3.2. CRSC is subject to a Treasury offset to recover a debt owed to the United States as well as to garnishment for child support or alimony. In addition, debts due the government may be collected from CRSC, including overpayments of retired pay or erroneous payments of CRSC, by means of an administrative offset. An administrative offset of CRSC to collect a debt due the government is subject to the due process requirements of 31 U.S.C. § 3716 and 31 Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), part 901. Claims for overpayments of CRSC may be considered for waiver in accordance with 10 U.S.C. § 2774. Finally, CRSC payments are not subject to Chapter 13 bankruptcy court orders to pay a Chapter 13 trustee.

1.1.3.3. CRSC is subject to a deduction of Survivor’s Benefit Plan (SBP) premium, when retired pay is not adequate, for a person who has elected to participate in the SBP. See paragraph 8.3.

1.1.4. Tax Consideration.

CRSC payments are considered tax exempt from Federal income tax under provisions of 26 U.S.C. § 104.

1.2 Authoritative Guidance

The pay policies and requirements established by DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the U.S.C., including Titles 10, 31, and 37. Due to the subject matter in this chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in a reference section at the end of the chapter.

2.0 ENTITLEMENT

2.1 Monthly Entitlement

CRSC is a monthly entitlement. A retiree is entitled to CRSC for each month during which, for the entire month, the member:

2.1.1. Has applied for and elected CRSC under these provisions (section 3.0),

2.1.2. Meets preliminary CRSC criteria (section 4.0), and

2.1.3. Meets final CRSC criteria (section 5.0).

2.2 Expanded Eligibility in 2008

As of January 1, 2008, section 641 of the FY 2008 National Defense Authorization Act and 10 U.S.C. § 1413a provide special rules for CRSC-eligible retirees with fewer than 20 years of service, to include members who have waived their retired pay in order to receive VA disability compensation. This expanded authority includes both 10 U.S.C., Chapter 61 (10 U.S.C. §§ 1201-1222) disability retirees and Temporary Early Retirement Authority (TERA) retirees. However, a Reserve Component retiree who receives retired pay for early retirement with physical disabilities under 10 U.S.C. § 12731b is specifically excluded from entitlement to CRSC by 10 U.S.C. § 1413a(c)(1).

3.0 APPLICATION AND ELECTION

3.1 Application and Election

A member may not be paid CRSC unless he or she has applied for and elected to receive compensation under the CRSC program by filing an application on DoD (DD) Form 2860, Claim For Combat-Related Special Compensation (CRSC), with the Military Department from which he or she retired. A member may submit an application for CRSC at any time and, if otherwise qualified for CRSC, compensation will be paid for any month after May 2003 for which all conditions of eligibility were met, subject to any legal limitations.

3.2 Election of CRSC or Concurrent Retirement and Disability Payments (CRDP)

The law states that a member eligible for both CRSC, under 10 U.S.C. § 1413a, and CRDP, under 10 U.S.C. § 1414, may not receive both, but must elect which compensation to receive. The Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS)-Cleveland site will advise the member which of the two payments is being paid pursuant to such election. In addition, the DFAS-Cleveland site will provide an annual notice to the member of their entitlements under both programs. If the gross amounts payable change under either program, a member may then change their election during the annual open season period (normally between January 1 and January 31) as set forth by DFAS each year. The member will have one opportunity annually to reverse the current election. This will allow the member to assess the impact of annual adjustments to retired pay, VA disability compensation, CRSC, and CRDP. The DFAS-Cleveland site will advise members of their options and the procedures to make such elections. See also Chapter 64 for more information.

4.0 PRELIMINARY CRITERIA

A retired member of the Uniformed Services must satisfy the following applicable conditions to meet the preliminary criteria to receive CRSC.

4.1 Years of Service Requirement

4.1.1. June 1, 2003 Through December 31, 2003. A retired member must have had 20 or more years of service for the purpose of computing retired pay.

4.1.2. January 1, 2004 Through December 31, 2007. Beginning January 1, 2004, and prior to January 1, 2008, a retired member must have had 20 or more years of service for the purpose of computing retired pay or have been entitled to Reserve Component retired pay under 10 U.S.C. § 12731 (other than by reason of § 12731b) to be eligible for CRSC.

4.1.3. Before January 1, 2008. For the purposes of both subparagraphs 4.1.1 and 4.1.2 the following apply:
4.1.3.1. The 20 years of service required for computing retired pay may be inferred from the retired pay multiplier. Thus, a member who retired for years of service (not for disability under 10 U.S.C., Chapter 61) who has a retired pay multiplier of not less than 50 percent, or a member retired under the Military Retirement Reform Act of 1986 (referred to as REDUX) who is still under age 62 with a retired pay multiplier of not less than 40 percent, may be presumed to have at least 20 years of service for retired pay computation purposes. The Military Departments are not bound by such presumption if there is documentary information to the contrary. In such cases the Military Departments shall base their determinations on the documentary information available. A member who retired under 10 U.S.C., Chapter 61 should be evaluated in terms of what the multiplier would be if the member had not retired for disability. See subparagraph 4.1.3.4.

4.1.3.2. A member retired under the provisions of section 4403 of Public Law 102-484, October 23, 1992, as amended, and by section 504 of Public Law 112-81, December 31, 2011 (commonly known as the TERA program) is generally not eligible unless the member is credited with sufficient service for a 50 percent multiplier or has been recalled to active duty long enough to accumulate 20 years or more of service in the Uniformed Services for the purpose of computing retired pay. Service in Public and Community Service positions under the provisions of section 4403 of Public Law 102-484, October 23, 1992, that is creditable for re-computation of retired pay at age 62 does not count for these purposes. A TERA retiree who has a retired pay increase of 10 percent granted on the basis of extraordinary heroism is not eligible under these provisions if the retired pay multiplier would otherwise be less than 50 percent.

4.1.3.3. Prior to January 1, 2004, a retired reservist had to have at least 7,200 points to be eligible for CRSC. Effective January 1, 2004, a retired Reservist with retired pay computed under 10 U.S.C. § 12731 is eligible for CRSC unless retired for disability under 10 U.S.C. § 12731b with more than 15 but less than 20 years as required under 10 U.S.C. § 12731(a)(2). Specifically, those retired under the Reserve TERA provisions, as prescribed in 10 U.S.C. § 12731a, who served fewer than 20 years, but were considered to meet the criteria of 10 U.S.C. § 12731(a)(2) are eligible under these provisions.

4.1.3.4. CRSC is payable to otherwise qualifying applicants receiving retired pay based on the DoD-assigned percentage of disability under 10 U.S.C., Chapter 61. For such members, the CRSC payment is subject to reduction as explained in paragraph 8.5.

4.1.4. On or After January 1, 2008. A retired member who meets the criteria of paragraphs 4.2 through 4.4 satisfies the preliminary criteria to receive CRSC, without regard to having 20 or more years of creditable service for computing retired pay.

4.1.4.1. A member retired for disability under 10 U.S.C., Chapter 61, with less than 20 years of service is eligible to receive CRSC, subject to reduction under subparagraph 8.5.2.
4.1.4.2. A member retired under the provisions of section 4403 of Public Law 102-484, October 23, 1992, as amended, and by section 504 of Public Law 112-81, December 31, 2011, (commonly known as the TERA program) is entitled to CRSC. The monthly amount of CRSC payable to qualifying TERA retirees will not be reduced under the special rules for CRSC-entitled disability retirees with less than 20 years of service that are applicable only to Chapter 61 retirees.

4.2 Retired Status

A member must be in a retired status (i.e., on the retired rolls), or have been transferred to the Fleet Reserve or Fleet Marine Corps Reserve. A member who is recalled to, or retained on, active duty is not in a retired status and therefore is not entitled to CRSC for such period of active duty.

4.3 Entitled to Retired Pay

4.3.1. A member must be entitled to retired pay, notwithstanding that such retired pay may be reduced due to receipt of VA disability compensation. A reservist who has not reached the requisite age to receive retired pay (generally age 60) is not eligible to receive CRSC payments. See Chapter 1, subparagraph 3.8.6, for when the eligibility age of a reservist will be reduced below 60 years of age and become eligible for retired pay.

4.3.2. A member who waives retired pay in order to credit military service for the purposes of establishing eligibility for a civil service retirement, or for any reason other than to receive disability compensation from the VA, is not eligible to receive CRSC payments. A member who combines his military time with his civil service time for the sole purpose of enhancing his civil service retirement may be eligible for CRSC if the member is still eligible to receive military retired pay. Members should consult the Civil Service Retirement System (CSRS) and Federal Employees Retirement System (FERS) Handbook for Personnel and Payroll Offices for further information on eligibility.

4.4 Qualifying Disability Ratings (Percentages)

4.4.1. A member must be entitled to compensation for service-connected disabilities under 38 U.S.C., as rated by the VA. The rating must be awarded prior to the member’s date of death.

4.4.2. Disability ratings by the Secretary of the Military Department concerned (or designee), as of the date on which the member retired, may be used to help make determinations of whether the member meets preliminary CRSC criteria. The actual computation of the amount of CRSC payable to an eligible retiree is based solely on VA disability determinations and the amount of VA compensation paid, without regard to any disability that is not combat-related. Military retirement decisions may be used to determine whether such disabilities are combat-related.
5.0 FINAL CRITERIA

In order for the member to be entitled to CRSC, the member must meet all four preliminary CRSC criteria (as prescribed in paragraphs 4.1 through 4.4), and the appropriate Service must determine that the member has a combat-related disability or disabilities, as defined by paragraphs 5.1 and 5.2, that are compensated by the VA.

5.1 Purple Heart Disability

5.1.1. Purple Heart Disability is a disability with an assigned medical diagnosis code from the VA Schedule for Rating Disability (VASRD) that was attributed to injuries for which the member was awarded a Purple Heart.

5.1.2. If the member meets the preliminary CRSC criteria and has been awarded a Purple Heart, then the Military Department must determine which disabilities of the member, if any, are attributed to Purple Heart injuries. If the member was not awarded a Purple Heart, then no such determination will be made.

5.1.3. Determination that a disability is a Purple Heart Disability requires documentary information that there is a sufficient causal relationship between the disability and injury for which a Purple Heart was awarded to conclude that the disability is attributable to such injury. Such a disability will be classified as a Purple Heart Disability and will be included in any other CRSC determinations based on combat-related disabilities.

5.2 Other Combat-Related Disabilities

A combat-related disability is a disability with an assigned medical diagnosis code from the VASRD and which a Military Department has determined is combat-related based on the following criteria:

5.2.1. The disability was incurred as a direct result of armed conflict,

5.2.2. The disability was incurred while engaged in hazardous service,

5.2.3. The disability was incurred in the performance of duty under conditions simulating war, or

5.2.4. The disability was incurred through an instrumentality of war.

NOTE: The Department will record for each disability determined to be combat-related which of the criteria provided at subparagraphs 5.2.1 through 5.2.4 qualifies the disability as combat-related. A determination of combat-relatedness (see section 6.0) will be made concerning each separate disability with an assigned medical diagnosis code from the VASRD. A retiree may have disabilities that are not combat-related. Such disabilities will not be considered in determining eligibility for CRSC or the amount of CRSC payable. An uncorroborated statement in a record that a disability is combat-related will not, by itself, be considered determinative for purposes of meeting the combat-related standards for CRSC prescribed herein. CRSC determinations must be made based on the program criteria.

6.0 DETERMINATIONS OF COMBAT-RELATEDNESS

The following criteria, terms, definitions, and explanations will apply to making combat-related determinations in the CRSC Program.

6.1 Direct Result of Armed Conflict

6.1.1. The disability is a disease or injury incurred in the line of duty as a direct result of armed conflict. To support a combat-related determination, it is not sufficient to only state the fact that a member incurred the disability during a period of war, in an area of armed conflict, or while participating in combat operations. There must be a definite causal relationship between the armed conflict and the resulting disability.

6.1.2. Armed conflict includes a war, expedition, occupation of an area or territory, battle, skirmish, raid, invasion, rebellion, insurrection, guerilla action, riot, or any other action in which Service members are engaged with a hostile or belligerent nation, faction, force, or with terrorists.

6.1.3. Armed conflict may also include incidents involving a member while interned as a prisoner of war, while detained against his or her will in the custody of a hostile or belligerent force, or while escaping or attempting to escape from such confinement, prisoner of war, or detained status.

6.2 While Engaged in Hazardous Service

Hazardous service is service that includes, but is not limited to, aerial flight, parachute duty, demolition duty, experimental stress duty, and diving duty. A finding that a disability is the result of hazardous service requires that the injury or disease be the direct result of actions taken in the performance of such service. Travel to and from such service, or actions incidental to a normal duty status not considered hazardous, are not included.

6.3 In the Performance of Duty Under Conditions Simulating War

In general, performance of duty under conditions simulating war covers disabilities resulting from military training, such as war games, practice alerts, tactical exercises, airborne operations, leadership reaction courses, grenade and live fire weapon practice, bayonet training, hand-to-hand combat training, repelling, and negotiation of combat confidence and obstacle courses. It does not include physical training activities such as calisthenics, jogging, formation running, or supervised sport activities.
6.4 Instrumentality of War

6.4.1. There must be a direct causal relationship between the instrumentality of war and the disability. It is not required that a member’s disability be incurred during an actual period of war. The disability must be incurred incident to a hazard or risk of the service.

6.4.2. An instrumentality of war is a vehicle, vessel, or device designed primarily for Military Service and intended for use in such Service at the time of the occurrence or injury. It may also include such instrumentality not designed primarily for Military Service if use of or occurrence involving such instrumentality subjects the individual to a hazard peculiar to Military Service. Such use or occurrence differs from the use or occurrence under similar circumstances in civilian pursuits.

6.4.3. A determination that a disability is the result of an instrumentality of war may be made if the disability was incurred in any period of service as a result of such diverse causes as wounds caused by a military weapon, accidents involving a military combat vehicle, injury or sickness caused by fumes, gases, or explosion of military ordnance, vehicles, or materiel.

6.4.4. For example, if a member is engaging in a sporting activity while on a field exercise and falls and strikes an armored vehicle, the injury would not be considered the result of an instrumentality of war (armored vehicle) because it was the sporting activity that was the cause of the injury, not the vehicle. On the other hand, if the individual was engaged in the same sporting activity and the armored vehicle struck the member, then the injury would be considered the result of an instrumentality of war.

7.0 SPECIAL MONTHLY COMPENSATION (SMC)

7.1 General

SMC, under 38 U.S.C. § 1114, is payable for anatomical loss or loss of use of specific organs or parts of the body as a result of service-connected disabilities. SMC is payable in addition to the basic rate of compensation otherwise payable on the basis of degree of disability, provided that the combined rate of compensation does not exceed the monthly rate set forth in 38 U.S.C. § 1114(k).

7.2 Special Determination

Each Military Department will make a special determination regarding whether a member entitled to CRSC who also receives SMC from the VA under 38 U.S.C. § 1114(k) through (s) could receive increased CRSC as a result of an SMC determination. The Military Department will first determine whether all the member’s VA-compensated disabilities have been determined to be combat-related disabilities under the CRSC program. For members with VA-compensated disabilities that are both combat-related and non-combat-related, the Military Department will classify each award of SMC as either Combat-Related SMC (CR-SMC) or Non-Combat-Related SMC (Non-CR-SMC), consistent with the corresponding determination of the diagnostic codes on which the SMC is based. The DFAS-Cleveland site will be notified of all such determinations and will include any CR-SMC in CRSC computations.

7.3 Grades Not Requiring SMC Determinations

The Military Department need not make a combat-related determination for any member who would not receive added compensation even if SMC was determined to be combat-related. Any SMC on such member will be passed to DFAS as “undetermined combat-relatedness.”

8.0 CRSC AMOUNT

The monthly amount of CRSC is equal to the full monthly amount prescribed in paragraph 8.1, reduced as prescribed in paragraph 8.5 and limited in accordance with paragraph 8.2.

*8.1 Gross Monthly Amount

The monthly amount of disability compensation the member would be paid by the VA under the provisions of 38 U.S.C. if compensated solely for the disabilities determined to be attributable to an injury for which the member received the Purple Heart or determined to be otherwise combat-related. Applicable compensation is set forth in 38 U.S.C., Chapter 11. See section 5.0.

Example: A member with a spouse and two children has qualifying combat-related disabilities rated at 100 percent by the VA. The member’s current monthly VA benefit amount is $3,537.49 which is the prescribed rate for a 100 percent disability for a veteran with a spouse and two children as of December 1, 2020. The gross monthly amount for CRSC purposes is based on this full rate and not just the veteran-alone amounts as applied to CRSC for periods on or after January 1, 2004.

8.1.1 Compensation of Dependents. Additional compensation for dependents is to be included as part of any applicable CRSC compensation. DFAS will use the same dependency rates for the combat-related compensation as VA uses to determine the member’s full disability compensation. For example, if a member is compensated by VA at the 100 percent disability rate for a veteran with spouse and one child and the combat-related percentage is 60 percent, then the gross CRSC will be determined as the 60 percent rate for a veteran with a spouse and one child. The rates of such compensation are set forth in 38 U.S.C. § 1115 and are also located at https://www.va.gov/disability/compensation-rates/veteran-rates.

8.1.2 SMC. The amount of SMC will be considered as part of gross CRSC compensation only if the SMC is paid on the basis of disabilities determined by the Military Department to be combat-related. See section 7.0.
8.1.3. Retired Members Considered Unemployable. Under the laws governing the VA, members who qualify for the Individual Unemployability supplement to VA Disability Compensation under the provisions of 38 CFR 4.16 are entitled to receive monthly VA disability compensation payment equal to the amount that they would receive if rated by the VA as 100 percent disabled. In such cases, DFAS will coordinate with VA to determine the amount of VA Disability compensation actually provided to the member, irrespective of the VA schedule rating percentage. CRSC entitlement will be determined based on the amount of VA Disability compensation actually paid by the VA and the amount of military retired pay waived to receive VA Disability compensation, subject to the other criteria and limitations found in this chapter. See paragraphs 8.2 and 8.5.

*8.2 Adjusted Amount

The CRSC payment may not exceed the current reduction in retired pay applicable to the retiree under 38 U.S.C. § 5304 and 38 U.S.C. § 5305. Thus, CRSC is not payable if there is no reduction because the member is not receiving any monthly disability compensation from VA, or because the member is not receiving retired pay (such as a reserve member before reaching retirement age at 60 or other reduced retirement age), or for other reasons (such as a member who waives military retired pay in order to credit military service for a civil service retirement). The amount of a member’s CRSC entitlement will be adjusted to be the lesser of the gross CRSC from paragraph 8.1 or the reduction to the retired pay entitlement.

Example: The member, described in paragraph 8.1 is retired after 22 years of service with a high-three pay base of $4,500, resulting in retired pay of $2,475 monthly (55 percent of $4,500). The potential retired pay of $2,475 is reduced to $0 by receipt of the VA disability compensation. Thus the adjusted amount of CRSC is the $2,475 reduction in retired pay since it is less than the gross amount of $3,537.49 determined in the example in paragraph 8.1.

8.3 Deduction From CRSC When Retired Pay Not Adequate

Pursuant to 10 U.S.C. § 1452(d)(2), if a deduction from the member's retired pay for any period cannot be made in the full amount required to satisfy the SBP premium, the premium will be deducted from the retiree's CRSC in lieu of deduction from the member's retired pay in the amount that would otherwise have been deducted from the member's retired pay for that period.

8.4 SBP Premium Deduction From CRSC When Dependency and Indemnity Compensation (DIC) Offset is Applicable

Pursuant to 10 U.S.C. § 1450(e), the SBP premium deducted from CRSC of the deceased will be refunded to the surviving spouse when DIC offset is applicable. See Chapter 46.

*8.5 CRSC Payment Reduction for 10 U.S.C., Chapter 61 Disability Retirees

The adjusted monthly amount specified in paragraph 8.2 will be reduced according to the provisions of subparagraph 8.5.1 or 8.5.2, whichever is applicable.
8.5.1. Reduction for Periods Prior to January 1, 2013.

8.5.1.1. Members retired for disability under 10 U.S.C., Chapter 61 with 20 years or more of creditable service computed under section 10 U.S.C. § 1208 will have the maximum CRSC payment reduced by the amount, if any, by which the amount of the member’s gross retired pay under Chapter 61 exceeds the applicable retired pay to which the member would otherwise have been entitled under any other provisions of law. A retiree who accepted the Career Status Bonus will have the reduced amount calculated based on retired pay that would otherwise have been computed under 10 U.S.C. § 1409(b)(2).

Example: The member described in paragraph 8.2, who would have received $2,475 in retired pay had he retired for his years of service, was retired under 10 U.S.C., Chapter 61 with a disability rated at 60 percent. Thus, the member receives retired pay of $2,700 monthly (60 percent of $4,500). However, in this case, the member has a combined VA rating of 100 percent, but combat-related disabilities rated at 60 percent. The member’s current monthly VA benefit amount is $3,537.49, of which $1,380.39 is combat-related. The member has a total offset of retired pay. The maximum CRSC entitlement under paragraphs 8.1 and 8.2 is $1,380.39. The maximum CRSC entitlement will be reduced by the difference in the Chapter 61 retirement and the longevity retirement amounts, or $225 ($2,700 less $2,475). This reduction reflects the amount by which the member’s disability retired pay exceeds his or her longevity retired pay. The member’s CRSC benefit of $1,380.39 is reduced by $225 to $1,155.39. In this case, the member will receive $3,537.49 from the VA and $1,155.39 in CRSC from DoD.

8.5.1.2. Members retired for disability under 10 U.S.C., Chapter 61 with less than 20 years of creditable service computed under 10 U.S.C. § 1208 and who initially qualify for CRSC on or after January 1, 2008, will have the maximum CRSC payment reduced by the amount, if any, by which the amount of the member’s gross retired pay under Chapter 61 exceeds the amount that is equal to 2½ percent of the member’s years of creditable service multiplied by the member’s retired pay base under 10 U.S.C. § 1406(b)(1) or 10 U.S.C. § 1407, whichever is applicable to the member.

NOTE: A retired reserve member, retired under the provisions of 10 U.S.C., Chapter 61 is entitled to CRSC. The gross amount of CRSC determined under paragraph 8.1 will be adjusted as required under paragraph 8.2 and then further reduced under paragraph 8.5. For Reserve Component members with less than 20 years of service as determined under 10 U.S.C. § 12733, reduce the adjusted CRSC amount by the amount, if any, by which the disability retired pay exceeds the amount equal to 2½ percent times the years of creditable service determined under 10 U.S.C. § 12733 multiplied by the member's applicable retired pay base. For Reserve Component members with 20 or more years of service as determined under 10 U.S.C. § 12733, reduce the adjusted CRSC amount by the amount, if any, by which the disability retired pay exceeds the retired pay to which the member would be entitled if the member were 60 years old.
8.5.2. Reductions for Periods On or After January 1, 2013.

8.5.2.1. Members retired for disability under 10 U.S.C., Chapter 61 with 20 or more years of creditable service computed under section 10 U.S.C. § 1208 will have the maximum CRSC payment restricted to the amount, which when combined with any remaining retired pay after VA offset, will not exceed the applicable retired pay to which the member would otherwise have been entitled under any other provisions of law. A retiree who accepted the Career Status Bonus will have the reduced amount calculated based on retired pay that would otherwise have been computed under 10 U.S.C. § 1409(b)(2).

Example: The same member, as described in paragraph 8.2, was retired under 10 U.S.C., Chapter 61, with a disability rated at 60 percent. Thus, the member receives retired pay of $2,700 monthly (60 percent of $4,500). However, in this case, the member has a combined VA rating of 100 percent, but combat-related disabilities rated at 60 percent. The member’s current monthly VA benefit amount is $3,537.49, of which $1,380.39 is combat-related. The member has a total offset of retired pay. Since there is no residual retired pay after offset of the full VA benefit amount, the member’s CRSC entitlement of $1,380.39, is fully payable as it does not exceed the applicable retired pay to which the member would otherwise have been entitled under any other provisions of law. In this case, the member will receive $3,537.49 from the VA and $1,380.39 in CRSC from DoD.

8.5.2.2. Members retired for disability under 10 U.S.C., Chapter 61, with less than 20 years of creditable service computed under 10 U.S.C. § 1208, and who are qualified for CRSC, on or after January 1, 2013, will have the maximum CRSC payment restrictions. The CRSC payment amount, which when combined with any remaining retired pay after VA offset, will not exceed the amount that is equal to 2½ percent of the member’s years of creditable service multiplied by the member’s retired pay base under 10 U.S.C. § 1406(b)(1) or 10 U.S.C. § 1407, whichever is applicable to the member.

NOTE: A retired reserve member, retired under the provisions of 10 U.S.C., Chapter 61, is entitled to CRSC. The gross amount of CRSC determined under paragraph 8.1 will be adjusted as required under paragraph 8.2. For Reserve Component members with less than 20 years of service as determined under 10 U.S.C. § 12733, the CRSC amount when combined with the amount of retired pay payable to the retiree after reduction for the full VA disability compensation, if any, may not exceed the disability retired pay amount that is equal to 2½ percent (2 percent if under Blended Retirement System) times the years of creditable service determined under 10 U.S.C. § 12733 multiplied by the member’s applicable retired pay base. For Reserve Component members with 20 or more years of service as determined under 10 U.S.C. § 12733, the CRSC amount when combined with the amount of retired pay payable to the retiree after reduction for the full VA disability compensation, if any, may not exceed the disability retired pay to which the member would be entitled if the member were 60 years old.
8.5.3. Chapter 61 Disability Retiree Out-Year Deductions. In all cases, once established (based on date the member was first placed on either the Permanent or Temporary Disability Retirement List), the CRSC reduction amount will be increased by each increase in the retired pay cost of living allowance. It will not be re-computed using current pay tables unless the member otherwise qualifies for re-computation of retired pay by reason of recall to duty or correction of official records.

9.0 COMBINED DISABILITY RATING PERCENTAGE

9.1 The VA Combined Ratings Table

The combined disability rating table combines multiple disability ratings as set forth in 38 CFR 4.25. The table is based on the consideration of an individual’s efficiency, as affected by the most disabling conditions, if any, in the order of severity. Thus, a person having a 60 percent disability is considered 40 percent efficient. Proceeding from this 40 percent efficiency, the effect of a further 30 percent disability is to leave only 70 percent of the efficiency remaining after consideration of the first disability (70 percent of 40 percent), leaving 28 percent efficiency altogether. The individual is thus 72 percent disabled.

9.2 Multiple Combined Disability Ratings

When a retiree has two or more disability ratings, use the following formula to determine the combined rating of multiple disabilities:

9.2.1. Subtract each disability percent from 100 percent to obtain the remaining efficiency,

9.2.2. Multiply the remaining efficiencies together,

9.2.3. Subtract the result from 100 percent, and 9.2.4. Round to the nearest 10 percent (round upward for 5 percent and up, down for 4 percent and below) to determine the combined disability rating.

Example 1: Consider a retiree having three disabilities from VA, rated 50 percent, 40 percent, and 30 percent. If added together, then the total would be 120 percent. Instead, the member’s combined rating is determined as follows:

1. The three disabilities leave efficiencies of 50 percent, 60 percent, and 70 percent respectively;

2. Multiply the three efficiencies together:

   \[ .50 \times .60 \times .70 = .21 \text{ or } 21 \text{ percent}; \]

3. The disability is 100 percent less 21 percent = 79 percent; and
4. Adjust the result upward to a combined disability rating of 80 percent.

Example 2: Now consider what happens if the Military Department determines that only the 40 percent and 30 percent disabilities are combat-related, then the member’s combined disability rating for CRSC would be:

1. The two disabilities of 40 percent and 30 percent leave efficiencies of 60 percent and 70 percent;
2. Multiply the two efficiencies together:
   \[0.60 \times 0.70 = 0.42 \text{ or } 42 \text{ percent};\]
3. The disability is 100 percent less 42 percent = 58 percent; and
4. Adjust the result upward to a combined disability rating of 60 percent.

*9.3 VA Retroactive Increase

When VA makes a retroactive increase in a member’s VA disability compensation pertinent to a member’s combat-related disabilities under CRSC, DFAS and VA will exchange data to determine the additional retroactive amount that the member is entitled to receive as the result of CRSC. DFAS will compute the additional CRSC entitlement and advise VA in order for VA to pay the member the appropriate additional authorized VA disability compensation. Any increase affecting CRSC qualified disabilities in the current month requires that CRSC be re-computed. No retroactive CRSC may be paid to a deceased member or to a survivor based on a retroactive VA Disability compensation increase that was awarded after a member died.

9.4 Impact to Uniformed Services Former Spouse's Protection Act Payments When a Military Retiree is Retroactively Awarded Disability Compensation or CRSC

CRSC payments that become payable to a retiree as a result of a retroactive VA or CRSC award will be reduced by all amounts of the retired pay and CRDP previously paid from the retiree’s account, including payments to his or her former spouse. Payments of retired of retired pay to a former spouse pursuant to a valid court order, but prior to a retroactive VA or CRSC award, were not and do not become erroneous overpayments.
10.0 REVIEW PROCESS

10.1 Basis for Determination

10.1.1. Determinations of whether a disability is combat-related will be based on the preponderance of available documentary information where quality of information is more important than quantity. All relevant documentary information is to be weighed in relation to known facts and circumstances, and determinations will be made on the basis of credible, objective documentary information in the records as distinguished from personal opinion, speculation, or conjecture.

10.1.2. The burden of proof that a disability is combat-related rests with the applicant, who is required to provide copies of documents in his or her possession to the best of his or her ability. A record submitted by a member may be used in support of his or her application if that record appears regular on its face and is consistent with Military Service documents and procedures in use at the time, based on the best information available. Military Departments may compile a list of typical documents used in various time periods. If necessary, the Military Departments, under agreement with VA may request copies of certain documents (i.e., DD 214, “Certificate of Release or Discharge From Active Duty”, medical records, final VA ratings) from VA to support CRSC determinations.

10.2 Processing of Applications

Each Military Department will receive and process applications submitted by members retired from that Military Department on DD 2860, Claim For Combat-Related Special Compensation (CRSC). Applications will be reviewed, and an application will be approved only if the applicant satisfies both preliminary and final CRSC criteria. An application must be received by the military department prior to the member’s death in order to be considered. An application for CRSC submitted by a member’s survivors will not be considered. The DFAS-Cleveland site will be notified of each approved application for payment.

10.2.1. Initial Review. Each Service Department will review the member’s application to determine if the member meets the preliminary criteria in section 4.0. If a member does not satisfy each of the preliminary CRSC criteria, then the application will be denied and no further consideration is necessary. The member may reapply when his or her ratings satisfy the specified thresholds and meet all four preliminary CRSC criteria in section 4.0.

10.2.2. Final Review. If the member meets all four preliminary criteria in section 4.0, then the Military Department will determine whether the member’s disabilities are qualifying combat-related disabilities, as prescribed in section 6.0. The Military Department will record each disability determined to be combat-related with assigned medical diagnosis code from VASRD. The Military Department will forward the approved claims with VASRD codes categorized as either combat or Purple Heart to the DFAS-Cleveland site for payment.
*10.3 Denial and Appeal

10.3.1. Denial. When a Military Department denies a CRSC application, they will provide a letter to the member specifying the reasons(s) for the denial. The Military Department will inform the member that he or she may seek reconsideration by submitting additional, clarifying, or new documentary information to the Military Department in support of his or her claim. The Military Department will review the additional or new information and will inform the member of the results of the review. The Military Department will also inform the member that CRSC is subject to the same appeals and correction processes applicable to military pay and allowances, including application to the appropriate Board for Correction of Military Records (BCMR) under the provisions of 10 U.S.C. § 1552.

10.3.2. Appeal. The Military Department will provide the member a DD 149, Application for Correction of Military Record Under the Provisions of Title 10, U.S. Code, section 1552, and the address of the BCMR, including its website.

CHAPTER 64

CONCURRENT RETIREMENT AND DISABILITY PAYMENT (CRDP)

1.0 GENERAL (6401)

1.1 Purpose (640101)

Effective January 1, 2004, eligible military retirees are entitled to concurrent receipt of both retired pay and Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) disability compensation. The CRDP program provided for a 10-year phase-out of the offset to retired pay due to receipt of VA disability compensation. The CRDP program provides a restoration of monthly retired pay calculated on the circumstances of each entitled individual.

*1.2 Authoritative Guidance (640102)

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.), including Titles 5, 10, and 38. Due to the subject matter in this chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in a reference section at the end of the chapter.

2.0 ELIGIBILITY (6402)

2.1 Qualified Retiree (640201)

A qualified retiree must be a member or former member of the Uniformed Services who is entitled for any month to both retired pay and VA disability compensation that is based on a qualifying service-connected disability.

2.2 Qualifying Service-Connected Disability (640202)

A qualifying service-connected disability is a service-connected disability (or combination of service-connected disabilities) that the VA rates at 50 percent or higher.

2.3 Physical Disability Retirement (640203)

Members retired for physical disability who have less than 20 years of service creditable for the purposes of computing retired pay are not eligible for CRDP.

2.4 Non-Regular Retired Pay (640204)

Members eligible for retirement for non-regular service are not eligible to receive CRDP until they reach retirement age and have applied for and have become entitled to receive retired pay.
2.5 Retired Pay Waived (640205)

A member who waives retired pay in order to credit military service for the purpose of establishing eligibility for a civil service retirement, or for any reason other than to receive VA disability compensation, is not eligible to receive CRDP payments. A member who combines his military time with his civil service time for the sole purpose of enhancing his civil service retirement may be eligible for CRDP. Members who are in receipt of a civil service retirement and believe they may be eligible for CRDP should consult the Civil Service Retirement System and Federal Employees Retirement System Handbook for Personnel and Payroll Offices for further information on eligibility. See also http://www.opm.gov/retire/pubs/handbook/hod.htm.

3.0 APPLICATION (6403)

A member is not required to submit an application to receive CRDP payments. The Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS) will establish procedures to ensure that qualified retirees receive CRDP to which they are entitled pursuant to 10 U.S.C. § 1414. Members who believe they are entitled to CRDP, but are not receiving it, should submit a written claim to DFAS, U.S. Military Retired Pay, 8899 East 56th Street, Indianapolis, IN 46249-1200. Any survivors seeking retroactive CRDP, owed a deceased member as arrears of pay, must submit a written claim on a completed Standard Form 1174. See Chapter 30, paragraph 300205 for additional information.

4.0 MONTHLY PAYMENT AMOUNT (6404)

Subject to the provisions of paragraphs 640401 and 640402, the monthly amount of retired pay restored under CRDP will be the amount of the offset imposed by receipt of VA disability compensation.

4.1 Special Rule for Disability Retirement (640401)

Members retired for disability under 10 U.S.C., Chapter 61, §§ 1201 - 1222 remain subject to the offset required under 38 U.S.C. §§ 5304 and 5305 for any retired pay they receive that is in excess of the amount of retired pay to which they would be entitled under any other provision of law based on service in the Uniformed Services, had they not retired for disability. Since retired pay in excess of the amount calculated for years in service is still subject to offset under the CRDP program, a member with an amount of retired pay remaining after offset of VA disability compensation, that is greater than the amount calculated for years of service, is not eligible for any increase in payment of retired pay under the CRDP program.
4.2 Phase-in Period (640402)

During the phase-in period of January 1, 2004 through December 31, 2013, payments were limited to the amounts determined as described in subparagraphs 640402.A-E. Effective January 1, 2014, qualified retirees receive full concurrent payments of both retired pay and VA disability compensation subject only to the restriction in paragraph 640401.

4.2.1. Restored retired pay computed under CRDP will be determined monthly. The values that determine the amount of retired pay to be restored are dynamic and may change from one month to another depending on a number of factors that cause retired pay and VA disability compensation payments to change. Therefore, CRDP will be recomputed for any month of the phase-in period in which changes to retired pay or VA disability compensation occur.

4.2.2. The formula for computing retired pay under the CRDP program during the phase-in period is:

Where:

\[\text{GRP} = \text{Gross Retired Pay before any offset for VA Disability Compensation.}\]
\[\text{CBO} = \text{Current Baseline Offset which is the lesser of ARP and VADC.}\]
\[\text{ARP} = \text{Applicable Retired Pay which is that portion earned for years of service.}\]
\[\text{VADC} = \text{VA Disability Compensation is the monthly disability compensation received.}\]
\[\text{VADP} = \text{VA Disability Percentage as currently assigned by VA.}\]
\[\text{Phase-in} \% = \text{The cumulative percentage for a specific calendar year during the phase-in.}\]
\[\text{2004 Base} = \text{The value assigned by law for a specific VADP.}\]

4.2.3. The 2004 CRDP base amounts are as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>VADP</th>
<th>2004 CRDP Base</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>100%</td>
<td>$750</td>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>60%</td>
<td>$125</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>50%</td>
<td>$100</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
4.2.4. The phase-in percentage rates for calendar years 2004 to 2013 are as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Calendar Year</th>
<th>Phase-in Percentage</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>2004</td>
<td>00.00%</td>

<tr>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>2012</td>
<td>99.64%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2013</td>
<td>99.96%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

4.2.5. Calendar year 2004 is the baseline year for the phase-in. In calendar year 2004, the phase-in percentage is zero; therefore, a qualified retiree will be paid monthly CRDP that is equal to the amount, if any, of their GRP in excess of their CBO plus the 2004 CRDP baseline amount based on their VADP. The CRDP amount determined payable may not exceed the amount of retired pay to which the member would otherwise be entitled after the phase-in period. For calendar years 2005 to 2013, a qualified retiree will be paid monthly retired pay in accordance with the calculation in subparagraph 640402.B. Use the 2004 CRDP base amount applicable to the retired member’s current VADP for the current month of entitlement being calculated, regardless of the VADP applicable in 2004. Use the phase-in percentage for the calendar year applicable to the current month of entitlement being calculated.

4.3 Exception to Phase-in Period (640403)

In the case of a qualified retiree receiving VA disability compensation for a disability rated at 100 percent, or 100 percent by reason of a determination of individual unemployability (IU), payment of retired pay is subject to the phase-in only during the period beginning on January 1, 2004 and ending on December 31, 2004. Subsequently, qualified retirees who received VA disability compensation at 100 percent may be entitled to restoration of the full CRDP entitlement from the date of qualification, if the retiree’s 100 percent disability compensation was payable by reason of an IU rating and, if prior to October 1, 2008, it was subject to the phase-in.

5.0 RELATION TO OTHER PROVISIONS (6405)

5.1 Relation to Combat-Related Special Compensation (CRSC) (640501)

A member entitled to both CRDP and CRSC may receive either one, but not both. An approved application for CRSC will cause the member’s CRDP payments to be reconsidered. Unless the member elects otherwise, CRSC will be paid instead of CRDP, if the member has applied for and been approved for such benefits and the gross CRSC entitlement is found to exceed the gross CRDP entitlement.
5.1.1. All members entitled to both CRDP and CRSC will be provided an annual open season period during which the member may elect to change between the two programs.

5.1.2. Eligible members will be notified of the opportunity to elect to change between CRDP and CRSC. The notification will be based on the entitlement information available at the time the notice is provided, and will specify the date that an election change will be effective.

5.1.3. Changes in the amount of a member’s entitlement to either CRDP or CRSC, which occur after the close of an annual open season period, will not be the basis to alter a current election between CRDP and CRSC prior to the next annual open season. This limitation includes changes in a member’s VA disability rating, which have a retroactive effective date prior to the date that DFAS is notified of the change. Note: The limitation in the prior sentence does not apply if maintaining the member’s most recent CRDP or CRSC open season election would result in the member incurring a retired pay debt or losing the CRDP or CRSC entitlement altogether.

5.2 Relation to Regular Retired Pay (640502)

As a restoration of retired pay, CRDP remains subject to the requirement to make direct payment of retired or retainer pay as property of a former spouse in compliance with court orders. Receipt of CRDP does not alter or affect any coverage under the Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP) but is available for deduction of any SBP premiums otherwise due. If a member has sufficient CRDP to cover SBP premiums, then SBP premiums will be deducted from CRDP. CRDP is also subject to a Treasury offset to recover a debt owed to the United States, as well as garnishment for child support or alimony. CRDP is subject to any other action or process, such as allotments, that applies to retired pay generally.

5.3 Taxability (640503)

The CRDP entitlement represents the ability of an eligible military retiree to receive both retired pay and VA disability compensation without regard to the waiver and offset requirement in 38 U.S.C. §§ 5304 and 5305. Accordingly, payments of CRDP are payments of retired pay and are taxable.

SURVIVOR BENEFIT PLAN (SBP)/RETIRED SERVICEMAN’S FAMILY PROTECTION PLAN (RSFPP) COMPOUND INTEREST TABLE

*1.0 GENERAL (F001)

1.1 Overview (F00101)

In some circumstances, a retiree can become responsible for past SBP costs plus accrued interest. For example, when the level of Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP) coverage is increased, the retired member becomes responsible for the costs that would have been incurred had the higher level of coverage been elected originally, plus compounded interest.

1.2 Purpose (F00102)

Annually, the DoD Office of the Actuary (OACT) releases a memorandum establishing the premium annuity factors that are to be used to determine how much a retiree owes for past SBP premiums when accrued interest is an additional cost as shown on Table F-1. The OACT memorandum may be found on OACT website under SBP Determining Past and Delinquent Premiums with Interest.

*The age of majority in this state is age 18. However, for the purpose of a parent paying child support, this state dictates that child support is to continue until age 19 if the child is still attending high school or a secondary school.

APPENDIX L

DEPENDENCY AND INDEMNITY COMPENSATION (DIC) RATES

1.0 GENERAL (L001)

1.1 Overview (L00101)

The Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP) annuity for a spouse may be reduced by an amount of DIC that is payable to the spouse if the DIC paid is due to the service connected death of the same member for which the spouse is receiving the SBP annuity. See Chapter 46. DIC is compensation paid by the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) to the eligible survivors of Military Service members who died after December 31, 1956, from a service-connected or compensable disability.

1.2 Purpose (L00102)

The DIC rates used to determine the SBP annuity reduction amounts are in Table L-1. The VA determines entitlement to and the amount of a DIC award. In accordance with Title 38, United States Code (U.S.C.), section 1311, VA establishes annual DIC rates which are required to be published in the Federal Register.

Notes:
1. If the current year is not listed in the table, see the Dependency and Indemnity Compensation Rates at the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) website. Additionally, see the VA website for any rate effective prior to December 1, 2011.
2. The DIC rates remained unchanged from December 1, 2008 through November 30, 2011.

3. The DIC rates remained unchanged from December 1, 2014 through November 30, 2016.
4. These are E9 pay grade veterans who served as a Sergeant Major of the Army or Marine Corps, Senior Enlisted Advisor of the Navy, Chief Master Sergeant of the Air Force, or Master Chief Petty Officer of the Coast Guard.
5. These are O-10 pay grade veterans who served as a Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Chief of Staff of the Army or Air Force, Chief of Naval Operations, or Commandant of the Marine Corps.
6. An additional amount may be payable if at the time of death the veteran was entitled to receive (or, but for the receipt of retired pay or retirement pay, was entitled to receive) compensation for Service-connected disability that was rated totally disabling for a continuous period of at least 8 years immediately preceding death. In determining the period of a veteran's disability for purposes of the preceding sentence, only periods in which the veteran was married to the surviving spouse will be considered. See 38 U.S.C. § 1311(a)(2). If a veteran died before January 1, 1993, then DIC was payable based on the pay grade of the veteran. Effective January 1, 1993, DIC was payable at the flat rate of $750 (including $165, if applicable according to 38 U.S.C. § 1311(a)(2)) if it is more favorable than the DIC amount based on the veteran’s pay grade.

APPENDIX P

DATA FOR PAYMENT OF RETIRED PERSONNEL

1.0 GENERAL

1.1 Purpose

This appendix provides for the administration and completion of the Department of Defense (DD) Form 2656, Data for Payment of Retired Personnel, and DD 2656-1, Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP) Election Statement for Former Spouse Coverage, if appropriate.

1.2 Authoritative Guidance

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.), Title 10. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each individual section are listed in a reference section at the end of the chapter.

2.0 APPLICABILITY AND SCOPE

2.1 Establishing Retired/Retainer Pay Account

Those Service members requesting retirement or members transferring to the Fleet Reserve, Retired Reserve, or Inactive Reserve, and former members who are entitled to retired pay under 10 U.S.C. Chapter 1223, must complete the DD 2656 and DD 2656-1, if appropriate, in order to be provided retired pay. The DD 2656 is the most important financial related document to complete in preparing for military retirement. The Defense Finance and Accounting Service Cleveland Site (DFAS-CL) will establish the Service member’s retired/retainer pay account based on the data provided on the form(s) and retirement/transfer orders.

2.2 Required Data

The Service member’s personnel office and SBP counselor will assist them in the proper completion and submission of the DD 2656 and DD 2656-1, if appropriate. The data provided is required to establish a retired/retainer pay account, including:

2.2.1. The retirement plan under which the Service member is covered;

2.2.2. Direct deposit/electronic funds transfer information;

2.2.3. Designation of beneficiaries for unpaid retired pay;

2.2.4. Federal and state tax withholding information;

2.2.5. Information on dependents;
2.2.6. An election of SBP coverage; and

2.2.7. Lump sum payment election, when applicable.

Note: The DD 2656 replaced Navy Comptroller Form 2272, Department of Army Form 4240, and Air Force Forms 1266, 1267, and 1268.

3.0 RESPONSIBILITIES

3.1 Defense Finance and Accounting Service Cleveland Site (DFAS-CL) Responsibilities

DFAS-CL is the primary source for information and technical guidance concerning the DD 2656 and DD 2656-1. DFAS-CL processes the documents for military retirement submitted by the Military Services.

3.2 Military Service Responsibilities

Each respective personnel activity will provide pre-retirement counseling to prospective retirees. As part of the counseling process, each personnel activity will ensure that the prospective retirees properly complete the DD 2656 and DD 2656-1, if appropriate. The personnel activity will forward the forms and appropriate documentation to DFAS-CL electronically, or mail to:

DFAS
U.S. Military Retired Pay
8899 E. 56th Street
Indianapolis, IN 46249-1200

3.3 Service Member Responsibilities

Members requesting retirement or transfer to the Fleet Reserve, Retired Reserve, or Inactive Reserve, and former members who qualify under 10 U.S.C. Chapter 1223, will complete the DD 2656 and DD 2656-1, if appropriate. Completion of these forms is necessary to establish the retired/retainer pay account. See paragraph 2.2.

APPENDIX R

ANNUAL INCOME RATES FOR MINIMUM INCOME ANNUITIES UNDER SURVIVOR BENEFIT PLAN (SBP)

1.0 GENERAL (R001)

1.1 Overview (R00101)

A minimum income widow (MIW) is a person who on September 21, 1972 was, or during the period beginning on September 22, 1972 and ending on March 20, 1974 became, the widow of a member who was entitled to retired or retainer pay when they died. This individual must have income below the threshold and meet the eligibility criteria in Chapter 46. The widow’s annual income from all sources (including the amount of Retired Serviceman’s Family Protection Plan annuity entitlement, but excluding the amount of disability pension), as determined by the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA), must be less than the annual income rate reflected in the SBP/MIW Annuity Limitation table as determined by the VA.

1.2 Purpose (R00102)

Annually, the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) will publish the most current SBP/MIW Annuity Limitation to the VA website. This amount, divided by 12, represents the maximum monthly payable to MIW annuitants. See Chapter 46.

DEFINITIONS

1.0 General

The following list defines general terms of significance or importance relating to military retired pay policies for the Department of Defense (DoD) that are discussed in various chapters. These definitions are provided for general information; it is by no means an exhaustive list of all financial management terms, and it does not define terms when standard dictionary definitions apply.

2.0 List of Definitions

Active Duty

Full-time duty in the active service of a Uniformed Service, including full-time training duty, annual training duty, and attendance while in the active service at a school designated as a Military Service school by law or by the Secretary of the Military Service concerned (or designee).

*Active Duty List

A single list for the Army, Navy, Air Force, Space Force, or Marine Corps which contains the names of all officers of that Armed Force, other than officers described in Title 10, United States Code, section 641 (10 U.S.C. § 641), who are serving on active duty.

Active Service

Combat Related Special Compensation (CRSC)

CRSC is special compensation to members of the Uniformed Services who have their retired pay reduced due to receiving Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) disability compensation where a portion of such VA compensation is the result of disabilities that are combat-related as determined by the Service.
Concurrent Retirement and Disability Pay (CRDP)

Regular or reserve members who are entitled to retired pay based on either length of service or disability, and who are also entitled to VA disability compensation based on a combined VA disability rating of 50 percent or greater, may receive both retired pay and disability pay concurrently. Members retired under military disability provisions under 10 U.S.C., Chapter 61 must have at least 20 years of creditable service and otherwise be entitled to receive retired pay under another provision of law in order to be eligible for CRDP.

*Constructive Payment (or Receipt)

An accounting or tax term used for federal income tax purposes that provides that income is received by the taxpayer in the taxable year in which it is set aside for the taxpayer or credited to his/her account, regardless of whether or not it has been physically received or when it was earned. A constructive payment must be available to the taxpayer for use without substantial limitations or restrictions. See 26 CFR 1.451-2.

Cost-of-Living Adjustment (COLA)

The percentage change applied to retired pay and SBP annuities based on laws using the Consumer Price Index, Urban Wage Earners, and Clerical Workers-U.S. City Average, as published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Currency-Blocked Country

A country specified by the Treasury Department to which dollar instruments may not be transmitted.

Retainer Pay

Pay received by a member of the Fleet Reserve/Fleet Marine Corps Reserve.

Retired List

Any one of several lists of military members retired from active duty or a RC of the Armed Forces.

Retirement Date

The first day of entitlement to retired pay, not a day of active duty.

CHAPTER 1

INTRODUCTION AND OVERALL REQUIREMENTS

1.0    GENERAL (0101)

1.1    Purpose (010101)

This chapter prescribes the principles, objectives, and related requirements for DoD employee pay operations and systems. The regulations provided in this chapter apply to payments made by the Defense Civilian Pay System (DCPS) to employees who are paid from appropriated, revolving, or trust funds. The Under Secretary of Defense (Comptroller)/Chief Financial Officer has determined DCPS is DoD’s only approved standard payroll system. These requirements apply to the processes related to computing payments, leave, deductions, and maintaining records for permanent, temporary, full-time, part-time, irregular, and special category employees.

*1.2    Authoritative Guidance (010102)

The authority of DoD to establish payroll procedures is derived from Title 5, United States Code, Chapter 53 (5 U.S.C. Chapter 53), 5 U.S.C. Chapter 55, and 5 U.S.C. Chapter 81. Other responsibilities, duties, and liabilities are established under 31 U.S.C. §§ 3527 – 3529, and 31 U.S.C. § 3541. Due to the subject matter in the chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each section are listed in a reference section at the end of this chapter.

1.3    Additional Guidance (010103)

Additional guidance referenced in this volume includes, but is not limited to, the following:

1.3.1. Title 5, Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). Final rules pertaining to civilian pay operations are typically published in Title 5 of the CFR. Title 5 may be updated by interim changes published in the Federal Register (FR). Both publications must be read together to determine the latest version of any rule.

1.3.2. FR. The FR is the official journal of the Federal Government that makes publically available all government agency rules, proposed rules, and public notices. The FR is published daily, except on Federal holidays. The final rules posted by a Federal agency and published in the FR are then organized by topic or subject matter and codified in the CFR. See 1 CFR Part 2.

1.3.3. Executive Order. An executive order is an order or regulation issued by the President in order to implement, interpret, or give effect to a Federal law, treaty or provision of the Constitution. To have the effect of law, an executive order must be published in the FR.
1.3.4. Public Laws. After the President signs a bill into law, it is delivered to the Office of the FR where it is assigned a public law number. The public laws are compiled, indexed, and published in the United States Statutes at Large, the permanent bound volume of the laws for each session of Congress.

1.3.5. DoD Instruction (DoDI) 1400.25. The DoDI 1400.25, Civilian Personnel Management, is comprised of several volumes. This Instruction’s purpose is to establish and implement policy, establish uniform procedures, provide guidelines, provide model programs, delegate authority, and assign responsibilities regarding civilian personnel management within the DoD.

1.3.6. Policy and Guidance From the Office of Personnel Management (OPM). OPM provides leadership to other agencies on pay and leave administration policies and programs. OPM maintains pay tables for General Schedule employees, manages the Federal Wage System, and develops and provides government-wide regulations and policies on other pay and leave authorities. Each agency is responsible for complying with the law and regulations and following OPM's policies and guidance to administer pay policies and programs for its own employees. OPM issues policies and guidance in the following publications:

1.3.6.1. OPM Benefits Administrative Letters (BALs) provide guidance to agencies on various aspects of benefits administration;

1.3.6.2. OPM Handbooks provide information on various topics pertaining to employee pay, leave, and work schedules; and

1.3.6.3. OPM Memoranda are provided by the Chief Human Capital Officers Council (CHCOC), a forum of senior agency management officials who support OPM. The CHCOC memoranda are issued to agencies to advise and coordinate on matters such as legislation affecting human resources operations and organizations.

2.0 OVERALL REQUIREMENTS (0102)

2.1 Overview (010201)

2.1.1. The Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS) is responsible for maintaining system requirements in compliance with all applicable laws and regulations, guidance issued by OPM, the Department of the Treasury (Treasury), the Department of State, the Department of Labor, and taxing authorities (federal, state, and/or local).

2.1.1.1. Any approved unique payroll system must be integrated or interfaced with other applicable systems, such as DCPS, general ledger systems, or installation-level general accounting systems.

2.1.1.2. The Director, DFAS must approve continued operation of any such unique payroll system.
2.1.2. DoD payroll operations and systems must meet the following objectives:

2.1.2.1. Make timely and accurate payments to employees entitled to be paid, in compliance with appropriate statutes and regulations, with consideration being given to all authorized deductions from gross pay;

2.1.2.2. Account for and disposition of all authorized deductions from gross pay;

2.1.2.3. Control, retention, and disposition of all payroll related documents;

2.1.2.4. Prepare adequate and reliable payroll records to support managerial responsibilities;

2.1.2.5. Plan, prepare, execute, and review the budget;

2.1.2.6. Prepare required internal and external reporting;

2.1.2.7. Support effective communication between employing activities and employees on payroll matters in addition to timely, accurate, and responsive customer service action to resolve payroll related inquiries from employees;

2.1.2.8. Control all phases of processing pay, leave, entitlements, and allowances;

2.1.2.9. Interface the payroll function with general ledger, cost accounting, and personnel functions, with provisions for reconciling common data elements in DCPS and these interrelated systems;

2.1.2.10. Provide capability to query current, historical, and/or archived data;

2.1.2.11. Provide audit trails to permit the tracing of transactions through DCPS;

2.1.2.12. Comply with accounting system development criteria specified in Volume 1;

2.1.2.13. Comply with internal control requirements, including data security and prevention of data disclosure, as specified in Volume 1; and

2.1.2.14. Comply with DoD direction to standardize data elements to promote cross-functionality and integration efforts.

2.2 Funds Control (010202)

2.2.1. Funds used to pay DoD employees are appropriated by Congress and apportioned to the Department by the Office of Management and Budget. At least monthly, an estimate of obligations must be made for the payroll. As the payments are made, estimates must be adjusted to reflect actual payment data.
2.2.2. DCPS must be integrated, or interfaced with, and support the accounting systems. DCPS must consist of detailed accounts and records that are kept as a subsidiary to, or support for, controlling or summary accounts in the general ledger of the accounting systems. DCPS must produce required obligation and accrual data needed by accounting systems.

2.3 Requirements (010203)

The Director, DFAS, is responsible for the overall planning and general direction of the pay, leave, and allowance functions along with system requirements. This responsibility necessitates that adequate written procedures are established and implemented, that all personnel are adequately trained in their functions, and that sufficient internal controls are installed and management oversight is established and implemented to ensure compliance with DCPS objectives. See DoD Directive 5118.05. The Director, DFAS must also ensure that DCPS meets legal criteria and the following requirements.

2.3.1. Payroll procedures must be:

2.3.1.1. Clearly written and be in accordance with applicable laws, regulations, and legal decisions;

2.3.1.2. Amended to reflect changes in applicable laws, regulations, and legal decisions;

2.3.1.3. As uniform as possible throughout DoD;

2.3.1.4. Distributed to payroll staff and be available to individual employees as needed to ensure efficient and effective operations; and

2.3.1.5. Reflective of clear assignments of responsibility, delegation of authority, and separation of duties for personnel who compute the payroll, certify payments, record payroll data in the accounts, distribute pay, review payroll transactions, and develop, test and maintain supporting computer systems.

2.3.2. Personnel engaged in pay, leave, and allowance activities must:

2.3.2.1. Be adequately trained and kept informed about the requirements of laws, regulations, and legal decisions;

2.3.2.2. Be adequately supervised to help prevent any unauthorized, fraudulent, or other irregular act;

2.3.2.3. Perform operations effectively, efficiently, and economically in accordance with laws, regulations, and legal decisions;

2.3.2.4. Review the operations, including internal controls, on an ongoing basis to ensure such performance; and
2.3.2.5. Identify and resolve inconsistencies in information submitted, processed, and reported during the various payroll cycles.

2.3.3. DCPS must be integrated or interfaced with:

2.3.3.1. Personnel systems to obtain current information on which to process pay entitlements, leave, and allowances. Timely information is needed to minimize the possibility of fraud, waste, and mismanagement and maximize the accuracy of employee payments;

2.3.3.2. The general ledger systems to provide information to prepare various financial statements;

2.3.3.3. Cost accounting systems to distribute and charge payroll labor cost data to appropriations, jobs, projects, programs, and departments. This also helps in properly evaluating operations and management; and to support budget formulation and execution; and

2.3.3.4. Other financial management systems to meet reporting and management objectives.

2.3.4. The interfaces discussed in subparagraph 2.3.3 must be used to assist in timely reconciliation of data elements and discrepancies noted between systems.

2.3.5. Transactions recorded in the pay, leave, and allowance records must be adequately supported by properly authorized documents.

2.3.6. Continuity of Operations Plans and associated procedures will be established and maintained to back-up data properly in the event of power failure, equipment malfunction, terrorist threat, natural disasters, or other hazards.

2.3.7. External audits and internal examinations of payroll operations must be made by persons not engaged in those operations to determine whether such operations are efficient, effective, economical, and are in accordance with laws, regulations, and legal decisions.

2.3.8. The frequency with which payrolls must be prepared has considerable bearing upon the cost of carrying out the payroll functions. So that payroll operations are performed without incurring undue cost, payroll must be computed on a biweekly basis, unless the law requires a different timeframe. Special payments are prohibited except as addressed in Chapter 8, paragraph 2.2. Advances of pay are covered in Chapter 3, section 9. All employees will be informed of the designated payday. Pay should be made available to the employees on the day designated as the payday. The payday lag between the close of the pay period and payday must not exceed 12 calendar days. When a payday falls on a holiday or an “in lieu of” holiday, the payday will be on the first preceding business day.
2.4 Privacy Act Requirements (010204)

2.4.1. Privacy Act Statements. All forms used to collect personal information covered by the Privacy Act of 1974 (codified at 5 U.S.C. § 552a), must have a Privacy Act statement either incorporated in the body of the document, at the top of the form, or in a separate statement accompanying each form. See DoD 5400.11-R for information on what is included in the Privacy Act statement. A Privacy Act statement must be provided to an employee when they are required to furnish personal information such as name, date of birth, or Social Security Number (SSN) for inclusion in a system of records. Refer to the Office of the Secretary of Defense and Joint Staff Privacy Program or the DoD Privacy, Civil Liberties and FOIA Directorate for the Privacy Act system of records information pertaining to DCPS.

2.4.2. Access and Accountability. Refer to DoD 5400.11-R for guidance on employee access to records in accordance with the Privacy Act. Agencies responsible for maintaining Privacy Act information must maintain records of information released and process requests for correction of records in accordance with the DoD 5400.11-R.

3.0 ELECTRONIC FUNDS TRANSFER (EFT) FOR FEDERAL CIVILIAN SALARY PAYMENTS (0103)

3.1 General (010301)

3.1.2. Policy. The Treasury Financial Manual, Part 4A, section 2035 requires participation in EFT unless a waiver applies. The policy covers all categories of DoD personnel including civilians, military, military retirees, non-appropriated fund (NAF) personnel, and annuitants. See Volume 5, Chapter 7, subparagraph 070204.A.

3.1.3. Agency Responsibilities. An agency must put into place procedures that allow recipients to provide the information necessary for the delivery of payments to the recipient by EFT to an account at the recipient's financial institution. See 31 CFR 208.7.

3.1.3.1. The Director, DFAS, in conjunction with the Office of the Deputy Chief Financial Officer, must:

3.1.3.1.1. Publish EFT payment policy and implementation procedures for payment of all DoD civilian personnel,

3.1.3.1.2. Coordinate the presentation of issues and proposed exceptions in DoD's mandatory EFT policy to Treasury for approval,

3.1.3.1.3. Prepare appropriate reports for submission to Treasury,
3.1.3.1.4. Provide quarterly reports that reflect the level of EFT participation to DoD and non-DoD agencies serviced by DFAS (hereinafter referred to as “serviced agencies”), and

3.1.3.1.5. Furnish a report of employees paid by DFAS, who do not participate in EFT, to employing agencies at the end of each quarter.

3.1.3.2. DoD Component Personnel Directors must:

3.1.3.2.1. Ensure all employees are informed of the conditions under which participation in the EFT program is required, and

3.1.3.2.2. Promote EFT enrollment by providing a report containing a list of employees that are not enrolled in EFT to the employing activity after the end of each fiscal year quarter.

3.1.3.3. Directors or Commanders of all DoD Activities must:

3.1.3.3.1. Ensure that all personnel are made aware of, and comply with, the mandatory EFT provisions;

3.1.3.3.2. Monitor EFT participation;

3.1.3.3.3. Ensure that waivers for all eligible employees are on file;

3.1.3.3.4. Ensure reimbursements are made to employees who incur charges due to the government's failure to accurately and timely deposit pay in their EFT accounts; and

3.1.3.3.5. Provide information for reporting purposes to DFAS sites when so requested including NAF personnel.

3.1.4. Waivers

3.1.4.1. Authorized Waivers. Payment by EFT is not required in all cases and may be waived under certain circumstances. See 31 CFR 208.4.

3.1.4.2. Waiver Submission. An employee who requests a waiver must provide Treasury with a certification supporting that request, in such form that the Treasury may prescribe. The employee must attest to the certification before a notary public or otherwise file the certification in such form that Treasury may prescribe. See 31 CFR 208.4.
3.2 Reimbursement of Financial Institution Charges (010302)

Charges by financial institutions resulting from erroneous information provided by the individual or the financial institution to the civilian payroll office (PRO) are not the liability of the government and will not be reimbursed. Reimbursement is authorized and limited to overdraft charges or minimum balance or average balance charges levied by the financial institution because of an administrative or mechanical error on the part of the government that causes pay to be deposited late, or in an incorrect manner or amount. See 10 U.S.C. § 1594.

3.3 Reporting Requirements (010303)

Each quarter, the PROs will provide EFT participation and non-participation reports to the serviced agencies for managing EFT participation. See Chapter 9, subparagraph 3.4.6.

3.4 Payments Other Than EFT (010304)

3.4.1 The disbursing officer mails checks to the non-work address provided by the employee. On an exception basis, checks may be delivered to designated agents in the employing offices for delivery to the employees at the work locations.

3.4.2 In those situations when delivery of paychecks to individuals by designated agents is authorized, persons designated to deliver these paychecks must not participate in the following activities: preparing, approving, or certifying vouchers and personnel action documents; maintaining the payroll; time and attendance (T&A) records; and leave records. Each employee must be known by, or identified by, the person who delivers the employee's paycheck. Checks not delivered within the time specified by the disbursing officer must be returned to the disbursing or issuing officer. All checks must be kept in a safe or locked fireproof cabinet, pending distribution to the employee or return to the disbursing or issuing officer. See Volume 5, Chapter 7.

3.4.3 If, under extraordinary circumstances, payments must be made in cash, then employees must properly identify themselves and must acknowledge payment by signing a receipt form when payments are received. Requiring receipts in advance of actual cash payments are prohibited. All payments must be made only by persons who have been authorized to perform disbursing functions and who are not part of the pay computation process. See Volume 5, Chapter 9, section 0904.

4.0 ESTABLISHMENT AND CONTROL OF EMPLOYEES' PAY RECORDS (0104)

4.1 Use of the SSN for Identification (010401)

4.1.1 The SSN will be used to identify all employees paid by DFAS.
4.1.2. The SSN has nine digits, with hyphens as separators before the fourth and sixth digits. The Social Security Administration (SSA) does not issue SSNs containing alpha characters. Therefore, adding a prefix or suffix is not authorized for reporting purposes. Only the nine digits are used in internal computer processing; however, the hyphens may or may not be printed on output documents.

4.1.3. Employees who do not have and are not eligible to obtain a SSN from the SSA are issued an Internal Revenue Service (IRS) Individual Taxpayer Identification Number (ITIN).

4.1.4. Civilians who are concurrently employed in more than one position must use the same identifier (SSN or ITIN) across every position. Person identifier data will support the capability to correct and update a person’s identity information. See DoDI 1444.02, Volume 1.

4.2 Individual Employee Pay Records (010402)

4.2.1. Each employee must have an individual pay record maintained as part of the master pay record. Except in the case of multiple appointments, only one pay record must be active at any given time for each authorized position. If more than one pay record is maintained, then the rationale must be thoroughly documented and an audit trail maintained. Sufficient information on active pay records must be retained or be accessible at the servicing PRO to facilitate manual input, payment, and/or performance of other required administrative functions.

4.2.2. The pay record must contain all transaction information related to payments and deductions with an audit trail to the authorizing source document, subject to paragraph 010405. The pay record must contain information on rates of pay pertaining to:

4.2.2.1. All earnings separately identified by type (e.g., overtime, night differential, or danger pay);

4.2.2.2. All deductions separately identified by type (e.g., charity, union, Federal Employees Health Benefits (FEHB), Federal Employees’ Group Life Insurance (FEGLI), income taxes, payroll taxes, or retirement);

4.2.2.3. Subject-to amounts for computation of applicable deductions (e.g., subject-to income taxes, subject-to payroll taxes, subject-to Thrift Savings Plan (TSP), or subject-to retirement);

4.2.2.4. All government contribution amounts separately identified by type (e.g., FEHB, basic FEGLI, or TSP matching); and 4.2.2.5. Gross and net pay amounts.

4.2.3. The pay records must be supported by T&A, leave records, and personnel records. T&A records contain all hours for a pay period based on the effective work schedule. The computation of pay uses all hours worked (regular and premium) and leave taken (paid and unpaid). Leave records include annual, sick, and any other leave earned, taken, lost, forfeited, restored, or advanced, including appropriate unused leave balances. The pay record must contain other information, such as year-to-date and quarter-to-date totals, as necessary, for computing pay and preparing reports.

4.2.4. Year-to-date information must be maintained for the current and prior pay years. Disposition of pay records must be in accordance with the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA), General Records Schedule (GRS) 2.4.

4.3 Payroll Substantiating Document File (010403)

4.3.1. With a centralized civilian payroll function, separate document files are required and maintained for each employee. The servicing PRO must maintain those documents applicable to the PRO functions and responsibilities. The Customer Service Representative (CSR)/employing activity must maintain those documents applicable to CSR responsibilities.

4.3.2. All source documents that substantiate the employee's entitlement to compensation, leave, benefits, and authorizations or support deductions, whether maintained in hardcopy or electronic format, must be safeguarded from improper, unauthorized access or use. Disposition of payroll related documents, whether maintained by the PRO or the CSR, must be in accordance with the NARA, GRS 2.4. Each agency may establish a specific document retention policy, however, the policy must not impose a lesser retention requirement than the NARA requirements.

4.3.3. Other records incidental to the payroll process, such as employee requests for tax withholding, TSP deductions, savings bond records, and other records not pertaining to individuals, but rather to the general administration of the PRO and the payroll function, are addressed in the NARA, GRS 2.4. Employee separation records are addressed in the NARA, GRS 2.5.

4.3.4. All source documents must be readily available for research. The disposition of active and inactive files must be in accordance with NARA, GRS 2.4 for current employees and the NARA, GRS 2.5 in the case of separated employees.

4.3.5. All documents, manual and electronic, must be protected in accordance with Privacy Act requirements.

4.4 Document Control (010404)

Retention sites control source documents in order to ensure timely processing of payroll documents, auditing, and reconciling individual pay accounts. Local document control procedures may be used as long as appropriate control and access are maintained.

4.5 Personnel Actions (010405)

4.5.1. DCPS is integrated or interfaced with the personnel system used by the employee’s agency. DCPS must use the information authorized by the personnel system as the basis for pay, leave entitlements, and some deduction calculations.
4.5.2. Source documentation for actions originating with the Human Resources Office (HRO) must be maintained by the servicing HRO. For those instances where the systems do not permit interface of the actions, the servicing HRO must provide the servicing PRO a hardcopy or electronic copy of the document, which also must be maintained by the servicing PRO.

4.6 Payroll Controls (010406)

All payroll functions must have appropriate controls established.

4.6.1. The controls must ensure the timely, correct, complete, accurate, and properly authorized processing of payroll documents, which include, but are not limited to, the following:

4.6.1.1. Corrections and Adjustments. An authorized official must approve in writing or through electronic signature (made by entering designated codes into an automated system under safeguards to prevent unauthorized use) corrections and other adjustments to data in official records, as follows:

4.6.1.1.1. Records of all changes made after records have been approved or certified must be generated and maintained,

4.6.1.1.2. Manual corrections to documents made after the documents have been approved or certified must be made in a way that does not obliterate the original entries. Corrections must be approved by a designated authorizing official, and

4.6.1.1.3. Automated system changes to data must be made in such a way that an audit trail is maintained to show or provide a reference to documents which show the original and new data and the authorization for the change. Such changes may be made only based on properly approved documents authorizing the changes.

4.6.1.2. Separation of Duties. Separation of duties refers to the PRO and system development personnel. In order to minimize opportunities for unauthorized, fraudulent, or otherwise irregular acts, the following list of payroll duties must be separated to ensure that no one person performs all phases of a transaction without the possibility of intervention or review by some other person or persons:

4.6.1.2.1. Certification of payments,

4.6.1.2.2. Payroll computation,

4.6.1.2.3. Recording of data to the employee’s payroll account,

4.6.1.2.4. Distribution of pay,

4.6.1.2.5. Review of payroll transactions,

4.6.1.2.6. Automated system development,
4.6.1.2.7. System testing,

4.6.1.2.8. System implementation, and

4.6.1.2.9. System maintenance.

4.6.1.3. Access Restrictions. The following access must be restricted to authorized personnel:

4.6.1.3.1. Personnel, payroll, and disbursement records or data files;

4.6.1.3.2. Forms used in authorizing special entitlements, allowances, and pay rates; and 4.6.1.3.3. Payroll processing equipment and related software.

4.6.1.4. Employee Access. Employees must not maintain or service their own payroll and/or personnel records. This internal control must be incorporated into security system software that governs access to DCPS records. Employees may provide authorizing source documentation to the servicing CSR or input data using an electronic self-service application. Types of employee transactions maintained by the CSR or input by the employee through such an application are:

4.6.1.4.1. Distribution of net pay election and voluntary allotments;

4.6.1.4.2. Routine deductions, such as withholding elections for federal, state, and local tax purposes; and

4.6.1.4.3. T&A as provided for in Chapter 2.

4.6.1.5. CSR Access. Examples of transactions that the servicing CSRs have access to are:

4.6.1.5.1. Authorizations for charity contributions,

4.6.1.5.2. Authorizations for employee organization dues withholding,

4.6.1.5.3. Leave transferred-in for a new employee based on the employee’s latest Leave and Earnings Statement, and 4.6.1.5.4. Restored annual leave.

4.6.1.6. Computerized Access. To detect inappropriate data at the earliest time and to the extent practical, data entered into DCPS must be subjected to computerized edits at the time of entry.
4.6.2. Controls that help ensure that computerized payroll operations process transactions and produce reports accurately include but are not limited to the following techniques:

4.6.2.1. Employing generally accepted testing procedures for computer programs and changes to programs prior to placing them in the production/operation environment. Testing procedures must include testing the various data elements and computational procedures as needed to ensure that all are operating as intended;

4.6.2.2. Certifying acceptance of software changes by the DCPS acceptance team;

4.6.2.3. Performing periodic preventive maintenance on hardware, noting and promptly resolving problems;

4.6.2.4. Including the following techniques in the tests performed:

4.6.2.4.1. Ensure that the most current personnel data is available for verification and pay computations,

4.6.2.4.2. Use proper security authorization protocol by all authorized system users,

4.6.2.4.3. Accept data entry from authorized sources only,

4.6.2.4.4. Verify data entry using batch control procedures, when applicable, and

4.6.2.4.5. Provide system-generated research tools useful in the resolution of any detected anomalies.

4.6.2.5. Providing audit trails for the detection and systematic correction of errors by enabling the system to trace or replicate transactions (including system-generated transactions) from the source to the resulting record or report and from the record or report back to the source.

4.7 Reconciliation With the HRO (010407)

The PROs must ensure that payroll data is complete and accurate. DCPS and the HRO must each perform a reconciliation of employee records to ensure that shared data matches.

4.7.1. Reconciliation of common data (for example, work schedule, salary, and date of birth) between the human resources system and DCPS must be accomplished at least every 4 months. The servicing HRO reviews the reconciliation and annotates any mismatches. The servicing HRO resolves mismatches where possible and provides supporting documentation to the servicing PRO for resolution in the cases of payroll record errors. The servicing PRO must ensure thorough reviews of and necessary corrections to the DCPS database. The servicing PRO must accomplish the payroll portion of the reconciliation within 10 workdays after receipt of the annotated reconciliation
4.7.2. Based on the predetermined schedule, DCPS will generate and transmit reconciliation files to the appropriate personnel system host. The schedule is established and published by the DCPS manager in conjunction with the personnel system manager.

CHAPTER 2
TIME AND ATTENDANCE (T&A)

1.0 GENERAL (0201)

1.1 Overview (020101)

This chapter sets out T&A policy and requirements for the Department of Defense (DoD) agencies. It contains established policies, defines responsibilities, and prescribes internal controls in support of T&A recording and reporting requirements for the civilian payroll offices (PRO).

1.2 Purpose (020102)

This chapter provides guidance on DoD civilian employee T&A policy and requirements.

1.3 Authoritative Guidance (020103)

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.), including Titles 5 and 31. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each section are listed in a reference section at the end of this chapter. See also General Accounting Office (GAO)-03-352G, Maintaining Effective Control over Employee Time and Attendance Reporting.

2.0 RESPONSIBILITIES OF EMPLOYING AGENCY, APPROVING OFFICIALS, AND TIMEKEEPERS (0202)

2.1 Employing Agency Responsibilities (020201)

2.1.1 Administration of Absence and Leave. The head of an agency is responsible for the proper administration of absence and leave as it pertains to employees under his or her jurisdiction, and for maintaining an account of leave for each employee in accordance with methods prescribed by the GAO. See Title 5, Code of Federal Regulations, section 630.101 (5 CFR 630.101). An employing activity must ensure compliance with T&A functions as prescribed by the agency policies.

2.1.2 Internal Controls. It is important that agencies implement and maintain well-defined internal control activities that provide management with the confidence that the system is working as designed. Consistent with the internal control standards set forth within GAO-03-352G, agency development of control activities over T&A information should:

2.1.2.1. Have a well-defined organizational structure and flow of T&A information with clearly written and communicated policies and procedures;
2.1.2.2. Apply available technology and concepts to achieve efficient and effective T&A system processes and controls in accordance with applicable legal and other requirements; and

2.1.2.3. Review and test all aspects of the T&A systems’ processing procedures and controls.

2.2 Approving Official Responsibilities (020202)

An approving official, usually the employee’s supervisor, maintains the primary responsibility for authorizing and approving T&A transactions.

2.2.1. Certifying. When approving T&A, all supervisors, other equivalent officials, or higher-level managers must certify, to the best of their knowledge, that work schedules are accurately recorded. An employee’s supervisor should be aware of an employee’s work schedule, leave taken, and any absence from duty and must review and approve the T&A to ensure its accuracy. Supervisors must ensure that exceptions to the employee’s normal tour of duty are recorded in a timely and accurate manner.

2.2.2. Recording and Reporting T&A. The supervisor may assign responsibility for observing daily attendance or accurately recording T&A data to a timekeeper (if applicable) or, in limited circumstances, to the individual employee. However, the supervisor is still ultimately responsible for the timely and accurate reporting of the T&A in accordance with applicable policies, regulations, instructions, and bargaining agreements. The supervisor must inform the timekeeper when an employee is on leave or has worked any type of premium work. The supervisor may assign an alternate timekeeper to maintain T&A during the absence of the primary timekeeper.

2.3 Timekeeper Responsibilities (020203)

The traditional T&A system normally involved a timekeeper who is/was responsible for assisting supervisors in recording and verifying employees’ work time and absences. However, new T&A systems have reduced or even eliminated timekeepers’ duties and shifted the responsibilities to the employees or supervisors. Regardless of the changes made, the internal control objectives in the GAO guidance remain the same.

3.0 GENERAL T&A REQUIREMENTS (0203)

3.1 Recording Time (020301)

A proper record of the time an employee works should be retained as an official agency record available for review or inspection. Traditionally, daily arrival and departure times were required to be recorded. Although it is not required that daily records be maintained, agency management may choose to do so by using sign-in/sign-out sheets or other means.
3.2 Time Period (020302)

The period shown on the T&A must correspond to the length of a pay period. For example, if payment is made for a 2-week period, then the T&A must cover a 2-week period.

3.3 T&A Information (020303)

Controls over T&A information should provide reasonable assurance that such information:

3.3.1. Is recorded completely, accurately, and as promptly as practicable;

3.3.2. Relates to authorized individuals; and

3.3.3. Reflects actual work performed and leave taken or other absences during authorized work-hours and periods.

3.4 Accounting for Time and Leave (020304)

Where T&A information supports amounts appearing in financial reports, an audit trail should exist between the T&A information and the accounting records underlying the financial reports to allow for verification of reported amounts.

3.5 Work Schedules and Alternate Work Schedules (AWS) (020305)

3.5.1. Work Schedules. The work schedule defines the basic work requirement as the number of hours, excluding overtime hours, an employee is required to work or to account for by charging leave. Generally, a full-time employee’s basic work requirement is 80 hours in a pay period. Attendance and absence must be consistent with the employment status for the individual. An approved work schedule for each employee will be maintained showing the planned arrival and departure for each day. When an employee’s work schedule differs from the agency-wide schedule established by management or reflects an AWS, the supervisor, or the official most knowledgeable of the employee’s schedule in advance of the period when the plan takes effect should approve the employee’s work schedule. If the schedule is not approved in advance, the plan should be approved as soon after the start of the pay period as possible.

3.5.2. AWS. An AWS includes both flexible work schedules (FWS) and compressed work schedules. Although the decision to establish an AWS program is at the discretion of the agency head, this discretion is subject to the obligation to negotiate with the exclusive representative(s) of bargaining unit employees. For additional guidance on AWS, refer to the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) Handbook on Alternative Work Schedules. Refer also to DoD Instruction (DoDI) 1400.25-V610.
3.5.3. Flexible Work Schedule (FWS)

Under certain FWS, DoD civilian employees may work longer or shorter hours, including credit hours on any given workday, without taking leave or being paid overtime, so long as their basic biweekly work requirements are met. See 5 U.S.C. § 6121, DoDI 1400.25-V610, and the OPM FWS Fact Sheet. By electing to work hours in excess of their tour of duty, employees may also complete the biweekly basic work requirements in fewer than 10 workdays without being paid overtime or being charged leave for the non-workdays.

3.5.3.1. Material Variances or Deviations. Material variances or deviations, as determined by the FWS, must be approved by the supervisor before the change occurs, or promptly after occurring, if not feasible prior to the change. Supervisors must verify that the dates and the material variances or deviations have been recorded in the T&A.

3.5.3.2. Types of FWS. Full-time employees with an 80-hour biweekly work requirement may determine their own schedule within the limits set by the employing activity. A part-time employee may determine his or her own schedule for a biweekly work requirement of less than 80 hours. According to the OPM Handbook of Alternative Work Schedules, the FWSs include the following:

3.5.3.2.1. Flexitour. Flexitour is a work schedule in which an employee is allowed to select starting and stopping times within the flexible hours. Once starting and stopping times are selected, the employee continues to adhere to these times until the employing activity provides further opportunities to select different starting and stopping times.

3.5.3.2.2. Gliding Schedule. Gliding schedule is an FWS in which an employee has a basic work requirement of 8 hours in each day and 40 hours in each week. Employees may select an arrival time each day and may change that arrival time daily as long as it is within the established flexible hours.

3.5.3.2.3. Maxiflex. Maxiflex is an FWS that contains core hours on fewer than 10 workdays in the biweekly pay period and in which an employee has a basic work requirement of 80 hours for the biweekly pay period. The employee may vary the number of hours worked on a given workday or the number of hours each week, within the limits established for the organization.

3.5.3.2.4. Variable Day Schedule. Variable day schedule is an FWS that contains core hours on each workday in the week. Under the variable day schedule, a full-time employee has a basic work requirement of 40 hours in each week of the biweekly pay period. The employee may vary the number of hours worked on a given workday within the week as long as the variation remains within the limits established for the organization.

3.5.3.2.5. Variable Week Schedule. Variable week schedule is an FWS that contains core hours on each workday in the biweekly pay period. Under the variable week schedule, a full-time employee has a basic work requirement of 80 hours for the biweekly pay period. The employee may vary the number of hours worked on a given workday or the number of hours each week, as long as the variation remains within the limits established for the organization.
3.5.4. Compressed Work Schedule. A compressed schedule is a fixed schedule that enables a full-time employee to complete the basic work requirements of 80 hours in fewer than 10 full workdays in each biweekly pay period by increasing the number of hours in the workday. See 5 U.S.C. § 6121 and the OPM Compressed Work Schedules Fact Sheet.

3.5.4.1. Set Time and Days of Work. There is no flexibility in a compressed schedule. An employee’s time of arrival and departure from work is set, as are the days on which the employee is to complete the basic work requirement.

3.5.4.2. Overtime. For employees working under compressed schedules, overtime pay will continue to be paid for work in excess of the compressed schedule. See 5 U.S.C. § 6128.

3.5.4.3. Absences. For employees working under compressed schedules, the recording of absences is treated in the same manner as for employees working a regular or alternative work schedule. Employees working a compressed work schedule must be charged leave in accordance with their basic work schedule.

3.5.4.4. Variations of the Compressed Work Schedule. Compressed work schedules are determined either by management or through negotiations with exclusive employee representatives. The following are variations of the compressed work schedule:

3.5.4.4.1. 4-10 Schedule. On the 4-10 schedule, employees work 10 hours a day for 4 days each workweek;

3.5.4.4.2. 5-4/9 Schedule. On the 5-4/9 schedule, employees work 9 hours a day for 8 days, 8 hours for 1 day, and record 1 non-working day each pay period; and

3.5.4.4.3. 3-day Workweek Schedule. On the 3-day workweek schedule, employees work 13 hours and 20 minutes a day for 3 days each workweek.

3.6 Approval of Leave (020306)

Approval of leave should be made by the employee’s supervisor, or other designated approving official, before leave is taken. If leave is not approved in advance, because of an unusual or emergency situation, it should be reviewed for approval or disapproval as soon as reasonably possible after the leave is taken.

3.7 Overtime, Compensatory Time Earned, and Credit Hours Authorizations (020307)

3.7.1. Overtime or Compensatory Time Earned. Approval should be obtained from the employee’s supervisor for overtime before the work has been performed when feasible and, when not feasible, as soon as possible after the work has been performed. T&A codes should distinguish between regular overtime and irregular overtime or occasional overtime (or compensatory time in lieu of overtime, where allowed) in order for the agency to properly document and calculate an employee’s overtime pay entitlements.
3.7.2. Credit Hours. When agency work schedule programs allow for credit hours to be earned, employee requests to work such hours should be reviewed by the supervisor to determine if work demands warrant the employee working the additional hours and, if so, approved before the work has been performed when feasible.

3.8 Temporary Assignment (TDY) (020308)

3.8.1. Recording T&A. When an employee is on TDY, the hours worked and hours of leave must be recorded on the T&A. All time actually spent away from the permanent duty station during the basic workweek must be recorded at the employee’s permanent duty station as time worked or leave taken. The travel order must support entries on the T&A for regular time.

3.8.2. Extended TDY. When an employee is on extended TDY (official Government-directed travel exceeding three weeks), the supervisor may require the employee to submit the T&A. Overnight mail, electronic mail, facsimile machine, or other acceptable means of communication may be used.

3.9 Data Integrity (020309)

Agencies using an electronic signature system to input T&A data should identify and document the criteria used in the selection of the signature system and how the criteria and the selected system comply with the Government Paperwork Elimination Act (GPEA) of 1998 definition of an electronic signature. See GAO-03-352G, footnote 9.

4.0 T&A RECORDING (0204)

4.1 Requirements (020401)

Scheduled starting and ending times of the day for each employee or for groups of employees must be established and recorded. The day that an employee’s shift begins is designated as the day of work for night and shift differential purposes. These requirements are modified for employees working a flexible or compressed work schedule under the AWS plans. See paragraph 3.5.

4.1.1. Control Objectives. Information in T&A records should be promptly and properly recorded to meet control objectives. It should be complete, accurate, valid, and comply with legal requirements.

4.1.2. Accountability. Agency policy should establish accountability for recording T&A information and for the maintenance of and access to T&A and supplementary records.

4.1.3. Audit Ready. T&A information that supports financial reporting or cost reporting should be auditable.
4.2 Certification and Approval of Absences (020402)

T&A approvals should be such that management has assurance that supervisors or other authorized officials know they are accountable for the approval of an employee’s work time and absences. Employees either must initial or sign for indicated absences, or submit an approved application for leave. A supervisor may require a medical certificate or other evidence of illness from an employee when granting sick leave. Such certification will be retained by the employing activity in accordance with section 8.0.

4.3 Attestation and/or Verification (020403)

4.3.1. Attestation. Attestation refers to an employee affirming T&A information to be proper. Employees should affirm each leave charge, except for administrative leave, absent without leave charges, suspension, or holiday absences.

4.3.2. Verification. Verification is a confirmation, usually by the timekeeper or supervisor, that to the best of his or her knowledge, recorded information is proper.

Note: The GAO guidance does not require such attestations and/or verifications. However, if management requires such attestations and/or verifications, they should be performed as close to the end of the pay period as possible.

4.4 Leave Charges (020404)

All leave types are charged to the employee by days, hours, or fractions of hours.

NOTE: Timecards must clearly indicate whether annual leave taken is to be charged against the employee’s current leave account or to a separate leave account established for restored leave. The employee’s regular leave account will be charged unless the annual leave taken is identified as being charged to the employee’s restored leave account.

4.5 Recording Daylight Savings Time (020405)

4.5.1. Hour Lost. Civilian employees working on a tour of duty when Daylight Savings Time goes into effect are credited with the actual number of hours worked on the tour of duty. The hour lost because of the change is charged to annual leave, compensatory time used, credit hours used, or leave without pay, as requested by the employee. Employees may also be allowed to work 1 hour beyond the end of their shift.

4.5.2. Hour Gained. Civilian employees working on a tour of duty when standard time goes into effect are credited with the actual number of hours worked. Time worked in excess of 8 hours, or the regular tour of duty hours, must be paid as overtime, compensatory time earned, or recorded as credit hours.
4.6 Recording Clock (020406)

A recording clock may not be used to record time of an employee of an executive department in the District of Columbia. See 5 U.S.C. § 6106.

5.0 T&A CERTIFICATION (0205)

5.1 Responsibility (020501)

All T&A and supporting documents must be reviewed and approved by the supervisor or designated alternate certifier. The supervisor or designated alternate certifier must be aware of his or her responsibilities for ensuring accuracy of the reports and must have knowledge of the time worked and absence of employees for whom approval is given.

5.2 Certification, Controls and Approval of T&A (020502)

5.2.1 Certification. The certification of T&A constitutes authorization for the expenditure of government funds. Each employee’s T&A must be certified correct by the employee’s supervisor, acting supervisor, other equivalent official, or a higher-level manager authorized to act as an alternate certifier at the end of the pay period. Certification ordinarily must not be made earlier than the last workday of a pay period. In some circumstances, such as when a legal holiday falls on a Friday or Monday, it is not practical to operate without an early cutoff. In such cases, additional controls, which must be demonstrated in the system design, must be in place and operating. The supervisor or designated alternate certifier must have a reasonable basis for relying on systems of internal control to ensure accuracy and legal compliance if he or she does not have personal knowledge of the presence and absence of, or other information concerning employees whose T&A are being approved. This basis must involve periodic testing of internal controls to ensure they are working as intended. Certification of T&A documents must be based on:

5.2.1.1 Knowledge from personal observation, work output, or timekeeper verification;

5.2.1.2 Checking data against other independent sources such as validating starting and ending times of work, using sign-in and sign-out sheets or time clock entries;

5.2.1.3 Reliance on other internal controls; or

5.2.1.4 A combination of controls.

5.2.2 Controls. In some circumstances, the additional controls must ensure that any change in attendance or absence certified by a supervisor that occurs after the cutoff date is identified and reported before pay computation, or is reported for the next pay computation. The employee may initial the corrected entry(ies) or submit an OPM Form 71, Request for Leave or Approved Absence, or locally approved electronic leave request, for such absence, as appropriate.
5.3 Approval (020503)

5.3.1. Approval of T&A. Approvals must be made individually for each employee, and a signature must accompany each T&A.

5.3.2. Approval of Multiple T&As. A single supervisory or designated alternate certifier signature for a multiple employee T&A report may be made to approve the information recorded for all employees listed on the report. There are three prerequisites for a single signature:

5.3.2.1. The data elements required by the agency must appear on the report for each employee listed on the report;

5.3.2.2. Supporting documents required for the information on the report must be reviewed by the supervisor or designated alternate certifier; and

5.3.2.3. The supervisor or designated alternate must initial or sign each page of the report and either sign the last page of the report or enter an approval code into an automated system.

5.3.3. Electronic Approval. When a computerized (“paperless”) T&A system is used and T&A data is contained in a computer file and displayed on a terminal, a single automated code may be entered by the supervisor to approve the information contained in the file. Prior to approving the T&A, the supervisor or designated alternate certifier must review supporting documents or computerized files. A record of changes made to a file, once approved by someone other than the original approving official, must be generated and sent to either the original approving official, or a designated person other than the one who made the changes.

5.4 Delay of Certification (020504)

Certification of the T&A may not be delayed for obtaining the employee’s initials or signature for requested leave when the employee is not available. The employee must submit a request for leave (Form 71, when required) upon return to duty to confirm the requested leave.

5.5 Maintenance and Approval of T&A by Employee (020505)

5.5.1. When Maintenance of T&A by Employee is Appropriate. Situations in which employees may maintain their own official T&A are as follows:

5.5.1.1 The employee is the timekeeper;

5.5.1.2. Employees work flexible hours outside the hours of the timekeeper and supervisor;

5.5.1.3. An employee is working alone at a remote site;
5.5.1.4. Employees are based at the same location as their supervisors and timekeepers but are frequently away during working hours; or

5.5.1.5. The employing organization determines that individual timekeeping by all employees is warranted. The employing organization must maintain documentation demonstrating that the T&A reporting system has sufficient capacity and internal controls to ensure timely and accurate recording of T&A by these individual employees.

5.5.2. When Approval of T&A by Employee is Appropriate. Employees are generally prohibited from approving their own T&A. Exceptions to this general prohibition apply only when it is not feasible for employees to have their T&A approved by a supervisor. In such instances, the Component head, or his or her designee, must grant an official authorization in writing in order for the employee to approve his or her own T&A. An employee may be authorized to approve his or her own T&A under the following circumstances:

5.5.2.1. The employee works alone at a remote site for long periods;

5.5.2.2. The employee is based at, but frequently away from, the location of their supervisor and timekeeper during working hours; or

5.5.2.3. The employee is the head of an organization within an agency that has no supervisor on site.

5.5.3. Controls. To provide reasonable assurance that employees are working when scheduled, supervisors must take reasonable measures, such as occasional telephone calls during employees scheduled work times, or an assessment of the reasonableness of output for the time spent, to determine the accuracy of T&A data submitted by individuals who maintain their own T&A. The supervisor is responsible for the accuracy of the T&A data submitted by the individual.

5.6 Prior Approval (020506)

When it is not practical for the supervisor to approve a T&A prior to the receipt of supporting documents, the employee may be paid and a subsequent review performed of the documents by the supervisor.

6.0 T&A REPORTING (0206)

6.1 Methods (020601)

T&A data must be transmitted to the payroll system, as required, by using positive (100 percent) reporting or exception reporting. Under positive reporting, all T&A data is reported to the payroll system for each employee. Under exception reporting, only exceptions to the employee’s scheduled tour of duty are reported to the payroll system. When reporting to the payroll system by source data automation, positive reporting must be required for each employee.
6.2 Controls (020602)

Regardless of the reporting method, controls must ensure that all required T&A data, including current period corrections and prior period adjustments, are properly reviewed and approved by the supervisor and reported in a timely and accurate manner.

6.3 Generating a Charge to Annual Leave (020603)

If any required T&A data is missing for an employee, then the PRO will generate a charge against the employee’s annual leave balance. If the annual leave balance is not sufficient to support the employee’s regularly scheduled tour of duty, any remainder must be charged to another leave category in order to fulfill the employee’s scheduled tour of duty. The employee’s pay and leave record must be corrected upon submission of the certified T&A data.

7.0 ADJUSTMENTS OR CORRECTIONS (0207)

7.1 Adjustments After T&A Approval (020701)

Adjustments or corrections required because of changes after T&A information was approved should be processed promptly and be traceable to the pay period for which the correction applies. Electronic corrections for current period corrections and prior period adjustments must be made in accordance with the PRO’s established procedural guidance. T&A corrections, for pay periods no longer available electronically, will require a hard copy of the certified T&A; certified by the supervisor; and forwarded to the PRO. The PRO will process the manual correction. An authorizing official should approve all changes.

7.2 Corrected Time Cards When Awarding Back Pay (020702)

If an appropriate authority corrects or directs the correction of an unjustified or unwarranted personnel action under the provisions of the Back Pay Act at 5 U.S.C. § 5596, time card corrections may be requested by the servicing PRO for the period covered by the corrective action. Corrected time cards ensure the proper award of any pay, allowances, and differentials owed to the employee, including leave or other monetary employment benefits to which an employee is entitled by statute or regulation.

8.0 RETENTION OF RECORDS (0208)

8.1 Storage Location (020801)

Management may require employees and timekeepers, if any, to attest or verify T&A information. T&A information that supports financial reporting or cost reporting should be auditable. Employing activities must establish a uniform practice to be followed as to the locations at which the T&A reports and related supporting documentation are to be maintained. T&A reports, together with approved applications for leave, overtime approvals, military orders, jury duty certification, or other supporting documents, may be retained by the timekeeper, supervisor, or sent to a designated storage location.
8.2 Internal Controls for Records (020802)

Sufficient internal controls must be established to prevent unauthorized changes to completed T&A, regardless of where they are retained.

8.3 Retention Period (020803)

T&A records, to include leave application files, source records, input records, and leave records, must be retained by the employee’s supervisor or activity in accordance with records retention requirements as set forth in the National Archives, General Records Schedule 2.

Note: There are different retention requirements for these four types of records.

9.0 COST REPORTING (0209)

9.1 Controls Over T&A (020901)

Information that is used to support cost reporting should ensure the information is captured in sufficient detail, such as by appropriation, organizational code, work activity, or other unit as necessary to meet the cost reporting objectives and be auditable.

9.2 Accounting and Internal Controls (020902)

The head of each executive agency should establish and maintain systems of accounting and internal controls that provide:

9.2.1. Complete disclosure of the financial results of the activities of the agency;

9.2.2. Adequate financial information the agency needs for management purposes;

9.2.3. Effective control over, and accountability for, assets for which the agency is responsible, including internal audit;

9.2.4. Reliable accounting results that will be the basis for:

9.2.4.1. Preparing and supporting the budget requests of the agency;

9.2.4.2. Controlling the carrying out of the agency budget; and

9.2.4.3. Providing financial information the President requires under 31 U.S.C. § 1104(e) of this title; and

CHAPTER 3

PAY ADMINISTRATION

1.0 GENERAL (0301)

1.1 Purpose (030101)

This chapter provides guidance on DoD civilian employee pay and entitlements.

1.2 Authoritative Guidance (030102)

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the Office of Personnel Management’s (OPM) Pay and Leave, Title 5, United States Code (U.S.C.), DoD Instruction (DoDI) 1400.25, Civilian Personnel Management, and Title 5, Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). Due to the subject matter in the chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each section are listed in a reference section at the end of this chapter.

2.0 GENERAL PROVISIONS ON PAY (0302)

This section provides general information on computing pay and transmitting pay data to the servicing payroll office (PRO). This section also provides guidance on statutory limits on pay (“pay caps”) and general information on computing pay for General Schedule (GS), Senior Executive Service (SES) and other categories of employees.

2.1 Pay and Payroll Data (030201)

2.1.1.1. Standard Form (SF) 50, Notification of Personnel Action and/or other similar personnel documents;

2.1.1.2. Certified copies of travel orders;

2.1.1.3. Time and attendance reports, including any necessary supporting documents such as sign-in and sign-out registers or the OPM Form 71, Request for Leave or Approved Absence; and

2.1.1.4. Authorizations or approvals of overtime and compensatory time worked.
2.1.2. Transmitting Documents to the Servicing PRO. If the servicing Human Resources Office (HRO) electronically transmits the pay entitlement data from source documents to the servicing PRO, then the servicing HRO is also not required to send the source documents to the servicing PRO unless requested to do so. The servicing HRO must monitor feedback to ensure the integrity and accuracy of the data used in the pay computation process and must establish effective controls to ensure that all data transmits successfully. The servicing HRO must retain source documents, along with transmittal and control data, for audit purposes in accordance with the National Archives General Records Schedule 2.4.

2.1.3. PROs Must Ensure Payroll Data is Accurate. The PROs must ensure that payroll data is complete and accurate. Specifically, the PROs must ensure that an employee’s compensation is consistent with his or her grade, position classification, other entitlements, and employment location. For example, an agency may not pay any foreign area allowances, regardless of authorizing documents, to an employee assigned to stateside duties. In this example, the servicing PRO must request the servicing HRO that issued such entitlement documents clarify and/or correct the documents.

2.1.4. Time and Attendance Records. The servicing PRO must ensure pay computations are based on the completed time and attendance records maintained for each employee. The servicing PROs must complete computations as soon as possible after the close of the pay period.

2.1.5. Reconciliation. The servicing PRO, the servicing HRO, and the customer service representative (CSR) must communicate to ensure that all appropriate entitlement information is considered for each pay computation and that the computations are supported by the appropriate documentation. At least every 4 months, personnel and pay data must be reconciled and discrepancies corrected. The functional area that entered the incorrect data has primary responsibility for reconciling discrepancies in common data. For additional information, see Chapter 1.

2.2 Notification of Changes to Pay (030202)

The servicing HRO is responsible for notifying the servicing PRO of changes to an employee’s pay. The servicing PRO must adequately inform each employee in writing as to the nature and amount of the changes in gross pay from one pay period to the next. This information may be included on the employee’s Leave and Earnings Statement (LES) rather than a separate written advisory. The notification must be in sufficient detail to show total pay, allowances, deductions, and net pay.
2.3 Statutory Limits on Compensation ("Pay Caps") (030203)

2.3.1 Premium Pay Limits

2.3.1.1 Biweekly Premium Pay Cap. Premium pay includes night pay, the dollar value of compensatory pay, overtime pay, premium pay on an annual basis, and pay for Sunday and holiday work. See 5 CFR 550.103. Except as explained in subparagraphs 2.3.1.2 and 2.3.1.3, the sum of an employee’s basic pay and premium pay for any pay period may not exceed the greater of the biweekly rate of basic pay payable for: GS-15, step 10 (including any applicable locality pay under 5 U.S.C. § 5304 or special rate of pay under 5 U.S.C. § 5305); or Level V of the Executive Schedule. See 5 U.S.C. § 5547(a), 5 CFR 550.105, and the OPM Pay and Leave. When GS employees are receiving a locality-based comparability payment, the OPM GS Locality Pay Tables should be used to determine the maximum GS-15, step 10 rate payable for the employee’s locality. Employees in established special rate occupations and/or locations may have a higher biweekly limitation equal to the special rate for GS-15, step 10. The biweekly limitation does not apply to the following:

2.3.1.1.1 Overtime pay earned by employees who are nonexempt from (covered by) the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA);

2.3.1.1.2 Hazardous duty pay (HDP);

2.3.1.1.3 Pay earned by Federal Wage System (FWS) employees, who are excluded from coverage under 5 U.S.C. § 5547; or

2.3.1.1.4 Compensatory Time for Title 32 National Guard Technicians. Title 32 National Guard technicians are not paid for overtime work pursuant to 32 U.S.C. § 709(h). Therefore, compensatory time earned by Title 32 National Guard technicians will not be paid and computation of the biweekly statutory pay limits for the technicians should not include compensatory time worked.

2.3.1.2 Types of Pay Subject to Biweekly Cap When an Annual Premium Pay Cap Applies. In certain emergency or mission critical situations, an agency may apply an annual premium pay cap in lieu of a biweekly premium pay cap, subject to the conditions provided in law and regulation. See 5 U.S.C. § 5547(b) and 5 CFR 550.106-107. However, the following types of premium pay, as listed in 5 CFR 550.107, remain subject to the biweekly limitation while other premium payments are subject to an annual limit under 5 CFR 550.106:

2.3.1.2.1 Standby duty pay under 5 U.S.C. § 5545(c)(1);

2.3.1.2.2 Administratively uncontrollable overtime (AUO) pay under 5 U.S.C. § 5545(c)(2);

2.3.1.2.3 Availability pay for criminal investigators under 5 U.S.C. § 5545(a);
2.3.1.2.4. Overtime pay for hours in the regular tour of duty of a firefighter under 5 U.S.C. § 5545(b); and

2.3.1.2.5. An overtime supplement for regularly scheduled overtime hours within a border patrol agent’s regular tour of duty under 5 U.S.C. § 5550.

2.3.1.3. Annual Premium Pay Cap. When the head of an agency, his or her designee, or OPM determines that an emergency exists, the biweekly caps on premium pay described in subparagraph 2.3.1.1 will not apply to employees who are paid premium pay for work in connection with that emergency. However, such employees remain subject to an annual maximum earnings limitation. In these circumstances, the total basic pay and premium pay for most GS employees is limited to the annual rate for GS-15, step 10 (including locality-based comparability or special salary rates) or a Level V of the Executive Schedule for the calendar year. Pay exceeding the cap is forfeited and is not deferred for payment in the next calendar year. The cap does not apply to overtime earned by FLSA nonexempt (FLSA covered) employees. For more information on the annual maximum pay limits, refer to 5 U.S.C. § 5547(b) and 5 CFR 550.106.

2.3.1.4. Increased Annual Premium Pay Limitation

2.3.1.4.1. In 2005, Congress authorized the Secretary of Defense to waive the annual premium pay limitation under certain circumstances. Eligible DoD employees are authorized an increase to the annual premium pay limitation under 5 U.S.C. § 5547, not to exceed the annual rate of salary payable to the Vice President under 3 U.S.C. § 104. To be eligible, employees must perform work in response to an emergency declared by the President or in direct support of, or directly related to, a military operation. Waiver authority applies to eligible employees who perform work while in an overseas area of responsibility of the Commander of the U.S. Central Command (CENTCOM) or an overseas location that has been moved from the U.S. CENTCOM area of responsibility to the area of responsibility of the Commander of the U.S. Africa Command.

2.3.1.4.2. Eligible DoD employees who are granted a waiver of the annual premium pay limitation are entitled to premium payments as provided in yearly guidance published by the Office of the Under Secretary of Defense (OUSD), Personnel and Readiness (P&R) based on Public Law (PL):

2.3.1.4.2.1. Calendar Year 2005 authorized by PL 109-13;
2.3.1.4.2.2. Calendar Year 2006 authorized by PL 109-163;
2.3.1.4.2.3. Calendar Year 2007 authorized by PL 109-364;
2.3.1.4.2.4. Calendar Year 2008 authorized by PL 110-181;
2.3.1.4.2.5. Calendar Year 2009 authorized by PL 110-417;
2.3.1.4.2.6. Calendar Year 2010 authorized by PL 111-84;
2.3.1.4.2.7. Calendar Year 2011 authorized by PL 111-383;

2.3.1.4.2.8. Calendar Year 2012 authorized by PL 112-81;

2.3.1.4.2.9. Calendar Year 2013 authorized by PL 112-239;

2.3.1.4.2.11. Calendar Year 2015 authorized by PL 113-291;

2.3.1.4.2.12. Calendar Year 2016 authorized by PL 114-92;

2.3.1.4.2.13. Calendar Year 2017 authorized by PL 114-328;

2.3.1.4.2.14. Calendar Year 2018 authorized by PL 115-91;

2.3.1.4.2.15. Calendar Year 2019 authorized by PL 115-232;

2.3.1.4.2.16. Calendar Year 2020 authorized by PL 116-92; and

2.3.1.4.2.17. Calendar Year 2021 authorized by PL 116-283.

2.3.2. Aggregate Limitation on Pay

2.3.2.1. Aggregate Limitation. The Federal Employees Pay Comparability Act, (FEPCA) of 1990 and 5 CFR 530, subpart B established an aggregate limitation on pay. The aggregate limitation applies to most federal employees, including most members of the SES who were previously covered by an aggregate limitation applied on a fiscal year basis under 5 U.S.C. § 5383(b). Under 5 U.S.C. § 5307, a covered employee may not receive any allowance, differential, bonus, award, or other payment in any calendar year to the extent that such payment, in combination with the employee’s basic pay, would cause the employee’s aggregate compensation to exceed the rate payable for Level I of the Executive Schedule at the end of that calendar year.

2.3.2.2. Aggregate Compensation. Aggregate compensation is the total of basic pay, premium pay, allowances, differentials, bonuses, awards, incentives, and other similar cash payments. Certain payments are excluded from aggregate compensation such as overtime pay under FLSA, severance pay, lump-sum payment for accrued annual leave, back pay awards, student loan repayments, and nonforeign area cost-of-living allowances (COLAs). See 5 CFR 530.202.
2.3.2.3. Payments of Excess Amounts. Amounts in excess of the aggregate limitation must be deferred and are generally paid in a lump-sum payment at the beginning of the next calendar year. See 5 CFR 530.204. If an employee transfers to another agency, the gaining agency is responsible for this payment. If an employee separates from federal service, the entire excess amount is payable following a 30-day break in service. If an employee dies, the agency must pay the entire excess amount as part of the deceased employee’s unpaid compensation. See 5 U.S.C. § 5582 and 5 CFR 530.204.

2.3.2.4. Deferring Payments. An agency must defer payment of any portion of a discretionary payment that would cause an employee’s aggregate compensation to exceed the aggregate limitation. After deferring discretionary payments, all nondiscretionary payments (other than basic pay) must be deferred if continuing to pay the nondiscretionary payments would cause the employee’s aggregate compensation to exceed the aggregate limitation for the calendar year. See 5 CFR 530.203(d) and (e) and 5 CFR 530.204.

2.3.2.4.1. Discretionary Payments. A discretionary payment is an optional payment that an agency has discretion to pay an employee (e.g., retention allowances, supervisory differentials, and physicians’ comparability). See 5 CFR 550.202.

2.3.2.4.2. Nondiscretionary Payments. Nondiscretionary payments are payments made to an employee under the terms of a service agreement or preauthorized to be paid at a regular fixed rate each pay period (e.g., basic pay, locality-based comparability payments, COLAs, post differentials, and remote worksite allowances). An agency may not defer a nondiscretionary payment to make a discretionary payment. Basic pay may not be deferred or discontinued under any circumstances.

2.4 Multiple Appointments (030204)

An employee is not entitled to receive pay from more than one position for more than an aggregate of 40 hours of work in one calendar week (Sunday through Saturday). See 5 U.S.C. § 5533(a). Generally, there is no restriction on the number of appointments, only the number of hours, for which an employee may be paid. An employee may hold more than one simultaneous part-time or intermittent appointment, or an employee on leave without pay may accept another federal appointment. However, the employee may not receive pay for more than 40 hours a week, unless the employee’s regular tour of duty is for more than 40 hours a week under an authorized alternative work schedule (AWS) or from two sources for the same hours. The HRO will notify the servicing PRO of multiple appointments via SF 50 data.

2.5 General Schedule (GS) Employees (030205)

2.5.1. Basic Pay. Basic pay for GS employees is defined in 5 CFR 531.203 as the rate of pay fixed by law or by administrative action for the position held by a GS employee prior to withholding any deductions and excludes additional pay of any kind.
2.5.2. Pay Computation. Computations of salaries are based on the rates contained in the OPM, Pay and Leave, OPM Salary Table.

2.5.3. Determining Basic Rates

2.5.3.1. The hourly basic rate is determined by dividing the annual rate by 2,087 hours, with the result adjusted to the nearest cent, counting one-half cent and over as a whole cent. See 5 U.S.C. § 5504.

2.5.3.2. The biweekly rate is determined by multiplying the hourly rate by 80 hours for full-time employees.

2.5.3.2. A daily rate is determined by multiplying the hourly basic rate by the number of daily hours of service.

2.5.3.4. For any employee whose pay is monthly or covers one calendar month, rules for division of time and computation of pay are governed by 5 U.S.C. § 5505.

2.5.4. Interim Geographic Adjustment (IGA). On February 1, 1996, OPM issued final regulations at 61 Federal Register 3539 to address the termination of IGAs. Locality-based comparability payments replaced the IGAs effective August 2, 1996.

2.5.5. Special Higher Minimum Base Rates for Law Enforcement Officers (LEO) at Grades GS-3 Through GS-10. Special base rates for LEOs at grades GS-3 through GS-10 are authorized under section 403 of the FEPCA of 1990 and 5 CFR 531.204 and are used in lieu of a GS rate. OPM publishes the special base rates for LEOs in a special salary table. These rates are the basis for computing locality payments under 5 CFR 531, subpart F. Special geographic adjustments for LEOs under section 404 of the FEPCA of 1990 have been eliminated because they have been surpassed by regular locality payments under 5 U.S.C. § 5304.

2.5.6. Locality-Based Comparability Payments. Title 5, CFR 531, subpart F and 5 U.S.C. § 5304 govern locality payments for GS employees and other employment positions in locality pay areas. Locality pay is considered as basic pay for retirement, Federal Employees’ Group Life Insurance (FEGLI), premium pay, advance pay, severance pay, lump-sum leave, and workers’ compensation purposes. The HRO bases locality pay eligibility on where an employee’s official duty station is, and not where he or she lives. Locality pay does not transfer with an employee from one pay locality to another. Employees must receive whatever rate of pay applies at his or her new duty station. Employees on temporary assignment in a different pay locality must continue receiving their current salary. Locality pay does not apply overseas. The official worksite for an employee covered by a telework agreement must be determined on a case-by-case basis using criteria established by the OPM.
2.6 Employees in Performance Management and Recognition System (PMRS) (030206)

2.6.1. General. The PMRS Termination Act of 1993 terminated the PMRS effective November 1, 1993. The provisions of this law applied to any employee covered by a PMRS position on October 31, 1993, and provided for the transition of former PMRS employees into their agency’s Performance Management System and the GS pay plan. See OPM Performance Reference Materials, OPM Instructions: How to Comply with PL 103-89.

2.6.2. Identification of PMRS Employees. In order to identify all employees covered by the provisions of this law, OPM retained the General Merit (GM) pay plan code. The step for all employees using the GM pay plan code will continue to be zeros (“00”).

2.6.3. Within-Grade Increases. All GS employees, including those still designated GM after October 31, 1993, will be eligible for within-grade increases according to the waiting periods established in the statute. The last PMRS merit increase received, including one for zero dollars, is an equivalent increase for the purpose of calculating and completing the prescribed waiting periods. Within-grade increases have the dollar value of one-ninth of the pay range. Employees will have the within-grade increase added to their basic pay rate, including an off-step rate, upon completion of the appropriate waiting period, provided performance has been at an acceptable level of competence.

2.6.4. Termination. An employee’s coverage under the PMRS will end and his or her rate of basic pay will be adjusted to the designated GS step rate that meets or exceeds the current rate of pay, not to exceed step 10, if any of the following actions occur:

2.6.4.1. Promotion;

2.6.4.2. Change to a lower grade;

2.6.4.3. Break in service of more than 3 days;

2.6.4.4. Transfer to another non-DoD agency; or

2.6.4.5. Reassignment to a non-supervisory or non-management position.

2.7 Senior Executive Service Positions (030207)

2.7.1. Definition. In accordance with 5 U.S.C. § 3132(a)(2) and 5 CFR Part 317, an SES position is any position within an agency above a GS-15 grade level under 5 U.S.C. § 5108, or in Level IV or V of the Executive Schedule, or an equivalent position, which is not required to be filled by an appointment by the President with Senate confirmation. The SES includes managerial, supervisory, and policy positions classified above a GS-15 or equivalent in the Executive Branch. Non-supervisory positions are not covered unless they carry significant policymaking responsibilities.
2.7.2. Rate of Pay. The SES pay range has a minimum rate of basic pay equal to 120 percent of GS-15, step 1, and a maximum rate equal to that of a Level III of the Executive Schedule. See 5 U.S.C. § 5382 and 5 CFR 534.403. The maximum rate of basic pay for an SES employee covered by a performance appraisal system is set at the rate for Level II of the Executive Schedule. Minimum rates of basic pay for the SES rate range are adjusted by Executive Order issued by the President to allow for consistency with any increase in the minimum rate of basic pay for these positions. See 5 U.S.C. § 5376.

2.8 Senior Level (SL) Positions (030208)

2.8.1. Definition. SL positions are non-SES positions classified above GS-15 pursuant to 5 U.S.C. § 5108 and 5 CFR 319.102. These positions do not include administrative law judges or board of contract appeals positions that have their own pay schedules.

2.8.2. Rate of Pay. Title 5, U.S.C. § 5376 and 5 CFR 534, subpart E govern the rates of pay for SL positions and are located in the OPM Pay Tables, see section 2.5.2. The Senior Professional Performance Act of 2008 established a new pay system for SL employees, effective April 12, 2009, providing pay ranges comparable to those available under the SES pay system. See 5 U.S.C. § 5304. The minimum rate of basic pay is set at 120 percent of GS-15, step 1, and the maximum rate equal to Level III of the Executive Schedule. The maximum rate of basic pay for an SL employee covered by a performance appraisal system is set at the rate for Level II of the Executive Schedule. Under the new pay system, locality pay is no longer paid in addition to the basic rate. There are no grades or steps under 5 U.S.C. § 5376; therefore, employees may be paid at any rate between the minimum and maximum rates.

2.9 Scientific or Professional (ST) Positions (030209)

2.9.1. Definition. ST employees are those in non-executive positions classified above GS-15 who are engaged in high-level research and development in the physical, biological, medical or engineering sciences established under 5 U.S.C. § 3104 and 5 CFR 319.103.

2.9.2. Rate of Pay. The rates of pay for ST level positions are governed by 5 U.S.C. § 5376 and 5 CFR 534, subpart E, and are located in the OPM Pay Tables, see section 2.5.2. The Senior Professional Performance Act of 2008 established a new pay system for ST level employees, effective April 12, 2009, providing pay ranges comparable to those available under the SES pay system. The minimum rate of basic pay is set at 120 percent of GS-15, step 1, and the maximum rate equal to Level III of the Executive Schedule. The maximum rate of basic pay for a ST position employee covered by a performance appraisal system is set at the rate for Level II of the Executive Schedule. Under the new pay system, locality pay is no longer paid in addition to the basic rate. There are no grades or steps under 5 U.S.C. § 5376; therefore, employees may be paid at any rate between the minimum and maximum.
2.10  Executive Schedule Positions (030210)

2.10.1.  Definition.  The Executive Schedule is, as defined in 5 U.S.C. § 5311, divided into five pay levels (Level I through Level V) and is the basic pay schedule for senior management positions described at 5 U.S.C. §§ 5312-5316. SES positions are not included.

2.10.2.  Rate of Pay.  The rate of pay for Executive Schedule positions is contained in the OPM Salary Table.

2.11  Federal Wage System (FWS) Positions (030211)

2.11.1.  Definition.  The FWS was established for federal trade, craft, and laboring employees to allow for the payment of wages comparable to prevailing private sector rates in each local wage area. These positions are also referred to “wage grade” or “wage board” positions. 5 U.S.C. § 5342 defines an FWS employee as a prevailing rate employee who is in a recognized trade or craft, other skilled mechanical craft, or in an unskilled, semi-skilled, or skilled manual labor occupation. Individuals in positions having trade, craft or laboring experience and knowledge as a paramount requirement, such as a supervisor or foreman, may be FWS employees. See the OPM Fact Sheet: OPM FWS Overview and the Prevailing Rate Systems at 5 CFR Part 532. FWS employees are hourly rate employees who receive annual wage adjustments based on a review of comparability pay by wage area. Each area pay scale is divided into the following five parts or classes: wage grade, wage leader, wage supervisor, non-supervisory and supervisory employees covered by the production facilitating pay plan.

2.11.2.  Rate of Pay.  OPM adjusts the rates from time to time for comparable work within a local wage area. Basic pay for FWS employees means the scheduled rate of pay plus any night shift or environmental differential.

2.12  Administratively Determined (AD) Pay Plans (030212)

Pay rates may be established under an AD pay system that was created under a separate statutory authority. An agency must have independent authority to administratively determine the rates of pay for any group or category of employees. See the OPM Pay and Leave, Pay Administration, Fact Sheet: OPM Pay Plans.
3.0  PREMIUM PAY (0303)

3.1  General (030301)

Premium pay consists of certain types of pay, such as overtime, night, and holiday pay for employees not in receipt of annual premium pay for standby duty, Sunday pay, annual premium pay for regularly scheduled standby duty, annual premium pay for administratively uncontrollable work, availability pay for LEOs, environmental pay for FWS employees, and hazard pay for GS employees. Rates and authorization for these various types of pay are contained in 5 U.S.C. § 5542, 5 U.S.C. § 5543, 5 U.S.C. § 5544, 5 U.S.C. § 5545, 5 U.S.C. § 5545a, 5 U.S.C. § 5545b, 5 U.S.C. § 5546a, 5 U.S.C. § 5547, 5 U.S.C. § 5549, and 5 CFR 550, subpart A. SES employees, Teaching Position (TP) Pay Plan employees, and other employees identified under 5 CFR 550.101 are not entitled to premium pay under any circumstances. However, the premium pay provisions apply to SL and ST positions. For information on statutory limits on premium pay, also referred to as biweekly and annual premium pay caps, see paragraph 2.3.

*3.2  Overtime (030302)

Each employing activity is responsible for controlling overtime. Supervisors must ensure funds targeted for their employing activity will cover overtime worked. Approval or disapproval of overtime must be consistent with direction from the Deputy Secretary of Defense. The employee is only paid approved overtime as certified on the employee’s time and attendance report. Normally, employees must request approval to work overtime in writing in advance of performing the work. See 5 U.S.C. § 5542.

3.2.1  Overtime Pay

3.2.1.1  Regularly Scheduled. Title 5, CFR 550, subpart A sets out regulations on premium pay for overtime. Regular overtime work is overtime work that has been scheduled prior to the beginning of an employee’s regularly scheduled administrative workweek. For a GS employee whose rate of pay does not exceed a minimum applicable rate for a GS-10, the overtime-hourly rate is one and one-half times the employee’s hourly rate of pay. For an employee whose rate of basic pay exceeds the minimum rate for a GS-10, the overtime-hourly rate is equal to the greater of one and one-half times the applicable minimum hourly rate of basic pay for a GS-10 or the employee’s hourly rate of basic pay. Agencies may authorize regular overtime for full-time, part-time, and intermittent GS employees. An intermittent work schedule is appropriate when work is unpredictable and sporadic and therefore, repetitive regularly scheduled overtime should seldom occur. See 5 CFR 340.403.

3.2.1.2  Irregular/Occasional. Irregular or occasional overtime work is overtime work that is not part of an employee’s regularly scheduled administrative workweek.
3.2.2. Overtime Pay for FLSA Nonexempt (Covered) Employees

3.2.2.1. General. Generally, the servicing PRO must compensate a nonexempt FLSA employee pursuant to the provisions of 29 U.S.C. § 207 and 5 CFR 551, subpart E for all hours of work in excess of 8 hours a day or 40 hours in a workweek at a rate equal to one and one-half times the employee’s hourly regular rate of pay. The “hourly regular rate” of pay for all nonexempt employees is computed by adding all includible payments for the week, then dividing by the total hours of work and paid leave. See 5 CFR 551.511 and 5 CFR 551.512 for complete instruction on overtime pay computation. The biweekly and annual premium pay caps discussed in paragraph 2.3 do not apply to FLSA nonexempt employees.

3.2.2.1.1. Flexible Work Schedule. Overtime, when worked under a flexible work schedule pursuant to 5 U.S.C. §§ 6122-6126, consists of hours officially ordered in advance and in excess of 8 hours per day or 40 hours per week. Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. § 6121(6), overtime hours do not include credit hours worked voluntarily under a flexible work schedule.

3.2.2.1.2. Compressed Work Schedule. For a full-time employee, overtime work consists of all hours of work in excess of the established compressed work schedule. For a part-time employee, overtime work consists of hours in excess of the compressed work schedule for the day (more than at least 8 hours) or for the week (more than at least 40 hours).

3.2.2.2. Calculation of Overtime After FEPCA. Under section 210 of the FEPCA, effective May 4, 1991, overtime pay computations for FLSA nonexempt (covered) employees must be made solely in accordance with FLSA regulations at 5 CFR Part 551, as amended. Agencies are no longer required to compare overtime pay entitlements for nonexempt employees under 5 CFR Part 550 and 5 CFR Part 551 and pay whichever amount is greater. Entitlements prior to May 3, 1991, must be calculated using the previous rules. FLSA nonexempt employees continue to be covered by other premium pay provisions of 5 U.S.C., Chapter 55, Subchapter V for night, Sunday, or holiday and annual premium pay for regularly scheduled standby duty or AUO work.

3.2.2.3. Other. According to 5 U.S.C. § 5544(a), hours of work, as defined under 5 U.S.C. § 5542, in excess of 8 hours in a day are deemed to be overtime hours for the purposes of Section 7 of FLSA. See 29 U.S.C. § 207(e)(7). The excess hours are considered overtime only if an employee is not receiving annual premium pay for regularly scheduled standby duty 5 U.S.C. § 5545(c)(1) or annual premium pay for AUO work under 5 U.S.C. § 5545(c)(2), or 5 U.S.C. § 5544(a) for FWS employees. Under FLSA, such hours are overtime hours regardless of the total number of hours of work in the workweek. For example, an employee on a flexible work schedule who works 10 hours on the first day of the workweek and is on Leave Without Pay (LWOP) for the remainder of the workweek is entitled to 2 hours of overtime pay under FLSA, even though the employee has worked a total of only 10 hours in the workweek. However, an employee working a compressed work schedule of eight 10-hour days would not receive overtime pay until they work in excess of 10 hours on a scheduled day.
3.2.3. Callback Overtime. Pursuant to 5 CFR 550.112(h), a minimum of two hours of overtime will be paid if an employee is required to return to the place of employment for unscheduled overtime work or to work unscheduled overtime on a nonscheduled workday. If the callback occurs on a holiday during the employee’s regular schedule, then a minimum of two hours holiday premium pay is paid. Pursuant to 5 CFR 551.401(e), when an FLSA nonexempt employee performs unscheduled overtime work on a day when work was not scheduled for the employee, or for which the employee is required to return to the place of employment, the employee is paid for two hours of work or the actual number of hours worked, whichever is greater. In all cases, the employee must record the actual time worked.

3.2.4. Excluded Employees. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. § 5541 exclude SES employees from premium pay. See 5 CFR 534.408 and 5 CFR 550.101. Certain GS and all Executive Schedule employees are also excluded because premium pay may be paid only to the extent that aggregate pay does not exceed the maximum rate of pay for a GS-15 employee. See 5 U.S.C. § 5547. Title 32 National Guard technicians are not entitled to premium pay for overtime; instead, they may earn compensatory time.

3.2.5. Compensatory Time Off

3.2.5.1. Agency Approval. Under 5 U.S.C. § 5543 and 5 CFR 550.114, eligible employees, including FWS and FLSA nonexempt employees, may request compensatory time off from their scheduled tour of duty instead of payment for an equal amount of time spent in irregular or occasional overtime work. An agency may require that FLSA exempt employees (who are not prevailing rate employees) whose rate of basic pay is greater than the rate for GS-10, step 10 take compensatory time off instead of being paid overtime pay. See 5 U.S.C. § 5543(a)(2), see also 5 CFR 550.114(c). An agency may not require FWS and FLSA nonexempt employees to take compensatory time off instead of being paid overtime pay, unless the employee requests compensatory time. See 5 CFR 532.504 and 5 CFR 551.531.

3.2.5.2. Dollar Value of Compensatory Time Off and Premium Pay Cap Limitations. An employee must receive advanced written approval for compensatory time worked. Such approval must be made in accordance with Chapter 2. Compensatory time off is an alternative form of payment for overtime work. For the purpose of applying pay cap limitations or liquidating compensatory time, the dollar value of the compensatory time equals the amount of overtime pay the employee would otherwise have received for performing the same number of hours of overtime work. Pay limitations apply as follows:

3.2.5.2.1. Biweekly Premium Pay Cap. If invoking the biweekly cap, an employee cannot receive credit for compensatory time worked if the basic rate of pay equals or exceeds the maximum rate for grade GS-15, step 10, or Level V of the Executive Schedule. An employee whose basic rate is less than the maximum rate of GS-15, step 10, or Level V of the Executive Schedule, may earn compensatory time. However, it may only be credited to the extent that the monetary value of the compensatory time does not cause the total rate of pay to exceed the maximum earnings limitations under 5 CFR 550.106(c).
3.2.5.2.2. Annual Premium Pay Cap. If invoking an annual premium pay cap, an employee may only receive credit for compensatory time to the extent that the monetary value of the compensatory time does not cause the total rate of pay to exceed the maximum earnings limitations. See 5 CFR 550.106(c).

3.2.5.2.3. FLSA Considerations. The granting of compensatory time off in lieu of overtime pay under 5 U.S.C. § 5542 must not violate the overtime pay requirements of FLSA. For instructions on compensatory time off for nonexempt employees, refer to 5 CFR 551.531. For FLSA exempt employees, refer to 5 CFR 550.114.

3.2.5.3. Occasional or Irregular Overtime Work. FWS, FLSA nonexempt and FLSA exempt GS employees may choose to earn compensatory time in place of payment for an equal amount of time spent in occasional or irregular overtime work, i.e., overtime work not scheduled in advance of the employee’s workweek. Compensatory time off may be approved in lieu of regularly scheduled overtime work for FLSA exempt employees who are ordered to work overtime hours under a flexible work schedule under 5 U.S.C. § 6122. Additionally, an FWS or FLSA nonexempt employee may request compensatory time off if the employee is on a flexible work schedule under 5 U.S.C. § 6122. In this situation, the compensatory time off is granted instead of payment under 5 CFR 532.504 and 5 CFR 551.501 for an equal amount of time spent in overtime work, without regard to whether the overtime work was irregular or occasional in nature.

3.2.5.4. Time Limits. Pursuant to 5 CFR 550.114 and 5 CFR 551.531, the limit for the use of compensatory time off is the end of the 26th pay period after that in which the overtime was worked.

3.2.5.4.1. FLSA/FWS Employees. Compensatory time off must be granted to an FLSA exempt or non-exempt employee within a reasonable time after the overtime is worked. If an FLSA exempt employee fails to take earned compensatory time off within 26 pay periods, the unused compensatory time worked pays out at the overtime rate earned or is forfeited based off the employing agency’s discretion. See the OPM Fact Sheet: Compensatory Time Off. If an FWS or FLSA nonexempt employee fails to use compensatory time before the expiration of the established period, the employee is entitled to receive payment for the overtime work at FLSA overtime rate in effect at the time it was earned. See 5 CFR 532.504 and 5 CFR 551.531.

3.2.5.4.2. Title 32 National Guard Technicians. Title 32 National Guard technicians are not entitled to overtime and may not receive payment for unused compensatory time worked. Title 32 National Guard technicians must use their compensatory time by the end of the 26th pay period after it is earned or the compensatory time will be forfeited.

3.2.5.5. AWS. Employees on a flexible work schedule or compressed work schedule may earn compensatory time off in lieu of overtime pay.

3.2.5.5.1. Flexible Work Schedule. An agency may approve compensatory time off in lieu of overtime pay for non-SES employees under a flexible work schedule at the employee’s request. See 5 U.S.C. § 6123(a)(1).
3.2.5.5.2. Compressed Work Schedule. Compensatory time off may be approved in lieu of overtime pay only for irregular or occasional overtime work by an employee as defined in 5 U.S.C. § 5541(2) or by an FWS prevailing rate employee as defined in 5 U.S.C. § 5342(a)(2), but may not be approved for an SES member. Mandatory compensatory time off is limited to FLSA exempt employees, who are not prevailing rate employees, whose rate of basic pay is greater than the rate for GS-10, step 10.

3.2.5.6. Compensatory Time Off in Relation to Night Pay. When a GS employee takes compensatory time off during his or her scheduled tour of duty that includes night pay, the employee is still entitled to night pay for that time only if the scheduled tour of duty is between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. and the employee’s leave total is less than 8 hours in a pay period. See 5 CFR 550.122.

3.2.5.7. Compensatory Time Off in Relation to Annual Leave. Compensatory time off may be granted before annual leave is approved except when annual leave would otherwise be forfeited. If the use of earned compensatory time off or credit hours that are about to expire results in the forfeiture of excess annual leave, the forfeited leave cannot be restored. See the OPM Pay and Leave, Pay and Leave Administration, Fact Sheet: OPM Restoration of Annual Leave.

3.2.5.8. Payment for Unused Compensatory Time

3.2.5.8.1. Separation or Transfers. When an FLSA exempt or nonexempt employee separates, dies, or transfers to another DoD Component (e.g., from Army to Navy, or Air Force to the Defense Logistics Agency) or the employee moves to a non-DoD agency (e.g., Army to Department of the Treasury), the losing Component must pay for any unused compensatory time balances. The agency must pay the balance at the overtime rate in effect when the employee earned the compensatory time. Title 32 National Guard technicians are not paid for unused compensatory time. See the DoD Instruction (DoDI) 1400.25-V550, 5 CFR 550.114 and 5 CFR 551.531.

3.2.5.8.2. Uniformed Service or Injury-on-the-Job. Agencies must pay an FLSA exempt or nonexempt employee for compensatory time off not used by the end of the 26th pay period after the pay period earned. Payment is at the overtime rate in effect when earned when the employee is unable to use the compensatory time off because of separation or placement in a leave without pay status because of:

3.2.5.8.2.1. Performing service in the uniformed services (5 CFR 550.114(f)) or

3.2.5.8.2.2. An on-the-job injury with an entitlement to injury compensation under 5 U.S.C., Chapter 81.
3.2.6. Time Off for Religious Observances. Employees may earn compensatory time off for religious observances under provisions of 5 U.S.C. § 5550a and 5 CFR 550, subpart J. Time off for religious reasons is recorded in a special leave account. Religious compensatory time off may be earned within 13 pay periods in advance of the pay period in which it is intended to be used, or within 13 pay periods following the pay period in which it was used. Time off balances do not transfer. When an employee separates, dies, or transfers to another Federal agency, any unused time off balance must be paid by the losing activity at the basic hourly rate in effect when the time was worked. If the employee has an advanced time off balance at the time of separation, death, or transfer, a debt must be created. Compensatory overtime worked in this manner is exempt from maximum pay limitations and all other provisions of overtime and premium pay contained in 5 CFR 550.1001-1002, 5 U.S.C., Chapter 55, Subchapter V, and 29 U.S.C. § 207. For additional information, see Chapter 5.

3.3 Night Pay Differential (GS) and Night Shift Differential (FWS) (030303)

3.3.1. GS Employees. Under 5 U.S.C. § 5545(a), night pay differential, at the rate of 10 percent of the hourly basic rate, is payable to employees for regularly scheduled work performed between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. Accordingly, the hourly basic rate is multiplied by 10 percent, with the result adjusted to the nearest cent, counting one-half cent and over as a whole cent. Night pay differential is not included in the rate of basic pay used to calculate overtime, Sunday, or holiday pay. Night pay differential is in addition to overtime, Sunday, or holiday pay. The head of a department may designate another time between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m., as the beginning and end of the night work for activities outside of the U.S. See 5 CFR 550.121. Employees are not entitled to night pay differential while engaged in training, except where the situation they are learning to handle occurs only at night. An employee is entitled to night pay differential under the following circumstances:

3.3.1.1. For the hours actually worked between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. when such hours are part of the employee’s regularly scheduled work;

3.3.1.2. For overtime work performed between the hours of 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. if the overtime is regularly scheduled in advance of the administrative workweek;

3.3.1.3. For a period of paid leave during night work hours, only when the total amount of leave in a pay period, including both night and day hours, is less than 8 hours. Exceptions to this rule are employees on court leave; military leave; including leave for law enforcement and encampment purposes; time off with pay for a holiday; official travel status; administrative leave; compensatory time used; credit hours used; continuation of pay (COP) and time off awards;

3.3.1.4. When excused from night work during a tour of duty while on official travel status, whether performing actual duty or not. See 5 CFR 550.122(a);
3.3.1.5. When temporarily assigned during the administrative workweek to a daily tour of duty that includes night work. See 5 CFR 550.122(d); or

3.3.1.6. When excused from night work on a holiday or other non-workday. See
5 CFR 550.122(a).

3.3.2. Part-Time Employees. Part-time GS employees are eligible for night pay differential for work performed between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. as part of their regularly scheduled administrative workweek.

3.3.3. Intermittent Employees. Intermittent GS employees who have no regularly scheduled tour of duty are not eligible for night pay differential. These employees are eligible for night pay differential during temporary assignment to a regular tour of duty with night work.

3.3.4. FWS Employees. Under 5 U.S.C. § 5343(f), FWS employees receive night shift differential at one of the two following rates: the rate of 7.5 percent of their hourly rate for non-overtime work when a majority of their scheduled hours occur between 3 p.m. and midnight; or 10 percent of their hourly rate for non-overtime work when the majority of scheduled hours occur between 11 p.m. and 8 a.m. For additional information, see 5 CFR 532.505. Night shift differential is considered as part of basic pay in the calculation of overtime pay, Sunday pay, holiday pay, and deductions for retirement and FEGLI. An employee regularly assigned to a night shift is entitled to night shift differential under the following circumstances:

3.3.4.1. For all non-overtime hours worked during an entire shift when the majority of hours fall within the specified periods;

3.3.4.2. On paid leave, such as court leave, holiday leave, compensatory time used, and administrative leave. See 5 CFR 532.505(e);

3.3.4.3. During a tour of duty while on official travel status, whether performing actual duty or not. See 5 CFR 532.505(c);

3.3.4.4. When temporarily assigned to a different tour of duty. See
5 CFR 532.505(d); or

3.3.4.5. When excused from night work on a holiday or other non-workday. See
5 CFR 532.505(b).

3.3.5. Title 32 National Guard Technicians. Title 32 Army and Air National Guard technicians are not entitled to payment of night differential or premium pay for overtime pay during periods of overtime worked. Title 32 National Guard technicians earn compensatory time.
3.4 Sunday Premium Pay (030304)

Additional pay at a rate of 25 percent of the hourly basic rate is payable to full and part-time employees whose regularly scheduled workweek, which does not include overtime hours, includes Sunday. Part-time employees are eligible for Sunday premium pay. See OPM Memorandum: Fathauer v. U.S. 566 F.3d 1352 (Fed. Cir. 2009), December 8, 2009. Sunday premium pay is payable for the entire period of non-overtime work during an employee’s regularly scheduled daily tour of duty, not to exceed 8 hours, that begins or ends on a Sunday. Employees who do not actually perform work on Sunday do not earn Sunday premium pay. See 5 U.S.C. § 5546. Therefore, employees who are regularly scheduled to work on Sunday and who are on paid leave, excused absence, taking compensatory time off, using credit hours, or not working because Sunday is a holiday, are not entitled to Sunday premium pay. Intermittent employees are not entitled to Sunday premium pay. See 5 U.S.C. § 5544 and 5 U.S.C. § 5546. FWS employees are entitled to Sunday premium pay under 5 U.S.C. § 5544(a).

3.4.1. Flexible Work Schedule. A full-time or part-time employee on a flexible work schedule who performs regularly scheduled non-overtime work during a period of duty, a part of which is performed on Sunday, is entitled to Sunday pay for the entire period of duty, not to exceed 8 hours.

3.4.2. Compressed Work Schedule. A full-time or part-time employee on a compressed work schedule who performs non-overtime work during a period of duty, a part of which is on Sunday, is entitled to Sunday pay for the entire period of duty on that day, even if the hours worked exceeded 8 hours. See 5 U.S.C. § 6128.

3.4.3. First 40-Hour Tour of Duty. A first 40-hour tour of duty is regularly scheduled work. An employee under a first 40-hour schedule is entitled to up to 8 hours of Sunday premium pay when performing non-overtime work on a Sunday. See 5 CFR 610.111 and OPM, Pay and Leave, OPM Work Schedules. Any additional hours over 8 hours in a day are paid as overtime unless the employee is: engaged in professional or technical engineering or scientific activities for whom the first 40 hours of duty in an administrative workweek is the basic workweek; or the employee’s basic pay exceeds the minimum rate for GS-10, step 1 (including any applicable locality-based comparability payment under section 5304 or similar provision of law and any applicable special rate of pay under section 5305 or similar provision of law) for whom the first 40 hours of duty in an administrative workweek is the basic workweek. An employee on a first-40 tour who does not fall under one of these two exceptions is entitled to overtime pay for hours worked in excess of 8 hours in a day or 40 hours in an administrative workweek. See 5 U.S.C. § 5542 and 5 CFR 550.111(d)(2).

3.4.4. Maximum Hours. The maximum number of hours of Sunday premium pay that an employee is paid for one Sunday is 16 hours. The 16 hours would include two 8-hour tours: one starting on Saturday night and ending on Sunday morning, and the next tour starting Sunday night and ending on Monday morning.
3.4.5. Rate of Payment. The hourly basic rate is multiplied by 25 percent with the result adjusted to the nearest cent, counting one-half cent and over as a whole cent. See OPM Operating Manual, Federal Wage System-Appropriated Fund, subchapter S8-4e.

3.5 Holiday Premium Pay (030305)

In accordance with 5 U.S.C. § 5546 and 5 CFR 550.131, an employee who performs non-overtime work on a holiday designated by federal statute or executive order is entitled to holiday premium pay. Holiday premium pay is equal to the employee’s rate of basic pay. An employee receives basic pay, plus holiday premium pay, for each hour of holiday work that is not in excess of their regularly scheduled non-overtime basic tour of duty, not to exceed 8 hours. Overtime work on a holiday is paid in accordance with paragraph 3.2. An employee required to perform any work on a designated holiday is entitled to pay for at least 2 hours of holiday work. Holiday premium pay is in addition to overtime pay, night pay differential, or Sunday pay. See also OPM Fact Sheet, Federal Holidays-Work Schedules and Pay.

3.5.1. Flexible Work Schedule. For an employee working a flexible work schedule, holiday pay for non-overtime work is limited to 8 hours in a day. A part-time employee, scheduled to work on a day designated as an “in lieu of” holiday for full-time employees, is not entitled to a premium for work performed on that day. See 5 U.S.C. § 6123.

3.5.2. Compressed Work Schedule. For an employee working a compressed work schedule, holiday pay for non-overtime work is limited to the number of hours normally scheduled for that day. A part-time employee, scheduled to work on a day designated as an “in lieu of” holiday for full-time employees, is not entitled to a premium for work performed on that day. See 5 U.S.C. § 6128.

3.5.3. GS Employees. GS employees receive their basic pay, including any night differential, for holidays on which they are not required to work. Employees are entitled to additional holiday premium pay for work performed on a holiday not to exceed 8 hours, during the hours of their regularly scheduled tour of duty.

3.5.4. FWS Employees. FWS employees who have a regular tour of duty and are not required to work due to a holiday are entitled to the same rate of pay for that day as if they had worked. For work performed on a holiday, FWS employees are entitled to their basic rate plus premium pay at a rate equal to their basic pay for holiday work that is not more than 8 hours or is not overtime work. For additional information, see 5 CFR 532.507.

3.5.5. Callback. Unscheduled overtime work performed by an employee on a day when work was not scheduled, or for which the employee is required to return to the place of employment is deemed to be at least 2 hours in duration. See 5 U.S.C. § 5542. If the callback occurs on a holiday during the employee’s regular schedule, an agency must pay a minimum of 2 hours holiday premium. The employee must record the actual time worked for time and attendance purposes. Employees working more than 2 hours are entitled to pay for the actual number of hours worked.
3.5.6. Training. An employee is not entitled to holiday premium pay while engaged in training, except under limited circumstances set out at 5 CFR 410.402.

3.6 Annual Premium Pay for Standby Duty (030306)

Employees may receive premium pay on an annual basis when working in a position regularly requiring them to remain at, or within the confines of, their station during longer than ordinary periods of duty, and a substantial part of which consists of remaining in a standby status rather than performing work. See 5 U.S.C. § 5545(c) and 5 CFR 550.141-144. Annual premium pay for standby duty is in lieu of premiums for regularly scheduled overtime, night, holiday, and Sunday work.

3.6.1. Irregular or Unscheduled Overtime. Additional hours of irregular or unscheduled overtime in excess of the regularly scheduled weekly tour are not compensated by standby premium pay, but are eligible for overtime pay consideration under 5 U.S.C. § 5542 or the FLSA overtime provisions at 29 U.S.C. § 207.

3.6.2. Rate of Payment. Premium pay is determined as an appropriate percentage, not in excess of 25 percent, of the rate of basic pay for the position not exceeding the minimum applicable rate of basic pay for GS-10, including any applicable locality-based comparability payment or similar provision of law, and any applicable special rate of or similar provisions of law. See 5 CFR 550.141 and 5 U.S.C. § 5304.

3.7 Annual Premium Pay for Administratively Uncontrollable Overtime (AUO) (030307)

3.7.1. Eligibility Criteria. Premium pay may be paid on an annual basis instead of other premium pay (except premium pay for regular overtime work and work at night, on Sundays, and on holidays) when an employee is in a position in which the hours of duty cannot be controlled administratively. The position must require substantial amounts of irregular, unscheduled overtime work, with the employee generally responsible for recognizing, without supervision, circumstances that require an employee to remain on duty. The circumstances under which payment of AUO is appropriate are extremely limited; in particular, AUO is not appropriate for FLSA nonexempt employees.

3.7.2. Rate of Payment. Title 5, U.S.C. § 5545(c)(2) provides that premium pay for AUO is an appropriate percentage, not less than 10 percent nor more than 25 percent, of the employee’s rate of basic pay. This includes any special rate of pay for LEOs, or special pay adjustment for LEOs under section 302 and 403 of the FEPCA, a locality-based comparability payment under 5 U.S.C. § 5304, and any applicable special rate of pay under 5 U.S.C. § 5305, or similar provision of law. See 5 CFR 550.151. The servicing PRO pays AUO according to the rate information provided by the servicing HRO via SF 50 data. AUO for law enforcement personnel, which includes the office of special investigations agents, is subject to retirement and FEGLI deductions. See 5 U.S.C. § 8331(3)(D) and 5 U.S.C. § 8704(c)(2). The AUO for Open Mess/Club Managers is not subject to retirement or FEGLI deductions. See 5 U.S.C. § 8331(3)(C) and (D), and 5 U.S.C. § 8704(c)(1) and (2). See also Civilian Personnel Manual (CPM) Guidance on AUO, (CPM 97-5).
3.8 Hazardous Duty Pay (HDP) and Environmental Differential Pay (EDP) (030308)

3.8.1. HDP

3.8.1.1. General. Under 5 U.S.C. § 5545(d) and 5 CFR 550.901-907, GS employees who are assigned hazardous duty or duty involving physical hardship may be entitled to premium pay in the form of HDP. The servicing PRO pays HDP according to information provided by the servicing HRO. Hazardous duty means duty performed under conditions in which an accident could result in serious injury or death. Duty involving physical hardship means duty that may not be hazardous, but may cause extreme physical discomfort or distress that is not adequately alleviated by protective or mechanical devices. Some examples of duty involving physical hardship include duties involving exposure to extreme temperatures for a long period, arduous physical exertion, or exposure to fumes, dust, or noise that causes nausea, skin, eye, ear, or nose irritation.

3.8.1.2. Rate of Pay. The amount of HDP is determined by multiplying the percentage rate authorized for the exposure, found in 5 CFR 550, subpart I, by the employee’s hourly rate of pay. That amount is multiplied by the number of HDP hours to be paid. HDP is paid for overtime hours based on the employee’s hourly rate of basic pay, not the hourly overtime rate.

3.8.1.3. Other

3.8.1.3.1. HDP is not included as part of the employee’s basic rate of pay for computation of overtime, holiday pay, Sunday premium, or the amount of retirement, Thrift Savings Plan (TSP), and FEGLI deductions.

3.8.1.3.2. HDP is paid for all hours in a pay status the day on which the exposure occurs.

3.8.1.3.3. Payment of HDP is not subject to the biweekly pay cap placed on other premium pay as discussed in subparagraph 2.3.1. However, HDP is included in the aggregate limitation on pay as discussed in subparagraph 2.3.2.

3.8.1.3.4. HDP may not be more than 25 percent of the employee’s rate of basic pay.

3.8.1.3.5. TP Pay Plan employees are not authorized HDP.

3.8.1.3.6. Agencies may not pay HDP for hours of work during which an employee is paid annual premium pay for standby duty, AUO work, or availability pay.
3.8.2. Environmental Differential Pay

3.8.2.1. General. Under 5 U.S.C. § 5343(c)(4), an FWS employee is entitled to an environmental differential when exposed to a working condition or hazard that falls within one of the categories approved by OPM. Pursuant to 5 CFR 532.511, EDP is included as part of an FWS employee’s basic rate of pay for computation of overtime, holiday pay, Sunday premium, and the amount of retirement, TSP, and FEGLI deductions. It is not part of basic pay for purposes of lump-sum leave payments and severance pay. The servicing HRO determines when EDP is payable and obtains approval from OPM for additional categories not listed in OPM Appropriated Fund Operating Manual, Appendix J, Federal Wage System. TP pay plan employees are not authorized EDP.

3.8.2.2. Pay Rate. EDP is payable on an actual exposure basis and is payable for all hours the employee is in a pay status on the day on which exposure to the situation occurs, including overtime hours. The amount that is payable is determined by multiplying the percentage rate authorized for the exposure by the basic hourly rate of a Wage Grade 10, step 2, then multiplying that amount by the number of EDP hours to be paid. When EDP is payable for actual exposure, each exposure is separately considered. Hours posted must not exceed the hours of active duty on the day of exposure. If the exposure is less than 1 hour, agencies must pay a minimum of 1 hour. If the exposure is longer than 1 hour, the actual amount of time exposed is payable in 15 minute increments. See 5 CFR 532.511.

4.0 FOREIGN AND NONFOREIGN ALLOWANCES AND DIFFERENTIALS (0304)

4.1 General (030401)

4.1.1. Foreign Area. Allowances and differentials payable to employees officially stationed in foreign areas are established by the Secretary of State and published in the Department of State Standardized Regulations (DSSR). See 5 U.S.C. §§ 5921-5928. The DoDI 1400.25-V1250 sets forth additional rules regarding foreign allowances and differentials for DoD civilian employees. Foreign differentials and allowances are paid upon receipt through the interface of a properly completed and signed SF 1190, Foreign Allowances Application, Grant, and Report.

4.1.2. Nonforeign Area. Allowances and differentials payable to employees officially stationed in nonforeign areas and the 50 states are established by OPM. See 5 U.S.C. § 5941 and 5 CFR Part 591. The servicing HRO will interface SF 50 data to inform the servicing PRO when an employee is eligible for a nonforeign differential or allowance.

4.2 Foreign Area Allowances and Differentials (030402)

4.2.1. Quarters Allowances. Quarters allowances are intended to reimburse an employee substantially for all costs associated with either temporary or residence quarters whenever government-owned or government-rented quarters are not provided to the employee without charge. See 5 U.S.C. § 5923(a)(1) and (2) and the DoDI 1400.25-V1250.
4.2.1.1. Living Quarters Allowance (LQA). The LQA entitlement is intended to reimburse an employee for rent and any costs not included in the rent amount for heat, light, fuel, gas, electricity, and water. Employees receiving LQA may not receive the Temporary Quarters Subsistence Allowance (TQSA) for the same period except under special circumstances as specified in the DSSR, Chapter 100, section 124.1 and the DSSR, Chapter 100, section 132.41.

4.2.1.1.1. LQA Rate. The daily LQA rate is determined by dividing the annual amount by the number of days in a calendar year. This daily rate is paid for all applicable days in a pay period. LQA is paid on a biweekly basis. LQA is not paid to an employee who is Absent Without Leave (AWOL) or on a suspension.

4.2.1.1.2. LQA Advance. LQA may be advanced for a period of not less than 3 months or more than 1 year (unless specifically approved by the officer designated to authorize allowances). Advanced LQA must not exceed the lesser of the total rent advanced to the lessor, or the employee’s maximum LQA rate as authorized in the DSSR, Chapter 900, section 920.

4.2.1.2. TQSA. TQSA is an allowance granted to an employee for the reasonable cost of temporary quarters, meals, and laundry expenses incurred by the employee and/or family members. See 5 U.S.C. § 5923, the DSSR, Chapter 100, section 120, and the DoDI 1400.25-V1250. TQSA is payable: for a period not to exceed 90 days after first arrival at a new post in a foreign area, or for a period ending with the occupation of residence (permanent) quarters, if earlier; or for a period not to exceed 30 days immediately preceding final departure from the post when the employee must vacate residence quarters. Receipts are required for lodging and laundry expenses, and the employee must submit a certified statement for the daily cost of meals. TQSA is based on the maximum per diem rate for the foreign location found in the DSSR, Chapter 900, at Foreign Per Diem Rates by location in accordance with the DSSR, Chapter 100, section 120.

4.2.1.2.1. Travel. TQSA may continue during periods of official travel which authorize per diem, if the head of the agency determines the employee acted responsibly in retaining temporary quarters during the period of travel. See the DSSR, Chapter 100, section 126.2.

4.2.1.2.2. Extension. The 90 and 30 day TQSA period may be extended up to 60 additional days if it is determined by the head of the agency that compelling reasons beyond the control of the employee require continued occupancy of temporary quarters. See the DSSR, Chapter 100, section 122.2.

4.2.1.2.3. Post Allowance. Employees are not authorized post allowance while receiving TQSA. See the DSSR, Chapter 100, section 127.

4.2.1.2.4. Payments. Payment of TQSA may be made:

4.2.1.2.4.1. In advance for up to 30-day increments,
4.2.1.2.4.2. In biweekly payments, or

4.2.1.2.4.3. Upon completion of the TQSA period at the request of the employee and as authorized by the HRO.

4.2.1.2.5. Prior to Termination of LQA. TQSA may be authorized for up to 5 days prior to the termination of LQA when it is necessary to vacate permanent quarters in order to meet lease requirements for heavy cleaning, painting, or repairs when preceding final departure from the post. See the DSSR, Chapter 100, section 124.1.

4.2.2. COLAs. COLAs are intended to reimburse an employee for certain excess costs, exclusive of any quarters cost, which result from being officially stationed in a foreign area. COLAs include post allowance, the foreign transfer allowance (FTA), the home service transfer allowance (HSTA), the separate maintenance allowance (SMA), the education allowance, and the educational travel reimbursement. See the DSSR, Chapter 200 and 5 U.S.C. § 5924.

4.2.2.1. Post Allowance. Post Allowance is a COLA granted to an employee officially stationed at a post in a foreign area where the cost-of-living, exclusive of the cost of quarters, is substantially higher than in Washington, District of Columbia (D.C.). See the DSSR, Chapter 200, section 220 and the DoDI 1400.25-V1250.

4.2.2.1.1. Pay Rate. The amount paid is a flat rate varying only by basic salary, size of the family, and location of the assigned post. The daily rate is determined by dividing the annual amount by the number of days in a calendar year, then multiplying the daily rate by the number of days involved to obtain the biweekly amount. The daily rate is paid for all applicable days in a pay period, with the exception of days on AWOL or a suspension. Post allowance is not authorized to be paid at the same time an employee is receiving TQSA.

4.2.2.1.2. Payment Upon Separation. Post allowance is included in the computation of lump-sum leave payments upon separation from federal service if the employee’s official duty station is in the foreign area when the employee becomes eligible for the lump-sum payment.

4.2.2.2. Foreign Transfer Allowance (FTA). FTA is an allowance for extraordinary, necessary, and reasonable expenses, not otherwise compensated for, that the employee incurs incident to being established at any post of assignment in a foreign area. The subsistence expense portion of FTA reimburses an employee for allowable expenses incurred prior to departure from a post in the U.S., its territories, possessions, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands to a post in a foreign area. FTA consists of four elements of which the following three are authorized within DoD for payment: the miscellaneous expense portion, the lease penalty expense portion, and the subsistence expense portion. The wardrobe expense portion is not authorized for payment within DoD. See the DSSR, Chapter 200, section 240 and the DoDI 1400.25-V1250.
4.2.2.3. Home Service Transfer Allowance (HSTA). HSTA is an allowance for extraordinary, necessary, and reasonable expenses, not otherwise compensated for, incurred by an employee in connection with a transfer to a post of assignment in the U.S. The employee must sign a certification indicating he or she agrees to complete 12 months of government service following the effective date of transfer. HSTA consists of four elements of which the following three are authorized within DoD for payment: the miscellaneous expense portion, the lease penalty expense portion, and the subsistence expense portion. The wardrobe expense portion is not authorized for payment within DoD. See the DSSR, Chapter 200, section 250 and the DoDI 1400.25-V1250.

4.2.2.4. Separate Maintenance Allowance (SMA). SMA is an additional COLA paid to assist an employee to maintain a separate household other than at the employee’s foreign post of assignment for the employee’s family or a member of the family. The agency must determine the employee is compelled to obtain separate family quarters for reasons such as: dangerous, notably unhealthy, or excessively adverse living conditions, for the convenience of the government, or because of special family needs. The rate is determined by the number of dependents maintained other than at the post of assignment and is computed at an annual rate. Agencies pay SMA for all applicable days in a pay period. The daily rate is determined by dividing the annual amount by the number of days in a calendar year. The biweekly amount is determined by multiplying the daily rate by 14. If any other period is involved, the amount payable is determined by multiplying the daily rate by the number of days involved. See the DSSR, Chapter 200, section 260 and the DoDI 1400.25-V1250.

4.2.2.5. Education Allowance. The education allowance assists the employee with the extraordinary and necessary expenses incurred because of service in a foreign area in providing adequate elementary and secondary education for a child or children. The education allowance covers expenses for which the employee is not otherwise compensated. The education allowance is not authorized for payment within DoD. However, reimbursement is authorized for transportation costs of dormitory student family members of eligible employees between the employee’s overseas duty station and the DoD Education Activity (DoDEA) approved school. See the DSSR, Chapter 200, section 270, 5 U.S.C. § 5924, and the DoDI 1400.25-V1250.

4.2.2.6. Educational Travel. Educational travel is reimbursement for travel to and from a school in the U.S. for purposes of attending a full-time course for secondary or college education. Reimbursement will be limited to one annual roundtrip. An annual roundtrip is defined as one roundtrip at any time within any one 12-month period. Any portion of the roundtrip not taken in the 12-month period does not accrue to a subsequent period. See the DSSR, Chapter 200, section 280, the DoDI 1400.25-V1250, and 5 U.S.C. § 5924.

4.2.3. Representation Allowance. Representation allowances are intended to cover allowable items of expenditure by employees, including foreign national employees, whose official positions entail responsibility for establishing and maintaining relationships of value to the U.S. in foreign countries and by adult family members acting with, or on behalf of, these employees. Examples of allowable items are those of an entertainment or protocol nature, tips and gratuities, flowers and wreaths, or other representational expenses, which the head of an agency may authorize or approve as being of the type to promote the interest of the U.S. The employee’s position first must be designated by the Deputy Under Secretary of Defense for Civilian Personnel Policy as eligible for the allowance. A voucher of expenses incurred will be the basis for payment. See the DSSR, Chapter 300 and the DoDI 1400.25-V1250.

4.2.4. Official Residence Allowance. The defraying of official residence expenses is intended to make possible the operation and maintenance of official residences in which a principal representative can properly represent the U.S. abroad. Such representation includes extending official (as distinct from personal) hospitality to foreign dignitaries and important visitors, receiving official deputations and callers, and holding requisite and appropriate ceremonies smoothly and with dignity. This representation also includes keeping the residence appropriately staffed and operating. The Secretary of State must designate eligible employees. See the DSSR, Chapter 400, 5 U.S.C. § 5913, and the DoDI 1400.25-V1250.

4.2.5. Post Hardship Differential. Post hardship differential is additional compensation paid as an established percentage over basic compensation ranging from 5 to 35 percent. Post hardship differential is paid on an employee living in a location with extraordinarily difficult living conditions, excessive physical hardship, or notably unhealthful conditions, as determined by the Secretary of State. Living costs are not considered in the determination. Post hardship differential is paid on a biweekly basis with regular salary and only for hours for which basic compensation is paid. Post hardship differential is included in gross income and is subject to Social Security (Old Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance (OASDI)) and/or Medicare, federal, state, and local tax withholding. For employees with tours of duty commencing on or after October 28, 1991, post hardship differential is excluded from the lump-sum leave payment. See the DSSR, Chapter 500, 5 U.S.C. § 5551, 5 U.S.C. § 5925, and the DoDI 1400.25-V1250.

4.2.5.1. Post hardship differential is granted to full-time employees and temporary employees who are appointed on a full-time basis and who are U.S. citizens permanently assigned or on extended detail to a post where the differential is granted.

4.2.5.2. Post hardship differential for employees permanently assigned to a post commences on the latest of the following dates:

4.2.5.2.1. The date the employee arrives at the post or the date the employee enters on duty if recruited locally,

4.2.5.2.2. The effective date of assignment, if the employee is already at the new post on detail or leave, or 4.2.5.2.3. The effective date a post is classified for a differential.

4.2.5.3. Post hardship differential for employees temporarily assigned to a post commences after the employee has spent 42 cumulative days at one or more differential locations without returning to a non-differential permanent post of assignment. The servicing PRO pays the differential starting on day 43.
4.2.6. Danger Pay Allowance (DPA) and Imminent Danger Pay (IDP). Two forms of danger pay are available to eligible civilian employees:

4.2.6.1. DPA. DPA under the DSSR, Chapter 650, section 652(f), may be paid to an employee serving in a foreign area or post where certain conditions exist, as established by the Secretary of State. Conditions include civil insurrection, civil war, terrorism, or wartime conditions that threaten physical harm or present imminent danger to the health or well-being of the employee. DPA is additional compensation of up to 35 percent of the basic pay of the employee.

4.2.6.1.1. DPA is paid to full-time, temporary, part-time, and intermittent employees assigned for a minimum of 4 cumulative hours in 1 day to a danger pay post or area. All periods of leave taken while present at the danger pay post or areas may be included to meet the 4 hour requirement, but days of absence away from the post or area may not be included. When the employee is detailed to a danger pay post or area for 4 hours or more, he/she may receive DPA for the full day.

4.2.6.1.2. For full-time employees and temporary employees, the DPA is computed at the percentage of basic compensation established for the post or area. For part-time regularly scheduled employees and intermittent employees, DPA is computed at the prescribed percentage of basic compensation earned during the applicable period. DPA is not subject to any ceiling that would provide less than the full percentage rate authorized for the post or area. DPA is paid only for those hours for which basic compensation is paid and is subject to OASDI and/or Medicare, federal, state, and local tax withholding. Where there is no duplication of benefits for the same living condition, a civilian employee may receive DPA and post hardship differential pay for the same period. DPA is not included as part of the lump-sum leave payment. See the DSSR, Chapter 650, section 656.

4.2.6.2. IDP. IDP is paid to a civilian employee who accompanies U.S. military forces in areas designated by the Secretary of Defense as being subject to hostile fire or imminent danger. See 5 U.S.C. § 5928, the DSSR, Chapters 650 and 652(g) and the DoDI 1400.25-V1250. On October 1, 1995, the State Department, at DoD’s request, added section 652(g) to the the DSSR concerning IDP. The monthly amount of IDP is the same as the monthly flat rate paid to uniformed military personnel.

4.2.6.2.1. An employee may not receive IDP and a post hardship differential that would duplicate political violence credit. Nor may an employee receive IDP and DPA at the same time.

4.2.6.2.2. IDP is calculated as a daily rate and paid on a monthly basis. Daily rates are determined by dividing the monthly amount by the number of days in a month. This rate will change based on the number of days in a month. For periods of less than a month, an employee is entitled to the daily rate times the number of days in the month the employee is in the eligible area. IDP is subject to OASDI and/or Medicare, federal, state, and local tax withholding. The IDP is not included as part of the lump-sum leave payment.
4.2.6.3. Commencement of DPA or IDP. DPA or IDP commences on the date of designation by the Secretary of State for employees already present at the post on assignment or detail. DPA or IDP commences on the date of arrival at the post or detail for subsequently assigned or detailed employees, or for employees returning after a temporary absence.

4.2.6.4. Receiving Both DPA/IDP and a Post Hardship Differential. If authorized by the agency, an employee may receive both DPA/IDP and the post hardship differential. Extra pay from either an allowance or a differential is limited to no more than 35 percent of the employee’s rate of basic pay. When both an allowance and a differential are authorized, the total pay for the allowance and the differential may not exceed 70 percent of the employee’s rate of basic pay.

4.2.7. Employees in a Non-Pay Status. All allowances granted under the DSSR may continue during periods when the employee is in a non-pay status not in excess of 14 calendar days at any one time. If a non-pay status lasts longer than 14 calendar days, allowances are suspended as of the day the employee enters the non-pay status, and payment is not to be made for any part of such period, unless otherwise specifically provided under the DSSR. See the DSSR, Chapter 050, section 051.2 For information on the continuation of living quarters allowances during periods of a non-pay status, see the DSSR, Chapter 100, section 132.2.b(2).

4.3 Nonforeign Area Allowances and Differentials (030403)

4.3.1. Nonforeign COLA. Nonforeign COLA is an allowance that OPM established at a location in a nonforeign area where living cost is substantially higher than the living cost in the area of Washington, D.C. Rates are available on the OPM’s, Pay and Leave, OPM Nonforeign Area Cost-of-Living Allowances.

4.3.1.1. Nonforeign areas are the states of Alaska and Hawaii, the Commonwealths of Northern Mariana Islands and Puerto Rico, and territories and possessions of the U.S. and any additional areas as designated by the Secretary of State. See 5 U.S.C. § 5941.

4.3.1.2. The Nonforeign Area Retirement Equity Assurance Act transitioned the nonforeign area COLA authorized under 5 U.S.C. § 5941(a)(1) to locality pay authorized under 5 U.S.C. § 5304 in the nonforeign areas as listed in 5 CFR 591.205. The Act also extended locality pay to American Samoa and other nonforeign territories and possessions of the U.S. where no COLA rate applied. OPM phased in locality pay over a 3-year period beginning in January 2010. Under the law, COLA rates issued under 5 CFR Part 591 were frozen on October 28, 2009, the date of enactment. As locality pay increased under the Act, payable COLA rates were reduced as specified in CPM Memorandum 2010-23, Retained Rate Adjustments in Nonforeign Areas. Consequently, covered employees may have received both locality pay and a reduced COLA for a number of years.

4.3.2. Nonforeign Post Differential. Nonforeign post differential is payable under 5 U.S.C. § 5941(a)(2), if conditions of the duty station’s environment differ substantially from the conditions of the environment in the continental U.S. and warrant an allowance as a recruitment incentive. Nonforeign post differentials are designed to attract persons from outside the nonforeign area to work for the Federal Government in the post differential area. Rates and locations are available on the OPM, Pay and Leave, Nonforeign Areas website. Agencies must make these payments to all eligible civilian employees in the area whose basic pay is fixed by statute. Generally, allowances and differentials are not paid during periods an employee does not receive basic pay. The pay of FWS employees is based on the wages paid in the locality and is not covered under this section.

4.3.3. Processing Nonforeign COLA and Nonforeign Post Differentials

4.3.3.1 Limitation. Extra pay from an allowance or a differential, or both, may not exceed 25 percent of the employee’s rate of basic pay. In areas where OPM has authorized both a nonforeign COLA and a nonforeign post differential, the employee receives the full COLA and a partial post differential so as not to exceed the 25 percent of the employee’s hourly rate of basic pay. See 5 CFR 591.238.

4.3.3.2 Computation. Employees receive nonforeign COLA and nonforeign post differential as a percentage of the employee’s hourly rate of basic pay, including a retained rate of pay under 5 U.S.C. § 3594(c) or 5 U.S.C. § 5363, for those hours during which the employee receives basic pay. This includes all periods of paid leave, detail, or travel status outside COLA or nonforeign post-differential area. See OPM, Pay and Leave, Nonforeign Areas website for rates.

4.3.3.3 Taxation. Nonforeign COLA is not included in gross income for OASDI and/or Medicare, federal, or state income tax withholding. Nonforeign post differential is included in gross income for OASDI and/or Medicare, federal, state, and local income tax withholding. See Table 4-1 of Chapter 4.

4.3.3.4 Treatment for the Purposes of Overtime and Other Entitlements. Nonforeign COLA and nonforeign post differential may not be included as part of an employee’s rate of basic pay for the purpose of computing entitlements to overtime pay, retirement, TSP, FEGLI or any other additional pay. See 5 CFR 591.239. The allowance or differential is included in an employee’s regular rate of pay for computing overtime pay for FLSA nonexempt employees. See 5 CFR 591.239. The allowance or differential is included in the computation of lump-sum leave payments if the employee’s official duty station is in the nonforeign area when he or she becomes eligible for a lump-sum payment under 5 CFR 550.1203. See 5 CFR 550.1205(b)(8).
5.0 OTHER PAY, DIFFERENTIALS, AND ALLOWANCES (0305)

5.1 Physicians’ Comparability Allowance (030501)

5.1.1. Eligible federal physicians who enter into service agreements with their agencies may be authorized a physician comparability allowance. See 5 CFR Part 595 and 5 U.S.C. § 5948. The allowances are paid only for certain categories of physicians that are the subject of recruitment and retention problems for the agency. The allowance is fixed at the minimum amounts necessary. Unless otherwise provided in the agreement, if the physician fails to complete at least 1 year of service, either voluntarily or because of misconduct, the physician must refund the total amount received (unless the head of the agency determines that the failure was beyond the control of the physician). If the physician completes more than 1 year of service, but fails to complete the full period of service specified in the agreement, the physician must refund the amount of allowance he or she received under the agreement for the 26 weeks of service immediately preceding the termination (or longer if specified in the service agreement).

5.1.2. The amount received must not exceed:

5.1.2.1. $14,000 per annum if, at the time the agreement is entered into, the government physician had served as a government physician for 24 months or less; or

5.1.2.2. $30,000 per annum if the government physician has served as a government physician for more than 24 months. See 5 U.S.C. § 5948(a).

5.1.3. A physician may not receive an allowance pursuant to this section if the physician:

5.1.3.1. Is employed less than 20 hours per week or on an intermittent basis,

5.1.3.2. Is employed in an internship or residency training position,

5.1.3.3. Is a reemployed annuitant, or

5.1.3.4. Is fulfilling a scholarship obligation to the U.S. Government.

5.1.4. Any allowance paid under this section is not considered basic pay for the purposes of 5 U.S.C. § 5551 (lump-sum leave payments), 5 U.S.C. § 5552 (lump-sum leave on entering active duty), and 5 U.S.C. § 5595 (severance pay), 5 U.S.C., Chapters 81 (compensation for work injuries), and 5 U.S.C., Chapter 87 (FEGLI), or other benefits related to basic pay. See also 5 U.S.C. § 5948(h)(1). However, this allowance is included as basic pay for computing Civil Service Retirement System (CSRS), Federal Employees Retirement System (FERS) and TSP contribution amounts, and for computing disability retirement benefits and survivor benefits for death-in-service. See OPM Benefits Administration Letter (BAL) 04-102.
5.1.5. Any allowance under this section for a government physician is paid in the same manner and at the same time as the physician’s basic pay is paid. This allowance is subject to retirement and TSP deductions. This allowance is subject to OASDI and/or Medicare, federal, state, and local income tax withholding. The allowance is subject to the aggregate limitation on pay discussed in subparagraph 2.3.2.

5.2 Supervisory Differential (030502)

5.2.1. The authority to approve payment of supervisory differentials under 5 U.S.C. § 5755 and 5 CFR 575, subpart D is delegated through, and subject to, the authority of the head of the DoD Component and the Component chain of command to the official(s) who exercises personnel-appointing authority (normally, the head of an installation or activity). Only the Secretary or Deputy Secretary of Defense may approve a supervisory differential for an individual appointed to a Schedule C position, as defined by 5 CFR Part 213. The DoDI 1400.25-V575 contains additional detailed guidance on the supervisory differential entitlement. The agency authorizes payment of a supervisory differential to a GS employee who has supervisory responsibility for one or more non-GS employees. The differential may be authorized if one or more of the subordinate civilian employees would be paid more than the supervisory employee in the absence of such a differential.

5.2.2. The servicing HRO will provide a dollar amount equal to the value of the authorized percentage by submission of SF 50 data. The servicing PRO calculates the supervisory differential as a percentage of the supervisor’s rate of basic pay. The servicing PRO pays the supervisory differential in the same manner and at the same time as basic pay. The supervisory differential is not considered part of basic pay for any purpose, including retirement, FEGLI, or TSP. This differential is subject to OASDI and/or Medicare, federal, state, and local income tax withholding. The supervisory differential is subject to the aggregate limitation on pay discussed in subparagraph 2.3.2.

5.3 Remote Site Allowance (030503)

The remote site allowance is paid to an employee who is assigned to duty, except temporary duty, at a site so remote from the nearest established community or suitable place of residence as to require an appreciable degree of expense, hardship, and inconvenience in commuting. Such hardships and inconveniences must extend beyond those normally encountered in metropolitan commuting. When so assigned, the employee is entitled to an allowance not to exceed $10 per day, in addition to pay otherwise due to the employee. See 5 U.S.C. § 5942 and 5 CFR 591, subpart C.

5.4 Uniform Allowance (030504)

Defense agency employees required by law or regulation to wear uniforms during the performance of official duties may be reimbursed a uniform allowance in accordance with the rates posted in the DoDI 1400.25-V591. The agency’s authorized management official must approve the payment of a uniform allowance. Uniform allowances are not considered wages.
5.5 Qualified Transportation Fringe Benefits (030505)

5.5.1. 5 U.S.C. § 7905 authorizes federal agencies to offer transportation fringe benefits to employees in accordance with 26 CFR 1.132-9. Pursuant to 26 U.S.C. § 132, qualified transportation fringe benefits provided to employees, including transit passes, qualified parking, and transportation in commuter highway vehicles, is not included in gross income for federal tax purposes. The DoDI 1000.27 implemented the Mass Transportation Benefit Program (MTBP) on October 28, 2008, for eligible DoD employees. The MTBP provides benefits for qualified means of transportation, such as commuter bus or train, subway or light rail, ferry or vanpool. A DoD employee who receives subsidized parking is not eligible to participate in the MTBP. Each DoD Component implements policy and procedures in accordance with the MTBP. Agencies may offer qualified federal employees transit-pass-transportation fringe benefits in the National Capital Region as described in Executive Order 13150. See 26 U.S.C. § 132 (f).

5.5.2. Each year, the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) sets limits on the amount that may be excluded from an employee’s taxable wages each month for the total value of qualified transportation fringe benefits. See IRS Publication 15-B, Employer’s Tax Guide to Fringe Benefits. Amounts within the monthly limit are not considered wages and therefore, are paid through the servicing commercial accounts office. If the value of the benefit for any month is in excess of the qualified published limits, the amount over the limit is includible as gross income and is subject to OASDI and/or Medicare, federal, state, and local income tax withholding. The value of the benefit is not subject to retirement, FEGLI, or TSP deductions. See Chapter 9 for reporting information.

*5.6 Government-Provided Home-to-Work Transportation (030506)

5.6.1. 26 CFR section 1.61-21 provides detailed rules for determining the employer-provided home-to-work benefit that is reported on an eligible employee’s Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement. The DoDI 4500.36-R requires the OUSD Comptroller, in coordination with the OUSD P&R, provide annual guidance concerning the valuation methods for home-to-work transportation. Employers are responsible for determining the value of the employer-provided benefit and reporting it to the Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS) for the employee’s Form W-2. The benefit may be subject to OASDI and/or Medicare, federal, state, and local income tax withholding. The benefit is not subject to retirement, FEGLI, or TSP deductions.

5.6.2. DoD employing activities will not report on a calendar year basis. Rather, they will report for the 12-month period from November 1 through October 31. The value of the benefits received in November and December will be considered paid in the next year as authorized by the IRS Publication 15-B.
5.7 Foreign Language Proficiency Pay (FLPP) (030507)

Under 10 U.S.C. § 1596 and 10 U.S.C. § 1596a, the Secretary of Defense is authorized to pay FLPP to eligible DoD employees who are performing intelligence or non-intelligence duties requiring proficiency in foreign languages. FLPP is not considered basic pay for any purpose and does not count toward retirement, TSP, FEGLI or any other benefit related to basic pay. FLPP is not pay for the purposes of lump-sum payments for leave under 5 U.S.C. §§ 5551 or 5552. FLPP is considered a discretionary, continuing payment for calculation of the aggregate limitation on pay. See information regarding aggregate limitation on pay in subparagraph 2.3.2. FLPP is not to be paid if the employee is in a LWOP or other unpaid status in excess of 10 consecutive work days, or in an extended paid absence in excess of 30 consecutive work days.

5.7.1. FLPP for Intelligence Interests Under 10 U.S.C. § 1596. The annual rate of special pay under 10 U.S.C. § 1596 is determined by the Secretary of Defense. FLPP may be paid in addition to pay under 10 U.S.C. § 1602. See the DoDI 1400.25-V2016. The Secretary of Defense has the authority to pay special pay to an employee of DoD who:

5.7.1.1. Has been certified as being proficient in a foreign language identified by the Secretary of Defense as being a language in which proficiency by civilian personnel of the DoD is important for the effective collection, production, or dissemination of foreign intelligence information; and

5.7.1.2. Is serving in a position, or is subject to assignment to a position, in which proficiency in that language facilitates performance of officially assigned intelligence or intelligence-related duties.

5.7.2. FLPP for Non-intelligence Interests Under 10 U.S.C. § 1596a. Special pay for an employee under 10 U.S.C. § 1596a may be prescribed by the Secretary of Defense, but may not exceed 5 percent of the employee's pay. Special pay under 10 U.S.C. § 1596a is in addition to any other pay or allowances to which the employee is entitled. See the DoDI 1400.25-V2016. Pursuant to 10 U.S.C. § 1596a the Secretary of Defense has the authority to pay special pay to a DoD employee who:

5.7.2.1. Has been certified by the Secretary of Defense to be proficient in a foreign language identified by the Secretary of Defense as being a language in which proficiency by civilian personnel of the DoD is necessary because of national security interests,

5.7.2.2. Is assigned duties requiring proficiency in that foreign language, and

5.7.2.3. Is not receiving special pay under 5 U.S.C. § 1596.
5.8 Market Pay (030508)

5.8.1. Purpose. Each physician and dentist covered by the DoDI 1400.25-V543, is eligible for market pay in lieu of locality pay. Market pay is an element of annual pay (base pay rate plus market pay) intended to reflect the recruitment and retention needs for the specialty or assignment of a particular DoD physician or dentist.

5.8.2. Payment Determinations. A compensation panel must make a recommendation to an authorized management official regarding the appropriate market pay amounts for individual physicians and dentists according to guidelines established by the Health Professions Civilian Compensation Standing Committee (HPCCSC). Market pay is based on criteria such as level of experience, need for medical specialty practice, the healthcare labor market, board certifications, and personal accomplishments. See the DoDI 1400.25-V543.

5.8.2.1. The authorized management official determines the amount of market pay for the physician or dentist, which may require additional approval of the HPCCSC. The compensation panel must review the market pay of each physician or dentist upon changes in assignment and not less than once every 24 months. The review will not be used to reduce market pay while the affected physician or dentist is in the same position or assignment at the same duty station or facility. See the DoDI 1400.25-V543 and 38 U.S.C. § 7431(c).

5.8.2.2. The agency must approve market pay for newly appointed physicians or dentists within 30 days following their appointment; all payments are retroactive to the effective date of the appointment.

5.8.3. Limitations. Physicians or dentists who receive market pay are not eligible for the physicians’ comparability allowance under paragraph 5.1, or premium pay (such as overtime, night pay, compensatory time off) under paragraph 3.1. A physician or dentist receiving market pay may not receive grade or pay retention under 5 U.S.C., Chapter 53. The sum of all payments paid to the physician or dentist including base pay, but excluding market pay, is subject to the Executive Level I annual limitation. The sum of all payments subject to the Executive Level I annual limitation and market pay cannot exceed the annual salary of the President, excluding expenses. Pay over the annual salary of the President is forfeited and is not deferred until the next calendar year.

5.9 Reservist Differential (030509)

5.9.1. Purpose. Under 5 U.S.C. § 5538, effective March 15, 2009, federal agencies are required to make reservist differential payments to eligible federal civilian employees who are members of the Reserve or National Guard called or ordered to active duty under certain specified provisions of law. A reservist differential is payable to an employee during a qualifying period in the amount of basic pay which would have been payable had they not been called or ordered to active duty in the uniformed service. Additional information on this topic is provided in OPM’s Reservist Differential, Agency Implementation Guidance, and OPM Frequently Asked Questions.
5.9.2. Payment. Reservist differential is payable when an eligible employee’s projected civilian basic pay for a covered pay period exceeds actual military pay and allowances allocable to that pay period. See 5 U.S.C. § 5538. Payments are made from the same appropriation that is used when the employee is in a pay status. Reservist differential is considered due no later than 8 weeks after the normal scheduled civilian pay date, unless the necessary information is not received 4 weeks prior to that date. Reservist differential is not considered as basic pay for any purposes; it is a supplemental payment based on a comparison of projected civilian basic pay and military pay and allowances. Payments are not subject to OASDI, and/or Medicare tax withholding for periods of active duty of more than 30 days. However, reservist differential is subject to:

- 5.9.2.1. Federal tax (must appear in box 1 of the Form W-2), and
- 5.9.2.2. OASDI and/or Medicare tax withholding for periods of active duty 30 days or less.

5.9.3. Leave and LWOP. An employee receiving reservist differential is still considered to be on LWOP unless on paid leave or paid time off (including military leave). An employee may not receive reservist differential for a period for which the employee receives basic pay for time worked, the use of any type paid leave, or other paid time off.

6.0 RECRUITMENT, RELOCATION, AND RETENTION INCENTIVES (0306)

Recruitment, relocation, and retention incentives are compensation flexibilities available to help federal agencies recruit and retain employees. See 5 U.S.C. §§ 5753 and 5754 and 5 CFR 575, subparts A, B, and C.

6.1 Recruitment Incentive (030601)

- 6.1.1. Purpose. Payment of recruitment incentives is authorized by 5 U.S.C. § 5753 and 5 CFR 575, subpart A. An agency may pay a recruitment incentive to an eligible newly appointed employee, under the conditions specified in the regulations, provided the agency has determined that the employee’s position is likely to be difficult to fill in the absence of an incentive. The total amount of recruitment incentive payments paid to an employee in a service period may not exceed 25 percent of the annual rate of basic pay of the employee at the beginning of the service period multiplied by the number of years (including fractions of a year) in the service period, not to exceed 4 years. The OPM may waive the 25 percent limitation based on critical agency need. The agency must document the justification for paying a recruitment incentive.

- 6.1.2. Service Agreement. Before a recruitment incentive may be paid, the employee must sign a written agreement to serve a specified period of employment with the agency. The service period may not be less than 6 months or more than 4 years. See 5 CFR 575.110.

- 6.1.3. Payment Options. The agency authorizes and establishes payment options. See 5 CFR 575.109. An agency may pay the recruitment incentive by any of the following methods, or combination thereof, as specified in the service agreement:
6.1.3.1. An initial lump-sum payment at the commencement of the service period, or before the start of the service period once the employee has signed the agreement;

6.1.3.2. Installment payments throughout the service period; or

6.1.3.3. A lump-sum payment upon completion of the full service period.

6.1.4. Payment of Recruitment Incentive. Recruitment incentives are not considered part of the employee’s basic pay for any reason.

6.1.4.1. An incentive may only be paid to an employee who has received a written offer of employment and signed a written service agreement.

6.1.4.2. The recruitment incentive is subject to OASDI and/or Medicare, federal, state, and local income tax withholding. This incentive is not subject to retirement, FEGLI, or TSP.

6.1.4.3. The recruitment incentive is included in the aggregate limitation on pay as discussed at subparagraph 2.3.2. See 5 CFR 530, subpart B.

6.1.4.4. The incentive will be included with regular salary payments and separately identified on the LES.

6.1.5. Termination of a Service Agreement. An agency must notify an employee in writing when it terminates the service agreement. The employee may not grieve or appeal the termination of a service agreement.

6.1.5.1. Mandatory Termination. A demotion or separation for cause, or a less than “Fully Successful” or equivalent rating terminates the service agreement. An employee who fails to complete the period of service for these reasons, or otherwise fails to fulfill the terms of the agreement, must repay any portion of the incentive attributable to uncompleted service. The servicing PRO prorates the full amount of the authorized recruitment incentive across the length of the service period to determine the amount attributable to completed and uncompleted service. The PRO must recover the amount owed by the employee in accordance with provisions established by debt collection regulations. See Volume I6. The servicing HRO must notify the servicing PRO of the recruitment incentive repayment/debt via SF 50 data.

6.1.5.2. Discretionary Termination. An authorized management official may terminate the agreement based solely on management needs, such as reduction in force or insufficient funds. An employee who does not fulfill a service agreement due to a termination based on management needs is entitled to all incentive payments already received.

6.1.6. Documentation and Recordkeeping. The servicing HRO must document each recruitment incentive via information derived from an SF 50.
6.2 Relocation Incentive (030602)

6.2.1. Purpose. Payment of relocation incentives is authorized by 5 U.S.C. § 5753 and 5 CFR 575, subpart B. An agency may pay a relocation incentive to a current eligible employee who must relocate, without a break in service, to accept a position in a different geographic area that is likely to be difficult to fill in the absence of an incentive. See 5 CFR 575.205(b). The total amount of relocation incentive payments paid to an employee in a service period may not exceed 25 percent of the annual rate of basic pay of the employee at the beginning of the service period multiplied by the number of years (including fractions of a year) in the service period, not to exceed 4 years. OPM may waive the 25 percent limitation based on critical agency need. Agencies must document the justification for paying a relocation incentive.

6.2.2. Service Agreement. Before a relocation incentive may be paid, the employee must sign a written agreement to serve a specified period of employment with the agency. The service period may not be more than 4 years. See 5 CFR 575.210.

6.2.3. Group Relocation Incentives. An authorized management official may make a determination to approve group relocation incentives rather than on a case-by-case basis. The determination is appropriate if a group of employees is subject to a mobility agreement and relocation incentives are necessary to ensure continuation of operations, or when a major organization unit is relocating to a new duty station and the incentive will ensure continued operations of that unit without disruption. The group incentive is supported by written determinations that specifies the group and the period of time during which the authorization is valid.

6.2.4. Payment Options. The agency authorizes and establishes the payment options for relocation incentives. See 5 CFR 575.209. An agency may pay the relocation incentive by any of the following methods as specified in the service agreement:

6.2.4.1. An initial lump-sum payment at the commencement of the service period, or before the start of the service period once the employee has signed the agreement;

6.2.4.2. Installment payments throughout the service period; or

6.2.4.3. A lump-sum payment upon completion of the full service period.

6.2.5. Payment of Relocation Incentive. The relocation incentive must not be considered a part of the employee’s basic pay for any reason.

6.2.5.1. The relocation incentive is subject to OASDI and/or Medicare and federal, state, and local income tax withholding. This incentive is not subject to retirement, FEGLI, or TSP.

6.2.5.2. The relocation incentive is included in the aggregate limitation on pay as discussed at subparagraph 2.3.2. See 5 CFR 530, subpart B.
6.2.5.3. The incentive will be included with regular salary payments and separately identified on the LES.

6.2.5.4. The agency will not pay the incentive until the employee establishes a residence in the new geographic location.

6.2.6. Termination of a Service Agreement. An agency must notify an employee in writing when it terminates the service agreement for the relocation incentive. The employee may not grieve or appeal the termination of a service agreement.

6.2.6.1. Mandatory Termination. If the employee is demoted for cause, separates for cause, or the employee receives a less than “Fully Successful” or equivalent rating, the service agreement will terminate. An employee who fails to complete the period of service for these reasons, or otherwise fails to fulfill the terms of the agreement, must reimburse DoD for the amount of all benefits received under the agreement that is in excess of the amount attributable to completed service. The servicing PRO must prorate the full amount of the authorized relocation incentive across the length of the service period to determine the amount of the relocation incentive attributable to completed service and uncompleted service. The servicing PRO must recover the amount owed by the employee in accordance with agency debt collection regulations. See Volume 16. The servicing HRO must notify the servicing PRO of the relocation incentive repayment/debt via SF 50 data.

6.2.6.2. Discretionary Termination. An authorized management official may terminate the agreement based solely on management needs, such as reduction in force or insufficient funds. An employee who does not fulfill a service agreement due to the termination based on management needs is entitled to all incentive payments already received.

6.2.7. Documentation and Recordkeeping. The servicing HRO must document each relocation incentive via an SF 50.

6.3 Retention Incentive (030603)

6.3.1. Purpose. 5 U.S.C. § 5754 and 5 CFR 575, subpart C, authorizes a payment of retention incentives. An agency may offer a retention incentive of up to 25 percent of basic pay to a current eligible employee who has unusually high or unique qualifications or when the agency has a special need for the employee’s services making it essential to retain the employee. See 5 CFR 575.305. The OPM may waive the 25 percent limitation based on critical agency need. Agencies must document justification for paying retention incentives.

6.3.2. Service Agreement. The employee must sign a written agreement to serve a specified period of employment with the agency before a retention incentive is paid. However, a service agreement is required for biweekly installment payments only when the incentive is granted under special provisions by the DoD or the employee receives a reduced percentage for each installment made prior to the final payment.
6.3.3. Group Retention Incentives. An authorized management official may make a determination to approve group retention incentives rather than on a case-by-case basis. The determination is appropriate if a group of employees has unusually high or unique qualifications or the group’s services make it essential to retain the employees in that group. Additionally, there must be a high risk that a significant number of the employees in the group would be likely to leave federal service without the retention incentive. Unless the OPM authorizes a higher rate, group retention incentives may be up to 10 percent of an employee’s rate of basic pay. Agencies may not pay group retention incentives to employees in SL, ST, or Executive Schedule positions or other employees with approved recruitment incentives from the OPM.

6.3.4. Payment Options. Title 5, U.S.C. § 5754 and 5 CFR 575.309 set out payment options for retention incentives. Agencies may not pay retention incentives as an initial lump-sum payment at the start of a service period or as an installment paid in advance. An agency may pay retention incentives using the following methods as specified in the service agreement:

6.3.4.1. Installments after the completion of specified periods of service, or 6.3.4.2. A single lump-sum payment after completion of the full service period.

6.3.5. Payment of Retention Incentive. Retention incentives are not considered a part of the employee’s basic pay for any purpose.

6.3.5.1. The retention incentive is subject to OASDI and/or Medicare and federal, state and local income tax withholding. This incentive is not subject to retirement, FEGLI or TSP.

6.3.5.2. The retention incentive is included in the aggregate limitation on pay as discussed at subparagraph 2.3.2. See 5 CFR 530, subpart B.

6.3.5.3. The incentive will be included with regular salary payments and separately identified on the LES.

6.3.6. Termination of a Service Agreement

6.3.6.1. Mandatory Termination. If an employee is demoted for cause, separates for cause, or the employee receives a less than “Fully Successful” or equivalent rating, the service agreement will terminate. An employee who fails to complete the period of service for these reasons, or otherwise fails to fulfill the terms of the agreement, must reimburse DoD for the amount of all benefits received under the agreement that are in excess of the amount attributable to completed service. The employee is entitled to retain any retention incentive payments attributable to completed service and is entitled to receive any portion of a retention incentive payment owed by the agency for completed service. The amount owed by the employee must be recovered in accordance with agency debt collection regulations. See Volume 16, Chapter 3. The servicing HRO must notify the servicing PRO of the retention incentive repayment/debt via SF 50 data.
6.3.6.2. Discretionary Termination. An authorized management official may terminate the agreement based solely on management needs, such as reduction in force or insufficient funds. An employee who does not fulfill a service agreement due to a termination based on management needs is entitled to all incentive payments already received.

6.3.6.3. Decisions to Terminate. Employees may not grieve or appeal decisions to terminate the service agreement.

6.3.7. Documentation and Recordkeeping. The servicing HRO documents each retention incentive via an SF 50.

6.4 DoD Student Loan Repayment Program (030604)

6.4.1. Purpose. 5 U.S.C. § 5379 and 5 CFR Part 537 authorizes the establishment of student loan repayment programs for the purpose of recruiting and retaining highly qualified personnel. An agency may pay a maximum of $10,000 per employee for any one calendar year, and $60,000 in aggregate for any one employee. See the DoDI 1400.25-V537.

6.4.2. Service Agreement. The minimum service agreement is three years. Employees who fail to complete the period of service specified in the service agreement must reimburse the DoD for the amount of all benefits received under the existing agreement unless:

6.4.2.1. The employee is involuntary separated for reasons other than misconduct or performance;

6.4.2.2. The employee leaves voluntarily to enter into service in another agency outside of DoD, and reimbursement of DoD is not specified in the employee’s service agreement; or 6.4.2.3. An authorized loan-approving official determines that recovery would be against equity and good conscience, or against the public interest, and waives, in whole or in part, the DoD’s right to recover.

6.4.3. Payment Options. The servicing PRO remits the student loan repayment directly to the lender under the terms, limitations, and conditions of the written service agreement. The incentive is paid in either lump sum, periodic, or in biweekly installments, and is in addition to basic pay or any other form of compensation payable to the employee.

6.4.4. Student Loan Repayment Program Payments. Student Loan Repayment Program payments are not considered a part of the employee’s basic pay for any purpose.
6.4.4.1. The Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act, PL 116-136, allows for the first $5,250.00 of an employee’s annual Student Loan Repayment Program payment to be tax free. This exclusion ran from March 27, 2020 to December 31, 2020. The Consolidated Appropriations Act 2021, PL 116-260, section 120 extended the provision for any payment made before January 1, 2026. Any portion of a Student Loan Repayment Program payment exceeding $5,250 is subject to OASDI and/or Medicare and federal, state and local income tax withholding. See 26 U.S.C. § 127, see also IRS Publication 15B. The Student Loan Repayment Program payment is not subject to retirement, FEGLI or TSP. See Section II of the April 13, 2001, Chief Human Capital Officers Council (CHCOC) Student Loan Repayment memorandum.

6.4.4.2. The Student Loan Repayment Program payment is not included in the aggregate limitation on pay as discussed at subparagraph 2.3.2. The aggregate limitation on pay applies to direct payments made to the employee, whereas student loan payments are paid to the loan holder on behalf of the employee. See the OPM Fact Sheet, Student Loan Repayment.

6.4.4.3. The DoD is not responsible for any late fees or penalties assessed by loan holders before, during, or subsequent to the student loan repayment agreement.

6.4.5. Documentation and Recordkeeping. The servicing HRO documents each retention incentive via an SF 50. The servicing HRO must transmit the SF 50 and a copy of the service agreement to the servicing PRO to begin payments.

7.0 LUMP-SUM LEAVE PAYMENTS (0307)

7.1 Lump-Sum Payments for Annual Leave (030701)

Lump-sum payments for unused annual leave are generally payable when an employee separates from federal service, dies, transfers to a position not under a leave system under 5 U.S.C., Chapter 63, subchapter I, or enters active duty in the Armed Forces. See 5 U.S.C. §§ 5551-5552, 5 U.S.C. § 6306 and 5 CFR 550, subpart L.

7.2 Lump-Sum Payable (030702)

Lump-sum payments for accumulated and accrued annual leave are paid as follows:

7.2.1. Payment to Separated Employees. An employee, as defined by 5 U.S.C. § 2105, who separates or retires from federal service is paid in a lump-sum for all unused annual leave through the last full pay period before separation. If the employee is separated or has a break in service (from one agency to another) and is reemployed in a position before a lump-sum is paid, then payment is made for the days the employee was not in the federal service (less withholding tax). The remainder of the annual leave is transferred to the gaining agency.
7.2.2. Payment to Certain Other Employees. An employee is entitled to a lump-sum payment for accumulated and accrued annual leave when he or she:

7.2.2.1. Transfers to a position not under a leave system to which annual leave may be transferred;

7.2.2.2. Moves to a position as an intermittent employee with no established regular tour of duty or to a position as a temporary employee engaged in construction work at hourly rates;

7.2.2.3. Enters active duty in the Armed Forces, provided the employee does not elect to retain the annual leave to his or her credit. See 5 U.S.C. § 5552. However, leave previously restored under 5 U.S.C. § 6304(d) must be liquidated by lump-sum payment when the employee enters active duty. The agency may not re-credit the previously restored leave when the employee returns to federal service. See 5 U.S.C. § 6304(d)(2); or

7.2.2.4. Transfers to a public international organization, provided the employee does not elect to retain the annual leave to his or her credit. See 5 U.S.C. § 3582. However, leave previously restored under 5 U.S.C. § 6304(d) must be liquidated by lump-sum payment when an employee transfers to the public international organization. The agency may not re-credit the previously restored leave under these circumstances. Additionally, only employees who the agency reemploys within 6 months after the transfer are required to refund the lump-sum payment.

7.2.3. Payment to Beneficiary. The balance of the annual leave of a deceased employee must be paid in a lump-sum to his or her designated beneficiary. If an employee has not designated a beneficiary, a lump-sum is paid in the established order of precedence under 5 U.S.C. § 5582(b).

7.3 Lump-Sum Not Payable (030703)

The servicing PRO may not make a lump-sum payment to an employee for accumulated annual leave when he or she is:

7.3.1. An employee transferring to another federal position to which annual leave is transferable without a break in service of one workday or more;

7.3.2. A DoD or non-appropriated fund employee who moves without a break in service of more than 3 days to an appropriated fund position within DoD. See 5 U.S.C. § 6308(b);

7.3.3. A student trainee placed in an intermittent status between full-time tours of duty when no separation actually takes place;

7.3.4. An employee who transfers to the government of Washington D.C. or the U.S. Postal Service;
7.3.5. An employee employed in more than one part-time position who separates from one of the part-time positions. The former employing agency must transfer the accumulated and accrued leave to the current agency if the positions are in different agencies. If the positions are in the same agency, credit the accumulated and accrued leave to the employee’s current leave account in the current position; or 7.3.6. An employee who elects to retain his or her leave upon accepting a Presidential appointment. See 5 U.S.C. § 3392(c).

7.4 Computation of Lump-Sum Payment (030704)

7.4.1. General. The servicing PRO calculates the lump-sum payment for annual leave, including restored and reinstated annual leave, and includes all pay changes the employee would have received had he or she remained in a duty status throughout the projected leave period. See the OPM Leave Administration Fact Sheet on OPM Lump-Sum Payments for Annual Leave and 5 U.S.C. § 5551. Holidays count as workdays in projecting the lump-sum leave period. For example, an employee whose retained pay is scheduled to terminate during the projected leave period should have the lump-sum leave payment computed based on the pay received at the time of separation for the period covered by the retained rate, with the remainder computed at the scheduled reduced rate. An employee is entitled to an adjustment in the lump-sum leave payment when a statutory change in pay becomes effective on a date that occurs during the projected leave period. Pay included in a lump-sum payment is as follows:

7.4.1.1. Rate of basic pay;
7.4.1.2. Locality pay or other geographic adjustment;
7.4.1.3. Within-grade increases (if waiting period met on date of separation);
7.4.1.4. Across-the-board annual pay adjustments;
7.4.1.5. AUO pay, availability pay, and standby duty pay;
7.4.1.6. Night shift differential (FWS employees only, see 5 U.S.C. § 5343(f));
7.4.1.7. Regularly scheduled overtime pay under FLSA for employees on uncommon tours of duty;
7.4.1.8. Supervisory differentials;
7.4.1.9. Nonforeign area COLAs and post differentials; and 7.4.1.10. Foreign area post allowances.
7.4.2.  FWS Employees. The lump-sum payment for an FWS employee is adjusted if the separation occurs after the issue date of a wage schedule or after a wage survey was ordered, but before the effective date of the wage increase, as follows:

7.4.2.1. When an FWS employee separates before the effective date of a wage increase and his or her accrued annual leave extends beyond the effective date, the employee is entitled to have his or her lump-sum annual leave payment paid at the higher rate for the leave that extends beyond the effective date of the increase.

7.4.2.2. When an FWS employee separates after a wage survey is ordered, but before the date of the order granting the wage increase is issued, the employee is entitled to have the lump-sum annual leave payment paid at the higher rate for the leave that extends beyond the effective date of the increase. The order that grants the new wage rate must be issued before the effective date set by 5 U.S.C. § 5344(b)(1) and (2).

7.4.3.  Projecting the Leave. Lump-sum payments must equal the pay an employee would have received had he or she remained in federal service and used this leave. Non-workdays, except holidays, do not count against the leave when projecting the period for payment of lump-sum leave. The period covered by a lump-sum leave payment is not counted as federal civilian service. See 5 U.S.C. § 6103 and 5 CFR 550.1204.

7.4.4.  Reemployed Annuitants. The lump-sum payment for reemployed annuitants upon separation from the service is based on the full pay rate without any reduction by the amount of the annuity. See 5 CFR 550.1203

7.4.5.  Temporary Promotions. If the temporary promotion is not terminated prior to, or as of, the employee’s separation date, the lump-sum leave will be paid at the rate of the temporary promotion through the not to exceed date. After that time, the rate will revert to the employee’s permanent rate of pay.

7.4.6.  Payment. DFAS pays lump-sum leave at the end of the pay period in which it receives the separation transaction. Thus, lump-sum leave may or may not be included with any regular pay earned, depending on when DFAS receives the separation transaction. DFAS identifies payments separately, allowing for taxation of the lump-sum leave at a flat 25 percent for federal withholding, except when the employee’s exemptions claimed on the Form W-4, Employee’s Withholding Certificate, exceed the regular pay. In the latter situation, the lump-sum leave and the regular pay for the pay period are combined and the taxes will be computed as if the total were a single payment. Lump-sum annual leave payments are not subject to deductions for FEHB, FERS, FEGLI or TSP. Payments are subject to offset for debts owed to the United States. See 5 CFR 550.1205.
7.5 Refunds (030705)

When an employee receives a lump-sum leave payment, and subsequently returns to the federal service in a position subject to a formal leave system, the employee is required to refund the unexpired portion of the period covered by the lump-sum leave payment. The refund amount is equal to the payment covering the period between the date of reemployment and the expiration of the lump-sum period. This refund is required because all such unexpired leave is subject to re-credit even though transfer to a different leave system is involved. Re-credit of leave will be determined subject to the following subparagraphs.

7.5.1. Regular Annual Leave

7.5.1.1. If reemployment is in the same leave year, any part of the refund (which is for a period of leave in excess of the employee’s formerly established leave ceiling for the year) is subject to the regular procedures regarding forfeiture or possible restoration at the end of the leave year. The servicing PRO may pay excess leave in another lump-sum payment if another separation occurs before the end of the leave year.

7.5.1.2. If reemployment is in a subsequent leave year, and any part of the refund is for a period exceeding the leave ceiling (e.g., 240 hours for stateside and 360 for overseas), a refund will be required of the unexpired portion. However, only a maximum of the leave ceiling hours may be credited to the regular leave account and any hours in excess of the leave ceiling are considered forfeited, unless it can clearly be established that the excess would have become restored in a separate account if the separation had not occurred.

7.5.2. Restored Annual Leave. A period of restored leave under 5 U.S.C. § 6304(d) is not subject to refund if the agency reemploys the employee prior to the expiration of the lump-sum leave period. The servicing PRO subtracts such leave from the lump-sum leave period before calculating the refund. If the employee is reemployed, the agency will not credit restored annual leave to an employee prior to the expiration date of the lump-sum leave period.

7.6 Payment for Restored Leave for Base Realignment and Closure (BRAC) (030706)

Title 5, U.S.C. § 5551 requires payment of restored annual leave under 5 U.S.C. § 6304(d)(3) in certain situations. A lump-sum payment must be made to any DoD employee moving to a position in any non-DoD federal agency or to any position within DoD that is not located at an installation being closed or realigned under 5 U.S.C. § 6304(d)(3). The servicing HRO must notify the servicing PRO via SF 50 data when the employee is no longer authorized the restored leave under this authority. The lump-sum payment calculation is the rate of pay at the time of the separation or transfer to the non-BRAC installation.
8.0 SEVERANCE (0308)

8.1 Qualifications (030801)

An employee who qualifies under 5 U.S.C. § 5595 is entitled to severance pay in regular pay period intervals and amounts equal to that paid immediately before separation. Title 5, U.S.C. § 5595(i) allows for the heads of DoD Components to authorize payment of severance pay in a lump-sum rather than on a biweekly basis for separations taking effect before October 1, 2018. An employee separated within a pay period rather than at the end of the pay period receives an initial payment of severance pay for the remainder of that pay period. Severance pay for employees with variable work schedules or rates of basic pay are computed using the average rate of basic pay for the last position held during the 26 biweekly pay periods immediately preceding separation. See 5 CFR 550.707(b).

8.2 Payments (030802)

8.2.1. Severance Payments. Authorized severance payments are paid based on the information processed on an SF 50. Severance payments for employees are subject to appropriate withholding for income and OASDI/Medicare taxes. See 5 CFR 550.709(b).

8.2.2. Severance Payments Upon Death of Employee. If an employee dies prior to the end of the period covered by severance pay, then the severance pay will continue to be paid as if the employee were still living (5 U.S.C. § 5595(e)), and must be paid to the employee’s beneficiary in accordance with 5 U.S.C. § 5582(b). Appropriate withholding will be made for OASDI and/or Medicare and federal, state, and local income taxes. Payments made to beneficiaries are not subject to federal tax withholding requirements. However, if a beneficiary receives payment in the year in which the employee dies, the payment is subject to the withholding of OASDI and/or Medicare taxes.

8.2.3. Debt Collection and Garnishment. Collection of indebtedness from an employee’s severance pay is permissible under 31 U.S.C. § 3716. These payments are subject to collection for any outstanding debts owed to the Government. Additionally, under 5 CFR 581.103, severance pay is subject to court-ordered garnishments for alimony, child support, and commercial debts. Court-ordered garnishments are cancelled upon the death of the employee.

8.3 Withholding Tax Reporting (030803)

Severance pay is taxable in the year that the employee receives the pay. This amount is included on the employee’s Form W-2 and appropriate government and state taxes are withheld. If an employee dies, the servicing PRO must report any severance pay paid to the beneficiaries on Form 1099-MISC.
8.4 Termination of Severance Pay (030804)

If an agency reemploys a former employee in federal service, severance pay is discontinued. Discontinuation of payments is effective on the date of reemployment. The losing agency must report the total of amounts paid to the gaining activity or agency. The agency uses this information to determine future entitlement to severance pay since total severance pay during an employee’s lifetime cannot exceed one year’s pay at the rate received immediately before separation. See 5 U.S.C. § 5595(c).

9.0 ADVANCED PAY (0309)

9.1 Foreign Post Assignment Advances (030901)

Advances of pay for DoD civilian employees proceeding to or arriving at a post of assignment in a foreign area are authorized, when applicable. An advance of pay is a prepayment made available to an employee in a pay status. Upon the assignment of an employee to a post in a foreign area, an employee may be authorized a single, lump-sum pay advance of up to 3 months of base pay. The purpose of advances is to finance unusual employee expenses associated with overseas assignments and to aid foreign assignment recruitment and retention. Such expenses may include transportation, storage of household goods, shipping costs, deposits on living quarters overseas, and purchase of household items. See 5 U.S.C. § 5927 and the DoDI 1400.25-V1250. For additional information pertaining to advances of LQA and TQSA, see subparagraph 4.2.1.

9.1.1. Eligibility. For purposes of this section, a DoD civilian employee is defined as a full-time DoD employee who is a U.S. citizen paid from appropriated, revolving, or trust funds. New hires that are in a pay status and traveling to a foreign area on travel orders are also included.

9.1.2. Foreign Areas. A foreign area is an area located outside the U.S., exclusive of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, territories of the U.S., and other areas designated by the Secretary of State.

9.1.3. Payment Procedures. Advances of pay for overseas transfers will be paid only by the disbursing officer (or the disbursing officer’s overseas agent) who supports the servicing PRO servicing the overseas area, or Outside the Continental U.S. from a disbursing officer who is a deputy to the Continental U.S. office. Payment may be included in the next regular biweekly pay or made in a single lump-sum. An employee may request an advance of pay 3 weeks before the estimated departure date for an assignment to a foreign duty post or up to 2 months after arrival. The employee must request an advance on the SF 1190 for employees proceeding to or arriving at a post of assignment in a foreign area. The form serves as the request, authorization, and voucher document.

9.1.4. HRO Duties. The HRO responsible for the employee must verify the eligibility for an advance by confirming the travel orders and the appropriate pay grade and step at the foreign post. If the HRO does not provide confirmation of the foreign pay grade or step, the servicing PRO may use the current gross pay at the time of the advance. The HRO counsels each employee eligible for an advance concerning authorized purposes of the advance, repayment requirements, anticipated expenses at the foreign assignment, and application procedures.

9.2 Advance Payments to Evacuees (030902)

Guidance on advance payments for DoD civilians ordered to evacuate can be found in 5 U.S.C. § 5522, 5 CFR 550.403, and 5 CFR 550.404. For more information concerning emergency evacuation, see Chapter 6.

9.3 Collection of Advance Payments (030903)

9.3.1. Repayment is collected by payroll deduction over a maximum of 26 pay periods. Deductions must begin the first pay period after receipt of the advance or following arrival at the foreign post, whichever is later. The losing agency must forward a copy of the SF 1190 to the gaining PRO for collection.

9.3.2. Partial or lump-sum repayments, in addition to payroll deductions, may be accepted.

9.3.3. When an employee separates or transfers, the outstanding balance is due in full. Advances of pay are recoverable from the employee or the employee’s estate by deduction from accrued pay, amount of retirement credit, other amounts due the employee from the Government, or by other methods as provided by 5 U.S.C. § 5514, 31 U.S.C. § 3716, and corresponding regulations.

9.3.4. The Defense Debt and Claims Management Office, DFAS Indianapolis Center, may waive, in certain cases, the Government’s right of recovery of an erroneous pay advance in accordance with the requirements in the DoDI 1340.23, Waiver Procedures for Debts Resulting from Erroneous Pay and Allowances and 5 U.S.C. § 5584.

9.4 Other Requirements or Conditions for Advances (030904)

9.4.1. An employee is authorized only one outstanding advance at a time, regardless of the frequency of assignments to a foreign area. If an employee becomes eligible for a second advance, the employee must liquidate the first advance before the employee requests the first payment of the second advance.

9.4.2. More than one member of a household may be eligible for an advance.

9.4.3. Allotments and assignments of advances are not authorized.

9.4.4. Advances are paid to employees of another federal agency on a reimbursable basis provided there is an agreement between the other agency and DFAS to make similar payments to DoD employees.
9.4.5. Submission of statements and documents from the employee establishing the need for, and the use of, an advance may be required.

9.4.6. Management must develop controls to ensure only authorized employees obtain an advance and that complete accountability procedures exist for the disbursement and collection of pay advances. Accounting records must include current, accurate, and complete records of obligations, receivables, and collections.

9.5 Additional Advance Payments (030905)

Agencies may authorize an additional advance payment when circumstances warrant and the employee has not received the full amount of the maximum possible advance consistent with the employee’s pay grade. Examples of exceptional circumstances warranting a second payment include: a substantial understatement of the maximum advance authorized, inadequate or inappropriate counseling on the purpose of the advance, and unforeseeable events leading to a significant increase in the cash outlay requirements of an employee at the foreign assignment location.

9.6 Advances in Pay for Newly Hired Employees (030906)

The head of an agency has the authority to provide for the advance payment of basic pay to an employee who is newly appointed to a position in the agency. See 5 CFR 550.203. The authority to advance pay is delegated to officials who exercise personnel-appointing authority (normally the head of an installation or activity). This authority is delegated through and subject to the authority of the DoD Component heads to be used on a case-by-case basis. See the DoDI 1400.25-V550.

9.7 Advances in Pay for Employees Relocating Within the United States or its Territories (030907)

Section 1134 of the 2017 National Defense Authorization Act allows the head of an agency to authorize on a case-by-case basis, an advance of pay covering no more than 4 pay periods to employees relocating within the United States and/or its territories to a location outside the employee’s current commuting area. See 5 U.S.C. § 5524a. The employee must repay the advance through payroll deductions over a maximum of 14 pay periods, although partial or lump-sum payments may be accepted. If the employee accepts employment with another organization, including one within DoD or another federal agency, or if the employee is terminated, the entire balance will be due in full. See 5 CFR 550.205. Any remaining balance of an advance of pay will be recovered through the debt collection process outlined in Volume 16, Chapter 3.

10.0 SPECIAL PAYMENTS (0310)

Special salary payments (e.g., beneficiary payments, employees erroneously omitted from the payroll) are made in accordance with Chapter 8.
11.0 AWARDS (0311)

11.1 General (031101)

5 U.S.C., Chapter 45 is the legal basis for the government wide incentive awards program for civilian employees. OPM regulations regarding agency award programs are published at 5 CFR Part 451. The DoDI 1400.25-V451 prescribes award policies governing the award program for DoD civilian employees.

11.1.1. Incentive Awards. The DoDI 1400.25 delegates to the heads of the DoD Components the authority to pay cash awards, grant time off as an award, and incur the necessary expense for the honorary recognition of an employee (either as an individual or as a member of a group) based on:

11.1.1.1. Suggestions, inventions, superior accomplishments, productivity gains, or other personal efforts that contribute to the efficiency, economy, or other improvements of Government operations;

11.1.1.2. A special act or service in the public interest in connection with or related to official employment; or 11.1.1.3. Performance as reflected in the employee’s most recent record of rating.

11.1.2.1. An employee must use the time off granted as an incentive award within 1 year from the effective date. Supervisors and employees are responsible for scheduling the use of this leave within 1 year. If an employee does not use the time off award within the one-year timeframe, the employee will forfeit the incentive leave. There is no provision for restoring time off awards. For time off awards given from March 19, 2019 through September 30, 2020, the 1 year time limit to use a time off award is lifted. An employee must use a time off award given from this time frame prior to using any time off award given after September 30, 2020. See DCPAS, Removal of Expiration Date for Certain Time Off Awards memorandum.

11.1.2.2. Provisions should be made to accommodate employees who are on long-term training, extended sick leave, called to active duty, or similar situations so that the employee does not forfeit his or her time off award. Agencies may approve sick leave if an employee is unable to perform duty during a period of time off.

11.1.2.3. The maximum amount of time off granted to any one individual for a single achievement should not exceed 40 hours. The maximum amount of time off granted to any one individual within one leave year should not exceed 80 hours. Agencies may grant part-time employees or those with uncommon tours of duty a maximum of one-half the average number of hours in their biweekly tour of duty for a single achievement. The maximum amount of time off which can be granted to part-time employees and employees with uncommon tours of duty during any one leave year is the average number of hours of work in the employee’s biweekly scheduled tour of duty.

11.1.2.4. A time off award cannot be transferred between DoD Components or outside of the DoD. Managers and supervisors should make every effort to ensure that the employee is able to use the time off award before he or she leaves the granting Component. DoD Components may establish procedures to accommodate the transfer of time off awards within their respective Components. Time off awards cannot be converted to a cash award under any circumstances. Unused time off awards will be lost when an employee separates or transfers to another agency or component. See 5 CFR 451.104(f) and DoD 1400.25-V451.

11.1.2.5. Awards are processed on an SF 50 and issued by the servicing HRO to the servicing PRO as authorization for payment of cash awards or granting of time off awards. The award is paid to the employees in the same manner as their net pay. Incentive award payments are not distributed to the worksite.

11.1.2.6. Time off awards must be posted to the employee’s record and reduced when the time off is taken and/or forfeited. Usage of a time off award by an employee reported prior to the receipt of notification of the award must be reflected as a negative balance in the civilian payroll system. If the servicing HRO does not post a time off award to the employee’s record within two pay periods of a negative balance being reflected in the civilian payroll system, then the employee’s use of a time off award will be assumed to be a time and attendance error.

11.1.3. Foreign Language Awards. An agency may pay a cash award, up to five percent of basic pay, to any law enforcement officer employed in or under such agency that possesses and makes substantial use of one or more foreign languages in the performance of official duties. Additional information is in 5 U.S.C., Chapter 45, Subchapter III.

11.1.4. Presidential Rank Awards for SES Employees. The President may award the rank of Distinguished Executive and Meritorious Executive Service to an SES career appointee in accordance with the guidance in 5 U.S.C. § 4507 and 5 CFR 451.301. To be eligible for a rank award, an SES must:

11.1.4.1. Hold a career appointment as defined by 5 U.S.C. § 3132(a)(4);

11.1.4.2. Be an employee of the agency, as defined at 5 U.S.C. § 3132(a)(1); and 11.1.4.3. Have at least three years of career or career-type federal civilian service at the SES level.

11.1.5. Presidential Rank Awards for Senior Career Employees. The President may award the rank of Distinguished Senior Professional and Meritorious Senior Professional to a senior career employee as set forth in 5 U.S.C. § 4507 and 5 CFR 451.302. To be eligible for a rank award, a senior career employee must:

11.1.5.1. Hold a career appointment in a SL or ST position as defined by 5 CFR 319, subpart A and paid under 5 U.S.C. § 5376 on the nomination deadline;

11.1.5.2. Be employed by the agency on the nomination deadline; and 11.1.5.3. Have at least three years of career or career-type federal civilian service above a GS-15 level.

11.1.6. Referral Bonus Awards. A referral bonus award was established for agency heads to authorize award payments to employees, as defined by 5 U.S.C. § 2105, for referring new employees who are subsequently selected and employed in hard-to-fill positions in accordance with 5 U.S.C. § 4503 and 5 CFR Part 451. Referral bonus awards are granted at management’s discretion and are not considered an entitlement.

11.2 Payment of Awards (031102)

11.2.1. Cash Awards. Cash award payments are subject to the withholding provisions of federal, state, and local income tax laws. The payroll system will deduct 22 percent federal tax automatically on special earnings of this nature. See IRS Publication 15, Employer’s Tax Guide. The servicing PRO computes the applicable state and local tax and OASDI and/or Medicare withholding based on tax information in the employee’s current master record. The servicing PRO will not withhold state and local taxes for employees assigned to overseas duty locations unless requested by the employee.

11.2.2. Payment of Awards to Separated Employees. The agency must reestablish the employee on the payroll using the last known information on the employee’s master account record for applicable deductions and mailing address.

11.2.3. Reporting Awards. Cash award payments must be included on an employee’s LES as well as the Form W-2.

CHAPTER 4

MANDATORY DEDUCTIONS

1.0 GENERAL (0401)

1.1 Overview (040101)

This chapter sets out policy and requirements pertaining to mandatory payroll deductions the Department of Defense (DoD) must make from a DoD employee’s pay. It contains established policies, defines responsibilities, and prescribes direction in support of processing mandatory deductions.

1.2 Purpose (040102)

This chapter provides guidance regarding mandatory payroll deductions as they apply to an employee’s gross pay.

*1.3 Authoritative Guidance (040103)

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.), including Title 5. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each section are listed in a reference section at the end of this chapter.

2.0 MANDATORY DEDUCTIONS (0402)

2.1 General (040201)

Mandatory payroll deductions are those deductions required by law, regulation, or by court order and include federal or state income tax, Old Age, Survivors and Disability Insurance (OASDI), Medicare, and child support. Voluntary deductions are at the employee’s request and require written authorization from the employee prior to withholding the deduction. Voluntary deductions include health and life insurance premiums, flexible spending account program contributions, and Thrift Savings Plan (TSP) contributions. See Chapter 11 for information on voluntary deductions and allotments.

2.2 Mandatory Deductions (040202)

Mandatory payroll deductions withheld from a DoD employee’s pay must include:

2.2.1. Sufficient information to establish the deduction;

2.2.2. Adequate documentation and certification;
2.2.3. Payment to the appropriate recipient for the correct amount; and

2.2.4. A provision of law or court order, which supports the deduction.

2.3 Deduction Authorizations (040203)

The Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS) must retain deduction authorizations in the Civilian Payroll Office (PRO) or at a designated storage site in accordance with National Archives General Records Schedule 2.

3.0 ORDER OF PRECEDENCE (0403)

3.1 Deductions (040301)

The Office of Personnel Management (OPM) issued policy guidance to standardize the order of precedence for processing mandatory and voluntary deductions when gross pay is not sufficient to permit all deductions. See OPM Memorandum PPM-2008-01, “Order of Precedence When Gross Pay Is Not Sufficient To Permit All Deductions,” July 30, 2008.

3.1.1. When Gross Pay is Not Sufficient. If a DoD employee’s gross pay is not sufficient to permit all required deductions, the order of precedence under which deductions must be withheld according to the order of precedence as indicated in Figure 4-1.

3.1.2. Priority of Deductions vs. Net Pay Exclusions. The order of precedence determines which authorized deductions apply first in the event that the employee’s gross pay is not sufficient to cover all deductions. This issue is separate from determining the net amount of an employee’s pay subject to a particular deduction. Pay applied toward certain other deductions may be excluded in determining the net amount of pay for which a given deduction is made; however, that does not necessarily mean that any of the other deductions listed are applied first. For example:

3.1.2.1. Federal income tax withholdings are deducted from the net amount of pay subject to federal income taxes (taxable pay). An employee’s deduction for TSP contributions is pre-tax, meaning the contribution is excluded from the net amount of taxable pay. However, the TSP deduction is lower in the order of precedence than federal income taxes.

3.1.2.2. Court-ordered alimony payments are deducted from the net amount of pay subject to garnishment (garnishable pay). An employee’s TSP deduction is excluded from the net amount of garnishable pay. See Title 5, Code of Federal Regulations, section 581.105(e), (5 CFR 581.105(e)). However, the TSP deduction is lower in the order of precedence than the alimony garnishment.
3.2 Available Pay (040302)

An employee's available gross pay is reduced by the amount of each deduction withheld in the specific order of precedence listed in paragraph 3.1. After an authorized deduction is withheld, if an employee’s remaining pay is not sufficient to allow for the deduction next in the order of precedence to be withheld in its entirety, the following applies:

3.2.1 Mandatory Deduction. If the deduction next in the order of precedence is a mandatory deduction, the PRO will use the remaining available pay to make a partial deduction. When this situation occurs, the employee’s net pay is zero.

3.2.2 Voluntary Deduction. If the deduction next in the order of precedence is a voluntary deduction, the PRO will not make the next voluntary deduction or any other deductions thereafter. The employee’s remaining available pay is paid to the employee as net pay.

4.0 RETIREMENT DEDUCTIONS (0404)

4.1 Civil Service Retirement System (CSRS), CSRS-Offset, and Federal Employees Retirement System (FERS) Administration and Recordkeeping (040401)

4.1.1 General. The OPM’s CSRS and FERS Handbook for Personnel and Payroll Offices guidance is necessary for the PRO to report:

4.1.1.1 The withholding of mandatory deductions from employees enrolled in the CSRS; and 4.1.1.2 The withholding of mandatory deductions under FERS. Employees hired after January 1, 1987 are under the FERS program. Employees hired during calendar year (CY) 2013 are FERS Revised Annuity Employees (FERS-RAE). For more information, see 5 U.S.C. § 8401(37). Employees hired on or after January 1, 2014, are FERS Further Revised Annuity Employees (FERS-FRAE). See also 5 U.S.C. § 8401(38).

4.1.2 Phased Retirement. Employees eligible for phased retirement work a part-time schedule while beginning to draw CSRS or FERS retirement benefits. During phased employment, retirement deductions for CSRS or FERS will continue to be withheld from pay the employee receives from the employing agency. The deductions are made at the normal rates and are based on the pay the employee actually receives during phased employment, not on the amount the employee would have received had the employee continued to work fulltime. See also 5 U.S.C. § 8336a, 5 CFR Part 848, Chief Human Capital Officers Council (CHCOC) Phased Retirement Guidance, OPM Phased Retirement, and Chapter 10 for additional information.
4.1.3. Coverage. For employees subject to retirement deductions, the Standard Form (SF) 50, Notification of Personnel Action, will reflect the correct retirement system for each employee. See Table 4-1 for pay subject to retirement deductions. For current deduction rates and employer contributions, refer to the CSRS and FERS Handbook and the OPM Benefits Administration Letter (BAL) (OPM BAL 15-303).

4.1.4. PRO Responsibilities for Retirement Deductions. The PRO must fulfill the responsibilities relating to CSRS, CSRS-Offset and FERS retirement contributions listed in the CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapter 1, section 1C3.1-D.

4.1.5. Communication With OPM. Forward records of separated employees to:

4.1.5.1. Office of Personnel Management
    CSRS Retirement Records
    P.O. Box 45
    Boyers, PA 16017

4.1.5.2. Office of Personnel Management
    FERS Retirement Records
    P.O. Box 200
    Boyers, PA 16017

4.1.6. Maintaining the Individual Retirement Record (IRR) SF 2806/3100

4.1.6.1. General. The PRO maintains an IRR for each employee subject to CSRS, CSRS-Offset, or FERS, according to the CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapter 81, part 81A2. Since the OPM uses the IRR to adjudicate the retirement rights of separated employees or their survivors, it is important that each IRR is complete, accurate, clearly detailed, and properly certified. Timely and accurate maintenance of each IRR expedites closeout when an employee separates or transfers to the paying jurisdiction of another agency.

4.1.6.2. Required Information. Certain information is required on the IRR for all employees. There are additional requirements for law enforcement officers, firefighters, foreign nationals, customs officers, and employees who have any periods of active duty service. Data should be taken from the SF 50 and posted to the IRR as it occurs. The OPM Operating Manual, The Guide to Data Standards, includes the standard abbreviations and remarks required for completing the IRR. Examples of how to post the service history are located in the CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapter 81, section 81A2.2-2. Each IRR should be reviewed to ensure complete service history and that all dates and types of appointments are accurately reflected for each period of service.
4.1.6.2.1. Sick Leave. When an employee dies, retires, converts to FERS with a CSRS annuity component, has an uncommon tour of duty, or applies for disability retirement, the amount of unused sick leave must be recorded on the IRR. An employee who has had a break-in-service is entitled to a recredit of sick leave (without regard to the date of his or her separation) if he or she returns to federal employment on or after December 2, 1994. However, sick leave is not recredited to employees who were reemployed in the federal service before December 2, 1994, and who previously forfeited sick leave under the former rules. See 5 CFR 630.502(b). For examples, see the CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapter 81, section 81A2.3-1.

4.1.6.2.2. Health Benefits Data. All IRRs sent to the OPM for regular retirement, disability retirement, or deceased employees must be annotated with the status of health benefits. See examples in the CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapter 81, subchapter 81B.

4.1.6.2.3. Federal Employees Group Life Insurance (FEGLI). FEGLI must be shown on the IRR as specified in the CSRS and FERS Handbook. For further information, see the FEGLI Program Handbook.

4.1.6.2.4. Additional Reportable Items for Separations, Removals, or Resignations. All IRRs sent to the OPM regarding a separation, removal, or resignation must include the following employee’s information: Last Day of Pay, Unused Sick Leave, Federal Employees Health Benefits plan code, Federal Employees Group Life Insurance enrollment code, and Service Computation Date. For further information, see OPM BAL 15-102.

4.1.6.3. Closing Out the IRR. For information on the closing out, certification and forwarding to the OPM of an IRR upon an employee’s separation, see the CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapter 81, section 81A2.2-4.

4.1.6.3.1. Employee Death. When the PRO receives notification of an employee’s death, the PRO must send the IRR to the OPM within 5 days of the date that final pay is computed. The OPM must receive the deceased employee's records and associated applications within 30 days from the date of death. For information on retirement deductions and matching agency contributions in final pay, see the CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapter 80.

4.1.6.3.2. Separation and Application for Refund of Retirement. A refund is the lump-sum payment (to a former employee or an employee no longer covered by CSRS or FERS) for the amount of his or her retirement contributions. An individual seeking a refund must meet eligibility requirements. The PRO is responsible for sending the employee’s IRR to the OPM with the employee’s refund application SF 2802, Application for Refund of Retirement Deductions CSRS; or SF 3106, Application for Refund of Retirement Deductions FERS. See the CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapter 32, subchapters 32A (CSRS) and 32B (FERS). A refund payment may include any of the following:

4.1.6.3.2.1. Retirement contributions deducted from basic pay, including CSRS-Offset contributions for employees covered under CSRS-Offset, or FERS basic annuity deductions from pay;
4.1.6.3.2.2. Deposits and/or redeposits;

4.1.6.3.2.3. Military service credit deposits;

4.1.6.3.2.4. Voluntary contributions; or

4.1.6.3.2.5. Interest payable under law.

4.1.6.3.3. Disability Retirement Separations. Disability cases require different close out procedures due to the approval or denial of the application submitted by the employee for disability retirement. Agencies must execute both a preliminary and final IRR. See the CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapter 60 for Disability Retirements. See the CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapter 81, section 81A.2.3-2 for examples on closing out a disability retirement IRR.

4.1.6.3.4. Non-disability Retirement Separations. When a separation occurs for reasons other than a disability retirement, the PRO must close out, certify, and forward the IRR to the address in subparagraph 3.1.5. Information and examples on the process required to close out an IRR are located in the CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapter 81, section 81A.2.3-1.

4.1.6.3.5. Service Credit Deposits for Post-1956 Military Service. For the preparation of the IRR for deposits of creditable post-1956 military service, see the CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapter 23. For additional information, see Chapter 11.

4.1.7. Storing, Safeguarding and Disposing of the IRR

4.1.7.1. Any IRRs not maintained in a mechanized manner must be stored in a lockable metal file cabinet or in a secured facility with limited access provided only to employees whose official duties require access. Manually maintained IRRs must be stored electronically (after being manually posted), and kept separately from the record itself, in accordance with the OPM requirements.

4.1.7.2. Retirement claims, life insurance, health benefits, and tax withholdings are permanent records and maintained in either paper or electronic imaged format. Medical records used to determine suitability are maintained for 18 months. Requests for review of health benefits claims should be maintained for up to 3 years.

4.1.7.3. Manual records should be disposed of by shredding.

4.1.8. Register of Separations and Transfers (SF 2807/3103)

4.1.8.1. The SF 2807 (CSRS) and SF 3103 (FERS), Register of Separations and Transfers, serve to authenticate the IRR for transmittal to other PROs and to the OPM. In addition to other fiscal and accounting data available to the OPM, the SF 2807/3103 is an essential document for controlling retirement monies. For information on how to prepare and maintain the SF 2807/3103, see the CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapter 81, part 81A3.
4.1.8.2. More than one IRR may be submitted with an SF 2807/3103. However, transmitting completed retirement records should not be delayed while other IRRs are being prepared for forwarding to the OPM.

4.1.9. Adjustments and Corrections. When possible, adjust and correct any errors detected on the IRR before submission to the OPM. If an error is detected after the IRR is sent to the OPM, prepare an SF 2806-1 (CSRS) or SF 3101 (FERS), Notice of Correction of Individual Retirement Record. See the CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapter 81, section 81A2.3-3.

4.1.9.1. Current Employees

4.1.9.1.1. Over-deduction. If an over-deduction occurs for retirement from the pay of a current employee, the PRO must make an adjustment during the next payroll cycle. The PRO must decrease the current retirement deductions from the employee's current pay period earnings, and make a corresponding adjustment in the employer's contributions.

4.1.9.1.2. Under-deduction. If an under-deduction occurs, or if deductions were not made for a period when an employee was covered by CSRS or FERS, then that employee must be afforded due process rights before being indebted for the erroneous pay received because of the under-deduction. If deductions were made for a nonappropriated fund (NAF) retirement plan when deductions are required for CSRS or FERS, then the PRO must adjust the NAF retirement deductions and contributions and the Social Security deductions and contributions in the next pay period. These amounts should be offset against the amounts that should have been submitted for CSRS or FERS to determine the net amount that must be withheld from the employee's current period pay.

4.1.9.2. Separated Employees

4.1.9.2.1. Over-deduction

4.1.9.2.1.1. When excess retirement amounts have been deducted from a former employee's pay and the IRR SF 2806 (CSRS) or SF 3100 (FERS) has not yet been forwarded to the OPM, the PRO must correct the amount in the current calendar year and correct the accumulated deductions posted on the SF 2806/3100 prior to forwarding to the OPM.

4.1.9.2.1.2. If an over-deduction for retirement is found after the SF 2806/3100 was sent to the OPM, the PRO must prepare and submit the SF 2806-1/3101 to the OPM.

4.1.9.2.1.3. If an over-deduction from a former employee's pay results in excess employer contributions for retirement, the PRO must deduct the amount of the excess from the next pay period's submission of the Retirement and Insurance Transfer System (RITS) file.
4.1.9.2.2. Under-deduction

4.1.9.2.2.1. When an insufficient amount for retirement has been deducted from a former employee's pay and the SF 2806/3100 has not yet been submitted to the OPM, the PRO must note the amount of the deficiency on the SF 2806/3100. If the SF 2806/3100 has been submitted, then another SF 2806/3100 must be prepared and annotated "Supplemental" in the upper left margin.

4.1.9.2.2.2. When an under-deduction from a former employee's pay results in insufficient employer retirement benefits contributions, the insufficient amount will normally be included in the RITS file for the next pay period.

4.1.9.3. Transferred Employees

4.1.9.3.1. Over-deduction

4.1.9.3.1.1. When excess retirement amounts have been deducted from a transferred employee's pay and the SF 2806/3100 has not been forwarded to the OPM, the PRO must correct the amount in the current calendar year and correct the total accumulative deductions posted on the SF 2806/3100 prior to forwarding.

4.1.9.3.1.2. If the over-deduction for retirement is found after the SF 2806 was forwarded to another PRO within the DoD, an SF 2806-1 must be prepared and submitted to the gaining PRO.

4.1.9.3.1.3. When an over-deduction from a transferred employee's pay results in excess employer retirement contributions, the PRO must deduct the amount of excess employer contributions from the RITS file for the next pay period.

4.1.9.3.2. Under-deduction. When an insufficient retirement amount has been deducted from a former employee's pay and the SF 2806 has not yet been forwarded to another PRO within the same Component, the losing PRO must note the amount of under-deductions on the SF 2806. The losing PRO must prepare and forward a supplemental SF 2806 to the gaining PRO, if the SF 2806 was previously submitted.

4.1.9.3.3. Service History Corrections. The PRO must correct the “Service History” portion of the SF 2806 if the error is detected before the record is sent to another PRO within the same Component. If the error is detected after the record is submitted, the losing PRO must prepare and submit an SF 2806-1 to the gaining PRO.

4.1.9.4. Retroactive Payments

4.1.9.4.1. The PRO must report CSRS or FERS deductions withheld from a retroactive salary payment for a separated employee by preparing a supplemental SF 2806/3100, and forwarding it to the OPM using an SF 2807/3103.
4.1.9.4.2. For a current employee, the PRO must include CSRS or FERS deductions withheld from a retroactive salary payment in the current year salary deduction on the SF 2806/3100 being maintained for the employee.

4.1.9.4.3. A losing PRO must report CSRS or FERS deductions withheld from a retroactive salary payment for an employee transferred to another PRO within the same Component by preparing a supplemental SF 2806/3100. The losing PRO must send the SF 2806 to the gaining PRO using an SF 2807. The losing PRO must send the SF 3100 to the OPM using an SF 3103.

4.1.10. Availability of Retirement Funds for Loans, Garnishments, and Indebtedness

4.1.10.1. Loans and Garnishments. See the CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapter 5 for Court Orders. An employee cannot borrow from the retirement fund or use money credited to his or her account as security for a loan or any other purpose. Additionally, an employee's retirement account is not subject to the execution of levies, attachments, garnishments, or other legal processes except as follows:

4.1.10.1.1. The OPM will comply with a garnishment or attachment order issued to enforce child support or alimony obligation; and

4.1.10.1.2. The OPM will comply with the assignment of retirement benefits in a qualifying state court order, decree, or community property settlement agreement in connection with a divorce, annulment of marriage, or legal separation of a federal employee or retiree.

4.1.10.2. Indebtedness. The PRO may request the OPM to use administrative offset to collect a debt owed to the United States by offsetting any money due and payable to a separated employee from his or her CSRS or FERS benefits. See Volume 16, Chapter 3 for guidance on recovering debts from retirement funds. The PRO must ensure the former employee receives due process as specified in Volume 16. See also the CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapters 4 and 5.

4.1.11. Submission of Deductions and Contributions. Employee deductions and employer contributions for CSRS or FERS must be reported separately to the OPM each pay period. The PROs reporting to the OPM via the RITS must report deductions and contributions using procedures described in Chapter 9. Employer contributions must be charged to the appropriation(s) from which the employee's salary is paid. See the CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapter 80.

4.2 State Retirement Programs for National Guard Technicians (040402)

Effective January 1, 1969, pursuant to 32 U.S.C. § 709, all National Guard Technicians appointed in a position not excluded from coverage are considered federal employees who are automatically covered by CSRS or FERS. However, technicians employed on December 31, 1968, had the option of irrevocably electing to remain covered by a state retirement system. The DoD negotiated agreements with states for federal employee contributions to a state or state-sponsored contributory retirement program. For further information, see the CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapter 12.
4.3 DoD Employees Covered by Retirement Systems for Nonappropriated Fund Instrumentalities (040403)

4.3.1. General. NAF employees are federal employees within DoD. However, NAF employees are not subject to many of the personnel laws administered by the OPM for appropriated fund (APF) employees. The status of NAF employees is explained at 5 U.S.C. § 2105(c). NAF employee retirement benefits are not subject to the same requirements as that of civil service positions. Each NAF employer administers its own retirement program pursuant to DoD Instruction (DoDI) 1400.25-V1408, DoD Civilian Personnel Management System, Insurance and Annuities for NAF Employees.

4.3.2. Portability. If a NAF employee moves to an APF position, unless specifically provided by law, the employee’s NAF service is not creditable for civil service benefits. Likewise, service in an APF position is not creditable for NAF benefits unless DoD policy provides such credit. Laws and regulations regarding service credit and portability of benefits for employees who move between NAF and APF positions are discussed in this section and in the Defense Civilian Personnel Advisory Service (DCPAS) Portability of Benefits Reference Guide. See also 5 CFR Part 847 and 5 CFR 1620, subpart D.

4.3.3. DoD Components Offering NAF Retirement Plans. The following DoD Components offer NAF retirement plans for eligible DoD NAF employees;

4.3.3.1. Department of the Army,

4.3.3.2. Department of the Air Force,

4.3.3.3. U. S. Marine Corps,

4.3.3.4. Bureau of Naval Personnel,

4.3.3.5. Navy Exchange Service Command, and 4.3.3.6. Army and Air Force Exchange Service.

4.3.4. History of Public Laws Relating to Portability of Retirement Benefits for NAF Employees.

4.3.4.1. NAFI Employee’s Retirement Credit Act of 1986. Public Law (PL) 99-638, (5 U.S.C. § 8332). The Act was the first to permit CSRS credit for former NAF service. The law required that NAF service be provided in certain morale, welfare, and recreation (MWR) positions after June 18, 1952, and before January 1, 1966. Covered employees were primarily Army NAF employees in recreation, youth activities, or arts and crafts positions, which were not covered with a NAF retirement system.
4.3.4.2. The Portability of Benefits for NAF Employees Act of 1990. PL 101-508, section 7202, (5 U.S.C. § 8332). The law provides pay and benefit portability for employees who move between NAF and APF positions. The law covers moves between DoD NAF and DoD APF positions made on or after January 1, 1987. An employee who moves with a break-in-service of no more than 3 days between such positions may be eligible for pay, leave, reduction-in-force, and retirement benefit protection. An employee who moves between positions may remain in his or her civil service or NAF retirement plan, if vested.

4.3.4.3. Fiscal Year (FY) 1996 National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA). PL 104-106, section 1043, (5 U.S.C. § 8332). The law further expanded portability, primarily in the area of retirement coverage. Retirement election provisions were expanded to include moves to APF positions outside of DoD and to cover moves on or after August 10, 1996, with a break-in-service of not more than 1 year. Employees must be vested in the losing employment system’s retirement plan in order to elect to retain coverage. The law provided eligible FERS or NAF employees the opportunity to combine FERS and NAF service credit retroactively if the move occurred on or after January 1, 1966, but before August 10, 1996, with an election deadline of August 11, 1997. Waivers of this deadline are authorized for employees who did not receive notice and counseling from their Human Resources Office (HRO).

4.3.4.4. FY 2002 NDAA. PL 107-107, sections 1131 and 1132, (5 U.S.C. § 8332). The law further expanded the retirement election opportunity making it easier for employees who have performed service with a DoD or Coast Guard NAFI to continue retirement coverage after moving between NAF and APF positions. Section 1131 permits employees moving between NAF and APF positions on or after December 28, 2001, to continue coverage in the retirement plan under which they were covered immediately before the move, even if they were not vested in that retirement plan. Employee moves between retirement-covered positions must not involve a break of more than 1 year. Additionally, section 1132 permits employees in CSRS or FERS to use prior NAF service to qualify for an immediate retirement on or after December 28, 2001. Credit for NAF service under section 1132 will not result in higher CSRS or FERS annuity benefits.

4.3.5. Elections to Continue Retirement Coverage After a Qualifying Move From a NAF Position. In accordance with 5 CFR 847.202, NAF employees must meet the requirements of a qualifying move in order to be eligible to retain NAF retirement coverage after moving to a civil position covered by CSRS or FERS. The criteria requirements for a qualifying move may vary by the date(s) of when the move actually occurred.

4.3.5.1. Qualifying Move Between January 1, 1987 and August 9, 1996. A qualifying move occurring between January 1, 1987 and August 9, 1996, which would allow a NAF employee the opportunity to elect to continue retirement coverage under a NAF retirement system, must meet all the following criteria:

4.3.5.1.1. Employee must not have had a prior opportunity to elect to continue NAF retirement system coverage;

4.3.5.1.2. Employee must have been a vested participant in the NAF retirement system prior to the move to the civil service;
4.3.5.1.3. Employee must have moved from an NAF to a CSRS or FERS covered position within DoD or the U.S. Coast Guard; and

4.3.5.1.4. Employee must be appointed to a CSRS or FERS covered position no later than 4 days after separation from retirement covered NAF employment.

4.3.5.2. Qualifying Move Between August 10, 1996 and December 28, 2001. A qualifying move occurring on or after August 10, 1996 and before December 28, 2001, that would allow a NAF employee an opportunity to elect to continue retirement coverage under a NAF retirement system, must meet all the following criteria:

4.3.5.2.1. Employee must not have had a prior opportunity to elect to continue NAF retirement system coverage;

4.3.5.2.2. Employee must have been a vested participant in the NAF retirement system prior to the move to a CSRS or FERS covered position;

4.3.5.2.3. Employee must have moved from a NAF to a civil service position subject to CSRS or FERS coverage; and

4.3.5.2.4. Employee must be appointed to a CSRS or FERS covered position no later than 1 year after separation from retirement covered NAF employment.

4.3.5.3. Qualifying Move After December 28, 2001. A qualifying move occurring on or after December 28, 2001, that would allow a NAF employee an opportunity to elect to continue retirement coverage under a NAF retirement system must meet all the following criteria:

4.3.5.3.1. Employee must not have had a prior opportunity to elect to continue NAF retirement system coverage;

4.3.5.3.2. Employee must have moved from a NAF to a civil service position subject to CSRS or FERS coverage; and

4.3.5.3.3. Employee must be appointed to a CSRS or FERS covered position no later than 1 year after separation from retirement covered NAF employment.

4.3.5.4. Electing NAF Retirement System Coverage After a Qualifying Move

4.3.5.4.1. Employees who elect to retain coverage under a NAF retirement system will have their SF 50 annotated as "5-Other" for the retirement code. The SF 50 will state that the employee has elected to retain coverage under a NAF retirement system.

4.3.5.4.2. Employees who elect to remain covered by a NAF retirement plan are excluded from coverage under CSRS or FERS during that and all subsequent periods of employment, including periods of service as a reemployed annuitant.
4.3.5.4.3. Employee retirement deductions, employer contributions, employee contributions to applicable 401(k) plans, and loan repayments will be made biweekly and submitted to the appropriate NAF employee benefit system. Federal Insurance Contribution Act (FICA) contributions must be withheld and reported in accordance with the U.S. Department of the Treasury’s current guidance.

4.3.5.4.4. Employees who elect to retain coverage under a NAF retirement system are eligible to contribute to the applicable NAF 401(k) plan, but are not eligible to participate in TSP.

4.3.5.4.5. Employees who elect to retain NAF retirement coverage will continue coverage with the NAF retirement plan in effect at the time of election.

4.4 Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences (USUHS) Faculty Retirement (040404)

*4.4.1. The USUHS has established a policy on granting of retirement benefits for faculty and staff covered under the Administratively Determined (AD) pay plan. See 10 U.S.C. § 2113 and USUHS Instruction 1418, Civilian Faculty Benefits Plan. All full-time civilian faculty members of the USUHS appointed to an AD position with an appointment of more than 1 year may elect coverage under one the following plan options:

*4.4.1.1. Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association College Retirement Equities Fund (TIAA-CREF). This is a tax-deferred retirement plan offering both fixed and variable annuity distributions, which allows employees to enroll in a variety of available funds. For additional information, see TIAA-CREF.

*4.4.1.2. Fidelity Investments. This is a tax-deferred investment program through which the employee may enroll in a variety of available funds.

4.4.2. A total of 15 percent of the employee's total salary will be contributed to either TIAA-CREF or Fidelity Investments. The employer (USUHS) will contribute 10 percent and the employee will contribute a mandatory 5 percent through payroll deduction.

4.4.3. Part-time AD employees, visiting employees who carry a J-1 visa, faculty whose titles have the prefix Visiting and Postdoctoral Fellows are not eligible to participate in TIAA-CREF or Fidelity Investments.
5.0 FEDERAL INSURANCE CONTRIBUTIONS ACT (FICA) TAX (0405)

5.1 Authority (040501)

The FICA provides for a federal system of OASDI and hospital insurance. See 26 U.S.C. § 21. The OASDI program is financed by the Social Security tax, and the Hospital Insurance program is financed by the Medicare tax. Wages for covered employment are taxable regardless of the worker's age or whether the worker is receiving Social Security or Medicare benefits. Employers must match the taxes withheld from employee wages. The term FICA applies to the combined amount of the deductions withheld for both Social Security and Medicare. However, each of the taxes is reported separately. For purposes of this guidance, taxes withheld under FICA will be referred to separately as Social Security tax and Medicare tax. The guidance applies to both Social Security and Medicare withholding. For additional information, see the Social Security Handbook.

5.1.1 Coverage. Federal employees are generally subject to both Social Security and Medicare tax withholding, but some employees are subject to only Medicare tax. Prior to 1984, most federal civilian employment was exempt from Social Security coverage. However, for federal employees hired on or after January 1, 1984, most services are covered by Social Security. Whether an employee is covered under Social Security is based on the type of appointment and is determined by the HRO and reflected on the SF 50. Federal employees became subject to Medicare withholding the first pay period in CY 1983. See the Social Security Handbook, section 940. Social Security and/or Medicare taxes are withheld on the same wages, but only Social Security taxes have a wage base limit (i.e. the maximum wage amount subject to Social Security tax for the year). The deductions are shown separately on the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement. The DoD is considered one employer for purposes of determining the maximum wages subject to Social Security and/or Medicare withholding. Employees who are exempt from the Social Security and/or Medicare withholding are:

5.1.1.1 Noncitizens employed outside the United States, the U.S. Virgin Islands, and Puerto Rico;

5.1.1.2 Interns, (except medical and dental interns and residents), student nurses, and other student employees of federal hospitals (26 U.S.C. § 3121(b)(6));

5.1.1.3 Employees hired temporarily to handle fires, storms, earthquakes, floods, and other similar emergencies and disasters (26 U.S.C. § 3121(b)(6));

5.1.1.4 If a civilian chaplain wants to be covered under Social Security and/or Medicare, he or she must apply as a self-employed person. Social Security and/or Medicare may also cover the chaplain if the order under which the chaplain belongs has elected its members to be covered;
5.1.1.5. Employees of instrumentalities of the U.S. Government that are specifically exempt from Social Security and/or Medicare by law (26 U.S.C. § 3112); and

5.1.1.6. Title 32 National Guard technicians in Massachusetts and Nevada who elected to remain in the state employees retirement systems.

5.1.2. Transfers Between DoD Components. Beginning January 1, 1984, based on FICA, the OPM directed that all newly hired federal employees be subject to Social Security and Medicare withholding, as well as retirement deductions. If an employee transfers between DoD Components, then the gaining PRO must count those Social Security and/or Medicare taxes already deducted by the losing PRO in order not to exceed the maximum Social Security and/or Medicare tax liability due for that payroll year. When an employee transfers, the PRO must include Social Security and/or Medicare year-to-date wages, and Social Security and/or Medicare year-to-date taxes on the SF 1150, Record of Leave Data.

5.2. Compensation Subject to Social Security and/or Medicare Tax (040502)

5.2.1. Current Earnings and Allowances. For employees covered under FICA, compensation subject to federal income tax (without regard to exemption status) is generally subject to Social Security and Medicare deductions (see Table 4-1). Employees covered under CSRS are subject only to Medicare withholding. The basis for Social Security and/or Medicare tax deductions is the employee's gross pay for each pay period.

5.2.2. Back Pay Awards. Employee and employer portions of Social Security and/or Medicare tax computed for back pay awards must be calculated at the rate in effect at the time the payment of back pay is made.

5.3. Tax Amounts (040503)

Social Security and Medicare tax have different tax rate percentages, and Social Security is subject to a wage base limitation. Therefore, Social Security and/or Medicare tax must be computed and reported separately.

5.3.1. Employee Deductions. For each pay period, deduct the appropriate Social Security and/or Medicare tax amount from the gross pay of each employee covered by Social Security and/or Medicare. With respect to the Social Security wage base limit, when the employee's earnings reach the applicable maximum limitation in a taxable year, discontinue the deductions for Social Security for the remainder of that tax year. Refer to the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) Publication 15, (Circular E), Employer’s Tax Guide, for the yearly update. Maximum limitations for prior years are in Table 4-2.
5.3.2. Social Security Tax Deferral of 2020. Between September 2020 and December 2020 the collection of the employee share of Social Security tax was deferred for employees that earned less than $4,000 during a bi-weekly pay period pursuant to a Presidential Memorandum and at the direction of the Office of Management and Budget. See 85 Federal Register (FR) 49587. The Social Security tax that was deferred during calendar year 2020 was subsequently paid during calendar year 2021. See IRS Notice 2021-11.

5.3.3. Employer's Social Security and/or Medicare Tax. The U.S. Government must pay the employer's contribution equal to the same tax rate used for employees.

5.3.4. Official Social Security and Medicare Tax Tables. Tax tables are published in Circular E.

6.0 FEDERAL INCOME TAX WITHHOLDING (FITW) (0406)

6.1 General (040601)

6.1.2. Employer's Identification Number (EIN). An EIN is assigned by the appropriate District Director of the IRS to identify the tax accounts of employers. Only one identification number per PRO is authorized for use in reporting all federal and Social Security and/or Medicare taxes. The PRO must collect federal and Social Security and/or Medicare taxes from employee wages and report all taxes using the IRS Form 941, Employer’s Quarterly Federal Tax Return. For guidance on withholding and reporting federal income tax and Social Security and/or Medicare, consult the current Circular E.

6.1.3. Tax Reform. The Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (TCJA) of 2017 (PL 115-97) signed into law on December 22, 2017, amended several provisions of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986. Specifically, the TCJA legislation resulted in the IRS Form W-4, Employee’s Withholding Certificate, being redesigned. Previously, the value of a withholding allowance was tied to the value of the personal exemption. The TCJA eliminates personal exemptions claimed by taxpayers for themselves, their spouse, and dependents through CY 2025.

6.1.4. Method of Withholding. The two most common methods for withholding tax provided by the IRS are the percentage method and the wage bracket method. Beginning in CY 2020, employers with automated payroll systems are to withhold taxes based on the percentage method. Refer to the IRS Publication 15-T, Federal Income Tax Withholding Methods.
6.2 IRS Form W-4, Employee’s Withholding Certificate (040602)

The IRS Form W-4 was revised for CY 2020. The PRO must use the W-4 to support statutory deductions for federal income taxes from each employee. Therefore, an employee must complete the W-4 and any additional forms required for withholding state or local taxes at the start of employment. If an employee fails to submit the W-4, the PRO must treat the employee as a single filer with a standard deduction and no other adjustments. Once filed, the W-4 remains in effect until the employee amends it or files a new withholding certificate. Employees may obtain the W-4 from their servicing HRO. Employees may also process tax changes through an automated computer program, such as myPay, by using a personal identification code.

6.2.1 Additional Withholding. An employee may also specify that a fixed dollar amount is withheld from pay in addition to the amount of required withholdings. The amount of additional withholding remains in effect until changed by the employee.

6.2.2 Reporting the W-4 to the IRS.

6.2.2.1 Employers may be directed by a written notice from IRS to send a specific W-4 to the IRS for review. If the PRO receives a written notice, then the PRO will obtain a copy of the requested W-4 and follow the guidance for submitting the W-4 to the IRS.

6.2.2.2 If the IRS determines that an employee does not have enough withholding, then the IRS may send the PRO a letter commonly called a lock-in-letter. The lock-in-letter will specify the filing status, multiple job adjustments, and maximum amount of credit or deductions permitted for a specific employee for purposes of calculating the required withholding. The PRO must furnish a copy of this letter to the employee within 10 business days of receipt of the letter. The PRO will begin the withholding based on the date specified in the letter.

6.3 Withholding Status Change (040603)

If an employee submits a new W-4, the PRO will change the withholding effective the next pay period. Retroactive adjustments are not permissible, even if an employee claims the W-4 on file is erroneous and submits a corrected one.

6.4 Compensation Subject to Income Tax (040604)

See Table 4-1 for taxability of particular types of compensation.

6.5 Exemption From Withholding (040605)

An employer is not required to deduct and withhold any federal income tax from wages paid to an employee who has certified to the employer (as prescribed by IRS) that the employee incurred no income tax liability for the preceding year and that the employee expects no liability for the current year. A W-4 claiming exemption from withholding is effective when it is given to the employer and only for that calendar year. To continue to be exempt from withholding, an employee must submit a new W-4 by February 15. If the employee fails to file the W-4 claiming exemption from withholding by February 15, the PRO will treat the employee as a single filer with no adjustments when withholding tax. If the employee provides a new W-4 on February 16 or later, the PRO will apply it to future wages but will not refund any taxes already withheld.

6.6 Retained Copies of Form 941 and Related Reports (040606)

As forms become superseded or obsolete, the PRO should remove them from the active file and place in an inactive file. The Treasury’s forms (e.g., the 941 or W-4) do not have to be sent to the IRS District Director. However, if requested, the PRO must show that the information is on file as a supporting record.

6.7 Adjustments in Tax Withheld (040607)

6.7.1 Under-Withheld Taxes. If the PRO does not withhold income, Social Security, or Medicare taxes, or if less than the correct amount is withheld from the employee’s wages, the adjustment to the employee’s pay may be made in a later pay period of the same calendar year. The underpayment must be paid to the IRS by the employer. Under-withheld income tax should be recovered from the employee on or before the last day of the calendar year that the tax was due. See Chapter 8 and Circular E for information on collection of a prior year tax debts. Make no adjustment if the error occurred in a prior calendar year or the employee is no longer on the payroll.

6.7.2 Refunding Taxes Incorrectly Withheld. If more than the correct amount of income, Social Security, or Medicare tax is withheld from employee’s wages, the excess amount must be refunded to the employee before the end of the 3-year statute of limitations that applies to tax refunds. For example, if excess Social Security taxes were withheld from an employee’s pay in CY 2019, the excess Social Security taxes could be refunded to the employee through April 15, 2022.

6.8 Tax Payments - Payment of Withheld Tax (040608)

6.8.1 Tax Collection. The PRO remits all federal income, Social Security, and Medicare taxes collected by the PRO directly to IRS through the Electronic Federal Tax Payment System (EFTPS). The EFTPS is a service offered by the Treasury that allows an agency to electronically file and make payments for the 941 taxes each quarter.

6.8.2 Accounting. The PRO making the tax collection is responsible for preparing and issuing the W-2 to the employee.

6.8.3 Disbursement. The disbursing office will disburse all taxes withheld based on the information provided by the PRO and the frequency of the payroll involved. The taxes are remitted for amounts withheld from wages for federal income, Social Security and/or Medicare taxes, and employer's contributions for Social Security and/or Medicare via the EFTPS.
6.9 Resident and Nonresident Aliens (040609)

6.9.1. Withholding Tax. Wages paid to both resident and nonresident aliens for services performed in the United States are subject to the withholding of federal income tax. The same regulations, procedures, and rates that govern U.S. citizens apply to resident and nonresident aliens. Generally, resident aliens are taxed in the same manner as U.S. citizens. However, for nonresident aliens, employers may be instructed to withhold an additional amount from a nonresident alien’s wages. See Circular E for any additional withholding adjustments.

6.9.2. Withholding Allowances and Exemptions. Resident aliens may claim the full number of withholding allowances to which they would be entitled if they were U.S. citizens. Generally, nonresident aliens may claim one withholding allowance on the W-4. Nonresident aliens who are residents of Canada, Mexico, or South Korea, or a student/business apprentice from India, or a U.S. National may be able to claim additional withholding allowances. See IRS Publication 519, U.S. Tax Guide for Aliens, for additional information. In general, federal income taxes on the wages of nonresident alien employees must be withheld. See IRS Publication 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities, for exemptions to wage withholding.

6.9.3. Payment of Taxes and Tax Return. Federal income and Social Security/Medicare taxes withheld for resident and nonresident aliens covered in this chapter will be included with the total tax deposit payment and reported on the 941.

6.10 Lump-Sum Leave Payment Refunds From Reemployed Individuals (040610)

6.10.1. General. When a separated employee who received a lump-sum payment for annual leave is reemployed in federal service prior to the end of the period covered by the lump-sum payment, the employee must refund an amount equal to the pay covering the period between the date of reemployment and the expiration of the lump-sum period. See 5 U.S.C. § 6306. Refer to Chapter 8 regarding procedures on corrections of overpayments and underpayments.

6.10.2. Refunded Payments. See Chapter 8 regarding pay corrections and tax reporting on refunded lump sum leave payments.

6.11 Advance Earned Income Credit (EIC) (040611)

7.0 STATE INCOME TAX WITHHOLDING (SITW) (0407)

7.1 Withholding Authority (040701)

The withholding of state and territorial income taxes from the compensation of federal employees is allowed if an agreement has been entered into between the Secretary of the Treasury and the proper official of the state or territory. See 5 U.S.C. § 5517. Agreements exist between the Secretary of the Treasury and many of the states for withholding income tax from the compensation of federal employees whose regular place of employment is within the state. See Treasury Financial Manual (TFM), Volume 1, Part 6, Chapter 5000, Appendix 2 for a list of states with existing agreements. If there is no existing agreement between a state and the Secretary of Treasury, then the employee may elect to have discretionary withholding for a state.

7.1.1. Wages Subject to State Withholding. Wages and salaries subject to federal income tax withholding are generally subject to state withholding. Cost-of-living allowances paid to employees in Hawaii are included as taxable income. Severance pay paid in accordance with 5 U.S.C. § 5595 is included; however, state income tax should not be withheld from severance pay paid to the survivor of a deceased employee.

7.1.2. Withholding Requirements. When a state statute provides for the collection of a tax by the employer, withholding is required for any DoD employee who is subject to the tax and whose regular place of federal employment is within the state (if the state has entered into an agreement). Generally, the employee’s official duty station is where the employee reports regularly to perform services. For an employee whose duties are performed at a place other than his or her official duty station, the regular place of federal employment is the place where the employee actually and normally performs their duties.

7.1.3. Withholding Certificate. The DoD requires employees to complete a withholding certificate as the basis to properly withhold state taxes. The certificate should specify if the employee is subject to the tax, the employee’s residence and regular place of employment, exemptions, allowances (if applicable). This certificate remains in effect until the employee submits a new certificate. If an employee does not furnish a withholding certificate for a designated state, the maximum amount applicable to the employee’s annual compensation is withheld.

7.1.4. Methods for Withholding. The amount of state, city, or county income or employment tax withheld from the compensation of an employee or member of the armed forces must, at a minimum, approximate the tax required to be withheld. Withholding may be accomplished based on one of the following methods:

7.1.4.1. Applicable tax withholding rate(s) specified in the state, city, or county instructions;

7.1.4.2. Any other percentage or formula method; or

7.1.4.3. A calculated, fixed amount to be deducted each pay period from the compensation of the employee.
7.1.5. Reciprocal Agreements. The state requirements for withholding income tax may be modified by reciprocal agreements between states. The effect of reciprocal agreements generally is to relieve nonresident employees of their tax liability to the state in which they are employed. Reciprocal agreements also relieve the employer of the duty to withhold such taxes. To comply with Treasury-state withholding agreements, agencies must conform to the withholding provisions of reciprocal agreements. If an employee is subject to withholding in more than one state, use separate deduction codes to identify tax remittance for each state.

7.1.5.1. Employees usually are subject to withholding for the state in which their duty station is located. The employee’s SF 50 shows the duty location. The duty station also governs withholding for employees in continual travel status. For an employee who performs duties at a place other than the official duty station, the place where the employee regularly performs his or her duties is considered the regular place of employment for state tax withholding purposes.

7.1.5.2. Reciprocal agreements between states may affect automatic withholding according to the duty station. In all disputed cases, the PRO will:

7.1.5.2.1. Withhold tax; and

7.1.5.2.2. Advise the employee to negotiate the tax liability directly with the proper taxing authority.

7.1.6. Nonresident Employees

7.1.6.1. Some states permit nonresident employees to certify their compensation is not subject to that state's income tax. When the agreement or state law contains such a provision, the employee's signed statement is accepted as justification to discontinue withholding of state income tax. The statement is filed with the employee's W-4.

7.1.6.2. Nonresident employees, who under the state income tax law are required to allocate at least three-fourths of their compensation to the state, are subject to withholding on their entire compensation. Nonresident employees, who under the state income tax law are required to allocate less than three-fourths of their compensation to the state, may elect to:

7.1.6.2.1. Have state income tax withheld on their entire compensation; or 7.1.6.2.2. Have no state income tax withheld on their compensation (31 CFR 215.10(a)).

7.1.7. State Income Tax Discretionary Deductions

7.1.7.1. When a state provides for discretionary allotment withholdings, the PROs will withhold state taxes only for those employees who have a legal obligation to pay and who elect such withholding. This applies whether or not the Treasury has a withholding agreement with the state.
7.1.7.1. Employees must request the allotment on a proper withholding certificate.

7.1.7.1.2. Employee tenure does not affect the allotment.

7.1.7.2. Employees located in foreign areas must assume the responsibility for determining the need for state and local taxes. However, before submitting a request, an employee must be advised to:

7.1.7.2.1. Obtain assistance from the employing activity legal staff available to him or her; or

7.1.7.2.2. Contact the appropriate state or local income tax office as to the applicability of withholding taxes while on an overseas assignment. Preferably, this should be completed prior to an employee's departure from the continental United States (CONUS). If the employee determines a withholding liability applies, then the PROs will honor the request.

7.1.7.3. The PRO must comply with the agreement, regulations, and instructions of the state concerned.

7.1.7.3.1. The PRO will base the allotment amount on either:

7.1.7.3.1.1. The amount (in whole dollars) set by an employee; or 7.1.7.3.1.2. The withholding certificate filed by an employee and the state withholding tables or formulas.

7.1.7.3.2. The PRO will pay withheld state income taxes to each state concerned as prescribed for that state.

7.1.8. State Exemption Certificates. Employees are subject to mandatory withholding under Treasury-state withholding agreements. However, an employee may claim exemption from withholding under certain conditions. The PROs must:

7.1.8.1. Require the use of state-furnished tax exemption certificates, if available; and

7.1.8.2. Give the designated official of the taxing state the following information (on request) about employees claiming exemption;

7.1.8.2.1. Name,

7.1.8.2.2. SSN, and

7.1.8.2.3. The basis for the claimed exemption.
7.1.9. Military Spouses Residency Relief Act (MSRRA)

7.1.9.1. The MSRRA (PL 111-97), enacted November 11, 2009 (50 U.S.C. § 571), allows for an employee, who is also a spouse of a military service member, to claim an exemption from state withholding on wages because:

7.1.9.1.1. The employee’s spouse is a member of the Armed Forces assigned to duty in the state of the employee’s employment in compliance with military orders;

7.1.9.1.2. The employee is present in the state of employment solely to be with the employee’s military spouse; and

7.1.9.1.3. The employee maintains a residence or domicile in another state.

7.1.9.2. Under the MSRRA, employees must establish that they have a residence or domicile in a state other than the state of employment. An employee who is a military spouse is still liable for income taxes imposed by his or her state of legal residence or domicile. Once an employee establishes that he or she has a residence or domicile in a state other than the state of employment, the employee may claim an exemption from state tax in the state of employment.

7.2 PRO Responsibilities (040702)

The PRO will send copies of the W-2 to states that have negotiated agreements with the Secretary of the Treasury with respect to employees who are subject to mandatory state withholding, or who may elect withholding under a state law. See the TFM, Volume 1, Part 6, Chapter 5000, Withholding of District of Columbia, State, City, and County Income or Employment Taxes.

7.2.1. Accounting for Withheld Taxes

7.2.1.1. Employee Pay Records. The PRO will record the amounts withheld each pay period on an employee's pay record when a special payment occurs; otherwise, the system will automatically update an employee's records.

7.2.1.2. Deposit Accounts. The PRO will:

7.2.1.2.1. Compute the total of withheld state taxes; and

7.2.1.2.2. Deposit the total amount for withheld state income taxes in accordance with Treasury’s Federal Account Symbols and Titles (FAST) Book II. Credit the appropriate deposit account regardless of the employing activity of the employee.
7.2.1.3. Error Corrections. The PRO should correct a clerical error made in the prior pay period to the current calendar year if the employee is still on the payroll. If the error resulted in the under-deduction of taxes, the PRO must follow due process procedures to collect the taxes paid on behalf of the employee. If the error resulted in the over-deduction of withheld taxes, the PRO must refund the amount of the over-deduction to the employee on the next regular payroll cycle. The PRO will not make any adjustment if:

7.2.1.3.1. The employee is no longer on the payroll; or 7.2.1.3.2. The error was in a prior calendar year.

7.2.1.4. Paying Out Withheld Taxes

7.2.1.4.1. Frequency. The PROs will comply with the state's current tax law, whether payment is required biweekly, monthly, or quarterly. The PROs will not make payments more often than required under state tax law.

7.2.1.4.2. Payment Identification. The disbursing officer will issue checks based on an approved voucher prepared by the PRO. The PRO must prepare required tax payment documents.

7.2.1.5. Balancing State Wage and Tax Information. The PRO will balance the amounts reported on the W-2 to each state with year-to-date control totals for state taxes withheld and state taxable wages. These amounts must balance before the W-2s are distributed to employees and forwarded to the states.

7.2.1.6. Collection of Delinquent Taxes. The collection of a tax levy from a state or local government is authorized by 5 CFR Part 582. The DFAS Cleveland (DFAS-CL/L) has been designated as the agent to accept legal process for DoD civilian employees for state or local tax levies. Send all state income tax liens to the following address:

DFAS-CL/L
Attention: OGC
P.O. Box 998002

7.2.1.7. Notice to Employees. The DoD Components should advise their employees that information returns will be sent to state and other taxing authorities of the employee's place of employment (and, in some cases, place of residence) where such authorities have requested the information. Only information properly releasable under The Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. § 552a) or the applicable notice of routine use may be released.
7.2.2. Recordkeeping

7.2.2.1. The PROs must retain the following records of state tax deductions:

7.2.2.1.1. EIN assigned by the state;

7.2.2.1.2. Amounts and dates of all payments and wages subject to state tax withholding;

7.2.2.1.3. Names, addresses, and Social Security Numbers (SSNs) of employees; and 7.2.2.1.4. Dates and amounts of tax deposits made.

7.2.2.2. The HROs will retain the following:

7.2.2.2.1. The employee's state withholding allowance certificate, which will be kept until superseded or canceled; and 7.2.2.2.2. Dates of employment.

7.2.3. Official State and Territory Codes and Abbreviations. The official abbreviations and codes for the United States (including D.C.) are listed in Table 4-3. The official abbreviations for U.S. possessions and territories are listed in Table 4-4. No other abbreviations or codes may be used.

7.3 Guam or the Commonwealth of Northern Mariana Islands Federal Income Taxes (040703)

The total amount of federal income taxes withheld from employee salaries creditable to Guam or the Commonwealth of Northern Mariana Islands must be certified and submitted each calendar quarter to the IRS. The certifications must include the employer identification number, the quarter covered by the certifications, and the dollar amount withheld. The submission may contain one certification, but amounts attributable to Guam and the Commonwealth of Northern Mariana Islands must be reported separately. Refer to the IRS Publication 80, (Circular SS), Federal Tax Guide for Employers in the U.S. Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands.
8.0 CITY AND LOCAL INCOME TAX WITHHOLDING (0408)

8.1 Withholding Authority (040801)

Withholding of city, county, or employment tax from compensation of federal employees who are subject to tax and whose regular place of federal employment is within the city or county which has entered into a proper agreement with the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized by 5 U.S.C. § 5520. Withholding is also required if the employee is a resident of the city or county. Each DoD employee must complete a withholding certificate for city or local taxes as a basis for proper withholding. An out-of-state employee's consent to have city or local taxes withheld is also required when applicable.

8.1.1 Treasury Agreements. An agreement must be reached between the Secretary of the Treasury and the applicable city, county, or local taxing authority before withholding is required. See TFM, Volume 1, Part 6, Chapter 5000. The agreement provides for mandatory withholding of income or employment tax from the compensation of federal employees whose regular place of employment is within the city or county or who are residents of the city or county. Generally, this is where employees report for work. In the case of employees who perform their services other than where they report, the regular place of employment is where the employee regularly performs his or her services.

8.1.2 Wages Subject to City and County Withholding. The PROs must apply policies and follow procedures as prescribed for each state in the determination of employee wages subject to mandatory city and county withholding.

8.1.2.1 Basic Wages. All wages and salaries subject to federal income tax withholding are normally subject to city and county withholding. Severance pay paid to an employee is generally included. However, when paid to the survivor of a deceased employee, exclude severance pay.

8.1.2.2 Mandatory Withholding

8.1.2.2.1 The PRO must withhold tax from wages of federal employees who reside in cities or counties that have entered into withholding agreements.

8.1.2.2.2 The PRO must withhold tax from the wages of federal employees whose regular place of federal employment is within a city or county where they are subject to tax. If employees reside in a state other than the state in which the city or county is located, then they are exempt from mandatory withholding.

8.1.2.2.3 The federal employee's regular place of employment usually is the employee's official duty station that is on the SF 50. If an employee actually performs service at a location other than the official duty station, that alternate location becomes the regular place of employment.
8.1.2.2.4. Many local ordinances tax only wages for services performed within the city or county; in most cases, this applies only to nonresident employees. Employees eligible to exclude part of their annual income under such provisions must submit a withholding certificate that specifies the amount or percentage. The PRO must reduce withholding accordingly. If the employee does not file a certificate, the PRO must withhold tax based on the employee’s total compensation. The PROs must not make an adjustment in withholding if employees perform less than 25 percent of their services outside the city or county.

8.1.3. Withholding Certificates

8.1.3.1. Employees must submit withholding certificates and provide all the information needed to deduct city or county income taxes. If employees do not provide a certificate, then the PRO must withhold tax at the highest level that applies to their annual wages. However, the PRO must not withhold any tax from wages of out-of-state employees until they present a form consenting to withholding.

8.1.3.2. Employing activities may use a withholding or exemption certificate furnished by a city or county only if it contains all required information. If the form does not contain all needed information, then employing activities may use Treasury’s Fiscal Service (FS) Form 7311, Employee Withholding Certificate for Local Taxes. See TFM, Volume 1, Part 6, Chapter 5000.

8.1.3.3. Agencies may provide copies of completed withholding forms to the city or county when requested by the taxing authority for which the tax was withheld.

8.1.4. Discretionary Withholding of City or Local Tax

8.1.4.1. Nonresident Employees. An employee who does not reside in the state in which the city or county (place of employment) is located is exempt from mandatory withholding; however, the PRO may withhold tax with the employee's consent. The employee must submit a withholding certificate.

8.1.4.2. Allotment for Discretionary Deduction. Employees have the option of making discretionary allotments for the payroll deduction of taxes of their city or county of residence if employed outside that location. The fact that taxes are withheld for the city or county of employment does not affect the employee's discretionary allotment.

8.1.4.2.1. An employee may make a discretionary allotment for withholding even though the city or county does not have a withholding agreement.

8.1.4.2.2. The PRO must set the allotment amount on the city or county withholding method or deduct a whole dollar amount set by the employee. The employee must submit a proper withholding certificate.
8.1.4.3. Accounting for Discretionary Withholding. The PRO must account for discretionary tax deductions as prescribed for mandatory withholdings.

8.1.4.4. Methods for Withholding. The PRO must withhold tax based on one of the following methods:

8.1.4.4.1. The proper city or county tax withholding rate set in the city or county instructions;

8.1.4.4.2. The prescribed percentage or formula method; or 8.1.4.4.3. Computation of a set amount to be deducted from the employee's pay each pay period.

8.1.4.5. Minimum Withholding. The PRO must deduct an amount, at a minimum, nearly equal to the tax required by the city or county.

8.2 PRO Responsibilities (040802)

The PRO must record amounts withheld each pay period in the employee’s pay record when a special payment occurs. Otherwise, the system will automatically update an employee’s record.

8.2.1. Deposits. The PRO must:

8.2.1.1. Compute withheld city (or county) income tax below state or territorial tax and the total amount withheld each pay period; and

8.2.1.2. Credit the withheld tax into the appropriate deposit fund account for city and county tax.

8.2.2. Correcting Errors. The PROs must apply the same instructions applicable to the withholding of state taxes.

8.2.3. Paying Out Withheld Taxes. The PROs must apply instructions for state tax.

8.3 Recordkeeping (040803)

8.3.1. The PROs must keep all records of city or county income tax deductions. Records should include the following:

8.3.1.1. EIN assigned by the city or county;

8.3.1.2. Amounts and dates of all wages subject to city or county tax withholding;

8.3.1.3. Names, addresses, and SSN of employees;
8.3.1.4. Dates and amounts of city or county tax paid; and 8.3.1.5. Copies of all returns filed.

8.3.2. The employing activity must retain withholding authorization certificates for city tax deductions for each employee until superseded or canceled.

* From 1994 to 2011, the Medicare tax is 1.45% with no limit on the maximum amount of taxable wages for Medicare. Beginning in 2013, the employee’s portion of the Medicare tax is increased by an additional 0.9% (a total of 2.35%) for wages in excess of $200,000.

 For 2011, the employee’s portion of the Social Security tax is 4.2%. The employer’s portion of the Social Security tax in 2011 remains 6.2% for the employee's first $106,800 of taxable earnings. In addition to the Social Security tax, an employee is subject to a Medicare tax of 1.45%, with no limit on the maximum amount of taxable wages for Medicare. The employer must pay a Medicare tax of 1.45% and the combined Medicare tax for 2011 remains at 2.9% on all employee earnings.

 For 2012, the employee’s portion of the Social Security tax remained at 4.2%.

* For 2013, the employee’s portion of the Social Security tax is 6.2%.

1.0 GENERAL (0501)

1.1 Purpose (050101)

The Office of Personnel Management (OPM) provides government-wide information on Federal leave policies and programs. Each Federal agency is responsible for administering leave policies and programs for its employees. The purpose of this chapter is to provide information on leave policies specific to DoD employees as they apply to the various types of leave, including annual leave, sick leave, leave sharing, leave under the Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA), leave options for child birth/placement, and time off for special circumstances, such as weather and safety leave, disabled veteran leave, or court leave. The type, amount, and nature of leave benefits are dependent on the type and length of employment, military status, and other eligibility requirements.

1.2 Authoritative Guidance (050102)

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with OPM’s Pay and Leave; Title 5, United States Code (U.S.C.), Chapter 63, 5 U.S.C. Chapter 63; Title 5, Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), Part 630 5 CFR Part 630; and the DoD Instruction (DoDI) 1400.25-V630. Due to the subject matter in the chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each section are listed in a reference section at the end of this chapter.

2.0 GENERAL REQUIREMENTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES (0502)

2.1 Objectives (050201)

Civilian Payroll Offices (PRO) and payroll systems areas are responsible for meeting the following objectives:

2.1.1. Maintaining leave records and balances for each employee as provided in paragraph 2.3,

2.1.2. Recording accrued and accumulated leave. Accrued leave is leave earned by an employee during the current leave year that is unused at any given time in that year. Accumulated leave means unused leave remaining to the credit of an employee at the beginning of the leave year,

2.1.3. Reporting all leave taken, and

2.1.3. Reporting accurate data on leave use and accruals in order to simplify the collection of leave related debts and preparation of financial reports.
2.2 Maintaining Leave Records (050202)

A leave record must be maintained for each employee in order to show:

2.2.1. Rate of accrual for each type of leave,

2.2.2. Hours or days accrued and type of leave used,

2.2.3. Hours or days of leave advanced by leave type, and

2.2.4. Leave balances.

2.3 Rate of Leave Accrual (050203)

2.3.1. Leave Year. The leave year begins on the first day of the first full biweekly pay period in a calendar year. A leave year ends on the day immediately before the first day of the first full biweekly pay period in the following calendar year (or first complete pay period in the following calendar year). See the leave years for 2012 through 2030 at the OPM Fact Sheet, Leave Year Beginning and Ending Dates.

2.3.2. System Requirements for Accurate Leave Records. To ensure proper accrual rates, the civilian payroll system must contain accurate information on the type of appointment for each employee and the types of leave hours or days to which the employee is entitled. Leave earned for each type of leave using the correct rates effective for the proper times must be accurately recorded.

2.3.3. Reductions in Leave Credits. Reductions in the leave balances are made at the beginning of each leave year for any accumulated leave that exceeds statutory limits. Reductions in leave credits must be made in accordance with 5 CFR 630.208.

2.3.4. Reductions Resulting in a Debit. When a reduction in leave credits results in a debit to an employee's annual leave account at the end of a leave year, the agency must:

2.3.4.1. Carry the debit forward as a charge against the annual leave to be earned by the employee in the next leave year; or

2.3.4.2. Require the employee to refund the amount paid him for the period covering the excess leave that resulted in the debit.

2.3.5. Recording Leave Credits and Usage. Annual and sick leave earned for each pay period must be posted to the employee’s leave record. The leave record must also reflect all leave used during the same pay period.

2.3.6. Prorating the Accrual of Leave. When an employee's service is interrupted by a non-leave-earning period, leave is earned on a pro rata basis for the portion of the pay period that the employee is in a pay status. See 5 CFR 630.204. See Table 5-1 for proration of leave.
2.4 Approval (050204)

To support the time and attendance record, employees must request approval of leave. The employee’s supervisor, or other designated official, should approve leave before the leave is taken. If the leave cannot be approved in advance due to an unusual or emergency situation, it should be reviewed for approval or disapproval as soon as possible after the leave is taken. See General Accounting Office (GAO)-03-352G, Maintaining Effective Control over Employee Time and Attendance Reporting. Supervisors designated to approve leave must document leave used in writing. Documentation for leave used must show the dates, times, and types of leave taken.

2.5 Minimum Charge (050205)

Heads of DoD Components and their designees have the authority to establish minimum charges for leave as outlined in the DoDI 1400.25-V630. The minimum charge for leave will be 1 hour unless an agency determines a need to establish a minimum charge for leave of less than 1 hour or establishes a different minimal charge through negotiations. In any case, the agency may not charge for leave in increments of less than 6 minutes. See 5 CFR 630.206.

3.0 ANNUAL LEAVE (0503)

3.1 General (050301)

Annual leave is an approved leave of absence from duty with pay for personal, emergency, or other reasons. An employee may use annual leave for vacations, rest and relaxation, and personal business or emergencies. Annual leave may be used for pregnancy, childbirth and recovery, bonding with or caring for a baby, or for other childcare responsibilities. An employee has a right to take annual leave, subject to the right of the supervisor to schedule the time at which annual leave may be taken. An employee will receive a lump-sum payment for accumulated and accrued annual leave when he or she separates from Federal service. An employee may also elect to have a lump-sum payment at the time they enter on active duty in the Armed Forces. See OPM’s Handbook, Leave and Workplace Flexibilities for Childbirth, Adoption, and Foster Care, and 5 CFR 630, subpart C.

3.1.1. Creditable Service for Annual Leave Accrual. When a new employee is hired, the hiring agency establishes a Service Computation Date (SCD) at the time of the appointment. The SCD is used to determine the rate that the employee accrues annual leave (4, 6, or 8 hours per pay period for most employees). See subparagraph 3.2.2, 5 CFR 630.205, and OPM’s Creditable Service for Leave Accrual.

3.1.2. Charging Annual Leave Accrued During the Same Pay Period. To ensure the proper documentation of leave, any annual leave earned should be posted in a pay period to the employee’s record before charging the leave taken during the same pay period.
3.1.3. Substituting Annual Leave for Sick Leave. If requested by an employee (and approved by a supervisor), any absence that is otherwise chargeable to sick leave may be charged to annual leave. Retroactively substituting annual leave for sick leave is not authorized except to liquidate advanced sick leave indebtedness. The substitution of annual leave for sick leave may not be made retroactively for the purpose of avoiding a forfeiture of annual leave at the end of the leave year.

3.1.4. Scheduling of Annual Leave. Employees and their supervisors are mutually responsible for planning and scheduling the use of employees' annual leave throughout the leave year. Employees should request annual leave in a timely manner, and supervisors should provide timely responses to employees' requests.

3.2 Annual Leave Accrual (050302)

3.2.1. General. Most employees earn leave based on their work schedule, status, and time in service. Paragraph 3.2 does not apply to employees who are Senior Executive Service (SES), Senior Level (SL)/Scientific or Professional (ST) employees. See paragraph 3.3 for leave accrual for SES, SL/ST employees.

3.2.2. Eligibility for Annual Leave. Generally, most employees are eligible to take authorized absences from work using accrued annual leave, subject to the following requirements:

3.2.2.1. Uncommon Tour of Duty.

3.2.2.1.1. General. Full-time, part-time, temporary, and employees on uncommon tours of duty are eligible to accrue annual leave. Employees with an uncommon tour of duty accrue leave directly proportional (based on the number of hours in the biweekly tour of duty and the accrual rate of the corresponding leave category) to the standard leave accrual rates for employees who accrue and use leave on the basis of an 80-hour biweekly tour of duty. When an employee is converted to a different tour of duty for leave purposes, his or her leave balances must be converted to the proper number of hours based on the proportion of hours in the new tour of duty compared to the former tour of duty. See 5 CFR 630.210(b).

3.2.2.1.2. Formula. The following formula is used to arrive at the maximum hour accumulation for a newly assigned standby employee who has a 30-day maximum accumulation. Multiply 240 times the number of hours in the standby workweek then divide the result by 40. Using this formula, the maximum accumulation for an employee with a 72-hour standby workweek would be 432 hours. For an employee with a 56-hour standby workweek, the maximum accumulation would be 336 hours. See citation to the Federal Personnel Manual Supplement 990-2, Book 630, paragraph S2-6 (reference (k)) at 59 Federal Register 248, December 28, 1994.
3.2.2.2. Temporary Employees. Temporary employees with an appointment of less than 90 days are entitled to accrue annual leave only after being employed for a 90-day continuous period under successive appointments with no break in service. After completing the 90-day period of continuous employment, the employee is entitled to be credited with the leave that would have accrued during that period.

3.2.2.3. Intermittent and Seasonal Employees. Employees without an established scheduled tour of duty during the administrative workweek are not eligible to accrue annual leave. See 5 CFR 340, subpart D.

3.2.3. Accrual Rates. Employees must be employed for the full pay period to accrue leave for that pay period. An employee is considered to be employed for a full pay period if they are employed during the days falling within that period, exclusive of holidays and non-workdays established by Federal statute, Executive Order, or administrative order. See 5 U.S.C § 6302(b). The amount of annual leave earned is based on the length of Federal service, including creditable military service or service credit for prior non-Federal service under 5 U.S.C. § 6303(e) and 5 CFR 630.205. Leave for full-time employees is earned as follows (see Table 5-1):

3.2.3.1. Full-time employees with less than 3 years of service earn 4 hours of annual leave per pay period or a total of 13 days per year.

3.2.3.2. Full-time employees with over 3 years, but less than 15 years of service, earn 6 hours per pay period or a total of 20 days per year. These employees earn an additional 4 hours in the last full pay period of the calendar year.

3.2.3.3. Full-time employees with 15 or more years of service earn 8 hours per pay period or a total of 26 days per year.

3.2.4. Nonpay Status and Annual Leave Accrual. The accumulation of nonpay status hours during the leave year may affect the accrual of annual leave. Each time the number of hours in a nonpay status in a full-time employee’s leave year equals the number of base pay hours in a pay period, the civilian payroll system reduces leave credits by the amount of leave the employee earned during the pay period. When an employee’s accumulated nonpay hours do not require a reduction of leave credits, the civilian payroll system drops the nonpay hours at the end of the employee’s leave year. Annual leave does not accrue for employees who are in a nonpay status and who are receiving compensation from the Office of Workers’ Compensation Program (OWCP). Therefore, for such employees, no reduction in leave credits is required. See 5 CFR 630.208.

3.2.5. Part-Time Employee Annual Leave Accrual

3.2.5.1. Under 5 CFR 630.303, part-time employees with regularly scheduled tours of duty earn annual leave on a pro rata basis for the time they are in a pay status. Leave is earned as follows:

3.2.5.1.1. Part-time employees with less than 3 years of service earn 1 hour of annual leave for each 20 hours in a pay status.
3.2.5.1.2. Part-time employees with 3 years but less than 15 years of service earn 1 hour of annual leave for each 13 hours in a pay status.

3.2.5.1.3. Part-time employees with 15 or more years of service earn 1 hour of annual leave for each 10 hours in a pay status.

3.2.5.2. Hours in a pay status that exceed the activity’s basic work hours in a pay period (normally 80 hours) are disregarded when computing the leave earnings for part-time employees. See 5 CFR 630.202(b).

3.2.5.3. Part-time employees may carry forward from one pay period to the next those excess hours that are not evenly divisible by 10, 13, or 20 hours; as applicable, these hours must be added to the next pay period work hours for leave accrual.

3.2.5.4. Part-time employees who work concurrently in two part-time Federal positions may earn annual leave on the same pro rata basis for the hours worked in each part-time position. Only the leave earned in the given part-time position may be used for absences from that position.

3.2.6. Uncommon Tours of Duty and Annual Leave Accrual. An uncommon tour of duty means an established tour of duty that exceeds 80 hours of work in a pay period. See 5 CFR 630.201. Employees working uncommon tours of duty accrue leave in direct proportion to the standard leave rates for employees who accrue and use leave based on an 80-hour biweekly tour of duty. See 5 CFR 630.210(a). See the Application of the Directionally Proportional Table in DoDI 1400.25-V630 to determine the appropriate amount of leave to credit an employee working an uncommon tour of duty. For employees on uncommon tours of duty, 1 hour of leave is charged for each hour of absence from the uncommon tour of duty.

3.3 Annual Leave Accrual Rates for SES, SL/ST, or Defense Intelligence Senior Level (DISL) Employees (050303)

3.3.1. General. Section 202(b) of the Federal Workforce Flexibility Act of 2004, effective October 30, 2004, provides a higher annual leave accrual rate of 1 full day (8 hours) per pay period, without regard to the length of service with the Federal Government. This act affects members of the SES (5 U.S.C. § 5383), SL and ST positions (5 U.S.C. § 5376), and DISL employees (10 U.S.C. § 1607(a)), hereinafter SES members. See 5 U.S.C. § 6303(f) and 5 CFR 630.301.

3.3.2. OPM Approval of Additional Categories of Employees. The head of an agency may request that OPM authorize an annual leave accrual rate of one full day (8 hours) for each pay period for additional categories of employees covered by 5 U.S.C. § 6301. The positions must be determined by OPM to be equivalent to positions subject to the pay systems under 5 U.S.C. § 5383 or 5376. Such requests must include an explanation of the rationale for considering the affected pay system to be equivalent to the SES member pay system. See 5 CFR 630.301(b). Once OPM approves an agency’s request to cover additional categories of employees, the higher annual leave accrual rate will become effective for the pay period that OPM approves the agency’s request.
Agencies must credit annual leave at the 8-hour accrual rate for affected employees employed for the full pay period.

3.3.3. SES Members Who Change Positions

3.3.3.1. Revising Accrual Rates. SES members who move to a position not covered by the higher annual leave accrual rate will no longer be entitled to the higher rate. Upon movement to a non-covered position, an SES member’s annual leave accrual rate must be determined based on his or her years of creditable service, as provided in 5 U.S.C. § 6303(a) and 5 CFR 630.301(d).

3.3.3.2. Crediting Accumulated Annual Leave. An SES member moving from a position not covered by the higher annual leave accrual rate to a new position that is covered by the higher accrual rate retains any annual leave accumulated prior to the move and the leave remains to the employee’s credit. See 5 CFR 630.301(f).

3.3.3.2.1. Forfeited Leave. Annual leave accumulated before an employee moves to a position covered by the higher annual leave accrual rate that exceeds the amount allowed under 5 U.S.C. § 6304(a) or (b), and that is not used by the beginning of the first full pay period in the next leave year, is subject to forfeiture under 5 U.S.C. § 6304(c).

3.3.3.2.2. Special Circumstances. If an employee serves less than a full pay period in a position covered by the higher annual leave accrual rate, then the annual leave accrued for that portion of the pay period will be subject to the 720 hour (90 day) limitation on accumulation of annual leave. Annual leave accrued during the remainder of the pay period that the employee was not covered by the higher annual leave accrual rate is subject to the limitations under 5 U.S.C. § 6304(a), (b), and (c), as appropriate.

3.3.4. Presidential Appointees. Executive Schedule employees appointed by the President do not accrue leave, and therefore, an absence from work is not charged as leave. See 5 U.S.C. § 6301(2)(x) and 5 CFR 630.211.

3.3.4.1. Lump-Sum Payments of Accrued Annual Leave for Presidential Appointees. A current Federal employee who receives a Presidential appointment is not entitled to a lump-sum payment for his or her unused annual leave. See 5 CFR 550.1203(e) and Chapter 3. Maintain the unused annual leave credit on the employee’s record in the event the employee is reemployed in a position covered by the Federal leave system. However, if the employee separates from Federal service while under a Presidential appointment, the employee will receive a lump-sum payment for unused annual leave based on the rate of pay in effect for the position the employee held immediately before the employee accepted the appointment. See 5 U.S.C. § 5551(b).

3.3.4.2. Exceptions for Certain SES Career Appointees. An SES career appointee appointed at a rate of basic pay equal to or greater than the rate payable for Level V of the Executive Schedule may elect to retain certain SES benefits, including annual and sick leave accrual, upon accepting the Presidential appointment. If the appointee elects to continue their leave benefits, then the liquidation of leave by lump-sum payment would not apply. See 5 U.S.C. § 3392(c), 5 CFR 550.1203(e), and 5 CFR 317.801.
3.4 Advanced Annual Leave (050304)

3.4.1. General. Under 5 U.S.C. § 6302(d), annual leave may be advanced to an employee in the amount not to exceed the total amount the employee would accrue within the leave year. A supervisor must have reasonable assurance the employee will be in a duty status long enough to earn the advanced leave. Leave must not be advanced to an employee when it is known or expected that the employee will not return to duty, such as when the employee has applied for disability retirement. Annual leave should be advanced to the maximum extent practicable for purposes related to pregnancy and childbirth.

3.4.2. Refunding Advanced Annual Leave

3.4.2.1. General. Advanced leave is liquidated with any subsequently earned annual leave. An employee who separates from Federal service must refund the amount of the advanced leave, or the agency may deduct the amount from any pay due the employee. See 5 CFR 630.209(a).

3.4.2.2. Exceptions. An employee who dies or retires for a disability is not required to refund the amount of advanced leave due. An employee who has been determined by the employing office as having separated or resigned because of a disability is not required to refund the amount of advanced leave. However, medical evidence may be required by the employing office in order to determine if the disability prevents his or her return to duty or continued service. See 5 CFR 630.209(b).

3.4.2.3. Military Service. An employee who enters active military service with a right to restoration is not considered separated and is not required to refund the advanced annual leave when entering military service. The employee must liquidate the advanced annual leave after the employee returns to duty or refund the advanced leave if the employee is separated from Federal service. See 5 CFR 630.209(a).

3.4.2.4. Transfers to Another Federal Agency. If an employee has been indebted for advanced annual leave and transfers to another Federal agency without a break in service, the losing agency must certify the annual leave account to the new agency for charge. An employee is not required to refund the advanced annual leave in order to achieve a zero balance before the time of transfer. In such cases, a negative annual leave balance will transfer with the employee to the employee’s new agency. See 5 CFR 630.501 and the OPM Fact Sheet, Advanced Annual Leave.

*3.5 Annual Leave Ceilings (050305)

3.5.1. General. Under 5 U.S.C. § 6304, Federal employees are subject to a limit, or annual leave ceiling, on the maximum amount of annual leave that may be carried forward into the next leave year. Most employees may carry 240 hours (30 days) of annual leave from one year to the next. See 5 CFR 630.302.

3.5.2. “Use or Lose” Annual Leave. “Use or lose” annual leave is the amount of leave in excess of the employee’s annual leave ceiling. The employee forfeits excess leave not used by the final day of the leave year. Forfeited annual leave may be restored under certain circumstances. See paragraph 050306. “Use or lose” annual leave must be scheduled in writing before the start of the third pay period prior to the end of the leave year. The employee forfeits any annual leave not scheduled by that date and not used by the final day of the leave year.

3.5.3. Thirty-Day Annual Leave Ceiling for Federal Employees Stationed Within the United States. The maximum carried forward from one leave year to another is usually 240 hours (30 days). See paragraph 3.6 regarding annual leave carryover for DoD employees who are employed at installations that are facing planned base closures. See 5 U.S.C. § 6304.

3.5.4. Forty-Five Day Annual Leave Ceiling for Federal Employees Assigned Outside of the Continental United States (OCONUS).

3.5.4.1. Forty-Five Day Limit and Effective Date. Employees stationed OCONUS, who meet the conditions for eligibility established by 5 U.S.C. § 6304(b) and 5 CFR 630.302, may carry forward a maximum of 360 hours (45 days). For an OCONUS employee working an uncommon tour of duty, the maximum carryover hours will be in proportion to 360 hours (45 days). See subparagraph 3.2.2.1.2 (to compute the proportional amount, substitute 360 hours for 240 hours within the formula). The effective date that an employee becomes subject to 5 U.S.C. § 6304(b) is the:

3.5.4.1.1. Date of entry on duty when employed locally,

3.5.4.1.2. Date of arrival at a post of regular assignment for duty, or

3.5.4.1.3. Date on which the employee begins to perform duty in an area OCONUS when the employee is required to perform duty en route to his post of regular assignment for duty.

3.5.4.2. Returning From OCONUS Assignment. Employees returning from an OCONUS assignment may carry forward the balance of leave to their credit at the end of the pay period, including the date the employee departs for reassignment (not to exceed 360 hours). If detailed to another OCONUS assignment, the date they cease to perform duty at the detailed post is considered the date of departure for reassignment. Annual leave in excess of 240 hours that was accumulated under 5 U.S.C. § 6304(b), by an employee who becomes subject to the 240-hour maximum carry forward, remains to the credit of the employee until used. Excess annual leave at the beginning of the first full pay period occurring in a leave year is reduced by the amount of annual leave the employee used during the preceding year that is in excess of the amount that accrued during that year. This process continues until the employee’s accumulated leave does not exceed 240 hours.

3.5.5. Annual Leave Ceiling for Part-Time Employees. Part-time employees may not carry forward more than 240 hours of annual leave if serving in the United States or 360 hours of annual leave if serving OCONUS. See 5 CFR 630.304.
3.5.6. Ninety-Day Annual Leave Ceiling for SES Members

3.5.6.1. General. Under 5 U.S.C. § 6304(f), the annual leave ceiling for SES members is 720 hours (90 days). Unused annual leave accrued by SES members must accumulate for use in subsequent years until the leave totals not more than 720 hours at the beginning of the first full pay period, or corresponding period for an employee whose pay is not based on a pay period, occurring in a calendar year. See 5 CFR 630.301(e).

3.5.6.2. Personal Leave Ceiling for SES Members. There is a 90-day (720-hour) maximum limitation on the amount of annual leave that an SES member may carry forward from one leave year to the next. The 720-hour limit became effective October 13, 1994, under Public Law 103-56. Prior to this date, there was no limit. Effective October 13, 1994, any SES member who had accumulated annual leave that exceeded 720 hours was permitted to carry the balance forward as a personal leave ceiling. See 5 CFR 630.301(h).

3.5.6.2.1. The amount of annual leave credited to an SES member’s personal leave ceiling will be based on the amount of annual leave accumulated by the employee as of the end of the pay period preceding the first applicable pay period beginning after October 13, 1994.

3.5.6.2.2. Annual leave accrued is prorated for any pay period during which only a portion the employee served under an appointment to the SES.

3.5.6.2.3. The personal leave ceiling is reduced by the number of hours used in excess of the number of hours earned during the previous year.

3.5.6.2.4. When the personal leave ceiling falls below 720 hours, the personal ceiling is eliminated, and the SES member becomes subject to the regular 720-hour limit. See 5 CFR 630.301(h).

3.5.6.3. Changing Positions

3.5.6.3.1. Partial Pay Periods. If an employee serves less than a full pay period in an SES appointment, only that portion of accrued annual leave that is earned while serving in that position must be subject to the 720-hour limitation. Annual leave accrued during the remainder of the pay period is subject to the limitations in 5 U.S.C. § 6304(a), (b), and (c), as appropriate. See 5 CFR 630.301(f)(2).

3.5.6.3.2. Moving to an SES Appointment. If an employee moves from a non-SES appointment to an SES appointment, any annual leave accumulated in the non-SES position that exceeds the amount allowed for that position under 5 U.S.C. § 6304(a), (b), and (c) that is not used by the beginning of the first full pay period in the next leave year is subject to forfeiture. See 5 U.S.C. § 6304(c) and 5 CFR 630.301(f)(1). Although an employee serving in an SES position may not accumulate credit hours, credit hours earned in a prior non-SES appointment may remain in the employee’s account for use.
3.5.6.3.3. Moving From an SES Appointment. When the SES member moves to a non-SES position, any annual leave accumulated while serving in the SES position that is in excess of the amount allowed for the non-SES position under 5 U.S.C. § 6304(a), (b), and (c) remains to the employee's credit. Any excess annual leave must be subject to reduction as described under 5 U.S.C. § 6304(c) and 5 CFR 630.301(g).

3.5.7. Annual Leave Ceilings for Employees Who Have Converted From an Uncommon Tour of Duty. When an employee on an uncommon tour of duty moves to a position under a common tour of duty, any annual leave which was accumulated while under the uncommon tour of duty and which is in excess of the limits applicable to a position under a common tour of duty, shall become the employee's individual leave ceiling for purposes of carryover into succeeding leave years. This individual ceiling is applicable until the employee carries a smaller accumulation of annual leave to a succeeding leave year, at which time this smaller accumulation or 30 days (240 hours), whichever is greater, becomes the employee's new leave ceiling. See 5 U.S.C. § 6308.

* 3.5.8. Higher Annual Leave Carryover Limit Under Section 1111 of the National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA) for Fiscal Year (FY) 2021. Section 1111 of the 2021 NDAA gives discretion to the Director of OPM to establish a higher annual leave carryover limit at the beginning of the 2021 leave year for an Executive Branch employee not classified in the rank of SES or the equivalent thereof. The higher annual leave carryover is equal to 125 percent of the otherwise applicable leave carryover ceiling. This higher leave ceiling applies to annual leave that would otherwise be forfeited and not restored under the normal annual leave carryover limit provisions in 5 U.S.C. § 6304(c) and (d). An employee must use this excess leave before using any other annual leave available (e.g., annual leave accrued in a past leave year, annual leave accrued during leave year 2021, and/or advanced annual leave). The excess annual leave cannot be included in any lump sum leave payment and cannot be donated under a leave transfer program. Any excess annual leave credited under section 1111 that is not taken in leave year 2021 must be forfeited at the beginning of leave year 2022. See OPM Higher Annual Leave Carryover Limit under Section 1111 of the NDAA for FY 2021.

*3.6 Restoring Forfeited Annual Leave (050306)

* 3.6.1. General. Agencies may restore annual leave that was forfeited due to being in excess of the maximum leave ceilings (e.g., 30, 45, or 90 days) if the leave was forfeited because of administrative error, exigency of the public business, sickness of the employee, or a national emergency.

3.6.1.1. The agency makes the determination as to what constitutes an administrative error.

3.6.1.2. Exigency of the public business means there is an urgent need for the employee to be at work such that excess annual leave cannot be used. An employee’s use of earned compensatory time off or credit hours does not constitute an exigency of the public business. If the use of earned compensatory time off or credit hours that are about to expire results in the forfeiture of excess annual leave, the forfeited leave may not be restored.
3.6.1.3. An employee’s sickness or injury must occur late in the leave year or be of such duration that it prevented the scheduling of the excess annual leave before the end of the leave year. See the OPM Fact Sheet, Restoration of Annual Leave.

* 3.6.1.4. Employees, who are determined by the head of their agency to be performing services that are essential in responding to a national emergency, as determined by the Director of OPM, are entitled to have their excess annual leave restored as if it had been scheduled in advance. See 5 CFR 630.610.

3.6.2. Requirements for Restoring Annual Leave. One of the following requirements must be met before consideration for restoration of forfeited leave:

3.6.2.1. An agency may consider for restoration annual leave that was forfeited due to an exigency of the public business or sickness of the employee only if the annual leave was scheduled in writing before the start of the third pay period prior to the end of the leave year; and

3.6.2.2. If restoration is based on exigency of the public business, the responsibility for determining that a need is of such importance that it prevents the use of annual leave subject to forfeiture should be delegated to the lowest practical level. Those who approve exigencies are responsible for establishing termination dates for the exigencies. See 5 CFR 630.305, 5 CFR 630.306(a)(2), and the DoDI 1400.25-V630.

3.6.3. Time Limit for Using Restored Annual Leave

3.6.3.1. General. Under 5 CFR 630.306, and except as otherwise authorized by regulation, annual leave restored under 5 U.S.C. § 6304(d) must be scheduled and used not later than the end of the leave year ending 2 years after:

3.6.3.1.1. The date of restoration of the annual leave forfeited because of administrative error,

3.6.3.1.2. The date fixed by the agency head, or his or her designated official, as the termination date of the exigency of the public business that resulted in forfeiture of the annual leave, or

3.6.3.1.3. The date the employee is determined to be recovered and able to return to duty if the leave is forfeited because of sickness or injury.

3.6.3.2. Time Limits for Employees on Uncommon Tours of Duty. For an employee on an uncommon tour of duty, the conversion rules in 5 CFR 630.210(d) regarding the referenced number of hours for full-time employees (416 hours and 208 hours) must be applied under 5 CFR 610.310(d)(1).

3.6.3.3. Time Limits for SES Members. To avoid forfeiture of restored leave, the time limit established under 5 CFR 630.306 must be met. The time limit is not changed when the employee receives an SES appointment.
3.6.3.4. Extended Exigency of the Public Business. For an extended exigency of the public business, the time-period for use of restored leave is 2 years for each calendar year, or part thereof, during which the exigency existed. This time-period starts at the beginning of the leave year following the leave year in which the exigency is declared to be ended. Under 5 CFR 630.309, an extended exigency is one that threatens the national security, safety, or welfare; lasts more than 3 calendar-years; affects a segment of an agency or occupational class; and precludes subsequent use of both restored and accrued annual leave within the time limit specified in 5 CFR 630.306.

3.6.4. Separate Leave Account for Restored Annual Leave. The payroll system must maintain separate restored leave accounts for each calendar year. The servicing HRO identifies the reason for restoration as well as the category of leave being restored. The servicing HRO then provides the information to the CSR in writing. Credit restored annual leave to a separate leave account identifying the date of restoration, the date of forfeiture, the amount credited for use, the amount of usage, and the unused balance. Restored annual leave is not included in, and does not increase, the maximum annual leave carryover for an employee. See 5 U.S.C. § 6304(d)(2).

3.6.5. Time and Attendance Reports. Timekeeping instructions in Chapter 2 specify the method used to identify the leave account to be charged.

3.6.6. Forfeiture of Restored Annual Leave. If restored leave is unused by the employee at the expiration of the time limitation, the leave is forfeited with no further right to restoration. This is the case even if the employee’s failure to use the leave was due to an agency error. Administrative error may not serve as the basis to extend the time limit in which to use the restored leave. Administrative error includes failing to establish a separate leave account, failing to fix the date for the expiration of the time limit, or failing to properly advise the employee regarding the rules for using the restored annual leave.

3.6.7. Lump-Sum Payment. Upon separation, the servicing PRO will pay employees entitled to lump-sum payment for their unused restored annual leave, excluding forfeited leave. If the leave is forfeited because of an administrative error, the employee must file a claim within 3 years of the discovery of the administrative error leading to the forfeiture. See 5 U.S.C. § 6304(e). Employees entering active duty in the Armed Forces may elect to have leave remain to their credit until their return from active duty. See 5 U.S.C. § 5552 and Chapter 3, section 7.0.

3.6.8. Restored Annual Leave Resulting From Correction of Unjustified or Unwarranted Personnel Action Under the Back Pay Act. Annual leave that is restored to an employee resulting from the correction of an unjustified or unwarranted personnel action in excess of the maximum leave accumulation authorized by law must be credited to a separate leave account for use by the employee. See 5 CFR 550.805(g). The restored leave, also referred to as reinstated leave, must be scheduled and used as provided in subparagraphs 3.6.8.1 and 3.6.8.2. Any unused restored leave, also referred to as reinstated leave, will be forfeited if not used or included in a lump sum payment within the prescribed timeframe. See 5 U.S.C. § 5596(b)(1)(B). The restored leave must be scheduled and used as follows:

3.6.8.1. Full-Time Employees. Excess annual leave of 416 hours or less must be scheduled and used by the end of the leave year ending 2 years after the date on which the leave is credited to the separate account. This period is extended by 1 leave-year for each additional 208 hours of excess annual leave or any portion thereof. See Table 5-2.

3.6.8.2 Part-Time Employees. These employees must schedule and use excess annual leave in an amount equal to or less than 20 percent of the employee’s scheduled tour of duty over a period of 52 calendar weeks by the end of the leave year ending 2 years after the date that the annual leave credits to the separate account. This period is extended by one leave year for each additional number of hours of excess annual leave, or any portion thereof, equal to 10 percent of the scheduled tour of duty over a period of 52 calendar weeks. See Table 5-2.

3.6.9. Base Realignment and Closure (BRAC) Restored Leave. In accordance with 5 U.S.C. § 6304(d)(3), employees assigned to DoD activities designated by the BRAC Commission for closure or realignment, deemed to create an exigency of the public business, are entitled to have forfeited annual leave restored. Leave in excess of the statutory maximum (normally 240 hours) will be restored and placed in a separate leave account. There is no requirement for an employee to use restored leave prior to using other available annual leave. Lump-sum payment of annual leave in a BRAC restored leave account is required under certain situations. Under 5 U.S.C. § 5551(c), lump-sum payments are made to eligible DoD employees upon their being assigned to a position in any other Federal agency or department outside the DoD, or to any DoD position at an installation that is not being closed or realigned. If it is determined that the required lump-sum payment was not processed at the time of transfer, then see DoDI 1400.25-V1705 for additional information on liquidating leave and computing any interest due.

3.7 Lump-Sum Payments of Annual Leave Upon Retirement or Separation (050307)

Lump-sum payments for unused annual leave are generally payable when an employee separates from Federal service, dies, or transfers to a position under a different leave system. Employees who enter active duty in the Armed Forces are entitled to elect to have their leave remain to their credit until they return from active duty. See 5 U.S.C. § 5551, 5 U.S.C. § 5552, and 5 U.S.C. § 6306; and 5 CFR 550, subpart L. For details on requirements regarding lump-sum payments for accumulated and accrued annual leave, see Chapter 3.

4.0 SICK LEAVE (0504)

4.1 General (050401)

4.1.1. Expanded Family and Medical Leave Policies. The Federal Employees Family Friendly Leave Act, October 22, 1994, expanded the use of accrued sick leave for family care or bereavement purposes. See subparagraph 4.4.2. In addition, employees may be entitled to unpaid leave under FMLA to care for a family member or covered Service member. See section 5.0. There is no certain order for using various family friendly leave policies. See Table 5-3 for information on leave flexibilities available to care for a family member or a covered Service member. See section 6.0 for information on leave flexibilities for childbirth, adoption, and foster care.

4.1.2. Substituting Sick Leave for Annual Leave. Employees may substitute sick leave for annual leave if they become ill during a period of annual leave. See 5 CFR 630.406.

4.1.3. Charging Sick Leave. Earned sick leave is posted to an employee’s record each pay period before any sick leave taken in that period is charged against the employee’s sick leave balance.

4.2 Sick Leave Accrual (050402)

4.2.1. General. Full-time employees earn 4 hours of sick leave for each full pay period. Other employees accrue sick leave at different rates as follows:

4.2.1.1. Uncommon Tours of Duty. Employees working uncommon tours of duty accrue leave in direct proportion to the standard leave rates for employees who accrue leave based on an 80-hour biweekly tour of duty. See 5 CFR 630.210(a). To determine the appropriate amount of sick leave to credit an employee working an uncommon tour of duty, see the Application of the Directionally Proportional Table in DoDI 1400.25-V630. For example, employees on uncommon tours of duty accrue 7 hours and 12 minutes of sick leave per pay period for a 72-hour workweek and 5 hours and 36 minutes of sick leave per pay period for a 56-hour workweek.

4.2.1.2. Part-Time Employees. Part-time employees earn 1 hour of sick leave for each 20 hours in a pay status. Part-time employees may not earn more than 4 hours of sick leave for 80 hours in a pay status during any pay period.

4.2.1.3. Other Employees. SES members and SL/ST employees earn sick leave at the same rate as non-SES employees. Employees without a regularly scheduled tour of duty do not earn sick leave.

4.2.2. Nonpay Status and Sick Leave Accrual. The accumulation of nonpay status hours during the leave year may affect the accrual of sick leave. Each time the number of hours in a nonpay status in a full-time employee’s leave year equals the number of base pay hours in a pay period, the civilian payroll system reduces the employee’s credits for sick leave by an amount equal to the amount of sick leave the employee earns during the pay period. When the employee’s accumulated nonpay hours do not require a reduction of leave credits, the civilian payroll system drops the nonpay hours at the end of the employee’s leave year. An employee in a nonpay status due to receiving compensation from the OWCP, or in a nonpay status due to absence while in Uniformed Service, does not accrue sick leave and a reduction in leave credits is not required. See 5 CFR 630.208.

4.2.3. Limitation on Sick Leave Accrual. An employee may accumulate an unlimited amount of sick leave. See 5 U.S.C. § 6307.
4.2.4. Presidential Appointees. Executive Schedule employees appointed by the President do not accrue leave. See 5 U.S.C. § 6301(2)(x) and 5 CFR 630.211. When an employee moves to an appointment under the Executive Schedule, the employee’s sick leave balance is certified on a Standard Form (SF) 1150, Record of Leave Data. The SF 1150 is sent to the servicing Human Resources Office (HRO) for retention in the Official Personnel Folder in the event the employee is reemployed in a leave accruing position or separated from the Executive Schedule position. SES Members appointed at a rate of basic pay equal to or greater than the rate payable for Level V of the Executive Schedule may elect to retain certain SES benefits, including annual and sick leave accrual. See 5 CFR 317.801.

4.3 Recrediting Sick Leave After Transfer or Break in Service (050403)

4.3.1. Transferring Employees. When an employee transfers to a different Federal agency using the same leave system under 5 U.S.C., Chapter 63, the losing agency must certify the employee’s sick leave account to the gaining agency for credit or charge. If the employee is transferred to an agency operating under a different leave system, see 5 U.S.C. § 6308 and 5 CFR 630.502.

4.3.2. Recredit After a Break in Service. Prior to 1994, regulations provided that an employee was entitled to a recredit of sick leave only if he or she was reemployed in another Federal position within 3 years after separation. On December 2, 1994, the 3-year break in service limitation on the recredit of sick leave for former employees was removed for those who were reemployed on or after December 2, 1994. Sick leave may not be recredited to employees who were reemployed in the Federal service before December 2, 1994, and who previously forfeited sick leave under the former rule. Therefore, under 5 CFR 630.502, an employee who has a break in service and returns to work for the Federal Government on or after December 2, 1994 is entitled to the recredit of sick leave, regardless of the length of the break in service, unless:

4.3.2.1. The employee was reemployed in the Federal Government before December 2, 1994 and the employee forfeited the sick leave under the previous regulation; or 4.3.2.2. For reemployed annuitants, the sick leave was used in the computation of an annuity for the employee. See 5 CFR 630.407.

4.4 Authorized Uses for Sick Leave (050404)

4.4.1. Granting Sick Leave. Pursuant to 5 CFR 630.401, an agency must grant sick leave to an employee when the employee:

4.4.1.1. Is unable to perform duties because of physical or mental illness, injury, pregnancy, or childbirth;

4.4.1.2. Is receiving medical, dental, or optical examination or treatment;

4.4.1.3. Must provide care for a family member:
4.4.1.3.1. Who is incapacitated by a medical or mental condition, or attends to a family member receiving medical, dental, or optical examination or treatment;

4.4.1.3.2. With a serious health condition; or

4.4.1.3.3. Who would jeopardize the health of others by that family member’s presence in the community because of exposure to a communicable disease (as determined by the health authorities having jurisdiction or by a health care provider);

4.4.1.3.4. Must make arrangements due to a death in the family or attend the funeral of a family member;

4.4.1.3.5. Would jeopardize the health of others by his or her presence on the job because of exposure to a communicable disease; or 4.4.1.3.6. Must be absent from duty for purposes relating to the adoption of a child.

4.4.2. Using Accrued Sick Leave to Care for Family Members

4.4.2.1. General. An employee is entitled to use accrued sick leave to care for a family member. A family member includes spouse, parents, parents-in-law, children, siblings, grandparents, and other family members as defined under 5 CFR 630.201. An employee may be requested to document their relationship with the family member. An employee must request advanced approval for sick leave, to the extent possible, for caring for a family member, making arrangements necessitated by the death of a family member, attending the funeral of a family member, or for absence related to the adoption of a child. See 5 CFR 630.404. In addition to using paid sick leave to care for a family member, an employee may be entitled to unpaid leave under the FMLA. See Table 5-3.

4.4.2.2. Limits Per Year

4.4.2.2.1 General Care of Family Member and/or Bereavement. A covered full-time employee may use a total of up to 104 hours (13 days) of accrued sick leave each year for general family care or for bereavement. For part-time employees and employees with an uncommon tour of duty, the amount of sick leave permitted for family care and bereavement purposes is the number of hours of sick leave the employee normally accrues during the leave year. See 5 CFR 630.401(b).

4.4.2.2.2. Care of a Family Member With a Serious Health Condition. Most Federal employees may use a total of up to 480 hours (12 administrative workweeks) of accrued sick leave each leave year to care for a family member with a serious health condition. A serious health condition includes cancer, stroke, severe injuries, Alzheimer’s disease, pregnancy, and other conditions as defined under 5 CFR 630.1202. An employee is entitled to a total of 12 weeks of sick leave each year for all family care purposes. See 5 CFR 630.401(c) and (d).
4.4.2.2.1. For a part-time employee or an employee with an uncommon tour of duty, the amount of sick leave is equal to 12 times the average number of hours in the employee’s scheduled tour of duty each week.

4.4.2.2.2. For an employee who has previously used any portion of the 13 days of sick leave for family care or bereavement purposes in a leave year, that amount is subtracted from the 12-week entitlement.

4.4.2.2.3. For an employee who has already used 12 weeks of sick leave to care for a family member with a serious health condition, the employee cannot use an additional 13 days in the same leave year for general family care purposes.

4.4.3. Sick Leave for Adoption. An employee may use accrued sick leave for purposes related to the adoption of a child including appointments with adoption agencies, social workers, attorneys, court proceedings, required travel, and any other activities necessary to allow the adoption to proceed. This includes the time the employee is ordered by a court, or required by the adoption agency, to take time off from work to care for the child. There is no limit on the amount of sick leave that may be used for adoption-related purposes. The sick leave for adoption-related purposes does not count toward the 104-hour limit of sick leave for family care and bereavement purposes, or the overall limit of 12 weeks of sick leave for all family care purposes. The agency may advance up to 240 hours (30 days) of sick leave for adoption-related purposes. See 5 CFR 630.401 and section 5.0 regarding FMLA leave for adoption-related purposes.

4.4.4. Sick Leave for Exposure to a Communicable Disease. An employee is authorized to use accrued sick leave if health authorities or a health care provider determines that the employee's presence on the job would jeopardize the health of others because of exposure to a communicable disease. An employee may also use sick leave to care for a family member who has been similarly exposed. The agency determination as to what constitutes a communicable disease is based on guidance issued by the Center for Disease Control (CDC). The Secretary of Health and Human Services publishes a list of communicable diseases for which Federal isolation and quarantine are authorized. The communicable diseases currently listed include, but are not limited to cholera, diphtheria, infectious tuberculosis, plague, smallpox, Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome and influenza viruses that cause or have the potential to cause a pandemic. The current list of communicable diseases is available on the CDC website for use in the authorization of this type of sick leave. See 5 CFR 630.401.

4.5 Advanced Sick Leave (050405)

4.5.1. General. In cases of serious disability or illness, employees may be advanced sick leave. Before granting advanced sick leave, the approving authority must consider whether the employee expects to return to duty, the need for the employee’s services, and the benefits to the agency of retaining the employee. Advanced sick leave is not available to an employee when it is known, or reasonably expected, that the employee will not return to duty. For example, advanced sick leave is not appropriate if the employee has applied for disability retirement. Advanced sick leave may be granted regardless of an employee’s annual leave balance. Employees should submit requests in writing for advanced sick leave to the approving official. Employees must liquidate the advanced sick leave indebtedness as discussed in subparagraph 4.5.3. See 5 CFR 630.402.

4.5.2. Limitations. The maximum amount of advanced sick leave a full-time employee may have to their credit at any one time is 240 hours (30 days). Prorate the amount of advanced sick leave for part-time employees and employees on uncommon tours of duty based on the number of hours in the employee’s biweekly work schedule. An agency may grant advanced sick leave in the amount of:

4.5.2.1. Up to 240 hours (30 days) to a full-time employee for the following reasons pursuant to 5 CFR 630.402(a)(1):

4.5.2.1.1. The employee is unable to perform work duties due to incapacitation by physical or mental illness, injury, pregnancy, or childbirth;

4.5.2.1.2. The employee or a family member has a serious health condition;

4.5.2.1.3. The employee’s presence on the job would jeopardize the health of others by his or her presence on the job because of exposure to a communicable disease;

4.5.2.1.4. The employee adopts a child; or

4.5.2.1.5. The employee cares for a covered Service member with a serious injury or illness, provided the employee is exercising his or her entitlement to FMLA leave to care for the covered Service member; or

4.5.2.2. Up to 104 hours (13 days) to a full-time employee for the following reasons (5 CFR 630.402(a)(2)):

4.5.2.2.1. To receive medical, dental, or optical examinations or treatment;

4.5.2.2.2. To provide care for a family member incapacitated by a medical or mental condition, or to attend to a family member receiving medical, dental, or optical examination or treatment;

4.5.2.2.3. To provide care for a family member who would jeopardize the health of others by their presence in the community because of exposure to a communicable disease; or

4.5.2.2.4. To make arrangements necessitated by the death of a family member or attend the funeral of a family member.

4.5.3. Liquidating Advanced Sick Leave Indebtedness

4.5.3.1. General. Advanced sick leave indebtedness is liquidated by subsequently earned sick leave, by charges against annual leave, or by a refund upon separation. An employee who is a participant in the agency’s Voluntary Leave Transfer Program (VLTP) or Voluntary Leave Bank Program (VLBP) may liquidate the advanced sick leave by substituting donated annual leave for sick leave that was advanced on or after the date of the medical emergency. See 5 CFR 630.906. The agency may also allow an employee to refund advanced sick leave in cash, at the pay rate in effect at the time the employee used the advanced sick leave.

4.5.3.2. Transferring Employees. If an employee with a debt for advanced sick leave transfers to another Federal agency without a break in service, the losing agency must certify the employee’s sick leave account to the receiving agency for charge. An employee is not required to refund the advanced sick leave in order to achieve a zero balance before transfer. A negative sick leave balance transfers to the gaining agency. See Chapter 9, section 3.0 for instructions on preparing the SF 1150 to transfer sick leave balances.

4.5.3.3. Separated Employees. If an employee indebted for advanced sick leave separates from Federal service, the employee must refund the amount of advanced sick leave, or the agency may deduct the amount from any pay due the employee upon separation. If the employee dies, retires for disability, or separates or resigns because of disability as determined by the agency, the repayment requirement does not apply. An employee who enters active military service with a right of restoration is not considered separated for refund purposes, and advanced sick leave should be liquidated either after the employee returns to duty or is separated from Federal service. See 5 CFR 630.209.

4.6 Unused Sick Leave Upon Separation (050406)

Employees are not paid for unused sick leave upon separation. Unused sick leave is used in the calculation of an employee or survivor's annuity based on retirement with an immediate annuity or a death in service. The unused sick leave balance upon retirement or death is annotated in the remarks column of the SF 2806, Service History on the Civil Service Retirement System (CSRS) Individual Retirement Record, or the SF 3100, Federal Employees Retirement System Individual Retirement Record. See 5 CFR 630.209. Sick leave used in the computation of an annuity is charged against an employee’s sick leave account and may not thereafter be used, transferred, or reccredited. See 5 U.S.C. § 8415(l)(2), 5 U.S.C. § 8339(m), and 5 CFR 630.407.

*4.7 Emergency Paid Sick Leave (050407)

Division E of the Families First Coronavirus (COVID-19) Response Act (FFCRA), PL 116-127 provided up to two weeks (up to 80 hours) of emergency paid sick leave to all Federal civil service employees in specified circumstances related to COVID-19 unless they were in an exempted category for the period of April 1, 2020 through December 31, 2020. This paid sick leave was in addition to any other paid leave entitlements. Depending on the circumstances, the sick leave was paid at the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) based regular rate of pay for an employee or two-thirds of that rate (subject to statutory limitations on daily and aggregate cash value of paid leave). The ability to take emergency paid sick leave expired on December 31, 2020. See the OPM Fact Sheet: Federal Employee Coverage under the Leave Provisions of the FFCRA and FFCRA: Employer Paid Leave Requirements.
5.0 FMLA (0505)

*5.1 General (050501)

FMLA provides eligible Federal employees with up to 12 administrative workweeks of leave without pay (LWOP) during any 12-month period for family and medical needs. See 5 U.S.C. §§ 6381-6387 and 5 CFR 630, subpart L (Note: OPM is responsible for the regulations for Title II of the FMLA that govern Federal employees. The Department of Labor (DOL) is responsible for regulations under Title I of the FMLA for the non-Federal sector). For definitions pertaining to FMLA, see 5 U.S.C. § 6381 and 5 CFR 630.1202.

5.1.1 Entitlement. A total of up to 12 administrative workweeks of unpaid leave, or 26 administrative workweeks if the leave is to care for a covered Service member, are available during any 12-month period. The 12-month period begins when FMLA leave is first used and ends 12 months later. An employee may elect to substitute annual leave, sick leave, educator leave, or leave made available to the employee under VLTP or VLBP for LWOP. See 5 CFR 630.1205. The normal leave year limitations on the use of sick leave to care for a family member still apply, except when substituting sick leave to care for a covered Service member.

* 5.1.2 Eligibility.

5.1.2.1 Prior to January 1, 2021. To qualify for FMLA leave, an employee must have completed at least 12 months of Federal service. See 5 CFR 630.1201(b). FMLA leave is available to full and part-time employees; however, temporary employees serving under an appointment of 1 year or less and employees without a regularly scheduled tour of duty are not entitled to FMLA leave.

* 5.1.2.2 Effective January 1, 2021. With the enactment of the FY 2021 NDAA, the FMLA law was amended requiring that an employee complete at least 12 months of service as an employee as defined in 5 U.S.C. § 2105. Thus, all types of civilian Federal service (including employment on a temporary or intermittent basis) are now qualifying for purposes of applying the FMLA eligibility requirement for 12 months of qualifying service. Those currently employed on a temporary or intermittent basis remain ineligible to use FMLA leave. The change does not affect the FMLA leave eligibility rule applicable during periods of time before January 1, 2021. However, this change does mean that some employees with Federal service previously treated as non-qualifying may become immediately eligible for FMLA leave on January 1, 2021, which could also trigger immediate eligibility for paid parental leave (substituted for qualifying FMLA leave) for otherwise eligible employees who had a child born or placed on or after October 1, 2020. See Technical Amendments Related FMLA and Paid Parental Leave under Section 1103 of the NDAA for FY 2021 and paragraph 5.3 regarding paid parental leave.

* 5.1.2.3 Calculating the FMLA Entitlement. FMLA leave is available in direct proportion to the number of hours in the employee’s regularly scheduled administrative workweek. The 12 administrative workweeks of FMLA is calculated on an hourly basis, which equals 12 times the average number of hours in the regularly scheduled administrative workweek. For example, an 80-hour full-time employee will have 480 hours available for FMLA leave (40 hours per week x 12 weeks = 480 hours). If the employee’s administrative workweek varies from week to week, a weekly average of the hours scheduled over the 12 administrative workweeks prior to the date FMLA leave begins is used for the calculation. Holidays and non-workdays that occur during the period that the employee is on FMLA do not count toward the 12 administrative workweek entitlement. See 5 U.S.C. § 6382 and 5 CFR 630.1203.

5.1.2.4. Regular FMLA Leave. Under 5 CFR 630.1203(a), an eligible employee may take 12 workweeks of FMLA leave in a 12-month period for one or more of the following reasons:

5.1.2.4.1. The birth of a child, or to care for the newborn child within 1 year of birth (may not be taken intermittently or on a reduced leave schedule unless the employee and agency agree to do so, see 5 CFR 630.1205(a));

5.1.2.4.2. Placement of a child adopted, or foster care, and to care for the newly placed child within 1 year (may not be taken intermittently or on a reduced leave schedule unless the employee and agency agree to do so, see 5 CFR 630.1205(a));

5.1.2.4.3. Care of a spouse, son, daughter, or parent with a serious health condition (may be taken intermittently or on a reduced leave schedule when medically necessary, see 5 CFR 630.1205(b));

5.1.2.4.4. Serious health condition that makes the employee unable to perform their duties (may be taken intermittently or on a reduced leave schedule when medically necessary, see 5 CFR 630.1205(b)); or

5.1.2.4.5. A qualifying exigency arising out of the fact that the employee’s spouse, son, daughter, or parent is a covered military member on covered active duty (or notified of an impending call or order) in the Armed Forces under 10 U.S.C. § 101. Leave may be taken intermittently. Employees must provide notice as soon as practicable if the need for leave is foreseeable. An employee may be requested to provide certification for the leave as provided under 5 CFR 630.1209. See the OPM Fact Sheet, FMLA Qualifying Exigency Leave. Under 5 CFR 630.1204, qualifying exigencies include:

5.1.2.4.5.1. Addressing issues associated with short-notice deployment,

5.1.2.4.5.2. Attending military events and related activities,

5.1.2.4.5.3. Arranging and attending childcare and school activities,

5.1.2.4.5.4. Making financial and legal arrangements,

5.1.2.4.5.5. Attending counseling,
5.1.2.4.5.6. Spending time with a Service member on rest and recuperation,

5.1.2.4.5.7. Attending post-deployment activities, or

5.1.2.4.5.8. Addressing other events that arise out of the military member’s covered active duty that qualify as exigencies.

5.1.2.5. FMLA Leave to Care for a Covered Service Member. An employee is eligible for 26 workweeks of unpaid leave during a single 12-month period to care for a covered Service member, who is a current member or veteran of the Armed Forces as defined under 5 U.S.C. § 6381, with a serious injury or illness. The covered Service member must be the employee’s spouse, son, daughter, parent, or next of kin. See the OPM guidance in Compensation Policy Memoranda 2010-06, issued March 5, 2010, for additional information regarding the following:

5.1.2.5.1 The injury or illness incurred by the Service member was in the line of duty while on active duty in the Armed Forces.

5.1.2.5.2. During a single 12-month period, an employee is entitled to a combined total of 26 weeks of regular FMLA leave and FMLA leave to care for a covered Service member. For example, if during the 12-month period the employee takes 6 weeks of regular FMLA leave for the birth of a child, the employee would have 20 weeks of FMLA leave to care for a covered Service member.

5.1.2.5.3. Use of FMLA leave to care for a covered Service member in one 12-month period does not limit the use of regular FMLA leave during any other subsequent 12-month period.

5.1.2.5.4. The normal leave year limitations on the use of sick leave to care for a family member do not apply. Specifically, the 480-hour (12 weeks) limitation per leave year on the use of sick leave to care for a family member with a serious health condition does not apply. The employee may substitute accrued sick leave or annual leave for any or all of the 26 workweeks of FMLA leave to care for a covered Service member. See 5 CFR 630.403. An eligible employee may potentially take leave for up to 38 weeks of leave. For example, an employee may take 12 weeks of sick leave to care for a family member with a serious illness in addition to 26 weeks of FMLA leave to care for a covered Service member.

5.1.2.6. Intermittent FMLA Leave or Reduced Leave Schedule. Under certain conditions, FMLA leave may be taken intermittently, or the employee may work under a work schedule that is reduced by the number of hours of leave taken as FMLA leave. See 5 CFR 630.1205.
5.2 Advance Notice of FMLA Leave and Medical Certification (050502)

If FMLA leave is foreseeable, based on an expected birth, placement for adoption or foster care, or planned medical treatment, the employee must provide notice to the agency of his or her intention to take leave not less than 30 calendar days before the date the leave is to begin. However, if the date of birth, placement or planned medical treatment requires leave to begin within 30 calendar days, the employee shall provide such notice as soon as practicable. See 5 CFR 630.1207. An agency may require that a request for leave under certain circumstances be supported by evidence that is administratively acceptable to the agency. See 5 CFR 630.1208.

*5.3 Paid Parental Leave (050503)

* 5.3.1 General. Section 7602(c) of the Federal Employees Paid Leave Act (FEPLA) provides for 12 weeks of paid parental leave within a 12-month timeframe after the birth, adoption, or placement of a child. This benefit is gender neutral and can apply to either parent. If two covered employees are parents of the same newly born or placed child, each employee will have their own separate entitlement. The amendments to 5 U.S.C. § 6382 dealing with paid parental leave are not effective with respect to any birth or placement (for adoption or foster care) occurring before October 1, 2020. Thus, by law, paid parental leave is available to covered employees only in connection with the birth or placement of a child that occurs on or after October 1, 2020. Paid parental leave expires after 12 months and the entitlement to unused leave elapses at that time. There is no reimbursement of unused paid parental leave if the employee separates from the agency. Paid parental leave cannot be used prior to the birth or placement involved. See 5 CFR 630, subpart Q and subparagraph 5.1.2.2.

5.3.2 Entitlement. An employee, who meets eligibility requirements for FMLA, and invokes such, can substitute up to 12 administrative workweeks of paid parental leave for FMLA, dependent upon the amount of time available in their current FMLA entitlement for that period, for each birth or placement event. This entitlement is triggered by the actual occurrence of a birth or placement, which results in the employee having a parental role. Since paid parental leave is substituted for FMLA unpaid leave, therefore, paid parental leave is constrained by the use of FMLA unpaid leave, which is limited to 12 weeks in any 12-month FMLA period. Consequently, if an employee has used FMLA unpaid leave for any reason within the 12-month period of the birth or placement of the child, that amount will be deducted from the 12-week paid parental leave entitlement. See paragraph 5.1, 5 CFR 630.1703, and 5 U.S.C., Chapter 63, subpart V.

5.3.2.1 Uncommon Tour of Duty. For an employee with an uncommon tour of duty, the hours equivalent of 12 administrative workweeks is derived by multiplying 6 times the number of hours in the employee’s biweekly scheduled tour of duty (or 6 times the average hours if the biweekly tour hours vary over an established cycle).

5.3.2.2 Part-Time Employees. For a part-time employee, the hours equivalent of 12 administrative workweeks is derived by multiplying 6 times the number of hours in the employee’s scheduled tour of duty over a biweekly pay period.
5.3.2.3. Seasonal Employees. An employee with a seasonal work schedule may not use paid parental leave during the off-season period designated by the agency, the period during which the employee is scheduled to be released from work and placed in a nonpay status.

5.3.3. Required Documentation. Upon request of the employee's agency, an employee must provide the agency with appropriate documentation that shows the employee's use of paid parental leave being directly connected to a birth or placement that has occurred. Appropriate documentation may include, but is not limited to, a birth certificate or a document from an adoption or foster care agency regarding the placement. An agency may also require that an employee sign a certification attesting that the paid parental leave is being taken in connection with a birth or placement. An agency is responsible for determining what documentation is sufficient proof of entitlement. Failure to provide the required documentation or certification within the specified time-period could result in a determination that the employee is not entitled to paid parental leave. See 5 CFR 630.1703.

5.3.4. Pay During Leave. The pay an employee receives using paid parental leave will be the same as if the employee were using annual leave. The employee is not entitled to receive any Sunday premium pay when using paid parental leave. Paid parental leave is a type of leave that is counted in applying the 8-hour rule in 5 CFR 550.122(b) that determines whether night pay is payable during periods of leave. See 5 CFR 630.1704.

5.3.5. Work Obligation. The employee cannot use paid parental leave unless the employee agrees in writing to continue working for the employing agency for 12-weeks beginning on the first scheduled workday after the paid parental leave ends. Paid parental leave is not authorized unless the employee enters into such an agreement. In the event an employee does not complete the 12-week work obligation, the employee will be required to reimburse the employing agency for any time not served. This amount is equal to the total amount of any government contributions paid by the agency on behalf of the employee to maintain the employee health insurance coverage under the FEHB program during the period of paid parental leave was used. The reimbursement is required unless an exception is granted or if the employee is unable to return to work because of the continuation, recurrence, or onset of a serious health condition (including mental health) of the employee or the child whose birth or placement was the basis for the paid parental leave; or any other circumstances beyond the employee’s control. See 5 CFR 630.1705.

5.3.6. Multiple Births and/or Placements in the Same Time-Period. If an employee has multiple births and/or multiple placements on the same day, those events will be treated as a single event that triggers a single entitlement of up to 12-weeks of paid parental leave during the 12-month period following the event. If an employee has one or more children born or placed within a 12-month period following the date of an earlier birth or placement, each subsequent birth or placement event will be independently administered. See 5 CFR 630.1707.
6.0 LEAVE FLEXIBILITIES FOR CHILDBIRTH, ADOPTION, AND FOSTER CARE (0506)

6.1 General (050601)

6.1.1 A January 15, 2015 Presidential Memorandum, “Modernizing Federal Leave Policies for Childbirth, Adoption and Foster Care to Recruit and Retain Talent and Improve Productivity,” was issued directing all Federal agencies to:

6.1.1.1 Offer 240 hours of advanced sick leave, at the request of an employee and in appropriate circumstances, in connection with the birth or adoption of a child, or for other sick leave eligible uses (see paragraph 4.5); and

6.1.1.2 Offer the maximum amount of advanced annual leave, at the request of an employee, for foster care placement in their home or bonding with a healthy newborn or newly adopted child (see paragraph 3.4).

6.1.2 Agencies have been directed to provide this advanced leave for purposes specified in law and regulation irrespective of existing leave balances.

6.1.3 The FEPLA authorized paid parental leave effective October 1, 2020. The paid parental leave provides for leave flexibility for childbirth, adoption, and foster care. See paragraph 5.3.

6.2 OPM Handbook (050602)

6.2.1 General. OPM has published a Handbook on Leave and Workplace Flexibilities for Childbirth, Adoption, and Foster Care. The handbook contains guidance on the use of advanced sick and annual leave policies as required by the President’s memorandum, and provides information on the various leave entitlements and flexibilities available to assist employees.

6.2.2 Utilization of Leave Flexibilities. The Handbook is divided into three sections; each section addresses the specific circumstance of the employee related to:

6.2.2.1 Pregnancy and childbirth,

6.2.2.2 Adoption and foster care, and

6.2.2.3 Information on the interaction of the various leave programs and workplace flexibilities and how they can be used together.

7.0 BONE MARROW OR ORGAN DONOR LEAVE (0507)

The use of up to 7 days (56 hours) of paid leave in a calendar year, in addition to sick or annual leave, to serve as a bone marrow donor, or up to 30 days (240 hours) of paid leave in a calendar year to serve as an organ donor is authorized under 5 U.S.C. § 6327. The directly proportional rule applies to an employee whose leave is administered on other than an 80-hour pay period. See DoDI 1400.25-V630. An individual having bone marrow removed and stored for their future personal use is not considered a donor and the benefit of 7 days of paid time off does not apply. In such a case, the employee must use sick leave, annual leave, or advanced annual and sick leave.

8.0 FEDERAL LEAVE SHARING PROGRAMS (0508)

The VLTP allows Federal employees to donate annual leave to other employees who have personal or other family medical emergencies and who have exhausted their own leave. Alternatively, the VLBP allows members with medical emergencies to withdraw leave from the bank if they exhaust their own leave. Each agency has established its own method of administering these programs and employees may participate in both programs. Additionally, an Emergency Leave Transfer Program (ELTP) has been established to transfer annual leave from donors to employees in other agencies who are adversely affected by disasters or emergencies.

8.1 VLTP (050801)

In accordance with 5 U.S.C. § 6332 and 5 CFR 630, subpart I, Federal employees may donate unused accrued annual leave directly to a specified employee (leave recipient) who needs leave because of a medical emergency and who has exhausted his or her available paid leave. Medical emergency is defined as a medical condition of an employee or a family member of an employee that is likely to require the employee to be absent from duty for a prolonged period, of at least 24 work hours, and result in a substantial loss of income to the employee because of the unavailability of paid leave. See 5 CFR 630.902.

8.1.1. Leave Donors

8.1.1.1. General. A leave donor is an employee who makes a request to transfer annual leave to the annual leave account of a leave recipient. Leave donors may not contribute to an immediate supervisor. The annual leave donated must be accrued and available at the date of donation.

8.1.1.2. Maximum Donation Amount. Maximum limitations exist for the amount of leave an employee may donate in any one leave year. See 5 CFR 630.908. Each agency shall establish written criteria for waiving the limitations on donating annual leave. In the case of the donor, having annual leave projected which:

8.1.1.2.1. Will not be forfeited at the end of the leave year (i.e., does not have “use or lose”), the maximum amount of annual leave that may be donated is one-half of the amount of annual leave the leave donor would be entitled to accrue during the leave year the donation is made; or

8.1.1.2.2. Will be forfeited at the end of the leave year (i.e., has “use or lose”), the maximum amount of annual leave that may be donated is:
8.1.2.1. The lesser of one-half of the amount of annual leave the donor would be entitled to accrue during the leave year the donation is made, or 8.1.2.2. The number of hours remaining in the leave year, as of the date of the transfer, for which the donor is scheduled to work and receive pay.

8.1.2. Leave Recipients

8.1.2.1. General. A leave recipient is a current employee approved by the employing agency to receive annual leave from the annual leave accounts of one or more leave donors. There is no limit on the amount of donated annual leave a leave recipient may receive.

8.1.2.2. Limits on Use of Donated Leave. A leave recipient may use the donated leave transferred to his or her annual leave account under 5 CFR 630.906 only for the purpose of a medical emergency for which the leave recipient was approved. See 5 CFR 630.909. Substitution of donated leave is permitted for a prior period of LWOP or to liquidate a debt for advanced annual or sick leave. Donated leave may not be included in a lump-sum payment for annual leave. Donated leave may not be recredited to a former employee who returns to Federal service. See 5 CFR 630.906 and 630.909.

8.1.2.3. Requirement to Exhaust Accrued Annual and Sick Leave. Except for leave placed in a separate leave account (set aside leave account), any annual or sick leave accrued or accumulated by the leave recipient and available for the medical emergency must be exhausted before any donated leave may be used. See 5 CFR 630.909. However, this does not apply to a recipient who:

8.1.2.3.1. Sustains a combat-related disability while a member of the Armed Forces, including a reserve component of the Armed Forces; and

8.1.2.3.2. Is undergoing medical treatment for that combat-related disability (see 5 U.S.C. § 6333(b)(2)); or 8.1.2.3.3. Exhausts a total of 12 weeks of sick leave for family care purposes. If an employee applies to receive donated leave for a medical emergency affecting a family member and the employee has already exhausted the 12 weeks of sick leave for family care purposes in that leave year, he or she would not be required to exhaust his or her sick leave balance before being eligible for donated leave.

8.1.2.4. Leave Recipient’s Accrual of Annual and Sick Leave. A leave recipient may earn annual and sick leave while using donated leave, but only up to 40 hours of each type. In the case of a part-time employee or employee with an uncommon tour of duty, the employee may earn up to the average number of hours in the employee’s weekly scheduled tour of duty.

8.1.2.4.1. Set Aside Leave Account. Any accrued annual or sick leave earned by the leave recipient must be placed in a separate leave account, referred to as a set aside leave account. The accrued annual or sick leave in the set aside leave account is available for transfer to the leave recipient’s regular leave account after the leave recipient either exhausts all donated leave or the medical emergency ends. Leave in a set aside leave account is not available for use until transferred to the leave recipient’s regular leave account. See 5 CFR 630.907.

8.1.2.4.2. Intermittent Use of Donated Leave and Accrued Leave. Leave accruals for an employee who uses donated leave intermittently must be prorated between the regular leave account and the set-aside leave account until it reaches the maximum accrual or the medical emergency ends. Accruals are prorated based on the number of hours of donated leave used within the pay period.

8.1.3. Interagency Transfers of Donated Leave. Under 5 CFR 630.906(f), an agency must accept the transfer of annual leave from the leave donors employed by other agencies when any of the following conditions are met:

8.1.3.1. A family member of a leave recipient is employed by another agency and requests the transfer of annual leave to the leave recipient;

8.1.3.2. If, in the judgment of the leave recipient’s employing agency, the amount of annual leave transferred from leave donors employed by the leave recipient’s employing agency may not be sufficient to meet the needs of the leave recipient; or

8.1.3.3. If, in the judgment of the leave recipient’s employing agency, acceptance of leave transferred from another agency would further the purpose of the VLTP.

8.1.4. Restoring Transferred Leave to the Donor. Upon termination of the medical emergency, any unused donated leave must be transferred pro rata back to each donor. See 5 CFR 630.911. The leave is not restored if the leave donor retires, dies, or separates from Federal service before the date the unused transferred annual leave can be restored. If returned to the leave donor’s account, the leave is treated the same as other annual leave and becomes subject to the “use or lose” carryover limitations. Each donor may elect how the leave is to be recredited from the following options:

8.1.4.1. Crediting the donated annual leave to the donor’s annual leave account in the current leave year;

8.1.4.1. Crediting the donated annual leave to the donor’s annual leave account effective as of the first day of the first leave year beginning after the date of election; or 8.1.4.2. Donating it, in whole or part, to another leave recipient.

8.2 VLBP (050802)

Under the VLBP at 5 U.S.C. § 6361 and 5 CFR 630, subpart J, employees may contribute unused accrued annual leave to their agency’s leave bank for use by other leave bank members who are experiencing a personal or family medical emergency and who have exhausted all available paid leave. Each agency may establish a leave bank board to administer the VLBP. See 5 CFR 630.1003. An employee may participate in both the VLTP and the VLBP in the same agency for the same medical emergency if his or her agency has established both programs. See 5 U.S.C. § 6373 and 5 CFR 630.1013.

8.2.1. Leave Bank Members and Minimum Donations. An employee must make an application to become a leave bank member and must contribute a minimum amount of annual leave to the leave bank each year. The minimum donation may not be less than the amount of annual leave the employee normally accrues in a pay period (e.g., 4, 6, or 8 hours). See 5 CFR 630.1004(g) through (i). An employee must make the donation to establish leave bank membership during the annual open enrollment period, or within 30 days of the employee’s appointment to the agency or return from extended absence.

8.2.2. Leave Bank Recipients

8.2.2.1. Application and Approval by Leave Bank Board. A leave bank member, or a personal representative on behalf of the employee, who is affected by a personal or family medical emergency must make a written application to the leave bank board in order to become a leave bank recipient. See 5 CFR 630.1006. The board must find that the leave recipient’s absence from duty without paid leave is expected to be at least 24 work hours for a full-time employee, this leave may be intermittent. A part-time employee or employee with an uncommon tour of duty expects to be absent without available paid leave at least 30 percent of the average number of hours in the employee’s biweekly scheduled tour of duty. See 5 CFR 630.1007.

8.2.2.2. Limits on Use of Leave From the Leave Bank. Donated annual leave withdrawn from the leave bank may be used only for the approved medical emergency. A leave recipient may use donated leave retroactively to substitute for a period of LWOP or to liquidate the advanced annual or sick leave that began on or after the date fixed by the leave bank board at the start of the medical emergency. Donated leave may not be included in a lump-sum payment for annual leave. Donated leave may not be recredited to a former employee who returns to Federal service. See 5 CFR 630.1009.

8.2.2.3. Requirement to Exhaust Accrued Annual and Sick Leave. The leave bank recipient must use any available paid leave, but not leave from a set aside leave account, before using any donated leave. See 5 CFR 630.1009.

8.2.2.4. Leave Bank Recipient’s Accrual of Annual and Sick Leave. A leave bank recipient may earn annual and sick leave while using donated leave, but only up to 40 hours of each type. In the case of a part-time employee or employee with an uncommon tour of duty, the employee may earn up to the average number of hours in the employee’s weekly scheduled tour of duty. See 5 CFR 630.1008.
8.2.2.4.1. Set Aside Leave Account. Any accrued annual or sick leave earned by the leave bank recipient must be placed in a separate leave account, referred to as a set aside leave account. The accrued annual or sick leave in the set aside leave account is available for transfer to the leave recipient’s regular leave account after the leave recipient either exhausts all donated leave or the medical emergency ends. Leave in a set aside leave account is not available for use until transferred to the leave recipient’s regular leave account. See 5 CFR 630.1008.

8.2.2.4.2. Intermittent Use of Donated Leave and Accrued Leave. Leave accruals for an employee who uses donated leave intermittently must be prorated between the regular leave account and the set-aside leave account until the maximum accrual is reached or the medical emergency ends. Accruals are prorated based on the number of hours of donated leave used within the pay period.

8.2.3. Termination of the Medical Emergency. Any unused leave withdrawn from the leave bank and not used before the termination of the leave recipient’s medical emergency must be returned to the leave bank. The medical emergency of the leave recipient terminates when the following occurs:

8.2.3.1. The leave recipient’s Federal service is terminated;

8.2.3.2. The leave recipient leaves the agency or participating organization, unless determined otherwise by the leave bank board;

8.2.3.3. At the end of the pay period in which the leave recipient provides written notice that the medical emergency is over;

8.2.3.4. At the end of the pay period in which the leave bank board determines, after written notice to the leave recipient and opportunity for response, that the medical emergency is over; or 8.2.3.5. At the end of the pay period in which the agency receives notice that the leave recipient has been approved for disability retirement.

8.2.4. Transferring Between Agencies

8.2.4.1. If an employee moves between an agency operating a leave bank to another agency operating a different leave bank, the following procedures apply:

8.2.4.1.1. On the date the employee moves to the new agency, the employee will become subject to the policies and procedures of the new agency’s leave bank.

8.2.4.1.2. The employee’s right to submit an application to become a leave contributor or leave recipient in accordance with the new agency’s policies and procedures of the leave bank must not be restricted by 5 CFR 630.1010(a)(2) or (b).
8.2.4.2. See 5 CFR 630.1015 for similar procedures for transfers between an agency covered by a VLBP and an agency covered by a VLTP.

8.3 ELTP (050803)

8.3.1. Authority. 5 U.S.C. § 6391 and 5 CFR 630, subpart K provide that in the event of a major disaster or emergency, as declared by the President, resulting in severe adverse effects for a substantial number of Federal employees, the President may direct OPM to establish an ELTP. Such disasters or emergencies involve loss of life or property, serious injury, or mental illness because of a direct threat to life or health. Under the ELTP, an employee in an executive agency may donate annual leave for transfer to employees of the employing agency or to employees in other agencies adversely affected by such disaster or emergency.

8.3.2. Establishing ELTP Program. OPM will notify agencies of the establishment of an ELTP for a specific disaster or emergency, as declared by the President. Immediately after a disaster or an emergency, agencies can typically grant excused absence or advanced annual leave or sick leave as appropriate to affected employees. Once notified, each agency affected by the disaster or emergency is authorized to:

8.3.2.1. Determine the amount of donated annual leave needed by affected employees;

8.3.2.2. Approve emergency leave donors and/or emergency leave recipients within the agency, as appropriate;

8.3.2.3. Facilitate the distribution of donated annual leave from approved emergency leave donors to approved emergency leave recipients within the agency; and

8.3.2.4. Determine the period of time that donated annual leave may be accepted for distribution to approved emergency leave recipients.

8.3.3. ELTP Leave Donor. An employee may voluntarily submit a written request to transfer a specified number of hours of their accrued annual leave to the employing agency’s ELTP using OPM Form 1638, Request to Donate Annual Leave Under the ELTP. When choosing to donate, a donor may not contribute less than 1 hour nor more than 104 hours of annual leave in a leave year. Each agency may establish written criteria for waiving the 104-hour limitation per employee for donating annual leave in a leave year. After the initial 1-hour donation, leave may be donated in 15-minute increments. A donor may not donate annual leave for transfer to a specific emergency leave recipient; rather it goes to the ELTP bank. Annual leave donated to an ELTP is not applied against limits on donations of annual leave to a VLBP or VLTP. See 5 CFR 630.1109 and 630.1110.

8.3.4. ELTP Leave Recipient

8.3.4.1. Eligibility. An employee, as defined in 5 U.S.C. § 6331(1), who has been adversely affected by a major disaster or emergency may receive donated leave under the ELTP. An employee who has a family member adversely affected by a disaster or emergency and does not have reasonable access to other forms of assistance may receive donated leave under the ELTP. An employee is considered adversely affected if the disaster or emergency has caused severe hardship to the employee or family member to such a degree that the employee’s absence from work is required. See 5 CFR 630.1105.

8.3.4.2. Limitation on Amount of ELTP Leave Received. The ELTP recipient may receive a maximum of 240 hours of donated annual leave at any one time for each disaster or emergency. See 5 CFR 630.1111 for exceptions.

8.3.4.3. Application and Notification of Approval/Disapproval. An employee, personal representative, or the agency on the employee’s behalf must make a written application to become an ELTP recipient using the OPM Form 1637, Application to Become a Leave Recipient Under the ELTP. Agency written notification of approval or disapproval must be issued to the employee within 10 calendar days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal public holidays) after the receipt of the application (or a date established by the agency if that date is later). If disapproved, the agency must state the reason(s) for the disapproval. If approved, the agency must specify the major disaster or emergency for which the recipient was approved.

8.3.4.4. Leave Recipient’s Accrual of Annual and Sick Leave. An ELTP recipient is not required to exhaust his or her accrued annual or sick leave before receiving donated leave under the ELTP. Annual and sick leave will continue to accrue to the credit of the recipient at the same rate as if the recipient were in a paid leave status.

8.3.4.5. Limitations on Use of ELTP Leave. Donated leave must be used only for the purposes related to the approved disaster or emergency for which the leave recipient was approved. Donated ELTP leave may be substituted retroactively by the recipient for any period of LWOP used because of the adverse effects of the disaster or emergency. ELTP leave may be used to liquidate indebtedness incurred by the ELTP recipient for any advanced annual or sick leave used due to the adverse effects of the disaster or emergency. If the recipient transfers to another agency without a break in service the leave must be transferred. The ELTP leave transferred to a recipient may not be included in a lump-sum payment upon separation or entry into active duty, recredited to a former employee reemployed by a Federal agency, or used to establish eligibility for immediate retirement or to continue health benefits into retirement. See 5 CFR 630.1113 and 630.1114.

8.3.5. Insufficient Agency ELTP Donated Leave. If a Federal agency does not have sufficient donated leave to meet the needs of its approved emergency leave recipients, then the agency must notify OPM. OPM will coordinate a government-wide transfer of annual leave from donating agencies to affected agencies for crediting to their emergency leave recipients. The OPM Form 1639, Transfer of Donated Annual Leave To or From the ELTP, is used for the purpose of donating or receiving annual leave from other agencies. OPM will facilitate the transfer of donated leave to/from agencies. See 5 CFR 630.1112. In addition, an agency’s VLBP under 5 U.S.C., Chapter 63, with the concurrence of the leave bank board, may also donate annual leave to the employing agency’s ELTP or another agency’s ELTP. See 5 CFR 630.1104.
8.3.6. Procedures Upon Termination of Disaster or Emergency

8.3.6.1. Determining Termination of Disaster or Emergency. The disaster or emergency ends when OPM or the agency determines the termination or the recipient’s Federal service terminates. See 5 CFR 630.1116. The emergency terminates at the end of the pay period when:

8.3.6.1.1. The recipient or his or her personal representative notifies the agency that the recipient is no longer affected by the disaster or emergency,

8.3.6.1.2. The agency determines that the emergency leave recipient is no longer affected by such disaster or emergency (see 5 CFR 630.1116(d) for notice requirements), or 8.3.6.1.3. The recipient’s agency receives notice that the OPM has approved an application for disability retirement.

8.3.6.2. Recrediting Donated Leave to Donors and Leave Banks. When a disaster or emergency affecting an emergency leave recipient terminates, any unused ELTP leave must be returned to the emergency leave donors, or to the leave bank if donated by a leave bank. The ELTP administrator will determine the amount of remaining annual leave to be restored to each emergency leave donor who, on the date of the leave restoration, is employed by a Federal agency. The unused ELTP leave returned must be proportional to the amount of annual leave donated by the employee (or leave bank) to the ELTP for such disaster or emergency. Annual leave donated to an ELTP for a specific disaster or emergency may not be transferred to another ELTP established for a different disaster or emergency. An emergency leave donor may request the agency restore unused donated annual leave by crediting the leave to the leave donor’s annual leave account in either the current leave year, or on the first pay period of the following leave year. See 5 CFR 630.1117.

9.0 NON-APPROPRIATED FUND (NAF) TRANSFER OF LEAVE UNDER EMPLOYEE BENEFITS PORTABILITY PROGRAM (0509)

9.1 General (050901)

In accordance with 5 U.S.C. § 5551(a), 5 U.S.C. § 6308(b), and 5 U.S.C. § 6312, an employee who transfers from a NAF position to an appropriated fund (APF) position, or the reverse, without a break in service of more than 3 days, must transfer their entire annual and sick leave balances to the gaining employment office. The employee must not be paid for any accrued hours of annual leave. Leave will be administered in accordance with the rules of the gaining employment system (APF or NAF). The employee is credited with the full amount of leave even in those cases where the employee may receive a higher rate of pay from the gaining employment system (APF or NAF). See DoDI 1400.25-V1401, Personnel Policy for NAF Instrumentalities, and the OPM Benefits Officers Center.
9.2 Annual Leave Accrual Rates (050902)

Employees who move between DoD NAF and civil service positions without a break in service of more than 3 days receive service credit for annual leave purposes. Service in the losing employment system (civil service or NAF) is credited when determining the appropriate leave accrual rate. The employee’s leave accrual rate is applied in exactly the same manner, regardless of whether the move is voluntary or involuntary, and regardless of the direction of the move, civil service to NAF or NAF to civil service.

10.0 COMPENSATORY TIME (0510)

10.1 General (051001)

Compensatory time off means time off in lieu of overtime pay for irregular or occasional overtime work. One hour of compensatory time off is granted for each hour of overtime. At the request of an employee, the head of an agency may grant an eligible employee compensatory time off from the employee’s scheduled tour of duty instead of payment for an equal amount of time spent in irregular or occasional overtime work. Compensatory time off must be granted to an employee within a reasonable time after the overtime is worked. See 5 U.S.C. §§ 5542 – 5544, 5 U.S.C. §§ 6122 – 6123, 5 U.S.C. §§ 6127 – 6128, 5 CFR 550.114, and 5 CFR 551.531.

10.2 Eligible Employees (051002)

10.2.1 Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) Exempt and Nonexempt Employees. Compensatory time off may be approved in lieu of overtime for irregular or occasional overtime work for both FLSA exempt and FLSA nonexempt (i.e., FLSA covered) employees who meet the definition of employee under 5 U.S.C. § 5541(2). An agency may require that an FLSA exempt employee with a rate of basic pay the rate of General Schedule-10, step 10 receive compensatory time off for irregular or occasional overtime.

10.2.2 Prevailing Rate Employees. Compensatory time off may be approved for prevailing rate employees (wage employees), as defined at 5 U.S.C. § 5342(2). There is no requirement to compensate a prevailing rate employee irregular or occasional overtime by granting compensatory time off.

10.2.3 Flexible Work Schedules. Compensatory time off may be approved (but not required) in lieu of regularly schedule overtime only for employees (including prevailing rate employees) who are ordered to work overtime hours under flexible work schedules. See 5 U.S.C. § 6123(a)(1).
10.3. Forfeiture of Unused Compensatory Time Off (051003)

10.3.1. FLSA Exempt Employees. The time limit for using compensatory time is the end of the 26th pay period after the pay period during which it was earned. An agency may provide that an FLSA exempt employee who fails to take the compensatory time within 26 pay periods, or who transfers to another agency or separates from service before the compensatory time expires, must:

10.3.1.1. Receive payment for unused compensatory time at the overtime rate in effect when earned; or

10.3.1.2. Forfeit the unused compensatory time unless failure to use the compensatory time is due to an exigency of the service beyond the employee’s control. An FLSA employee whose compensatory time off was forfeited due to an exigency of service beyond the employee’s control must receive payment for the unused compensatory time at the overtime rate in effect when earned. See 5 CFR 550.114.

10.3.2. FLSA Nonexempt (FLSA Covered) Employees. The time limit for using compensatory time is the end of the 26th pay period after the pay period when it was earned. If the FLSA nonexempt employee fails to take the compensatory time within 26 pay periods, or the employee transfers to another agency or separates from Federal service before the compensatory time expires, pay the earned compensatory time off at the overtime rate in effect when earned. See 5 CFR 551.531.

10.3.3. National Guard Technicians. National Guard technicians are not paid for unused compensatory time worked. Compensatory time must be used by the end of the 26th pay period after it is earned or it will be forfeited. See 32 U.S.C. § 709(h).

10.4 Separation or Transfer (051004)

When a DoD employee separates or transfers to another DoD Component or Federal agency before the expiration of the 26th pay period time limit, unused compensatory time balances must be paid at the overtime rate in effect when the compensatory time was earned. Title 32 National Guard technicians forfeit any unused compensatory time when they separate or transfer to another DoD Component or Federal agency.

10.5 Compensatory Time Off for Religious Observances (051005)

10.5.1. General. An employee whose personal religious beliefs require not working during certain periods may elect to work compensatory time for the time lost to meet those religious requirements. See 5 U.S.C. § 5550a and 5 CFR 550, subpart J. Religious compensatory time off differs from other forms of compensatory time off in that the sole purpose is to adjust an employee’s work schedule to accommodate a religious observance. An employee who works compensatory time for religious reasons must be granted equal compensatory time off from the scheduled tour of duty. The employee must work the compensatory overtime not earlier than 13 pay periods before or not later than 13 pay periods after the grant of compensatory time off. Compensatory overtime must be credited to the employee on an hour for hour basis, or authorized fraction thereof. See Chapter 3 for additional information regarding compensatory time off for religious reasons.

10.5.2. Employee Responsibilities. An employee must request to work and use religious compensatory time in accordance with his or her agency’s established policies. The employee must provide the agency with the name and/or description of the religious observance, the dates and times the employee plans to be absent, and the dates and times the employee plans to work overtime to earn religious compensatory time.

10.5.3. Agency Responsibilities.

10.5.3.1. The agency must approve the employee’s request for taking off religious compensatory time unless the request would interfere with the agency’s ability to efficiently carry out its mission.

10.5.3.2. The agency must provide the employee with the opportunity to earn the compensatory religious time off before the deadline of 13 pay periods. The specific timing of when the employee can work overtime to earn the religious compensatory time off is at the agency’s discretion.

10.5.4. Scheduling Time to Earn and Use Religious Compensatory Time Off.

10.5.4.1. The scheduling of time to earn and use religious compensatory time off by employee is subject to the employing agency’s approval.

10.5.4.2. For an employee who earns religious compensatory time off prior to using it, religious compensatory time off may be earned up to 13 pay periods in advance of the pay period in which the targeted religious observance commences and must be linked to specific dates and times for future use, as compatible with agency mission requirements.

10.5.4.3. An employee who uses religious compensatory time off prior to earning it must fulfill his or her obligation to perform overtime work in exchange for the advanced religious compensatory time off. The overtime must be worked within 13 pay periods after the pay period in which the employee used religious compensatory time off, or the agency may take action as described in subparagraph 10.5.4.4.
10.5.4.4. The 13 pay periods are calculated beginning with the first pay period beginning after the date on which the religious compensatory time off was used. If the employee fails to earn religious compensatory time off within 13 pay periods after taking religious compensatory time off, the agency may take corrective action to eliminate or reduce the negative balance. The employee’s balance of annual leave, credit hours, compensatory time off in lieu of regular overtime pay, compensatory time off for travel, or time-off awards can be reduced in order to offset the negative balance. An agency may determine the order of precedence for applying the various types of paid time off to offset the negative balance. Any negative balance of religious compensatory time off remaining after any charging of these types of paid time off must be resolved by charging the employee LWOP, which would result in an indebtedness that is subject to the agency’s internal debt collection procedures.

10.5.5. Effective May 29, 2019. Employees who have a positive balance of earned, but unused religious compensatory time off hours, must direct these hours to future religious observances. The agency must confirm and document that the hours are connected to one or more specific religious observances requiring the employee’s absence from work in order to meet the employee’s personal religious requirements. The agency must give the employee the opportunity to direct all unused hours to such a future religious observance. If the employee does not direct all of the unused hours, the employee may not earn any additional religious compensatory time off hours until the employee establishes a need to earn such time off hours. See 5 CFR 550, subpart J.

10.6 Compensatory Time Off for Travel (051006)

An employee may earn compensatory time off for travel for time spent in travel status away from the employee’s official duty station. An employee may earn compensatory time off for travel only for hours that are not otherwise compensable. Because an employee is entitled to their rate of basic pay for travel during basic (non-overtime) holiday hours, an employee may not earn compensatory time off for travel during holiday hours. See 5 CFR 550, subpart N; the OPM Fact Sheet, Compensatory Time Off for Travel; and 5 U.S.C. § 5550b.

10.6.1. Eligible Employees. Compensatory time off for travel may be earned by an employee, as defined in 5 U.S.C. § 5541(2), who is employed in an Executive agency, as defined in 5 U.S.C. § 105, without regard to whether the employee is exempt from or covered by the overtime pay provisions of the FLSA of 1938, as amended. The definition includes employees in SL and ST positions, but not members of the SES. Prevailing rate (wage) employees are eligible for compensatory time off for travel.

10.6.2. Employees Who Receive Availability Pay. Availability pay is premium pay paid to Federal law enforcement officers who are criminal investigators required to work substantial amounts of unscheduled duty. See 5 CFR 550.181.
10.6.2.1. When Travel Hours Are Not Eligible. For availability pay recipients, travel hours are not eligible for compensatory time off if the hours are compensated by basic pay, regularly scheduled overtime hours creditable under 5 U.S.C. §§ 5542 or 5543, or unscheduled duty hours. Unscheduled duty hours means either irregular overtime hours, or the first 2 overtime hours on a day containing part of the employee’s basic 40-hour workweek without regard to whether the hours are unscheduled or regularly scheduled, or any approved non-work availability hours. See 5 CFR 550.182(a), (c), and (d). An availability pay recipient may not earn compensatory time off for travel during unscheduled duty hours because the employee is entitled to availability pay for those hours. Compensatory time off for travel is earned only for hours not otherwise compensable.

10.6.2.2. When Travel Hours Are Eligible. For availability pay recipients, travel hours are eligible for compensatory time off for travel when the employee is required to travel on a non-workday or on a regular workday (in excess of the basic workday) and the travel does not meet one of the four criteria listed under 5 U.S.C. § 5542(b)(2)(B) and 5 CFR 550.112(g)(2). In such cases, since the travel time is not compensable as overtime hours of work for regular overtime or availability pay, the employee may earn compensatory time off subject to the exclusions specified in 5 CFR 550.1404(b)(2) and the requirements in 5 CFR 550.1404(c), (d), and (e). See 5 U.S.C. § 5542(b)(2)(B) and 5 CFR 550.112(g)(2) for information regarding when travel time is compensable as overtime hours of work.

10.6.3. Creditable Travel Time. To be creditable, travel time must be for work purposes and must be approved by an authorized agency official or otherwise authorized under agency policy. Once the employee arrives at a temporary duty station, the employee is not considered to be in a travel status just because he or she is away from the official duty station. In other words, do not credit the time spent at a temporary duty station between arrival and departure as time in a travel status. Time in travel status includes:

10.6.3.1. Time an employee actually spends traveling between the official duty station and a temporary duty station;

10.6.3.2. Time an employee spend traveling between two temporary duty stations; and 10.6.3.3. The usual waiting time that precedes or interrupts such travel, such as waiting at an airport or train station for departure. This does not include any extended or unusual waiting time between actual period of travel when the employee is free to rest, sleep, or otherwise use the time for his or her own purposes.

10.6.4. Deducting Commuting Time

10.6.4.1. Travel Between Home and Temporary Duty Station (or Transportation Terminal) Outside of Official Duty Station Limits. Time spent traveling directly between home and a temporary duty station (or transportation terminal) outside the limits of the employee’s official duty station is creditable as travel time. However, the agency must deduct from such travel hours the time the employee would have spent in normal home-to-work or work-to-home commuting (the commuting time offset). See 5 CFR 550.1404.
10.6.4.2. Between Home and Transportation Terminal Within Official Duty Station Limits. Time spent traveling outside of regular work hours between home and to or from a transportation terminal that is within the official duty station as part of travel away from that duty station is considered equivalent to commuting time and is not creditable travel time. See 5 CFR 550.1404(d).

10.6.4.3. Between Worksite and Transportation Terminal Within Official Duty Station Limits. Time spent traveling outside of regular work hours between the employee’s worksite and a transportation terminal is creditable travel time, and no commuting time offset applies.

10.6.5. Crediting Compensatory Time Off for Travel. An employee must comply with the procedures for requesting credit of compensatory time off for travel. Within five workdays after returning to the official duty station, the employee must submit his or her travel itinerary, or any other documentation acceptable to the employee’s supervisor, in support of a request for credit for the compensatory time off. Upon receipt of a proper and complete request from the employee, the agency must credit the employee with compensatory time off for creditable time in a travel status. The agency may authorize credit in increments of one-tenth of an hour (6 minutes) or one-quarter of an hour (15 minutes). There is no limit on the amount of compensatory time off for travel an employee may earn. Agencies must track and manage compensatory time granted for time in a travel status separately from other forms of compensatory time off.

10.6.6. Use of Accrued Compensatory Time Off for Travel. An employee must request permission from his or her supervisor to schedule the use of his or her accrued compensatory time off in accordance with agency-established policies and procedures. Compensatory time off for travel may be used when the employee is granted time off from scheduled tour of duty established for leave purposes. An employee must use earned compensatory time off in increments of one-tenth of an hour (6 minutes) or one-quarter of an hour (15 minutes). If the employee elects to use earned compensatory time off for travel instead of using excess annual leave, there is no legal authority to restore an employee’s forfeited annual leave.

10.6.7. Forfeiture of Unused Compensatory Time Off for Travel

10.6.7.1. Forfeiture. Compensatory time off for travel is forfeited in following circumstances. See 5 CFR 550.1407.

10.6.7.1.1. Not Used Within 26 Pay Periods. Compensatory time off for travel is forfeited unless it is used by the end of the 26th pay period after the pay period it was credited.

10.6.7.1.2. Upon Transfer or Separation. When an employee voluntarily transfers to another agency or separates from Federal service, any unused compensatory time off for travel is forfeited. Agency means an Executive agency as defined in 5 U.S.C. § 105 (e.g., DoD). An employee does not receive a lump-sum payment for accrued compensatory time off for travel upon separation from an agency.
10.6.7.1.3. Upon Movement to Non-Covered Position. Compensatory time off for travel is forfeited when the employee transfers to a non-covered position (such as to the U.S. Postal Service).

10.6.7.2. Exceptions to the 26 Pay Period Limit

10.6.7.2.1. LWOP. Special circumstances apply when an employee has unused compensatory time off for travel and the employee separates from Federal service or is placed on LWOP status under the following circumstances. If the employee later returns to service with the same agency, the employee must use all of the compensatory time off by the end of the 26th pay period following the pay period that the employee returns to duty, otherwise the compensatory time off is forfeited. See 5 CFR 550.1407(a)(2). LWOP status under this provision is as follows:

10.6.7.2.1.1. LWOP to Perform Uniformed Service. The employee separates or is placed on LWOP status to perform service in the Uniformed Services, as defined in 38 U.S.C. § 4303 and 5 CFR 353.102, and later returns to service through the exercise of a reemployment right provided by law, Executive order, or regulation.

10.6.7.2.1.2. LWOP for Work Injury. The employee separates or is placed on LWOP status because of an on-the-job injury with entitlement to injury compensation under 5 U.S.C., Chapter 81 and later recovers sufficiently to return to work.

10.6.7.2.2. Exigency. If an employee fails to use compensatory time off for travel within 26 pay periods after earned due to an exigency of the service beyond the employee’s control, an authorized agency official may extend the time limit for using such compensatory time off for up to an additional 26 pay periods. See 5 CFR 550.1407(e).

10.6.8. Prohibition Against Payment for Unused Compensatory Time Off for Travel. As provided by 5 U.S.C. § 5550b(b), an individual must not receive payment under any circumstances for any unused compensatory time off for travel earned under 5 CFR 550, subpart N. This prohibition against payment also applies to surviving beneficiaries of deceased employees.

10.6.9. Inapplicability of Premium Pay and Aggregate Pay Caps. Accrued compensatory time off for travel is not considered when applying the premium pay limitations established under 5 U.S.C. § 5547 and 5 CFR 550.105-107 or the aggregate limitation of pay established under 5 U.S.C. § 5307 and 5 CFR 530, subpart B. There is no pay cap limitation on the amount of compensatory time off for travel an employee may earn.

11.0 HOLIDAY LEAVE (0511)

11.1 General (051101)

Employees must be in a pay status or a paid time off status (e.g., leave, compensatory time off, compensatory time off for travel, or using credit hours) on their scheduled workdays either before or after a holiday in order to be entitled to regular pay for a holiday. Employees in a nonpay status for the workdays immediately before and after the holiday may not receive compensation for that holiday.

11.2 Work Schedules (051102)

11.2.1. Full-Time Employees. Regular full-time employees who are not required to work on a holiday receive their regular straight-time pay, including night and shift differential.

11.2.1.1. Flexible Work Schedule. A full-time employee on a flexible work schedule, who is prevented from working on a holiday, or an in lieu of holiday, is entitled to 8 hours of holiday leave for each holiday. See 5 U.S.C. § 6124. Employees under flexible work schedules are credited with 8 holiday hours even if they would otherwise work more hours on that day.

11.2.1.2. Compressed Work Schedule. A full-time employee on a compressed work schedule who is prevented from working on a holiday, or an in lieu of holiday, is entitled to holiday leave for the number of hours of the OPM compressed work schedule for the employee on that day. See 5 U.S.C. § 6121(5). For example, if a holiday falls on a 9 or 10-hour basic workday, the employee's holiday is 9 or 10 hours, respectively. See 5 CFR 610.406.

11.2.2. Part-Time Employees. Part-time employees receive their regular pay for holidays that fall on their regularly scheduled workdays; this does not include overtime work. When a holiday falls on a part-time employee’s non-workday, there is no entitlement to pay for an in lieu of holiday. When prevented from working because the activity is closed due to an in lieu of holiday, the part-time employee may either be placed in an appropriate leave category or be excused, placed on administrative leave, without loss of pay for the number of hours they are regularly scheduled to work on that day. See DoD I 400.25-V610. For more information on part-time employees, see the OPM Fact Sheet, Federal Holidays - Work Schedules and Pay.

11.2.2.1. Flexible Work Schedule. A part-time employee on a flexible work schedule who is prevented from working on a holiday is entitled to leave for the number of hours they would have worked but for the holiday, not to exceed 8 hours. See 5 CFR 610.405.

11.2.2.2. Compressed Work Schedule. A part-time employee prevented from working on a holiday is entitled to leave for the number of hours of the compressed work schedule on that day. See 5 CFR 610.406.

11.2.3. Intermittent Employment. Intermittent employees, including experts and consultants, means employees without a regularly scheduled tour of duty. Intermittent employees receive compensation only when work is actually performed.

12.0 CREDIT HOURS (0512)

12.1 General (051201)

Credit hours are any hours within a flexible schedule established under 5 U.S.C. § 6122 that are in excess of an employee’s basic work requirement and that the employee elects (consistent with agency policy) to work to vary the length of a workweek or a workday. Credit hours are distinguished from overtime hours in that they are not officially ordered and approved in advance by management. See 5 U.S.C. §§ 6121-6126.

12.2 Requirements for Earning and Using Credit Hours (051202)

12.2.1. Earning Credit Hours. Only full-time and part-time employees under flexible work schedules may earn credit hours. SES members may not earn credit hours. See 5 CFR 610.408. Credit hours may be earned only within the flexible time bands established by the agency or union agreement. Work hours that count toward the employee’s basic work requirement should not be considered credit hours. Credit hours are those hours that are in excess of the employee’s basic work requirement (8 hours in a day, 40 hours in a week, or 80 hours in the pay period). There is no legal authority to advance credit hours to an employee. See 5 U.S.C. § 6121(4).

12.2.2. Using Credit Hours. Credit hours must be used within the tour of duty. Credit hours must be earned and used in the same increments as other absences with pay.

12.3 Accumulation (051203)

A full-time employee may accumulate up to 24 credit hours to be carried forward for credit against a later pay period. The 24 credit hours carried forward must be accounted for the same as other types of absences with pay. See 5 U.S.C. § 6126.

12.4 Part-Time Employees (051204)

A part-time employee under a flexible work schedule may earn credit hours. A part-time employee may carry forward credit hours from one pay period to a subsequent pay period, in an amount equal to 25 percent of the biweekly scheduled hours of work. See 5 U.S.C. § 6126(a).

12.5 Payment for Credit Hours (051205)

Generally, an employee receives no additional pay for credit hours. When used by the employee, credit hours are considered a part of the basic work requirement (non-overtime work) in the pay period that they are applied. An employee is entitled to his or her basic rate of pay for any credit hours used. However, upon separation from Federal service, or when an employee is no longer subject to a flexible work schedule program or transfers to another employing activity (provided the agency and Major Claimant/Command changes), any accumulated credit hours must be liquidated/paid at the employee’s current hourly rate. For full-time employees, not more than 24 accumulated credit hours may be paid. For part-time employees, accumulated credit hours may be paid in an amount that is not more than 25 percent of the employee’s scheduled hours. See 5 U.S.C. § 6126(b). Premium pay limitations under 5 U.S.C. § 5547 do not apply to payment for credit hours even though the limits apply to payments for unused compensatory time off.
12.6 Entitlement (051206)

12.6.1. Overtime. An employee must not use credit hours to increase the entitlement of overtime pay. No overtime pay or compensatory time off will be paid when employees earn credit hours or when credit hours are liquidated when Federal service ends. See 5 U.S.C. §§ 6123(b) and 6126.

12.6.2. Sundays. An employee will not be paid Sunday pay when earning credit hours on a Sunday. Sunday premium pay is limited to 8 hours for each regularly scheduled basic tour of duty that begins or ends on Sunday. Since credit hours may only be earned when employees work in excess of their regularly scheduled basic work requirement, Sunday premium pay may not be paid when employees earn credit hours on Sunday. Neither may employees receive Sunday premium pay if they use credit hours in order to be absent from regularly scheduled Sunday work. Employees may not receive Sunday premium pay for any period of time they do not actually perform work on a Sunday.

12.6.3. Nights. An employee must not be paid night pay when credit hours are earned at night. Night pay is authorized for work performed at night during an employee’s regularly scheduled tour of duty. See 5 U.S.C. § 5545(a). Since employees who earn credit hours are not performing regularly scheduled work, they may not be paid night pay for credit hours earned at night. Neither may employees be paid for credit hours used at night to be absent from the employee’s basic tour of duty. There is no provision of law or regulation permitting night pay to be paid when credit hours are used to be absent from regularly scheduled night work. Credit hours are considered as daytime hours. For example, when an employee’s schedule includes daytime and nighttime hours, credit hours are applied only to the daytime portion of the schedule. See 5 U.S.C. § 6123(c). For requirements on entitlement to night differential when credit hours are earned by prevailing rate (wage) employees and employees under 38 U.S.C (Title 38 employees), see 5 U.S.C. § 6123(c)(2).

12.6.4. Holidays. An employee may not earn additional compensation or credit hours for voluntarily working during holiday hours. If permitted by agency policy or negotiated agreements for union members, supervisors may approve requests from employees working under flexible work schedules to earn credit hours for work in excess of their basic work requirement on a holiday. Full-time employees under flexible work schedules are excused from 8 hours of their basic work requirement because of a holiday. See 5 U.S.C. § 6124. If an employee is scheduled to complete 9 or 10 hours of basic work requirement on a holiday, the agency may permit the employee to use previously accrued credit hours or annual leave in order to be absent with pay during the ninth and tenth hours.
12.6.5. Excused Absences. An employee may not earn credit hours during excused absences, such as a weather emergency. If employees work during the hours of their basic work requirement, despite being excused from work, they are not entitled to additional compensation or credit hours. However, if permitted by policy or negotiated agreements, a supervisor may approve a request from an employee to earn credit hours for work in excess of their basic work requirement on a day when an excused absence is granted.

12.6.6. Training. An employee cannot earn credit hours for training required by an agency.

12.7  Biweekly Pay Period (051207)

There is no limit on the accumulated number of credit hours during the biweekly pay period, subject to a supervisor’s approval. Any credit hours worked in a pay period that exceeds the 24-hour maximum carryover will be forfeited if not used during that pay period. Credit hours must be earned before they are used. Employees may carry forward only 24 credit hours into the succeeding pay period. Credit hours under a maxi-flex schedule may be used during the pay period that they are earned.

13.0  TIME OFF AS AN INCENTIVE AWARD (0513)

As authorized by 5 U.S.C. § 4502(e), a time-off award may be granted in lieu of cash. See 5 CFR 451.101-107. A time-off award is an absence with pay without charge to leave. See Chapter 3, section 11.0.

14.0  ADMINISTRATIVE LEAVE (EXCUSED ABSENCE) (0514)

14.1  General (051401)

Administrative leave (also referred to as “excused absence”) is an absence from duty, administratively authorized, without loss of pay and without charge to leave. Periods of administrative leave are considered part of an employee’s basic workday even though the employee does not perform regular duties. The following are some of the more common situations in which agencies generally permit absence from duty without a loss of pay and without charge to leave. See the OPM Fact Sheet: Administrative Leave and DoDI 1400.25-V630.

14.2  Blood Donation (051402)

Employees serving as blood donors may be excused from work without charge to leave for the time necessary to donate the blood, for recuperation following blood donation, and for necessary travel to and from the donation site. This provision does not cover an employee who gives blood for his or her personal use or receives compensation for giving blood.

14.3  Tardiness and Brief Absence (051403)

If an employee is unavoidably or necessarily absent for less than one hour, or tardy, the agency, for adequate reason, may excuse the employee without charge to leave.
14.4 Registering and/or Voting (051404)

Excusal from duty for a reasonable period of time is authorized for registering and/or voting in any election. Generally, excuse employees from duty to permit them to report for work 3 hours after the polls open or to leave work 3 hours before the polls close, whichever results in the lesser amount of time off. Employees on flexible work schedules may only be excused for those hours that are not accommodated by their flexible schedules.

14.5 Taking Examinations (051405)

This applies only to examinations given by or taken at the request of the employing activity. Excuse employees, without charge to leave or loss of pay, for all examinations required for converting to career-conditional appointments or for required noncompetitive examinations within the same employing activity.

14.6 Attending Conferences or Conventions (051406)

Employees may be excused to attend conferences or conventions when it is determined that the attendance will serve the best interest of the Federal service. Such absences may be restricted to those situations that the employee is an official representative of the organization involved or is a contributor on the agenda. Employees may not be excused to attend conferences or conventions of political parties or partisan political groups or committees.

14.7 Representing Employee Organizations (051407)

Representative leave hours must be reported using 4 separate categories. The categories are term negotiations, mid-term negotiations, dispute resolution, and general labor-management relations. Absence charged as representative leave may be subject to the provisions of local negotiated agreements and/or supervisory approval. See 5 CFR 551.424 and OPM's Official Time Usage in the Federal Government, FY 2016, Appendix A.

14.8 Official Duty Status Funerals of Fellow Federal Law Enforcement Officers or Federal Firefighters (051408)

A Federal firefighter or Federal law enforcement officer may be excused from duty without charge to pay or leave in order to attend the funeral of a fellow Federal firefighter or Federal law enforcement officer who was killed in the line of duty. See 5 U.S.C. § 6328. When excused from duty, attendance at the funeral service is considered as official duty for the firefighter or officer. Under 31 U.S.C. § 1345, an agency may pay the expenses of an official or employee of the United States carrying out an official function.
14.9 Absence of Veterans to Attend Funeral Services (051409)

An eligible employee may be excused from duty to participate as an active pallbearer, a member of a firing squad, or a guard of honor in a funeral ceremony for a member of the Armed Forces whose remains are returned from abroad for final interment in the United States (not to exceed 4 hours in any 1 day). See 5 U.S.C. § 6321.

14.10 Excused Absence for Employees Returning From Active Military Duty (051410)

14.10.1. Entitlement. Pursuant to a Presidential Memorandum of November 14, 2003, a Federal employee is entitled to 5 days of excused absence after he or she returns from active military service in connection with the continuing Overseas Contingency Operations (OCO). Upon receiving notification from a returning employee of his or her intent to return to civilian duty on a specific date, an agency must grant an eligible employee 5 days of excused absence immediately prior to the employee's actual resumption of his or her duties. See the OPM Fact Sheet, 5 Days of Excused Absence for Employees Returning from Active Military Duty.

14.10.2. Usage. The commencement of the 5 days of excused absence represents a return to Federal employment, and the employee is obligated to report for work at the end of the 5-day period. The excused absence is intended to provide returning employees with continuous paid time off to spend with their families before returning to Federal service; therefore, the 5 days must be used consecutively. If the employee does not use all 5 days at once, the remaining days may not be carried over for later use.

14.10.3. Eligibility

14.10.3.1. Minimum Service Requirement. An employee must be on active duty in support of the OCO for at least 42 consecutive days to qualify for 5 days of excused absence. An employee does not qualify if the period of active duty is less than 42 days. The 42 days must be consecutively served, and an accumulation of 42 or more nonconsecutive days of active duty does not meet the requirement.

14.10.3.2. Multiple Deployments. An employee deployed on multiple occasions is entitled to receive 5 days of excused absence for each deployment as long as the deployment meets the 42-day requirement and the employee has not received 5 days of excused absence during the previous 365 days.

14.10.3.3. New Employees. A new employee who was not a Federal employee at the time of his or her activation does not qualify for the 5 days of excused absence.

14.10.3.4. Employees With an Uncommon Tour of Duty. The period of excused absence for an employee on an uncommon tour of duty or an employee on a part-time work schedule will be prorated according to the number of hours in the employee's regularly scheduled workweek.

*14.11 COVID-19 Vaccinations and Administrative Leave (051411)

14.11.1. Policy. Employees shall be granted up to 4 hours of administrative leave, per vaccination event, to receive COVID-19 vaccinations administered by DoD, Federal, State, and local government organizations, or private health care organizations and pharmacies. Employees may not be authorized to perform overtime work for the purposes of receiving a vaccination outside of their normal scheduled tour of duty. See the Under Secretary of Defense (Personnel and Readiness) Memorandum, “Administrative Leave for COVID-19 Vaccinations.”

14.11.2. Usage. The use of administrative leave is limited to time spent traveling to and from the vaccination location, time at the vaccination location, and, if needed for a reasonable amount of recovery time. Generally, employees should not require more than 2 vaccination events to complete a vaccination series, or more than 4 hours for each event. On a case-by-case basis, supervisors may grant employees who experience extenuating circumstances additional administrative leave. For employees who experience an adverse reaction to the a COVID-19 vaccination, no more than 2 workdays of administrative leave should be granted for recovery associated with a single vaccination dose.

14.11.2. Other Leave. If an employee needs more time beyond 2 workdays to recover from a COVID vaccine, they could request Emergency Paid Leave (EPL) under circumstances listed in subparagraph 27.3.8., or other paid leave for which the employee is eligible.

15.0 WEATHER AND SAFETY LEAVE (0515)

The NDAA for FY 2017, section 1138 (PL 114-328) granted agencies authority to authorize weather and safety leave to employees due to an act of God, a terrorist attack, or any other condition that prevents employees from traveling safely to work or to safely perform work at an approved location. Employees who are participating in a telework program may not be eligible for weather and safety leave depending on their agency’s telework policies. An employee may not receive weather and safety leave for hours in which they have preapproved leave (paid or unpaid) or paid time off. Approval of weather and safety leave is not an employee entitlement. See 5 CFR 630, subpart P.

16.0 COURT LEAVE AND JURY DUTY (0516)

16.1 General (051601)

Employees are authorized paid time off (court leave) when summoned to serve as a juror or as a witness in a nonofficial capacity on behalf of any party in connection with any judicial proceeding that the United States, the District of Columbia, or a state or local government is a party. See 5 U.S.C. § 6322, 5 U.S.C. § 5537, and 5 U.S.C. § 5515, and the OPM Fact Sheet, Court Leave.

16.2 Summoned While on Annual Leave (051602)

If an employee is on annual leave when called for jury duty or witness service, court leave will be charged. No charge should be made to annual leave for the court service.
16.3 Requirements (051603)

An employee who is under summons from a court to serve on a jury should be granted court leave for the service for which an employee is entitled to court leave does not include periods when the employee is excused or discharged by the court, subject to call by the court, for an indefinite period or for a definite period in excess of 1 day. Therefore, an employee may be required to return to duty or be charged annual leave if excused from jury service for 1 day or even a substantial part of a day. However, the employee should not be required to return to work if it will cause a hardship. In a case where a return to work would present a hardship on the employee because of the distance of the court from their residence or place of duty, or in the case of an employee engaged in night work, court leave may be approved. See 26 Comp Gen. 413.

16.4 Intermittent Employment (051604)

Employees hired with no scheduled tour of duty are not eligible for court leave. See 5 U.S.C. § 2105.

16.5 FLSA Nonexempt Employees (051605)

FLSA nonexempt (e.g., FLSA covered) employees must not have their pay reduced under FLSA due to court leave for jury duty or witness service during their regularly scheduled tour of duty. See 5 U.S.C. § 6322.

16.6 Documentation Required (051606)

When an employee is called for court service (as a witness or juror), the court order, subpoena, or summons, if one was issued, must be presented to the supervisor as far in advance as possible.

16.7 Jury Duty Service Payment (051607)

Employees may not retain fees paid for jury duty service. If an employee performs jury duty service for a state or local court and the employee is paid jury duty fees, the fees must be collected from the employee as provided under subparagraph 16.10. Employees who perform jury duty service for the United States or the District of Columbia governments are not paid jury duty fees. See 5 U.S.C. § 5537.

16.8 Official Capacity Witness (051608)

Employees who perform witness service in an official capacity on behalf of the United States or the District of Columbia government, a state or local government, or a private party must not be paid witness fees, nor must the time served as a witness be charged to court leave or annual leave. The time must be recorded as official duty. If any fees are paid, they must be turned in to the employing activity.
16.9 Nonofficial Capacity Witness (051609)

An employee is not entitled to court leave if the employee testifies as a witness in a nonofficial capacity on behalf of a private party in a matter that the United States, the District of Columbia, a state, or local government is not a party. The employee must take annual leave or LWOP to serve in such a capacity. Employees are entitled to the fees and expenses related to such witness service.

16.10 Certificate of Attendance and Collection of Fees Paid (051610)

16.10.1 Amounts Subject to Collection.

16.10.1.1 Fees for Jury Duty or Witness Services. Unless otherwise allowable under this section, an employee in a pay status may not retain fees received for jury duty or witness services. The employee must submit any fees received to their employing activity in the form of a money order or personal check.

16.10.1.2 Certificate of Attendance. A certificate of attendance from the clerk of the court must also be submitted to the employing activity. The certificate of attendance should show the dates of jury duty or witness service and any amount of fees the court paid to the employee. The certificate of attendance should separately identify fees and other allowances or expenses. If the certificate of attendance does not identify allowances separately, then all monies received are considered fees for jury duty or witness services and must be collected.

16.10.1.3 Employee Waiver or Refusal of Fees. An employee serving on a jury in a state or local court who waives or refuses to accept jury fees is still liable to the U.S. Government for the fees they would have received. Under 5 U.S.C. § 5515, the Federal government is entitled to be reimbursed for any fees available and the employee has no discretion to waive payment of the fees on the government’s behalf. The amount of any waived or refused fees must be collected from the employee as a salary overpayment.

16.10.2 Amounts Not Subject to Collection.

16.10.2.1 Allowances or Reimbursement. The employee may keep reimbursements for expenses received from the court, authority, or party that summoned the employee. Allowances or reimbursement for expenses includes transportation or parking expenses.

16.10.2.2 Fees That Exceed Compensation. An employee may keep fees that exceed the employee’s compensation for the days of service.

16.11 Collection of Fees Paid Incorrectly (051611)

If fees are paid incorrectly to an employee who is serving in a nonofficial capacity, then the employee may not retain the fees. The fees must be turned in to the Customer Service Representative (CSR) at the employing activity.
16.12 Holiday (051612)

When a holiday occurs during the time an employee is on jury duty or witness service, the employee may keep the jury duty or witness service fee paid for the holiday.

16.13 Non-Workday (051613)

If called to jury duty on a non-workday, then the employee may keep the fees paid.

16.14 Submission and Crediting of Fees Collected (051614)

Monies submitted to the CSR for fees collected by employees for jury duty or witness service must be accounted for on a DoD (DD) Form 1131, Cash Collection Voucher. The servicing PRO must credit the appropriation and accounting classification that paid the employee’s salary while the employee was on jury duty or serving as a witness with these monies. See 5 U.S.C. § 5515.

16.15 Employee Absence (051615)

See Table 5-4 for employee absences for court or court-related services.

16.16 Payroll Deduction (051616)

Fees not submitted in a timely manner are subject to payroll deduction. Payroll deductions to collect the fees will be made in the next regular pay period. See 5 U.S.C. § 5515.

17.0 SHORE LEAVE (0517)

17.1 General (051701)

Shore leave means paid leave authorized under 5 U.S.C. § 6305(c) and 5 CFR 630, subpart G that is earned by an employee who is regularly assigned to duties onboard an oceangoing vessel. The employee appointed in the civil service can be an officer, crewmember, or other employee serving aboard an oceangoing vessel on an extended voyage. An employee is considered to be regularly assigned when his or her continuing duties are such that all or a significant part of them require that they serve aboard an oceangoing vessel. Temporary assignments of a shore-based employee, such as for limited work projects or for training, do not constitute a regular assignment. An eligible officer, crew member, or other employee serving onboard an oceangoing vessel on an extended voyage earns shore leave (5 U.S.C. § 6305(c) and 5 CFR 630.701-704) at a rate not to exceed 1 day for each 15 calendar days of absence on one or more extended voyages.

17.2 Extended Voyage (051702)

Shore leave is earned by eligible employees who are on an extended voyage. An extended voyage must be at least 7 consecutive calendar days in duration, including voyage-preparation time on board the vessel. See 5 CFR 630.701.
17.3 Computing Shore Leave (051703)

An employee earns shore leave at the rate of 1 day of shore leave for each 15-calendar days of absence on one or more extended voyages. The master of the vessel will keep a record of the accrual of shore leave for each employee. See 5 CFR 630.703.

17.3.1 Officer and Crewmembers. For an employee who is an officer or crewmember, a voyage begins either on the date the employee assumes duties aboard an oceangoing vessel to begin preparation for a voyage or on the date the employee comes aboard when a voyage is in progress. The voyage terminates on the earliest of the following dates:

17.3.1.1. The employee ceases to be an officer or crewmember of the oceangoing vessel, or 17.3.1.2. The employee is released from assigned duties relating to the voyage aboard the oceangoing vessel at the port of origin or port of final discharge.

17.3.2. Other Employees. For an employee, other than an officer or crewmember, a voyage begins on the date of sailing and terminates on the earliest of the following dates:

17.3.2.1. The oceangoing vessel returns to a port where the employee will disembark in completion of his or her assignment aboard the vessel, or 17.3.2.2. The employee is released from the assignment aboard the vessel.

17.4 Computing Days of Absence (051704)

The master of the vessel keeps a record on the use of shore leave for each employee. When computing the days of absence, an agency must use the guidance set out at 5 CFR 630.703(c).

17.5 Granting Shore Leave (051705)

An employee has an absolute right to use shore leave, subject to the right of the head of the agency to fix the time when shore leave may be used. Shore leave may be granted during a voyage at the written request of the employee. If so requested and denied, the denial must also be in writing. See 5 CFR 630.704.

17.6 Minimum Charge (051706)

The minimum charge for shore leave is 1 day; additional charges are in whole days.

17.7 Time and Attendance Report (051707)

The time and attendance report must reflect shore leave taken.
17.8 Limitation (051708)

Shore leave is in addition to annual leave, and it may be accumulated for future use without limitation.

17.9 Lump-Sum Leave Payment (051709)

Shore leave is not included in a lump-sum leave payment.

17.10 Terminal Leave (051710)

An agency must not grant shore leave to an employee as terminal leave. Terminal leave is an approved absence immediately before an employee’s separation when an agency knows the employee will not return to duty before the date of their separation. The exception to this rule is that an agency must grant shore leave as terminal leave when the employee’s inability to use shore leave was due to circumstances beyond their control and not due to his or her own act or omission.

17.11 Forfeiture (051711)

Shore leave is forfeited if not granted before:

17.11.1. Separation from the service, or

17.11.2. An official assignment, other than by temporary detail, to a position in which the employee does not earn shore leave. To the extent administratively practicable, the employing activity must give an employee an opportunity to use the shore leave to their credit either before the reassignment or not later than 6 months after the date of their reassignment when the employing activity is unable to grant the shore leave before the reassignment.

17.12 Transfer (051712)

At the time of an employee’s transfer to a position at another employing activity or agency, accumulated shore leave must be transferred if:

17.12.1. The employee is entitled to shore leave in the new position, and 17.12.2. There is no break in service.

18.0 HOME LEAVE (0518)

18.1 General (051801)

Home leave means leave authorized by 5 U.S.C. § 6305(a) and 5 CFR 630.601 and earned by service abroad. Home leave can be earned and granted to eligible employees who have been recruited for overseas duty and who meet the requirements of 5 U.S.C. § 6304(b) for the accumulation of a maximum of 45 days of annual leave. There is no maximum accumulation of home leave. Balances are posted on the SF 1150 for future use.

18.2 Earning Home Leave (051802)

To determine the rate of accrual for home leave, the computation of service abroad must be completed. When computing service abroad full credit is given for the day of arrival and the day of departure.

18.2.1 Computation of Service Abroad. Service abroad means service on or after September 6, 1960, at a post of duty OCONUS and outside the employee's residence if it is in the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico or a territory or possession of the United States. Computation of service abroad:

18.2.1.1 Begins on the date of the employee's arrival at a post of duty OCONUS, or on the date of his entrance on duty when recruited abroad;

18.2.1.2. Ends on the date of the employee's departure from the post for separation or for assignment in the United States, or on the date of his separation from duty when separated abroad; and 18.2.1.3. Includes:

18.2.1.3.1. Absence in a nonpay status up to a maximum of 2 workweeks within each 12 months of service abroad,

18.2.1.3.2. Authorized leave with pay,

18.2.1.3.3. Time spent in the Armed Forces of the United States which interrupts service abroad (but only for eligibility, not leave-earning, purposes), and 18.2.1.3.4. A period of detail.

18.2.2. Earning Rates. For each 12 months of service abroad, an employee earns home leave at the following rate:

18.2.2.1. An employee who accepts an appointment to, or occupies, a position for which the agency has prescribed the requirement that the incumbent accept assignments anywhere in the world as the needs of the agency dictate earns 15 days.

18.2.2.2. An employee serving with a U.S. mission to a public international organization earns 15 days.

18.2.2.3. An employee serving at a post that payment of a foreign or non-foreign (but not a tropical) differential of 20 percent or more is authorized by law or regulation earns 15 days.
18.2.2.4. An employee not included in subparagraphs 17.2.2.1, 2, or 3, who is serving at a post that payment of a foreign or territorial (but not a tropical) differential of at least 10 percent (but less than 20 percent) is authorized by law or regulation, earns 10 days.

18.2.2.5. An employee not included in subparagraphs 17.2.2.1, 2, 3, or 4 of this section earns 5 days.

18.2.2.6. An employee not included in subparagraphs 17.2.2.1 through 17.2.2.5, whose service abroad is interrupted by a tour of duty in the Armed Forces of the United States, for the duration of such tour earns 0 days.

18.2.3. Home Leave Earning Table. The employee earns home leave under the rates fixed by 5 CFR 630.604 for each month of service abroad. An agency must credit home leave to an employee’s leave account, as earned, in multiples of 1 day as set forth in the table under 5 CFR 630.605.

18.2.4. Varying Rates. When a change in the employee’s earning rate occurs, the agency must credit the employee with the amount of home leave for the month at the rate that they were entitled to prior to the change.

18.3 Home Leave Usage (051803)

A grant of home leave is at the discretion of the employee’s agency. An agency may grant home leave in combination with other leaves of absence in accordance with established agency policy.

18.3.1. Entitlement. Except as otherwise authorized by statute, an employee is entitled to home leave only when they have completed a basic service period of 24 months of continuous service abroad. The 24 months of continuous service abroad is a one-time requirement. This basic service period is terminated by a break in service of 1 or more workdays or an assignment (other than a detail) to a position that an employee is no longer subject to 5 U.S.C. § 6305(a). An employee is entitled to home leave upon completion of 12-month overseas assignments in certain areas affected by OCO. See 22 U.S.C. § 4083(a).

18.3.2. Limitations. An agency may grant home leave only under the following circumstances:

18.3.2.1. For use in the United States, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, or a territory or possession of the United States; and 18.3.2.2. During an employee’s period of service abroad, or within a reasonable period after his or her return from service abroad when it is contemplated that the employee will return to service abroad immediately or on completion of an assignment in the United States. See 5 U.S.C. § 6305(a)(1) and 5 CFR 630.606.

18.4 Charging of Home Leave (051804)

The minimum charge for home leave is one day and additional charges are in multiples thereof.

18.5 Indebtedness (051805)

An employee is indebted for the home leave used when the employee fails to return to service abroad after the period of home leave or after the completion of an assignment in the United States. However, a refund for this indebtedness is not required when:

18.5.1. The employee has completed at least 6 months service in an assignment in the United States following the period of home leave;

18.5.2. The agency determines the employee’s failure to return was due to compelling personal reasons of a humanitarian or compassionate nature, such as physical or mental health issues, or circumstances of which the employee has no control; or 18.5.3. The agency that granted the home leave determines that it is in the public interest not to return the employee to their overseas assignment.

18.6 Transfer and Recredit of Home Leave (051806)

An employee is entitled to have their home leave account transferred or recredited to his or her account when the employee moves between agencies or is reemployed without a break in service of more than 90 days. Home leave is not included in lump-sum leave calculations.

19.0 FUNERAL LEAVE (0519)

19.1 General (051901)

Funeral leave is granted to allow an employee to arrange for or to attend the funeral or memorial service for an immediate relative who died of wounds, disease, or injury incurred while serving as a member of the Armed Forces in a combat zone. 5 U.S.C. § 6326 and 5 CFR 630, subpart H require an activity to grant an employee funeral leave as is needed and requested, not to exceed 3 workdays. The granting of funeral leave should not cause the employee to lose leave the employee is otherwise entitled to, or lose credit for time or service. The 3 days need not be consecutive, but if not, the employee must furnish the approving authority with satisfactory reasons justifying a grant of funeral leave for nonconsecutive days. Combat zone means those areas determined by the President under the authority of 26 U.S.C. § 112. An activity may grant funeral leave only from a prescribed tour of duty, including regularly scheduled overtime. An immediate relative is an individual with any of the following relationships to the employee:

19.1.1. Spouse and their parents;

19.1.2. Sons and daughters (including adopted, step, or foster) and their spouses;
19.1.3. Parents and their spouses;

19.1.4. Brothers and sisters, and their spouses;

19.1.5. Grandparents and grandchildren, and their spouses;

19.1.6. Domestic partner and their parents, including domestic partners of any individual in subparagraphs 18.1.2 through 18.1.5; or

19.1.7. Any person related by blood or affinity whose close association with the employee was the equivalent of a family relationship. See 5 CFR 630.801-804 and 5 U.S.C. § 6326.

19.2 Official Duty Status (051902)

Under 31 U.S.C. § 1345, an agency is authorized to pay the expenses of an official or employee of the United States carrying out an official function as part of the funeral or memorial service. See paragraph 051409 for information concerning the official duty status of an employee in connection with funerals of fellow Federal law enforcement officers or Federal firefighters under 5 U.S.C. § 6328.

20.0 CONTINUATION OF PAY (COP) AND OWCP (0520)

20.1 General (052001)

The Federal Employees’ Compensation Act, 5 U.S.C. Chapter 81, provides for the payment of workers’ compensation benefits and authorized medical care for all civilian employees of the United States for disability due to personal injury sustained while in the performance of duty. For information on placing employees who are eligible for COP in a leave status for time lost from work due to injury in excess of the 45 days of COP, see Chapter 6. See also 20 CFR 10 and the DoDI 1400.25-V810.

20.2 Use of Leave (052002)

An employee may use annual, sick, or advanced leave to cover all or part of an absence due to an injury.

21.0 MILITARY LEAVE (0521)

21.1 Four Types of Military Leave (052101)

Eligible employees are entitled to time off with full pay for certain types of active or inactive duty in the National Guard or as a Reserve of the Armed Forces. See 5 U.S.C. § 6323. The four types of military leave are as follows:

21.1.1. Leave under 5 U.S.C. § 6323(a) provides employees with 120 hours (15 days) of leave per FY for active duty, active duty training, and inactive duty training. See paragraph 20.2.
21.1.2. Leave under 5 U.S.C. § 6323(b) provides 22 workdays per calendar year for employees who perform military duties in support of civil authorities in the protection of life and property, or who perform full-time military service as a result of a call or order to active duty in support of a contingency operation. See paragraph 20.3.

21.1.3. Leave under 5 U.S.C. § 6323(c) provides unlimited military leave to members of the National Guard of the District of Columbia for certain types of duty. See paragraph 22.4.

21.1.4. Leave under 5 U.S.C. § 6323(d) provides that military reserve technicians are entitled to 44 workdays of military leave for duties overseas under certain conditions. See paragraph 20.5.

21.2 Military Leave for Active Duty, Active Duty Training, and Inactive Duty Training Under 5 U.S.C. § 6323(a) (052102)

Military leave is available for active duty, active duty training, inactive duty training, funeral honors duty, or engaging in field or coast defense training. See 5 U.S.C. § 6323(a). Eligible employees are entitled to 120 hours (15 days) of military leave on a FY rather than a calendar year basis. Unused military leave must carry forward to the next FY, not to exceed a maximum balance of up to 30 days. Eligible part-time employees are entitled to military leave on a prorated basis. See 5 U.S.C. § 3401(2). Employees with temporary appointments of 1 year or less or intermittent work schedules are not entitled to military leave, even if the appointments are extended in 1 year increments without a break in service. Employees with appointments exceeding 1 year are entitled to military leave.

21.2.2. Crediting Military Leave. At the beginning of each FY (October 1), eligible full-time employees must be credited with 120 hours (15 days) of military leave. Eligible part-time employees must be credited with leave on a prorated basis. The prorated percentage is determined by dividing 40 into the number of hours in the employee’s regularly scheduled workweek during that FY. Any portion of military leave unused at the end of the FY, not to exceed 120 hours (15 days), must be carried forward to the next FY (not to exceed a maximum balance of 240 hours (30 days)). Newly eligible employees and new members of Reserve Components must be credited with the full 120 hours (15 days) (prorated if employed part-time) when entering upon duty or upon joining the Reserve unit. The 120 hours must not be prorated for a partial year for newly eligible employees or new members of the Reserve unit.

21.2.3. Crediting Military Leave After Change in a Tour of Duty. If a civilian employee changes their tour of duty from part-time to full-time in the middle of the FY, the servicing PRO must determine the number of days of military leave used by the employee during that FY. The days of used leave are subtracted from the days authorized under the current tour of duty in the case of an employee who increases the hours in their workweek.
21.2.3.1. Example. An employee worked a 32 hour workweek and was entitled to 96 hours of military leave (120 hours x (32/40 = .8) = 96 hours). The employee used 40 military leave hours before the tour of duty was changed to full-time in the middle of the FY. The employee had a balance of 56 hours. After changing to full-time, the employee's available military leave hours would equal the number of hours on the current full-time tour of duty (120) minus the number of used hours, on the previous tour of duty (40 hours) or 120-40 = 80 remaining hours of military leave.

21.2.3.2. Formula. The formula is as follows:

(military leave hours authorized in current tour) - (military leave hours used from previous tour) = military leave hours available for the remainder of the FY.

21.2.4. Charging Leave. Military leave under 5 U.S.C. § 6323(a) is charged on a daily basis, and the minimum charge is 1 hour. Military leave may be taken intermittently, a day at a time, or all at one time, regardless of the number of training sessions. Hours in the regularly scheduled workday that are not chargeable to military leave must be worked or charged to another leave category such as annual leave, LWOP, or compensatory time. No charge is made for non-workdays at the beginning and end of a period of absence on active military duty. Military leave is not charged for weekends and holidays that occur within the period of service. Under 5 CFR 353.208, an employee performing military service must be permitted to also use any accrued annual leave, earned compensatory time off for travel, or accrued sick leave (consistent with requirements for using sick leave) during military service. An employee may use annual leave, military leave, and earned compensatory time off for travel or sick leave intermittently with LWOP while on active duty or active/inactive duty training.

21.2.5. Weekend Drills. Civilian employees whose regular workweek includes Saturday and Sunday may take military leave under 5 U.S.C. § 6323(a) to attend weekend drills.

21.2.6. Inactive Duty Training (Drills). Inactive duty training means authorized training performed by members of a Reserve component, not on active duty and performed in connection with the prescribed activities of the Reserve component. It consists of regular scheduled unit training periods, additional training periods, and equivalent training.

21.2.7. Using Carryover Leave. A maximum of 240 hours (30 days) of military leave may be used in any FY. The military leave may be used during one or more periods of military duty during the FY. Employees may take the full 120 hours (15 days) of military leave immediately at the beginning of a FY, even if up to a maximum of 240 hours (30 days) had been taken during the prior FY, and even if the military duty is continuous.

21.3 Military Leave for Mobilized Federal Civilian Employees in Support of Contingency Operations or Employees Who Assist With Law Enforcement Under 5 U.S.C. § 6323(b) (052103)

21.3.1. Entitlement. There are two conditions under which employees are entitled to an additional 22 workdays of military leave under the provisions of 5 U.S.C. § 6323(b).
21.3.1.1. Military Service In Support of a Contingency Operation. Employees who perform full-time military service as a result of a call or order to active duty in support of a contingency operation as defined in 10 U.S.C. § 101(a)(13) are eligible for an additional 22 workdays of military leave.

21.3.1.2. Military Duty In Support of Civil Authorities. Reservists or National Guard members who perform military duty in support of civil authorities in the protection of life and property are eligible for an additional 22 workdays of military leave.

21.3.2. Reduction of Civilian Pay for Leave Under 5 U.S.C. § 6323(b). An employee’s civilian pay is reduced (offset) by the amount received by the employee for military service as a member of the Reserves or National Guard for the period the employee is granted military leave under 5 U.S.C. § 6323(b). The military pay to be offset against the civilian pay does not include travel, transportation or per diem paid by the military. If the military pay exceeds the employee’s civilian pay, the employee retains that portion of military pay that exceeds the civilian pay. If the employee uses annual leave or compensatory time, the offset rules do not apply, and the employee receives full military pay and full civilian pay. See 5 U.S.C. § 5519.

21.3.3. Crediting Leave. Military leave must be credited to the employee upon each eligible occurrence. Leave remaining at the end of the calendar year may not be carried over into the next calendar year.

21.3.4. Charging Leave. The 22 workdays (176 hours) are charged on the same basis as annual and sick leave. An employee working an uncommon tour of duty must have this additional leave entitlement adjusted on a pro rata basis. Leave may also be charged to the employee's accrued annual leave or to accrued compensatory time instead of being charged as leave to which the employee is entitled under this subsection. The period of absence may not be charged to sick leave.

21.4 Leave for National Guard of the District of Columbia Under 5 U.S.C § 6323(c) (052104)

Employees who are members of the National Guard of the District of Columbia are entitled to unlimited military leave without loss of pay or leave for each day of a parade or encampment ordered or authorized under Title 49, District of Columbia Code. This leave covers each day of service or a portion thereof the National Guard is ordered to perform by the commanding general. See 5 U.S.C. § 6323(c).

21.4.1. Reduction of Civilian Pay for Leave Under 5 U.S.C. § 6323(c). Under the provisions of 5 U.S.C. § 5519, an employee’s civilian pay is reduced (offset) by the amount received by the employee for military service as a member of the Reserve or National Guard for the period for which the employee is granted military leave under 5 U.S.C. § 6323(c). The military pay to be offset against the civilian pay does not include travel, transportation, or per diem paid by the military. If the military pay exceeds the employee’s civilian pay, the employee may retain that portion of military pay that exceeds the civilian pay. If the employee uses annual leave or compensatory time, the offset rules do not apply and the employee receives full military pay and full civilian pay.
21.4.2. Crediting Leave. This leave must be credited to the employee upon each eligible occurrence. The balances at the end of each calendar do not carry into the next calendar year.

21.4.3. Charging Leave. The unlimited leave is charged on the same basis as annual and sick leave for employees who work both a common and uncommon tour of duty.

21.5 Leave for Military Reserve Technicians (Military Technicians (Dual Status)) Under 5 U.S.C. § 6323(d) (052105)

Under 5 U.S.C. § 6323(d), employees who are defined by 5 U.S.C. § 8401(30) as military reserve technicians are entitled an additional 44 workdays (352 hours) of military leave in a calendar year. This military leave is in addition to the military leave already available under 5 U.S.C. §§ 6323(a), (b), and (c). To be eligible, the military reserve technician must be on active duty without pay under 10 U.S.C. § 12315, 10 U.S.C. § 12301(b), or 10 U.S.C. § 12301(d) for participation in noncombat operations OCONUS, its territories, and its possessions. Army National Guard and Air National Guard technicians will no longer receive paid military leave under 5 USC § 6323(a)(1) while performing active duty. See Section 513 of the 2017 NDAA and the amendment to 32 U.S.C. § 709(g). This military leave does not apply to active duty during a war or national emergency declared by the President or the Congress. A copy of the military orders or a statement by the employee’s commanding officer that shows either 10 U.S.C. §§ 12301(b) or 12301(d) authority is required as acceptable evidence that the military duty was performed and was without military pay.

21.5.1. No Offset of Civilian Pay. The compensation of an employee granted leave under 5 U.S.C. § 6323(d) will not be reduced by reason of such absence since the employee will be on active duty without pay. An employee will receive the same civilian pay they would have received for regularly scheduled work.

21.5.2. Charging Leave. There is no charge for holidays and non-workdays. At the employee’s request, the period the employee is absent to perform service may be charged to the employee’s accrued annual leave or available compensatory time. The period may not be charged to sick leave. See 5 U.S.C. § 6323(d)(2) for additional information. The unused portion of the 44 workdays may not be carried forward to the next calendar year.

21.6 Substantiating All Military Leave Charges (052106)

To substantiate all types of military leave charges, the employee is required to submit a copy of their military orders or substantiating documentation directing them to report to active military duty. Upon return to civilian status from military leave, the employee is required to submit a certified verification of attendance. If an employee has separate sets of orders or orders that cover separate periods with return to civilian status between the periods covered in the orders, then the military leave must not be charged for the time the employee is returned to civilian status.
21.7 Separation From Federal Service and Military Leave (052107)

Before a Reservist or National Guard member separates from civilian employment, they are given the chance to use any accrued military leave. If a member takes military leave and then separates, the date the separation is effective must be the date the military leave expires.

21.8 FLSA Nonexempt Employees (052108)

FLSA nonexempt (e.g., FLSA covered) employees may not have their customary and regular pay, including overtime pay under the FLSA, reduced during periods of military leave. Thus, if overtime pay is a part of the employee's regularly scheduled administrative workweek (not irregular or occasional) the employee is entitled to receive the overtime pay even for pay periods in which military leave is used by the employee. In such a case, the employee's civilian pay will still be offset by the amount received by the employee for military service as provided under 5 U.S.C. § 5519. For example, an employee with a regularly scheduled tour of duty of 144 hours per biweekly pay period (106 hours plus 38 hours of overtime) is entitled to receive pay for all 144 hours while on military leave, provided the civilian pay is offset by military pay pursuant to 5 U.S.C. § 5519.

21.9 Additional Information Regarding Absence During Uniformed Service (052109)

21.9.1 Deemed to be on Leave of Absence. The Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (USERRA) at 38 U.S.C. § 4316(b)(1) provides that when an employee is absent from employment due to service in the Uniformed Services, the employee is deemed to be on furlough or leave of absence. Service includes:

21.9.1.1. Active duty, active duty for training, initial active duty for training, or inactive duty training;

21.9.1.2. Full-time National Guard duty;

21.9.1.3. A period in which an employee is absent from duty for the purpose of an examination to determine the employee’s fitness to perform any such duty; and

21.9.2 Provisions Under 5 U.S.C., Chapter 83 (CSRS). An absence from work to perform military duty for purposes of 5 U.S.C. Chapter 83 ordinarily should be processed as a military separation except during a period of war or national emergency when the provisions of 5 U.S.C. § 8332(g) have been explicitly invoked. Under 5 U.S.C. § 8332(g), an employee who enters on military duty will be granted a leave of absence unless the employee has applied for and received a lump-sum credit under 5 U.S.C., Chapter 83. See 38 U.S.C. Chapter 43 and 5 CFR Part 353.
21.9.3. Use of Other Leave. Regulations under 5 CFR 353.208 implementing the USERRA provide that an employee performing service with the Uniformed Services must be permitted, upon request, to use any accrued annual leave, military leave, earned compensatory time off for travel, or accrued sick leave (consistent with the statutory and regulatory criteria for using sick leave) during such service. An employee is entitled to use these types of leave intermittently with LWOP while on active duty or active/inactive duty training.

22.0 FURLOUGH (0522)

22.1 General (502201)

There are two types of furloughs, shutdown and administrative. In a furlough situation, the servicing PRO must rely on the detailed guidance issued by OPM and the Defense Civilian Personnel Advisory Service (DCPAS). See the OPM Pay and Leave Furlough Guidance. Furloughs of 30 calendar days or less are covered under adverse action procedures found under 5 CFR 752, subpart D. Furloughs of more than 30 calendar days are covered under reduction in force procedures found under 5 CFR 351, subpart B. Furloughs for SES members are covered in 5 CFR 359, subpart H.

22.2 Shutdown Furlough (052202)

22.2.1. General. A shutdown furlough (also referred to as an emergency furlough) occurs when funds are not available through an appropriations law or continuing resolution, and an agency no longer has the necessary funds to operate. Unlike an administrative furlough, agencies will not prepare an SF 50 for submission to the servicing PRO at the outset of a shutdown furlough. At the conclusion of a shutdown furlough, OPM will release specific guidance on how to prepare an SF 50 for each individual subject to furlough. See the OPM Guidance For Shutdown Furloughs. During a shutdown furlough, the agency must shut down any activities that are not excepted pursuant to the Antideficiency Act. See 31 U.S.C. § 1341. A furloughed employee cannot volunteer to do their job on a nonpay basis. See 31 U.S.C. § 1342. An employee scheduled for training during a furlough must be placed in furlough status and ordered not to attend the scheduled training. Excepted and exempt employees may continue to work during a shutdown furlough as follows:

22.2.1.1. Excepted Employees. Excepted employees are employees who are funded through annual appropriations but who are excepted from the furlough because they are performing work that, by law, may continue to be performed during a lapse in appropriations. Each agency must determine which employees are excepted employees.

22.2.1.2. Exempt Employees. Employees are exempt from furlough if not affected by the lapse in appropriations. This includes employees not funded by annually appropriated funds. Employees performing such functions will generally continue to be governed by the normal pay, leave, and other civil service rules.
22.2.2. Pay During a Shutdown Furlough

22.2.2.1. Furloughed Employees. Congress determines whether furloughed employees receive pay for the furlough period. Furloughed employees receive pay for any hours worked prior to the lapse in appropriations. If a furlough occurs in the middle of a pay period and an employee receives a partial paycheck, the servicing PRO must use the order of precedence listed under Chapter 4, Table 4-1 in applying deductions.

22.2.2.2. Excepted Employees. Excepted employees who perform services during a furlough period will be paid when Congress passes and the President signs a new appropriation or continuing resolution. Excepted employees are permitted to earn premium pay in accordance with applicable rules and subject to relevant pay limitations.

22.2.2.3. Holidays. Furloughed employees and excepted employees who do not work on a holiday do not receive pay for a holiday that occurs during a shutdown furlough.

22.2.3. Previously Approved Leave During a Shutdown Furlough. The Antideficiency Act at 31 U.S.C. § 1341 does not allow for the authorization of any expenditure or obligation before an appropriation is made, unless authorized by law. Paid time off creates a debt that is not authorized by the Act. Therefore, all paid time off during a shutdown furlough must be cancelled. Any unpaid leave under the FMLA that was scheduled to be taken during a shutdown furlough does not count toward the employee’s 12-week FMLA leave entitlement. Military leave under 5 U.S.C. § 6323 must be cancelled for days covered by the furlough. Excepted employees:

22.2.3.1. Must either be performing excepted activities or be furloughed during any absence from work,

22.2.3.2. May not take previously approved paid time off or be granted new requests for paid time off during a shutdown furlough,

22.2.3.3. May be permitted to earn compensatory time off and credit hours during the shutdown furlough, and 22.2.3.4. Are not permitted to use the compensatory time off or credit hours during the shutdown period.

22.3 Administrative Furlough (052203)

22.3.1. General. An administrative furlough is a planned event by an agency, which is designed to absorb reductions necessitated by downsizing, reduced funding, lack of work, or any budget situation other than a lapse in appropriations. Furloughs resulting from sequestration would generally be considered administrative furloughs. See OPM Guidance for Administrative Furloughs.
22.3.2. Covered Employees. Agencies are responsible for identifying the employees affected by administrative furloughs based on budget conditions, funding sources, mission priorities (including the need to perform emergency work involving the safety of human life or protection of property), and other mission-related factors.

22.3.2.1. All political appointees who are covered by the leave system in 5 U.S.C., Chapter 63, or an equivalent formal leave system, are subject to administrative furlough.

22.3.2.2. Individuals appointed by the President, with or without Senate confirmation, who are not covered by the leave system in 5 U.S.C., Chapter 63, or an equivalent formal leave system, are not subject to furlough. A leave-exempt Presidential appointee cannot be placed on non-duty status.

22.3.3. Pay During an Administrative Furlough

22.3.3.1. Ordered to Work. If an employee is ordered to work during the furlough hours, the assignment of work cancels the employee’s furlough status for the duration of the order and such work is subject to normal compensation requirements.

22.3.3.2. Work Outside of Basic Workweek. Employees who are required to work hours outside of a basic workweek during which they have been furloughed are compensated with their rate of basic pay if overtime thresholds have not been met, and/or with overtime pay or compensatory time off in lieu of overtime pay, as appropriate, once the thresholds have been met.

22.3.3.3. Post Allowance. Post Allowance continues without interruption while the employee is in nonpay status not in excess of 14 consecutive calendar days, including periods outside the employee’s regular tour of duty (e.g., weekends).

22.3.3.4. Living Quarters Allowance (LQA). LQA continues without interruption while the employee is in nonpay status not in excess of 30 consecutive calendar days at any one time. For periods in nonpay status longer than 30 consecutive calendar days, LQA payment must be suspended as of the day the employee enters such status, and payment is not to be made for any part of such period.

22.3.3. Voluntary Services. An employee on administrative furlough may not volunteer to do his or her job on a nonpay basis. See 31 U.S.C. § 1342.

23.0 LWOP (0523)

23.1 General (052301)

LWOP is a temporary nonpay status and absence from duty that, in most cases, is granted at the employee's request. In most instances, granting LWOP is a matter of supervisory discretion and limited by agency internal policy.
23.2 Employee Request (052302)

An employee’s request for paid leave of absence, such as for annual or sick leave, will convert to a request for LWOP if annual or sick leave is insufficient.

23.3 Authorization (052303)

Authorizing LWOP is a matter of administrative discretion. An employee generally cannot demand LWOP as a matter of right. However, in some instances, employees may have an entitlement to LWOP.

23.3.1 FMLA. Employees may be entitled to unpaid leave under the FMLA to care for a family member or covered Service member. See section 5.0.

23.3.2 Disabled Veterans. Disabled veterans are entitled to LWOP if required for medical treatment under Executive Order 5396, July 17, 1930.

23.3.3 Reserve and National Guard Members. Reserve and National Guard members are entitled to LWOP if required to perform military duties under 38 U.S.C. § 4316(b)(1). See paragraph 20.2.

23.3.4 Workers’ Compensation. For limited periods, employees are entitled to LWOP if receiving injury compensation under 5 U.S.C., Chapter 81. Generally, when receiving workers’ compensation from the DOL, employees may not be in a pay status.

23.4 Leave Conversion (052304)

LWOP that has been granted to an employee will not be converted to annual or sick leave except in the case of:

23.4.1 Administrative error,

23.4.2 Participation in the VLTP, VLBP, and/or ELTP,

23.4.3 Disability retirement and employee compensation cases in which claims are disallowed, or 23.4.4 When there has been a settlement or an order of an arbitrator, Administrative law judge, or Federal judge in an employee dispute.

23.5 Reduction of Leave Accrual (052305)

When the number of LWOP status hours in a full-time employee’s leave year equals the employee’s biweekly tour of duty (e.g., 80, 112, or 144 hours), the employee’s leave accrual is reduced by an amount equal to the amount of leave (sick and annual) earned during the pay period. For example, when reduction of accrual is required during the last pay period in the calendar year.
for an employee in the 6-hour accrual category (entitled to accrue 10 hours of leave in such period), leave accrual for that period reduces by 10 hours. When an employee has one or more breaks in service during the leave year, the servicing PRO will include all hours in a LWOP status (other than nonpay status during a fractional pay period when no leave accrues). When an employee’s number of LWOP hours at the end of the leave year is less than his or her biweekly tour of duty, the LWOP hours are dropped. See 5 CFR 630.208.

24.0 ABSENCE WITHOUT LEAVE (AWOL) (0524)

24.1 General (052401)

If an employee who is required to work fails to report for duty without adequate reason for their absence, the agency may choose to place the employee on AWOL, and the employee may potentially be disciplined for the AWOL at the agency’s discretion. The agency makes the determination as to whether the employee has adequate reason for his or her absence. An absence from duty which is not authorized or approved, or for which a leave request has been denied, is properly charged as AWOL.

24.2 Reduction of Leave Accrual (052402)

The reduction of leave accrual is the same as for LWOP.

25.0 SUSPENSION (0525)

Suspension is the placement of an employee in a temporary nonpay and non-duty status for disciplinary reasons. An SF 50 must be issued for all suspensions. See 5 U.S.C., Chapter 75 and 5 CFR Part 752.

26.0 DISABLED VETERAN LEAVE (DVL) (0526)

26.1 Purpose (052601)

The Wounded Warriors Federal Leave Act of 2015, passed on November 5, 2015, establishes a new leave category for newly hired veterans of military service with a service-connected disability rating of 30 percent or more from the Veterans Benefits Administration (VBA). The intent of the law was to grant newly-hired veterans immediate access to up to 13 days (104 hours) of paid leave so that the employee does not need to take unpaid leave for the treatment of their service connected injuries. An employee can use up to 104 hours of DVL to attend medical appointments related to their service connected disability during a 12-month period of eligibility beginning on their first day of employment, as defined under subparagraph 052702.B. DVL is a one-time benefit provided to an eligible employee. See 5 U.S.C. § 6329; 5 CFR 630, subpart M; and the OPM Fact Sheet, Disabled Veteran Leave.
26.2 Eligibility and Submission of Certifying Documentation (052602)

26.2.1. Eligible Employees. An employee, hired on or after November 5, 2016, who is a veteran with a qualifying service-connected disability is eligible for disabled veteran leave. See 5 CFR 630.1304. For the purposes of DVL, hired after November 5, 2016, means the following:

26.2.1.1. Receiving an initial appointment to a civilian position qualifying for DVL,

26.2.1.2. Receiving a qualifying reappointment to a civilian position qualifying for DVL, or 26.2.1.3. Returning to duty status in a civilian position qualifying for DVL when the return immediately follows a break in civilian duty to perform military service. Employee must be in a continuous civilian leave status during the break.

26.2.2. Eligibility Period. An employee may use disabled veteran leave during the 12-month eligibility period beginning on their first day of employment. For purposes of determining the 12-month period, the first day of employment means the later of:

26.2.2.1. The earliest date an employee is hired (after the effective date of the employee’s qualifying service-connected disability as determined by the VBA), or 26.2.2.2. The effective date of the employee’s qualifying service-connected disability as determined by the VBA.

26.2.3. Certifying Documentation. The employee must provide their employing agency with documentation from the VBA certifying the employee has a service-connected disability rating of at least 30 percent or more. The certifying documentation must be provided to the employing agency as follows:

26.2.3.1. Upon the first day of employment, if the employee has already received certifying documentation from the VBA; or 26.2.3.2. If the employee has not yet received certifying documentation from the VBA, as soon as practicable after the employee receives the documentation.

26.2.4. Eligibility Period if Certifying Documentation is Submitted Late. If the employee submits the certifying documentation on a date later than required under subsection 25.2.3, the 12-month eligibility period is not affected and is still based on the first day of employment.

26.2.5. Changes in Eligibility. The employee must notify the agency if the disability rating is decreased below a 30 percent rating or discontinued in the 12-month eligibility period.
26.3 Crediting and Offsetting DVL (052603)

After confirming the employee’s eligibility for DVL, the servicing PRO must credit the employee with the appropriate amount of DVL. The number of hours credited is based on the employee’s work schedule. The total number of DVL hours initially credited must be offset by certain sick leave or “equivalent” disabled veteran leave as described in subparagraphs 26.3.1-26.3.6. See 5 CFR 630.1305 and the OPM Fact Sheet for examples.

26.3.1. Full-Time Employees. Full-time nonseasonal employees may receive a credit of 104 hours of DVL.

26.3.2. Part-Time Employees. The 104 hours is prorated based on the number of hours in the part-time schedule (as established for leave charging purposes) relative to a full-time schedule. For example, 52 hours of DVL is given to a half-time employee.

26.3.3. Seasonal Employees. The 104 hours is prorated based on the total projected hours to be worked in an annual period of 52 weeks relative to a full-time work year of 2,080 hours (for example, 52 hours for a seasonal employee who works full-time for half a year).

26.3.4. Uncommon Tour of Duty. The 104 hours is proportionally increased based on the number of hours in the uncommon tour of duty relative to the hours in a full-time tour (for example, 187 hours for an employee with a 72-hour weekly uncommon tour of duty).

26.3.5. Tour of Duty Change. If an employee’s tour of duty is converted to a different tour of duty, the employee’s balance of DVL must be converted to the proper number of hours based on the proportion of hours in the new tour of duty. See 5 CFR 630.1305.

26.3.6. Offsetting DVL Credits. When determining the initial number of hours of DVL credit, the servicing PRO must offset the credit for the following:

26.3.6.1. Sick Leave. Any hours of sick leave the employee has credited to their account as of the first day of employment (for example, if the employee is being reappointed and will have reccredited sick leave, the DVL must be reduced by the reccredited sick leave).

26.3.6.2. Equivalent DVL. Any hours of equivalent DVL used by an employee in a position not covered under 5 U.S.C. § 6329 (for example, if the employee has equivalent DVL granted under other statutory authority such as for personnel with the Federal Aviation Administration, the DVL must be reduced by the equivalent leave hours). See 5 CFR 630.1305(e).

26.4 Requesting and Using DVL (052604)

An employee may only use DVL only for medical treatment of a qualifying service-connected disability. The medical treatment may include a period of rest if so directed by a medical provider for treatment of the service-connected disability. See 5 CFR 630.1306.
26.4.1. Application for Leave. The application for leave may be a written, electronic, or oral request. The application must state the DVL will be used for medical treatment of the qualifying disability. The leave application must include the days and hours required of absence for treatment. The application must be submitted according to the employing agency’s leave submission requirements.

26.4.2. Retroactive Substitution of DVL Leave. If an employee does not provide the agency with certification for the service-connected disability prior to having to take leave connected to treatment of the service-connected disability, the employee is entitled to substitute approved DVL retroactively for such absences in the 12-month eligibility period (excluding periods of suspension or AWOL). The DVL may be retroactively substituted for LWOP, sick leave, annual leave, compensatory time off, or other paid time off in the 12-month eligibility period. Upon substituting the DVL, the servicing PRO must make appropriate adjustments to leave balances. If the employee retroactively substitutes DVL for advanced annual or advanced sick leave, the substitution will liquidate any leave indebtedness.

26.5 Medical Certification (052605)

26.5.1. Required Documentation. In addition to the employee’s request to utilize DVL as described in subparagraph 25.4.1, an agency may require a signed written medical certification issued by a health care provider. The agency may request any of the following:

26.5.1.1. A statement by a health care provider affirming the medical treatment is for the service-connected disability that resulted in 30 percent or more disability rating;

26.5.1.2. The dates and times of treatment (if the treatment extends over several days, then the beginning and ending dates of treatment);

26.5.1.3. If the leave was not requested in advance, a statement that the treatment required was urgent or there were other circumstances that made advance scheduling impossible; and 26.5.1.4. Any additional information the agency deems necessary to verify the employee’s eligibility.

26.5.2. Time Limit for Submission of the Medical Certification. An employee must provide any required written medical certification to the agency within 15 calendar days after the date requested by the agency. If the agency determines it is not practicable for the employee to provide the requested medical certification within 15 calendar days (despite the employee’s diligent and good faith efforts), the employee may be allowed to provide the medical certification within a reasonable period of time under the circumstances involved. The medical certification should be provided no later than 30 calendar days after the date the agency requests such documentation. If the employee does not provide the appropriate documentation within the allotted time, the employee is not entitled to use DVL. In such cases, the agency may charge the employee as AWOL or allow the employee to request that the absence be charged to LWOP, sick leave, annual leave, or other forms of paid time off. See 5 CFR 630.1307.
26.6  DVL Forfeiture, Transfer, and Reinstatement and Lump-Sum Payments (052606)

26.6.1.  Forfeiture

DVL not used during the 12-month eligibility period, may not be carried over to the next year and must be forfeited. If an employee’s disability rating is decreased under 30 percent during the 12-month eligibility period, any unused DVL on the employee’s leave account is forfeited effective the date of the change in rating.

26.6.2.  Transfer or Reinstatement

When an employee transfers between agencies or is reinstated to civilian service after a break in service, the following actions must be taken:

26.6.2.1.  Transfer Between Agencies With No Break in Service.  When an employee with DVL transfers or moves from a position in one agency to a different agency during the 12-month eligibility period without a break in service, the losing agency must certify the number of DVL hours available for credit by the gaining agency. The losing agency must also certify the expiration date of the employee’s 12-month eligibility period. Any remaining unused DVL at the end of the 12-month eligibility period is forfeited.

26.6.2.2.  Reinstatement After a Break in Service.  When an employee with DVL has a break in service of at least 1 workday and is reemployed in a position covered by 5 U.S.C. § 6329 within the same 12-month eligibility period, the employee is entitled to a recredit of the unused balance. The losing agency must certify the number of unused DVL hours available for recredit by the gaining agency. The losing agency must certify the expiration date of the 12-month eligibility period. In absence of such certification by the losing agency, the recredit may be supported as set out under 5 CFR 630.1308(d)(3). Any remaining unused DVL at the end of the 12-month eligibility period must be forfeited.

26.6.3.  Lump-Sum Leave Payments

An employee will not receive a lump-sum payment for unused DVL under any circumstance.

*27.0  EMERGENCY PAID LEAVE (EPL) (0527)

27.1  Overview (052701)

The American Rescue Plan Act of 2021 (PL 117-2) was enacted on March 11, 2021. Section 4001 of the Act established a new category of paid leave for Title 5 Federal employees based on certain COVID-19 related qualifying circumstances set forth in subparagraph 27.3. This paid leave is hereafter referred to as “emergency paid leave” (EPL). This leave is available only through September 30, 2021. See the OPM Memorandum, “COVID-19 Emergency Paid Leave”; OPM’s American Rescue Plan Act of 2021: BAL 21-303; and the DCPAS Reference Guide, “COVID-19 Emergency Paid Leave.”
27.2 Fund (052702)

The Emergency Federal Employee Leave Fund (hereafter referred to as the Fund), is established in the Treasury to be administered by the Director of the OPM. In addition to amounts otherwise available, $570 Million has been specifically appropriated and deposited into the Fund for EPL used during the period from March 11, 2021 to September 30, 2021 and remain available through the end of FY 2022 (September 30, 2022), unless the Fund becomes exhausted at an earlier date. The Fund is available for reasonable expenses incurred by OPM in administering EPL.

27.3 Purpose (052703)

Amounts in the Fund shall be available for reimbursement to an agency for the use of EPL. For information concerning how an agency is reimbursed, see BAL 21-203. The employee who is unable to work, including telework, can request EPL because the employee:

27.3.1. Is subject to a Federal, State, or local quarantine or isolation order related to COVID–19;

27.3.2. Has been advised by a health care provider to self-quarantine due to concerns related to COVID–19;

27.3.3. Is caring for an individual who is subject to such an order or has been so advised;

27.3.4. Is experiencing symptoms of COVID–19 and seeking a medical diagnosis;

27.3.5. Is caring for a son or daughter of such employee if:

27.3.5.1. The school or place of care of the son or daughter has been closed,

27.3.5.2. The school of such son or daughter requires or makes optional a virtual learning instruction model or requires or makes optional a hybrid of in-person and virtual learning instruction models, or 27.3.5.3. The child care provider of such son or daughter is unavailable, due to COVID–19 precautions.

27.3.6. Is experiencing any other substantially similar condition as approved by OPM;

27.3.7. Is caring for a family member with a mental or physical disability or who is 55 years of age or older and incapable of self-care, without regard to whether another individual other than the employee is available to care for such family member, if the place of care for such family member is closed or the direct care provider is unavailable due to COVID–19; or

27.3.8. Requires additional time in addition to the hours of administrative leave authorized in subparagraph 14.11 for recovery from any injury, disability, illness, or condition related to such immunization related to COVID-19.
27.4 Limitations (052704)

27.4.1 Period of Availability. EPL may only be provided to and used by an employee during the period beginning on March 11, 2021 and ending on September 30, 2021.

27.4.2 Total Hours. EPL:

27.4.2.1 Must be provided to an employee in an amount not to exceed 600 hours of paid leave for each full-time employee, and in the case of a part-time employee, employee on an uncommon tour of duty, or employee with a seasonal work schedule, in an amount not to exceed the proportional equivalent of 600 hours to the extent amounts in the Fund remain available for reimbursement;

27.4.2.2 Must be paid at the same hourly rate as other leave payments; and

27.4.2.3 In any biweekly pay period, an employee may be credited with hours of emergency paid leave only to the extent that the total amount of the payment for such leave does not exceed:

27.4.2.3.1 The amount of $2,800 for each full-time employee (including both regular full-time employees with an 80-hour biweekly tour of duty or employees with an uncommon tour of duty); or

27.4.2.2 A proportionally equivalent biweekly limit for a part-time employee (for example, $1,400 for a part-time employee who has a 40-hour biweekly tour instead of a full-time 80-hour biweekly tour, since 40/80 x $2,800 = $1,400).

27.5 Relationship to Other Leave (052705)

EPL is in addition to any other leave provided to an employee; and may not be used by an employee concurrently with any other paid leave.

27.6 Calculation of Retirement Benefit (052706)

Any EPL used by an employee shall reduce the total service used to calculate his or her Federal civilian retirement benefit.

MISCELLANEOUS ACTIONS (SPECIAL ACTIONS)

1.0 GENERAL (0601)

1.1 Purpose (060101)

This chapter prescribes the policy for miscellaneous actions, which occur outside of normal payroll processing.

*1.2 Authoritative Guidance (060102)

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with Title 5 of the United States Code (U.S.C.), and Titles 5 and 20 of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). Due to the subject matter in the chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each section are listed in a reference section at the end of this chapter.

2.0 UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION FOR FEDERAL EMPLOYEES (UCFE) (0602)

2.1 General (060201)

2.1.1 Purpose. The UCFE program provides eligible former federal civilian employees with unemployment compensation benefits during periods of unemployment. The Department of Labor (DOL) is responsible for implementing the UCFE Program.

2.1.2 UCFE Program Administration. UCFE is administered by the states as agents of the federal government under 5 U.S.C. Chapter 85 and 20 CFR Part 609. UCFE operates under the same terms and conditions as those that apply to regular state unemployment insurance programs. Generally, UCFE benefits are determined under the law of the state where the employee’s last official duty station as a federal civilian employee was located. State laws are not uniform and may vary in eligibility requirements. Each DoD component is responsible for managing its respective UCFE. The employing agency is responsible for the payment of these benefits; therefore, there is no payroll deduction from a federal employee’s wages for UCFE protection. See DoD Instruction (DoDI) 1400.25-V850 for additional information.

2.2 UCFE Claim-Related Forms (060202)

There are two primary claim forms pertaining to UCFE. Various State Employment Security Agencies (SESA) may require other claim forms. See DoDI 1400.25-V850 for other UCFE claim forms.
2.2.1. Standard Form (SF) 8, Notice to Federal Employees About Unemployment Insurance. The Human Resources Office (HRO) must issue the SF 8 to the employee when the employee separates from federal civilian service, transfers, or is placed in a non-pay status for 7 consecutive days or more. The form explains eligibility requirements for UCFE and provides general information on how to file a claim. The HRO should explain the form during an employee’s out-processing. For additional information on the SF 8, see DoDI 1400.25-V850.

2.2.2. Employment Security (ES) Form 931, Request for Wage and Separation Information. The SESA generates an ES 931 when a former federal employee files an initial claim for unemployment compensation. The state forwards the ES 931 to the servicing HRO to obtain wage information for specific work-year quarters. The HRO must complete and return the ES 931 to the SESA within 4 workdays of receipt. For additional information, see 20 CFR 609.21-22 and UCFE Instructions for Federal Agencies, Chapter VI.

2.3 Employing Activity Responsibilities (060203)

2.3.1. Provide Accurate Wage Data. The Civilian Payroll Office (PRO) must provide exact wage data through the HRO to the SESA in order for the SESA to determine the former employee’s weekly and maximum unemployment benefit amounts. The PRO must accurately report all monetary information affecting the claim, such as lump-sum annual leave payments, severance pay, annuity pay, or incentive pay.

2.3.2. Respond Timely to SESA Requests. The HRO must complete and return the ES 931 to the SESA within 4 workdays of receipt. If the PRO is unable to provide the requested information within a 4-workday period, the PRO must notify the HRO immediately and the HRO must follow the procedures in 20 CFR 609.21(b).

2.3.3. Refer All Inquiries to HRO. The central point of contact for all UCFE matters is the servicing HRO. All inquiries received by the PROs (such as state queries, telephone calls, and requests for UCFE documentation) will be referred to the servicing HRO. The servicing HRO must contact the PRO for any additional information.

2.4 Base-Period Wages and Annual Leave Information (060204)

2.4.1. Base-Period. Each state sets the amount and duration of unemployment compensation under UCFE that is payable to individuals. A “base-period” is defined by state law and used for determining the amount payable. A base-period is comprised of either 4 consecutive quarters or 52 weeks. Most states use a base-period that includes the first 4 of the last 5 completed calendar quarters. The amount of unemployment compensation benefits is based on the gross federal wages paid to or earned by an employee during the base-period preceding the date of claim.

2.4.2. Reportable Base-Period Federal Wages. Federal wages for purposes of UCFE means all allowances and pay in cash or in kind (including cash allowances and remuneration in any medium other than cash) for federal civilian service. See 5 U.S.C. § 8501.
2.4.2.1. Report Gross Amount of Base-Period Federal Wages. The amounts reported as base-period wages are gross wages before deductions for Social Security/Medicare, Civil Service Retirement System (CSRS), Federal Employees Retirement System (FERS), Thrift Savings Plan (TSP), and federal, state, and local taxes. Gross wages also include allowances and pay in a medium other than cash. Expenses for official business, such as taxi fares, per diem, or mileage, and payments for uniform allowances should not be included.

2.4.2.2. Types of Wages Included in Base-Period Wages. The DOL has determined the following specific types of wages are to be included in the amount reported as gross (base-period) wages:

2.4.2.2.1. Foreign and Non-Foreign Differentials and Allowances. Federal wages include cost-of-living differentials paid at various foreign posts and cash allowances for quarters and subsistence. An exemption from federal income tax for any such item does not exclude the payment from gross wages for the purposes of UCFE.

2.4.2.2.2. Back Pay. Federal wages include back pay awards. Back pay awards are counted as wages in the period for which they are paid. Include wages paid during the base-period, even though earned prior to that period. For additional information, see section 4.0.

2.4.2.2.3. Salaries Paid by DoD to Reemployed Annuitants. In the case of a civil service annuitant, who receives the difference between the salary rate and the amount of annuity, only the amount paid by the employing agency is federal wages. Thus, federal wages for UCFE is the amount equal to the difference between the salary of the position and the annuity received. The annuity paid by the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) is not federal wages for UCFE purposes.

2.4.2.2.4. Increases in Rates of Compensation Authorized by Acts of Congress. Such increases must be reported as wages for the pay period in which the increases are paid. This is required even if the first payment covers a retroactive period. If the base-period begins or ends during the pay period in which this payment was made, then the entire payment should be allocated to the second week of the pay period.

2.4.2.3. Reporting Methods for Base-Period Wages. The PRO reports wages the same way the records are kept. Adjustments are not made for wages earned by the employee for any days before the beginning of the quarter or the remaining days between the last payroll cutoff date and the end of the quarter. For example, if the pay period ends March 28, do not include March 29 through 31 in the wages reported for the January 1 to March 31 quarter. Do not report wages for periods other than those periods requested. If the claimant had no base-period wages, then indicate it on the report.

2.4.3. Other Wages Reported, but Not Included in Base-Period Wages

2.4.3.1. Lump-Sum Annual Leave. All lump-sum annual leave payments are federal wages for purposes of UCFE, but not reported as base-period wages. Report lump-sum leave payments separately from gross wages (base-period wages).
2.4.3.1.1. If the employee received a lump-sum payment for annual leave after the beginning date of the base-period, the PRO must furnish the following:

2.4.3.1.1.1. Amount of payment,
2.4.3.1.1.2. Date(s) of payment,
2.4.3.1.1.3. Amount of annual leave (days and hours), and
2.4.3.1.1.4. Period of lump-sum annual leave.

2.4.3.1.2. If lump-sum annual leave is payable but has not been paid, then report “annual leave payment due but not paid,” and provide details (period covered, amount of payment, when it will be paid) if known.

2.4.3.2. Severance Pay. Severance payments are reported separately from base-period wages. If the employee receives or entitled to receive severance pay, the PRO must report the information to the HRO. States with laws that require an offset of severance pay from UCFE benefits must be advised whether the former employee is receiving or will receive severance pay. The SESA obtains severance pay details from the employee’s copy of the SF 50, Notification of Personnel Action, and/or the ES 931, if appropriate.

2.4.3.3. Voluntary Early Retirement Authority (VERA) or Voluntary Separation Incentive Payment (VSIP). If the employee received authorization for VERA or VSIP, report the information in accordance with subparagraph 2.4.3.2.

2.5 Employees on Leave Without Pay (LWOP) (060205)

Upon the HRO’s receipt of the ES 931, the HRO must report the non-pay status of an employee to the SESA. The HRO must report LWOP from the starting date through the ending date and must include any other pertinent data. If the employee is in a non-pay status for more than 30 days, then the SF 50 provides the LWOP information. For LWOP of 30 days or less, the biweekly interface extract provides this information to the HRO. The HRO must indicate whether employees on LWOP are awaiting an on-the-job injury approval or disability retirement from the Office of Workers’ Compensation Programs (OWCP). If an employee is awaiting an OWCP determination, then the SESA is responsible for contacting the OWCP for any necessary data it needs.
2.6 Obtaining Data From the National Personnel Records Center (NPRC) (060206)

If the necessary records required to furnish wage data to the HRO have already been forwarded to the NPRC, the records must be requested via written authorization. This information is subject to The Privacy Act of 1974 (5 U.S.C. § 552a). Therefore, records must be handled in accordance with the provisions of the Act. Authorized representatives of federal personnel offices may request records by mailing the SF 127, Request for Official Personnel Folder, to the following address:

3.0 CLAIMS FROM EMPLOYEES FOR ADDITIONAL COMPENSATION (0603)

3.1 General (060301)

3.1.1 Authority to Settle Claims. Employees may file claims involving compensation or leave under 31 U.S.C. § 3702. The General Accounting Office (GAO) Act of 1996, Public Law 104-316, transferred the claims settlement functions previously performed by the GAO to certain executive branch agencies. For additional information, see GAO Transferred Functions. Therefore, both former and current employees must submit claims for additional compensation to the DoD employing activity in accordance with Volume 5, Chapter 12. Claims are individually processed and an administrative determination must be made as to whether or not the employee is entitled to the amount claimed. If the claim relates to the determination of an entitlement or similar matter that is the responsibility of the HRO, then the claim should be negotiated and documented through the employing activity’s personnel channels.

3.1.2 Review of Denied Claims. If a claim for payment is denied and the employee wishes to request further review, then the PRO must assemble all documentation pertaining to the claim, including documents from any review process, and forward the file to the Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS).

DFAS Indianapolis
Debt and Claims Management Office (DCMO)
Department 3300, ATTN: COR/Claims
8899 East 56th Street
Indianapolis, IN 46249-3300

The OPM Office of Merit Systems Oversight and Effectiveness (OMSOE) maintains the final authority to settle claims involving federal employees' compensation and leave and deceased employees' compensation. See 5 CFR Part 178 and Volume 5, Chapter 12.
3.1.3. Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) Claims. If an employee is not required to file an FLSA claim using a negotiated grievance procedure, he or she may file a claim with either the employing agency during the claim period or the OPM, but not with both at the same time. An employee, whose claim is denied by the agency, may file the claim with the OPM. See 5 CFR 551.703 and 5 CFR 551.705.

3.1.4. Statute of Limitations for Filing a Claim. Under 31 U.S.C. § 3702, a claim for payment must be filed within 6 years of the date the right to payment accrued. Claims for overtime pay under the FLSA are generally subject to a 2-year statute of limitations (3 years for willful violations). See 5 CFR 178.104 and 5 CFR 551.702.

3.2 Claims Submission (060302)

3.2.1. Filing a Claim. Claims should be filed with the activity at which the individual was/is employed during the period for which the additional compensation is claimed. When civilian pay claims cannot be resolved at the employing activity or major command level, the fully documented claim should be sent to the DCMO at the address listed in subparagraph 3.1.2.

3.2.2. Processing Claims

3.2.2.1. Approved Claims

3.2.2.1.1. Paying Unquestionable Claims. Claims received by the PRO from the claimant may be approved and paid when there is no question of law or fact.

3.2.2.1.2. Claims Subsequently Approved by OPM. Any claim received by the PRO from the OPM, including those originally received by the DCMO and forwarded to the OPM for final review, must be acted upon in accordance with instructions in the letter or order transmitting the claim to the PRO. When payment is made by the PRO, the claim must be paid as part of the regular payroll.

3.2.2.2. Disapproved Claims. Claims not received through the OPM that are denied administratively by the PRO must be returned to the claimant with a letter providing a detailed explanation concerning why the claim was disapproved. If the employee appeals the denial of the claim, then the PRO must forward the claim with a transmittal letter (prepared by the PRO) to the OPM via the DCMO. See subparagraph 3.1.2.

3.2.3. Content of Claims. All claims submitted by the claimant/employee to the employing activity must be in writing and signed by the claimant or his/her representative. While no specific form is required, the request should describe the basis for the claim and state the monetary amount sought.
3.2.4. Submission of Disapproved/Denied Claims to OPM for Review. If a denied claim is submitted at the claimant’s request for final review by the OPM, the claim should include:

3.2.4.1. Claimant’s name, address, telephone number, and facsimile number, if available;

3.2.4.2. Name, address, telephone number, and facsimile number of the agency employee who denied the claim;

3.2.4.3. A copy of the agency’s denial of the claim; and

3.2.4.4. Any other information the claimant wants the OPM to consider.

3.2.5. Administrative Report. At the OPM’s request, the PRO/DCMO will submit an administrative report, which will include:

3.2.5.1. Factual findings;

3.2.5.2. Conclusions of law with relevant citations;

3.2.5.3. Recommendation for the claims disposition;

3.2.5.4. Copy of any supporting regulations or policy memorandums;

3.2.5.5. A statement that the claimant is or is not a member of a collective bargaining unit and, if so, a statement that the claim is or is not covered by a negotiated grievance procedure that specifically excludes the claim from coverage; and

3.2.5.6. Any other information that the OPM should consider.

3.3 Advance Decisions (060303)

The OPM maintains the authority to issue advance decisions for claims settlement.

4.0 BACK PAY UNDER 5 U.S.C. § 5596 (THE BACK PAY ACT) (0604)

4.1 General (060401)

4.1.1. Authority. The Back Pay Act at 5 U.S.C. § 5596 provides the authority for the payment of back pay, interest, and reasonable attorney fees for the purpose of making a federal employee financially whole (to the extent possible) after an unwarranted or unjustified personnel action. See also 5 CFR 550, subpart H.
4.1.2. Introduction. Back pay is appropriate when, based on a timely appeal or an administrative determination (including a decision relating to an unfair labor practice or a grievance), an appropriate authority finds that the employee was affected by an unjustified or unwarranted personnel action. Such action must have resulted in the withdrawal, reduction, or denial of all or part of the pay, allowances, and differentials otherwise due the employee under an applicable law, rule, regulation, or provision of a collective bargaining agreement. The HRO will determine an employee’s entitlement to back pay and document the determination in the “Remarks” section of the SF 50.

4.1.3. Invoking the Back Pay Act. Some settlement agreements or orders may not directly invoke the requirements of the Back Pay Act by citing 5 U.S.C. § 5596. Generally, if an agreement or order uses an undefined term of art like “back pay” without defining it, DFAS will apply the regulatory or statutory definition of the term. In such cases, back pay will be processed pursuant to the Back Pay Act unless the agreement or order expresses a contrary intent.

4.1.4. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission Cases Under Title VII. Title VII of the Civil Rights Act provides authority for agencies to award back pay to employees in discrimination cases. Such cases are independent of the Back Pay Act and back pay is authorized under Title VII without the finding of an unjustified or unwarranted personnel action. An award of back pay under Title VII is computed in the same manner as under the Back Pay Act regulations pursuant to 29 CFR 1614.501. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e and 42 U.S.C. § 1981a.

4.1.5. Non-Appropriated Fund (NAF) Employees. The Back Pay Act does not apply to NAF employees. NAF employees may receive back pay, but such payments are not made under the Back Pay Act and interest is not payable.

4.1.6. Lump-Sum Payments In Lieu of Back Pay. A lump-sum payment “in lieu of back pay” is a payment offered in settlement of a case and not considered back pay processed under the Back Pay Act. See paragraph 4.14 for information on processing lump-sum payments and proper tax reporting and withholding.

4.2 Correcting an Unjustified or Un warranted Personnel Action (060402)

4.2.1. Back Pay May Not Exceed Originally Owed Entitlements. When an unjustified or unwarranted personnel action is corrected or awaiting correction, the employee may receive credit for performing federal service during the period covered by the corrective action (back pay period). The PRO must compute, for the back pay period, the employee’s pay, allowances, and differentials as if the improper personnel action had never occurred. In no case, can the amount of pay, allowances, or differentials (including leave benefits) paid under the Back Pay Act exceed the amount that the employee would have been entitled to had the unwarranted personnel action not occurred. See 5 CFR 550.805.

4.2.2. Employees Who Return to Duty or Resign From Duty. When an employee has been separated, corrective action will be completed on the date the DoD has reasonably set for the employee’s return to duty. The DoD will notify the employee of the return date in writing. Until that date, the erroneous action remains in effect. Failure by the employee to report for duty on the date set by the DoD may result in the employee being charged annual leave, LWOP, or absence without leave for the period from the date set for return to duty until the date the employee actually returns to work. An employee who resigns instead of returning to duty is still entitled to back pay since there is no requirement that the employee return to duty. In that event, the employee will receive back pay up to the date that he or she is considered separated from federal service, which may or may not be the date that he or she is requested to report for duty.

4.3 Statute of Limitations (060403)

4.3.1. Six-Year Limitation. Under the Back Pay Act, an agency may not authorize pay, allowances, and differentials for a period beginning more than 6 years before the date of the filing of a timely written claim, or absent such filing, the date of the administrative determination that the employee is entitled to back pay. See 5 CFR 550.804.

4.3.2. FLSA Claims. If a back pay claim involves an entitlement under the FLSA at 29 U.S.C. § 207, then an agency must apply a 2-year statute of limitations (3 years for willful violations). This applies to all FLSA claims filed on or after June 30, 1994. See 5 CFR 551, subpart G.

4.3.3. Back Pay Act vs. Barring Act. The Barring Act statute of limitation under 31 U.S.C. § 3702 sets a time limit on how long an individual has to file a claim against the United States (within 6 years after the claim accrues). The Back Pay Act statute of limitation sets a time limit on the remedy received (no more than 6 years of back pay).

4.4 Gross Back Pay Computations (060404)

4.4.1. General. When computing the amount of gross back pay due an employee, the agency must compute all pay, allowances, and differentials the employee would have received if the unjustified or unwarranted personnel action had not occurred. This includes pay, leave, and other monetary employment benefits the employee would have been entitled to receive during the back pay period. The PRO must include premium pay and any changes that would affect the amount of pay owed. See 5 CFR 550.805.

4.4.2. Periods Excluded From Back Pay Computations. The following periods are not included in the computation of back pay. See 5 CFR 550.805(c) and (d).

4.4.2.1. Periods of Incapacitating Illness. Back pay is not paid for any period during which the employee was not ready, willing, and able to perform his or her duties because of an incapacitating illness. However, the employing agency must grant, upon request of the employee, any accrued sick or annual leave to cover the period of incapacity due to illness or injury.

4.4.2.2. Periods of Unavailability. Back pay is not paid for any period during which the employee was unavailable for performance of his or her duties for reasons not related to, or caused by, the unjustified or unwarranted personnel action.
4.4.3. Within-Grade Increases (WGI). When computing an employee’s pay, the PRO must include any WGI to which the employee became entitled during the back pay period. If the grant or denial of a WGI requires an acceptable level of competence determination under 5 CFR Part 531, the requirements for such a determination, including the right of reconsideration and appeal, must be followed before the WGI may be included in the computation of the amount of back pay due the employee. This also applies to determinations made retroactively. Regulations governing WIGIs allow for a waiver of the requirement of an acceptable level of competence determination when the employee has not served in any position for the minimum period during the final 52 calendar weeks of the waiting period because the employee received service credit under the Back Pay Act.

4.4.4. Overtime the Employee Would Have Earned. When computing the back pay of an employee who is restored to duty, any overtime the employee would have earned during the period of wrongful suspension or separation should be included in the back pay even though the overtime was not actually scheduled. The method of computing overtime incident to a back pay award due an employee may be based on the average number of overtime hours worked by fellow employees occupying similar positions during the same period.

4.4.5. Overtime Under a Collective Bargaining Agreement or Regulation. An employee who should have been selected for overtime work because a regulation or a collective bargaining agreement provided for assignment of overtime work in a prescribed manner is entitled to back pay for the overtime if the regulation or nondiscretionary provision of the agreement was violated. The appropriate authority must find that the action taken was unjustified or unwarranted, and direct corrective action. The overtime will be computed based on the number of hours worked by an employee who was actually selected to perform the overtime work during the same period.

4.4.6. Allowances or Differentials. The PRO must include in the back pay owed to the employee any allowances or differentials that the employee would have received if the improper personnel action had not occurred. This is true even though the employee did not physically remain in the location upon which the entitlement is based.

4.4.7. Hazardous Duty Pay. General Schedule employees that also meet the requirements in 5 CFR 550.904, may be eligible to receive irregular or intermittent pay for physical hardship or hazard duty. The PRO may assist the HRO to determine the number of days per week the employee performed the irregular or intermittent hardship or hazard duty during the 52 weeks preceding the wrongful suspension or separation for which the employee would have been compensated. The PRO may use an average of the amounts to make the necessary computations as authorized by the HRO.

4.4.8. Environmental Differentials. Federal Wage System (FWS) prevailing rate (wage) employees may be eligible to receive environmental differential pay under the separate provisions of 5 U.S.C. § 5343(c)(4). Payment of environmental differentials on an actual exposure basis, or based on hours in a pay status, must be computed in accordance with the OPM regulations and instructions. The DoD determines entitlement to such differentials based on the 52 weeks preceding the wrongful suspension or separation for which the FWS employee would have been compensated. See 5 CFR 532.511.
4.4.9. Intermittent Employees. When the DoD is not able to determine with certainty the number of hours that the intermittent employee would have worked during the back pay period, the HRO may estimate the amount of back pay due. This estimate is determined by taking an average of the number of hours worked by other DoD employees under the same type of appointment and performing the same kind of work that the employee would have been assigned to during this period. Alternatively, the HRO also may determine the average number of hours a week the employee actually worked to obtain a representative period preceding the unjustified or unwarranted personnel action (such as 26 or 52 weeks, whichever would represent a fairer approximation of the employee’s earnings if he or she had actually worked). The HRO may use the average weekly hours to make the necessary computations.

4.4.10. Cash Awards. Back pay includes any cash award the employee would have been entitled to if the unjustified or unwarranted personnel action had not occurred. The award must be supported by the appropriate personnel action.

4.5 Adjusted Gross Back Pay (060405)

4.5.1. General. Adjusted gross back pay means gross back pay less the offset for outside earnings under 5 CFR 550.805(e)(1), but before adding interest. See Figures 6-1 and 6-2 for examples showing various entitlements, deductions for erroneous payments, and other authorized deductions in the computation of back pay.

4.5.2. Outside or Interim Earnings

4.5.2.1. Interim Earnings Defined. Under 5 CFR 550.805(e)(1), interim or outside earnings refer to gross earnings, less any associated business loses or expenses, received by an employee for any employment or business enterprise undertaken to replace the employment from which the employee was separated due to the unjustified or unwarranted personnel action. However, deductions for losses sustained in a venture unrelated to the separation are not allowable.

4.5.2.2. PRO Duties. The PRO must determine the adjusted gross back pay by offsetting (deducting) any outside earnings that were earned by an employee from other employment during the period of wrongful suspension or separation. The amount of back pay entitlement is the difference between the amount of compensation the employee would have earned in government service, and the amount actually earned in other employment undertaken by the employee to replace the government employment. Overtime earned during the period of wrongful suspension or separation that is in excess of that overtime, which would have been earned in the position from which the employee was separated, should not be offset. When an employee’s total outside earnings (including those from other federal employment) exceed the total amount of back pay, the employee may retain the excess amount.

4.5.2.3. Outside Earnings Exceed Back Pay. When an employee’s outside earnings exceed the back pay award, the employee does not owe the difference to the government. The employee must be indebted for any amounts owed for retirement contributions or health care premiums. See paragraph 4.11 for TSP contributions.
4.5.3. Exception for Additional or “Moonlight” Employment. The only earnings from other employment that are not deducted from back pay are earnings from outside employment the employee already had before the period of wrongful suspension or separation. For example, if an employee usually worked 20 hours at a second part-time job (“moonlighting”) prior to separation from government employment, and during the period of separation worked 40 hours at the outside job, then the amount representing the extra 20 hours worked would be offset against the back pay computation. To determine whether the pay for outside employment increased substantially during the period of separation, the DoD should obtain a statement or an affidavit from the employee covering his or her outside earnings.

4.6 Interest on Back Pay Awards (060406)

4.6.1. General. Under 5 U.S.C. § 5596, interest is paid on all back pay awards that are finalized on or after December 22, 1987. Interest begins to accrue on the effective date on which the employee would have received the pay, allowances, and differentials if the unjustified or unwarranted personnel action had not occurred. As a result, most computations will involve a series of effective dates, one for each date (usually, a pay date) on which the employee failed to receive an amount of pay, allowances, and differentials due him or her because of the unjustified or unwarranted personnel action. See 5 CFR 550.806.

4.6.2. Outside Earnings Offset. Interest is paid on the adjusted gross pay amount (gross back pay less any offset for outside earnings). Interest is computed before making any deductions for erroneous payments. For purposes of computing back pay interest, an outside earnings offset is applied as a constant percentage offset to each payment of back pay for each pay period during the period covered by the corrected action. This percentage offset is determined by dividing the employee’s outside earnings under 5 CFR 550.805(e)(1) by the total amount of back pay owed to the employee prior to any deductions. See 5 CFR 550.806(b).

4.6.3. Date Interest Accrual Ends. The DoD must issue interest within 30 calendar days of the date on which accrual of interest ends. If issuance of the interest payment is delayed, more than 30 calendar days after the date on which accrual of interest ends, then interest must be recomputed based on a new ending date meeting the 30-day requirement. Back pay and interest should be paid simultaneously whenever possible. When the interest payment is issued after the payment of the back pay, see 5 CFR 550.806(g) for calculation on any interest on interest owed.

4.6.4. Interest Rate. The applicable interest rate is the “overpayment rate” adjusted quarterly by the Secretary of the Treasury and published in an Internal Revenue Service (IRS) bulletin issued before the beginning of each quarter.

4.6.5. OPM Interest Calculator and Taxation of Interest. The PRO must compute interest in accordance with the formula or computer software provided to the PROs by the OPM. The PRO may not withhold taxes from interest payments on back pay awards. The PROs will provide employees with the IRS Form 1099-INT, Interest Income, for all interest payments.
4.7 Deductions of Erroneous Payments From Back Pay (060407)

4.7.1 General. In the context of back pay, erroneous payments are payments that were received by an employee from the government as a result of the unjustified or unwarranted personnel action. Erroneous payments must be returned to the appropriate government agency or pay system. Such payments must be recovered from the back pay award. If the back pay award is insufficient to satisfy the full recovery, then a debt must be established against the employee. See 5 CFR 550.805(e)(2).

4.7.1.1 Retirement Annuity Payments

4.7.1.1.1 An erroneously separated employee, who received retirement annuity payments (either special payments or regular annuity payments) as a result of the separation, is indebted to the United States Federal Government for the gross amount of retirement annuity payments paid to the employee during the period of wrongful separation.

4.7.1.1.2 Because the gross amount of annuity payments was previously reduced by required health and life insurance premiums, the PRO will recover an annuity amount from the back pay award that equals the gross annuity less health and life insurance premiums.

4.7.1.1.3 The PRO must transfer the recovered annuity amount to the retirement system.

4.7.1.1.4 The government will recover amounts paid from the CSRS or FERS gross annuity for health and life insurance premiums from the respective carriers for those programs in order to settle the retired employee’s account.

4.7.1.1.5 The PRO then must collect from the back pay any required health insurance premiums for coverage during the period following restoration and transfer that amount, plus the agency’s share, to the OPM.

4.7.1.2 Refund of Retirement Contributions. 5 U.S.C. § 8342(a) authorizes a refund of an employee’s retirement contributions only upon absolute separation from the service or transfer to a position not subject to the law. An employee must be separated, or transferred, for at least 31 consecutive days to be eligible for this refund. Therefore, a refund of retirement contributions paid to an employee based on a separation, which subsequently is found erroneous and canceled by restoring the employee to duty retroactively so that there was no break in service, removes the legal basis for the refund. A refund paid in error represents a debt due the retirement fund and must be deducted from any back pay entitlement. If the restored employee is entitled to back pay, then the PRO must contact the OPM to determine if the employee received such a refund and then offset the amount from the back pay entitlement. The PRO must remit the appropriate amount to the OPM.

4.7.1.3 Severance Pay. The gross severance pay paid to an erroneously separated employee at the time of his or her removal must be deducted from the back pay award upon restoration to duty.
4.7.1.4. Lump-Sum Payment for Annual Leave. Any erroneously separated employee who receives a lump-sum payment under 5 U.S.C. § 5551(a) prior to separation, must repay the lump-sum payment upon reinstatement to duty. The PRO must restore the employee to duty and cancel the separation, thereby making the lump-sum payment erroneous. The PRO must offset any lump-sum payment received by the employee against the employee’s back pay award and credit the leave to the employee’s leave account. No authority exists that would permit an employee to retain the lump-sum payment in lieu of receiving credit for the leave.

4.7.2. Order of Precedence. The order of precedence for deducting erroneous payments from back pay awards when the net amount of back pay is insufficient to cover all the deductions is as follows:

4.7.2.1. Retirement annuity payments,

4.7.2.2. Refunds of retirement contributions,

4.7.2.3. Severance pay, then

4.7.2.4. Any lump-sum payment for accrued annual leave.

4.7.3. Waiver of Erroneous Payments

4.7.3.1. Retirement Fund Payments. Employees may request OPM waive recovery of erroneous payments from the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund (CSRDF). Requests for waiver should be submitted to the following address:

U.S. Office of Personnel Management
Office of Retirement Programs
Reconsideration and Debt Collection Division
1900 East Street NW, Room 3H30
Washington, D.C. 20415

Employees may also submit requests to the same address to repay debts owed to the CSRDF by installment deductions from salary.

4.7.3.2. Waiver of Lump-Sum Annual Leave and Severance Payments. For severance pay and lump-sum annual leave payments, any net indebtedness remaining after liquidation of back pay may be eligible for a waiver of repayment (by the GAO or DFAS, as applicable) under the authority of 5 U.S.C. § 5584.
4.8 Other Authorized Deductions From Back Pay (060408)

Authorized deductions that would have been made from the employee’s pay (if paid when due) should be made by the PRO in accordance with the normal order of precedence for deductions from pay. See 5 CFR 550.805(e)(3). Authorized deductions include the following:

4.8.1. Mandatory Employee Retirement Contributions. The PRO must compute the employee retirement contributions on the employee’s gross back pay subject to retirement, and deduct the contributions after subtracting the earnings from outside employment. Even if no amount of back pay is due because of excessive outside earnings, the employee must be indebted for the appropriate amount of retirement fund contributions. See 5 U.S.C. § 8334(c). If an employee is retroactively placed in an LWOP status under the terms of a settlement agreement or order and no back pay is due, both the employee and agency contributions for the LWOP period must still be submitted to the OPM. 5 CFR 842.304(a)(4), which grants retirement credit during periods of LWOP without requiring employee contributions, does not apply to situations involving retroactively applied LWOP granted under a settlement agreement or order.

4.8.2. Social Security and Medicare Taxes. The PRO must compute and deduct the Social Security taxes, also known as Old Age Survivor Disability Insurance (OASDI), and Medicare taxes on the adjusted gross back pay.

4.8.3. Federal Income Tax Withholding. The PRO must compute income tax withholdings on the adjusted gross back pay less any part of back pay not subject to income tax deductions. Therefore, if the back pay amount includes any amount not subject to income tax deductions, such as non-foreign area cost-of-living allowances and contributions to TSP, the PRO must compute the taxes after reducing the adjusted gross back pay by these nontaxable amounts.

4.8.4. Insurance Premiums and TSP. If applicable, health and life insurance premiums and TSP contributions may be made from the remaining back pay due the employee. Health insurance premiums for an employee restored to duty following an erroneous separation for retirement must be deducted if coverage under the health benefits program continued without interruption during the erroneous retirement. The PRO must withhold any additional premiums the employee owes due to a retroactive increase in basic pay.

4.8.5. Flexible Spending Accounts (FSA). At the request of the employee, FSA contributions may be deducted from the back pay award in the amount that would have been allotted to the employee’s FSA if the unjustified or unwarranted personnel action had not occurred. The FSA contributions may be used to cover eligible medical expenses incurred during the corresponding back pay period.
4.9 Restoration of Leave (060409)

4.9.1 Annual Leave. Annual leave that is restored to an employee as a result of the correction of an unjustified or unwarranted personnel action in excess of the maximum leave accumulation amount authorized by law must be credited to a separate leave account for use by the employee. See 5 CFR 550.805(g). The restored leave must be scheduled and used as provided in this section. If restored leave is not used within the prescribed periods, it is forfeited. Refer to 5 U.S.C. § 5596(b)(1)(B) for additional information.

4.9.1.1. Full-Time Employees. For a full-time employee, excess annual leave of 416 hours or less must be scheduled and used by the end of the leave year in progress 2 years after the date on which the annual leave is credited to the separate account. This period is extended by 1-leave year for each additional 208 hours of excess annual leave or any portion thereof.

4.9.1.2. Part-Time Employees. A part-time employee must schedule and use excess annual leave in an amount equal to or less than 20 percent of the employee’s scheduled tour of duty over a 52 calendar week period by the end of the leave year in progress 2 years after the date on which the annual leave is credited to the separate account. The agency will extend this period by 1-leave year for each additional number of hours of excess annual leave, or any portion thereof, equal to 10 percent of the employee’s scheduled tour of duty over a period of 52 calendar weeks.

4.9.1.3. Time Limitations

4.9.1.3.1. For both part-time and full-time employees, the ending date of the time limit for use of excess annual leave may not be exactly 2 years from the date on which the annual leave is credited to the separate account (or exactly at the end of any additional year added to the 2-year period). Rather, the time limit ends at the end of the leave year ending 2 years after the restoration. For example, if the 2-year period ends in July, an employee would have until the end of the current leave year (December or January) to use the restored annual leave.

4.9.1.3.2. To determine the time limitations for use of restored leave, see Chapter 5.

4.9.2 Sick Leave. If an employee is reinstated to an agency as a result of an appeal, the agency must reestablish the employee’s sick leave account as a credit or charge as it was at the time of separation. See 5 CFR 630.502. Upon request of an employee, the PRO may grant any sick or annual leave available to the employee for a period of incapacitation if the employee can establish that the period of incapacitation was the result of illness or injury. See 5 CFR 550.805(d).
4.10 Health Insurance and Life Insurance Coverage (060410)

4.10.1 Health Insurance. Under 5 U.S.C. § 8908, an employee who was removed or suspended without pay, and who was restored to duty on the grounds that the removal or suspension was unjustified, may elect one of the following options:

4.10.1.1. The employee may have the prior enrollment reinstated retroactive to the termination date, with appropriate adjustments made in contributions and claims, as if no removal or suspension had occurred. If the employee elects to have the enrollment retroactively reinstated, then payroll deductions for the period of suspension or removal must be made from the back pay award and the government premium contributions should be made as though the suspension or removal had not occurred.

4.10.1.2. The employee may enroll in the same manner as a new employee.

4.10.2 Health Insurance Provision for Erroneous Retirement. The statutory provisions of 5 U.S.C. § 8908 do not apply to an employee separated erroneously for retirement under conditions entitling him or her to continued enrollment. In such cases, there is no need to restore health benefits coverage since coverage transfers to the retirement system and continues automatically. For additional information, refer to the Federal Employees Health Benefits (FEHB) Program Handbook.

4.10.3 Life Insurance

4.10.3.1 Withholding for Employees With Coverage at the Time of Removal. If an employee is retroactively restored to duty with back pay after a period of wrongful suspension or separation, no life insurance premium withholding is made from the retroactive pay adjustment for the period of suspension or separation. However, if death or dismemberment occurred during the period of wrongful suspension or separation, premiums are withheld from the back pay. Additionally, if the employee maintains Option C coverage and a covered family member dies during the period of separation or removal, Option C premiums should be withheld from the back pay award. See 5 CFR 880.304 and the Federal Employees Group Life Insurance (FEGLI) Handbook for additional information.

4.10.3.2 Employees With Coverage Who Missed Open Season. If an employee had life insurance coverage prior to a wrongful suspension or removal, and the employee is restored to duty after the closing date of an open season for life insurance that occurred during the employee’s period of wrongful suspension or separation, the employee is entitled upon restoration to elect additional life insurance coverage as permitted during the open season. The effective date is the first day in a pay-and-duty status on or after the date that the employing office receives the SF 2817, Life Insurance Election.

4.10.3.3 Employees Who Had No Coverage Prior to Removal. If an employee had no life insurance coverage prior to a wrongful suspension or separation, and the employee is restored to duty after the closing date of open season for life insurance that occurred during the employee’s period of wrongful suspension or separation, the employee is entitled upon restoration to elect life insurance coverage as permitted during the open season. Since coverage for basic life insurance is automatic, the effective date is the first day in a pay-and-duty status. For options A, B, and C, the effective date is the first day in a pay-and-duty status on or after the date the SF 2817 is received by the employing office.

4.11 TSP (060411)

4.11.1 TSP Contributions From Back Pay Award. An erroneously separated employee may request that any employee TSP contributions not made during the period of erroneous separation be deducted from his or her back pay award. The makeup contributions may be elected by reinstating the employee’s contribution election on file at the time of separation. Alternatively, the employee may submit a new contribution election if he or she would have been eligible to make such an election but for the erroneous separation. Unless otherwise specified by the agency or reinstatement order, breakage or “lost earnings” is paid on all makeup contributions and calculated in accordance with 5 CFR 1605.2. The employee will receive the tax benefit in the year the contributions are made. The PRO must calculate the TSP amount using the gross basic pay amount of the back pay award prior to any offset for outside earnings. For additional information, see 5 CFR Part 1605 and Chapter 11.

4.11.2 TSP Contributions When Back Pay Is Insufficient. An employee’s outside earnings may offset the total amount of back pay owed, or the employee may otherwise have insufficient back pay to deduct TSP contributions. Basic pay is the only allowable source for TSP contributions. See 5 U.S.C. § 8432 and 5 CFR 1605.11. An employee’s makeup contributions may only be made through payroll deductions. TSP contributions may not be made by check, money order, cash, or other form of payment directly from the employee to TSP, or from the employee to DFAS for deposit to TSP. If no back pay is available for TSP contributions, a current or reinstated employee may only make up TSP contributions through future payroll deductions.

4.12 Payment of Reasonable Attorney Fees (060412)

Title 5, U.S.C. § 5596(b)(1)(A)(ii) provides for payment of reasonable attorney fees in accordance with the standards established under 5 U.S.C. § 7701(g), under certain conditions. Under 5 CFR 550.807, an employee, or an employee’s personal representative, may request payment of reasonable attorney fees related to an unjustified or unwarranted personnel action that resulted in the withdrawal, reduction, or denial of all or part of the amount due the employee.

4.13 Back Pay and Offsetting UCFE (060413)

4.13.1 If a reinstated employee is entitled to back pay, then the HRO must determine if the employee applied for unemployment compensation via the UCFE program within the last 52 weeks. If the employee applied for or received unemployment compensation, then the HRO must promptly notify the SESA of the date of the back pay payment, the amount, and the period covered.
4.13.2. The DoD will not deduct the amount of unemployment compensation paid during the back pay period from the back pay award unless state law requires the employer (rather than the employee) to reimburse the state for overpayments. In some cases, a state agency may also determine that an overpayment has occurred and notify the federal government as the employing agency. See the DOL’s Comparison of State Unemployment Insurance Laws, Chapter 5, Table 5-15 and 65 Comp. Gen 865 (1986). See also DoDI 1400.25-V850.

4.14 Tax Withholding and Reporting in Back Pay Matters (060414)

4.14.1. General. For information on proper tax withholding and reporting in back pay matters, refer to IRS Memorandum PMTA 2009-035, Income and Employment Tax Consequences and Proper Reporting of Employment-Related Judgements and Settlements (October 22, 2008). For income tax purposes, the IRS treats back pay as wages in the year paid. See also IRS Publication 957, Reporting Back Pay and Special Wage Payments to the Social Security Administration (SSA).

4.14.2. Lump-Sum Payments. A settlement or order may require an employing agency to issue a lump-sum payment be paid to the employee in lieu of back pay or as an award of damages. To ensure proper tax reporting and withholding, employing agencies should make every effort to identify the nature of lump-sum payment(s) awarded as being wages or non-wages. The PRO must review the nature of the payment before processing and should contact the agency if there is a question as to the identity or apportionment of a lump-sum payment.

4.14.2.1. Wages. Generally, if a settlement or order requires an employing agency to pay the employee a lump-sum payment, the payment should be considered wages for tax purposes if the payment is not clearly identified as damages or attorney fees. A lump-sum representing wages must be submitted to the PRO as an individual award to ensure proper processing. Federal and state taxes, OASDI, and Medicare taxes are withheld from wage payments. A wage payment is reported on the IRS Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement.

4.14.2.2. Non-Wages. Lump-sum payments of damages are processed by the DFAS Vendor Pay (or other appropriate vendor pay office) and are reported on the IRS Form 1099-MISC, Miscellaneous Income, with no taxes withheld.

4.14.3. Attorney Fees. Payments to attorneys are generally taxable to the employee. An employee must include in their gross income the entire amount of the judgment or settlement, including the amount paid to the attorney. Depending on how the payment is made, there may be tax reporting to both the attorney and the employee.

4.14.4. Judgment Fund Payments. The U.S. Department of Treasury operates the Judgment Fund under 31 U.S.C. § 1304. Back pay awards may be paid out of the Judgment Fund. Treasury regulations require the agency that submits a request for payment from the Judgment Fund issue the tax reporting. Therefore, for employees paid by DFAS, DFAS will issue the tax reporting on behalf of the employing agency even when the award of back pay or damages is made from the Judgment Fund. See 31 CFR 256.51.
5.0 CONTINUATION OF PAY (COP) (INJURY COMPENSATION) (0605)

5.1 General (060501)

The Federal Employees’ Compensation Act (FECA), 5 U.S.C., Chapter 81, provides for the payment of workers’ compensation benefits and authorized medical care for all civilian employees of the United States for disability due to personal injury sustained while in the performance of duty. The U.S. DOL OWCP administers FECA through district offices. Each HRO maintains the address of the district office servicing its region. The regulations governing injury compensation are contained in 20 CFR Part 10. For additional information, see Injury Compensation in DoDI 1400.25-V810. See also the DOL’s Division of Federal Employees' Compensation (DFEC) Procedure Manual.

5.2 45 Calendar Days of COP (060502)

Civilian employees are entitled to medical care and compensation for absences due to traumatic on-the-job injuries and disease sustained while in the performance of duty. Traumatic injury is not the same as disability from occupational disease. Eligible employees are entitled to the continuation of regular pay, or COP, for a period not to exceed 45 calendar days per occurrence. The pay is subject to OASDI and/or Medicare, federal, state, and local tax, retirement, and all other normal deductions. For a separated employee (unless the date of termination has been established prior to the injury), COP will be subject to OASDI and/or Medicare, federal, state, and local tax, where appropriate. The PRO may not take any additional deductions. The injured employee’s pay will continue unless the DOL denies the claim.

5.3 Calculation of COP (060503)

5.3.1 Computation of COP Days

5.3.1.1 Calendar Days. Days are counted on a calendar basis. If an employee is charged COP on Friday and the disability continues through the weekend, then the employee is charged COP for Saturday and Sunday. Holidays, weekends, and regular days off following a COP day count as COP days. If 1 hour is used to see a physician and 7 hours are worked, the day is still counted as 1 full day of COP. The employee’s time and attendance must reflect the actual hours worked to accurately reflect the employee’s work record.

5.3.1.2 Period Charged to COP. Unless the injury occurs before the beginning of the workday, time lost on the day of injury must be charged to administrative leave. The period charged to COP begins with the first day or shift of disability or medical treatment following the date of injury, provided the absence began within 45 days after the injury. COP must be charged for weekends and holidays if the medical evidence shows the employee was disabled on the days in question. For example, if the physician indicates that disability will continue only through Saturday for an individual who has Saturday and Sunday off, then COP will be charged only through Saturday.

5.3.1.3 Full Days Charged to COP. If work stoppage occurs for only a portion of a day or shift other than the date of injury, then a full day of COP will be counted against the 45 calendar day entitlement, even though the employee is not entitled to COP for the entire day or shift. For example, if an employee who has returned to work uses 3 hours in order to receive physical therapy for the effects of the injury, then the employee is entitled only to 3 hours of COP, even though 1 full calendar day will be charged against the 45-day limit. If an employee is absent for all or part of the same remaining workday, then the time lost must be covered by leave, as appropriate, since absence beyond the time needed to obtain the physical therapy must not be charged to COP.

5.3.1.4. Full Days Charged When Employee Works Partial Days. If the employee is partially disabled following the injury and continues to work several hours each workday, then each day or partial day of absence from work is chargeable as a full day of COP against the 45-day period.

5.3.2. Recurrence of Disability. If an employee returns to work and then becomes disabled again and stops work, the PRO may continue COP only if the 45 calendar days of entitlement to COP were not completely used during the initial period of disability. For COP to be continued, the employee must have experienced the recurrence of the disability and stopped working within 45 days of the time the employee first returned to work following the initial period of disability. When a recurrence happens after the 45-day window has expired, the PRO must discontinue the regular pay, even if some of the 45 days of COP eligibility may remain unused. In this event, the employee is only entitled to compensation payable by the OWCP and is not entitled to COP. See 20 CFR 10.207.

5.3.3. Weekly Pay Rate for COP. Standby premium, night or shift differential, holiday pay, or other extra pay should be included in regular pay in all instances. Overtime pay is not a part of COP, except in the case of firefighters and law enforcement officers. If a salary increase or decrease (e.g., promotion, demotion, and WGI increases) occurs during the 45-day period, then the PRO will use the new salary rate as of the effective date of the change for computing the remaining COP. See 20 CFR 10.216. For COP purposes, weekly pay rate is determined as follows:

5.3.3.1. Full-Time and Part-Time Employees. For a full-time or part-time employee who works the same number of hours per week, the weekly pay rate must be equal to the number of hours regularly worked each week times the hourly pay rate on the date of injury including premium pay, night or shift differential, holiday pay, and other extra pay, exclusive of overtime.

5.3.3.2. Part-Time Employees Only. For a part-time employee who does not work the same number of hours per week, the weekly pay rate will be the average weekly earnings for the 1-year period before the date of injury, exclusive of overtime.
5.3.3.3. Intermittent Employees. For an intermittent or part-time employee, either permanent or temporary, who does not work each week of the year (or the period of appointment), the weekly pay rate equals the average of the employee’s weekly earnings during the 1-year period before the injury. It is computed based on the total earnings divided by the number of weeks worked (partial weeks worked are counted as whole weeks). The annual earnings used for this computation must not be less than 150 times the average daily wage earned within 1 year before the date of injury.

5.3.4. Light-Duty Status. When a determination has been made that an injured employee may return to duty in a light-duty status within the first 45 days of disability following an injury, each day or portion of a day in light duty status may be counted as 1 day of COP. This also includes any day or portion of a day worked while under injury-related work restrictions imposed by a physician.

5.3.4.1. Official Personnel Actions. An employee performing light duty because of an on-the-job injury normally is not charged COP. However, COP must be charged if an employee has been assigned light duty by the SF 50 and pay loss results. The employee must be furnished with documentation of the personnel action before the effective date of the action. When a determination is made that an employee is capable of performing light-duty after an on-the-job injury, COP is still chargeable against the 45-day entitlement if a personnel action has been issued to:

5.3.4.1.1. Assign or detail the employee to an identified position for which a position description exists which is classified at a lower salary level than that earned by the employee when injured,

5.3.4.1.2. Change the employee to a lower grade or to a lower rate of basic pay, or

5.3.4.1.3. Change the employee to a different schedule of work that results in loss of salary or premium pay (other than Sunday premium) authorized for the employee’s normal administrative workweek.

5.3.4.2. Loss of Night Differential Pay. When an employee is detailed to a work schedule involving the loss of night differential pay earned before the injury, COP days will be charged, even though the employee is working. The cost of COP is calculated as the difference between the employee’s normal pay and pay earned in the detail position.

5.3.4.3. An employee placed in light-duty who refuses to work after the offer of suitable work is not entitled to COP. See 20 CFR 10.217 and 20 CFR 10.517.

5.3.5. Return to Duty. The injury compensation program administrator may contact the attending physician in writing to inquire about the employee’s estimated return to light duty and/or contact the servicing OWCP office for an expected date of return to duty.
5.4 Conversion and Termination of COP (060504)

5.4.1. Denial of COP. Absences charged to COP and later disapproved by the DOL will require conversion to sick or annual leave. If sick or annual leave is not available, then COP will be converted to LWOP and reimbursements to the government must be made for any gross earnings paid while in a COP status. Due process procedures apply to the collection of any such debt owed by an employee. The amount collected must include payments made on behalf of the employee and any adjustments to the deposit fund accounts by the PRO. COP is not payable when one of the following occurs (see 20 CFR 10.220):

5.4.1.1. A traumatic injury is not the cause of the employee’s disability;

5.4.1.2. The employee is not a U.S. or Canadian citizen;

5.4.1.3. The employee does not file a written claim within 30 days of the date of injury;

5.4.1.4. The injury was not reported until after separation from employment;

5.4.1.5. The employee received the injury away from the activity’s premises and the employee was not performing his or her official duties;

5.4.1.6. The injury was due to the employee’s own willful misconduct, intent to injure himself/herself or another person, or the injury was proximately caused by intoxication by alcohol or illegal drugs; or

5.4.1.7. The work did not stop until more than 45 calendar days after the injury.

5.4.2. Controverting a Claim. An agency may object to paying a claim for COP in a process referred to as “controverting a claim.” The employing activity may controvert a claim by completing the indicated portion of DOL Form CA-1, Federal Employee’s Notice of Traumatic Injury and Claim for COP/Compensation, and submitting detailed information in support of the objection to the OWCP. See 20 CFR 10.221.

5.4.3. Termination of COP Already Begun. Generally, COP should continue after the employee stops work due to a disabling injury. Pay may be stopped only when at least one of the following circumstances is present (see 20 CFR 10.222):

5.4.3.1. The employee does not provide prima facie medical evidence of a work-related injury within 10 calendar days after he/she submits a claim for COP;

5.4.3.2. The treating physician provides medical information to the activity indicating that the employee is not disabled from his or her regular position;
5.4.3.3. The treating physician provides medical information to the activity indicating the employee is not totally disabled, and the employee refuses a written offer of a suitable alternative position;

5.4.3.4. The OWCP provides notification to the activity to terminate COP;

5.4.3.5. COP has been paid for 45 calendar days;

5.4.3.6. The employee’s scheduled term of employment expires, and the date of termination is prior to the date of injury; and/or

5.4.3.7. The employee returns to work with no loss of pay.

5.4.4. Disciplinary Actions and COP. If a preliminary notice regarding a disciplinary action was issued to the employee before the date of the injury and the action becomes final or otherwise takes effect during the COP period, COP may be interrupted or stopped. See 20 CFR 10.222.

5.4.5. COP Suspended When Employee Obstructs a Medical Examination. If an employee or his or her representative refuses or obstructs a medical examination, the right to receive COP is suspended until the refusal or obstruction ceases. COP already paid or payable for the period of suspension is forfeited. If COP has already been paid, then COP may be charged to annual or sick leave or considered an overpayment of pay in accordance with 5 U.S.C. § 5584. See 20 CFR 10.223.

5.5 Use of Annual or Sick Leave Instead of COP (060505)

5.5.1. Application of the 45-Day COP Period. An employee may use annual, sick, or advanced leave to cover all or part of an absence due to an injury. If an employee elects to use leave, then count each full or partial day the employee takes leave against the 45 days of COP entitlement. If an employee uses COP intermittently along with sick or annual leave, the COP entitlement period is still limited to 45 days. An employee may not use annual or sick leave to delay or extend the 45-day COP period.

5.5.2. One-Year Limitation to Elect COP in Lieu of Annual or Sick Leave. There are times when the employee may elect sick, annual, or advanced leave and the election is irrevocable. However, if an employee who has elected to use annual or sick leave for the period is otherwise eligible to elect COP instead, then the employing activity must make that change on a prospective basis from the date of the employee’s request. The employee may receive COP in lieu of previously requested annual or sick leave if the employee makes the request within 1 year of either the date the leave is used or written approval of the claim was granted, whichever is later. To authorize a change from annual or sick leave to COP, a corrected time and attendance report is required.
5.5.3. Leave Status of Employees

5.5.3.1. Leave Status When Injury Exceeds 45 Days. Employees who are eligible for COP must be placed in a leave status for time lost from work due to injury that is in excess of the 45-day COP period. During this period, an employee may take annual leave, sick leave, advanced leave, or LWOP until the OWCP approves the employee’s claim for compensation. The employee should be in an LWOP status if the employee is receiving the OWCP compensation after the 45-day period.

5.5.3.2. Leave Status of Employees Who Are Ineligible for COP. Employees who are ineligible for COP must be in a leave status during an absence due to injury. Employees may take annual leave, sick leave, advanced leave, or LWOP while awaiting a decision from the OWCP on their claims. Employees must be in an LWOP status while receiving the OWCP compensation. These employees may buy back, and have reinstated, annual and sick leave used for time lost from work due to injury if the OWCP approves their claims for compensation.

5.6 Buy Back of Leave (060506)

5.6.1. General. If an employee is found eligible to receive OWCP compensation and the employee used sick, annual or a combination of both types of leave during a period of disability extending beyond the 45-day COP period, the employee may arrange with the PRO to buy back the leave used (referred to as “leave buy back”). An employee may not receive dual compensation for pay and leave plus the OWCP compensation for lost time due to injury. Leave will be reinstated when bought back. See 20 CFR 10.425.

5.6.2. Time Limit for Submitting a Claim for Leave Buy Back and Payment Arrangements. The DOL Form CA-7, Claim for Compensation, for leave buy back must be submitted within one year of the date the leave was used or the claim was accepted, whichever is later. The PRO will arrange with the OWCP to have compensation for the buy back period paid directly to that office. After receipt, the PRO will notify the employee of the repayment amount and method of repayment.

5.6.3. Effect of Leave Buy Back. Leave buy back will reduce an employee’s earnings. An employee is placed in LWOP status, which may result in leave accrual reduction, reduced retirement contributions, and reduced TSP contributions. Employees may be required to pay health insurance and income taxes.

5.6.4. Leave Not Eligible for Buy Back. Employees who are eligible for COP who take annual, sick, or advanced leave for time lost due to injury instead of COP during the 45-day COP period are not eligible for the OWCP compensation for that leave. These employees may not buy back the annual or sick leave and have it reinstated.

5.6.5. Computation. The PRO must recover any gross amount paid for leave used during a period retroactively covered by the OWCP compensation. Certain deductions are recoverable by payroll adjustment. The amount recovered from the employee and/or the OWCP will depend on whether payment for leave is paid in the current or prior year. See Figures 6-3 and 6-4 for buy back of sick leave computation examples.

5.6.6. Current Year Recovery

5.6.6.1. Deductions. The amount collected for leave payments made in the current calendar year will be the net pay plus deductions for the following:

5.6.6.1.1. Bonds,

5.6.6.1.2. Savings allotments,

5.6.6.1.3. Alimony/Child support,

5.6.6.1.4. Rent,

5.6.6.1.5. Indebtedness to the United States, and

5.6.6.1.6. Other deductions the employee received value but not otherwise collected.

5.6.6.2. Reversed Deductions. Current deductions that will be reversed (if applicable and if the moneys are recovered) in the payroll system are:

5.6.6.2.1. CSRS or FERS;

5.6.6.2.2. OASDI and/or Medicare;

5.6.6.2.3. Federal, state, and local taxes;

5.6.6.2.4. FEHB (if the OWCP payment is for more than 28 days);

5.6.6.2.5. FEGLI (basic and optional);

5.6.6.2.6. TSP;

5.6.6.2.7. Union dues;

5.6.6.2.8. Charitable contributions; and

5.6.6.2.9. Military service credit deposits and civilian service credit deposits.
5.6.6.3. Other. The PRO must make adjustments in the payroll system to earnings-to-date for those items other than the reversed deductions. Amounts collected from the employee and/or the OWCP must be identified as a cash refund on a voucher for disbursement and/or collection.

5.6.7. Prior Year Recovery

5.6.7.1. Amount Collected. The amount to be collected for leave payments made during a prior year will be the gross amount less CSRS/FERS, OASDI and/or Medicare, TSP, FEHB (if the OWCP payment is for more than 28 days), and FEGLI (basic and optional). The PRO must post the credit to the CSRS/FERS as a separate credit line item on the SF 2806, Individual Retirement Record CSRS, or the SF 3100, Individual Retirement Record FERS, fiscal side indicating the year of the adjustment along with an explanation in the “Remarks” column. Adjustments are unauthorized for federal, state, and local income taxes.

5.6.7.2. Separating Employees. When an employee separates or at the end of the payroll year, the PRO must prepare a W-2, as appropriate, but may not include any tax adjustments for a prior year. The PRO must prepare a certified statement to go with the current year’s W-2 stating that a refund for prior year was paid in the amount of $XX.XX, but that the gross wages shown on the current year W-2 were not reduced by the amount of the refund.

5.6.8. Partial Payroll Deductions. If circumstances permit, the employee may repay the amount due (after recovery of the amount repaid by the OWCP) through partial payroll deductions. The PRO will not reverse deductions under subparagraph 5.6.6.2 until the full amount is paid.

5.6.9. Recrediting of Leave. Credit the full amount of leave used during the buy back period to the employee’s leave account. The PRO will not recredit leave bought back until the total amount is repaid.

6.0 EMERGENCY EVACUATION PAYMENTS (0606)

6.1 Purpose (060601)

The DoD Joint Travel Regulations, Chapter 6, identifies the responsibilities of the PRO in the event the proper authorities declare an official emergency evacuation of civilian employees. The PROs will use the guidelines to determine whether it is appropriate to make advance payments to employees based on an ordered evacuation for military actions, natural disasters or other reasons that create imminent danger to lives and property. This section applies to areas located within the United States based on the provisions of 5 CFR 550, subpart D and outside of the United States based on the provisions of the Department of State Standardized Regulations (DSSR), Chapter 600.

6.1.1. Eligibility. This guidance pertains to civilian DoD and DoD component employees when an official evacuation is ordered.
6.1.2. Forms. The DoD (DD) Form 2461, Authorization for Emergency Evacuation Advance and Allotment Payments for DoD Civilian Employees, authorizes and records emergency payments to employees and dependents. The PRO is responsible for maintaining this record of payments on the employee’s permanent pay account. In appropriate cases, information on this form may be disclosed to other federal agencies (i.e., the SSA, the IRS, and the OPM), to state and local taxing/welfare authorities, and to certain private organizations for crediting payments to the employee’s account. The PRO must receive DD 2461 before making payment of amounts due the evacuated civilian employees or family members.

6.1.3. Determining Entitlements and Payee. Determine specific rates of entitlement, duration of evacuation/departure payments, and eligible payees as follows:

6.1.3.1. For employees at foreign installations, see the DSSR, Chapter 600.

6.1.3.2. For employees within the United States, see 5 CFR 550, subpart D.

6.1.4. Payments. Compute employee’s payments at the rate they are entitled to immediately before the order of evacuation/departure. Adult family members or designated representatives may receive payments in the form of allotments. The PRO must make all advance payments (and any necessary adjustments) in accordance with the DoD component’s procedures.

6.2 Transmission of Data to Safe-Haven Post (060602)

6.2.1. Methods of Transmission. After authorities issue an evacuation order, the PRO must immediately forward all significant payroll data from the evacuated installation to the safe-haven post.

6.2.2. Considerations. The physical conditions and circumstances at the evacuation installation will determine the method and timing for transmitting data. Safeguarding and preserving payroll leave, and travel records are matters of primary concern because of the continuing need for the records after the conditions, which gave rise to the emergency evacuation have been resolved. Take all necessary steps to safeguard and preserve the records at the safe-haven post.

6.3 Action Upon and During Evacuation (060603)

To the extent possible and practicable, the PRO must pay employees and dependents remaining at the evacuated installation in accordance with the normal fiscal procedures of that installation. A special advance payroll may be prepared in accordance with normal payroll procedures and charged against the appropriate funds available to the evacuated installation for authorized advance payments.

6.4 Actions After Evacuation (060604)
6.4.1  Review of Accounts. The PRO with jurisdiction over the employee’s account will review the account for necessary adjustments at the earliest possible date after the evacuation is terminated (or earlier if circumstances apply), or after the employee returns to his or her duty station, or when the employee is officially reassigned. See 5 CFR 550.408.

6.4.2  Reconcile Amounts Paid. The PRO will adjust the employee’s pay based on the rates of pay, allowances, or differentials, if any, to which he or she would otherwise be entitled. Adjustments will reflect any advance payments the employee may have received. If the employee is indebted for any part of the advance payment(s) made to him or her, or to his or her dependent(s), or designated representative, the PRO with jurisdiction over the account must recover the debt, unless there is an approved waiver. See 5 CFR 550.408.

6.5  Evacuation Payments During a Pandemic Health Crisis (060605)

An agency may direct an employee to work from home or a mutually agreed upon alternative location during a pandemic health crisis. The designated location is the safe-haven location during a pandemic health crisis and used as an alternate worksite during the pandemic crisis. The agency may make special allowance payments to the employee, as determined on a case-by-case basis, to help cover additional expenses caused by the crisis. See 5 CFR 550.409 and also the DSSR, Chapter 600.

CHAPTER 7

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE EDUCATION ACTIVITY (DoDEA) EMPLOYEES

1.0 GENERAL (0701)

1.1 Purpose (070101)

This chapter establishes policy and procedures for the pay and leave of the DoDEA employees employed under the Teaching Position (TP) Pay Plan. These employees include teachers, principals, administrators, instructional systems specialists (ISS), guidance counselors, social workers, nurses, and school psychologists.

*1.2 Authoritative Guidance (070102)

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.), Title 20. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each section are listed in a reference section at the end of this chapter. Specifically, 20 U.S.C. §§ 901-907 govern the salaries and personnel practices applicable to educators employed overseas by the DoDEA on a school year basis. The pay and personnel practices are implemented by policies and regulations issued by the DoDEA under the authority and direction of the Secretary of Defense. The regulations on pay include DoDEA Regulation 1400.13, Salaries and Personnel Practices Applicable to Teachers and Other Employees of the Department of Defense Dependents Schools (DoDDS), and the Dependent Schools (DS) Regulation 5301.4, DoDDS Salaries and Personnel Practices Applicable to Principals and Assistant Principals, as amended. These policies and regulations differ considerably from those applicable to other federal civilian employees paid under Title 5, U.S.C. or other statutes.

2.0 TP PAY PLAN (0702)

Individuals, such as educators and administrators who hold a TP (hereinafter referred to as educators, administrators, and ISS employees) as defined in 20 U.S.C. § 901 are governed by the policies and regulations prescribed by the DoDEA. Educators including teachers, social workers, guidance counselors, school psychologists, and nurses earn a school year salary based on 190 duty days (also referred to as working days) and typically receive compensation over 21 pay periods. Administrators including school principals and assistant principals earn a school year salary based on 222 duty days and are paid out over 26 pay periods. ISS employees (educator positions that support the DoDEA schools above the school level, rather than at the school level) earn a school year salary based on 222 duty days and are paid out over 26 pay periods. Educators, administrators, and ISS employees do not earn annual, sick, or home leave under Title 5, U.S.C., but instead, are entitled to “educator's leave” under 20 U.S.C. § 904.
2.1 School Year Duty Days (070201)

2.1.1. Educators. The school year for educators consists of 190 duty days and includes no less than 175 days of classroom instruction. The 190 duty days include the days required before and after the first and last day of school when educators must prepare for the opening and closing of school. The school year calendar may be adjusted after the school year begins with no change in school year salary, as long as 190 duty days are required and no less than 175 days of classroom instruction are provided. If the school year extends beyond 190 duty days, the educator receives compensation at the appropriate daily rate as of the 191st working day. Should an emergency preclude completion of a full school year at one or more schools, the educators must be furloughed, separated, or salary continued until the full school-year salary has been paid out.

2.1.2. Administrators. The school year requirement for administrators consists of 222 duty days and includes no less than 175 days of classroom instruction. Also, included in the 222 duty days is any time when the services of a majority of educators at the school are required. The school year calendar may adjust after the school year begins with no change in school year salary as long as the required 222 duty days for principals and assistant principals and no less than 175 days of classroom instruction remain. If the school year extends beyond 222 duty days during a given school year, the administrator receives compensation at the appropriate daily rate as of the 223rd working day. Should an emergency preclude completion of a full school year at one or more schools, the administrators must be furloughed, separated, or salary continued until the full school-year salary has been paid out.

2.1.3. ISS Employees. The school year for an ISS employee consists of 222 duty days, the same schedule as administrators. ISS employees coordinate their 222-day schedule with their supervisors at the start of the school year.

2.1.4. Overseas School Year Calendars. Overseas school year calendars issued by the DoDEA may vary due to local customs and holidays. The calendars identify the first and last duty days of the school year, instructional days, and exception days for educators and students. The DoDEA provides a copy of school calendars to the servicing Civilian Payroll Office (PRO) and to the Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS) Information and Technology (I&T) Office no later than 4 weeks prior to the first duty day of the new school year. Submit calendar(s) and updates, if necessary, via email to the PRO (dfas.indianapolis_in.jfv.mbx.dodea@mail.mil) and DFAS I&T (dfas.indianapolis.in.ztb.list.cin.dcps-dodea@mail.mil) as soon as possible.

2.2 Work Schedules (070202)

Educators, administrators, and ISS employees work in full or half day increments and work either a seasonal part-time or seasonal full-time schedule. Substitute teachers work an intermittent work schedule. See also DoDEA Administrative Instruction 1422.01, DoDEA Work Schedule Program, for additional information.
2.3  Salary Schedules (070203)

The DoD Wage and Salary Division (WSD) establishes the rates of basic compensation for teachers and TP in the DoD. The DoD WSD issues Pay Plan salary schedules in April or May of the current school year. The schedules are effective retroactive to August 1st of the current school year (i.e., the prior calendar year). Use prior school year salary schedules until WSD issues salary schedules for the current school year. There are separate salary schedules issued for educator, management, specialist, and administrator overseas school year positions. Salary schedules are further differentiated by step and academic salary lane (i.e., Bachelor’s, Bachelor’s plus 15, Bachelor’s plus 30, Master’s, Master’s plus 15, Master’s plus 30, and Doctorate).

2.4  Retroactive Pay Adjustment (070204)

After the DoD WSD issues the salary schedule in April or May of the current school year, the servicing Human Resources Office (HRO) processes a retroactive pay adjustment effective August 1st of the current school year (i.e., prior calendar year) using the Standard Form (SF) 50, Notification of Personnel Action. When the retroactive adjustment processes, biweekly payments for foreign post allowance and foreign post differential adjust accordingly. The servicing PRO then reconciles educator, administrator, and ISS employee pay and makes any necessary “retro payments” based on increases in salary. The gross amount of the retroactive adjustment computed under the new salary schedules are subject to applicable withholdings (e.g., Civil Service Retirement System (CSRS) or Federal Employee Retirement System (FERS), federal income tax, Social Security tax, Medicare tax, and state income tax). When the retroactive adjustment processes, biweekly deductions adjust accordingly. The biweekly deductions adjust as follows:

2.4.1.  Basic and Optional Federal Employees Group Life Insurance (FEGLI),

2.4.2.  Thrift Savings Plan (TSP), and

2.4.3.  TSP basic one percent and matching employer contributions for FERS employees.

2.5  Step Increases (070205)

Step increases for educators, administrators, and ISS employees are similar to step increases for General Schedule (GS) employees. Generally, steps 1 through 14 are regular step increases and steps 15 through 18 are longevity steps. Substitute teachers are not eligible for step increases.

2.5.1.  Eligibility.

2.5.1.1.  A full-time educator assigned to a 190-day position may receive a regular step increase (steps 1 through 14) provided they have been in a pay status at least 150 duty days during their last previous school year as an educator.
2.5.1.2. A full-time educator assigned to a 190-day position may receive a longevity step increase (steps 15 through 18) provided they have been in a pay status at least 150 duty days during each of the previous 4 school years as an educator.

2.5.1.3. A half-time educator assigned to a 190-day position may receive a regular step increase (steps 1 through 14) provided they have been in a pay status at least one-half of 150 duty days during each of the previous 2 school years. A half-time educator may receive a longevity step increase (steps 15 through 18) after they have been in a pay status at least one-half of the 150 working day minimum during each of the previous 8 school years.

2.5.1.4. A full-time administrator assigned to a 222-day position may receive a step increase (steps 1 through 10) provided they have been in a pay status at least 175 duty days during their last previous school year as an administrator.

2.5.1.5. A full-time ISS employee assigned to a 222-day position may receive a regular step increase (steps 1 through 14) provided they have been in a pay status at least 175 duty days during their last previous school year as an educator.

2.5.1.6. A full-time ISS employee assigned to a 222-day position may receive a longevity step increase (steps 15 through 18) provided they have been in a pay status at least 175 duty days during each of the previous 4 school years as an educator.

2.5.1.7. A half-time ISS employee assigned to a 222-day position may receive a regular step increase (steps 1 through 14) provided they have been in a pay status at least one-half of 175 duty days during each of the previous 2 school years. A half-time educator may receive a longevity step increase (steps 15 through 18) after they have been in a pay status at least one-half of the 175 working day minimum during each of the previous 8 school years.

2.5.1.8. A full-time educator assigned to a 190-day position may receive an annual step increase (or service credit towards a longevity step) for the last satisfactory year of service, plus an additional annual step (or service credit) for the first year of absence, only upon return to duty after successfully completing a program of study or employment of one or more years under the Administrative Reemployment Rights Program.

2.5.2. Effective Date. Step increases take effect August 1st of each school year following completion of the school year. However, the step increase is not payable until the educator returns to duty for the subsequent year. When moving to a higher or lower salary schedule, there is no change to the effective date of step increases.

2.6 Arrival at Post (070206)

2.6.1. Late Arrival. Newly recruited educators from the Continental United States are appointed with the understanding that they will serve for an entire school year or a specified partial month. When an educator arrives late to the post of assignment through no personal fault (e.g., due to transportation or processing delays), then administratively excuse the absence and pay the educator as though he/she arrived on time and served during the lost time.
The DoDEA dates the offer letter 14 days prior to the reporting date. Educators, other than described, who arrive late at the post of assignment after the start of the school year, do not receive compensation for the duty days prior to the day of arrival unless granted paid leave by a supervisor.

2.6.2. Early Arrival. Educators who arrive at their post of assignment prior to the start of the school year normally are not entitled to compensation until the start of the school year. However, educators who are required to report at their post of assignment and perform work prior to the start of the school year receive compensation at the daily salary rate from the prior school year salary schedule for each day worked. Note: This salary is not subject to retroactive adjustment.

2.7 Departure From Post (070207)

Educators who are unable to depart promptly after the end of the school year for personal reasons or because of circumstances beyond their control (e.g., lack of available transportation), are not entitled to compensation for the period between the end of the school year and the date of departure.

2.8 During Travel (070208)

While en route during a permanent change of station (PCS) between school years, an educator is in a non-pay status and not paid basic compensation. While en route during a PCS between school years, a principal or assistant principal (otherwise in a non-pay, non-duty status) remains in a non-pay status and receives appropriate per diem payments as provided in the DoD Joint Travel Regulations.

2.9 Work at More Than One Post of Assignment (070209)

2.9.1. When educators PCS during the school year, action will be taken to ensure that, after working the scheduled duty days during the remaining pay periods at the new post of assignment, the educator receives the full school year salary as entitled. If the total number of days actually worked during the school year (to include paid leave at the former duty station and the new duty station) exceed 190 days, the educator receives compensation at the daily rate for any days worked in excess of 190 days.

2.9.2. When administrators or ISS employees PCS during the school year, action will be taken to ensure that, after working the scheduled duty days during the remaining pay periods at the new post of assignment, the administrator or ISS employee receives the full school year salary as entitled. If the total number of days actually worked during the school year (to include paid leave at the former and new duty stations) exceed 222 days, the employee receives compensation at the daily rate for any days worked in excess of 222 days.

2.10 Substitute Teachers (070210)

2.10.1. School Year Substitute Teachers. A substitute teacher receives the flat daily rate prescribed under Salary Schedule A. The minimum increment paid for substitute work is one-half day.
2.10.2. Summer School Substitute Teachers. The Salary Schedule for “Other Compensation” provides the daily rate for a summer school substitute teacher and is two-thirds of the regular school year substitute teacher rate established for the prior school year. This salary is not subject to retroactive adjustment. For example, the prior school year rate for a 2021 summer school substitute teacher is published in the 2020-2021 salary schedules. The minimum increment earned and paid is one-half day the equivalent of one-third of the regular substitute teacher rate. Substitute teachers who teach an academic enrichment K-8 program during the summer recess period receive a stipend as authorized by the memorandum of understanding (MOU).

2.11 Allowances and Differentials (070211)

Educators, administrators, and ISS employees may be entitled to certain allowances and differentials such as government quarters, living quarters allowance (LQA), temporary quarters subsistence allowance (TQSA), separate maintenance allowance (SMA), post allowance, post differential and/or storage of household goods. See section 5.0 for payment information on post allowances and foreign post differentials for TP Pay Plan employees. See Chapter 3 for payment information on LQA, TQSA, and SMA. An educator employed as a substitute is not entitled to government quarters, quarters allowance, post allowance, post differential, or storage of household goods.

3.0 LEAVE (0703)

3.1 Accrual of Leave (070301)

3.1.1. Educators. Under 20 U.S.C. § 904, educators (excluding substitute teachers) are entitled to cumulative leave with pay, also referred to as educator leave. If the school year consists of less than 8 months, the leave accrues at the rate of 1 day for each calendar month worked or partial month. When the school year includes more than 8 months, an employee who serves the entire school year is entitled to 10 days of cumulative educator leave with pay for the school year. The full school year accumulation of leave is credited to the employee’s leave record when the school year begins (normally, in August) or whenever the employee enters on duty under DS Regulation 5630.4, DoDDS Absence and Leave.

3.1.2. Administrators and ISS Employees. Administrators and ISS employees may earn 13 days of cumulative educator leave with pay under 20 U.S.C. § 904 and DS Regulation 5301.4. The credit reflects on the employee’s leave record each year on August 1st.

3.1.3. Liquidation of Unused Leave Upon Separation. If an educator, administrator, or ISS employee separates for any reason before the school year ends, any leave credited, but not earned, will be subtracted from the leave balance. If already used, a debt will be established and appropriate collection action taken.
3.1.4. Leave Accrual for Part-Time Educators and Part-Time ISS Employees. Educators and ISS employees regularly employed on a part-time basis earn leave in an amount proportionate to the amount of leave earned as compared to full-time. Part-time ISS employees, such as those in a job-sharing arrangement, earn 6.5 days per year (or one-half day (4 hours) per pay period, if less than 8 months remain in the school year).

   Example 1: A part-time educator appointed to a part-time position for the full school year. The educator is scheduled to work one-half day on each duty day during the regular school year. The educator is entitled to accrue 10 half days (or 5 days) of educator leave.

   Example 2: A part-time educator appointed to a part-time position for the full school year. The educator is scheduled to work each Tuesday and Thursday during the regular school year. The educator is entitled to accrue two-fifths (4 days) of the 10 days of educator leave that would be earned during full-time employment.

   Example 3: A part-time educator appointed to a part-time position for the last semester (one-half) of the school year. The educator is scheduled to work one-half day on each scheduled duty day during the semester. The educator is entitled to accrue one-fourth (2.5 days) of educator leave.

3.1.5. Substitute Teachers. Substitute teachers employed in positions on a temporary intermittent basis and are not entitled to earn leave.

3.1.6. Summer Recess Period. Educators and administrators who perform activities during the summer recess period do not earn leave.

3.2 Leave Usage (070302)

   3.2.1. Minimum Charge. The minimum charge for educator leave is one-half day, and additional charges are in multiples thereof. An administrative authority may use discretion and excuse an occasional absence from duty of less than one-half day for adequate reasons without charge to educator leave. Report leave charges to the PRO and record on the employee’s timecard.

   3.2.2. Authorized Absences. An educator, administrator, or ISS employee may use accrued educator leave during the school year for the following:

       3.2.2.1. Maternity purposes;

       3.2.2.2. Illness of the educator;

       3.2.2.3. Illness, contagious disease, or death in the immediate family of the educator that requires his or her absence;
3.2.2.4. Any personal emergency; or

3.2.2.5. Any purpose.

With the appropriate advance notice and prior approval of the supervisor, an educator, administrator, or ISS employee may use up to 3 days of leave in a given school year for any purpose. Educator leave used for any purpose normally may not be used during orientation week or the first or last week of the school year. An exception may be made when an employee is accepted for an educational program and must report prior to the end of the school year.

3.2.3. Summer Recess Period. Using accrued educator leave during any summer recess period is not permissible. An absence during a summer recess period is without pay.

3.2.4. Non-work Days. Except for unique tours of duty established by the host nation (e.g., Bahrain), Saturdays, Sundays, regularly scheduled holidays including U.S. holidays and host nation holidays and other administratively authorized non-work days are not normally days of leave. See 20 U.S.C. § 904(b). Therefore, Leave Without Pay (LWOP) is not charged to an educator, administrator, or ISS employee, who is in a non-pay status immediately preceding or following a scheduled holiday.

3.3 Advances of Leave (070303)

Under unusual circumstances, an educator, administrator, or ISS employee may receive up to 30 days of advanced educator leave (above the amount already credited for the current school year) for use on any scheduled duty day within the school year. Such an advance is subject to subsequent earning of educator leave, or repayment upon separation for leave advanced but not earned. The immediate supervisor may approve requests for up to 10 days of advance educator leave. Submit requests in excess of 10 days of advance educator leave to the Director for Student Excellence or District Superintendent, as appropriate. Submit approved requests to the PRO upon receipt from the approving official.

3.4 LWOP (070304)

The immediate supervisor of an educator or ISS employee may approve an LWOP request of up to 3 days. The Director for Student Excellence or District Superintendent may approve LWOP requests in excess of 3 days, but less than 30 days. The Director for Student Excellence may approve LWOP requests of 30 days or more. The District Superintendent must approve LWOP requests in excess of 3 days, but less than 30 days for administrators. The Director for Student Excellence or their delegate must approve LWOP requests in excess of 30 days by administrators.
3.5 Conversion of Leave for Federal Employees Transferring to the DoDEA (070305)

3.5.1. Sick Leave. An employee of the federal government or the District of Columbia, who transfers without a break in service from a position under a different leave system to an educator, ISS employee or administrator position, receives credit for sick leave immediately prior to the effective date of their conversion, transfer, promotion, or reappointment. Sick leave so credited is included in the employee’s balance of educator leave.

3.5.2. Annual Leave. There is no annual leave credited to an educator, ISS employee, or administrator’s balance of educator leave when he or she transfers without a break in service from a position under a different leave system. The employee will receive a lump-sum payment for accrued annual leave from the previous employer. However, administrators who converted from GS or General Merit positions to Salary Schedules K and L on October 11, 1987, received credit for annual leave during the initial conversion.

3.6 Transfer and Recredit of Educator’s Leave (070306)

3.6.1. Reappointed to Another Educator, Administrator, or ISS Employee Position. When an educator, administrator, or ISS employee is separated from their current position and reappointed in another educator, administrator, or ISS employee position without a break in service of more than 3 years, the employee’s educator leave is certified to the employing agency for credit as sick leave on the SF 1150, Record of Leave Data.

3.6.2. Reappointed to Federal Position. When an educator, administrator, or ISS employee is separated from their position and reappointed (without a break in service to another federal position subject to another leave act), the leave account is certified to the employing agency for credit in accordance with Title 5, Code of Federal Regulations, section 630.501, (5 CFR 630.501).

3.6.3. Temporary Employment During Recess. If an educator, administrator, or ISS employee accepts temporary employment with the federal government in a non-educator position during a recess period, their educator’s leave account will not be transferred to the leave account of the summer position. Any sick leave earned during the temporary summer employment will be credited and any unused sick leave balance will be transferred to the educator’s leave account when they return to duty in their regular educator or administrator position.

3.7 Liquidation of Leave Upon Separation (070307)

3.7.1. Any annual leave earned under a different leave system and remaining to the credit of an educator, administrator, or ISS employee upon their separation will be liquidated by a lump-sum payment in accordance with 5 U.S.C. § 5551 and 20 U.S.C. § 904(f).

3.7.2. Liquidation of educator leave upon separation through lump-sum payment is prohibited. Educator leave that may not be liquidated includes leave earned by an educator, administrator, ISS employee, or the leave balance pursuant to subparagraph 3.5.1.
3.8 Sabbatical Leave (070308)

3.8.1. Authority. Yearlong educator leave at half-pay (sabbatical leave) may be authorized for an educator, administrator, or ISS employee, and for educational purposes, when the course of study is determined to be appropriate by the Director for Student Excellence. An SF 50 is not required. The approved request for training should reflect that the educator, administrator, or ISS employee will be in an LWOP status one-half of each day during the yearlong period.

3.8.2. Benefits and Entitlements During Sabbatical Leave. Educators and administrators granted sabbatical leave at half-pay will continue to receive life insurance and health benefits coverage in the same manner as if they were in full-pay status. Retirement contributions will be deducted for only one-half year; however, the employee is entitled to credit for a full year toward retirement. Educator leave is not earned, nor should it be deducted from the employee’s leave account during the training period. Any pay step increase that would have been authorized should be processed as if the educator or administrator had worked a full school year.

3.8.3. Pay Status Reporting During Sabbatical Leave. The educator or administrator’s work schedule should not change during sabbatical leave. The time and attendance report for each pay period should reflect that the employee is in an LWOP status one-half of each day.

4.0 PAY STATUS DURING SCHOOL YEAR AND SUMMER RECESS (0704)

4.1 School Year (070401)

An educator’s school year consists of 190 duty days. In most overseas locations, these duty days fall on days during the normal workweek (i.e., Monday through Friday). An educator, however, does not work every Monday through Friday during the school year because of exception days (e.g., winter and spring recess, federal holidays, and certain host nation holidays). As a result, the school year may include 22 pay periods with approximately 213 days, Monday through Friday, between the educator’s first and last duty day of the school year. There are typically 21 full pay periods, plus 3 additional days in the 22nd pay period in a given school year.

4.2 Summer Recess (070402)

During the summer recess period, while school is not in session, educators ordinarily are in a non-pay status. Educators who are returning to duty for the following full school year are entitled to have LQA payments continued during the summer recess period while they are in a non-pay status. See the Department of State Standardized Regulation (DSSR), Chapter 100, Quarter Allowances, and Chapter 700, DoD Teachers. The servicing HRO will notify the servicing PRO of any change (e.g., transfer, resignation, or retirement) in the status of educators.
5.0 COMPENSATION (0705)

5.1 Educators With a 190-Day School Year (070501)

5.1.1 Daily/Biweekly Rate. Educators earn pay at a rate that differs from the typical rate used to pay employee salaries. If one used the usual pay calculations, the educator’s seasonal work schedule, in conjunction with recess periods, would cause pay to fluctuate during each pay period of the school year. Therefore, in order to provide consistency, calculate the biweekly pay for educators using the following information and formulas:

5.1.1.1 Duty Days and “Daily Rate” or “190 Rate” for Educators. The number of duty days in the school year is 190. The educator’s daily rate, or “190-Rate,” is the school year salary divided by 190 days.

5.1.1.2 School Year Days and “School Year Rate” or “213-Rate” for Educators. For most school years, the school year days will total 213, 214, or 215 days, depending on the calendar year. School year days equal the total number of days (Monday through Friday) falling within an educator’s first through last duty day during the school year. School year days include 190 duty days, as well as all other non-work recess days that occur on Monday through Friday during the regular school year. Non-work (or exception) days include federal holidays (e.g., Labor Day) and school recess days (e.g., spring recess) when educators are normally not scheduled to work. Use the number of school year days to determine an educator’s school year rate, or “213-Rate.” The school year rate is the daily rate used to provide a uniform payment for each biweekly pay period. Multiply the school year rate by 10 days to determine the educator’s biweekly basic pay amount. Educators may elect biweekly payments over 260, 261, or 262 days (depending on how many workdays are in the fiscal year). Determine the school year rate by dividing the school year salary by either 260, 261, or 262 days.

5.1.1.3 Formula for Educator’s Biweekly Pay. An educator’s salary normally pays out over 21 full and 1 partial pay periods. To calculate the biweekly pay, use the following formula:

\text{School Year Salary} \div (213, 214, 215, 260, 261, \text{or} 262 \text{ School Year Days}) = \text{School Year Rate}, \text{ and} \\
\text{School Year Rate} \times 10 \text{ Days} = \text{Biweekly Pay.}

5.1.2 Educator Post Allowance. In computing the post allowance for educators paid on a 190-day school year basis, divide the total annual amount of post allowance payable by the number of calendar days in the school year (i.e., school year days plus weekend days) to obtain the daily rate. Multiply the daily rate by the number of calendar days in the pay period (normally, 14 days). See also paragraph 5.6 regarding post allowances.
5.1.3 Reducing Pay for Absences Without Pay. For educators on non-paid absence (e.g., LWOP or absence without leave (AWOL)), the biweekly pay is reduced by 1/190th of the school year salary for each scheduled duty day that the educator is in a non-paid status. Since educators do not receive pay for federal holidays or recess periods, there is no reduction in biweekly pay when the educator is in a non-paid status before or after an exception day.

5.1.4 Biweekly Pay for Educators Beginning Work After Start of School Year. When an educator’s appointment begins after the start of the school year, the school year salary adjusts according to the number of duty days remaining in the school year. Multiply the daily rate (“190-Rate”) by the number of duty days remaining in the school year to obtain the adjusted school year salary. To determine the biweekly pay, divide the adjusted school year salary by the remaining number of school year days, and then multiply by 10 days. To calculate the biweekly pay for educators who begin work after the start of the school year, use the following formula:

5.1.4.1. “190-Rate” \( \times \) Duty Days Remaining = Adjusted School Year Salary,

5.1.4.2. Adjusted School Year Salary \( \div \) School Year Days Remaining = Adjusted School Year Daily Rate, and 5.1.4.3. Adjusted School Year Daily Rate \( \times \) 10 Days = Biweekly Pay.

Example: An educator reports for work after the beginning of the school year and receives a salary of $38,000 for working a full school year (i.e., 190 duty days). The educator would have a “190-Rate” (daily rate) of $200.00 ($38,000 \( \div \) 190). This salary normally would be paid out over 213 school year days. However, the educator in this example begins work on October 1st. Due to the late start, 23 duty days (August through September) will not be worked. The school year calendar indicates that 167 (190 - 23) duty days remain in the school year. Thus, the “adjusted school year salary” would be $33,400 ($200.00 \( \times \) 167). To determine how the adjusted school year salary of $33,400 will be paid biweekly, the remaining school year days must be identified. In this example, 188 school year days remain (167 duty days + exception days). The adjusted school year daily rate is computed as follows: $33,400 \( \div \) 188 = $177.66. The biweekly pay equals the adjusted school year daily rate multiplied by 10: $177.66 \( \times \) 10 = $1,776.60.
5.1.5. Educators Who Separate Before the End of the School Year. When an educator separates (i.e., resigns, retires, or dies) before the end of a school year, the school year salary adjusts according to the number of duty days worked. Determine the adjusted school year salary by multiplying the daily rate (“190-Rate”) by the number of duty days worked (include any days in a paid leave status). To calculate the adjusted school year salary for educators who separate before the end of the school year and to reconcile difference(s) in the salary actually paid, use the following formula:

5.1.5.1. “190 Rate” × Duty Days Worked = Adjusted School Year Salary, and

5.1.5.2. Adjusted School Year Salary ÷ School Days Completed

(Duty Days + Exception Days) = Adjusted School Year Daily Rate.

Example: An educator separates before the end of the school year. The educator has been receiving a school year salary of $38,000 at the “190-Rate” (daily rate) of $200.00 ($38,000 ÷ 190). This salary normally would be paid out over 21 full and 1 partial pay periods at the school year daily rate of $178.40 ($38,000 ÷ 213 = 178.40). Should the educator resign after working only 120 of the scheduled 190 duty days in the school year, the adjusted school year salary would be $24,000 ($200.00 × 120). In this example, the number of school days completed by the educator (duty days worked + exception days) for the school year was 123 (120 duty days worked + 3 exception days). The adjusted school year daily rate would be $195.12 ($24,000 ÷ 123). Any difference between the adjusted school year salary and the salary actually paid to date must be reconciled. Reconcile the adjusted school year salary and the salary actually paid by recomputing the entire school year using the adjusted school year daily rate to determine what the educator should have been paid from the start of the school year to the date of separation. In this example, the employee was actually paid $21,900 ($178.40 × 123). The educator should have been paid $24,000 ($195.12 × 123).

5.2 Administrators With a 222-Day School Year (070502)

5.2.1. Daily/Biweekly Rate. Administrators earn pay at a rate that differs from the typical rate used to pay employee salaries. If the usual pay calculations were used, the administrator’s seasonal work schedule, in conjunction with recess periods, would cause pay to fluctuate during each pay period of the school year. Therefore, to provide consistency, the biweekly pay for administrators is calculated using the following information and formulas:

5.2.1.1. Duty Days and “Daily Rate” or “222 Rate” for Administrators. The number of duty days in the school year for administrators is 222. The administrator’s daily rate, or “222-Rate,” is the school year salary divided by 222 days.

5.2.1.2. School Year Days and “School Year Rate” or “260 Rate” for Administrators. The school year days for administrators will total between 260 and 262 days, depending on the calendar year. The days during the school year include days that fall within and outside of the school year for educators.
School year days for administrators include 222 duty days and all other exception days that occur on Monday through Friday during the school year. Exception days include federal holidays (e.g., Labor Day) and school recess days (e.g., spring recess) when administrators are not normally scheduled to work. Use the number of school year days to determine an administrator’s school year rate, or “260-Rate.” The school year rate is the daily rate used to provide a uniform payment for each biweekly pay period. Multiply the school year rate by 10 days to determine the administrator’s biweekly basic pay amount.

5.2.1.3. Formula for Administrator’s Biweekly Pay. Administrators typically receive compensation over 26 pay periods. Use the following to calculate biweekly pay:

5.2.1.3.1. School Year Salary ÷ (260, 261, or 262 School Year Days) = School Year Rate, and

5.2.1.3.2. School Year Rate × 10 Days = Biweekly Pay.

5.2.2. Administrator Post Allowance. In addition to basic pay, administrators are entitled to a post allowance for employees assigned to foreign areas where the cost of goods and services is substantially higher. See 20 U.S.C. § 906. To compute the foreign post allowance for an administrator, divide the total annual amount of post allowance payable by 365 calendar days (366 days for a leap year). See paragraph 5.6 for information regarding post allowance.

5.2.3. Reducing Pay for Absences Without Pay. For administrators in a non-paid absence (e.g., LWOP or AWOL), reduce the biweekly pay by 1/222th of the school year salary for each scheduled duty day in a non-paid status. Since administrators do not receive pay for exception days, there is no reduction in biweekly pay when the administrator is in a non-paid status before or after a federal holiday or recess day.

5.2.4. Biweekly Pay for Administrators Beginning Work After Start of School Year. When an administrator’s appointment begins after August 1st and will not work 222 duty days by July 31st, the school year salary adjusts according to the number of actual duty days remaining in the school year. Multiply the daily rate (“222-Rate”) by the number of duty days remaining in the school year in order to obtain the “adjusted school year salary.” To determine the biweekly pay, divide the adjusted school year salary by the remaining number of school year days and then multiply by 10 days. To calculate biweekly pay for administrators who begin work after the start of the school year, use the following formula:

5.2.4.1. “222-Rate” × Duty Days Remaining = Adjusted School Year Salary,

5.2.4.2. Adjusted School Year Salary ÷ School Year Days Remaining = Adjusted School Year Daily Rate, and

5.2.4.3. Adjusted School Year Daily Rate × 10 Days = Biweekly Pay.
Example: An administrator reports for work after the beginning of the school year and receives a salary of $55,500 for working a full school year (i.e., 222 duty days). The administrator has a “222-Rate” (daily rate) of $250.00 ($55,500 ÷ 222). This salary is paid evenly over 26 pay periods. However, the administrator in this example begins work on September 15th. Due to the late start, 33 duty days are not worked. The administrator will work only 189 of the duty days remaining by July 31st. Thus, the adjusted school year salary is $47,250 ($250.00 × 189). To determine how the adjusted school year salary of $47,250 will be paid biweekly, the remaining school year days must be identified. In this example, 228 school year days remain (189 duty days + exception days). The adjusted school year daily rate is computed as follows: $47,250 ÷ 228 = $207.24. The biweekly pay equals the adjusted school year daily rate multiplied by 10 days: $207.24 × 10 = $2,072.40.

5.2.5. Administrators Separating Before End of School Year. When an administrator separates (i.e., resigns, retires, or dies) before the end of a school year, the school year salary must be adjusted according to the number of duty days already worked. The adjusted school year salary is determined by multiplying the daily rate (“222-Rate”) by the number of duty days worked (including days in a paid leave status). To calculate the adjusted school year salary for administrators who separate before the end of the school year, use the following formula:

\text{(School Year Salary ÷ 222 Days)} \times \text{Duty Days Worked} = \text{Adjusted School Year Salary for Separated Administrators}

Example: An administrator separates before the end of the school year. The administrator has been receiving a school year salary of $55,500 at the “222-Rate” (daily rate) of $250.00 ($55,500 ÷ 222). This salary normally would be paid out over 26 pay periods. Should the administrator resign after working only 120 of the scheduled 222 duty days in the school year, the adjusted school year salary would be $30,000 ($250.00 × 120). Any difference between the adjusted school year salary and the salary actually paid to date must be reconciled.

5.3 ISS Employees With a 222-Day School Year (070503)

5.3.1. Daily/Biweekly Rate. ISS employees build their own calendar to schedule 222 duty days out of the 260 to 262 school year. The remaining 38 (or 39) days in the school year are considered non-work days for the purposes of this regulation. The ISS employee establishes the schedule; then, receives supervisor approval. If the ISS employee schedules work on a federal holiday, then the employee will not receive holiday pay and will still have the same number of non-work days (either 38 or 39) in the school year. However, if the employee schedules work on a holiday or a Sunday when normal school operations are in session, the employee is entitled to the appropriate premium pay. For example, if school is in session on Sundays due to local custom and the ISS employee’s approved schedule allows for Sunday as a workday, the employee is entitled to Sunday premium pay. However, if Sunday is not normally a workday for school staff and the ISS employee schedules Sunday as a workday, the employee is not entitled to Sunday premium pay. To provide consistency, calculate biweekly pay as follows:
5.3.1.1. Duty Days and “Daily Rate” or “222 Rate” for ISS Employees. The number of duty days in the school year to ISS employees is 222. The ISS employee’s daily rate, or “222-Rate,” is the school year salary divided by 222 days.

5.3.1.2. School Year Days and “School Year Rate” or “260 Rate” for ISS Employees. The school year days for ISS employees will total between 260 and 262 days, depending on the calendar year. Thus, the days during the school year include days that fall within and outside of the school year for educators. The school year days for ISS employees include 222 duty days and exception days that occur on Monday through Friday during the regular school year. Exception days include federal holidays (e.g., Labor Day) and school recess days (e.g., spring recess) when ISS employees are not normally scheduled to work. However, due to the schedule flexibility, ISS employees may elect to work on a federal holiday (but will not receive holiday pay) and schedule non-work days on days that other educators generally work. Use the number of school year days to determine an ISS employee’s school year rate, or “260-Rate.” The school year rate is the daily rate used to provide uniform payment for each biweekly pay period. Multiply the school year rate by 10 days to determine the ISS employee’s biweekly basic pay amount.

5.3.1.3. Formula for ISS Employee’s Biweekly Pay. ISS employees typically receive compensation over 26 pay periods. Use the following to calculate the biweekly pay:

5.3.1.3.1. \[
\text{School Year Salary} \div (260, 261, \text{or} \ 262 \ \text{School Year Days}) = \text{School Year Rate, and}

5.3.1.3.2. \[
\text{School Year Rate} \times 10 \text{ Days} = \text{Biweekly Pay.}

5.3.2. ISS Employee Post Allowance. In addition to basic pay, ISS employees are entitled to a post allowance under 20 U.S.C. § 906. To compute the foreign post allowance for an ISS employee, divide the total annual amount of post allowance payable by 365 calendar days (366 days for a leap year).

5.3.3. Reducing Pay for Absences Without Pay. For ISS employees on non-paid absence (e.g., LWOP or AWOL) the biweekly pay reduces by 1/222th of the school year salary for each scheduled duty day that the ISS employee is in a non-paid status. Since ISS employees do not receive compensation for scheduled non-work days, no reduction of biweekly pay is necessary when the ISS employee is in a non-paid status before or after an exception day.

5.3.4. Biweekly Pay for ISS Employees Beginning Work After Start of School Year. When an appointment is after August 1st and the ISS employee will not work 222 duty days by July 31st, the school year salary must adjust according to the number of actual duty days remaining in the school year. Multiply the daily rate (“222-Rate”) by the number of duty days remaining in the school year in order to obtain the adjusted school year salary. To determine the biweekly pay, divide the adjusted school year salary by the remaining number of school year days. Then, multiply by 10 days. To calculate biweekly pay for ISS employees who begin work after the start of the school year, use the following formula:
5.3.4.1. “222-Rate” × Duty Days Remaining = Adjusted School Year Salary,

5.3.4.2. Adjusted School Year Salary ÷ School Year Days Remaining = Adjusted School Year Daily Rate, and

5.3.4.3. Adjusted School Year Daily Rate × 10 Days = Biweekly Pay.

Example: An ISS employee reports for work after the beginning of the school year and receives a salary of $55,500 for working a full school year (i.e., 222 duty days). The ISS employee has a “222-Rate” (daily rate) of $250.00 ($55,500 ÷ 222). This salary normally pays out in even payments over 26 pay periods. However, the ISS employee in this example begins work on September 15th. Due to the late start, it may be difficult to schedule all 222 duty days by July 31st (in this example, the employee can only schedule 189 duty days for the rest of the school year). The adjusted school year salary equals the daily rate multiplied by the total number of scheduled duty days remaining. Thus, the adjusted school year salary is $47,250 ($250.00 × 189). To determine how the adjusted school year salary of $47,250 is paid biweekly, the remaining school year days must be identified. In this example, 228 school year days remain. The adjusted school year daily rate is computed as follows: $47,250 ÷ 228 = $207.24. The biweekly pay equals the adjusted school year daily rate multiplied by 10 days: $207.24 × 10 = $2,072.40.

5.3.5. ISS Employee Separating Before End of School Year. When an ISS employee separates (i.e., resigns, retires, or dies) before the end of a school year, the school year salary must be adjusted according to the number of actual duty days already worked. The adjusted school year salary is determined by multiplying the daily rate (“222-Rate”) by the number of duty days worked including any days in a paid leave status. To calculate the adjusted school year salary for ISS employees who separate before the end of the school year, use the following formula:

(School Year Salary ÷ 222 Days) × Duty Days Worked = Adjusted School Year Salary for Separated ISS Employees

Example: An ISS employee separates before the end of the school year. The ISS employee has been receiving a school year salary of $55,500 at the “222-Rate” (daily rate) of $250.00 ($55,500 ÷ 222). This salary would normally be paid out over 26 pay periods. Should the employee resign after working only 120 of the scheduled 222 duty days in the school year, the adjusted school year salary would be $30,000 ($250.00 × 120). Any difference between the adjusted school year salary and the salary actually paid to date must be reconciled.

5.3.6. ISS Step Increases. While ISS employees work a 222-day school year, step increases are similar to regular school year appointments for classroom educators. ISS employees have 18 steps, of which the first 14 are similar to step increases for GS employees and provided the employee works at least 175 days. Steps 15 through 18 are longevity steps. See paragraph 2.5 for other rules on step increases that apply to ISS employees.
5.4 Premium Pay, Sunday Work, and Holiday Work (070504)

5.4.1. Overtime and Compensatory Time. Educators and administrators are ineligible for overtime pay or compensatory time off.

5.4.2. Work Performed on Sunday. Educators appointed to a 190-day position whose regular tour of duty requires them to work on a Sunday are entitled to basic pay, plus a premium of 25 percent of the daily rate (“190-Rate”). Administrators on a 222-day position whose regular tour of duty requires them to work on a Sunday (providing that is part of the 190-duty day school year or within summer school session) are entitled to basic pay, plus premium pay at a rate equal to 25 percent of the regular daily rate (“222-Rate”). If an ISS educator works on a Sunday when normal school operations are in session, the employee is entitled to the appropriate premium pay. See paragraph 5.3.

5.4.3. Work Performed on a Federal Holiday. Educators appointed to a 190-day position whose regular tour of duty requires them to work on any of the federal holidays are entitled to basic pay, plus premium pay at a rate equal to the daily rate. Administrators on a 222-day position whose regular tour of duty requires them to work on any of the federal holidays (providing that is part of the 190-duty day school year or within summer school session) are entitled to basic pay, plus premium pay at a rate equal to the daily rate. If an ISS employee schedules work on a federal holiday, then the employee typically will not receive holiday pay. However, if the ISS employee schedules work on a federal holiday when normal school operations are in session, the ISS employee is entitled to the appropriate premium pay. See paragraph 5.3.

5.5 Employment During the Summer Recess Period (070505)

5.5.1. Educators. Educators are in a non-pay/non-duty status during the summer recess period. However, educators may receive pay for certain duties performed during the summer recess period. An educator who participates in a non-summer school related activity (e.g., agency sponsored and approved training, early return, and late departure) during the summer recess period receives compensation at a daily rate of 1/190th of the prior school year salary. An educator who participates in a summer school related activity (e.g., teaching) typically receives two-thirds of the daily rate of their prior school year salary. However, exceptions are possible, and the educator may receive a different salary amount as stated on the employee’s notification for teaching summer school. The minimum increment earned and paid for summer recess activities is one-half day. Educators who work an academic enrichment K-8 program during the summer recess period receive a stipend as authorized by the MOU. An educator receives payment for participating in summer recess activities via the submission of a memorandum by the DoDEA to the PRO, similar to the one used to authorize payment for extra duty assignments. This period of employment is exempt from dual pay provisions, as provided by 5 U.S.C. § 5533(d)(7)(D) and is not subject to CSRS, FERS, FEGLI, or TSP deductions.
5.5.2. Administrators and ISS Employees. An administrator or ISS employee who participates in a non-summer school related activity (e.g., agency sponsored and approved training) during the summer recess period that is in excess of the 222-day work year, receives compensation at a daily rate of 1/222nd of the prior school year salary. An administrator or ISS employee who participates in a summer school related activity receives two-thirds of the daily rate of the prior school year salary. The minimum increment earned and paid for summer recess activities is one-half day. An administrator or ISS employee receives payment for participating in summer recess activities via the submission of a memorandum by the DoDEA to the PRO, similar to the one used to authorize payment for extra duty assignments. This period of employment is exempt from dual pay provisions, as provided by 5 U.S.C. § 5533(d)(7)(D) and is not subject to CSRS, FERS, FEGLI, or TSP deductions.

5.6 Post Allowance and Foreign Post Differential (070506)

Payment of allowances and/or differentials is determined in accordance with the DSSR, and the DoD Instruction (DoDI) 1400.25-V1250, DoD Civilian Personnel Management System: Overseas Allowances and Differentials.

5.6.1. Post Allowance. In addition to basic pay, under 20 U.S.C. § 906, full-time educators, administrators, and ISS employees are eligible to receive a post allowance for employees assigned to a foreign area where the cost of goods and services is substantially higher. The amount paid is a flat rate based on the employee’s basic salary, family size, and post assignment. The amount of the annual foreign post allowance is located on the SF 1190, Foreign Allowances Application, Grant and Report. If an employee’s annual salary is adjusted, the post allowance may also be adjusted and if so, the daily rate should be recomputed. Compute daily rates as follows:

5.6.1.1. Educator Post Allowance Daily Rate. To compute the post allowance for educators paid on a 190-day school year basis, divide the total annual amount of post allowance payable (as shown on the SF 1190) by the number of calendar days in the school year (i.e., school year days plus weekend days) to obtain the daily rate. Multiply the daily rate by the number of calendar days in the pay period (normally, 14 days).

5.6.1.2. Administrator Post Allowance Daily Rate. To compute the foreign post allowance for an administrator, divide the total annual amount of post allowance payable (as shown on the SF 1190) by 365 calendar days (366 days for a leap year).

5.6.1.3. ISS Employee Post Allowance Daily Rate. To compute the foreign post allowance for an ISS employee, divide the total annual amount of post allowance payable (as shown on the SF 1190) by 365 calendar days (366 days for a leap year).

5.6.2. Foreign Post (Hardship) Differential. An educator, administrator, or ISS employee may receive compensation for a foreign post (hardship) differential under the DSSR, Chapter 500. The foreign post differential is additional compensation paid to an eligible employee in a foreign area where conditions of the environment differ substantially from conditions in the United States and additional compensation is available as a recruitment and retention incentive.
The foreign post differential is 5 to 35 percent over basic compensation. The Department of State periodically reviews and updates rates based on changes in living conditions at various foreign posts. Rates are subject to change at any time. Additionally, any adjustment in an employee’s annual salary may cause adjustments to foreign post differential.

5.7 Extra Duty Program for Educators (070507)

5.7.1. Eligibility. This program applies to certain DoDEA employees who are employed under the pay plan and who are assigned extra duty assignments, such as coaching, or activity sponsorship, in addition to regular school duties. See DS Regulation 5550.9, Compensation for Extra Duty Assignments. Educators receive extra duty compensation for extra duty assignments conducted and completed outside the educator’s duty day. When a selected educator performs an extra duty assignment, the educator and school principal will sign an MOU. The MOU identifies the extra duty assignment, and includes a description of duties, hourly range, amount of compensation, and a statement that prohibits performing duties during regular duty hours. Administrators are not eligible for extra duty assignments and any extra duties performed by an administrator will be considered voluntarily. Compensatory time and holiday pay are not authorized forms of extra duty compensation.

5.7.2. Compensation.

5.7.2.1. Requirements for Pay. The DoD WSD publishes the compensation rate for completing an extra duty assignment as part of the yearly DoDEA salary schedules (Schedule for Other Compensation). Before receiving extra duty compensation, the educator must complete the activity and perform the minimum number of established hours for the activity. The administrator certifies satisfactory completion of the extra duty assignment and authorization for compensation. The administrator forwards a memorandum to the PRO as soon as possible, no later than May 31, to facilitate payment by the end of the school year.

5.7.2.2. Hourly Range of Assigned Duties. The Director of DoDEA determines an appropriate hourly range for the completion of each type of authorized extra duty activity. Hourly ranges established by the DoD WSD for extra duty compensation are as follows:

5.7.2.2.1. 1 - 19 hours,
5.7.2.2.2. 20 - 39 hours,
5.7.2.2.3. 40 - 79 hours,
5.7.2.2.4. 80 - 119 hours,
5.7.2.2.5. 120 - 159 hours,
5.7.2.2.6. 160 - 199 hours, and
5.7.2.2.7. 200 hours and over.
5.7.2.3. Reducing Compensation for Fewer Hours Worked. If the administrator determines the extra duty assignment has been completed satisfactorily in less time than identified in the approved MOU, compensation must be reduced and the educator should be compensated at the rate established for the appropriate lower hourly range. The educator receives compensation at the rate established for the appropriate lower hourly range. When the hours worked fall short of the original range, or completion of an extra duty assignment is less than acceptable to the administrator, a lesser payment, than the amount indicated in the approved MOU pays on a pro rata basis. To compute a lesser payment, divide the mid-point hour of the appropriate hourly range by the hours actually worked. Then, multiply by the dollar value assigned to the regular hourly category. (For 200 hours and over, the mid-point is 220 hours.)

Example: An educator works 10 hours towards a 20-39 hourly range extra duty assignment ($910 for school year 2016-2017). When the mid-point (30 hours) is divided into the hours worked (10 hours), and the results rounded to 2 decimal places (.33) and is multiplied by the dollar value of the hourly range for the duty (.33 × $910), the payment due will be $300.30.

5.7.2.4. Substitutes. Substitute teachers receive compensation for completing an extra duty assignment at the rate of compensation published by the DoD WSD.

5.8 Accelerated Deductions of Premiums and Allotments for Educators (070508)

5.8.1. FEGLI and Federal Employees Health Benefits (FEHB) Accelerated Premium Deductions. Deductions for FEGLI and FEHB premiums from an educator working a 190-day work schedule accelerate to allow the total annual premiums to pay in 22 pay periods, rather than 26 pay periods. Accelerated premium deductions over the course of 22 pay periods allow the employee to maintain coverage and pay no additional premiums during the summer recess when the educator is in non-pay status. The coverage period typically runs from the first duty day of the school year until the day prior to the first duty day of the next school year. Accelerated premium deductions are not required for an administrator or ISS employee assigned to a 222-day work schedule.

5.8.2. Calculation of Accelerated Premium Deduction for FEGLI and FEHB.

5.8.2.1. FEGLI. To determine the amount of the accelerated biweekly premium deduction for FEGLI, first determine the normal (i.e., 26 pay periods) biweekly premium rate deducted for other federal employees in the same salary bracket. Convert the biweekly rate to an annual rate by multiplying the biweekly rate by 26 (to arrive at the amount paid over the entire calendar year). Second, divide the annual rate by 22 (or the number of pay periods over which the educator is normally paid) in order to determine the accelerated premium deduction for each pay period for the educator. The calculation applies to both basic and optional insurance. For optional insurance, use the age band rate to convert the biweekly rate to an annual rate. Use the following to calculate the accelerated premium deduction amount:
5.8.2.1. Biweekly Premium Rate × 26 Pay Periods = Annual Premium Rate, and 5.8.2.1.2. Annual Premium Rate ÷ 22 Pay Periods = Accelerated Premium Deduction.

5.8.2.2. FEHB. To determine the accelerated biweekly premium amount deducted from an educator’s pay for FEHB, first determine the normal (i.e., 26 pay periods) biweekly premium rate deducted for other federal employees. Convert the biweekly rate to an annual rate by multiplying the biweekly rate by 26 (to arrive at the amount paid over the entire calendar year). Second, divide the annual rate by 22 (or the number of pay periods over which the educator is normally paid) in order to determine the accelerated premium deduction for each pay period for the educator.

5.8.2.3. Accelerated Deductions Beginning After the Start of the School Year. If the educator begins work after the first scheduled duty day of the school year, the total annual premium rate for FEGLI and FEHB must be reduced by a proportionate amount for the coverage period remaining (i.e., through the day prior to the first scheduled duty day of the next school year). Divide the reduced annual premium rate by the number of pay periods remaining to determine the accelerated premium deduction amount. To calculate the accelerated premium deduction amount, use the following:

5.8.2.3.1. Reduced Annual Premium Rate ÷ Pay Periods Remaining = Accelerated Premium Deduction.

5.8.3. Coverage Upon Separation or Movement Under FEGLI and FEHB. If an educator resigns at the close of the school year and he or she has elected coverage under FEGLI and/or FEHB, the actual date of separation will be delayed. The delayed separation date provides the employee with FEGLI and/or FEHB benefits throughout the period covered by accelerated premium deductions. Thus, the period of coverage for an educator employed for a full school year continues until the day prior to the first duty day of the next school year. If the educator separates earlier than the end of the school year, the resignation will specify an earlier date for termination of coverage, and require employee acknowledgement that FEGLI and/or FEHB coverage will continue for only 31 days after the date of separation. An educator who separates before the end of the school year will be reimbursed proportionately if the separation date is earlier than the end of the extended period of prepaid FEHB coverage. If an educator converts to or is appointed to a 222-day or calendar year work schedule, accelerated premium deductions may need refunded, if the effective date of the conversion or appointment occurs during the prepaid coverage period and withholding for the employee’s new position results in duplicate premium payments.

5.8.4. Deductions for Federal Flexible Spending Account (FSAFEDS) and Long-Term Care (LTC). Educators, enrolled in the FSAFEDS Program and paid over 21 pay periods, may elect the option to accelerate these allotments. The Federal LTC Program does not offer accelerated payments to educators paid over 21 pay periods. For periods of non-pay status, the educator receives a “Bill for Uncollected Payroll Premium.”
5.9 Other Deductions (070509)

5.9.1. Allotments of Pay.

5.9.1.1. Labor Organization Dues

5.9.1.1.1. Allotments of pay for labor organization dues are effective the second pay period in October of each school year for an educator who is a bargaining unit member. The amount of the allotment will be the dues amount identified by the employee on the SF 1187, Request for Payroll Deductions for Labor Organization Dues, or the amount identified on a list issued by each local or regional bargaining unit, divided by 12 full pay periods unless otherwise agreed to by all parties.

5.9.1.1.2. Educators who enter the dues withholding agreement at a time when less than 12 full pay periods remain in the school year will have their dues allotments prorated over the remaining full pay periods within the dues withholding period.

5.9.1.1.3. An SF 1187 authorization for dues withholding remains in effect when a “Not-to-Exceed” (NTE) employee converts to an excepted service position in the bargaining unit prior to the expiration of the NTE appointment.

5.9.1.1.4. After each pay period, the PRO will prepare and forward the remittance to the designated labor organization electronically. A report that lists names and amounts withheld accompanies each remittance.

5.9.1.1.5. An educator’s authorization for dues withholding is carried forward automatically to the next school year unless notification to stop the deduction is received from the employee. No later than September 1st, educators may request cancellation of labor organization dues deductions by submitting a SF 1188, Cancellation of Payroll Deductions for Labor Organization Dues, to the PRO. Proper completion and timely submission of the SF 1188 is the employee’s responsibility. If the SF 1188 is late (received after September 1st), it processes for the next school year.

5.9.1.1.6. No later than 2 weeks prior to the date withholding is to begin, the local or area units of the labor organization will forward a list of employees who have requested dues withholding. The list will identify the bargaining unit name or number, location, address, point(s) of contact and phone number(s). The list will also include the following employee information: name, Social Security Number, location assigned, and amount of dues to withhold for that school year.

5.9.1.2. Savings Allotments and Allotment Allowed for 190-Day Educators Assigned in Overseas Areas. Savings and other allotments, as authorized in Chapter 11, deduct over the number of full pay periods in the school year.
5.9.2. TSP. An educator, administrator, or ISS employee may elect to have either a percentage or a dollar deduction for TSP in accordance with guidelines in Chapter 11. If the educator, administrator, or ISS employee specifies a percentage withholding, the employee receives TSP deductions taken from the annual retroactive salary adjustment each year.

5.10 Educators Appointed as Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps (JROTC) (070510)

The DoDEA employs retired military officers and noncommissioned officers as educators in its JROTC overseas program. The school year salary of JROTC instructors is set using the comprehensive Schedule for Educators and Specialist (Schedule C).

5.11 Waiver of Erroneous Payments of Pay and Allowances (070511)

DoDEA employees may apply for a waiver of erroneous payments of pay and allowances by following procedures outlined in Chapter 8. However, the PRO forwards DoDEA employee applications to the DoDEA Human Resources Regional Service Center for adjudication rather than to the Defense Debt and Claims Management Office at DFAS.

UNDERPAYMENTS, COLLECTION OF NON-DOD DEBTS, GARNISHMENTS, BANKRUPTCY ACTION, AND TAX LEVIES

1.0 GENERAL

1.1 Purpose

This chapter establishes policy pertaining to underpayments, special payments, collection of non-DoD debts, processing garnishments, bankruptcy actions, tax levies, and processing and tax reporting on pay corrections. For regulations governing the collection of debts owed to DoD, see Volume 16.

1.2 Authoritative Guidance

The pay policies and requirements established by DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.), including Titles 5, 11, and 31. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each section are listed in a reference section at the end of this chapter.

2.0 UNDERPAYMENTS

2.1 General

Salary underpayments to employees or former employees may result from computation or time and attendance errors. Current or former employees, who believe they have not been credited with the proper amount of pay or leave, should contact their timekeeper to make time and attendance corrections or their personnel office to make pay or allowance changes. Employees may also file a claim for additional earnings. For more information on the process for filing a claim, see Chapter 6.

2.1.1 Computation Errors. Underpayments may be the result of computation errors involving income tax withholding, retirement or other employee benefit deductions, Social Security/Medicare tax, or the rate of pay. Every effort should be made to correct the underpayments by increasing or decreasing the pay factors affected on the first payroll prepared after the error is discovered.

2.1.2 Time and Attendance Errors. Underpayments may also be the result of time and attendance errors. All salary payments to employees must be paid in accordance with the time and attendance reported and certified by the employee’s supervisor. Reported time and attendance, which is less than an employee’s normal work schedule, is presumed to accurately reflect the employee’s hours of work and non-work. Any errors in time and attendance must be corrected and certified in order to adjust underpayments.
2.2 Special Payments

Special payments are defined as payments made outside of the normal payroll-processing schedule and are used to correct salary underpayments. Special payments are processed manually. Employees do not receive a Leave and Earnings Statement (LES) at the time of the special payment, but the Civilian Payroll Office (PRO) should notify the employee that the payment is being made. After the special payment is processed through the payroll system, an LES will reflect the gross amount of the special pay and all applicable deductions.

2.2.1 Guidelines for Issuing Special Payments

An employing activity must submit a request to the PRO for a special payment. The PRO may receive special payment requests via interfaced action(s). The PRO must request copies of substantiating and supporting documentation in order to process the special payment. The PRO makes the final determination on whether a special payment is appropriate and will process a special payment only under the following circumstances:

2.2.1.1. Employee Receives Less Than 90 Percent of Pay. A special payment may be issued to correct a salary underpayment when an employee has received less than 90 percent of their regular biweekly pay and allowances. The request for the special payment must be made by the commanding officer/director and must include a certified time and attendance report (or corrected time and attendance report). The PRO Directors may waive the 90 percent rule for making special payments when extenuating circumstances exist.

2.2.1.2. Employee Erroneously Omitted From Payroll. A special payment may be issued to pay an employee erroneously omitted from the payroll. Before the special payment is processed, the PRO must verify an individual’s employment using the Standard Form (SF) 50, Notification of Personnel Action. The request for the special payment must be made by the commanding officer/director and must include a certified and corrected time and attendance report and any necessary source documents to support deductions.

2.2.1.3. Employee on Leave Without Pay (LWOP). A special payment may be issued to pay an employee placed in an LWOP status for payroll processing when LWOP is approved for conversion to advanced annual, sick, and/or donated leave. The commanding officer/director may request a special payment after determining a financial hardship exists for the employee and that the employee has received less than 90 percent of their regular biweekly pay and allowances. The request must include a certified and corrected time and attendance report.

2.2.1.4. Special Payments to Beneficiaries. A special payment may be issued to pay a beneficiary entitled to receive a deceased employee’s unpaid compensation under 5 U.S.C. § 5582. Beneficiaries of deceased employees may request a special payment by sending a letter to the PRO identifying the need for payment to defray expenses. The PRO may issue the special payment only after the employing activity’s human resources office submits sufficient documentation to support the payment. For more information on deceased employee unpaid compensation and the computation of such payments, see Chapter 10.
2.2.2. Special Payments Not Authorized

Special payment requested for the following reasons will not be processed:

2.2.2.1. Partial Payment of Salary. The PRO will not honor a request for partial payment of salary before the regular pay date.

2.2.2.2. Special Payments of Premium Pay. The PRO will not process a request for special payments for overtime or other premium pay earned but not reported and, therefore, not paid in the corresponding pay period. However, authorization for a special payment for other reasons will include the payment of any unpaid premium pay for the corresponding pay period.

2.2.3. Computation of Special Payments to Employees

The PRO must compute the special payments to current and former employees using the “gross-to-net” method. Gross-to-net payments represent the regular biweekly pay and allowances normally due the employee (plus unpaid premium pay for the corresponding pay period, if applicable,) less required deductions and withholdings withheld from the employee’s biweekly pay. Gross-to-net special payment computations should be applied as follows:

2.2.3.1. Biweekly Payment of Less Than 90 Percent. If the employee received less than 90 percent of their biweekly pay, the employee is entitled to the difference between what was paid and what should have been paid. The PRO will deduct additional amounts for applicable items, such as those identified in subparagraph 2.2.6, unless previous payroll processing has satisfied those deductions. The employee is responsible for existing voluntary allotments not deducted during the previous processing. All deductions and withholdings must resume the following pay cycle, including voluntary allotments.

2.2.3.2. No Pay Received. If the employee received no biweekly pay, the gross entitlements, less applicable deductions and withholdings, are payable to the employee. The PRO must exclude deductions for voluntary allotments. The employee is responsible for existing voluntary allotments. All deductions and withholdings must resume on the following pay cycle, including voluntary allotments.

2.2.3.3. Final Pay as Special Payment. An employee’s final pay may be issued as a special payment. The gross entitlements, less required deductions and withholdings in subparagraph 2.2.5, is payable to the employee. The employee is responsible for voluntary allotments. Under 5 U.S.C. § 5514, when an employee separates by resignation, retirement, death, or termination of appointment, the employee’s final pay (including lump-sum leave payments) will be applied to the extent necessary to liquidate any previously established debt. See Volume 16, Chapter 3.
2.2.4. Disbursement of Special Payments

Employees will receive special payment disbursements in the same manner as their net pay, by electronic funds transfer (EFT). If the employee has received a waiver of the EFT requirement for payroll disbursements, the PRO will send the employee a U.S. Treasury check via express mail to the employee’s address of record. Payments are normally issued within 3 business days following the PRO’s receipt of the special payment request and required supporting documentation.

2.2.5. Processing Special Payments Made After the Last Regular Pay Period of the Tax Year, But Prior to the End of the Calendar Year

2.2.5.1. Federal, State, and Local Taxes and Social Security/Medicare. For special payments made after the last regular pay period of the tax year, but prior to the end of the calendar year, the PRO must withhold federal, state, and local taxes, and Social Security/Medicare from the special payments. When computing or making deductions for Social Security, the PRO must ensure the employee has not reached maximum withholdings for the year. The PRO must forward the withholdings to the applicable offices as soon as possible. The PRO will include all deductions and contributions for Social Security/Medicare, federal, state, and local taxes for canceled checks or special payments.

2.2.5.2. Internal Revenue Service (IRS) Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement. The PRO will process updates to ensure special payments or canceled checks are included in the history totals. After the final pay period of the tax year, if the PRO identifies incorrect reporting on the W-2, the PRO will issue the W-2c and the IRS Form 941-X, Adjusted Employer’s Quarterly Federal Tax Return or Claim for Refund, in accordance with the IRS Publication 15, (Circular E), Employer’s Tax Guide.

2.2.5.3. Thrift Savings Plan (TSP). Special payments for TSP participants are subject to TSP deductions provided the employee has not reached the maximum contribution level established by law. TSP deductions withheld from special payments after the last regular pay period in the tax year, but before the end of the calendar year, will be combined with the next pay cycle for reporting and submission to the Federal Retirement Thrift Investment Board.

2.2.6. Tax Rates for Special Payments

2.2.6.1. Tax Rate. The PRO must use the tax rate associated with the current IRS Form W-4, Employee’s Withholding Certificate, when processing all time and attendance retroactive transactions. The PRO must combine the retroactive wages with the wages from the last pay period (i.e., the pay period prior to the current pay period) to determine the basis for recomputing tax withholdings. The PRO must recompute the taxes and determine the retroactive tax withholdings by subtracting the taxes withheld during the last pay period from the recomputed taxes.

2.2.6.2. Retroactive Wage Increases. In accordance with Circular E, retroactive wage increases are supplemental wages, not regular wages. The amount of federal tax withheld will depend on how the supplemental wages are paid. For prior year retroactive payments, the amount of federal tax withheld is calculated using the supplemental tax rate, which is updated by the IRS annually. For current year retroactive payments, the amount of federal tax withheld is calculated using the employee’s current tax rate.

3.0 COLLECTION OF NON-DOD DEBTS BY SALARY OFFSET; JUDGMENTS AGAINST EMPLOYEES FOR DEBTS OWED TO THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

3.1 Non-DoD Federal Creditor Agencies

3.1.1. Request for Salary Offset. A non-DoD federal creditor agency is a non-DoD agency to which an employee owes a debt. When non-DoD federal creditor agencies (except for the IRS or U.S. Courts) identify DoD employees as having outstanding debts, those agencies must address their salary offset requests to the Secretary of Defense designee for such collection, which is the Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS) Cleveland (CL).

DFAS-AHADC/CL
1240 East 9th Street
Cleveland, OH  44199-8002

A request for offset must include certification that due process rights have been afforded to an indebted employee by the non-DoD creditor agency. Debts established in the payroll system for collection from non-DoD employees serviced by DFAS, who later transfer and become DoD employees, should be transferred systematically to the employing DoD agency for continued collection.

3.1.2. Statute of Limitations. There is no statute of limitations for collection of a debt by salary or administrative offset. Debts more than 10 years delinquent as of December 31, 2009, that were previously ineligible for collection may now be collected by administrative offset. Additional notice and due process requirements must be met. For further information, see Volume 16, Chapter 2.

3.2 Government Travel Charge Card (GTCC) Contractor

3.2.1. Authority. Public Law \(\text{(PL) 105-264}\) authorizes federal agencies to collect undisputed delinquent amounts incurred on an individually billed GTCC from the DoD employee’s disposable pay. The amount deducted may not exceed 15 percent of an employee’s disposable pay for each pay period, unless the employee has provided written consent for a greater amount. For further information, see the Federal Travel Regulation \(\text{(FTR) Part 301-54; FTR Part 301-76;}\) and Title 41, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 301-76, \(\text{(41 CFR Part 301-76).}\)

3.2.2. Request for Collection. After undisputed debts become 90 days delinquent, the travel charge card contractor must send a 90-day demand letter to the employee that includes all due process requirements for initiating salary offset. If the debt is not disputed or paid, or arrangements are not made for payment by installment agreement within the 30-day period following the final debt letter, then the travel charge card contractor may request initiation of the salary offset process through payroll deduction.
3.2.3. Responsibilities

3.2.3.1. Travel Charge Card Contractor

3.2.3.1.1. Request for Offset. The travel charge card contractor must forward delinquent debts to DFAS-CL Salary Offset Project Office.

3.2.3.1.2. Record of Charges, Late Fees, and Costs. The undisputed 120-day old delinquent accounts referred for salary offset must contain the full balance of the account, regardless of whether some of the individual charges relate to an official travel document. In addition to the delinquent charges, the amount referred for salary offset must include any late fees assessed and costs of collection.

3.2.3.1.3. Financial Institution Information. The file must include the travel charge card contractor’s financial institution and account routing information to facilitate electronic transmission of delinquent amounts collected.

3.2.3.1.4. Private Collection Agency Referrals. Any delinquent debt the travel charge card contractor has already forwarded to a private collection agency for collection must not be included in the salary offset process. Likewise, a travel charge card contractor must not refer any delinquent debt already submitted to DFAS for collection by salary offset to a private collection agency.

3.2.3.2. Salary Offset Project Office

3.2.3.2.1. Processing Requests. The Salary Offset Project Office must process the request for initiation of travel charge card delinquent debt salary offset in the same manner as is done for federal salary offset requests from other federal agencies.

3.2.3.2.2. Debt Balance. The Salary Offset Project Office must manage the debt balance during the salary offset process. If for any reason changes to the debt balance occur, the travel charge card contractor must immediately advise the Salary Offset Project Office of those changes.

3.2.3.2.3. Reports From the PRO. The PROs must provide reports listing the collection transactions to the Salary Offset Project Office for each collection file in order to monitor amounts collected and remaining debt balances due.

3.2.3.3. Due Process - Inquiries, Disputes, and Hearing Process. Any inquiries or disputes regarding the debt and the 90-day demand notice, which are received by the travel charge card contractor prior to forwarding the debt to DFAS for collection, will be handled and resolved by the travel charge card contractor. If the employee wants to negotiate an installment agreement prior to the referral of the debt for salary offset, the employee will make any such agreement with the travel charge card contractor. If the employee is not satisfied with the travel charge card contractor’s disposition of the dispute, he or she may submit a petition to the travel charge card contractor for a debt hearing.
3.3 Collection of State Debts

Under 31 U.S.C. § 3716(h) and 31 CFR 285.6, a state may enter into a reciprocal agreement with the Department of Treasury to collect unpaid state debt by offset of federal non-tax payments. DFAS does not offset non-tax state debts from federal employee salaries.

3.4 Judgment Against an Employee

When a U.S. Court determines that a federal employee is indebted to the United States and enters a judgment against the employee, PL 97-276, section 124 (published as a note to 5 U.S.C. § 5514), allows collection of the debt by deduction from the employee's current pay account. The employee's consent is not required. Any federal agency requesting salary offset under this authority must send a request for offset to the PRO with a copy of the judgment entered against the employee. The PRO may request DFAS Office of General Counsel (OGC) to review the judgment if questions arise. After confirmation of the validity or interpretation of the judgment, the PRO will:

3.4.1. Compute the amount to be collected each pay period using the percentage specified in the offset request. The maximum amount deducted for a pay period may not exceed 25 percent of the employee's disposable pay, unless a greater percentage is necessary to recover the amount owed within the time of the anticipated employment. Deductions may be made from basic pay, special pay, incentive pay, or in the case of an individual not entitled to basic pay, other authorized pay.

3.4.2. Collect the total unpaid balance as specified in the offset request. This amount may include accumulated interest and administrative charges. The agency requesting offset should notify the PRO approximately 90 days before completion of the judgment offset with the final judgment amount, which includes the balance of accrued interest charges.

3.4.3. Forward a copy of the offset request to the employee with written notification advising the employee of the deduction amount and pay period the deduction will start.

3.4.4. Apply final pay (salary and lump-sum leave) to any unliquidated debt balance if the employee retires, resigns, dies, or if employment otherwise ends.

3.4.5. Forward payment each pay period to the agency requesting salary offset.
4.0 CHILD SUPPORT, ALIMONY AND COMMERCIAL GARNISHMENTS

*4.1 General

DFAS serves as the paying agency for DoD, as well as non-DoD federal agencies, including the Department of Energy, the Department of Health and Human Services, the Broadcast Board of Governors, Executive Office of the President, National Background Investigations Bureau and the Department of Veterans Affairs. In this capacity, DFAS-OGC, Garnishment Law Directorate, is the designated agent for service of personal bankruptcy cases and garnishment legal process for agencies paid by DFAS.

Submit court orders, related documents, and forms for child support, alimony, commercial garnishments, and bankruptcies to the Garnishment Law Directorate by mail, fax, or online through the askDFAS module. For additional information, see the DFAS Garnishments website: https://www.dfas.mil/Garnishment/.

DFAS Office of General Counsel
Attn: Garnishment Law Directorate
PO Box 998002
Cleveland, OH 44199-8002

Toll free fax: (877) 622-5930
Fax: (216) 367-3675

Upon review of the court order, DFAS will process the garnishment deduction in the payroll system. A cancellation to the order will be automatic on the date of separation from DoD, upon death of the employee, or upon notification from the court that the garnishment is terminated. The employee cannot voluntarily stop court-ordered deductions.

4.2 Child Support and Alimony Garnishments

4.2.1. Authority. Title 42, U.S.C. § 659 provides consent by the United States for garnishment and similar proceedings for enforcement of child support and alimony obligations against employees. The PRO must deduct court-ordered garnishment under this section from the employee's pay in accordance with 5 CFR Part 581.

4.2.2. Pay Subject to Garnishment. All moneys due employees, the entitlement to which is based upon “remuneration for employment,” are subject to court-order garnishment. The term “remuneration for employment” means all compensation paid or payable for personal services performed by an individual, whether such compensation is denominated as wages, salary, commission, bonus pay, or otherwise, and includes, but not limited to, those items as defined in 5 CFR 581.103.
4.2.3. Pay Not Subject to Garnishment. Moneys paid as reimbursement (normally defined by law or regulations as allowances, awards paid for making suggestions, and injury compensation payments) are not deemed “remuneration for employment” and, therefore, are not subject to garnishment. Amounts not subject to garnishment are defined in 5 CFR 581.104. Other exclusions not subject to garnishment are deductions, as defined in 5 CFR 581.105.

4.2.4. Maximum Garnishment Limitations. Aggregate disposable earnings means the amount of any pay that is due or payable to an employee as “remuneration for employment” minus the deductions that are listed as exclusions. Unless a lower maximum garnishment limitation is provided by applicable state or local law, the maximum part of the aggregate disposable earnings subject to garnishment to enforce a support order (5 CFR 581.402) will not exceed the percentages specified in the following subparagraphs:

- 4.2.4.1. Up to 50 percent of the employee’s aggregate disposable earnings for any workweek if the employee is supporting a spouse, a dependent child, or both, other than the former spouse, child, or both for whose support is required by the garnishment order. An additional 5 percent of the employee’s disposable earnings is subject to garnishment in each case if the outstanding arrearages are over 12 weeks old; or

- 4.2.4.2. Up to 60 percent of the employee’s aggregate disposable earnings for any workweek if the employee is not supporting a spouse, dependent child, or both, other than the former spouse, child or both for whose support is required by the garnishment order. An additional 5 percent of the employee’s disposable earnings are subject to garnishment in each case if the outstanding arrearages are over 12 weeks old.

4.3 Commercial Garnishments

- 4.3.1. Authority. The public law, as codified in 5 U.S.C. § 5520a and enabled by 5 CFR Part 582, authorizes the pay of federal civilian employees to be garnished for commercial obligations in accordance with state law. Commercial obligations and garnishments do not include those for child support or alimony.

- 4.3.2. Pay Subject to Commercial Garnishment. Pay due to employees, as defined in 5 U.S.C. § 5520a, is subject to commercial garnishment.

- 4.3.3. Pay Not Subject to Commercial Garnishment. Suggestion awards and injury compensation payments are not subject to garnishment. Other amounts excluded from pay subject to garnishment are payroll deductions as defined in 5 CFR 582.103.
4.3.4. Maximum Garnishment Limitations. Under 15 U.S.C. § 1673(a)(1), involuntary withholding for the collection of a commercial debt is limited to a maximum of 25 percent of the employee's disposable earnings. However, state law prevails when it provides a maximum collection percentage less than 25 percent. If the employee already has a child support or alimony withholding order in effect, and the total deduction for child support and alimony equal or exceeds 25 percent of an employee's disposable pay, then do not process a deduction for a commercial debt. Further, limitations on the amount to be garnished are found in 5 CFR 582.402. There is no limit on the percentage amount for garnishment for federal, state, or local tax obligations, or for bankruptcy court orders.

4.3.5. Administrative Fee. For each commercial garnishment received and processed, an administrative fee may be added to the garnishment amount and collected from the employee in full before any payments are remitted to the creditor. In accordance with 5 CFR 582.305, the agency may retain administrative fees as offsetting collections.

4.4 State Tax Levies

Involuntary state tax levies will be processed similar to commercial garnishments. Involuntary state tax levies are submitted to the Garnishment Law Directorate to begin legal process, whereas the PRO can establish voluntary state tax levies as allotments.

5.0 BANKRUPTCIES

*5.1 General

This section applies to DoD employees who have filed a bankruptcy petition under either 11 U.S.C., Chapter 7 or 11 U.S.C., Chapter 13. The law waives the U.S. Government's sovereign immunity for purposes of compliance with payroll deduction orders issued by the bankruptcy courts (11 U.S.C. § 106). Therefore, collections will be processed in accordance with the court order.

Submit bankruptcy notices and Chapter 13 withholding orders to the Garnishment Law Directorate by mail, fax, or online using the askDFAS module. See also DFAS Garnishments website for additional information on bankruptcies.

5.1.1. Automatic Stay Provisions. Collecting an amount of indebtedness owed to the United States that was incurred prior to the filing date of the petition is described as a pre-petition debt. Collecting debts by offset from the employee’s pay account is authorized only through the day prior to the date the bankruptcy petition is filed. Continuing deductions from the employee’s pay after the filing of a petition in a bankruptcy is improper and violates the automatic stay provisions of the bankruptcy statute. Amounts withheld after the date the bankruptcy petition is filed must be refunded to the employee. Child support and alimony garnishments are not terminated unless the bankruptcy order specifically directs termination. Coordinate with DFAS-OGC, Garnishment Law Directorate, if there are questions about collecting a debt when a debtor has filed bankruptcy, as there may be exceptions that affect the collection of a debt or refund due a debtor.

5.1.2. Proof of Claim. Upon notice or actual knowledge of the filing of a bankruptcy petition, when the employee has listed the United States as a creditor, the PRO files a proof of claim with the bankruptcy court concerned for all Chapter 13 filings and, if requested by the bankruptcy trustee, for Chapter 7 cases.

* 5.1.3. Post-Petition Debt. If the bankruptcy is completed and the employee receives a discharge, then generally, the listed indebtedness to the United States for pre-petition debts is discharged with few exceptions. Any new debt incurred after the filing of the bankruptcy petition is known as a post-petition debt. Typically, the bankruptcy proceedings do not affect liability of the debtor for post-petition debts, but may affect the collectability of post-petition debts during the pendency of the bankruptcy. Therefore, prior to taking any collection action on post-petition debts, the PRO should coordinate with DFAS-OGC, Garnishment Law Directorate.

5.1.4. Court Dismissal. If the court dismisses the bankruptcy case, all debt collection and garnishments may resume because there is no longer a valid bankruptcy case.

5.2 Chapter 13 Bankruptcies (The Plan)

5.2.1. Under the Chapter 13, Bankruptcy Code, an employee may file a petition with the court to enter into a Plan. Title 11, U.S.C. § 1325 permits an indebted individual who has a regular income to file a Plan with the bankruptcy court designed to liquidate all or part of the creditor’s claim. When a Plan has been approved, the court may order DoD to pay all or part of the employee’s wages to a trustee for the employee.

* 5.2.2. Generally, when the court confirms the Plan, its provisions are binding upon the employee and all creditors of the employee, regardless of whether they are affected by the Plan or have been included in the Plan. Coordinate with DFAS-OGC, Garnishment Law Directorate, as there may be exceptions that do not bind creditors against the plan and/or discharge depending on the characterization of the indebtedness, the date the indebtedness incurred, and/or the effectiveness of service of the bankruptcy notice to the creditor.

5.2.3. Once the bankruptcy court confirms a Plan, it usually orders the employer to pay a specific amount of an employee’s income to the trustee named in the order. Payment to the trustee will be made in accordance with the employee’s normal pay cycle. Bankruptcy law authorizes withholdings of up to 100 percent of the employee’s disposable earnings, as directed by court-ordered, wage order.
5.2.4. The pay of an employee is subject to payment to the trustee appointed by the court pursuant to Chapter 13 of the Bankruptcy Code. Compliance with the court order gives the government valid acquittance against the employee since the court order is binding on the employee.

5.2.5. If the United States is both the employer and creditor when the individual files bankruptcy under Chapter 13, then the government’s priority under 31 U.S.C. § 3713 may be asserted in the absence of a judicial determination to the contrary. An Official Form 410, Proof of Claim, should be timely filed with the appropriate PRO and the bankruptcy court.

6.0 TAX LEVY FOR UNPAID FEDERAL INCOME TAX

6.1 Authority

The IRS District Directors are authorized under 26 U.S.C. § 6331 to collect delinquent federal income taxes by levy on the salary or wages of any United States or Washington, D.C. employee. When the employee fails to pay federal income tax due within 30 days after the IRS issues a notice and payment demand, a levy against the employee’s wages may be issued. The levy is served against the take home pay of the employee and attaches only to the salary check or cash disbursement the employee would receive on payday if it were not for the levy.

6.1.1. Allotments. After the PRO receives a levy, the PRO must not allow employees to increase or add any voluntary allotments. Changes that increase existing voluntary allotments are only authorized after the total tax liability is paid or arrangements are made with the IRS.

6.1.2. Time Limits. The IRS has the authority to collect outstanding federal taxes for 10 years from the date the tax liability was assessed. However, the 10-year collection period can be suspended and the amount of time the suspension is in effect will be added to the time remaining in the 10-year period. For example, if the 10-year period is suspended for 6 months, the time left in the period the IRS will have to collect will increase by 6 months.

6.2 Procedures

When the IRS serves Form 668-W, Notice of Levy on Wages, Salary, and Other Income, the PRO will take immediate action to implement the levy. Once the PRO processes the levy, the levy will continue in effect until the collection is complete or until the IRS releases the levy.

6.2.1. Notice to Employee. The PRO must follow instructions as indicated on the 668-W and provide notice to the employee that a levy has been received.

6.2.2. Claiming of Exemptions. Employees may claim a biweekly personal exemption and a biweekly exemption for each dependent. The IRS updates exemption amounts annually. The PRO must use the IRS Publication 1494, Tables for Figuring Amount Exempt from Levy on Wages, Salary, and Other Income, along with the 668-W for the current exemption amounts.
6.2.2.1. Employee Responsibilities. The employee must certify exemptions and provide the information to the PRO on the 668-W under “Statement of Exemptions and Filing Status.” The employee must return the completed form to the PRO for processing. If the employee fails to provide exemption information to the PRO, a dependency exemption will not be allowed and only the minimum personal exemption for each pay period will be allowed. An employee may provide a new statement to the PRO at a later date to have the exempt amount recomputed. The employee does not have to return the form if they have no dependency exemptions to claim.

6.2.2.2. Court Judgment. If the employee is required by a court judgment (made before the date of the levy) to contribute to the support of minor children, that amount of salary, wages, or other income is already exempt from the levy and the employee may not claim the minor children as exemptions.

6.2.2.3. Computing Take Home Pay. The levy attaches to the employee’s take home pay minus the allowable exceptions. Unless otherwise instructed by the IRS, the employee’s payroll deductions in effect at the time the levy was received will be allowed when determining the employee's take home pay. However, a voluntary allotment may be disallowed if the deduction is so large it defeats the levy. The IRS may notify the PRO when different procedures should be followed for specific employees. To determine the employee’s take home pay, the levy attaches to the gross amount of the employee’s accrued wages or salary, less the following specified deductions:

6.2.2.3.1. Social Security/Medicare;
6.2.2.3.2. Retirement;
6.2.2.3.3. Federal Employees’ Health Benefits;
6.2.2.3.4. Federal Employees’ Group Life Insurance;
6.2.2.3.5. Pay attached or garnished for child support or alimony;
6.2.2.3.6. Overpayments due the U.S. Government; and 6.2.2.3.7. Allowable personal exemptions on the 668-W.

6.2.2.4. Return the 668-W to the IRS. After the PRO makes the first deduction for the levy against the employee’s pay, the PRO must follow the instructions on the 668-W and return Part 3 of the form to the IRS.
6.2.2.5. Employee Transfers or Separation

6.2.2.5.1. Transfers Within DoD. If the employee has been reassigned to an organization serviced by another PRO, then the losing PRO must inform the IRS District Director of the employee's new address. The losing PRO must mail the complete levy package to the new PRO for processing.

6.2.2.5.2. Other Employee Transfers or Separation. If the employee has moved from overseas, transferred to another federal agency, separated or retired, then the PRO will return the levy to the IRS District Director and provide the employee's new address on the 668-W.

6.2.2.6. No Employee Record Found. If the PRO receiving the levy has no record that payroll service has been furnished for the employee, the PRO must annotate that fact on the bottom of the levy and return the levy to the IRS District Director.

6.3 Voluntary Deductions for Unpaid Federal Income Tax

An employee may arrange with the IRS to liquidate a delinquent federal income tax debt through voluntary biweekly payroll deductions. The IRS Form 2159, Payroll Deduction Agreement, must be submitted to the PRO to initiate the deduction process.

7.0 PAY CORRECTIONS AND TAX REPORTING

7.1 General

7.1.1. Purpose. This section provides guidance on correcting tax reporting for underpaid or overpaid earnings.

7.1.2. Authoritative Guidance. The authority used to derive procedures for this section includes Circular E and corresponding statutes and regulations.

7.2 Tax Reporting for Underpayment of Earnings

A payment made to correct an underpayment of earnings ("corrective payment") is reported as wages in the year the corrective payment is issued, even if the underpayment occurred in a prior calendar year. The PRO must process the corrective payment in the current pay cycle. The PRO must report the corrective payment as gross wages subject to Social Security/Medicare taxes on the employee’s current year W-2. Social Security/Medicare tax should be withheld from the corrective payment. The gross wages must be reported as current quarterly earnings on the IRS Form 941, Employer’s Quarterly Federal Tax Return. For separated employees, the PRO may be required to prepare the IRS Form W-2c, Corrected Wage and Tax Statement, if a W-2 was previously issued.
7.3 Tax Reporting for Overpayment of Earnings

If an employee has been overpaid earnings, the earnings are reported in the year the employee was overpaid (see paragraph 7.3.1 for adjustments to tax reporting if the employee repays the debt in the same year as the overpayment). If the employee repays a debt for an overpayment of earnings, the procedures for correcting tax reporting depend on whether the repayment was made in the same year as the overpayment, or in a subsequent year.

7.3.1. Repayment of Current Year Overpayments

If the employee was overpaid earnings and repaid the debt in the same year as the overpayment, the following applies:

7.3.1.1. Active Employees. For active employees, the PRO must follow debt collection procedures in Volume 16 in order to establish a debt for the overpaid earnings. If the employee repays the debt, in whole or in part, in the same year the overpayment occurs, the PRO will need to record the repaid amount as a reversal in the base pay, gross pay, net pay, or other pay as applicable. Such action is required to recover income tax withholding and Social Security and Medicare taxes for the repaid wages and to correct the yearly gross income. If the entire debt is not repaid in the same year in which the overpayment occurred, see paragraph 7.3.2.

7.3.1.2. Separated Employees. The PRO must follow the same procedures for active employees outlined in subparagraph 7.3.1.1, but must reestablish the employee on the payroll prior to processing the required reversals. If a W-2 was previously issued to the separated employee, the PRO must prepare a W-2c. If the entire debt is not repaid in the same year in which the overpayment occurred, see paragraph 7.3.2.

7.3.2. Repayment of Prior Year Overpayments

If the employee was overpaid earnings and repaid the debt in a year subsequent to the year of the overpayment, the following applies:

7.3.2.1. Active Employees.

7.3.2.1.1. Tax Reporting. If an active employee repays an overpayment of earnings paid in a prior year, Social Security/Medicare wages and taxes may need to be corrected. If the year of repayment is still within the 3-year statute of limitations for Social Security and/or Medicare tax refunds, the PRO must prepare a W-2c and W-3c for the prior year to reduce the gross wages subject to Social Security/Medicare (box 3). Wages reflected in box 1 of the W-2c should not be corrected. Additionally, no adjustments are made for income tax withholding or additional Medicare tax withholding. In accordance with the Circular E, the PRO will prepare the 941-X to correct errors on the 941 and retain copies of the corrected forms. If the repayment is beyond the 3-year statute of limitations, then the PRO will not make corrections to the prior year W-2 and the 941.
7.3.2.1.2. Tax Certificate. The PRO should prepare a tax certificate for the employee representing the repaid wages in the year of repayment. The amount entered on the certificate is the total amount of the reverse deductions plus the amount the employee repaid. The employee may be entitled to a deduction (or a credit, in some cases) for the repaid wages on the employee’s income tax return for the year of repayment. For additional information, also see 26 U.S.C. § 1341 and IRS Publication 525, Taxable and Nontaxable Income.

7.3.2.2. Separated Employees. For separated employees, the PRO will follow the procedures outlined for active employees, but will retain copies of the W-2c and the 941-X to balance annual federal tax deposits.

CHAPTER 9

RECORDS, FILES, AND REPORTS

1.0 GENERAL

1.1 Purpose

This chapter provides guidance on records, files, and reports relative to the Civilian Payroll Offices (PRO).

*1.2 Authoritative Guidance

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with, the United States Code (U.S.C.), including Title 5. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each section are listed in the References section at the end of this chapter.

2.0 RECORDS AND FILES

2.1 Payroll Documentation

2.1.1 Disbursement Documentation. Documentation in the form of a voucher must be prepared for each disbursement or group of disbursements authorized to be paid by any DoD Component. A voucher is the authority for payment and must be correctly prepared in accordance with all legal and regulatory guidance, supported with proper documentation, and certified by an authorized certifying official prior to disbursement submission. DoD agencies are not permitted to give an employee the authority to certify his or her own disbursements.

2.1.1.1 Disbursements to the Office of Personnel Management (OPM). Deductions for the Civil Service Retirement System (CSRS) and the Federal Employees Retirement System (FERS), life insurance, and health benefit programs with employer contributions are routinely paid to OPM each pay period. The automated Standard Form (SF) 2812-A, Report of Withholdings and Contributions for Health Benefits by Enrollment Code, is used to report these deductions to OPM. A consolidated SF 2812-A must be submitted biweekly to OPM through the Retirement and Insurance Transfer System (RITS). For additional information on RITS, see subparagraph 3.3.3.

2.1.2 Disbursements to Taxing Authorities. Federal income, Social Security, and Medicare taxes withheld must be paid to the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) as provided by the IRS Publication 15, (Circular E), Employer’s Tax Guide. State or city/local income taxes withheld must be paid to the appropriate taxing authority in accordance with the Treasury Financial Manual (TFM), Volume I, Part 6, Chapter 5000 and Title 31, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 215 (31 CFR Part 215).
2.1.1.3. Disbursements to Thrift Savings Plan (TSP). Employee and employer contributions for traditional or Roth TSP accounts, and deductions for TSP loan repayments must be paid to the TSP Record Keeping Service Provider. See TSP PRO Resources.

2.1.1.4. Other Disbursements. All other amounts withheld must be paid in accordance with applicable regulations or instructions furnished by the employee.

2.1.2. Deduction Documentation. Payments to those for whom deductions are authorized to be paid must be reconciled on a cyclical basis, at least annually, with the amounts withheld plus the related employer contributions, if any, as shown by the pay or other records. This procedure is necessary to determine whether the correct amounts are reported to those authorized to receive deductions and contributions withheld from the employee’s pay. Payroll records must provide a clear audit trail from the gross pay calculation to the net pay received by the employee by pay period and by year-to-date totals.

2.1.2.1. Tax Withholding. The amounts reported on the annual IRS Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement, must match the total amounts withheld during the year as shown by the PRO records.

2.1.2.2. Individual Retirement Record (IRR). A related control account and either the SF 2806, IRR (CSRS) or the SF 3100 IRR (FERS), must be maintained in accordance with the OPM requirements for each civilian employee for whom retirement deductions are made. For information on items reported on the IRR, refer to the CSRS/FERS Handbook, Chapter 81 and OPM Benefits Administration Letter (BAL) 15-102.

2.1.2.3. Federal Employees’ Group Life Insurance (FEGLI). Each DoD PRO must keep a record of the total amounts withheld from employees’ salaries and the total amount of the employer’s contributions for FEGLI for each calendar year. These records must be kept in a ledger or other appropriate form or represented by file copies of vouchers that were used to report information to the OPM.

2.1.2.4. Federal Employees Health Benefit (FEHB). A record of employee deductions and the employer’s contributions for health benefits must be kept by each enrollment code number. The PRO and the health benefit carrier must submit the enrollee data included in this record to the National Finance Center’s (NFC) FEHB Centralized Electronic Enrollment Reconciliation Clearinghouse (CLER) system on a quarterly basis. (See the NFC OPM/FEHB CLER website.) The Human Resources Office (HRO) and the PRO must review any error codes identified in the CLER system and resolve the discrepancies. The discrepancies are resolved by comparing the health benefits coverage reported by the PRO, the health benefits coverage reported by the carriers, the SF 2809, Health Benefits Election Form, and the SF 2810, Notice of Change in Health Benefits Enrollment, sent in support of the coverage.

2.1.2.5. TSP Deductions. The HROs must maintain a record of traditional and/or Roth TSP deductions and agency contributions for each employee.
2.2 Retroactive Computations Involving Former PROs

2.2.1 General. When retroactive payroll computations are required that involve one or more former PROs, the consolidated PRO maintains overall responsibility for the adjustment process. If it is determined that a former PRO is involved, the consolidated PRO is responsible for contacting each former PRO to obtain the necessary information.

2.2.2 Documentation Requests. If the consolidated PRO is unable to obtain the documentation necessary to perform the retroactive calculation, the consolidated PRO may take one or more of the following steps:

2.2.2.1 Request Archived Documents From the National Personnel Records Center (NPRC). When copies of the SF 135, Records Transmittal and Receipt, are unavailable at the employee’s former office, the current PRO must complete a National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) Optional Form 11, Reference Request - Federal Records Centers, with all available information. The employee’s name, Social Security number (SSN), known places of employment, names and PRO numbers of applicable PROs, and year(s) for which the records are requested must be included in the description and remarks section of the form.

2.2.2.2 Contact the Appropriate HRO. If the NPRC cannot locate the records, the PRO must prepare a memorandum to the appropriate HRO requesting copies of the SF 50, Notification of Personnel Action, or other related pay and/or leave information. Since there may have been consolidations of both the PRO and the appropriate HRO prior to the Defense Civilian Pay System (DCPS) consolidations, it is imperative that both offices work together to obtain information that will assist in the determination of pay and leave adjustments for the employee.

2.2.2.3 Contact the Employee. If the PRO cannot locate documentation from the NPRC or the appropriate HRO, the PRO must contact the employee for the necessary documentation. If the employee has copies of the SF 50 and/or the Leave and Earnings Statement (LES), the PRO may accept this information and use it to reconstruct the pay and/or leave records.

2.2.2.4 Contact OPM. If the transmittal letters to OPM and/or copies of the retirement records cannot be located, the PRO may submit a request to OPM in writing to procure the necessary copies of the records. The PRO may use the information on the retirement records for reconstruction of pay information for adjustments.
3.0 REPORTS

3.1 General

DoD civilian payroll systems must conform to various legal and regulatory requirements by generating reports at regular intervals, on an as-needed basis or by producing reports to meet special requirements. The PRO must support management by generating reports that provide the necessary information to ensure the system’s integrity. Individuals who create reports are responsible for correcting errors due to inaccurate reading or entering of data. Discrepancies in reporting, transmitting, or depositing funds must be resolved promptly. Pursuant to the provisions of the Government Accountability Office (GAO)-03-352G, Maintaining Effective Control Over Employee Time and Attendance Reporting, reports must be:

3.1.1. Prepared accurately, promptly, and distributed to the appropriate recipients to ensure receipt when the information will be of maximum benefit;

3.1.2. Based on, supported by, and periodically validated against appropriate detailed information in the payroll system;

3.1.3. Sent in a timely manner to officials who authorized, or were responsible for, processing payroll transactions, and reviewed by those officials for completeness and accuracy;

3.1.4. Discussed periodically with users and modified or eliminated as appropriate to meet user needs; and

3.1.5. Retained and disposed of in accordance with NARA General Records Schedule 2.0, Human Resources, which includes: NARA General Records Schedule 2.4, Employee Compensation and Benefits Records, and NARA General Records Schedule 2.5, Employee Separation Records, with sensitive data handled in accordance with the provisions of the Privacy Act. See 5 CFR Part 2606.

3.2 As-Required Reports

3.2.1. Income and Employment Tax Reports. Income and employment tax reports are submitted to cities/localities that have an agreement with the Secretary of the Treasury and to cities/localities where voluntary deductions have been taken from employees. Reports are sent to the city/local taxing authorities based on the frequency prescribed by each municipality. See TFM, Volume I Part 6, Chapter 5000.

3.2.2. State Income Tax Reports. These reports are required by states that have reached an agreement with the Secretary of the Treasury. These reports are submitted to the state taxing authorities based on the frequency prescribed by each state. See TFM, Volume I, Part 6, Chapter 5000.
3.2.3. Report on Transfer of Employee

3.2.3.1. SF 1150, Record of Leave Data. The losing PRO must prepare an SF 1150 at the time of the employee’s separation if the employee transfers within DoD to another PRO or to another Federal agency. All blocks on the SF 1150 must reflect accurate data. In addition to reporting transferred leave data, the form contains other pertinent information for the employee in the Remarks section. This includes, but is not limited to: year-to-date wages for Social Security and/or Medicare tax purposes, year-to-date TSP deductions, last deduction for FEHB and FEGLI, date through which the insurance deductions were made, and overseas or territorial differential data.

3.2.3.1.1. The losing PRO forwards the completed SF 1150 to the losing HRO.

3.2.3.1.2. The losing HRO includes the SF 1150 in the employee’s Official Personnel Folder (OPF) and forwards it to the gaining HRO.

3.2.3.1.3. The gaining HRO then forwards the SF 1150 to the gaining PRO.

3.2.3.2. Delayed Receipt of SF 1150. If there is a delay of the OPF containing the SF 1150 reaching the appropriate gaining HRO, and the employee is taking leave, the leave balances from the employee’s latest LES may be entered into DCPS. Once the gaining PRO receives the SF 1150, any transferred-in leave balances will be overridden if the SF 1150 data differs.

3.2.3.3. OPM Form 630, Application to Become a Leave Recipient Under the Voluntary Leave Transfer Program (VLTP). Use version A, B, or C as appropriate for the VLTP action requested. This form records the transfer of leave for leave recipients covered by the VLTP. The 630 is used when a current leave recipient transfers to another PRO or Federal agency without a break in service and will be attached to the SF 1150.

3.2.3.4. Request for Wage and Separation Information. The PRO must report wage data to the appropriate HRO in accordance with Chapter 6. The appropriate HRO maintains a file copy of all data furnished for two years in accordance with the General Records Schedule 2.0, and then the file copy is destroyed.

3.2.3.5. SF 2806 (CSRS)/SF 3100 (FERS). The PRO will prepare and maintain the SF 2806/SF 3100 in accordance with Chapter 4.

3.2.3.6. IRS Form W-2c, Corrected Wage and Tax Statement, IRS Form W-3c, Transmittal of Corrected Wage and Tax Statements, and IRS Form 941-X, Adjusted Employer’s Quarterly Federal Tax Return or Claim for Refund (formerly 941c). The Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS) is responsible for:

3.2.3.6.1. Preparing the W-2c, in accordance with Circular E, to correct prior year wages and tax withholdings as applicable;
3.2.3.6.2. Providing copies to the employee and copy A to the Social Security Administration (SSA);

3.2.3.6.3. Sending a separate W-3c with the corrected W-2c to SSA upon completion of the correction;

3.2.3.6.4. Retaining the employer’s copy of the W-2c in the PRO;

3.2.3.6.5. Preparing the 941-X to adjust the gross wages subject to Social Security and/or Medicare taxes;

3.2.3.6.6. Attaching the 941-X to the current quarterly IRS Form 941, Employer’s Quarterly Federal Tax Return, and entering the amount of the adjustment on the 941. The PRO must maintain copies of both forms;

3.2.3.6.7. Retaining a copy of the W-2c and the 941-X in the current year quarterly tax folder to balance annual Federal tax deposits;

3.2.3.6.8. Preparing IRS Form 1095-C, Employer-Provided Health Insurance Offer and Coverage, for the IRS and the employee for the previous tax year; and

3.2.3.6.9. Preparing IRS Form 1094-C, Transmittal of Employer-Provided Health Insurance Offer and Coverage Information Returns. This form is sent to the IRS in conjunction with the 1095-C.

3.3 Biweekly Reports

3.3.1. Civilian LES. The LES must show gross pay, deductions, net pay, and employer contributions for the current pay period and cumulative totals for the current year. The LES must reflect the accrued and used leave balances for the pay period and year-to-date values. The LES must be made available electronically by accessing the DFAS myPay web application or mailed to the employee’s non-work address every pay period.

3.3.2. SF 2812-A, Report of Withholdings and Contributions for Health Benefits by Enrollment Code. The amount collected for employee retirement (CSRS and FERS), FEHB, and FEGLI deductions, military service deposits, reemployment offsets, and the agency’s contributions for retirement (CSRS and FERS), FEHB, and FEGLI are transferred to OPM. As prescribed by OPM, the PRO uses a “no-check-issue” as the means of payment to OPM. Funds are transferred to OPM using the SF 2812-A. The SF 2812-A reports the total employee deductions and agency contributions for health benefits by health benefits plan enrollment code for the pay period (see subparagraph 2.1.1.1).
3.3.3. Retirement and Insurance Transfer System (RITS).

3.3.3.1. RITS is part of the Intra-Governmental Payment and Collection (IPAC) system developed by OPM and the Department of the Treasury (Treasury) to report civilian retirement and insurance contributions. The automated RITS interfaces with the payroll system and replaces the manual reporting of the SF 2812-A to OPM.

3.3.3.2. To process RITS transactions, the PRO must provide the disbursing office with the payroll system generated hardcopy of the payroll for personal services certification and summary, the SF 2812-A and any disbursement vouchers for cash payments.

3.3.3.2.1. Cash payments received from employees, such as military deposits and health benefits payments, are considered current transactions. The funds are collected and disbursed from a holding account. The total of the payroll for personal services certification and summary and cash disbursement vouchers must equal the total on the SF 2812-A. Cash collections for health benefit indebtedness received from pay accounts not carried forward from the former PROs, must be reported to OPM separately on a supplemental SF 2812-A.

3.3.3.2.2. The disbursing office must ensure the voucher amounts agree and the vouchers contain proper certifying signatures before authorizing the transmission of the file to OPM. The delay between the creation of the system file and transmission is a necessary step in the process to establish adequate internal controls for the disbursement of government funds. If the file is transmitted before the payment date, OPM must warehouse the data until the settlement date.

3.3.3.2.3. The IPAC transaction is a direct payment to OPM. Report the transaction on the SF 1219, Statement of Accountability.

3.3.3.3. RITS provides the capability to report on a regular biweekly basis, as well as to report adjustments in a supplemental off-cycle mode. Reporting during the regular biweekly cycle is the preferred method and automated capabilities of the payroll system must be fully utilized in order to do so. Use of a supplemental reporting cycle must be limited to the greatest extent possible.

3.3.3.4. Consolidated PROs using RITS may find it necessary to report adjustments related to former PROs, as well as adjustments related to the consolidated office. In these situations, the following may be applicable:

3.3.3.4.1. Adjustments for Accounts That Have Not Been Transferred to the Consolidated PRO. These accounts were inactive on former PRO records and did not convert to the consolidated office. Responsibility for these adjustments is now with the consolidated payroll operation and is under the DFAS PRO operations. These adjustments could involve correction of a retirement plan, cash collection for military deposits, or health benefit indebtedness.
3.3.3.4.1.1. Retirement Plan Correction. These adjustments must be reported to OPM via a hard copy SF 2812-A citing the PRO number that originally reported the deductions and contributions. Corrected retirement records and registers citing the former PRO must be prepared and forwarded to OPM. Copies of the SF 2812-A, registers, and records must be forwarded to the departmental reporter for the former PRO so that cumulative balances may be adjusted.

3.3.3.4.1.2. Cash Collections for Military Deposits. The PRO must report cash collections for military deposits via a hard copy SF 2812-A citing the PRO number that originally reported the deductions and contributions. Corrected retirement records and registers citing the former PRO must be prepared and forwarded to OPM. Copies of the registers, records, and SF 2812-A must be forwarded to the departmental reporter for the former PRO so that cumulative balances may be adjusted.

3.3.3.4.1.3. Cash Collections for Health Benefit Indebtedness. Cash collections for health benefit indebtedness must be reported via RITS as a supplemental SF 2812-A from the consolidated PRO using the consolidated PRO Number.

3.3.3.4.2. Adjustments for Accounts That Have Been Transferred to the Consolidated PRO. These accounts were active on former PRO records and converted to the consolidated office. Adjustments may be for accounts that have become inactive since consolidation or for those still in an active status. As part of the consolidated payroll operation, the DFAS PRO is responsible for these adjustments. Records for both the former and consolidated PROs may need to be corrected, depending on the effective date of the correction involved.

3.3.3.4.2.1. Retirement Plan Correction. The adjustment may involve both hard copy reporting via the SF 2812-A and reporting via RITS. Adjustments that are effective prior to the transfer to the consolidated office must be reported to OPM, via the SF 2812-A, citing the former PRO number. Corrected retirement records and registers for that portion applicable to the former PRO must be prepared and forwarded to OPM. A copy of the SF 2812-A, registers, and records must be forwarded to the departmental reporter for the former PRO so that cumulative balances may be adjusted. That portion of the adjustment applicable to the consolidated PRO must be corrected through the payroll system and reported via the RITS regular biweekly cycle. Adjustments for accounts that have become inactive since consolidation must be corrected through the payroll system by reactivating the account.

3.3.3.4.2.2. Cash Collections for Military Deposits. Cash collections for military deposits must be reported via RITS during the regular reporting cycle. Collections for accounts that have become inactive since consolidation must be corrected through the payroll system by reactivating the account. Correction through the payroll system is necessary in order to maintain the proper sequencing of system-assigned register numbers.

3.3.3.4.2.3. Cash Collections for Health Benefit Indebtedness. Cash collections for health benefit indebtedness must be reported via RITS during the regular biweekly reporting cycle.
3.3.4. TSP Form TSP-2, Certification of Transfer of Funds and Journal Voucher. A “no-check-issue” procedure is used to transfer the amount collected for employee TSP deductions as well as the agency contributions to NFC. Funds are transferred to NFC using the TSP Form TSP-2.

3.3.5. Payroll for Personal Services Certification and Summary. The payroll for personal services certification and summary provides total payroll costs and detailed accounting data by appropriation and accounting activity in connection with the civilian payroll.

3.3.6. Reports of Salary Offsets for Non-DoD Federal Agencies

3.3.6.1. Report of Collections. The PRO must forward a biweekly report to each creditor agency of the collections made for the pay period. This report must include, at a minimum, the non-DoD agency to which the collections apply, the PRO name and address, the employee’s name, the amount collected for each employee, the period for which the collection applies, and the total amount of collections remitted to the non-DoD agency.

3.3.6.2. Report of Employees With Salary Offset. The PRO forwards a biweekly report of employees with salary offsets for non-DoD federal agencies to the DFAS site that originally forwarded the salary offset request to the PRO. This report must include, at a minimum, the employee’s name, SSN, creditor agency, amount of the last biweekly collection amount, pay date of the last collection, and the debt balance amount. In the case of employees with more than one debt to a non-DoD Federal agency, the information required in this paragraph must be provided for each debt.

3.3.7. Reporting Union Dues to Labor Organizations or Associations of Management Officials or Supervisors. Each pay period, the PRO must prepare a listing for each recipient of withheld dues. At a minimum, the listing must include the name and address of the PRO, the labor organization or association for which the listing pertains, employee names and amount of dues deducted for each, total amount collected and system-generated remarks that explain the lack of deductions.

3.3.8. Combined Federal Campaign (CFC) Report. The PRO must provide a transmittal report to the Central Campaign Administrator to include:

3.3.8.1. The employing agency, e.g., Army, Navy, Air Force;

3.3.8.2. The employee names and deduction amounts per individual employee;

3.3.8.3. The pay period number; and

3.3.8.4. The pay period date of the CFC data. See 5 CFR 950.801.
3.4 Quarterly Reports

3.4.1. Continuation of Pay (COP) for Disabling, Job-Related Traumatic Injuries Sustained by Federal Employees. The Department of Labor requires a quarterly report on COP. The requirement applies to all PROs including National Guard units. See 20 CFR 10.200.

3.4.2. Employment Statistics Program. Upon request, the PRO furnishes feeder data to the appropriate HRO on total wages paid to civilian employees for specific calendar quarters. The appropriate HRO must prepare and submit the final report.

3.4.3. IRS Form 941, Employer’s Quarterly Federal Tax Return. Each PRO must report tax payment information to the IRS on the 941. The report must be completed and filed by the due date established by the IRS. This is normally the end of the month following the close of the quarter. If all taxes for the quarter are deposited when due, the PRO must file the 941 by the 10th day of the second month following the close of the quarter. The tax payment information required under IRS Schedule B (Form 941), Report of Tax Liability for Semiweekly Schedule Depositors, must be derived from the payment records. The total amount of tax payments during a quarter must agree with the total taxes reported on the 941.

3.4.3.1. The PRO forwards the system generated IRS disbursement voucher, “In Lieu of SF 1049, Public Voucher for Refunds,” to the disbursing office at an agreed upon time preceding the payment date for transmitting the voucher data through the Electronic Federal Tax Payment System (EFTPS). EFTPS is a service offered by the Treasury, which allows an agency to electronically file and make tax payments reported on the 941 each quarter. See Treasury’s EFTPS website for IRS information.

3.4.3.2. The DFAS Cleveland Disbursing Office makes the daily tax deposits that are reported on the 941 through EFTPS. The tax deposit information is entered on the 941, using a fillable form available from the IRS website. After the 941 is prepared, it is reviewed and signed by a supervisor then e-faxed to the IRS point of contact.

3.4.3.3. The disbursing office returns the 941 printout to the PRO the day following each IRS disbursement. This printout reflects the cumulative totals for the quarter.

3.4.3.4. The PRO must correct any discrepancies.

3.4.4. Health Benefits Reconciliation Data File. Each quarter, the OPM FEHB CLER data must be reported to NFC, which implements a system to reconcile health benefits data for government agencies. The quarterly report of enrollees must include enrollee names, the total amount for employee deductions, and the total amount for employer contributions. The quarterly report must include enrollment data for all health plans for the payroll paid during the 1st through the 15th of March, June, September, and December. If there are two payrolls paid during that period, the PRO reports only the enrollment data for the last payroll paid. The data in this report is first sorted by the FEHB enrollment code and then by the SSN. The report must provide a subtotal for each enrollment code and a grand total for each plan.
3.4.5. Transportation Fringe Benefit Report. A fringe benefit is a form of pay for the performance of services that is in addition to the employee’s regular salary or wages. Examples of transportation fringe benefits include the use of a business vehicle, transit passes, and the value of parking.

3.4.5.1. Employers are required to report the value of transportation fringe benefits as taxable income for amounts that exceed the established IRS threshold.

3.4.5.2. The parking fringe benefit valuation must be reported by the employing activity directly to the servicing PRO on a quarterly basis to ensure proper reporting of income and collection of taxable wages on the W-2.

3.4.5.3. The monthly value of the transportation fringe benefits and the reportable taxable benefit must be included in the report.

3.4.5.4. Certain qualified transportation fringe benefit amounts may be excluded from an employee’s wages each month. See Chapter 3 for information on qualified transportation fringe benefits and IRS Publication 15-B, Employer's Tax Guide to Fringe Benefits.

3.4.6. Civilian Direct Deposit Participation Report. When directed, the PRO must furnish data to the appropriate functional organization on civilian employees participating in Direct Deposit/Electronic Funds Transfer (EFT). This feeder-type information is used by DoD managers to report payment volumes and the percentage of payments made by EFT to the Bureau of the Fiscal Services within 25 days after the end of each quarter.

3.4.7. Reporting Workforce Information. OPM collects data from agencies relating to civilian employees in a manner and at times prescribed by OPM. See 5 CFR 9.2. The Office of Management and Budget (OMB) primarily uses the reported data as a baseline for making policy decisions on personnel budget requests.

3.4.7.1. SF 113-A, Monthly Report of Federal Civilian Employment. The PRO must submit this report to OPM on a quarterly basis covering three months for the quarter or on a pay period basis covering the quarter. If the PRO submits data on a pay period basis, the PRO must report total employment “as of” September 30th for its September (fiscal year) submission. The report must reflect lump sum payments, wages, and salaries earned during the reporting period. The turnover data must include accessions and separations when the effective data occurs during the period covered. See SF 113-A.

3.4.7.2. SF 113-G, Monthly Report of Full-Time Equivalent/Work-Year Civilian Employment. The PRO must provide feeder data to the Defense Manpower Data Center for reporting to OMB. See SF 113-G.
3.5 Semiannual Reports

3.5.1. Semiannual Headcount Report. OPM requires that a report of the withholdings and contributions for retirement, FEGLI, and FEHB be sent in the form of a semiannual headcount report. This report is required for the last pay period paid during the 1st through the 15th of March and September, in conjunction with the quarterly reporting of enrollment in all health benefits plans.

3.5.2. Report of Work Years and Personnel Cost. This report provides information required by OMB to estimate the cost of proposed federal pay increases, evaluate the financial effects of proposed legislation on civilian personnel compensation and benefits, and prepare analysis of pay and personnel benefits of federal employees. The consolidated PRO provides feeder-type data on the leave data for part C of this report.

3.6 Annual Reports

3.6.1. Wage and Tax Statements

3.6.1.1. Wage and Tax Statements to SSA. The W-2 is used to report taxable income to SSA and the IRS. The PRO must issue a W-2 to each employee no later than January 31st of the year following the applicable tax (calendar) year. This also applies to employees who died or separated during the year. Individuals may request the form at an earlier date by making their request in writing to the PRO. In such instances, the form is to be issued within 30 calendar days of receipt of the request or of the final payment, whichever is later. The DoD PROs are required to use the DFAS approved standardized W-2 each year.

3.6.1.2. Wage and Tax Statements to States

3.6.1.2.1. The PRO provides this information to states that have entered into a Standard Agreement with Treasury or as authorized pursuant to a published routine use statement. See TFM, Volume I, Part 6, Chapter 5000, section 5070. The PRO will issue returns with respect to those employees who:

3.6.1.2.1.1. Are employed in the state and subject to mandatory withholding of state income tax; or

3.6.1.2.1.2. Have established voluntary allotments for the state’s income tax.

3.6.1.2.2. The PRO provides annual information returns on the W-2. Other forms prescribed by states must not be used.

3.6.1.2.3. The PRO must include only the information on the W-2.

3.6.1.2.4. The PRO must submit the W-2 to the states in print or electronically. The PRO must file all returns in accordance with regulations issued by the state taxing authorities. A list of state taxing authority contacts is available at the IRS website.
3.6.1.2.5. The PRO may need to report information to more than one taxing authority for the same employee. If so, it must supply a copy of the W-2 to the proper state, city, or local taxing authorities on request. Those authorities will decide if the employee is liable for any tax.

3.6.1.2.6. A state requirement to file information returns monthly does not affect existing arrangements to submit the W-2 only once a year.

3.6.1.3. Wage and Tax Statements to Cities or Other Localities

3.6.1.3.1. In the case of an agreement with the city or locality, the PRO will issue returns with respect to those employees who are:

3.6.1.3.1.1. Employed in the city or locality and subject to the tax (whether or not tax is withheld); or

3.6.1.3.1.2. Residents of the city or locality and are subject to the tax (whether or not tax is withheld). If the city or locality has not entered into a standard agreement, with the prior written consent of the employee, or if authorized pursuant to a published routine use statement, the PRO will issue returns to the taxing authority with respect to an employee who has voluntary deductions for the city or locality’s income tax.

3.6.1.3.2. The PRO provides annual returns on the W-2. Other forms prescribed by cities or localities must not be used.

3.6.1.3.3. The PRO must include only the information on the W-2.

3.6.1.3.4. The PRO must submit the W-2 in accordance with regulations issued by the city or locality taxing authorities.

3.6.1.3.5. A city or locality requirement to file information returns monthly does not affect existing arrangements to submit the W-2 only once a year.

3.6.1.4. Wage and Tax Statements to Employees

3.6.1.4.1. If the employee has not yet transitioned to an electronic W-2 format, the PRO must mail a paper W-2 to each employee’s non-work address by January 31st of the next year. The W-2 must include the:

3.6.1.4.1.1. Employee’s name, SSN, and address;

3.6.1.4.1.2. Wages subject to Social Security/Medicare, federal, state, city, or local withholding;

3.6.1.4.1.3. Social Security and/or Medicare, federal, state, or local tax withheld, if any;
3.6.1.4.1.4. Name of state, city, or county; and

3.6.1.4.1.5. City and/or county assigned Employer Identification Number (EIN).

3.6.1.4.2. The PRO must mail corrections to the annual wage and tax statement(s) to an employee’s non-work address as soon as an error is discovered. Refer to subparagraph 3.2.3.6 for information on the W-2c and W-3c.

3.6.1.4.3. The PRO must issue the 1095-C to employees no later than January 31st of the year following the applicable tax (calendar) year.

3.6.2. Student Loans. Agencies are required to report annually to OPM on their use of the student loan repayment authority. Before March 31st of each year, agencies must submit their reports for the previous calendar year. See 5 CFR 537.110. The reports must contain:

3.6.2.1. The number of employees, who received student loan repayment benefits;

3.6.2.2. The job classifications of the employees who received student loan repayment benefits; and

3.6.2.3. The cost to the Federal Government of providing student loan repayment benefits.

3.6.3. Telework. The Telework Enhancement Act of 2010, codified at 5 U.S.C., Chapter 65, requires that agencies report an annual telework participation goal. OPM issues an annual report to Congress summarizing information provided by agencies on the status of their telework programs. See OPM’s Reports to Congress, Status of Telework in the Federal Government. The reports provide a baseline for measuring each agency’s progress toward meeting the requirements of the Telework Enhancement Act. Agencies are required to make an annual assessment of progress towards meeting participation goals. In cases where agencies do not meet goals, they must detail actions to be taken to identify and eliminate barriers to maximizing telework opportunities for the next reporting period. See 5 U.S.C. § 6506 and OPM’s telework.gov website. Each report submitted must include:

3.6.3.1. The total number of employees in the agency;

3.6.3.2. The number and percent of employees in the agency who are eligible to telework; and

3.6.3.3. The number and percent of eligible employees in the agency who are teleworking:

3.6.3.3.1. Three or more days per pay period;

3.6.3.3.2. One or two days per pay period;
3.6.3.3.3. Once per month; or

3.6.3.3.4. Occasional, episodic, or short-term basis.

3.6.4. Child Development Programs. Agencies initiating a child care subsidy program are required to track and report the utilization of their funds to OPM annually on a DoD (DD) Form 2605, Department of Defense Child Development Program Annual Summary of Operations. See 5 CFR 792.204.

3.6.5. Experts and Consultants. Each agency that used and paid experts and consultants is required to submit an annual report to OPM. See 5 U.S.C. § 3109 and 5 CFR 304.107. This report must cover the entire agency for the year ending December 31st and be submitted by February 28th of the following year. See OPM Form 1623, List of Experts and Consultants Hired Under 5 U.S.C. § 3109. This report must contain:

3.6.5.1. The number of days the agency employed each paid expert or consultant; and

3.6.5.2. The total amount paid by the agency to each expert and consultant, not including payments for travel and related expenses.

3.6.6. Affordable Care Act Reporting. Applicable Large Employers (ALE) must report to the IRS whether the employer has made an offer of coverage to their full-time employees. An ALE is an employer with 50 or more employees. Reporting is completed using the 1095-C and the 1094-C for the previous tax year. For additional information, see also the IRS Information Reporting by Applicable Large Employers.

3.6.7. Foreign Language Pay Reporting. Each DoD Component with Defense Civilian Intelligence Personnel System (DCIPS) positions must submit a report on its foreign language pay program to the Under Secretary of Defense for Intelligence through the Director, Human Capital Management Office. See DoD Instruction (DoDI) 1400.25-V2016. Annual reports must:

3.6.7.1. Include a copy of the Component’s current foreign language pay policy or guidance, and copies of any related documents or communications issued on foreign language pay since the previous report was submitted;

3.6.7.2. Identify the total number of language-coded authorizations and official tasking that requests language and proficiency in support of mission requirements;

3.6.7.3. Identify the total number of DCIPS employees receiving foreign language pay, and whether or not they are assigned to designated foreign language positions. Include a breakout of the number of DCIPS employees identified as receiving foreign language pay by each language;

3.6.7.4. Identify the total amount of foreign language payments made in the past calendar year and a breakout of the amounts by language;
3.6.7.5. Identify for Interagency Language Roundtable Level 3 proficiency and above (combined), the percentage of recipients paid, by language; and

3.6.7.6. Discuss the current state of recruitment and fill of foreign language positions, including overages, trends, shortfalls, recommendations regarding foreign language pay policy, trends in payments (by language and amount of payment) from the previous year, and a brief statement reflecting the effectiveness of incentive pay in the recruitment.

CHAPTER 10

SPECIAL CATEGORY EMPLOYEES

1.0 GENERAL (1001)

1.1 Purpose (100101)

This chapter provides guidance on special category employees. Special category employees include those whose retirement, leave, or pay may be specific to an occupational series or tour of duty. Special category employees also include employees deemed legally incompetent, missing or deceased, and de facto employees.

*1.2 Authoritative Guidance (100102)

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the United States Office of Personnel Management’s (OPM) Pay and Leave, Title 5, United States Code (U.S.C.), Title 5, Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), and the DoD Instruction (DoDI) 1400.25, Civilian Personnel Management. Due to the subject matter in the chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each section are listed in a reference section at the end of this chapter.

2.0 OVERSEAS EMPLOYEES (1002)

2.1 General (100201)

The general pay provisions for General Schedule (GS) employees who work stateside also apply to GS employees stationed overseas. The DoDI 1400.25-V1250, Overseas Allowances and Differentials, authorizes and governs the payment of allowances and differentials to DoD civilian employees who are citizens of the United States and located in a foreign area. The Department of State Standardized Regulations (DSSR) prescribe eligibility requirements, the applicable rates to be paid, and the provisions to be observed in paying overseas foreign area allowances and differentials to employees.

2.2 Foreign Nationals (100202)

2.2.1 Authority. 22 U.S.C. § 3968 establishes the pay for foreign national employees. Delegation of authority is established by DoDI 1400.25-V1250, Employment of Foreign Nationals. Authority is delegated to each military department to re-delegate to its Service Component Commanders the authority to establish salaries, wages, fringe benefits, related compensation items, and other terms of employment for foreign national employees. Additional guidance can be found in the DoD Manual 1416.08, DoD Manual for Foreign National Compensation, which prescribes procedures and instructions for the development of compensation programs for foreign nationals employed by the U.S. Forces in foreign areas.
2.2.2. Entitlements. The Wage and Salary Division of the Defense Civilian Personnel Advisory Service (DCPAS) establishes wage schedules for foreign national employees based on locality wage surveys, or other available data, as provided by the activity labor agreement between the United States and the foreign country. The basis for salary determinations and deductions are contained in the employing activity’s applicable inter-country agreements and personnel regulations.

2.3 Canadian Employees (100203)

2.3.1. General. Canadian national direct-hire employees receive compensation comparable to that paid to Canadian government employees in the same locality and performing essentially the same work with relatively the same degree of responsibility.

2.3.2. Authority. DoDI 1400.25-V1231 contains the authority for the administration of foreign nationals, including Canadians.

2.3.3. Entitlements

2.3.3.1. Holidays. Canadian legal holidays are observed with no charge to leave. If an emergency requires work on a Canadian holiday, the employee must be paid premium pay at a rate of 1.5 times the employee’s regular rate of pay (for example, if an employee is paid $16 per hour, the employee will be paid premium pay of $24 per hour for work on a Canadian holiday), in addition to receiving either holiday pay equal to regular wages earned by the employee in the four weeks before the Canadian holiday divided by 20 (for example, if an employee works a 5-day week and earns $120 per day, the employee earns regular wages of $600 per week; $600 per week x 4 weeks = $2,400 ÷ 20 = $120 holiday pay), or compensatory time off (subject to local labor laws pursuant to DoDI 1400.25-V1231). The following are the legal Canadian holidays:

2.3.3.1.1. New Year’s Day (January 1),
2.3.3.1.2. Good Friday (March-April),
2.3.3.1.3. Easter Monday (March-April),
2.3.3.1.4. Victoria Day (May 24),
2.3.3.1.5. Canada Day (July 1),
2.3.3.1.6. Civic Holiday (1st Monday in August),
2.3.3.1.7. Labor Day (1st Monday in September),
2.3.3.1.8. Thanksgiving Day (2nd Monday in October),
2.3.3.1.9. Remembrance Day (November 11),
2.3.3.1.10. Christmas Day (December 25), and

2.3.3.1.11. Boxing Day (December 26).

2.3.3.2. Absence and Leave. Canadian employees accrue sick leave at a rate of 4.25 hours each pay period except for the last pay period of the leave year. During the last pay period, 6.25 hours accrue. The total annual accumulation is 112.5 hours or 15 days of sick leave.

2.3.3.3. Work-Related Injury or Illness. The Federal Employees' Compensation Act covers work-related injuries or illness.

2.3.4. Pay. Salaries are based on rates in approved agreements between the Treasury Board of Canada and the Public Service Alliance of Canada for Canadian Civil Service Employees. The effective dates are the same as in the basic Canadian agreements. Pay is in Canadian Dollars on a biweekly basis.

2.3.5. Hours of Duty. The workday is 7.5 hours, and the workweek is 37.5 hours.

2.3.6. Step Increases. Employees receive step increases until they reach the top step. Step increases require written certification by the supervisor that an employee has demonstrated an acceptable level of competence during the waiting period. Certification is completed and forwarded to the Human Resources Office (HRO) for processing prior to the effective date of the step increase. Step increases are effective at the beginning of the first pay period following the effective date of the anniversary.

2.3.7. Retroactive Pay. Retroactive pay adjustments are made based on agreements covering Canadian Civil Service employees. These adjustments are payable to employees separated during the retroactive period.

2.3.8. Leave Without Pay (LWOP). Aggregate periods of LWOP of more than 80 hours during the waiting period for a step increase will delay the increase. Extended periods of LWOP also affect leave accruals.

2.3.9. Awards. Canadian National employees generally are eligible for all awards, except quality step increases.

2.3.10. Canada Pension Plan. Employee contributions for the Canada Pension Plan are deducted from employee salaries. The U.S. Government pays the employer’s contribution.

2.3.11. Registered/Retirement Pension Plan. The U.S. Government pays an amount equivalent to the employees’ contributions up to a legal maximum of annual salaries.

2.3.12. Severance Pay. Employees are paid a lump-sum amount according to the following:
2.3.12.1. Lay-Off. Two weeks of pay for the first complete year of continuous employment and 1 week of pay for each complete additional year of continuous employment with a maximum benefit of 28 weeks of pay.

2.3.12.2. Resignation. When an employee resigns with 10 or more years of continuous employment, they will be paid one-half week of pay for each complete year of continuous employment up to a maximum of 26 years with a maximum benefit of 13 weeks of pay.

2.3.12.3. Retirement. Upon retirement, when an employee would be entitled to an immediate annuity, or to an immediate annual allowance had the employee been under the Canadian Government Public Service Superannuation Act, an employee is paid 1 week of pay for each complete year of continuous employment with a maximum benefit of 28 weeks of pay.

2.3.12.4. Death. Upon death, the employee’s estate will be paid 1 week of pay for each complete year of continuous employment, with a maximum benefit of 28 weeks of pay.

2.3.13. Ontario Health Insurance Plan. Employees enrolled in the Ontario Health Insurance Plan are reimbursed an amount equivalent to the Canadian government contributions under the plan. Claims for reimbursement, supported by receipts, are submitted annually by the end of the calendar year.

2.3.14. Employment Insurance. The U.S. Government participates in the Canadian Employment Insurance Program for Canadians employed in Canada by the DoD. Any DoD installation that employs personnel in Canada should follow the guidance issued by the Canada Revenue Agency. The U.S. Government contributes an amount equal to that paid by a Canadian government employer to the Canadian fund. The employee’s contributions are deducted from his or her salary.

2.3.14.1. Deductions and Remittances. The Payroll Office (PRO) must use the Canada Revenue Agency T4001 Employer’s Guide – Payroll Deductions and Remittances to determine insurable employment and earnings for withholding.

2.3.14.1.1. Employee’s Share. Funds must be withheld from the pay of all insurable employees at the rate set in the Canada Revenue Agency T4001 Employer’s Guide.

2.3.14.1.2. Employer’s Share. The employer’s share must equal 1.4 times the amount withheld from the employee’s pay on each payroll voucher. The contribution is charged to the fund from which employees’ salaries are paid.

2.3.14.2. Retroactive Payments. The DoD may not make retroactive payments of deductions to the Canada Revenue Agency if the employee concerned has not given correct information to the employing installation. This includes cases that have been adjudicated.
2.3.14.3. Audits and Record Retention. The DoD records of deductions, contributions, and remittances are subject to audit by Canadian authorities. The audit requirements may be met by sending copies of records of covered personnel and insurance remittance documents to the proper Canada Revenue Agency district office. The PRO must send copies of records required by Canadian authorities on request.

2.3.15. Canadian Income Tax. The employee’s income tax contributions are deducted from his or her biweekly salary.

2.3.16. Accidental Life Insurance. This is a voluntary contribution deducted from the employee’s biweekly salary at the employee’s request.

3.0 OTHER THAN FULL-TIME CAREER EMPLOYEES (1003)

3.1 General (100301)

This section provides guidance regarding employees who do not work the typical 40-hour workweek established under 5 CFR 610.111. Such employees include part-time, intermittent, seasonal, and piecework employees.

*3.2 Part-Time Employment (100302)

Part-time employment generally is no less than 16 hours and no more than 32 hours per week under a schedule consisting of an equal or varied number of hours per day. Agencies may permit employees to work less than the minimum 16 hours per week based on guidance provided in 5 CFR 340.202(b). Employment may be between 32 and 64 hours in a biweekly pay period in the case of a flexible or compressed work schedule. See 5 U.S.C. § 3401(2). Part-time employment does not include employment on a temporary or intermittent basis. A part-time employee must have a regular schedule of at least 1 hour, set in advance, in each administrative workweek in each biweekly pay period. See 5 CFR Part 340 and 5 U.S.C. §§ 3401-3408.

3.2.1. Benefits. Part-time permanent employees are eligible to receive the same benefits as full-time employees. On a prorated basis, part-time employees are eligible to receive leave, retirement, and health and life insurance coverage. See the OPM Hiring Authorities.

3.2.1.1. Leave

3.2.1.1.1. Annual Leave. Part-time employees, who have a regular tour of duty established in advance of one or more days during each administrative workweek, earn annual leave on a prorated basis based on the total number of hours in a pay status in each biweekly pay period, excluding overtime hours. See 5 U.S.C. § 6302. Hours in a pay status include straight time and additional hours worked, up to a total 80 hours in the biweekly pay period. Maximum carryover at the end of the leave year is the same as for a full-time employee. Leave is charged for an absence during the hours an employee is regularly scheduled to work. See Chapter 5.
3.2.1.1.2. Sick Leave. Part-time employees with a regularly scheduled tour of duty will earn and be credited with 1 hour for each 20 hours in a pay status. See 5 U.S.C. § 6307.

3.2.1.1.3. Other Leave. Part-time employees are eligible for other leave categories (e.g., absent without leave (AWOL), LWOP, court leave, funeral leave, or excused absence) on the same basis as full-time employees. The rules governing the Family and Medical Leave Act of 1993 and the Federal Employees Family Friendly Leave Act also apply to part-time employees. See Chapter 5.

3.2.1.1.4. Military Leave. Each member of a Reserve Component who is an employee of the United States is entitled to a leave of absence from his or her duties without loss of pay, time, or efficiency rating for each day, but for no more than 15 days in any fiscal year in which he or she is on active duty or training. Eligible part-time employees accrue military leave that is prorated based on the tour of duty. See 5 U.S.C. § 6323(a)(2) and Chapter 5.

3.2.1.1.5. Holiday Leave. When a holiday falls on a scheduled workday, a part-time employee is entitled to basic pay for the number of hours the employee is regularly scheduled to work on that day, not to exceed 8 hours, unless covered by a compressed work schedule. A part-time employee is not entitled to pay for a holiday that falls on a day the employee is not normally scheduled to work.

3.2.1.1.6. In Lieu of Holiday. An in lieu of holiday is granted to replace the day designated as a holiday by federal statute or executive order when the holiday falls on a full-time employee’s non-work day. Under DoDI 1400.25-V610, Hours of Duty, part-time employees are not entitled to in lieu of holidays. However, if a part-time employee is prevented from working because the activity is closed, he or she may either be placed in an appropriate leave category or be excused (placed on administrative leave at the agency’s discretion) without loss of pay for the number of hours that he or she is regularly scheduled to work on that day.

3.1.1.2. Retirement. Part-time employees are subject to deductions for retirement benefits on the same basis as full-time employees.

3.1.1.3. Federal Employees Health Benefits (FEHB). Part-time employees are eligible to participate in the FEHB Program. See the FEHB Handbook. The cost to the employee is the total cost of health benefits (both the employee and the employer’s share) less the prorated government contribution. See Chapter 11 for more information on FEHB for part-time employees.

3.1.1.4. Federal Employees Group Life Insurance (FEGLI)

  3.1.1.4.1. Part-time Eligibility. A part-time employee is eligible to participate in the FEGLI Program. Participation is voluntary and eligible part-time employees are automatically covered under the basic insurance option unless they waive the insurance coverage. The part-time employee’s basic insurance amount is the greater of their annual rate of basic pay rounded up to the next $1,000 plus $2,000, or a flat $10,000. Basic life insurance coverage is effective from the first day the employee is in an official duty status. Employees may elect additional optional insurance within 60 days from their appointment date.
All new employees must complete a Standard Form (SF) 2817, Life Insurance Election, or its electronic equivalent, to cancel basic insurance or to elect additional optional insurance. If a part-time employee becomes a full-time employee in the middle of a pay period, the amount withheld for basic life insurance is based on the amount of insurance last in force for the employee during the pay period (that is, the full-time rate). See the FEGLI Program Handbook.

3.1.1.4.2. Nonpay Status. FEGLI coverage continues for up to 12 months when an employee enters nonpay status. FEGLI ends at the end of the 12 months with a 31-day extension of coverage and a right to convert to an individual policy. If the employee is in nonpay status for part of the pay period, withholding for premiums and the government contribution is still required. The employee is not required to pay premiums while on LWOP unless they are receiving benefits from the Department of Labor (DOL), Office of Workers’ Compensation Program (OWCP). See the FEGLI Program Handbook for special nonpay situations during which the employee must continue to make premium payments.

3.1.1.4.3. Part-Time Annual Rate of Basic Pay. For life insurance purposes, the annual pay for a part-time employee is the annual rate of basic pay applicable to his or her tour of duty in a 52-week work year. For example, an employee whose pay is $56,282 per annum, employed half-time, would have an annual pay for insurance purposes of $28,141.

3.1.1.4.4. Concurrent Part-Time Employment. An employee may be employed on a part-time basis in more than one Federal agency and eligible for FEGLI coverage in one or both of the positions. However, an employee may not maintain more than one FEGLI election even if he or she is serving in more than one position. See the FEGLI Program Handbook (under Concurrent Employment) for exceptions including guidance concerning part-time employees in nonpay status at one of the agency positions. The amount of insurance is based on the sum of annual pay for all positions including annual pay for a position excluded from life insurance coverage. The agency must take the following steps to ensure that the correct premiums are applied:

3.1.1.4.4.1. The agency that pays the greater of the two salaries withholds and pays the government contribution;

3.1.1.4.4.2. The agency must contact the other employing office, confirm the salaries paid, and assume responsibility for withholding all of the required premiums from the salary; and

3.1.1.4.4.3. The agency that pays the greater salary to the individual must also provide the government contribution for basic insurance based on the aggregate amount of basic coverage the employee has from all covered positions. This eliminates the need for the other employing office to make partial withholdings and government contributions.

3.1.2. Pay. Gross basic pay is computed by multiplying the employee’s hourly rate of pay by the total number of hours worked and the hours of paid leave during the pay period.
3.1.2.1. Overtime Pay. Under 5 U.S.C. § 5542, overtime pay for eligible part-time employees is authorized only for work over 8 hours a day or 40 hours in a week.

3.1.2.3. Sunday Premium Pay. Under 5 U.S.C. § 5544(a) and 5 U.S.C. § 5546(a), a part-time employee is entitled to pay at his or her rate of basic pay plus premium pay at a rate equal to 25 percent of his or her basic pay for each hour of Sunday work. Up to 8 hours of Sunday premium pay may be paid to a part-time employee who has Sunday as part of his or her non-overtime regularly scheduled tour of duty (i.e., Sunday through Thursday basic workweek). An employee with a tour of duty of Monday through Friday who works either regularly scheduled overtime or irregular or occasional overtime work on a Sunday is entitled to overtime pay and is not entitled to Sunday premium pay. An employee must perform actual work to receive Sunday premium pay. Employees who do not work during their Sunday tour of duty because they are on paid leave or excused absence, using compensatory time off or credit hours, or because Sunday is a holiday, are not entitled to Sunday premium pay. See the OPM Memorandum for Administrative Claims for Sunday Premium Pay. Additional information pertaining to Sunday premium pay is located in Chapter 3.

3.1.2.4. Night Differential Pay. Under 5 U.S.C. § 5545, GS part-time employees are entitled to night pay for work performed between 6:00 p.m. and 6:00 a.m. as part of their regularly scheduled administrative workweek. See Chapter 3.

3.1.2.5. Night Shift Differential Pay. Under 5 U.S.C. § 5343(f), Federal Wage System (FWS) part-time employees who work a regular scheduled shift of 8 hours or less are entitled to night shift differential. A majority of the hours worked, however, must be on the second or third shift. For information on pay for the second and third shifts, see Chapter 3.

3.1.2.6. Holiday Premium Pay. Under 5 U.S.C. § 5546, a part-time employee who works on a holiday that falls during his or her regularly scheduled hours is entitled to holiday premium pay only for those scheduled hours. However, part-time employees who are excused from work on a holiday may only receive their rate of basic pay for the hours they are regularly scheduled to work on that day. Additionally, part-time employees do not receive holiday premium pay for working on an in lieu of holiday that is scheduled for full-time employees. Part-time employees are not entitled to an in lieu of holiday and, therefore, they are not entitled to holiday premium pay for work performed on that day.

*3.3 Intermittent Employment (100303)

3.3.1. General. The term intermittent relates to an employee’s work schedule and not the appointment type. Intermittent employees can be either permanent or temporary employees. Intermittent employees work sporadically and have no fixed or guaranteed schedules.
This is other than full-time employment in which employees serve under an excepted or competitive service appointment without a regularly scheduled tour of duty. See 5 CFR 340.403. An intermittent work schedule is appropriate for a position involving work that is sporadic and unpredictable such that a regular tour of duty cannot be scheduled in advance.

3.3.1.1. Pay. Intermittent employees are paid only for hours of work performed while in a duty status. The gross basic pay is computed by multiplying the employee’s hourly rate of pay by the total of the hours worked during the pay period. Because employees working on an intermittent basis do not maintain a regularly scheduled workweek as defined in 5 CFR 610.102, intermittent employees are not eligible for pay for holiday work, night pay or night shift differential, or Sunday premium pay. See 5 CFR 532.509, 5 CFR 550.121, and 5 CFR 550.103. Intermittent employees are entitled to overtime when appropriate. Intermittent employees receive their normal salary for working holidays, Sundays, or during a night shift. An exception exists for an FWS intermittent employee assigned to a regularly scheduled shift of fewer than 8 hours. The FWS employee in this situation is entitled to night shift differential pay if a majority of the hours are worked during the period when night shift differential is payable. See the OPM Appropriated Fund Operating Manual, subchapter S8-4, for FWS Employees. A GS intermittent employee is not eligible for night pay differential unless temporarily assigned to a regular tour of duty with night work.

3.3.1.2. Leave. Intermittent employees do not earn annual or sick leave.

3.3.1.3. Sick Leave Recredit Upon Transfer. When a full or part-time employee transfers to an intermittent job to which he or she cannot transfer previously earned sick leave, the sick leave must be held in abeyance until the employee returns to the original leave system under which the leave was earned. The sick leave is recredited if the employee returns to the original leave system on or after December 2, 1994, without regard to the original date of transfer. See 5 CFR 630.502.

3.3.1.4. Lump-Sum Annual Leave Payment. When a full-time or part-time employee is changed to an intermittent employee, any unused annual leave is paid as lump-sum. A lump-sum payment is not required when the employee is part of a continuing program under which employees are required to return to full-time or part-time employment after a period of intermittent employment (e.g., student trainee). See 5 CFR 550.1203.

3.3.2. Deductions

3.3.2.1. Retirement. Intermittent employees are not eligible for retirement coverage except when the intermittent employment follows employment in a covered position, and there has not been a break in service of more than 3 days. Intermittent employees are subject to Social Security and Medicare deductions. See 5 CFR 831.201.

3.3.2.2. FEHB. Intermittent employees who are expected to work 130 hours or more per month for at least 90 days are eligible to enroll in an FEHB plan. These eligible employees will receive the same government contribution as full-time permanent employees. See 5 CFR 890.102(c)(6) and Benefits Administration Letter (BAL) 14-210.
3.3.2.3. FEGLI. Intermittent employees are excluded from FEGLI coverage by regulation, except when intermittent employment follows, with a break in service of no more than 3 days, a position in which the employee was eligible to be insured and to which the employee is expected to return. The agency makes this determination, not the OPM. See the FEGLI Program Handbook. For insurance purposes, the annual pay for intermittent employees is the annual rate that they were receiving at the end of the pay period or, in the event of death or dismemberment, the annual rate they were receiving at the time of the death or accident. For example, if an intermittent employee is paid $17.84 per hour, his or her rate of pay fixed by law is $37,232 ($17.84 per hour x 2,087 hours per year = $37,232/year). If this employee works only 2 days or 16 hours during a particular pay period, the annual rate of pay for insurance purposes is based on actual time worked during that pay period. In this example, $7,421 is the annual rate of pay for insurance purposes ($17.84 per hour x 16 hours during the pay period x 26 pay periods per annum = $7,421/year). However, insured employees whose annual pay is $8,000 or less are covered for the minimum $10,000 of basic insurance. See the FEGLI Program Handbook.

*3.4 Seasonal Employment (100304)

The term “seasonal” relates to an employee’s work schedule and not the appointment type. Seasonal employment was established to allow agencies to recruit and train employees for duty that occurs on a predictable yearly basis and is expected to last less than 12 months each year. See 5 CFR 340.402. As with other career employees, seasonal employees are entitled to receive full benefits. At the end of the season, the employee is placed into a non-duty/nonpay status and will be recalled at the onset of the next season in accordance with a pre-established agreement between the agency and the employee. Because there is no difference in on-call employment and seasonal employment, OPM has eliminated the use of the term “on-call employment.”

3.4.1. Pay. Gross basic pay is computed by multiplying the employee’s hourly rate of pay by the total of the hours worked and the hours of paid leave during the pay period.

3.4.2. Leave. Employees in a seasonal position earn leave during the time in pay status and during the first 80 hours in nonpay status each year. A seasonal employee earns leave on the same basis as any other employee eligible to earn leave. See 5 CFR 630.208 for information on leave during nonpay status.

3.4.3. Deductions

3.4.3.1. Regularly scheduled seasonal employees under career or career-conditional appointments and who are expected to work at least 6 months per year are subject to FEGLI and retirement deductions. These deductions are made on the same basis as those of full-time employees.

* 3.4.3.2. Employees in a seasonal position who are expected to work 130 hours or more per month for at least 90 days are eligible to enroll in an FEHB plan. These eligible employees will receive the same government contribution as full-time permanent employees. See 5 CFR 890.102 and BAL 14-210.
3.5 Piecework Employees (100305)

When Executive Agency employees are hired on a piecework basis, the employee’s earnings are determined based on the amount of work produced. The general authority for entitlement of pay, scheduling of work, and excusing absences for piecework employees are granted under 5 U.S.C. § 6104 and 5 CFR 610.301-306. Employees working limited appointments of 1 year or less and being paid piecework rates are excluded from retirement coverage unless they are covered by an exception. See 5 CFR 831.201(a)(5). To determine rates payable for piecework, see 5 CFR 532.241.

3.5.1. FEGLI. For life insurance purposes, the annual pay for a piecework employee is the total basic earnings for the previous calendar (52-week) year, not counting premium pay for overtime or holidays. See 5 CFR 870.204(d).

3.5.2. FEHB. Piecework employees are excluded from FEHB coverage except for those with a work schedule that provides for full-time or part-time service with a regularly scheduled tour of duty. See 5 CFR 890.102(c)(6).

4.0 REEMPLOYED ANNUITANTS (1004)

*4.1 General (100401)

A retired federal employee may be rehired in federal service as a reemployed annuitant. The retired employee’s annuity may continue to be paid upon reemployment, or may be terminated or suspended. Reemployment may result in an increase in the employee’s retirement and death benefits. Special provisions apply to annuitants reemployed by DoD on or after November 25, 2003, and to former Members of Congress.

4.1.1. Employees Retired From Competitive Service

4.1.1.2. Treatment of Annuity Upon Reemployment. As a general rule, if a CSRS or FERS annuitant is reemployed, the annuity continues to be paid, but the annuity payment is offset from the reemployed annuitant’s salary. Certain exceptions apply which may result in the CSRS or FERS annuity being terminated or suspended upon reemployment. The Director of OPM may waive the reemployment provisions for CSRS or FERS annuitants on a case-by-case basis for a position where there is exceptional difficulty in recruiting or retaining a qualified employee.
4.1.1.2.1. Termination of a Disability Annuity. A CSRS or FERS disability annuitant may be reemployed in a temporary or permanent position and given the same type of appointment that would be given to any other person appointed to the position. Reemployment may cause the disability annuity to terminate if the OPM determines the annuitant has recovered or been restored to earning capacity prior to reemployment. Additionally, reemployment may terminate the annuity of a CSRS or FERS disability annuitant who was medically disqualified for continued membership in the National Guard.

4.1.1.2.2. Termination of an Annuity Based on Involuntarily Separation. When involuntary separation such as for reduction-in-force and lack of funds is the basis for a CSRS annuitant’s retirement, and the new appointment is subject to retirement coverage, the annuity payment is terminated upon reemployment and retirement deductions must be taken from the salary.

4.1.1.2.3. Termination Upon Presidential Appointment or Election to Congress. When a CSRS annuitant receives a Presidential appointment subject to retirement deductions, or is elected as a member of Congress, payment of the annuity terminates upon reemployment.

4.1.1.2.4. Suspension Upon Judicial Appointment. When a CSRS or FERS annuitant is appointed as a justice or a judge of the United States, payment of the annuity is suspended.

4.1.1.2.5. Suspension Upon Interim Appointment by Merit System Protection Board (MSPB). When a CSRS or FERS annuitant receives an interim appointment under 5 U.S.C. § 7702 by the MSPB, payment of the annuity is suspended.

4.1.1.3. Reemployment of Law Enforcement Officers (LEOs), Firefighters, and Air Traffic Controllers (ATCs). A retired LEO or firefighter mandatorily separated is generally barred from reemployment in a primary position involving law enforcement or firefighting duties after reaching age 57. However, he or she is not barred from reemployment in a secondary position or any other position. Similarly, a retired ATC is generally barred from reemployment in the same position after reaching age 56. He or she is not barred from reemployment in any other position not covered by the special retirement provisions for ATCs. The agency must withhold the required deductions from the reemployed annuitant’s pay (0.5 percent higher than the regular deduction rate). See 5 U.S.C. § 8335 and 5 U.S.C. § 8425.

4.1.1.4. Supplemental Annuity or Redetermined Annuity. A reemployed annuitant may earn future benefits either in the form of a supplemental annuity or a redetermined annuity.

4.1.1.4.1. Supplemental Annuity. A supplemental annuity is an annuity added to the reemployed annuitant’s present annuity. An employee who works as a reemployed annuitant on a full-time basis for at least 1 year, or on a part-time basis for a proportionately longer period, may be entitled to a supplemental annuity.
For a reemployed annuitant who qualifies for a supplemental annuity, the SF 2806, Individual Retirement Record CSRS, or SF 3100, Individual Retirement Record FERS, typically prepared for a new employee, is prepared at the time of separation rather than at the time of appointment.

4.1.4.2. Redetermined Annuity. A redetermined annuity is a recomputed annuity that takes the place of the employee’s present annuity. A redetermined annuity is computed using all of the reemployed annuitant’s creditable service. A reemployed annuitant who completes at least five years of actual continuous full-time service and/or part-time service that is equivalent may elect to have their annuity computed as a redetermined annuity under the law in effect at the time of separation from reemployment, in lieu of a supplemental annuity.

4.1.4.3. Exception. The special retirement provisions for LEOs, firefighters, and ATCs do not apply to service from reemployment. Therefore, any service credit from reemployment that is used to calculate a supplemental or redetermined annuity is treated as regular service, even if the employee is reemployed in an approved LEO, firefighter, or ATC position.

4.1.2. Annuitants Reemployed by DoD on or After November 25, 2003. The Secretary of Defense was granted the authority to reemploy annuitants without a reduction in pay or of the annuity (5 U.S.C. § 9902). Instructions governing annuitants who are reappointed by DoD on or after November 25, 2003, are found in the DoDI 1400.25-V300, Employment of Federal Civilian Annuitants in the DoD. Generally, annuitants hired by DoD prior to November 25, 2003, are subject to salary offset unless an exception is approved by OPM or DoD. However, reemployed annuitants hired by DoD after November 25, 2003, may continue to receive their full annuity and salary upon appointment and will not have their salary offset by their annuity or further retirement deductions. An exception applies for certain discontinued service retirement (DSR) annuitants who are receiving annuities based on involuntary separation for reasons other than for cause based on misconduct or delinquency. A DSR annuitant hired by DoD after November 25, 2003, may elect retirement contributions and earn further retirement credit in lieu of receiving their full salary plus annuity. See CSRS/FERS Handbook, Chapter 44.

4.1.3. Former Members of Congress

4.1.3.1. Suspension of Annuity Upon Reemployment. The CSRS annuity of a retired Member of Congress is generally suspended when the annuitant becomes reemployed or accepts an appointment. See 5 U.S.C. § 8344(d). Contact OPM Retirement and Insurance Programs, Annuitant Services Division, Washington, DC 20415 for further guidance regarding reemployment of Members.

4.1.3.2. Supplemental or Redetermined Annuities. Members of Congress are not covered under the provisions for supplemental or redetermined annuities. The agency retirement counselor should contact the OPM concerning the benefits for reemployed former Members.
4.2 Prorating Annuities for Appropriate Reductions of Wage and GS Salaries (100402)

4.2.1. General. Upon reemployment, HRO provides the SF 50, Notification of Personnel Action, data to the servicing PRO as to the amount of annuity paid to a reemployed annuitant.

4.2.2. Employees Retired From the Competitive Service. A reemployed annuitant, who retains his or her annuity, must have their salary reduced by a sum equal to the retirement annuity allocable to the period of actual employment. The appropriate reduction and adjusted salary must be determined as follows:

4.2.2.1. An annuitant reemployed on an annual pay basis must have his or her per annum salary reduced by the amount of the annual annuity. The remainder of the salary is computed in amounts payable on a biweekly pay period basis. Payment for overtime worked is based on an annuitant’s full rate of basic pay before any reduction by the amount of their annuity.

4.2.2.2. An annuitant reemployed on an hourly pay basis must have his or her daily or hourly rate of pay converted to the per annum equivalent. The per annum rate is reduced by the total amount of the annuity being received by the employee. The remainder converts to a per diem or per hour rate, as appropriate.

4.2.2.3. The reimbursement to the OPM is adjusted following increases in an annuity as provided in the CSRS and FERS Handbook and any OPM instructions issued with periodic cost-of-living adjustments.

4.2.3. Former Members of Congress. A former Member of Congress who is employed in an appointive position on an intermittent service basis, and who retains his or her annuity, must have his or her salary reduced by a sum equal to the retirement annuity allocable to the period of actual employment. The amount of annuity allocable to each pay period must be processed as a payroll deduction rather than as a reduction in pay period earnings, as is the case with reemployed competitive service annuitants. Therefore, annuities withheld must not reduce earnings for tax and other purposes. Annuities withheld in the case of former Members of Congress must be remitted to the OPM.

*4.3 Processing (100403)

Retirement deductions are optional for CSRS reemployed annuitants, and there is no requirement for a matching government contribution. See the CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapter 100. Retirement deductions are required for FERS reemployed annuitants, as are government contributions. These deductions are computed on the reemployed annuitant’s basic pay before any offset due to receipt of an annuity. Deductions for Medicare (CSRS employees) or Social Security/Medicare (FERS employees) are computed on the amount remaining after subtracting the annuity offset, in accordance with Social Security Administration guidance. Federal, state, and local taxes are computed on the amount remaining after subtracting the annuity offset. A reemployed annuitant may not be credited with sick leave that was reported to the OPM for use in the calculation of the employee’s annuity.
Sick leave used in the annuity computation is charged against an employee's sick leave account and is considered used. The sick leave may not thereafter be used, transferred, or recredited. See 5 CFR 630.407.

4.4 Computation of Lump-Sum Leave Pay (100404)

Under the provisions of 5 U.S.C. § 8344, the lump-sum payment for unused annual leave payable to a reemployed annuitant upon separation will be computed on the basis of the employee’s wage or salary rate fixed for his or her position or occupation without reduction for the amount of annuity received by the employee. This includes reemployed annuitants who are retired from the competitive service or who are former Members of Congress.

5.0 DECEASED EMPLOYEES (1005)

5.1 General (100501)

Procedures governing the settlement of accounts of deceased civilian employees are set in 5 U.S.C. §§ 5581-5583 and 5 CFR 178.201-208. An employee may designate a beneficiary or beneficiaries to receive his or her unpaid compensation using an SF 1152, Designation of Beneficiary Unpaid Compensation of Deceased Civilian Employee. If no beneficiary has been designated by the employee, payment is made pursuant to the order of precedence set out in 5 U.S.C. § 5582(b). Deceased civilian employees also include former employees who die after separation from the employing installation, but prior to receiving final pay and allowances. The procedures do not apply to the settlement of accounts for deceased Members of Congress or to the employees of certain federal banks. For death gratuity payments, refer to paragraph 5.9.

5.2 Unpaid Compensation (100502)

The settlement of a deceased employee’s account includes payment of any unpaid compensation due the employee in the form of pay, allowances, or other amounts due at the time of death including, but not limited to:

5.2.1. Current salary (including any retroactive salary), including cost-of-living allowances, overtime and premium pay;

5.2.2. Unclaimed or unnegotiated checks;

5.2.3. Cash awards;

5.2.4. Foreign and non-foreign area differentials and allowances;

5.2.5. Lump-sum annual leave payment;

5.2.6. Travel reimbursement; or

5.2.7. Severance pay.
5.3 Payment of Unpaid Compensation Due a Deceased Employee (100503)

When the HRO is notified of the death of an employee they forward a copy of the employee’s SF 1152 (if available) and all SF 1153s, Claim for Compensation of Deceased Civilian Employee, submitted by the claimants to the servicing PRO. Claimants must provide supporting documentation as requested by the servicing PRO. Upon notice of the death of a civilian employee, an SF 1154, Public Voucher for Unpaid Compensation Due a Deceased Civilian Employee, is prepared to permit prompt payment of the amounts due. If undisputed, the unpaid compensation due a deceased employee may be paid directly by the agency to the designated beneficiary/beneficiaries or, if none, to the person or persons eligible for payment under the order of precedence set out in 5 U.S.C. § 5582 and 5 CFR 178.204. Disputed claims for unpaid compensation due to a deceased employee are submitted to the OPM Merit System Accountability and Compliance (MSAC) for settlement.

5.3.1. Undisputed Claims for Unpaid Compensation. As soon as practicable after the death of an employee, the agency in which the employee was last employed will request the appropriate person or persons execute an SF 1153. See 5 CFR 178.205(a). Direct payment is permitted to the claimant(s) who is legally entitled to an employee’s unpaid compensation. When paying more than one beneficiary, percentages are applied due each beneficiary as specified by the deceased employee on the SF 1152. If the SF 1152 does not specify percentages, the total amount of unpaid compensation should be divided equally among the eligible claimants. The SF 1152 must be signed by the employee and filed with the employee’s employing activity prior to his or her death. A properly executed and filed SF 1152 will be effective so long as employment with the agency continues. If the employee resigns and is reemployed or transferred to another agency, the employee must execute another SF 1152 with the employee’s new employing agency, in accordance with 5 CFR 178.203(e). However, if the employee’s agency or site, function, records, equipment, and personnel are absorbed by another agency, then the employee’s designation form may continue, and a new designation form is not required. Money due an employee at the time death is paid to the person or persons surviving at the date of death, in the following order of precedence, and the payment bars recovery by another person of amounts so paid:

5.3.1.1. First, to the beneficiary or beneficiaries designated by the employee in writing (SF 1152) received in the employing agency before his or her death;

5.3.1.2. Second, if there is no designated beneficiary, to surviving spouse of the employee;

5.3.1.3. Third, if none of the above, to the child or children of the employee, and descendants of deceased children by representation;

5.3.1.4. Fourth, if none of the above, to the parents or surviving parent of the employee;

5.3.1.5. Fifth, if none of the above, to the duly appointed legal representative of the estate of the employee; and
5.3.1.6. Sixth, if none of the above, to the person or persons entitled under the laws of the domicile of the employee at the time of his or her death.

* 5.3.2. Other Claim Considerations.

5.3.2.1. Claims by a Child(ren) of Deceased Employee. For purposes of claims of unpaid compensation under 5 U.S.C. § 5582(b), a “child” of a deceased employee includes a natural or legally adopted child of the employee. If another person adopts the employee’s natural child, the child is a beneficiary of the employee only in those states where an adopted child may still inherit from a natural parent. A stepchild is not an eligible beneficiary unless adopted by the employee or unless the stepchild is permitted to inherit pursuant to the intestacy laws of the employee’s domicile at death.

5.3.2.2. Additional Evidence Required. Where payment is to be made to the duly appointed legal representative of the estate of the employee or a person entitled under the law of the domicile of the deceased individual, the servicing PRO may require the claimant(s) to submit evidence of entitlement under state law. This includes, but is not limited to: funeral expense receipts, small estate affidavit, trust documents, court orders granting summary administration, letters of administration, and where necessary, the deceased person’s will.

5.3.2.3. Felonious Intent. If the beneficiary’s actions caused the death of the employee, the employee’s unpaid compensation will not be paid to that person unless evidence is received and determined by the servicing PRO to clearly absolve the beneficiary of any felonious intent.

5.3.2.4. Death of Beneficiary Prior to Final Settlement. If the beneficiary survives the employee but dies before receiving final settlement, upon presentation of a SF 1153 claim form, the unpaid compensation may be paid to the beneficiary’s estate or heirs at law.

* 5.3.3. Disputed Claims. Disputed claims include those claims where doubt exists as to the amount or validity of the claim or as to the person properly entitled to payment. Disputed claims may also include unnegotiated or undelivered checks for money due to the decedent. Disputed claims are submitted to the MSAC in accordance with 5 CFR 178.102 and 5 CFR 178.207 either by the claimant or by the agency on the claimant’s behalf. After the MSAC settles the dispute and certifies the SF 1154, the claim will be paid.

5.4 Computation of and Deductions From Final Pay (100504)

The employee’s pay earned and applicable deductions are computed through the date of death.

5.4.1. Retirement. If the employee was covered by a retirement system, the retirement contributions are deducted from the unpaid salary earned through the date of death.
5.4.2. Social Security and Medicare Portions of the Federal Insurance Contributions Act (FICA) Tax. If the employee was subject to Social Security/Medicare, deduct for Social Security/Medicare tax from unpaid salary paid in the same calendar year as the employee’s death. See Internal Revenue Service (IRS) Publication 15, (Circular E). Gross wages paid in the calendar year through the date of death, subject to the statutory limitation, are subject to Social Security/Medicare. Social Security/Medicare taxes must be withheld from wages paid to a beneficiary or to the estate of the deceased employee in the same calendar year that the employee died. If the payment is made after the calendar year of employee’s death, wages are exempt from Social Security/Medicare taxes.

5.4.3. Federal Income Tax. A deceased employee’s unpaid wages are not subject to federal income tax withholding in either the calendar year in which the employee died or afterward. Federal income tax withholding is not deducted from unpaid salary earned by an employee through the date of death. See IRS Circular E.

5.4.4. State Tax. State, territory, or District of Columbia income tax is not deducted from the unpaid salary and lump-sum leave earned by an employee through the date of death.

5.4.5. Local Tax. Local taxes are not deducted from the unpaid salary and lump-sum leave earned by an employee through the date of death.

5.5.6. FEHB. If a survivor is eligible to continue enrollment, withholding for premiums are made using the daily proration rule according to Chapter 11. If there is no eligible survivor, or the employee self-only enrollment, a full premium deduction is withheld for the pay period during which the employee died.

5.5.7. FEGLI. If the employee was subject to FEGLI, premiums for the periods for which pay is due, must be withheld, including the pay period during which death occurred.

5.5.8. Thrift Savings Plan (TSP). Deductions for TSP contributions and any TSP loans outstanding must be withheld.

5.5.9. Allotments. Allotment deductions for the pay period in which death occurred are not withheld.

5.5.10. Other Deductions. Any other required deductions must be taken, such as for any indebtedness owed by the employee.

5.5 Lump-sum Payment for Accrued Leave (100505)

The PRO does not deduct retirement, federal, state, or local income tax, health benefits, or life insurance from the lump-sum payment.
5.6 Tax Reporting (100506)

5.6.1. Decedent IRS Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement. Gross amounts of final pay for the pay period of death plus any lump-sum annual leave payments must be reported as Social Security wages (box 3) and Medicare wages (box 5) only if these amounts are paid to the estate or beneficiary in the same year that the death of the employee occurs. The Social Security and Medicare taxes withheld are reported in boxes 4 and 6. These amounts are not included as wages, tips, or other compensation in box 1. Payments made after the year of death on a W-2 and will not withhold Social Security and Medicare taxes.

5.6.2. Miscellaneous Income. The PRO will take the following actions:

5.6.1. Prepare an IRS Form 1099-MISC, Miscellaneous Income, for amounts payable to the decedent’s estate or to beneficiary(s) whether the PRO makes the payment in the year of death or after the year of death;

5.6.2. Report the payment in box 3, “Other income”;

5.6.3. Include the gross amounts of final pay for the pay period of death, lump-sum annual leave, and other moneys such as travel reimbursements; and

5.6.4. Enter the name and Social Security Number (SSN) of the individual if the recipient of the payment is an individual beneficiary. Enter the name and federal tax identification number for the estate if the recipient of the payment is the Employee’s estate.

5.7 Transfer of Funds (100507)

The unpaid compensation is placed in the deposit fund account pending receipt of a claim for the compensation. If after one year, a claim has not been paid out from the deposit fund account, the funds should be transferred according to the Treasury guidelines. Subsequent payment of claims from this account is made by preparing an SF 1154. See Department of Treasury Financial Manual, (TFM), Volume 1, Part 6, Chapter 3000.

5.8 Life Insurance Status for Employee Death Cases Within the Department (100508)

When an employee dies, the SF 2821, Agency Certification of Insurance Status, is processed according to the guidance in the FEGLI Program Handbook.

*5.9 Death Gratuity Payments for Federal Employees (100509)

5.9.1. $10,000 Death Gratuity. Public Law (PL) 104-208 (codified at 5 U.S.C. § 8133) authorizes agencies to pay a death gratuity payment not to exceed $10,000 to the personal representative of any federal employee who dies from an injury sustained in the performance of duty on or after August 2, 1990.
The gratuity is also payable if the employee died after separating from service and the death was a direct result of injuries received in the line of duty on or after August 2, 1990. The following information should be considered when making the $10,000 death gratuity payment:

5.9.1.1. The gratuity payment, when combined with certain other payments, may not exceed $10,000. Other payments include the $200 payable under 5 U.S.C. § 8133(f) for reimbursement of the cost of termination of the decedent’s status as an employee of the United States and up to $800 payable under 5 U.S.C. § 8134(a) for funeral and burial expenses. Pursuant to the DCPAS Benefits Reference Guide: Death in Service, the death gratuity is payable only if the death claim is approved by the OWCP.

5.9.1.2. The gratuity payment is not considered wages for the purpose of Social Security, Medicare, or federal, state, or local tax withholding. An IRS Form 1099-R, Distributions From Pensions, Annuities, Retirement or Profit-Sharing Plans, IRAs, Insurance Contracts, etc., must be prepared by the Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS) and forwarded to the personal representative.

5.9.2. Death Gratuity Under 5 U.S.C. § 9904. Under the provisions of 5 U.S.C § 9904, DoD civilian employees who are assigned to certain activities outside the United States determined to be hazardous to life or health or that involve specialized security requirements may be eligible for benefits comparable to those provided under 22 U.S.C. § 3973 by the Secretary of State to members of the Foreign Services. Pursuant to 22 U.S.C. § 3973, a death gratuity is paid when an employee dies as a result of injuries received in the performance of duties. The amount of the gratuity is equal to Level II of the Executive Schedule under 5 U.S.C. § 5313, at the time of an employee's death. This gratuity payment must be made as follows, regardless of other beneficiaries designated to receive any other benefits:

5.9.2.1. First, to the widow or widower, as defined under 5 U.S.C. § 8101(6) and (11);

5.9.2.2. Second, to the child, or children as defined under 5 U.S.C. § 8101(9), in equal shares, if there is no widow or widower; or

5.9.2.3. Third, to dependent parent, or dependent parents, defined under 5 U.S.C. § 8101(7), in equal shares, if there is no widow, widower, or child. If there are no survivors as indicated in subparagraph 5.9.2, the death gratuity must not be paid. For additional information, see DoD DCPAS Memorandum, Continuation of Certain Benefits, dated December 27, 2011.

5.9.3. Death Gratuity for Service With Armed Forces in a Contingency Operation. 5 U.S.C. § 8102(a) provides a death gratuity of up to $100,000 to the survivors of a federal employee who dies from injuries received in connection with services performed with an Armed Force in a contingency operation. The gratuity is reduced by the amount of any death gratuity payments that have been paid under any other law of the United States based on the same death. See 20 CFR 10.916.
The OWCP is responsible for administering and adjudicating all claims under this authority. For additional information, see 20 CFR 10, subpart J. See also DOL Death Gratuity Page.

6.0 EXPERTS AND CONSULTANTS (1006)

*6.1 General (100601)

An agency may make excepted service appointments to hire experts and consultants. Agencies may appoint experts and consultants on a temporary basis (i.e., not to exceed 1 year) or an intermittent basis (i.e., without a regularly scheduled tour of duty) under 5 U.S.C. § 3109 and 5 CFR Part 304. Experts and consultants are paid based on the SF 50 data received from the HRO. Experts and consultants appointed under 5 U.S.C. § 3109 are considered to be federal civil service employees under 5 U.S.C. § 2105. See 5 CFR 304.101. Unless expressly provided otherwise, they are covered by laws applicable to federal employees, including pay and leave requirements.

6.2 Setting Pay on Initial Appointment (100602)

Determining the appropriate rate of basic pay for experts and consultants, including a decision to pay no salary, is made on an individual case basis. The rate of basic pay may be an hourly or daily rate. Normally, pay is set equal to a GS rate in grades GS-13 through GS-15. Unless specifically authorized by an appropriation or other statute, the highest payable rate is the daily rate for GS-15, step 10, or if paid on a biweekly basis, the biweekly rate for GS-15, step 10 (both excluding locality pay or any other additional pay). See 5 CFR 304.105 for daily and biweekly basic pay limitations.

6.3 Overtime and Premium Pay (100603)

6.3.1. Overtime. Experts and consultants paid on a daily rate basis are not normally entitled to overtime pay under 5 U.S.C. § 5542, regardless of the number of hours worked. Nevertheless, the designation of a regular tour of duty in the appointment documents does not necessarily preclude receipt of compensation at the agreed daily rate for work performed outside of that tour of duty. For example, if such an employee works 6 days a week, the 6th day is paid at the straight time rate rather than the overtime rate. Experts and consultants employed on a daily basis may be paid the rate of basic compensation for work on days outside the prescribed tour of duty, provided the compensation within any biweekly pay period does not exceed the rate of basic pay for Level V of the Executive Schedule. Experts and consultants who are nonexempt under the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) may be entitled to overtime pay. Overtime must be authorized and approved in advance by an appropriate official.

6.3.2. Holiday Pay. Experts and consultants with a regularly scheduled tour of duty (i.e., not intermittent) are entitled to pay for any holiday occurring on a workday on which they perform no work, provided that workday is part of the basic workweek. Those employed on an intermittent basis do not earn leave and are not entitled to paid holidays. See 5 CFR 304.106.
6.4 Salary Increases (100604)

Experts and consultants are not automatically entitled to an equivalent pay increase when the GS is adjusted under 5 U.S.C. § 5303 unless noted in an appointment document. However, agencies may adjust expert or consultant pay on an ad hoc basis, subject to the limitations of 5 CFR 304.105, with an SF 50 action.

6.5 Exception From Dual Pay Restriction (100605)

Generally, an individual is prohibited by statute from receiving basic pay from more than one position for more than an aggregate of 40 hours of work in 1-calendar week. An exception to this restriction is provided for an individual who earns pay for service on an intermittent basis from more than one consultant or expert position, provided the pay is not received for the same hours of the same day. See 5 U.S.C § 5533(d)(1).

6.6 Annual and Sick Leave (100606)

6.6.1. An expert, consultant, or other employee who serves on an intermittent or other basis without a prearranged regular tour of duty does not earn annual and sick leave. See 5 U.S.C. § 6301(2)(B)(ii).

6.6.2. An expert or consultant who serves on a regularly prescribed tour of duty, full-time or part-time, earns annual and sick leave. HRO must determine the regular tour of duty in advance and annotate the appointment document specifically to show whether the employee earns leave. The accrual rate is the same as for other full-time and part-time federal employees as discussed in 5 CFR Part 630. See 5 CFR 304.106.

6.7 Retirement (100607)

Experts and consultants are appointed on a temporary or an intermittent basis and therefore, they are not covered under the federal retirement systems. See 5 CFR 831.201 and 5 CFR 842.105. However, coverage is continued for an employee who is currently covered by a federal retirement system and who is later appointed as an intermittent or temporary (full-time or part-time) expert or consultant without a break in service or after a separation from the service of 3 days or less.

6.8 FEGLI (100608)

Experts and consultants are ineligible for FEGLI due to their temporary or intermittent appointment status. However, coverage is continued if an employee currently covered by FEGLI is appointed as an intermittent or temporary appointment (full-time or part-time) expert or consultant without a break in service or after a separation from the service of 3 days or less. To continue life insurance coverage for an intermittent employee, there must be an expectation that the employee will return to the previous position on a full-time basis.
6.9 FEHB (100609)

Employees in an expert or consultant position who are expected to work 130 hours per month or more for at least 90 days will be eligible to enroll in an FEHB plan. These eligible employees will receive the same government contribution as full-time permanent employees. See 5 CFR 890.102 and BAL 14-210.

7.0 LEGALLY INCOMPETENT EMPLOYEES (1007)

7.1 General (100701)

An SF 50 action showing the employee’s separation because of mental incompetence is initiated by the servicing HRO. The agency may also place the employee on an extended leave of absence by means of an SF 50 action. No payments will be made to the employee once the servicing PRO has been notified that the employee is declared legally incompetent. A claim must be filed on the employee’s behalf before the pay account can be settled. No specific form is required to file a claim for amounts due mentally incompetent or former employees. The claim must be filed in writing over the signature of the person claiming on behalf of the legally incompetent employee. If the claim is from a claimant other than a guardian or committee, the servicing PRO’s OGC should be consulted prior to making payment.

7.1.1. Guardian or Committee. The initial claim filed by the guardian or committee of the estate of a legally incompetent employee must be accompanied by a certificate of the court showing the appointment and qualification of the claimant as guardian or committee. After making the first payment, subsequent recurring payments may be made to the same payee without further claim as long as the appointment as guardian or committee remains in effect and the matter is otherwise free from doubt. Each subsequent payment voucher must include a citation to the voucher upon which the initial claim was paid.

7.1.2. Other Than Guardian or Committee. If a guardian or committee has not been appointed and will not be appointed, a sworn statement that includes the following information to support the initial claim:

7.1.2.1. The claimant’s relationship to the legally incompetent employee, if any;

7.1.2.2. The name and address of the person having care and custody of the legally incompetent employee;

7.1.2.3. A remark that any amount paid to the claimant must be applied only to the use and benefit of the legally incompetent employee; and 7.1.2.4. A remark that no appointment of a guardian or committee is contemplated.

7.2 Claim Action (100702)

Upon receipt of a claim, the proposed date of separation is considered to determine whether compensation is due currently or a payroll voucher for final settlement should be processed. To avoid invalid payments when the employee is on extended paid leave, the HRO monitors the case for any changes in the employee’s condition and immediately advises the servicing PRO.

7.3 Claims (100703)

Claims for unpaid amounts owed to legally incompetent employees may be paid once the claim and claimant’s entitlement have been verified.

7.3.1. Any unclaimed, undelivered, or uncashed salary checks drawn in favor of the employee must be returned to the disbursing officer for cancellation and credited to the appropriation fund originally charged.

7.3.2. The net amount of any returned check must be posted to the appropriate pay record. Adjustment of the items originally deducted from the gross pay is not required if the proceeds of the check are due the employee. If the proceeds of the check are not due an SF 1098, Schedule of Canceled or Undelivered Checks to cancel the check and must adjust entries for the deductions from gross pay.

7.3.3. The amount to be paid to the claimant must be computed and must include any further payments due to the employee for each pay period in the regular payroll cycle, such as payments due when the employee is carried on sick leave.

7.4 Doubtful Claims (100704)

Doubtful claims are submitted to the OPM for certification.

8.0 MISSING PERSONS, CAPTURED OR INTERNED (1008)

8.1 General (100801)

Civilian personnel who are determined officially to be missing are entitled to continued pay and allotments from their pay under the Missing Persons Act (5 U.S.C. §§ 5561-5568) and the Terrorism Compensation Act (5 U.S.C. § 5569). Missing status includes persons:

8.1.1. Missing;

8.1.2. Missing-in-action;

8.1.3. Interned in a foreign country;

8.1.4. Captured, beleaguered, or besieged by a hostile force; or 8.1.5. Detained in a foreign country against the employee’s will.

8.2  Pay, Allotments, and Leave Accounts (100802)

An employee in a missing status is entitled to receive or have credited to his or her account, for the period while in that status, the same pay and allowances to which he or she was entitled at the beginning of that period or may become entitled thereafter. The servicing PRO retains responsibility for the employee’s pay, leave, and retirement records. See 5 U.S.C. § 5562.

8.2.1. Pay. The employee’s pay account is maintained on a pay-period basis. Standard deductions are applied for retirement, FICA, federal and state income tax withholding, FEHB, and FEGLI in the totals for the regular payroll voucher. Upon receipt of an official determination that a civilian employee is in a missing status, any unclaimed or uncashed checks must be returned to the disbursing office.

8.2.2. Allotments. The initiation, continuance, discontinuance, increase, decrease, suspension, or resumption of an allotment from the pay and allowances of an employee in a missing status, is authorized when that action is in the interest of the employee, the dependents, or the United States. See 5 U.S.C. § 5563.

8.2.2.1. Allotments authorized by an employee before the missing status began normally continue for the period of absence.

8.2.2.2. The missing employee’s dependents may receive an allotment of the employee’s pay. Dependent payments cannot exceed the employee’s net pay. The needs of the dependents, the number of dependents and their relationship to the employee, however, should be considered when determining the payment amount. If possible, reserve a reasonable amount each pay period to ensure that the employee will have funds available upon return.

8.2.2.3. The pay and allowances of a missing employee in a captive status may be allotted to an interest bearing savings fund established by the Secretary of the Treasury. See 5 U.S.C. § 5569. Captive status means a missing status, which, as determined by the President, arises, because of a hostile action and is a result of the individual’s relationship with the government. All or any portion of the employee’s pay and allowances may be allotted to the extent that such pay and allowances are not subject to an allotment under 5 U.S.C. § 5563 as outlined in subparagraph 8.2.3.

8.2.3. Leave. A special leave account should be established to restore any annual leave forfeited by an employee while in a missing status. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, an employee in a missing status on or after January 1, 1965, is entitled to:

8.2.3.1. Payment for annual leave which accrued to his or her account on or after January 1, 1965, but which was forfeited under 5 U.S.C. § 6304 because he or she was unable to use that leave by virtue of the missing status; or 8.2.3.2. Have all of that leave restored and credited to a separate leave account in accordance with the provisions of 5 U.S.C. § 6304(d)(2).

8.3 Termination of Absence (100803)

Employees should not be separated from federal service while they are entitled to pay and allowances under the Missing Persons Act (5 U.S.C. §§ 5561-5568).

8.3.1. If an employee returns from a missing status, future salaries are paid using normal payroll procedures.

8.3.2. If the employee returns from missing status, a statement of the special leave account balance must be furnished to his or her HRO. The employee must elect, in writing, to receive either a payment or credit for the leave. If the employee requests payment, the payment is made using the employee’s rate of pay in effect at the time of the forfeiture of the leave.

8.3.3. If the HRO receives an official notice of the employee’s death or presumed death, the servicing PRO will take action as outlined in section 5.0.

8.3.4. If the employee returns from missing status, the agency must charge the pay adjustment or final settlement, including local allotment payments to dependents, to the employee’s appropriated fund account.

9.0 AUTHORITY FOR TEMPORARY ASSIGNMENTS (1009)

The authority for temporary assignments of employees between executive agencies and State, local, and Indian Tribal governments, institutions of higher education, and other eligible organizations is found in 5 U.S.C. §§ 3371-3376 and 5 CFR Part 334. An employee’s pay and leave provisions will be included in the employee’s written assignment agreement as required by 5 CFR 334.106.

10.0 EMPLOYEES TRANSFERRED TO INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS (1010)

10.1 General (101001)

An agency may detail or transfer an employee to any organization that the Department of State has designated as an International Organization (IO). See 5 U.S.C. §§ 3581-3584 and 5 CFR 352, subpart C. A detail or transfer may not exceed 5 years; however, this may be extended 3 additional years upon the approval of the head of the agency. A detail or combination of details and transfers must not exceed 8 years in the aggregate throughout an employee's Federal career. See 5 CFR 352.306. An employee who transfers is entitled to be reemployed in his or her former position, or one of like status, within 30 days of his or her application for reemployment.
10.2 Deductions (101002)

Under 5 U.S.C. § 3582, an employee who transfers to an IO may elect to keep coverage for retirement, FEGLI, and FEHB. The agency continues to make the agency contributions to the funds, and the employee’s coverage continues as long as the employee’s share of the payments remains current. At the time an employing Federal agency consents to the transfer of an employee, the agency must advise the employee in writing of the employee's right to continue retirement, health benefits, and group life insurance coverage, as applicable, for the duration of the assignment or transfer. The notice must explain the conditions for continued coverage and the employee's obligations and responsibilities with regard to continued coverage. The notice must also explain that, if the employee elects to retain coverage, the agency will continue to make the agency contributions to the funds, and the employee's coverage will continue as long as employee payments are currently deposited in the respective funds. See 5 CFR 352.309(a).

10.2.1 Retirement and FEGLI. Contributions must be based on the salary that the employee would have received had he or she remained in the position from which he or she transferred. If these amounts are changed by law, regulation, or a change in basic pay while an employee is serving with an IO, the amounts will be recomputed and the IO will be notified (if applicable) of the effective date and new amount. For regulations on retirement and FEGLI, refer to 5 CFR 352.309.

10.2.2 FEHB. Deductions are based on the cost of the plan of the employee’s choice. If the enrollment cost changes while the employee is serving with an IO, the amount is recomputed based on notification from the HRO.

10.2.3 TSP. An employee who transfers to an IO is not eligible to participate in the TSP while employed by the IO even if he or she elects to retain Federal retirement coverage. However, upon reemployment, an employee who elected to retain Federal retirement coverage while employed by the IO and has made all deposits required for such coverage may make contributions to the TSP which he or she missed as a result of the service with an IO, and receive make-up agency contributions and lost earnings on the agency contributions, as provided under 5 CFR 352.311(e).

10.2.4 FICA. Effective January 1, 1995, PL 103-296, section 319, the Social Security Independence and Program Improvements Act of 1994, required that FERS and CSRS Offset employees who transfer to an IO continue their FICA coverage (including the Old-Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance and Medicare taxes), if both of the following conditions are met:

10.2.4.1 The transferring employee must have been employed at a Federal agency and subject to FICA immediately prior to the transfer; and

10.2.4.2 The employee must retain Federal reemployment rights under 5 U.S.C. § 3582.
Note: FICA tax is required for these transferred employees even if they are not continuing CSRS Offset or FERS coverage during the transfer. While employed by an IO, an employee’s FICA tax is based on the amount of pay the employee would have received had he or she remained at the transferring agency.

10.3 Payments From Transferred Employees (101003)

The agency advises transferred employees to make payments for retirement, FEHB, and FEGLI promptly for each pay period. Payments are current if received within 3 months after the end of the pay period covered by the payment. See 5 CFR 352.309(d). If payments are not timely, coverage terminates on the last day of the pay period for which the required payment was timely, subject to a 31-day extension of FEGLI and FEHB as provided in Chapter 11.

10.4 Accounting for Payments (101004)

A Department of Defense (DD) Form 1131, Cash Collection Voucher, is used to deposit amounts received from either the individual or the employing organization into a deposit fund established for such purposes. An SF 1080, Voucher for Transfers Between Appropriations and/or Funds, or SF 1081, Voucher and Schedule of Withdrawals and Credits, is used to transfer the employer’s contribution, if required, from the appropriation which would have been charged for the employee’s pay to the proper deposit fund account. Total amounts (employee payments and government contributions) are included on the SF 2812-A, Report of Withholdings and Contributions for Health Benefits by Enrollment Code, submissions to the OPM through the Retirement and Insurance Transfer System (RITS). RITS calculates and tracks obligation due dates and payment timeliness.

10.5 Leave Account (101005)

Employees who are transferred to an IO may elect to receive payment for accumulated annual leave or have it remain to their credit until they return to federal employment. Employees also may request payment at any time before reemployment. Upon reemployment, sick and annual leave will be recredited to the employee when applicable. If the employee is paid the balance of his or her leave and is reemployed within 6 months after transfer, he or she must refund to the agency the amount of the lump-sum payment. See 5 U.S.C. § 3582(a)(4) and Chapter 3.

10.6 Pay Upon Reemployment (101006)

Agencies are required to provide an employee who is reemployed after transfer to an IO with the rate of basic pay to which the employee would have been entitled had the employee remained in the civil service. See PL 105-277, section 2504 and 5 U.S.C. § 3582(b).

10.7 Retirement (101007)

An employee who transfers from a position covered by CSRS, CSRS-Offset, or FERS to a public IO may continue retirement coverage for up to 5 years of such service or up to 8 years if authorized by the Secretary of State. See CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapter 12, § 12A3.1-4.
11.0 TEMPORARY AND TERM EMPLOYMENT (1011)

11.1 General (101101)

*11.1.1. Temporary and term appointments are used to fill positions when there is not a continuing need for the job to be filled. Employees occupying either category of appointment are not entitled to competitive status nor reinstatement eligibility, based on this type of service. Within the DoD, temporary and term appointments may be permitted to last longer than the time restrictions of 5 CFR Part 316 and may also allow such employees consideration for permanent employment.

*11.1.2. For further information regarding subparagraph 11.1.1, see the following memorandums:

11.1.2.1. Deputy Secretary of Defense Memorandum, Noncompetitive Temporary and Term Appointments to Meet Critical Hiring Needs in the Department of Defense, dated July 17, 2017;

11.1.2.2. Office of the Under Secretary of Defense (Personnel & Readiness) (OUSD (P&R)) Memorandum, Modification of Temporary and Term Appointments Within the Department of Defense, dated June 12, 2017;

11.1.2.3. OUSD (P&R) Memorandum “Modification of Temporary and Term Appointments Within the Department of Defense,” dated June 12, 2017 as modified by Deputy Secretary of Defense Memorandum, Extensions of Term Appointments in the Competitive Service in the DoD, dated August 10, 2018; and

11.2 Temporary Employment (101102)

11.2.1. Appointments. Pursuant to DoD policy, a component may make a temporary appointment to:

11.2.1.1. Noncompetitively fill a short-term position based on a critical hiring need that is not expected to last more than 1 year. A critical hiring need means the need to fill the position(s) to meet mission requirements brought about by circumstances such as, but not limited to, extraordinary workload or unusual or unanticipated event(s) or circumstances creating the need to fill the position(s). Such appointment may be extended up to 6 additional months but may not exceed a total of 18 months and does not convey noncompetitive conversion to any other appointment. See Deputy Secretary of Defense Memorandum, “Noncompetitive Temporary and Term Appointments to Meet Critical Hiring Needs in the Department of Defense”, dated July 17, 2017; and 11.2.1.2. Temporarily fill a position for less than 1 year and may extend such appointment in increments of up to 1, not to exceed a total of 3 years. See the OUSD (P&R) Memorandum “Modification of Temporary and Term Appointments Within the Department of Defense”, dated June 12, 2017 as modified by Deputy Secretary of Defense Memorandum “Extensions of Term Appointments in the Competitive Service in the DoD”, dated August 10, 2018 and 5 CFR 316.401.

* 11.2.2. Benefits. Temporary employees are eligible to earn annual and sick leave and are covered by Social Security and unemployment compensation, but do not receive the other benefits provided to career civil service employees. Employees in a temporary position who are expected to work 130 hours or more per month for at least 90 days are eligible to enroll in an FEHB plan. These eligible employees will receive the same government contribution as full-time permanent employees. See 5 CFR 890.102 and BAL 14-210. Temporary employees are generally ineligible for coverage under FEGLI or FERS.

* 11.3 Term Employment (101103)

11.3.1. Appointments. Pursuant to DoD policy, a component may make a term appointment to:

11.3.1.1. Noncompetitively fill a short-term position based on a critical hiring need that is expected to last more than 1 year. Critical hiring need means the need to fill the position(s) to meet mission requirements brought about by circumstances such as, but not limited to, extraordinary workload or unusual or unanticipated event(s) or circumstances creating the need to fill the position(s). Such appointment may not exceed a total of 18 months and does not convey noncompetitive conversion to any other appointment. See Deputy Secretary of Defense Memorandum, “Noncompetitive Temporary and Term Appointments to Meet Critical Hiring Needs in the Department of Defense”, dated July 17, 2017;

11.3.1.2. Fill a position initially for more than 1 year, but not more than 6 years. Components may extend term appointments beyond 6 years and up to 8 years in increments of up to 1 year according to policy. Under certain conditions as prescribed in policy, an employee in a term position may be noncompetitively converted to a career or career-conditional appointment. See the OUSD (P&R) Memorandum “Modification of Temporary and Term Appointments Within the Department of Defense”, dated June 12, 2017 as modified by Deputy Secretary of Defense Memorandum “Extensions of Term Appointments in the Competitive Service in the DoD”, dated August 10, 2018; and 11.3.1.3. Pursuant to the direct hire authority, initially appoint a current post-secondary student for a period expected to last more than 1 year and not to exceed the time limits stated in section 5 CFR 316.301, to include any future legislative and/or regulatory modification to those time limits. Within 120 days of successful completion of their academic program, the student may be noncompetitively converted into a career or career-conditional appointment. See the OUSD (P&R) Memorandum the “Modification of Direct-Hire Authority for the Department of Defense for Post-Secondary Students and Recent Graduates”, dated January 15, 2019.

11.3.2. Benefits. Term employees are eligible to earn annual leave and sick leave. Term employees are also eligible for coverage under FERS, FEHB, and FEGLI. Term employees can work full or part-time work schedules and are eligible for promotions and within-grade increases upon satisfying the required waiting period.

12.0 EMPLOYEES WHOSE WHEREABOUTS ARE UNKNOWN (1012)

In the event an employee’s whereabouts are unknown and payment cannot be made to the employee, refer to Volume 5, Chapter 7 for guidance.

13.0 AIR TRAFFIC CONTROLLERS (ATC) (1013)

13.1 General (101301)

ATCs are employees in an ATC facility (i.e., tower, ground-controlled approach, and approach control), actively engaged in the separation and control of air traffic or in providing preflight, in-flight, or airport advisory service to aircraft operations, or the immediate supervisor of any such employee. See DoDI 1400.25-V331.

13.2 Overtime (101302)

All overtime work scheduled in advance of the administrative workweek on a day containing part of an ATC’s basic 40-hour workweek must be compensated under 5 CFR 550.111.

13.3 Premium Pay (101303)

Differential pay is authorized for certain DoD employees. The Secretary of Defense has authorized five percent ATC premium pay under 5 U.S.C. § 5546a(a)(1). The payment of the premium is mandatory for DoD ATCs who are in the GS-2152 occupational series and occupy a position no lower than GS-9 at air traffic control centers, terminal or flight service stations. The HRO provides this information to the servicing PRO via an SF 50.

13.4 Leave (101304)

Leave accruals are based on guidelines published in 5 CFR Part 630.

13.5 Mandatory Separation (101305)

Generally, under 5 U.S.C. § 8335(a) for CSRS employees and 5 U.S.C. § 8425(a) for FERS employees, an ATC who is otherwise eligible for immediate retirement must be separated from the federal service on the last day of the month in which the employee becomes 56 years of age. However, if the ATC has been granted a waiver of the mandatory separation age based on exceptional skills and experience, an ATC may delay separation until the day he or she becomes age 61. Additionally, an ATC who has received a waiver of the maximum entry age under 5 U.S.C. § 3307(b) may delay separation until the last day of the month he or she completes 20 years of service.
13.6 Retirement (101306)

ATCs have unique retirement deduction percentages for CSRS and FERS coverage. OPM publishes the rates in the CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapter 30.

14.0 PERSONNEL ON LONG-TERM, FULL-TIME TRAINING (1014)

14.1 General (101401)

Long-term, full-time training is defined as a training period of 120 consecutive workdays or more. See 5 U.S.C., Chapter 41 and 5 CFR Part 410. Employees on long-term, full-time training are authorized payment of salary.

14.2 Leave (101402)

If salary payments continue during the training period, annual and sick leave regulations apply. Leave is reported via the time and attendance reporting mechanism and is administered as specified for the following leave types:

14.2.1. Annual Leave. Personnel on long-term, full-time training will continue to accrue annual leave. Ordinarily, an employee will be charged with annual leave during school vacation periods that fall on government workdays unless he or she returns to the work site or has made documented arrangements with his or her DoD point of contact to be actively involved in academic work. These documented arrangements should be accomplished well in advance of the vacation periods. Annual leave charges are reported on the employee’s time and attendance report. See the OPM Training and Development Policy.

14.2.2. Sick Leave. Personnel on long-term, full-time training continue to accrue sick leave. The agency should charge sick leave on the time and attendance report when the employee is unable to attend classes due to illness.

15.0 EMERGENCY MEDICAL TECHNICIAN (EMT) (1015)

15.1 General (101501)

This section applies to EMTs or paramedics who are not classified as firefighters.

15.2 Tour of Duty (101502)

EMTs and paramedics work various schedules including the basic 40-hour workweek, compressed work schedules, and uncommon tours of duty. An uncommon tour of duty means an established tour of duty that exceeds 80 hours of work in a biweekly pay period. See 5 CFR 630.201. Schedules and changes to tours of duty for an EMT or paramedic working uncommon tours must be on file in the employing activity/timekeeper site.
Sleep and meal time also must be documented. The EMT’s hourly rate is multiplied by 40 hours, and the base pay and premium pay is based on this weekly rate regardless of the hours in the scheduled tour of duty for that week.

15.3 Overtime Computation (101503)

15.3.1. Standby Duty Pay

15.3.1.1. FLSA nonexempt EMTs and paramedics are compensated for regularly scheduled overtime hours in excess of 40 hours in a week by the payment of annual premium pay for standby duty plus .5 times the employee’s hourly regular rate for all overtime hours worked. If an EMT performs an additional 24-hour shift during a pay period, and the shift is scheduled in advance of the workweek, standby duty pay covers all regularly scheduled overtime hours, but the employee is entitled to .5 times the employee’s hourly regular rate for all overtime hours worked. Sleep and meal periods during regularly scheduled tours of duty are hours of work for EMTs who receive annual premium pay for regularly scheduled standby duty. EMTs and paramedics are compensated for irregular or occasional hours of work in excess of 40 hours in a week by payment of the straight-time rate of pay for all irregular or occasional overtime hours of work plus .5 times the employee’s hourly regular rate of pay times the overtime hours. When an employee works an additional 24-hour shift, which is irregular or occasional overtime work, the two-thirds rule will apply. Up to 8 hours of sleep and meal time (a shift of 24 hours or more) are excluded from irregular overtime hours providing all regulatory conditions under 5 CFR 551.432 are met.

15.3.1.2. FLSA exempt EMTs and paramedics are compensated for regularly scheduled overtime hours in excess of 40 hours in a week by the payment of annual premium pay for standby duty. If an EMT performs an additional 24-hour shift during a pay period and the shift is scheduled in advance of the workweek, standby duty pay covers all regularly scheduled overtime hours. When an employee works an additional 24-hour shift that is irregular or occasional overtime work, overtime is paid in accordance with 5 CFR 550.113 or 5 CFR 550.114. The two-thirds rule will apply providing all regulatory conditions under 5 CFR 550.112(m) are met.

15.3.1.3. On-duty sleep and meal periods during regularly scheduled hours for which standby duty premium pay under 5 U.S.C. § 5545(c)(1) are payable may not be excluded from hours of work. See 5 CFR 551.432(e).

15.3.2. Compressed Work Schedule. The customary FLSA standard of compensating an employee with overtime pay for all hours of work in excess of 8 hours in a day and 40 hours in a week does not apply to an employee covered by a compressed work schedule under 5 U.S.C. § 6128. For example, an EMT with a 12-hour day in their schedule will not be entitled to FLSA overtime until they work over the 12-hour schedule for the day.

15.4 Charging Leave (101504)

One hour (or an appropriate fraction thereof) of leave must be charged for each hour (or an appropriate fraction thereof) of absence from the uncommon tour of duty. For additional guidance on leave accruals for EMTs refer to DoDI 1400.25-V630, Leave, and 5 CFR 630.210. When an employee takes 24 hours of leave, 8 hours of sleep and meal time for that employee are deducted. from actual hours of work under FLSA. Sleep and meal time for days of partial leave must be documented on the time and attendance report so that actual hours of work are shown. Sleep and meal time scheduled during leave periods must be added to total sleep and meal time so that total hours of actual work and total hours of sleep and meal time will be shown. Employees with uncommon tours of duty, established under 5 CFR 630.201 and 5 CFR 630.210, may be charged leave for regularly scheduled overtime hours outside the 40-hour basic workweek. Thus, such employees may receive applicable premium pay and FLSA overtime pay during hours of paid leave.

15.5 Accruing Leave (101505)

Employees on uncommon tours of duty accrue and use leave on the basis of that uncommon tour. Accrual rates for such employees are directly proportional to the standard leave accrual rates for employees on an 80-hour biweekly tour of duty. See 5 CFR 630.210(a). The number of hours in the uncommon tour is multiplied by the accrual rate divided by 80 ($(\text{uncommon tour of duty hours}) \times (\text{accrual rate}/80) = \text{uncommon accrual rate}$). See the table in DoDI 1400.25-V630. Employees on uncommon tours of duty repeating a cycle of more than 1 biweekly pay period (e.g., a 3 biweekly pay period cycle) accrue leave based on the average hours in the biweekly tour. For example, an emergency medical technician on a tour of duty of 96 hours for 1 biweekly pay period and 120 hours for each of the following 2 biweekly pay periods works an average tour of 112 hours per pay period, and accrues leave based on a 112-hour tour of duty.

15.6 Premium Pay (101506)

The HRO determines the amount of the premium pay for the irregular tour of duty and reports it on the SF 50. An EMT employed as an intermittent employee is not entitled to premium pay on an annual basis, nor is he or she entitled to paid leave. An EMT is paid under regular overtime rules. Refer to 5 CFR Part 551 for additional guidance on pay administration for EMTs under FLSA.

16.0 FIREFIGHTERS (1016)

16.1 General (101601)

Firefighter pay is governed under 5 U.S.C. § 5542(f), 5 U.S.C. § 5545(b), and 5 CFR 550, subpart M. A firefighter is an employee classified in the GS-0081, Fire Protection and Prevention Series, which includes line firefighters, supervisory firefighters, and fire inspectors whose regular tour of duty averages at least 106 hours per biweekly pay period. Newly hired firefighters going through initial basic training with a 40-hour basic workweek are covered by the GS classification and pay system and classified in the GS-0099 General Student Trainee Series (as required by 5 CFR 213.3202(b)). Uniform allowances may be authorized for firefighters, refer to Chapter 3.
16.2 Regular Tour of Duty (101602)

The term “regular tour of duty” means a firefighter’s official work schedule as established by the employing agency on a regular recurring basis. The regular tour of duty may consist of a fixed number of hours each week or a fixed recurring cycle of work schedules in which the number of hours per week varies in a repeating pattern. The regular tour of duty includes only those overtime hours that are part of the fixed recurring work schedule. However, irregular hours are deemed included in a firefighter’s regular tour of duty if those hours are substituted for hours in the regular tour of duty for which LWOP is taken, as provided in 5 CFR 550.1303(d). There are generally two types of official work schedules for firefighters:

16.2.1. 24-Hour Shift Firefighters. Most commonly, firefighters work a 72-hour workweek consisting of three 24-hour shifts. These shifts include periods of actual work and substantial periods of time during which firefighters are in a standby status. In standby status, firefighters are free to eat, sleep, and engage in personal activities, but are confined to the worksite and remain in a state of readiness to perform actual work as required.

16.2.2. 40-Hour Plus Firefighters. Other firefighters, (most commonly supervisors) have a regular 40-hour workweek consisting of five 8-hour days in addition to regularly scheduled standby duty (e.g., an extra 16-hour standby shift).

16.3 Uncommon Tour of Duty (101603)

An agency must establish an uncommon tour of duty for each firefighter compensated under 5 CFR 550, subpart M, for the purpose of leave use and accrual. The uncommon tour of duty must correspond directly to the firefighter’s regular tour of duty so that each firefighter accrues and uses leave based on that tour. See 5 CFR 630.210.

16.4 Hourly Rate of Basic Pay (101604)

The firefighter’s regular tour of duty is used in determining the appropriate pay computation method. Firefighters are paid on an hourly rate basis. A firefighter’s daily, weekly, or biweekly rate of basic pay must be computed using the applicable hourly rates derived under 5 CFR 550.1303(a) and (b). Premium pay caps apply to the additional nonovertime pay received by firefighters with schedules exceeding the basic 40-hour workweek. Nonovertime pay is considered as basic pay and is not subject to reduction, but is included in the aggregate pay when determining the overtime pay cap. See 5 CFR 550.1305 and 5 CFR 550.107.

16.4.1. 24-Hour Shift Firefighters. For firefighters with a regular tour of duty that does not include a basic 40-hour workweek (firefighters whose schedules generally consist of 24-hour shifts with a significant amount of designated standby and sleep time), the hourly rate of basic pay is computed by dividing the applicable annual rate of basic pay by 2,756 hours.

16.4.2. Basic 40-Hour-Plus Firefighters. For firefighters with a regular tour of duty that includes a basic 40-hour workweek plus additional nonovertime hours, the hourly rate of basic pay is computed by dividing the applicable annual rate of basic pay by:
16.4.2.1.  2,087 hours, for hours within the basic 40-hour workweek (or an 80-hour biweekly pay period); and

16.4.2.2.  2,756 hours, for any additional nonovertime hours.

16.4.3.  Training.  Firefighters are entitled to pay for their regular tour of duty during training. A firefighter should receive basic pay and overtime pay for the firefighter’s regular tour of duty in any week in which attendance at agency-sanctioned training reduces the hours in the firefighter’s regular tour of duty. This guidance does not pertain to student trainee employees in the GS-0099 series. A firefighter is not prohibited from receiving a higher amount of pay if he or she is entitled to that higher amount based on hours of actual work. See 5 CFR 410.402(b)(6).

16.5  Meal and Sleep Time (101605)

For firefighters compensated under 5 U.S.C. § 5545(b), meal time and on-duty sleep time may not be excluded from hours of work.

16.6  Overtime Computation (101606)

Under 5 U.S.C. § 5542, for firefighters compensated under 5 CFR 550, subpart M, overtime work means officially ordered or approved work in excess of 106 hours in a biweekly pay period, or in excess of 53 hours in an administrative workweek if the agency establishes a weekly basis for overtime pay computations. See 5 CFR 550.111(g). Overtime pay is considered part of continuation of pay (COP) for firefighters. Overtime hourly rates of pay are calculated as follows:

16.6.1.  FLSA-exempt (FSLA noncovered).  For a firefighter who is exempt from FLSA, the overtime hourly rate is computed as provided in 5 CFR 550.113(e). Generally, the overtime hourly rate is capped at 1-1/2 times the GS-10 minimum rate, but the rate may not fall below the firefighter’s own hourly rate of basic pay.

16.6.2.  FLSA-nonexempt (FLSA covered).  For a firefighter who is covered by nonexempt from the overtime provisions of FLSA, the overtime hourly rate of pay equals 1-1/2 times the firefighters hourly rate of basic pay for that particular firefighter as established under 5 CFR 550.1303(a) or 5 CFR 550.1303(b)(2).

16.7  Premium Pay (101607)

Except for overtime pay in accordance with paragraph 16.6, a firefighter is barred from being paid any other premium pay including night pay, Sunday premium pay, holiday pay, and hazardous duty pay. Premium pay for overtime in the firefighter’s regular tour of duty covered by 5 U.S.C. § 5545(b) is subject to a biweekly limitation rather than an annual limitation. See 5 CFR 550.107.
16.8 Leave Accrual (101608)

The leave accrual rates for firefighters are established based on an uncommon tour of duty. See paragraph 16.3. Leave accrual for firefighters is directly proportional based on the number of hours in the biweekly tour of duty and the accrual rate of the corresponding leave category to the standard leave accrual rates for employees who accrue and use leave on the basis of an 80-hour biweekly tour of duty. One hour or an appropriate fraction thereof of leave is charged for each hour or appropriate fraction thereof of absence from the uncommon tour of duty. See 5 CFR 630.210(c).

16.9 Mandatory Separation (101609)

A firefighter, who is otherwise eligible for immediate retirement under 5 U.S.C. § 8336(c) (CSRS) and 5 U.S.C. § 8412(d) (FERS), must be separated from the federal service on the last day of the month in which the employee becomes 57 years of age unless he or she has not yet completed 20 years of service. In that case, the employee must be separated on the last day of the month in which he or she completes 20 years of service. See 5 U.S.C. § 8335(b) and 5 U.S.C. § 8425(b).

16.10 Retirement (101610)

Firefighters have a unique retirement deduction percentage for CSRS and FERS employees. These rates are published by OPM in the CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapter 30. Percentages of basic pay for withholding and contributions for FERS employees are described in 5 U.S.C. § 8422(a)(2)(B) and 5 U.S.C. § 8423(a)(1)(B). Percentages of basic pay for withholdings and contributions for CSRS employees are described in 5 U.S.C. § 8334(a).

Additionally, a firefighter’s special retirement coverage provides for an enhanced annuity formula and reduced age/service requirements as follows:

16.10.1 CSRS Coverage. Under 5 U.S.C. § 8336(c) once an employee reaches 50 years of age and completes 20 years of service as a firefighter or LEO, or any combination of such service totaling at least 20 years, they are entitled to a special annuity computation as provided under 5 U.S.C. § 8339(d).

16.10.2 FERS Coverage. Under 5 U.S.C. § 8412(d), an employee is entitled to a special annuity computation as provided under 5 U.S.C. § 8415(d) after:

16.10.2.1. Completing 25 years of service as an LEO or a firefighter, or any combination of such service totaling at least 25 years; or 16.10.2.2. Reaching the age of 50 and completing 20 years of service as an LEO or firefighter, or any combination of such service totaling at least 20 years.

17.0 JUDGES (1017)

17.1 Administrative Law Judges (ALJs) (101701)

17.1.1. Authority. Under 5 U.S.C. § 3105, the Department may appoint ALJs for proceedings conducted in accordance with administrative procedures under 5 U.S.C. §§ 556-557. These employees may not perform duties inconsistent with their duties and responsibilities as administrative law judges.

17.1.2. Pay for ALJs. There are three levels of basic pay for ALJs (designated as AL-1, AL-2, and AL-3, respectively), and each ALJ is paid at one of the levels as established under 5 U.S.C. § 5372. The ALJ positions are (lowest to highest): AL-3, Rate A; AL-3, Rate B; AL-3, Rate C; AL-3, Rate D; AL-3, Rate E; AL-3, Rate F; AL-2; and AL-1. The minimum rate for an ALJ (AL-3, Rate A) is set at 65 percent of Level IV of the Executive Schedule. The maximum rate for an ALJ (AL-1) is set at 100 percent of Level IV of the Executive Schedule.

17.2 Judges of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces (101702)

The U.S. Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces (formerly the U.S. Court of Military Appeals) is established under 10 U.S.C. §§ 941-946. See DoDI 1400.25-V805, Special Retirement and Survivor Benefits for Judges of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces. The President, with the advice and consent of the U.S. Senate, appoints the judges for a term of 15 years. The court, consisting of five judges, is located within the DoD for administrative purposes. Washington Headquarters Services (WHS) is the employing office for the judges. For pay purposes, the judges are civilian employees as defined in 5 CFR Part 213. The judges are entitled to the same salaries and travel allowances provided to the judges of the U.S. Courts of Appeals (GS Salary Table, Schedule 7, for Judicial Salaries). The maximum annual salary is that of Level I of the Executive Schedule.

17.2.1. Entitlements. Judges are entitled only to regular base pay. Judges are excluded from the leave provisions of 5 U.S.C. § 6301(2). As federal judges under 5 U.S.C. § 5541(2)(i), they also are excluded from the provisions of premium pay under 5 U.S.C. § 55, subchapter V.

17.2.2. Deductions

17.2.2.1. Judges under CSRS are required to contribute eight percent of basic pay for retirement. Judges under FERS have the same deduction rate as other FERS employees. See the CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapter 30.

17.2.2.2. The FEGLI for the judges is based on Level II of the Executive Schedule.

17.2.2.3. Judges are subject to the Social Security tax wage base limit as published yearly by the IRS. There is no wage base limit for Medicare tax, and all covered wages are subject to Medicare tax.
17.2.3. Special Retirement and Survivor Benefits for Judges of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces. Upon becoming eligible for retirement, judges may elect to receive a retirement annuity from the DoD Military Retirement Fund (MRF) in lieu of an annuity under CSRS or FERS. See 10 U.S.C. § 945. Survivor and former spouse annuities may also be elected. The DFAS Indianapolis site serves as the PRO for retiree and survivor entitlements. DFAS must perform functions such as:

17.2.3.1. Maintaining individual retirement records of individuals who elect annuity benefits under 10 U.S.C. § 945;

17.2.3.2. Issuing annuity payments from moneys in the DoD MRF, including the collection of applicable federal and state income taxes, and collections of debts owed the U.S. Government;

17.2.3.3. Arranging with the OPM for transfer of moneys, including interest payments authorized under 10 U.S.C. § 945(a)(3)(A), from the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund (CSRDF) to the DoD MRF;

17.2.3.4. Withholding, as appropriate, contributions from the annuity for payment of FEHB, FEGLI, making correct agency contributions, and transmitting these moneys to the CSRDF;

17.2.3.5. Readjusting the annuity payment when events change the retiree or survivor entitlements;

17.2.3.6. Accounting for retirement moneys received from the OPM and disbursing to benefit recipients, insurance carriers, and federal and state tax entities; and 17.2.3.7. Ceasing annuity payment if the employee elects judiciary retirement benefits under 10 U.S.C. § 945(g).

17.2.4. Notifications. Judges in receipt of an annuity under 10 U.S.C. § 945 are responsible for notifying WHS of their election of judicial retirement benefits under 10 U.S.C. § 945(g).

17.4.5. Dual Compensation. PL 114-328, December 23, 2016, (2017 National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA)) removed the dual compensation prohibition for retired judges. As of December 27, 2016, a retired judge who returns to federal service in a position other than that of a senior judge, may receive both their retirement annuity and any pay he or she earns as a federal employee.

17.4.6. Senior Judges of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces. Under 10 U.S.C. § 942(e), a retired judge who formerly served on the Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces may be called upon to perform judicial duties for the court as a senior judge. When performing duties, a senior judge is considered an employee or official of the government. Senior judges receive their full retirement annuity.
Senior judges are also paid an additional amount equal to the difference between the sitting judge’s pay and the senior judge’s annuity pay for each day judicial duties are performed. The additional amount is calculated using the difference between the daily equivalent of the annual rate of pay for a sitting judge and the daily equivalent of the retired judge's annuity. See 10 U.S.C. § 942(e)(2) and PL 114-328 (2017 NDAA). A senior judge may also continue to receive his or her retired and annuity pay if the senior judge performs non-judicial duties for the court and receives no pay other than per diem and travel expenses. See the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Armed Forces Rules of Practice and Procedure.

18.0 AUXILIARY CHAPLAINS AND WEST POINT MILITARY ACADEMY CHAPLAINS (1018)

18.1 Auxiliary Chaplains (101801)

Civilian clergy may be assigned to perform essential religious services of the chapel program that are beyond the staffing capabilities of the commissioned officer Armed Forces chaplains. Auxiliary chaplains normally perform their services on military installations. To serve as auxiliary chaplains, civilian clergy must be ordained or accredited by a faith group recognized by the Armed Forces Chaplains Board. They must meet any additional qualifications required by the Armed Forces.

18.2 Appointing and Paying Auxiliary Chaplains (101802)

18.2.1. Auxiliary chaplains may be appointed by the HRO on an intermittent basis. They are paid on a fee basis from the employing activity’s appropriated funds for civilian personnel such as Operation and Maintenance funds. The HRO may appoint auxiliary chaplains under the excepted service authority in 5 CFR 213.3101.

18.2.2. Work Schedules. Auxiliary chaplains employed on an intermittent basis have no work schedule. They are paid for religious services performed.

18.2.3. Absence and Leave. There is no entitlement for leave.

18.2.4. Entitlements. The pay scale for auxiliary chaplains is determined by the employing activity’s HRO. Social Security, Medicare, federal and state income tax withholdings are made in accordance with the tax documents filed by the chaplain. Social Security, Medicare, federal and state income tax withholdings do not apply to chaplains under non-personal service contracts.

18.3 West Point Military Academy Chaplain (101803)

Under 10 U.S.C. § 4337, the President may appoint a chaplain to serve at the United States Military Academy at West Point. The civilian chaplain is entitled to a monthly housing allowance, in the same amount as the basic allowance for housing (BAH) allowed to a lieutenant colonel and to fuel and light for quarters. However, because utility costs are already factored into the BAH rate, no separate allowance for fuel and light should be paid. The chaplain’s salary is taxable and is subject to the withholding of income, Social Security, and Medicare taxes.
The BAH is not subject to the withholding of income taxes under 26 U.S.C. § 107 which excludes from a minister’s gross income the value of rental allowances he or she receives for a home. However, Social Security and Medicare taxes must be withheld from the BAH.

19.0 SERVICE SECRETARIES (1019)

19.1 General (101901)

Effective the pay period beginning November 30, 2003, 5 U.S.C. § 5504 was amended to allow the Cabinet Secretaries (e.g., the Secretary of Defense) and the Secretaries of the Military Departments to be paid on a biweekly basis.

19.2 Time and Attendance (101902)

Time and attendance is not reported for Service Secretaries. Accrual or usage of annual and sick leave is not authorized. Military Department Secretaries are not eligible for premium pay.

20.0 ADDITIONAL PAY FOR CERTAIN HEALTHCARE PROFESSIONALS (1020)

20.1 General (102001)

The OPM has delegated to DoD the discretionary use of certain Title 38 provisions that are primarily available to the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA). If DoD uses one of these authorities in the delegation agreement, the comparable authority in Title 5 is waived. The following Title 38 provisions as provided in 5 U.S.C. § 5371 have been delegated:

20.1.1. Special Salary Rate Authority (38 U.S.C. § 7455(a)(2)(A) and (B), (b), (c), and (d));

20.1.2. Baylor Plan and Alternate Work Schedules (38 U.S.C. § 7456 and 7456(A));

20.1.3. Premium Pay (38 U.S.C. § 7454 and 38 U.S.C. § 7456(a) and (b));

20.1.4. Authority to Establish Qualifications (38 U.S.C. § 7402(a), (b), (d), and (f));

20.1.5. Qualification-based Grading System (38 U.S.C. § 7403(a), (b)(4), (c), (e), and (f)(1));

20.1.6. Head Nurse Pay and Nurse Executive Special Pay (38 U.S.C. § 7452(a)(2) and (g));

20.1.7. Hours of Employment (38 U.S.C. § 7421(a));

20.1.8. Pay for Physicians and Dentists (38 U.S.C. § 7431(a), (b), (c), (d)(1)-(5), (e)(2)-(4), (f) and (h); 38 U.S.C. § 7432 and 38 U.S.C. § 7433(a));
20.1.9. Nurse Locality Pay System (38 U.S.C. § 7451(a), (b), (c), (d), (e), and (f)); and 20.1.10. Special Incentive Pay for Pharmacist Executives (38 U.S.C. § 7410(b)).

20.2 Premium Pay (102002)

The authority to compensate certain DoD healthcare professionals with additional pay is used to recruit and retain qualified employees in specific medical fields. For additional guidance, see DoDI 1400.25-V540, Pay Pursuant to Title 38—Additional Pay for Certain Healthcare Professionals.

20.3 Baylor Plan Nurses (102003)

Baylor Plan nurses work at DoD Health facilities and are hired to work a Baylor workweek consisting of two regularly scheduled 12-hour tours of duty. The tours are worked entirely between the last day and the first day of the administrative workweek (Friday midnight to Sunday midnight) authorized under 38 U.S.C. § 7456. The Baylor workweek is considered to be a full 40-hour workweek for pay and leave accrual purposes. For additional guidance on Baylor Plan nurses see DoDI 1400.25-V541, Pay Pursuant to Title 38—Special Rules for Nurses Pursuant to the Baylor Plan.

20.4 On-Call Employees (102004)

Health care professionals are eligible to receive on-call pay when assigned to a work unit that has been officially designated as requiring employees to be on-call. On-call pay is a premium paid to certain professionals for working under circumstances or conditions authorized by 38 U.S.C. § 7457. The employee must be officially scheduled to be on-call outside of his or her regular duty hours. An employee, who is excused from regular duty on a holiday, or in-lieu-of holiday, may be scheduled to be on-call and receive on-call pay.

20.5 Physicians and Dentists Pay Plan (PDPP) (102005)

20.5.1. General. The DoDI 1400.25-V543, Pay Plan for DoD Civilian Physicians and Dentists Covered by the General Schedule, establishes policy and provides guidance to establish the PDPPs for eligible DoD civilian physicians and dentists who:

20.5.1.1. Work full-time or part-time with tours of at least 20 hours per pay period at grade GS-15 equivalent or below, and 20.5.1.2. Provide direct patient care and services.

20.5.2. Pay. Every 2 years, the VA publishes the minimum and maximum amounts of annual pay for the PDPP in the Federal Register. Under the PDPP, a physician or dentist’s annual pay is the sum of base pay plus market pay. Base pay is the GS rate for the physician or dentist before any deductions and without additional pay of any kind. Market pay reflects the recruitment and retention needs for the specialty or assignment of a particular physician or dentist.
Annual pay is basic pay for all purposes, including the computation of retirement benefits, lump-sum annual leave payments, life insurance, TSP, and other benefits. See 38 U.S.C. § 7431(f).

20.5.3. Pay Limitation. 38 U.S.C. § 7431(e) provides that in no instance should the total amount of compensation paid in any year to a physician or dentist under Title 38 exceed the salary of the President of the United States as in effect on the last day of that calendar year. Section 7431 does not allow pay over the cap to be deferred and paid the next calendar year. Payments that exceed the salary of the President may not be made at any time. For further information and a discussion of limitations on market pay, see DoDI 1400.25-V543 and Chapter 3.

21.0 LEOs (1021)

21.1 General (102101)

LEOs as defined by 5 U.S.C. § 8331(20), are employees whose primary responsibility is the investigation, apprehension, or detention of individuals suspected or convicted of offenses against the United States.

21.2 Premium Pay (102102)

The majority of LEOs are covered by the standard premium pay provisions established in 5 U.S.C., Chapter 55, subchapter V (including provisions that reflect overtime pay entitlements under FLSA for covered nonexempt employees). Premium pay with specific implications for LEOs includes:

21.2.1. Availability Pay. LEOs, as defined by 5 U.S.C. § 8331(20) and 5 CFR 550.103, are authorized to receive premium pay in the form of availability pay in accordance with 5 U.S.C. § 5545a and 5 CFR 550.185. Availability pay was established to compensate the employee for unscheduled duty in excess of a 40-hour workweek based on the needs of the employing agency. An exception under 5 CFR 550.181(b) allows any Office of Inspector General employing less than five investigators to elect not to cover their employees under the provisions of 5 U.S.C. § 5545(a). Availability pay recipients are not covered by FLSA. Availability pay is subject to a biweekly limitation under 5 CFR 550.107. Under 5 CFR 550.186, LEOs receiving availability pay are not entitled to other types of premium pay based on unscheduled duty hours.

21.2.2. Annual Premium Pay for Standby Duty. The rate of annual premium pay for standby duty is determined by the HRO and sent via SF 50 to the servicing PRO. (See Chapter 4, Table 4-1 for a list of deductions withheld). Standby duty pay is generally not used for federal law enforcement employees however, for more information concerning standby duty pay, refer to Chapter 3. Standby duty pay under 5 CFR 550.141 may not be paid to an LEO, who is receiving availability pay. See 5 CFR 550.163.

21.2.3. Overtime Computation. Overtime work scheduled in advance of the administrative workweek on a day containing part of a criminal investigator’s basic 40-hour workweek must be compensated under 5 CFR 550.111.
21.2.4. Administratively Uncontrollable Overtime (AUO). Information concerning AUO for LEOs is located in Chapter 3 and on the OPM Fact Sheet: Guidance on Applying FLSA Overtime Provisions to Law Enforcement Employees Receiving AUO Pay.

21.3 Leave Accrual (102103)

Leave accrual guidance for LEOs is based on the guidelines published in 5 CFR Part 630.

21.4 Mandatory Separation (102104)

LEOs eligible for immediate retirement must separate from the federal service on the last day of the month in which the employee becomes 57 years of age unless he or she has not yet completed 20 years of service. In that case, the employee separates on the last day of the month in which he or she completes 20 years of service. See 5 U.S.C. §§ 8335(b), 8425(b), 8336(c), and 8412(d).

21.5 Retirement (102105)

LEOs have a unique retirement deduction percentage rate for CSRS and FERS employees, which are published by OPM in the CSRS and FERS Handbook, Chapter 30.

22.0 MILITARY SEALIFT COMMAND (MSC) (1022)

The pay of officers and members of crews of vessels shall be fixed and adjusted from time-to-time as nearly as is consistent with the public interest in accordance with prevailing rates and practices in the maritime industry. See 5 U.S.C. § 5348. Hours of work and premium pay policy for MSC civil service mariners are covered by Department of the Navy Civilian Marine Personnel Instruction 610, Hours of Work and Premium Pay, which has been approved by the Department of the Navy’s Office of Civilian Human Resources. Base wage and premium pay scales for MSC civil service mariners are approved by the DoD Wage Setting Authority, in coordination with the OPM.

23.0 DE FACTO EMPLOYEES (1023)

23.1 General (102301)

A de facto employee is an individual who, in good faith, renders services to the government but who was never properly appointed or never actually appointed as an employee. There are four common de facto employment situations:

23.1.1. When an individual performed services, but was not recorded as an employee in the pay system because either the record was not yet established or the individual began working prior to their official starting date,

23.1.2. When a current employee received pay for an erroneous promotion,
23.1.3. When an employee performed services after their official separation date or after the end date of their service appointment, or 23.1.4. When an individual was hired and performed services under an erroneous appointment, but is not expected to receive a legal appointment.

23.2  Payment of De Facto Employees (102302)

23.2.1. General. Under the principles of quantum meruit (i.e., the actual value of services performed) an individual whose appointment is found to be improper or erroneous is entitled to receive compensation earned, service credit for purposes of accrual of annual leave, and lump-sum payment for unused leave upon separation, unless:

23.2.1.1. The appointment was made in violation of an absolute statutory prohibition, or 23.2.1.2. The employee was guilty of fraud in regard to the appointment or deliberately misrepresented or falsified a material matter. See Comptroller General (Comp. Gen.) decisions 58 Comp. Gen. 734, B-191977, August 17, 1979 and 61 Comp. Gen. 127, B-197400, December 10, 1981.

23.2.2. De Facto Determination and Payment Processing. Payment of de facto employees for services rendered to the government will depend on the facts of each individual’s situation. The employing agency must make a determination identifying the employee as a de facto employee who acted in good faith and must convey that determination to DFAS. The employing agency must submit a payroll processing request to initiate the payment of a de facto employee. A de facto determination from the agency will invalidate any debt that may have been established for wages paid.

23.2.3. De Facto Guidance. The payment of de facto employees has been addressed in the following Comptroller General opinions:

23.2.3.1. Individual Serving Before Appointment. Individuals serving in a de facto status before officially appointed should be compensated for the reasonable value of their services performed during that period. Payment is established at the rate of basic compensation set for the positions to which they are ultimately appointed. See Comp. Gen. B-191397, September 6, 1978 and Comp. Gen. B-189741, April 4, 1978.

23.2.3.2. Individual Never Appointed. The reasonable value of the services of an individual who was never in fact appointed to the position which the individual purportedly filled, should be established at the rate of basic compensation for the position that was ultimately advertised and filled. See Comp. Gen. B-193605, January 8, 1979.
23.2.3.3. Premium Pay. The rule that a de facto employee is entitled to the reasonable value of his or her services does not limit the employee to receipt of basic compensation only. The reasonable value of his services includes premium pay, including holiday pay. See [Comp. Gen. B-188574](https://www.comptroller.gov/cga/comp ENABLE.PDF/COMPGEN/B188574.pdf), December 29, 1977.

23.2.3.4. Termination and Reemployment. In the event an individual is terminated from employment after the appointment was found to be erroneous and is then reemployed after a break in service, the individual is entitled to compensation earned, lump-sum payment for accrued annual leave, service credit for annual leave accrual purposes, and recredit of accrued sick leave. If the OPM denies service credit for the period of the improper appointment, the employee would be entitled to a refund of the retirement deductions made from his or her salary during the period of the erroneous appointment, less any necessary Social Security deductions. See [Comp. Gen. B-197400](https://www.comptroller.gov/cga/comp ENABLE.PDF/COMPGEN/B197400.pdf), December 10, 1981.

23.2.3.5. Dual Compensation Prohibition. De facto status may not be applied to nullify the effect of a statutory provision that prohibits dual compensation. See [Comp. Gen. B-157983](https://www.comptroller.gov/cga/comp ENABLE.PDF/COMPGEN/B157983.pdf), December 13, 1965.

23.2.3.6. Erroneous Promotions. A current employee who receives an erroneous promotion may be regarded as a de facto employee. For example, an employee is regarded as a de facto employee if the employee is promoted but it is later determined the employee did not meet the general requirements of the higher position. The employee is entitled to retain the compensation received for the services performed in good faith as a de facto employee during the period of the erroneous promotion unless there is a statutory bar prohibiting such payment. See [Comp. Gen. B-221745](https://www.comptroller.gov/cga/comp ENABLE.PDF/COMPGEN/B221745.pdf), April 28, 1986.

23.2.4. Tax Reporting. Pay to a de facto employee should be reported as if the individual had been a correctly appointed employee during the de facto period. De facto status has no impact on how pay is reported. Any pay that includes wages should be reported on a W-2 form for the year in which payment is made.

23.2.4.1. Example: An employee was erroneously promoted and performed duties and received pay associated with the erroneous promotion in 2013. The error was not discovered until 2014. The payments for the de facto employment were reported as taxable income on the 2013 W-2. There should be no adjustment to the 2013 W-2 even though the error was discovered in 2014.

23.2.4.2. Example: An employee was erroneously promoted and performed duties and received pay associated with the erroneous promotion in 2013. The error was discovered in 2013 and the full amount paid was collected as a debt from the employee in 2013. A de facto determination was submitted in 2014, which authorized the employee to be paid for the services performed as a de facto employee. The wages for the de facto period were paid to the employee in 2014. The wages for the de facto period are reported in the year actually paid, or 2014.
23.2.5. FEHB and FEGLI Deductions

23.2.5.1. FEHB. Under the Affordable Care Act, health insurers may not cancel coverage retroactively if premiums have already been paid, even when an employer has erroneously allowed an ineligible employee to enroll in FEHB. Premiums should not be refunded to the de facto employee.

23.2.5.2. FEGLI. If the error is discovered before 2 years have passed, incontestability does not apply and the erroneous coverage is not valid. Any erroneous coverage should be voided and the premiums should be refunded. See FEGLI Program Handbook and Chapter 11.

23.2.6. TSP. The regulations at 5 CFR 1605.12 set out procedures for removing erroneous contributions received by TSP from employees and employers.

23.2.7. Retirement Credit. The question of whether a de facto employee is entitled to service credit for retirement purposes should be referred to the OPM. If the OPM denies service credit for the period the de facto employee worked, the de facto employee is entitled to a refund of retirement contributions made during the de facto period, less any Social Security deductions. See 61 Comp. Gen. 127 (1981).

23.3 Variations (102303)

OPM assists Federal agencies with correcting errors made during the competitive hiring process. Variations are used to correct errors made in the competitive hiring process when no other remedy exists within the regulation. See OPM Guidance, Hiring Authorities and 5 CFR 5.1.

24.0 HIGHLY QUALIFIED EXPERTS (HQEs) AND HIGHLY QUALIFIED EXPERTS-SENIOR MENTORS (HQEs-SMs) (1024)

24.1 General (102401)

Employees appointed as an HQE must possess an uncommon level of expertise and recognition. Such expertise, with the exception of HQE-SMs, is generally not available within the federal workforce at the time of need, nor is it typically gained within the civil service or uniformed services. HQE-SMs, by nature, have the expertise and experience required to fulfill their intended roles, having been recruited from former or retired civil service or uniformed service personnel. See 5 U.S.C. § 9903 and DoD 1400.25-V922.

24.2 Appointments (102402)

Employees hired as HQEs will be given “Excepted Not-to-Exceed” appointments (up to 5 years) under an Experts Other (EE) pay plan. The HQE or HQE-SM must sign a written service agreement.
24.3 Pay (102403)

Compensation for an HQE or HQE-SM should reflect the salary paid in the labor market for comparable positions, taking into account such factors as applicant’s skills, professional and educational accomplishments, and the complexity of the work the applicant is asked to perform. See DoDI 1400.25-V922 for other relevant factors. Basic pay for an HQE or HQE-SM typically will be within the range from GS-15, step 1 (or equivalent) up to the statutory limit of Level IV of the Executive Schedule. In addition to basic pay, HQEs and HQE-SMs may receive locality-based comparability payments applicable to the geographic location of their position of record as prescribed by 5 U.S.C. § 5304. When added to the rate of basic pay, locality-based comparability payments may not exceed Level III of the Executive Schedule as described in 5 U.S.C. § 5304(g)(2)(C). See DoDI 1400.25-V922 for additional pay information.

24.4 Performance Awards (102404)

HQEs and HQE-SMs are not eligible to receive performance awards.

24.5 Leave (102405)

HQEs and HQE-SMs are subject to the annual leave accrual provisions of 5 U.S.C. § 6304(a), which sets the maximum number of annual leave hours carried forward from one leave year to another at 240 hours. Full-time HQEs and HQE-SMs accrue 8 hours of annual leave per pay period and at a prorated rate for other eligible part-time employees.

CHAPTER 11

ALLOTMENTS AND VOLUNTARY DEDUCTIONS

1.0 GENERAL

1.1 Overview

Allotments and voluntary payroll deductions are made from an employee’s gross pay. Both allotments and voluntary deductions are executed at the employee’s request and require written authorization from the employee prior to withholding the deduction. Authorized deductions may be made through automated computer programs, such as myPay, using a personal identification code. See Chapter 4 for information on mandatory deductions.

1.2 Purpose

The purpose of this chapter is to provide guidance on mandatory, discretionary, and voluntary deductions as they may be applied to an employee’s gross pay.

1.3 Authoritative Guidance

The pay policies and requirements established by the DoD in this chapter are derived primarily from, and prepared in accordance with the United States Code (U.S.C.), including Titles 5, 10, 31, and 38. Due to the subject matter in the chapter, the list of authoritative sources is extensive. The specific statutes, regulations, and other applicable guidance that govern each section are listed in a reference section at the end of this chapter.

2.0 ALLOTMENTS

2.1 Overview

An allotment is a recurring deduction from an employee’s pay that is authorized by the employee. An allotment is paid to a specific person or institution as directed by the employee. An agency must permit an employee to make certain mandatory allotments as discussed in paragraph 2.2. Additionally, an agency may permit an employee to make additional discretionary allotments that have been deemed appropriate by the agency. For additional information, see 5 U.S.C. § 5525, Title 5, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 550, subpart C, (5 CFR 550, subpart C), and paragraph 2.3. For information concerning the order of precedence for processing both mandatory and voluntary deductions and allotments, see Chapter 4.

2.1.1 Allotment Processing. An allotment must be requested in writing by the employee. The request may be made electronically or by regular mail. The allotment request must identify the authority under which the allotment is permitted, the specified amount to be deducted, the period of time over which the deduction is to be made, and the name and address of the person or institution to whom the allotment is payable.
2.1.2. General Limitations on Allotments. Any allotment is subject to the following limitations:

2.1.2.1. The employee must designate the amount of the allotment and the person or institution to whom the allotment is made payable,

2.1.2.2. The total amount of allotments may not exceed the pay due to the employee for a particular pay period,

2.1.2.3. The employee must personally authorize a change or cancellation of an allotment,

2.1.2.4. The agency has no liability in connection with any authorized allotment disbursed by the agency in accordance with the employee’s request, and

2.1.2.5. Any disputes regarding any authorized allotment are a matter between the employee and the allottee.

2.1.3. Allotments Not Authorized. The following allotments are not authorized:

2.1.3.1. Collection of debts to private creditors and nongovernmental agencies;

2.1.3.2. Contributions to charities, except as authorized in subparagraphs 2.2.3 and 2.3.2;

2.1.3.3. Payment of insurance premiums, except as authorized in subparagraph 2.2.7; and

2.1.3.4. Payment of dues to civic, fraternal or other organizations, except as authorized in subparagraphs 2.2.1, 2.2.2, and 2.3.2.

2.2 Mandatory Allotments

Mandatory allotments are those allotments an agency must permit an employee to make as authorized under 5 CFR 550.311(a).

2.2.1. Allotments for Labor Organization (Union) Dues. An allotment for dues payable to a labor organization is authorized under 5 U.S.C. § 7115. Any eligible employee has the right to make a voluntary allotment for the payment of dues to labor organizations. Employees must submit a Standard Form (SF) 1187, Request for Payroll Deductions for Labor Organization Dues, to request and authorize the allotment of pay. The allotment is effective the first pay period beginning after receipt of the properly executed SF 1187.

2.2.1.1. Deductions for Dues. Unless the negotiated collective bargaining agreement states otherwise, the amount of the dues deduction indicated on the SF 1187 will remain the same until the appropriate official in the labor organization certifies the dues amount has changed. When an employee is in a nonpay status for an entire pay period, the Payroll Office (PRO) will not deduct a missed allotment for that pay period from future earnings. The PRO will not take a partial deduction if an employee is in a nonpay status for part of a pay period and the employee’s earnings are not sufficient to cover the full deduction. An employee’s biweekly deductions for labor organization dues should be calculated as follows:

2.2.1.1.1. If the amount stated on the SF 1187 refers to a total annual deduction for a 12-month period, then divide the total annual deduction by 26 to determine the biweekly deduction.

2.2.1.1.2. If the amount stated on the SF 1187 refers to a monthly deduction, then multiply the monthly deduction by 12 to determine the total annual deduction. Divide the total annual deduction by 26 to determine the biweekly deduction.

2.2.1.2. Cancellation of Dues Allotment by Employee. An employee may submit a request to cancel the allotment for payment of labor organization dues at any time.

2.2.1.2.1. Written Cancellation Required. An employee may file an SF 1188, Cancellation of Payroll Deductions for Labor Organization Dues, to cancel an allotment. However, any written request signed by the employee for the cancellation of an allotment that contains sufficient information may be acceptable. Unless the collective bargaining agreement states otherwise, the employing activity is responsible for furnishing the SF 1188 to employees upon request.

2.2.1.2.2. Effective Date. Under 5 U.S.C. § 7115(a), an employee may cancel a union dues allotment at yearly intervals (or as negotiated in a collective bargaining agreement as long as the intervals are consistent with section 5 U.S.C. § 7115(a)). An employee may not be prevented from cancelling a dues allotment for a period of greater than one year.

2.2.1.3. Automatic Termination of Allotment. An allotment for payment of labor organization dues is automatically terminated pursuant to 5 U.S.C. § 7115(b) when any of the following events occurs:

2.2.1.3.1. The collective bargaining agreement between the agency and the labor organization ceases to be applicable to the employee. For example:

2.2.1.3.1.1. When an employee is no longer a member of the bargaining unit due to separation from the employing activity, the termination of the allotment will be effective with the employee’s final pay from the activity;

2.2.1.3.1.2. When an employee is no longer eligible to be a member of the bargaining unit due to a promotion or reassignment to a supervisory position, the termination of dues will be effective at the beginning of the first pay period after the employee loses eligibility to be a member; or
2.2.1.3.1.3. When the labor organization loses eligibility for exclusive recognition, the termination of the allotment will be effective at the beginning of the first pay period after notification is received concerning the loss of recognition.

2.2.1.3.2. The employee is suspended or expelled from membership in the labor organization. Termination of dues will be effective the first pay period after the Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS) receives the written notification from the labor organization indicating that an employee was suspended or expelled from membership.

2.2.1.4. Erroneous Deduction of Dues After Automatic Termination of Allotment. The agency must automatically terminate an allotment for labor organization dues when the employee ceases to be a member of the bargaining unit. There is no additional requirement for the employee to submit a cancellation form or to take any other action to terminate the allotment. If the agency does not terminate the allotment for labor organization dues in a timely manner, the PRO must refund any erroneously deducted labor organization dues, without interest, to the employee. The agency has a claim against the labor organization for the overpayment amount.

2.2.2. Allotments for Association of Management Officials and/or Supervisors Dues. An allotment for dues payable to an association of management officials and/or supervisors is authorized under 5 CFR 550.331. An employee is eligible to make a voluntary allotment for the payment of dues if the employee is a supervisor or management official and is a member of the association. The agency and the association of management officials and/or supervisors must maintain a written agreement allowing for the deduction of allotments for the payment of dues.

2.2.3. Allotments for Charitable Contributions. An agency must permit an employee to make an allotment for charitable contributions through the Combined Federal Campaign (CFC) under 5 CFR 550.341. For additional information, see Department of Defense Instruction (DoDI) 5035.01 and DoDI 5035.05. The CFC is a charitable fundraising program established and administered by the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) and is the only authorized solicitation for charitable contributions from employees in the Federal workplace. OPM designates a Local Federal Coordinating Committee (LFCC) to conduct the CFC in a particular community. For additional information, see 5 CFR Part 950 and Executive Order 12353 and Executive Order 12404.

2.2.2.1. Geographic Boundaries of the Local Campaign. An employee may participate in a particular CFC only if that employee’s official duty station is located within the geographic boundaries of that CFC. The Director, OPM may grant permission for solicitations of Federal employees, outside the CFC, in support of victims in cases of emergencies and disasters. Any special solicitations will be managed through a Disaster Relief Program developed by OPM. See 5 CFR 950.102(a)(2) and 79 Federal Register 21581.

2.2.2.2. Ways to Donate. An agency must conduct a campaign during the period determined by the LFCC, which will not begin before September 1 and will not extend beyond January 15. New employees may make pledges within 30 days of entry on duty, if outside of the campaign period. See 5 CFR 950.102 and 5 CFR 950.601. Employees can start allotments to CFC by either:
2.2.2.1. CFC Pledge Form. The CFC Pledge Form, in conformance with 5 CFR 950.402, is the only form an employee may use to authorize a CFC payroll allotment. Agencies will make the form available to employees electronically, along with other campaign materials including the official charity list, when the charitable contributions are solicited. The electronic pledge is completed by the employee and transmitted to the employee's servicing PRO in real time via the centralized pledge system in order to establish a CFC payroll allotment. Employees may also submit a paper pledge form. Paper pledge forms may be given to the campaign manager or mailed directly to: CFC Processing Center, P.O. Box 7820, Madison, WI 53707-7820. The CFC Processing Center will input the pledge into the centralized pledge system which then will be transmitted to the employee's servicing PRO.

* 2.2.2.2. CFC Mobile Application. The mobile application allows employees to have the same options for giving to start, stop, or change their CFC allotments as they would by using the CFC Pledge Form or using an electronic online form. Employees can search and donate to charities using payroll information. See the CFC Giving Mobile Application.

2.2.2.3. CFC Allotments Are Voluntary. A CFC allotment is voluntary and based on the employee's authorization. See 5 CFR 950.701(c).

2.2.2.4. 1-Year CFC Allotment Term. A CFC allotment term begins with the first full pay period after January 15 and ends with the last pay period that includes January 15 of the following year. See 5 CFR 950.701(d).

2.2.2.5. Central Campaign Administrator (CCA). OPM has established that a CCA will administer the CFC donor pledging system. Any pledges made must be pledged through the centralized administrator. See OPM Memorandum, 2017 Combined Federal Campaign, dated August 3, 2017, and 5 CFR 950.106.

2.2.2.6. CFC Allotment Amount. Employees specify an allotment amount to be deducted each pay period during the year. Allotments will not be less than $1 per biweekly pay period. There is no restriction on the size of the increment above the minimum amount. The amount of the allotment may not be adjusted during the 1-year term. See 5 CFR 950.701(e).

2.2.2.7. Discontinuance of CFC Allotments. Allotments discontinue automatically after the expiration of the 1-year term, or upon the death, retirement, or separation of the employee from Federal service. CFC payroll deductions may be cancelled at any time via the centralized pledge system, but this is the only change permitted outside the official solicitation period. If a pledge is cancelled during the official solicitation period, a new pledge cannot be submitted. See 5 CFR 950.701(f).

2.2.2.8. Transfer of CFC Allotment Authorization. If an employee transfers during the 1-year term of the allotment, the allotment authorization must be transferred to the new PRO. See 5 CFR 950.701(g).
2.2.4. Allotments for Income Tax Withholding. An employee may make an allotment for income tax withholding when the employee has a legal obligation to pay, but the agency has no legal obligation to withhold taxes. The allotment for payment of taxes authorized by 5 CFR 550.351 applies to State, District of Columbia, and local income or employment taxes.

2.2.5. Allotments for Personal Accounts at Financial Organizations. An employee may authorize two or more allotments for a personal account(s) at a financial organization. The allotment deductions must be a fixed amount for each biweekly pay period and will continue until canceled by the employee.

2.2.5.1. Initiation. To initiate an allotment to a personal account at a financial organization, an employee submits an SF 1199A, Direct Deposit Sign-Up Form and a Financial Management Service (FMS) 2231, Fast Start Direct Deposit Form. Employees may also initiate an allotment to a financial organization through an automated computer program that allows employees to process allotments using a personal identification code. To initiate the allotment, the employee must provide a routing transit number, the employee’s account number, account type, and the biweekly amount.

2.2.5.2. Changes. To change the amount of the allotment or the financial organization or account, the employee must submit a new SF 1199A and an FMS 2231. The employee may also make a change through an available automated computer program.

2.2.5.3. Cancellations. An employee may cancel an allotment to a financial organization at any time by submitting the appropriate form to the Customer Service Representative (CSR) for processing. The employee may also cancel the allotment through an available automated computer program.

2.2.5.4. Deductions

2.2.5.4.1. If the salary is sufficient to cover the deduction, the PRO will deduct the full allotment amount each pay period even if an employee is in a pay status for only part of a pay period. No deductions will be made if the salary amount is insufficient to cover the full allotment deduction.

2.2.5.4.2. Retroactive deductions will not be made for a period during which the employee's net pay was insufficient to cover the allotment. The PRO will not make adjustments during future pay periods for amounts it failed to deduct during a current pay period.

2.2.6. Child Support and/or Alimony Payments. Employees are permitted to make an allotment for child support and/or alimony when he or she voluntarily elects to do so as authorized by 5 CFR 550.361. This provision for a voluntary allotment does not apply to garnishment orders issued to enforce child support or alimony obligations.

2.2.7. Flexible Benefits Plan Allotments. The PRO permits eligible employees to make an allotment as part of a flexible benefits plan established by OPM. The Federal Flexible Benefits Plan (FedFlex) is OPM’s cafeteria plan that offers pretax benefits to employees in accordance with Internal Revenue Service (IRS) regulations. The FedFlex offers the following options:

2.2.7.1. Premium Conversion. Premium conversion for medical, dental, and vision plans allows employees to pay premiums using pretax dollars. See subparagraph 3.2.8.

2.2.7.2. Flexible Spending Accounts (FSAs). FedFlex offers employees the opportunity to participate in the Federal Flexible Spending Accounts Program (FSAFEDS). See section 5.0.

2.2.7.3. Health Savings Accounts (HSAs). Eligible employees enrolled in a high deductible health plan (HDHP) may establish an HSA with an HSA trustee or custodian and may request allotments to fund the HSA. An HSA is funded with pretax monies and may be used to cover current and future qualified medical expenses. The allotment continues until the employee revokes or modifies the allotment election. An employee may modify an HSA allotment at any time in order to effect a prospective change. Any balance remaining in an HSA at the end of a plan year automatically carries forward in the account and no HSA account is subject to forfeiture. Employees are responsible for ensuring their enrollment and contributions are in accordance with IRS rules and within annual limits. Payroll providers are not responsible for verifying employee eligibility or checking to ensure employee contributions are within annual limits.

2.3 Discretionary Allotments

In addition to the mandatory allotments that an agency is required to accept from employees, an agency may also permit employees to authorize discretionary allotments made at the employee’s request for any legal purpose deemed appropriate by the head of the agency (or designee). The authority to accept discretionary allotments does not constitute independent authority by an agency to permit pretax allotments in addition to those authorized by OPM under subparagraph 2.2.8. See 5 CFR 550.311(b).

2.3.1. Purchase of Savings Bonds. The United States (U.S.) Department of Treasury has discontinued the issuance of paper savings bonds through federal agency payroll savings plans. Savings bonds may be purchased in the following manner:

2.3.1.1. An employee must open a TreasuryDirect account. As instructed by the TreasuryDirect payroll savings plan, the employee must submit a request to the civilian PRO for a payroll deduction in the form of an allotment. The employee’s request must include the TreasuryDirect account and the amount to be deducted biweekly.

2.3.1.2. Savings bonds purchased in TreasuryDirect post to the employee’s account one business day after the scheduled purchase date.

2.3.2. Foreign Affairs Agency Organizations. An employee may elect to make an allotment to pay dues to a foreign affairs agency organization in accordance with 5 CFR 550.371.
2.3.2.1. The employee is allowed to revoke the authorization at least every six months; and

2.3.2.2. The allotment terminates when the dues withholding agreement between a foreign affairs agency and the organization is terminated or ceases to be applicable to the employee.

2.3.3. Military Welfare Societies (MWSs). An employee may elect to contribute voluntarily to the MWSs as an authorized charitable campaign. The MWSs include: Army Emergency Relief Society, Navy-Marine Relief Society, and the Air Force Aid Society. With the exception of CFC (see subparagraph 2.2.3), MWSs are prohibited from soliciting Federal civilian employees.

3.0 FEDERAL EMPLOYEES HEALTH BENEFITS (FEHB)

3.1 General

The FEHB Program was originally authorized in 1960 and is governed under 5 U.S.C., Chapter 89 and 5 CFR Part 890. FEHB is an employer-sponsored group health insurance program for eligible Federal civilian employees, retirees, former employees, family members, and former spouses. In January 2016, the Self Plus One enrollment type became available. See Benefits Administration Letter (BAL) 15-210. Employees are eligible to enroll themselves and eligible family members in a health plan offered by FEHB. An employee's participation in the program is voluntary. OPM sets the amount that the government contributes toward an employee’s health plan cost, and the employee is responsible for paying the remaining balance of the premium cost through salary withholding. OPM designates a three-digit enrollment code to identify health plans. The first two digits identify the plan and the third digit identifies the option (high or standard) and the type of enrollment (self only, self and family, or self plus one). For more information, visit FEHB Facts.

3.1.1. Authorized FEHB Forms

3.1.1.1. The SF 2809, Health Benefits Election Form, must be completed by the employee in order to:

3.1.1.1.1. Switch designated eligible family member,

3.1.1.1.2. Enroll or re-enroll in the FEHB Program,

3.1.1.1.3. Elect not to enroll in the FEHB Program,

3.1.1.1.4. Change FEHB enrollment,

3.1.1.1.5. Cancel FEHB enrollment, or

3.1.1.1.6. Suspend FEHB enrollment (only annuitants or former spouses).
3.1.2. The SF 2810, Notice of Change in Health Benefits Enrollment, must be completed by the employee for the purpose of:

3.1.2.1. Termination,

3.1.2.2. Transfer in,

3.1.2.3. Reinstatement, or

3.1.2.4. Change in name of an enrollee.

3.1.2. Effective Dates. Except for open season, or unless otherwise provided, most enrollments and changes to enrollments are effective the first day of the pay period after the employing office receives the SF 2809 enrollment or SF 2810 change request. An employee must be in a pay status at least part of the pay period preceding the effective date of enrollment or change request. If an employee was not in a pay status during the pay period preceding the request, the enrollment or change becomes effective on the first day of the pay period after the employee returns to pay status. Open season begins the Monday of the second full workweek in November and ends the Monday of the second full workweek in December. OPM sets the effective date for enrollments and changes made during the annual open season.

3.2 FEHB Premium Contributions and Withholdings

Information concerning government employer contributions (Government contribution) and employee withholdings for FEHB premiums can be found in 5 CFR 890, subpart E. See the FEHB Handbook. Premium contributions and withholdings begin the first pay period that the enrollment is effective. The PRO forwards the contributions and withholdings to OPM using the Retirement and Insurance Transfer System (RITS) on the same date payroll is paid.

3.2.1. Government Premium Contributions. The Government’s contribution must be paid every biweekly pay period during which an employee's enrollment continues, whether the employee is in a pay or nonpay status. The Government contribution for eligible employees is paid out of agency appropriations or other funds available for payment of salaries.

3.2.2. Full-Time Employee Premium Withholding. Unless otherwise provided, full-time employees are responsible for paying their share of the premium for every pay period that enrollment continues. The PRO deducts the withholding amount each pay period from the employee’s pay. The amount is determined by the rate applicable to the plan, option, and coverage selected by each employee. The plan brochure describes the benefits, biweekly deduction, and other major features of each participating plan. If the withholding is insufficient, the employee incurs a debt to the United States in the amount of the proper withholding required for each pay period. Employees must check their Leave and Earnings Statements (LES) to verify the premium withholding is correct and must report discrepancies to their employing office immediately.
3.2.3. Part-Time Employees Premium Withholding and Contributions. Part-time employees, as defined in 5 U.S.C. § 3402, may elect coverage under FEHB and must pay the employee share of the FEHB premium. The agency pays the employer contribution in whole or in part depending on the following, as determined by the Human Resources Office (HRO).

3.2.3.1. A part-time career employee hired after April 8, 1979, who works 16 to 32 hours a week (or 32 to 64 hours biweekly) is entitled to a partial Government contribution toward the FEHB premium that is in proportion to the number of hours scheduled to work in a pay period. The partial contribution is determined as follows:

3.2.3.1.1. The pro-rated share of the Government’s contribution is determined by dividing the number of scheduled hours the part-time employee works as indicated on the SF 50, Notification of Personnel Action, by the number of hours worked by a full-time employee serving in the same or comparable position (normally 80 hours per biweekly pay period).

3.2.3.1.2. The resulting percentage is applied to the Government contribution made for full-time employees enrolled in that plan.

3.2.3.1.3. The amount of the Government contribution is deducted from the total premium (Government contribution plus employee share), and the remaining amount is withheld from the employee’s pay. See 5 U.S.C. § 8906(b)(3) and refer to the FEHB Handbook.

3.2.3.2. Employees who served on a part-time basis before April 8, 1979, and who have continued to serve on a part-time basis without a break in service, are eligible for the full Government contribution.

3.2.4. Temporary Employee Premium Withholdings and Contributions.

3.2.4.1. Effective November 17, 2014, employees on temporary appointments, employees on seasonal schedules who will be working a schedule of less than six months per year, and intermittent employees who are expected to work 130 hours per month or more for at least 90 days will be eligible to enroll in an FEHB plan. These newly eligible employees will receive the same government contribution as full-time permanent employees. See BAL 14-210. Temporary employees who had worked for 12 consecutive months, were already eligible to enroll in the FEHB Program, and who were expected to work for 130 hours per month for at least 90 days also became eligible to receive the same government contribution as full-time permanent employees.

3.2.4.2. The Federal Employees Health Benefits Amendments Act of 1988 provides FEHB coverage for certain temporary employees excluded from coverage under subparagraph 3.2.4.1. To be eligible for coverage, a temporary employee must have completed 1 year of current continuous employment, excluding any break in service of 5 days or less. See 5 U.S.C. § 8906a(a). The employee must pay both the employee and the government share of the FEHB premium.
3.2.5. Withholding and Contributions Under Certain Conditions

3.2.5.1. Withholding From Lump-Sum Leave (LSL) Payment. The PRO will not deduct the regular biweekly withholding for FEHB premiums from an employee’s LSL payment. However, the PRO may collect from the LSL payment any previously established debt that is the result of an employee’s underpayment or failure to pay premiums.

3.2.5.2. Withholdings and Contributions Upon Transfer. An employee’s health plan enrollment and coverage continue without change when the employee transfers from one PRO to another without a break in service of more than 3 days. Each PRO is responsible for FEHB premium withholdings and contributions during the time the employee was in a position serviced by the PRO. The PRO will prorate the withholdings and contributions using the Daily Proration Rule if the employee transfers to a different PRO at any time other than the first day of the pay period. See subparagraph 3.2.7.

3.2.5.3. Withholding and Contributions Upon Retirement. If an employee retires and is eligible to continue enrollment in a health plan as an annuitant, the PRO’s responsibility for FEHB premium withholdings and contributions is based on the date the annuity starts. If the annuity starts after the end of the employee’s final pay period, the PRO makes withholdings and contributions for the entire final pay period. If the annuity starts before the end of the employee’s final pay period, the PRO makes withholdings and contributions through the day before the starting date of the annuity using the Daily Proration Rule discussed in subparagraph 3.2.7. OPM will make withholdings beginning with the effective date of the annuity.

3.2.5.4. Withholding and Contributions Upon Death. If an employee dies and there is no survivor annuity, or if the employee maintained self only enrollment, the PRO must make full FEHB premium withholdings and contributions for the pay period in which the employee dies. If a survivor annuitant is eligible to continue enrollment, the PRO will prorate the calculation using the Daily Proration Rule and the employee’s date of death.

3.2.5.5. Withholding and Contributions Upon Retroactive Reinstatement. An employee who is restored to duty retroactively after an erroneous suspension or removal may elect to have his or her enrollment retroactively reinstated, or may enroll in the plan and option of their choice in the same manner as a new employee. If the employee elects to have the enrollment retroactively reinstated, the PRO must take deductions for the period of suspension or removal from the retroactive pay adjustment (i.e., back pay award) and the Government premium contributions should be made as though the suspension or removal had not occurred.

3.2.5.6. Withholding and Contributions Upon Termination or Reinstatement for Military Service. If enrollment is terminated or reinstated because of an employee’s entry into or return from military service, the Daily Proration Rule is applied. The effective date of the action is the date the employee entered into or returned from military service.
3.2.5.7. Withholding Upon Return From Shutdown Furlough. An employee’s FEHB coverage continues during a shutdown furlough. The National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA) for fiscal year (FY) 2020 provides that employees are authorized to receive retroactive pay in the case of a shutdown furlough. Therefore, FEHB premiums missed due to the lapse of appropriations are to be collected from retroactive pay. See BAL 22-202.

3.2.6. Withholding and Contributions During Leave Without Pay (LWOP) or Insufficient Pay Status

3.2.6.1. 365-Day Limit. Enrollment may continue while an employee is in a nonpay status for up to 365 days. The 365 days of continuous enrollment is not considered to be broken by any period of less than 4 consecutive months in pay status. If an employee has 4 consecutive months in pay status after a period of nonpay status, the employee is entitled to begin a new 365-day period of continuous enrollment. See 5 CFR 890.303(e).

3.2.6.2. PRO Forwards Premium Payments Each Pay Period. An employee is responsible for continuing to pay the employee’s share of the FEHB premium during periods of LWOP or insufficient pay, unless the employee terminates the enrollment. The PRO will not withhold the employee’s share of premiums for a pay period when an employee is on LWOP or has insufficient pay to cover the full FEHB premium. However, the PRO must continue to forward the full FEHB premium (both the Government contribution and the employee’s share) to OPM each pay period. The PRO must advance salary to cover the employee’s share of the FEHB premium and the employee will incur a debt for the advance payments.

3.2.6.3. Notification to Employee. The payroll system must be capable of identifying all employees on LWOP or who have insufficient pay to cover premiums. Written notice must be provided to an employee by the PRO as soon as the PRO becomes aware that premium payments cannot be withheld from the employee’s salary. Notice should be provided in accordance with instructions in the FEHB Handbook and 5 CFR 890.502(b) and sent by first-class mail or delivered in person. If mailed, the notice is considered to be received 5 days after the date of the notice. The notice must advise the employee of the following:

3.2.6.3.1. Options for continuing or terminating enrollment;

3.2.6.3.2. Effect of termination;

3.2.6.3.3. If the employee decides to continue coverage, the employee must agree to pay the premium directly, incur a debt, or pre-pay premiums;

3.2.6.3.4. If the employee elects to incur a debt or fails to pay the entire amount due, the employee thereby agrees to repay the debt in full and allow the debt to be collected by salary offset. The notice should indicate that if the debt cannot be collected by salary offset, it will be recovered from a LSL payment, income tax refunds, retirement payments, or any other source available for the recovery of a debt due the government; and
3.2.6.3.5. If the employee does not complete the election indicating whether the employee chooses to continue or terminate enrollment and return the notice within 31 days after receipt (45 days if the employee lives overseas), enrollment will automatically terminate.

3.2.6.4. Employee Must Continue or Terminate Enrollment. If the employee enters LWOP or pay is insufficient, the employee must either terminate enrollment or agree to pay the premium (or incur a debt) in order to continue enrollment. See the FEHB Handbook for additional information.

3.2.6.4.1. Terminating Enrollment

3.2.6.4.1.1. Coverage. If the employee elects to terminate enrollment, the termination is effective at the end of the last pay period in which the PRO withheld the premiums from pay. Upon termination, FEHB coverage continues for an additional 31 days at no cost to the employee. During the 31-day period, the employee and covered family members may convert to an individual contract with the insurance carrier (commonly referred to as the “conversion right”).

3.2.6.4.1.2. Reenrollment. If the employee returns to a pay status, or at the end of the first pay period that pay becomes sufficient to cover premiums, the employee must reenroll within 60 days if the employee wishes to elect FEHB coverage again. If the PRO has forwarded the Government contribution to OPM using RITS and an adjustment is required in a subsequent pay period due to the late receipt of the FEHB cancellation, appropriate changes must be made to the payroll for personal services summary and the SF 2812-A, Report of Withholdings and Contributions for Health Benefits by Enrollment Code. See the CSRS and FERS Handbook.

3.2.6.4.2. Continuing Enrollment. If the employee elects to continue coverage, the employee may pay premiums directly to the employing agency while on leave (“pay-as-you-go” option), incur a debt for the unpaid premiums while on leave (“catch-up” option), or pre-pay the premiums before the employee goes on LWOP. The PRO must notify the employee of choices available (using the notification discussed at subparagraph 3.2.6.3) and provide the employee with a method to make direct premium payments. If the employee elects to incur a debt, the employee must repay the debt in full or the employee will be subject to debt collection action. If the employee pre-pays the premiums, the amount may be deducted from pay or may be paid out-of-pocket. Out-of-pocket payments are after-tax monies.

3.2.6.4.3. Employee Takes No Action. If the employee does not sign and return the written notice within 31 days of receiving the notice (45 days for overseas employees), the PRO must terminate the enrollment on the SF 2810, Notice of Change in Health Benefits Enrollment. The effective date of enrollment termination is retroactive to the end of the last pay period that premiums were withheld from pay.

3.2.6.5. Coordinating Withholding From Disability Retirement or Workers’ Compensation
3.2.6.5.1. Pending Applications

3.2.6.5.1.1. General. An employee’s period of LWOP may be associated with an employee’s pending application for disability retirement or workers’ compensation benefits. Generally, if the employee’s application is approved, the disability retirement annuity or workers’ compensation benefits will be payable from the day following the last day of pay.

3.2.6.5.1.2. PRO Actions. If the employee does not continue to make premium payments during LWOP, the PRO must recover the employee’s share of the FEHB premium from the annuity or workers’ compensation benefits payment. If the employee’s share of FEHB premiums were paid during LWOP and withholding is also made from the annuity or workers’ compensation benefits for the same period, the PRO will refund the amounts to the employee to avoid double premium payments. If the disability retirement annuity does not begin on the day following the last day of pay, the PRO will not refund premium payments until the office receives a notice from OPM indicating the disability retirement application has been approved.

3.2.6.5.2. Withholding While Receiving Workers’ Compensation. Health benefits enrollment continues while an employee is receiving compensation through the Office of Workers’ Compensation Programs (OWCP). Historically, if compensation lasted fewer than 29 days, FEHB enrollment remained with the PRO. In August of 2010, the OWCP discontinued the practice of delaying deductions for the 28-day period and began making the FEHB deductions effective the first day of LWOP to prevent interruptions in insurance deductions. See Federal Employees Compensation Act (FECA) Circular No. 09-04 and FECA Circular No. 12-05. Enrollment continues during the first 365 days in LWOP status while an employee is receiving compensation. After 365 days, an employee must meet certain participation requirements (see FEHB Handbook) and enrollment eligibility is determined by the OWCP.

3.2.6.6. Special Circumstances Involving Employees on LWOP. An employee may elect to continue their benefits and pay the employee share of their premiums under the following special circumstances:

3.2.6.6.1. Student Trainees on LWOP. Enrollment for student trainees with a career or career conditional appointment continues during LWOP as long as the student is participating in the Pathways Program under 5 CFR Part 362. The student must continue to pay the employee share of FEHB premiums during LWOP status.

3.2.6.6.2. Part-Time Employees on LWOP. During LWOP, a part-time career employee who receives a prorated Government contribution toward FEHB premiums must continue to pay the same amount of health benefits premiums that were withheld from the employee’s pay when the employee was in pay status.

3.2.6.6.3. Temporary Employees on LWOP. A temporary employee enrolled in FEHB must pay both the employee share and the Government share of premiums during periods of LWOP. An employee who accepts a temporary position with another employing office must have the enrollment transferred from their original employing office to the new employing office. If the employee is still in LWOP status when the temporary position at the new employing office ends, enrollment must be transferred back to the original employing office. The original employing office must determine the remaining time the employee is entitled to continue FEHB coverage under LWOP. If the employee’s temporary position in the original employing office has expired, the FEHB enrollment must be terminated. Both offices must coordinate the action so that withholdings and contributions are made in a timely manner.

3.2.6.6.4. Employees on Family and Medical Leave. An employee is entitled to 12 weeks of unpaid leave under the Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA). See 5 U.S.C. § 6382. The 12 weeks of FMLA leave usually runs concurrently with the 365-day period for FEHB coverage during LWOP status. During the 12 weeks of FMLA leave, the general requirements for premium withholding and contributions described in paragraph 3.2 apply. During any FMLA leave period that extends beyond 365 days (for example, if the employee has used an extensive amount of LWOP before beginning FMLA leave), the employee must pay the employee’s share of FEHB premiums directly to the PRO on a current basis.

3.2.6.6.5. Employees Appointed to Employee Organizations

3.2.6.6.5.1. Eligibility. An employee who is authorized LWOP status in order to serve as a full-time officer/employee of an employee organization may continue health benefit coverage if elected within 60 days from the start of LWOP. Coverage continues for the entire length of the appointment, even if LWOP lasts longer than 365 days. The employee pays the full cost of the health plan premium (both the employee and Government share). The employee must make the premium payment to the PRO before, during, or within 3 months after the end of each pay period.

3.2.6.6.5.2. Termination. Coverage terminates if the employee does not pay premiums within this timeframe (subject to the 31-day extension of coverage and conversion right). Coverage will not resume until the employee enters pay and duty status in Federal service. Coverage may be restored retroactively if the employing agency finds that the employee was unable to make premium payments for reasons beyond the employee’s control and payment is made at the first opportunity.

3.2.6.6.6. Appointments to State or Local Governments, Institutions of Higher Education, Indian Tribal Government, or Other Organizations. An employee granted LWOP for the purpose of an appointment to a State or local government, an institution of higher education, Indian tribal government, or certain other organizations specified in 5 CFR Part 334, may elect to continue health benefits coverage for the duration of the assignment. Employees are entitled to continue coverage even if LWOP lasts longer than 365 days. The employee must pay the employee’s share of the premiums to the PRO before, during, or within 3 months after the end of each pay period. The employing office must continue to pay the Government share of the premiums as long as the employee continues to make premium payments. If the employee does not make premium payments in a timely manner, coverage:

3.2.6.6.6.1. Terminates if the employee does not pay premiums in a timely manner (subject to the 31-day extension of coverage and conversion right);
3.2.6.6.2. Will not resume until the employee enters pay and duty status in Federal service; and

3.2.6.6.3. May be restored retroactively if the employing agency finds that the employee was unable to make premium payments for reasons beyond the employee’s control and payment is made at the first opportunity.

3.2.6.6.7. Transfer to International Organization. An employee who is transferred to an international organization under 5 U.S.C. § 3582 may elect to continue health benefits coverage and must pay the employee share of premiums to the employing office before, during, or within 3 months after the end of each pay period. The employing office must continue to pay the Government contribution as long as the employee pays their share of the premium. Coverage terminates if the employee does not pay premiums within this timeframe (subject to the 31-day extension of coverage and conversion right). Coverage will not resume until the employee enters pay and duty status in Federal service. Coverage may be restored retroactively if the employing agency finds that the employee was unable to make premium payments for reasons beyond the employee’s control and payment is made at the first opportunity. See 5 CFR 352.309.

3.2.6.6.8. Employee Salary Paid in Less Than 12 Months. If an employee’s salary is paid over a period of less than 12 months (for example, a teacher who is paid over 10 months), the employing office should prorate the annual premium installments over the number of salary installments during the year so that the employee does not owe additional premiums during the nonpay period. If the employee is on LWOP status during the normal work period, the employee must pay premiums for that period.

3.2.7. Daily Proration Rule

3.2.7.1. General. The Daily Proration Rule is a formula used to calculate partial employee withholdings and Government contributions for FEHB premiums. Unless otherwise provided, the full withholding and contributions must be made for each pay period even if the employee is in pay status for only part of the period. The PRO uses the Daily Proration Rule to compute partial withholdings and contributions under the following circumstances:

3.2.7.1.1. The employee transfers to a position serviced by a different PRO other than at the beginning of a pay period;

3.2.7.1.2. The employee retires other than at the end of a pay period and is eligible to continue FEHB enrollment;

3.2.7.1.3. The employee dies, and there is a survivor annuitant eligible to continue FEHB enrollment; or

3.2.7.1.4. The employee terminates or reinstates enrollment because of entry into or return from military service.

3.2.7.2. Application of the Daily Proration Rule. The FEHB Handbook provides examples for computing a prorated amount of withholdings and contributions using the Daily
Proration Rule. Each PRO (gaining and losing) is responsible for FEHB withholdings and contributions for the actual time the employee occupied a position serviced by the PRO. The PRO must compute daily FEHB premium withholdings and contribution rates as follows:

3.2.7.2.1. Daily Withholding Rate. To determine the daily withholding rate for partial employee withholding, multiply the employee’s biweekly withholding rate by 26 and divide by 364; the result will equal the daily withholding rate. Multiply the daily withholding rate by the number of days on the payroll, the result will equal the amount of withholding for which the PRO is responsible. Use the denominator of 364 even during a leap year.

3.2.7.2.2. Daily Contribution Rate. To determine the daily contribution rate for partial Government contributions, multiply the biweekly Government contribution rate by 26 and divide by 364; the result will equal the daily contribution rate. Multiply the daily contribution rate by the number of days on the payroll, the result will equal the amount of contributions for which the PRO is responsible. Use the denominator of 364 even during a leap year.

3.2.8. FEHB Premium Conversion. Premium conversion is a method for reducing taxable income by the amount of an employee’s contribution to his or her FEHB premium. Premium conversion reduces the employee’s taxable income thereby lowering the employee’s Federal income tax, Social Security and Medicare taxes, and state and local taxes. See 5 CFR 892.102. The HRO automatically enrolls eligible employees in premium conversion. Before the effective date of coverage, an employee may waive participation in the premium conversion benefit by filing an FEHB Premium Conversion Waiver/Election Form. Thereafter, an employee may file a waiver of participation in premium conversion only under the limited circumstances set out at 5 CFR 892.205. See 5 CFR 892, subpart B for additional information.

3.2.9. Collection of Unpaid FEHB Premiums Debt

3.2.9.1. Debt Collection. Debt collection actions will be made pursuant to the debt collection authority in Volume 16. If the employee received a salary advance to cover FEHB premiums (using the “catch-up option”) and the employee signed a statement agreeing that the debt may be withheld from future pay, then the agency is not required to offer the employee a hearing before beginning salary offset, but notice of the intent to collect the debt must be provided. See 5 CFR 550.1102(b).

3.2.9.2. Payments and Offsets. The PRO will note payments received or payroll deductions withheld and record those payments in OPM deposit fund for FEHB withholdings. If the employee retires and final pay is not sufficient to cover the debt, then the OPM Form 1522, Request for Offset for Health Benefits Premiums from Monies Payable Under the Civil Service Retirement System (CSRS) or the Federal Employees Retirement System (FERS), must be used to offset against a CSRS or FERS annuity. In addition, note on the SF 2806, Individual Retirement Record, or SF 3100, Individual Retirement Record (FERS), that the separating employee has been indebted. There is no minimum amount subject to offset. If the employee has made any duplicate payments that are later offset, the duplicate payments must be refunded.
3.2.9.3. Debt Collection After Transfer to a Different PRO. The date of last withholding and amount due must be shown on the SF 1150, Record of Leave Data, when an employee has a debt for unpaid FEHB premiums and transfers to a different PRO. Amounts due from employees transferring to another PRO should be collected by the gaining PRO and paid to the former employing office and reported to OPM by the gaining PRO.

3.2.9.4. Employees Erroneously Allowed to Continue FEHB Coverage Beyond 365 Days of Leave Without Pay. The Affordable Care Act does not allow a health insurer to cancel coverage retroactively if premiums have been paid, including if an employer has erroneously allowed an ineligible employee to enroll. Where an employee who was on LWOP elected to incur a debt for the employee portion of the premium, and the employee’s enrollment was erroneously allowed to continue for an extended period of time beyond the 365th day, the premium debt incurred by the employee for coverage may be significant. Therefore, OPM has directed agencies that in such a case, the agency must allow the employee to choose whether to:

3.2.9.4.1. Terminate the enrollment prospectively effective last day of the pay period in which the error was discovered and keep the coverage during the erroneous enrollment period. This means, if the employee incurred a debt, the employee owes the employee share of the premiums to the agency for that period, however the employee is entitled to full benefits during the period of the erroneous enrollment; or

3.2.9.4.2. Terminate the enrollment retroactively back to the date the FEHB enrollment should have terminated (meaning the employee owes no premiums for the erroneous enrollment period, but was not covered during that period and is responsible for any claims paid). This will allow the employee to avoid a large premium debt if little or no services were used due to the agency’s error.

3.3 FEHB for Employees Entering Active Military Service

3.3.1. General. Federal law allows up to 24 months of continued FEHB benefits for Federal employees, and their covered dependents, who separate or enter into nonpay status to serve in the uniformed services, referred to as Absent-Uniformed Service (AUS). See 38 U.S.C. § 4317(a)(1)(A) and 5 U.S.C. § 8905a.

3.3.1.1. Active Duty 30 Days or Less. If the employee is on active duty for 30 days or less and is in pay status, the employee’s FEHB enrollment continues without change to the employee withholding or Government contributions.

3.3.1.2. Active Duty Over 30 Days. An employee who enters active duty for more than 30 days may continue enrollment for up to 24 months unless the employee terminates enrollment.
3.3.1.3. Cost of FEHB Coverage. As discussed in subparagraph 3.3.2, the cost of FEHB is dependent upon the nature and length of the employee’s active duty. Eligible DoD employees called to active duty in support of a contingency operation receive an enhanced benefit that results in the agency paying both the employee and government shares of the premiums for up to 24 months. However, if status changes to non-contingency during the employee’s active duty service, a debt will incur. See also 5 CFR 890.303(i), 5 CFR 890.304, and 5 CFR 890.502(f).

3.3.2. Premium Payments General Information

3.3.2.1. First 365 Days. For the first 365 days AUS (12 months), the employee must pay the employee share of the FEHB premium (the employee may elect to postpone payment using the “catch-up option”).

3.3.2.2. After 365 Days. After 365 days on AUS, the employee must pay both the employee share and the government share of the FEHB premium, plus an administrative charge of 2 percent of the total plan premiums. Payment is made directly to the PRO on a current basis (each pay period). See 5 CFR 890.502(f). As discussed in subparagraph 3.3.3, DoD Components pay both the employee and government’s share of the FEHB premium if the employee is called or ordered to active duty in support of a contingency operation.

3.3.2.3. Enrollment Termination and Reenrollment. An employee’s enrollment ends 24 months after absence for military service began, or 90 days after service ends, whichever is earlier. At the end of the 24 months, FEHB coverage will continue for an additional 31 days during which the employee and covered family members may convert to an individual contract with the insurance carrier. If the employee has terminated enrollment during active duty, they may enroll again within 60 days after returning to civilian employment.

3.3.2.4. Additional Guidance. See OPM’s guidance on Coverage for Federal Civilian Employees on Active Military Duty.

3.3.3. Premium Payments When Service is in Support of a Contingency Operation. Eligible Federal employees called to active duty in support of a contingency operation, as defined in 10 U.S.C. § 101(a)(13), on or after September 14, 2001, are allowed an extension of coverage under the FEHB Program for up to 24 months. See 5 U.S.C. § 8905a and 5 CFR 890.502(f). DoD agencies may pay both the employee’s share and the government’s share of the FEHB premiums (in addition to any administrative charges the employee may otherwise be required to pay) for up to 24 months for eligible employees. See 5 U.S.C. § 8906(e)(3). When an employee moves from a contingency to non-contingency operation, the agency is required to cease paying the employee share of premiums.
3.3.3.1. Eligibility Requirements. To be eligible for continued FEHB coverage and payment of the employee’s share of the FEHB premium under these authorities, the employee must be:

3.3.3.1.1. Enrolled in FEHB and elect to continue that enrollment;

3.3.3.1.2. A member of a Reserve component of the Armed Forces, which includes the Army National Guard, the Army Reserve, the Naval Reserve, the Marine Corps Reserve, the Air National Guard, the Air Force Reserve, and the Coast Guard Reserve;

3.3.3.1.3. Called or ordered to active duty (voluntarily or involuntarily) in support of a contingency operation as defined in 10 U.S.C. § 101(a)(13);

3.3.3.1.4. Placed on AUS or separated from civilian service to perform active duty; and

3.3.3.1.5. On active duty for a period of more than 30 consecutive days.

3.3.3.2. Effective Date. Continued coverage and agency full premium payment for eligible employees will be effective the date the employee is initially placed on AUS or separated from civilian service to perform active duty. Eligibility continues for up to 24 months while the employee is on active duty. The 24-month period will not be extended by the employee’s intermittent use of paid leave during a period of military service.

3.3.4. Historical Information

3.3.4.1. Service in Support of a Contingency Operation on or After December 8, 1995, but Before September 14, 2001. Title 5 U.S.C. § 8906(e)(3) provided an extension of coverage under FEHB for no longer than 18 months for eligible employees. Under the law, agencies were authorized to pay the full FEHB premium (employee share and government share) for a period no longer than 18 months for eligible employees. The period of continued FEHB coverage began on the date of the employee’s absence from their civilian position. The agency paid full FEHB premiums during periods of AUS or separation, but not during any pay period the employee used paid leave.

3.3.4.2. Service Not in Support of a Contingency Operation on or After December 12, 1994 and Before December 10, 2004. The Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (USERRA) protects all employees serving on active duty in the uniformed services, including those serving under non-contingency orders. See 38 U.S.C. § 4317(a)(1)(A). Under USERRA, employees called to active duty under Title 32 or Title 10 between the aforementioned dates, were entitled to continued coverage of FEHB for 18 months. The period of continued FEHB coverage began on the date of the employee’s absence from their civilian position.
3.3.4.2.1. First 12 Months. The employee was responsible for payment of the employee’s share of the FEHB premium for the first 12 months.

3.3.4.2.2. 12 to 18 Months. The employee was responsible for the full FEHB premium (employee share and government share) plus an administrative charge of 2 percent of the total plan premiums after 12 months and up to the 18-month limitation.

3.4 Retroactive Changes and Adjustment of Errors

3.4.1. Retroactive Changes in Enrollment. If the employee does not participate in premium conversion, the employee may change enrollment from self and family to self plus one or from self and family or self plus one to self only at any time. An employee who participates in premium conversion is limited to changing their enrollment from self and family to self plus one or from self and family or self plus one to self only during open season, or within 60 days after the employee has a qualifying life event. Generally, a qualifying life event is an increase or decrease in the number of eligible family members as described in the FEHB Handbook.

3.4.1.1. The HRO may make enrollment changes retroactively to the first day of the pay period that began after the employing office received the employee’s enrollment change request.

3.4.1.2. The retroactive change, and corresponding adjustments to health benefits withholdings and contributions, may be made only upon the employee’s written request. The request must identify the event and date when the employee became the only person covered by family enrollment.

3.4.1.3. If an employee retroactively changes from self and family to self only, the PRO must make corrective adjustments to refund premiums back to the beginning date of the change in coverage provided by the employing agency. The Barring Act (Statute of Limitations), under 31 U.S.C. § 3702(b)(1), does not apply to these specific changes.

3.4.2. Adjustment of Errors

3.4.2.1. Underdeduction. An underdeduction of FEHB withholding represents an overpayment of the employee’s pay. Collection of the overpayment is exempt from due process if the amount was accumulated over four pay periods or less immediately preceding the current pay period. See 5 CFR 550.1104(c). Collection is subject to due process procedures when the amount accumulated is for a period of more than four pay periods. The PRO must collect the overpayment from a separated employee’s final pay. See Volume 16, Chapter 3, section 2.7 for additional information.

3.4.2.2. Overdeduction. If the PRO overdeducts the FEHB premium amount owed by the employee, the PRO must refund the overdeduction to the employee and adjust the Government contribution on a subsequent pay period.
3.5 Temporary Continuation of Coverage (TCC)

3.5.1. General. An employee who loses FEHB coverage because he or she separates from Federal service may enroll under the TCC of FEHB. TCC allows an employee to continue health benefits coverage for up to 18 months from the date of separation. An employee’s family member (child or former spouse) who loses coverage because he/she is no longer eligible may also enroll under TCC and may continue coverage for up to 36 months from the date of their change in status as a family member. HRO provides the employee with a notification of TCC election rights. For specific details regarding TCC, see 5 CFR 890, subpart K.

3.5.2. Notification. Once the employee’s HRO establishes TCC eligibility, the HRO will forward the election form to the National Finance Center (NFC), which administers the TCC program for the DoD. The NFC will notify eligible individuals and provide further information on benefits, and will process enrollment changes and cancellations. NFC will collect premiums and send them to OPM.

3.5.3. Premium Payments. Individuals eligible for TCC must pay the full premium for the health benefit plan, which includes the employee withholding amount and the Government contribution plus an administrative charge of 2 percent of the total plan premiums. However, if the individual has TCC based on a separation due to a reduction in force under 5 U.S.C. § 8905A(d)(4), the employee only pays their share, and the agency continues to pay the Government contribution amount plus the administrative charge of 2 percent of the total plan premiums.

4.0 FEDERAL EMPLOYEES DENTAL AND VISION INSURANCE PROGRAM (FEDVIP)

4.1 General

FEDVIP provides dental and vision insurance to Federal employees at competitive group rates. While FEDVIP enrollment occurs during the annual Federal benefits open season process, FEDVIP is separate from the FEHB Program. For additional information, see 5 CFR Part 894.

4.2 FEDVIP Eligibility and Participation

4.2.1. Eligibility. Generally, in order to be eligible to enroll in FEDVIP, employees must be eligible for enrollment in the FEHB Program however; enrollment is not required. Certain employees, such as some temporary employees or intermittent employees, are not eligible for FEDVIP even though they may be eligible for FEHB. Enrollees in the FEHB TCC are not eligible for FEDVIP. Coverage of FEDVIP continues each year, and employees do not need to re-enroll each year to continue current coverage. Employees may enroll in FEDVIP through BENEFEDS, which administers enrollment for the FEDVIP program. Employees can utilize the secure enrollment site BENEFEDS, or by calling the BENEFEDS Customer Service at 1-877-888-3337.
4.2.2. Enrollment. Employees may enroll in FEDVIP:

4.2.2.1. During the annual open season;

4.2.2.2. Within 60 days after first becoming eligible as a new employee, or a previously ineligible employee who transfers to a covered position;

4.2.2.3. Within 60 days after returning to work following a break in service of at least 30 days; or 4.2.2.4. From 31 days before the employee (or eligible family member) loses other dental/vision coverage to 60 days after a qualifying life event allowing the employee to enroll. See 5 CFR 894.502 and BENEFEDS for information on qualifying life events.

4.2.3. Types of Enrollment. Under the FEDVIP, employees may select from the following types of enrollment:

4.2.3.1. Self only, which covers only the employee;

4.2.3.2. Self plus one, which covers the employee plus one eligible family member as specified by the employee; or 4.2.3.3. Self and family, which covers the employee and all eligible family members.

4.2.4. Cancellation, Termination and Extension of Enrollment

4.2.4.1. Cancellation of Enrollment. Generally, an employee may only cancel FEDVIP participation during open season. An employee may cancel FEDVIP participation outside of open season only under the following two circumstances and the cancellation is effective at the end of the pay period in which the employee submits the cancellation request:

4.2.4.1.1. When the employee or employee’s spouse is called to active military duty; or

4.2.4.1.2. When the employee transfers to an eligible position with another Federal Agency that provides dental and/or vision coverage and the employer pays 50 percent or more of the premium.

4.2.4.2. Ineligibility. When an employee who no longer meets the definition of an eligible employee, FEDVIP coverage stops at the end of the pay period in which the employee was last eligible.

4.2.4.3. Extension of Coverage and TCC. Upon termination, there is no extension of coverage or right to convert to an individual contract with the insurance carrier. There is no TCC for employees or family members when FEDVIP coverage stops or family members become ineligible.
4.3 FEDVIP Premiums

4.3.1. General. Employees who elect to participate in FEDVIP pay the entire premium, as there is no Government contribution for FEDVIP. Part-time employees pay the same premium as full-time employees.

4.3.2. Premium Conversion. The PRO withholds FEDVIP premiums from the employee’s biweekly salary on a pre-tax basis using premium conversion, the method for reducing taxable income by the amount of the employee’s contribution to their FEDVIP premium. Unlike the FEHB program, an employee may not opt out of premium conversion for FEDVIP. Premiums are not paid on a pre-tax basis if the employee has insufficient pay to cover the premium or is in a nonpay status. An employee who pays a premium directly to the FEDVIP administrator is not eligible for premium conversion. When an employee’s enrollment is retroactively changed and additional premium withholding is required, the employee is not eligible for premium conversion unless the change is the result of a birth or adoption of a child.

4.3.3. Insufficient Pay or Nonpay Status. If an employee misses a premium payment for FEDVIP, they must make up the payment in subsequent pay periods or FEDVIP coverage will stop on the last day of the pay period in which FEDVIP received an allotment. An employee who is in a nonpay status, or who has insufficient pay to cover premiums, may also arrange to pay premiums directly to the FEDVIP administrator. If the employee stops making direct premium payments, FEDVIP coverage stops at the end of the pay period in which the employee last made a payment. If FEDVIP coverage stops, the employee will not be able to reenroll until the next open season after the employee is in pay status or the employee’s pay is sufficient to pay the premium.

4.3.4. Withholding Upon Return From Shutdown Furlough. An employee’s FEDVIP coverage continues during a shutdown furlough. The FY20 NDAA provides that employees are authorized to receive retroactive pay in the case of a shutdown furlough. Therefore, FEDVIP premiums not paid due to the lapse of appropriations are to be collected from retroactive pay. See BAL 22-202.

5.0 ALLOTMENTS FOR FEDERAL FLEXIBLE SPENDING ACCOUNT PROGRAM (FSAFEDS)

5.1 General

FSAFEDS offers three different Flexible Spending Accounts (FSAs). Eligible employees under this program open a FSA and make an annual election to deposit a portion of their pay into the account for the upcoming benefit period. The PRO withholds allotments from the employee’s biweekly salary on a pretax basis and deposits the funds into the FSA. Employees may request to accelerate allotments over fewer pay periods. The employee may use their FSA for reimbursement of out-of-pocket costs for health care (such as co-payments and expenses not covered by insurance). Employees may also set up an account for dependent care expenses for a qualifying dependent. FSAFEDS is not a part of the FEHB program.
5.1.1. Open Season. Eligible employees must enroll in FSAFEDS each year during the Federal Benefits Open Season. Open season enrollments are effective January 1 of the following year. Enrollment does not carry forward year-to-year, and an employee must reenroll each year. New and newly eligible employees must enroll in the program within 60 days (but no later than October 1) of their entry on duty.

5.1.2. Enrollment. Employees must enroll directly with FSAFEDS either through FSAFEDS online or by calling FSAFEDS at 1-877-372-3337.

5.2 Types of Flexible Spending Accounts

5.2.1. Health Care Flexible Spending Account (HCFSA). An eligible employee may make an allotment to an HCFSA to pay for qualified health care costs not covered by FEHB. If an employee maintains an HCFSA and enrolls in an HDHP, the employee may not maintain an HSA.

5.2.2. Dependent Care Flexible Spending Account (DCFSA). An eligible employee may make an allotment to a DCFSA to pay for qualified dependent care (such as day care) expenses.

5.2.3. Limited Expense Health Care Flexible Spending Account (LEX HCFSA). The LEX HCFSA is only available to employees who enroll in an FEHB HDHP with an HSA. Eligible expenses are limited to dental and vision care services.

5.3 Allotments for FSAs

5.3.1. Payment of Allotments. Allotments withheld from the employee’s pay are forwarded to BENEFEDS on the same date payroll is paid.

5.3.2. Carryover

5.3.2.1. Prior to 2015. Any unused FSA allotments were forfeited if the employee did not incur an eligible expense and file a timely claim for reimbursement.

5.3.2.2. After 2015. In October 2013, the Treasury and the IRS modified the forfeiture (“use-or-lose”) rule for health care FSAs. Effective January 1, 2015, FSA programs allowed participants to carry over up to $500 of unused health care FSA funds to the next plan year (as long as they re-enroll in health care FSAs). Each year, by January 15, a carryover account will be established with their remaining funds from the prior calendar year, up to $500. Any amount over $500 will remain in the prior year account and will be forfeited if prior year claims are not submitted by the April 30 deadline. The carryover funds can be used for prior year expenses that are submitted by April 30 or current year expenses. The carryover balance will be set to a “secondary priority” for claim reimbursement; this means that the carryover balance will be used only if the prior and/or current year balances have been depleted. See BAL 14-801. For additional information on carry over rules, see FSAFEDS website.
5.3.3. LWOP and Nonpay Status

5.3.3.1. Effect of Nonpay Status. The Government will not make up the employee’s allotments to an FSA if the employee is on LWOP or in a nonpay status. However, the employee may prepay allotments for periods of LWOP. If allotments are not prepaid, the HCFSA or LEX HCFSA account will be frozen. The employee will not be eligible for reimbursement of expenses incurred during LWOP or while in a nonpay status until the employee returns to pay status and allotments have restarted (even if the government continues to pay the employee’s FEHB premiums for medical coverage). If an employee maintains a DCFSA during nonpay status, certain dependent care expenses that meet IRS guidelines for eligible expenses may continue to be reimbursed up to the account balance.

5.3.3.2. Return to a Pay Status. Upon the employee’s return to pay status, the PRO will restart the allotment. FSAFEDS will recalculate any future allotment amounts based on the number of pay dates remaining in the benefit period to ensure the employee reaches their annual election amount.

5.3.4. Separation From Employment and Termination of FSAFEDS Participation. Participation in FSAFEDS stops as of the employee’s separation date, or the last day of the pay period in which FSAFEDS received an allotment. HCFSA or LEX HCFSA expenses incurred after participation ends are not eligible for reimbursement. Reimbursement is only available for expenses incurred prior to the date of termination. However, the employee may continue to use the remaining balance in a DCFSA for eligible dependent care expenses until the end of the Benefit Period or until the depletion of the account balance, whichever comes first. Termination may be due to a change in employment status causing the employee to lose eligibility, separation from Federal employment, or transfer to a Federal agency not covered by FSAFEDS.

6.0 FEDERAL EMPLOYEES GROUP LIFE INSURANCE (FEGLI) PROGRAM

6.1 General

The FEGLI Program is a term life insurance program that provides life insurance coverage for Federal employees and their families. See 5 U.S.C., Chapter 87. The FEGLI Act of 1954, Public Law (PL) 83-598, created the FEGLI Program. OPM administers the Program and sets the amounts for employee withholdings and Government contributions. For additional information, see 5 CFR Part 870 or the FEGLI Handbook. FEGLI benefits are payable regardless of the cause of death. The employee’s SF 50 (in block 27) reflects the employee’s current FEGLI enrollment code. See SF 50 Insurance Code Translator for a description of the FEGLI code.
6.2 Types of Life Insurance

There are two types of life insurance coverage under the FEGLI Program, Basic and Optional. The employee and the government share the cost of Basic insurance. The employee pays the entire cost for any of the three additional types of Optional insurance. Additionally, accidental death and dismemberment coverage is an automatic part of Basic and Option A insurance at no additional cost to employees.

6.2.1 Basic Insurance. On the date the eligible employee is initially placed in pay and duty status, the HRO automatically enrolls the employee in Basic insurance, unless the employee specifically waives Basic insurance coverage. A new employee may opt out of Basic insurance by filing a waiver of Basic insurance with the employing office before the end of the first pay period. A transferred employee or an employee who returns after 12 months in a non-pay status may also use a previously filed waiver from earlier employment which remains in effect. See 5 CFR 870.501.

6.2.1.1 Basic Insurance Amount (BIA). The amount of an employee’s Basic insurance coverage is equal to their BIA multiplied by a factor based on the employee’s age. An employee’s BIA is either the annual rate of basic pay, rounded to the next higher thousand (plus $2,000) or $10,000, whichever is higher. An employee’s BIA automatically changes whenever an employee’s pay changes. Effective October 30, 1998, there is no maximum BIA. Note: if the employee’s salary is limited or “capped” by law, the amount of Basic insurance is based on the capped amount, not on the amount of pay without the cap. See 5 CFR 870.202.

6.2.1.2 Annual Rate of Basic Pay for Determining BIA. BIA is based on the employee’s annual pay as fixed by law or regulation. See 5 CFR 870.204. An employee’s annual pay for life insurance purposes includes the following pay:

6.2.1.2.1 Interim geographic adjustments and locality-based comparability payments;

6.2.1.2.2 Premium pay for standby duty under 5 U.S.C. § 5545(c)(1);

6.2.1.2.3 For a law enforcement officer, as defined under 5 U.S.C. § 8331(20), 5 CFR 831.902, and 5 CFR 842.802, premium pay for administratively uncontrollable overtime is authorized under 5 U.S.C. § 5545(c)(2);

6.2.1.2.4 Night Shift differential pay for wage employees;

6.2.1.2.5 Environmental differential pay for employees exposed to danger or physical hardship;

6.2.1.2.6 Special pay adjustments for law enforcement officers;

6.2.1.2.7 Availability pay for criminal investigators under 5 U.S.C. § 5545a;
6.2.1.2.8. Market pay for physicians and dentists of the Department of Veterans Affairs under 38 U.S.C. § 7431; and 6.2.1.2.9. Straight-time pay for regular overtime hours for firefighters.

6.2.1.3. Annual Rate of Pay for Employee Paid Multiple Rates. An employee may be paid for work using different pay rates. The annual rate of pay for such employees for life insurance purposes is based on their work schedule as follows:

6.2.1.3.1. Regular Schedule. Annual pay for employees regularly scheduled to work at different pay rates, such as day and night rates or two positions at different rates for each position, is the weighted average of the rates at which the employees are paid, projected to an annual basis. A regular schedule may exist even though the schedule varies within a year or even within a pay period.

6.2.1.3.2. No Regular Schedule. The annual pay of employees, who work at different pay rates but not on a regular schedule, is the annual rate the employee was receiving at the end of the pay period. In the event of death or dismemberment, it is the annual rate at the time of the death or accident.

6.2.1.4. Annual Rate of Pay for Part-Time Employees. A part-time employee’s annual pay for life insurance purposes is the employee’s basic pay applied to the tour of duty on record, based on the most recent SF 50, in a 52-week work year.

6.2.1.5. Annual Rate of Pay for Employees Serving in More Than One Position at the Same Time. If the employee legally services in more than one position at the same time and the employee is entitled to FEGLI for at least one of the positions, the annual rate of basic pay for life insurance purposes is the sum of the annual rate of basic pay fixed by law or regulation for each position. Certain exceptions apply. See 5 CFR 870.204(g) and subparagraph 6.5.7.

6.2.2. Optional Insurance. An employee who has not waived Basic insurance may elect additional Optional life insurance. Optional insurance is not automatic, and employees must specifically elect coverage within 60 days after becoming eligible for coverage, unless a previous election or waiver from earlier employment remains in effect. The cost of Optional coverage depends on the employee’s age and is based on 5-year age bands beginning at age 35. Changes in rates based on age are effective on the first day of the first pay period following the pay period during which the employee’s birthday occurs. See 5 CFR 870.504.

6.2.2.1. Eligibility to Elect Optional Insurance. An employee may elect one or more types of Optional life insurance coverage provided that:

6.2.2.1.1. The employee is enrolled in Basic life insurance coverage;

6.2.2.1.2. The employee does not have a waiver of that type of Optional insurance still in effect (or a waiver of that number of Option B or Option C multiples still in effect); and 6.2.2.1.3. The employee’s pay, after all other deductions, covers the full cost.

6.2.2.2. Types of Optional Life Insurance. There are three types of optional insurance. See 5 CFR 870.201.

6.2.2.2.1. Option A (Standard Optional Insurance). Option A coverage is available only for the employee and is fixed in the amount of $10,000.

6.2.2.2.2. Option B (Additional Optional Insurance). Option B coverage is available only for the employee and is an amount equal to 1, 2, 3, 4 or 5 times the employee’s annual basic pay after rounding to the next higher thousand if not an even thousand. The amount of coverage under this option automatically changes whenever the employee’s annual pay increases or decreases by an amount sufficient to raise or lower pay to a different $1,000 bracket.

6.2.2.2.3. Option C (Family Optional Insurance). Option C provides coverage for the death of an employee’s spouse or eligible dependent children. Eligible family members are automatically covered. The employee elects either 1, 2, 3, 4 or 5 multiples of coverage. Each multiple is equal to $5,000 for the spouse and $2,500 for each eligible dependent child. Payment is made to the insured employee.

6.3 Effective Dates for Withholding Premiums and Coverage

Withholding of premiums for new employees begins with the same pay period during which coverage begins as follows:

6.3.1. Basic Insurance. Coverage is effective on the first day the employee enters on duty in pay status. See 5 CFR 870.501(a)(1).

6.3.2. Optional Insurance (all options). Coverage is effective the first day the employee enters on duty in pay status on or after the date the HRO receives the election. See 5 CFR 870.504(d).

6.4 Effective Date of Waiver or Cancellation of FEGLI

At any time, an employee may waive Basic insurance, cancel any or all Optional insurance, or reduce the number of multiples under additional Optional insurance. Cancellation of Basic insurance automatically cancels all forms of Optional insurance. Coverage and deductions stop or are reduced effective the last day of the pay period in which the employee files an SF 2817, Life Insurance Election: Federal Employees’ Group Life Insurance Program. See 5 CFR 870.502 to 5 CFR 870.505.
6.5 FEGLI Premium Withholdings and Contributions

6.5.1. General. The cost of Basic insurance is shared between the insured employee and the Government. The employee pays two-thirds of the cost, and the government pays one-third. See 5 CFR 870.401. The employee pays the full cost of all Optional insurance. OPM periodically reviews the cost of insurance and notifies agencies of premium rate changes.

6.5.2. Amount of FEGLI Premium Withholding. During each pay period in which an insured employee is in pay status for any part of the period, the PRO must withhold the employee's share of the FEGLI premium from their biweekly pay. Premium withholding is subject to the following requirements.

6.5.2.1. The amount of premium withholding is based on the amount of insurance last in force during the pay period.

6.5.2.2. If the employee dies or separates during a pay period, the PRO bases the withholding on the amount of insurance in force on the date of death or separation.

6.5.2.3. If the employee’s BIA changes during the pay period, the PRO bases the withholding amount on the BIA last in force during the pay period.

6.5.2.4. If an employee works only a partial pay period, there is no pro-rated premium withholding.

6.5.2.5. If the employee works less than 52 weeks per year, the PRO must convert the biweekly rate to an annual rate. The PRO then prorates the annual rate over the number of pay periods in the year to determine the withholding amount.

6.5.2.6. The PRO must report withholdings and contributions for FEGLI to OPM each pay period as described in Chapter 9. See 5 CFR 870, subpart D.

6.5.3. Withholding FEGLI Premiums During Periods of Insufficient Pay

6.5.3.1. Short-term Periods of Insufficient Pay. Withholdings will be made from an employee's salary when the employee is in pay status for any part of a pay period. If the salary is insufficient to permit all payroll deductions, the PRO must use the order of precedence for deductions in Chapter 4. After all other required deductions are made, if pay for a particular period is not enough to cover the full withholdings for life insurance premiums, the amount withheld must first be applied to Basic insurance. Any balance of pay remaining must then be applied to Optional insurance (first to Option B, then Option A, then Option C). See 5 CFR 870.404(f).

6.5.3.2. Extended Periods of Insufficient Pay. A review and determination of insufficient pay must be made by the HRO when it is expected that an employee’s pay, after all other applicable deductions, is insufficient to cover the cost of the premiums for a period of 6 months or more. The HRO must notify the employee if an employee’s pay will be insufficient to cover FEGLI premiums over the course of 6 months or more. See FEGLI Handbook. The employee may wish to reduce or cancel other deductions from pay or may reduce FEGLI coverage in order to increase pay to cover the withholdings. An employee may elect to make direct payments to the employing office for periods when the pay is insufficient to cover the cost of the premiums. If the employee does not make direct payments, adjust, or cancel coverage, the HRO will terminate coverage as follows:

6.5.3.2.1. The HRO will terminate all coverage if pay is not sufficient for any premium withholding.

6.5.3.2.2. If the employee has pay available to cover part of the premiums, the HRO will administratively terminate as much coverage as necessary to allow for premium withholdings in the following order:

6.5.3.2.2.1. Multiples of Option C,

6.5.3.2.2.2. Option A,

6.5.3.2.2.3. Multiples of Option B, then

6.5.3.2.2.4. Basic insurance.

6.5.3.2.3. Coverage terminates at the end of the last pay period during which premiums were withheld.

6.5.3.3. Reinstating FEGLI Premium Withholding When Pay is Sufficient. If the HRO terminated coverage administratively, the HRO will automatically reinstate FEGLI coverage when the employee’s pay becomes sufficient to cover the withholdings. If an employee paid premiums directly, the employing office must start withholding premiums from the employee’s pay as soon as the pay becomes sufficient.

6.5.4. Withholding FEGLI Premiums and FEGLI Coverage During Nonpay Status

6.5.4.1. Twelve Months of Free Coverage. When an employee enters a nonpay status, the employee is entitled to 12 months of free FEGLI coverage from the last date of pay. No premium payments are required if the employee is in a nonpay status for an entire pay period (unless the employee is receiving benefits from the OWCP). See subparagraph 6.5.6. Make-up withholdings from future salary payments are not required.

6.5.4.1.1. The employee’s coverage stops on the date the employee completes 12 months in a nonpay status, subject to the 31-day extension of coverage and right of conversion under subparagraph 6.5.3. The 12 months in a nonpay status may be broken by periods of less than 4 consecutive months in a pay status.

6.5.4.1.2. The employee is entitled to begin a new period of 12-month coverage if the employee has at least 4 consecutive months in pay status after a period of nonpay status.
6.5.4.1.3. If the employee has exhausted the 12 months of FEGLI coverage while in a nonpay status and returns to duty for less than 4 consecutive months, the Basic insurance stops 32 days after the last day of the last pay period in a pay status. See 5 CFR 870.601(d).

6.5.4.2. Partial Pay Period. If an employee is in a nonpay status for part of a pay period, the full premium (for both Basic and Optional coverage) is withheld, and the Government contribution is paid.

6.5.4.3. Withholding Premiums From Back Pay Awards. Except under the circumstances described at subparagraph 6.10.1, no FEGLI premium withholdings are made by the PRO from back pay awarded to an employee who was determined to be erroneously suspended or terminated from employment.

6.5.4.4. Withholding Premiums When Employee on LWOP Accepts Temporary Employment in Another Position. If an employee, who is entitled to 12 months of free coverage while in a nonpay status, accepts a temporary appointment to another position, in which he or she normally would be excluded from insurance coverage, insurance (Basic and Optional) continues.

6.5.4.4.1. The amount of Basic insurance is based on whichever position’s salary is higher. The PRO takes withholdings from pay earned in the temporary position.

6.5.4.4.2. When the employee has completed the 12 months of nonpay status from the first position that entitled the employee to free coverage, FEGLI coverage will terminate, even if the employee remains in the temporary position. If the temporary position ends before the 12-month period and the employee is still on LWOP from the first position, the free coverage under the first position continues until the employee is separated or until the end of the 12-month nonpay status. After the 12-month period, an employee is eligible for the 31-day extension period and the right to convert to private insurance. See 5 CFR 870.508(b).

6.5.4.5. Special Nonpay Situations. Special nonpay situations involve employees appointed to employee organizations, state or local government, Indian tribal organizations, institutions of higher education, or when an employee transfers to an international organization. Employees in these special nonpay situations may elect to continue their FEGLI coverage for the duration of their appointment. If elected, coverage continues even if the employee remains in a nonpay status for more than 12 months.

6.5.4.5.1. Payment of Premiums. If the employee elects to continue coverage, the employee must pay the premiums from the beginning of the nonpay status, and the employee is not eligible for 12 months of free coverage. Whether the government continues contributing depends on the appointment. See FEGLI Handbook and 5 CFR 870.508.

6.5.4.5.2. Continued Coverage Not Elected. If the employee does not elect to continue coverage, the employee is still eligible for 12 months of free coverage and coverage will terminate at the end of the 12-month period, the same as for any other employee in a nonpay status.
6.5.5. Withholding FEGLI Premiums From LSL Payments Upon Separation. No insurance premium is withheld from the LSL payment when the employee separates from Federal service. However, if the employee has an established debt that is being collected due to the underpayment of premiums, the agency may collect the debt from the LSL payment.

6.5.6. Withholding FEGLI Premiums While Employee is Receiving Office of Workers' Compensation Program (OWCP) Payments

6.5.6.1. Twelve Months of Coverage as Employee. If an employee is in a nonpay status while receiving workers’ compensation benefits, the employee receives 12 months of coverage. The HRO must notify the OWCP of the type and amount of life insurance the employee has in effect. The OWCP will make withholdings from workers’ compensation benefits when compensation begins, even during the first 12 months of nonpay status, at the same rate that was withheld from the employee’s salary. The OWCP deductions for FEGLI will begin effective the first day of LWOP. See FECA Circular No. 12-05. The employing agency continues to pay the Government contribution until the employee separates from service or completes 12 months in nonpay status, whichever happens first. Thereafter, OPM pays the Government contribution. See FEGLI Handbook.

6.5.6.2. Continuing Coverage as an OWCP Compensationer. If FEGLI coverage stops after 12 months in a nonpay status or due to separation, under 5 CFR 870.701, an OWCP compensationer may be eligible to continue Basic coverage (but not accidental death or dismemberment) and may continue or reinstate Optional insurance if:

6.5.6.2.1. The compensationer was insured during the 5 years of service immediately before the date of entitlement to compensation, or for the full period of service during which the employee was eligible to be insured if less than 5 years; and

6.5.6.2.2. The compensationer has not converted to an individual policy.

6.5.6.3. Requesting Continuation of Coverage. The compensationer must complete an SF 2818, Continuation of Life Insurance Coverage, as an Annuitant or Compensationer. The HRO must provide the compensationer with a copy of the SF 2819, Notice of Conversion Privilege, Federal Employee’s Group Life Insurance Program. The HRO must complete an SF 2821, Agency Certification of Insurance Status. The HRO must send the SF 2818 and SF 2821, a copy of the SF 2819, and all pertinent life insurance information from the employee’s file to OPM for verification of eligibility to continue coverage. If eligible, OPM’s Retirement Operations Center will serve as the “employing office” and will maintain the compensationer’s life insurance file. See 5 CFR 870, subpart F.

6.5.6.4. Notice of Ineligibility. If the employee does not meet the requirements for continuation of life insurance (subparagraph 6.5.6.2), the HRO must notify the OWCP by completing a “Notice of Life Insurance Ineligibility” and issue a copy to the employee. The OWCP will stop withholding at the end of the 12 months of free coverage. If the employee separates before the end of the 12 months, the agency must notify the OWCP so that withholdings will end. See FEGLI Handbook.
6.5.7. Withholding FEGLI Premiums for Employees in Concurrent Employment Positions. An employee who legally serves in more than one position at the same time, in either the same agency or different agencies, is eligible for coverage if at least one position is a covered position. The amount of Basic and Option B insurance is based on the sum of annual pay for both positions (salaries are added together before rounding up to the next even thousand and before adding the additional $2,000 for Basic insurance). The agency paying the higher salary withholds the employee’s premium share and pays the Government contribution. If the employee goes into a nonpay status in an excluded position, at the end of 12 months in nonpay status, the amount of coverage is no longer based on the combined salary but is based solely on the salary from the covered position. If one of the positions is excluded from coverage, see the FEGLI Handbook.

6.5.8. Withholding Upon Return From Shutdown Furlough. An employee’s FEGLI coverage continues during a shutdown furlough. The FY20 NDAA provides that employees are authorized to receive retroactive pay in the case of a shutdown furlough. Therefore, FEGLI premiums not paid due to the lapse of appropriations are to be collected from retroactive pay. See BAL 22-202.

6.6 FEGLI Daily Proration Rule

6.6.1. General. The FEGLI Daily Proration Rule is a formula used to calculate partial employee withholdings and Government contributions for FEGLI premiums. Unless otherwise provided, the PRO deducts full withholdings and contributions for each pay period even if the employee is in pay status for only part of the pay period. The PRO uses the FEGLI Daily Proration Rule to compute partial withholdings and contributions under the following circumstances:

6.6.1.1. The employee transfers to a position serviced by a different PRO other than at the beginning of a pay period or, the transfer involves two agencies that are on different pay schedules; or

6.6.1.2. The employee retires other than at the end of a pay period.

6.6.2. Application of the FEGLI Daily Proration Rule. The FEGLI Handbook provides examples for computing a prorated amount of withholdings and contributions using the Proration Rule. Each PRO is responsible for withholdings and contributions for the actual time the employee occupied the position that the PRO serviced. Each PRO (gaining and losing) must compute daily FEGLI premium withholding and contribution rates as follows:

6.6.2.1. Determine the Daily Rate. To determine the Daily Rate for partial employee withholdings and Government contributions (for Basic insurance), multiply the biweekly employee withholding and Government contribution rates by 26, then divide by 364, the results will equal the daily rate. Use the denominator of 364 even during a leap year. The formula is as follows:

Biweekly Employee Withholdings \( \times 26 \div 364 = \text{Daily Rate} \), and Biweekly Government Contributions \( \times 26 \div 364 = \text{Daily Rate} \).

6.6.2.2. Apply the Daily Rate to Formulas for Insurance Types. The PRO computes the Daily Rate using the formula discussed in subparagraph 6.6.2.1. Once computed, the PRO must use the following formulas to determine the amount of withholdings and contributions (for Basic insurance) for which losing and gaining PROs are responsible:

6.6.2.2.1. For Option A, the formula is:

\[ \text{Daily Rate} \times \text{Days on Payroll}. \]

6.6.2.2.2. For Basic Insurance and Option B the formula is:

\[ \text{Daily Rate} \times \frac{\text{Coverage Amount}}{1,000} \times \text{Days on Payroll}. \]

6.6.2.2.3. For Option C, the formula is:

\[ \text{Daily Rate} \times \text{Number of Multiples} \times \text{Days on Payroll}. \]

6.6.3. Active Employees. Use the FEGLI Daily Proration Rule to determine the PRO’s (gaining and losing) responsibility for withholdings and contribution.

6.6.4. Retiring Employees. Withholdings and contributions depend on the employee's age at the time of retirement.

6.6.4.1. If the employee is under 65 years of age on the starting date of the annuity, the PRO will make Basic insurance withholdings and contributions and Optional insurance withholdings based on the following:

6.6.4.1.1. If the annuity starts after the end of the pay period, the PRO will make full withholdings and contributions for the entire pay period. Withholdings and contributions are not required for the period between the end of the pay period in which the employee separates and the date the annuity begins. See 5 CFR 870.404(b).

6.6.4.1.2. If the annuity starts before the end of the pay period, the PRO will make withholdings and contributions through the day before the annuity commencement date using the FEGLI Daily Proration Rule.

6.6.4.2. If the employee is 65 years or older on the starting date of the annuity, the PRO will make Basic insurance withholdings and contributions and Optional insurance withholding based on the post-65 election chosen by the employee.

6.6.4.2.1. If the employee elects Basic insurance with the 75 percent reduction, the PRO will make withholdings and contributions through the end of the pay period in which the employee separates for retirement without any proration.
6.6.4.2.2. If the employee elects Basic insurance with the 50 percent reduction, or no reduction, the PRO will make withholdings and contributions based on the starting date of the annuity, the same as for retiring employees under age 65.

6.6.4.2.3. If the employee has Option A, the PRO will make the withholdings through the end of the pay period in which the employee separates for retirement without any proration.

6.6.4.2.4. If the employee has Option B or Option C and elects full reduction, the PRO will make withholdings through the end of the pay period in which the employee separates for retirement without any proration. If the employee elects no reduction for Option B or Option C, the PRO will make the withholdings based on the starting date of the annuity, the same as for retiring employees under age 65.

6.7 FEGLI Termination, Cancellation, Extension or Conversion

6.7.1. Termination. Termination of FEGLI coverage is an involuntary action. An employee whose life insurance terminates receives a 31-day extension of coverage and a right to convert coverage. Termination does not affect an employee’s eligibility to continue coverage into retirement. Life insurance terminates when the following occurs:

6.7.1.1. The employee separates from service (see FEGLI Handbook for exceptions);

6.7.1.2. Pay is insufficient to make any premium withholdings, and the employee does not elect to make direct payments;

6.7.1.3. The employee completes 12 months in nonpay status, and the employee is not eligible to continue coverage;

6.7.1.4. The employee moves to a position that is excluded by law from FEGLI coverage; or 6.7.1.5. Upon the death of the employee.

6.7.2. Cancellation of FEGLI Coverage. Cancellation of life insurance coverage is voluntary. Employees who cancel coverage are not eligible to receive the 31-day extension of coverage or a right to convert the coverage. Cancellation of life insurance may affect an employee’s eligibility to continue life insurance coverage after retiring. See also paragraph 6.4.

6.7.2.1. Cancellation of Basic Insurance. An employee may cancel Basic insurance at any time by filing a waiver of Basic insurance coverage with their HRO. Coverage is canceled at the end of the pay period in which the waiver is properly filed. Cancellation of Basic insurance automatically cancels all forms of Optional insurance.
6.7.2.2. Cancellation of Optional Insurance. An employee may cancel Optional life insurance, or reduce the number of multiples under Option B, at any time by filing a waiver of Optional insurance coverage with their HRO. An employee will not receive a refund of premiums paid prior to the effective date of cancellation. Coverage terminates at the end of the pay period in which the employee files the waiver. Exception: If Option C is canceled because there are no eligible family members, the effective date is retroactive to the end of the pay period in which there were no longer any eligible family members. See 5 CFR 870.505(b). Cancellation of Optional insurance does not cancel Basic insurance. The Barring Act (Statute of Limitations) at 31 U.S.C. § 3702(b)(1) does not apply to retroactive refunds for Option C.

6.7.2.3. Reinstating Insurance. For detailed information concerning cancelling a waiver of coverage, see the FEGLI Handbook and 5 CFR 870.503-505.

6.7.3. 31-Day Extension of Coverage and Conversion. When Basic and Optional insurance terminates, except by an employee’s waiver or cancellation, coverage automatically continues without cost for an additional 31 days. No withholding or Government contributions are required during the 31-day extension. An employee may convert to an individual policy and may convert any or all of his or her Basic and Optional coverage. Conversion is effective at the end of the 31-day extension of coverage. The employing agency must notify the employee of the loss of coverage and the right to convert to an individual policy either before or immediately after the event causing loss of coverage. See 5 CFR 870.603.

6.8. Office of Federal Employees' Group Life Insurance (OFEGLI) Requests for Pre-Payment Verification

PROs must cooperate with the OFEGLI when it requests pre-payment verification. The OFEGLI is required to obtain verification before making payment to beneficiaries of enrollees with $200,000 or more of FEGLI coverage. OFEGLI will request the insured's current salary, annual salary (if different) and details on enrollment in Optional insurance, if applicable.

6.9. Continuation of Coverage for Federal Employees Called to Active Duty

Effective January 28, 2008, for Federal employees called to active duty or active duty for training, FEGLI coverage continues for up to 24 months. See 5 CFR 870.601(d)(3). Coverage applies to a member of a Reserve component of the Armed Forces called or ordered to active duty for greater than 30 days and is on approved AUS to perform active duty or active duty for training.

6.9.1. Months 1 through 12. An employee called to active duty maintains continued FEGLI coverage for up to 12 months just as any other employee in a nonpay status. Employees do not pay for coverage during this 12-month period.

6.9.2. Months 13 through 24. An employee called to active duty must elect to have life insurance continue for an additional 12 months and must pay the employee and agency share of the premium from the beginning of the additional 12 months of coverage. An employee may cancel some or all of the coverage during this period. See 5 U.S.C. § 8706(d)(1).
6.9.3. Termination. At the end of the first 12 months, or 90 days after the military service ends, whichever is earlier, coverage will terminate unless the employee elects to continue coverage for the additional 12 months, subject to the 31-day extension of coverage and right to convert to an individual policy. An employee may cancel an election at any time, in which case insurance will stop upon receipt of notice of cancellation.

6.9.4. Return to Federal Service. When the employee returns to active Federal service after military duty, the employee is afforded the same level of life insurance that was in place before the employee entered nonpay status or separated for military service, as long as the position is not excluded from coverage. HRO reinstates the same type of insurance even if the employee declined to continue coverage for the additional 12 months, reduced some or all of the coverage, or allowed coverage to terminate due to nonpayment.

6.10. Increasing Coverage for Employees Deployed in Support of a Contingency Operation

Civilian employees eligible for FEGLI, who are deployed in support of a contingency operation, as defined at 10 U.S.C. § 101(a)(13), or DoD employees eligible for FEGLI, who are designated as emergency essential under 10 U.S.C. § 1580, may elect Basic, Option A and Option B, up to 5 multiples, within 60 days after the date of notification of deployment. See 5 CFR 870.503(e) and (f).

6.11. Retroactive Changes and Adjustment of Errors

6.11.1. Retroactive Changes to Pay

6.11.1.1. Erroneous Suspension/Removal and Back Pay Awards. If an employee is retroactively restored to duty with back pay after an erroneous suspension or removal, no life insurance premium withholding is made from the back pay award. However, if death or dismemberment occurred during the period of suspension or separation, the PRO must withhold premiums from the back pay. Additionally, if the employee had Option C coverage and a covered family member dies during the period of separation or removal, the PRO must withhold Option C premiums from the back pay award. See 5 CFR 870.404(e) and the FEGLI Handbook.

6.11.1.2. Retroactive Pay Increase. If an employee receives a retroactive pay increase that was delayed beyond the effective date due to administrative error or oversight, and the pay increase resulted in higher life insurance premiums, deductions for the increased premium adjustment must be applied retroactively.
6.11.2. Adjustment of Errors for Overdeductions and Underdeductions of FEGLI Premiums

6.11.2.1. Current Employees

6.11.2.1.1. Overdeduction of FEGLI Premiums Owed. When the PRO erroneously overwithholds premiums from the salary of an employee, the PRO must refund the erroneous withholding to the employee the next pay period. This automatically corrects the excess Government contribution.

6.11.2.1.2. Underdeduction of FEGLI Premiums Owed. When less than or none of the proper amount of FEGLI premiums are withheld from the salary of the employee, the underdeduction represents an overpayment to the employee that must be collected as a debt. The collection of the debt may be exempt from due process requirements under 5 CFR 550.1104(c). See Volume 16, Chapter 3, section 2.7 for additional information. The agency must submit the uncollected amount due, including the Government contributions, to OPM within 60 calendar days after the date the agency discovers the underdeduction, regardless of whether collection from the employee has been made. Government contributions must be adjusted when payment is received from the employee.

6.11.2.1.3. OWCP Compensationers. The procedures for refunding overdeductions and collecting underdeductions are the same for employees who are receiving compensation from the OWCP.

6.11.2.2. Separated Employees. When it is necessary for the PRO to make an adjustment in withholdings for a separated employee, the adjustment is withheld from the final salary payment to the employee (or if deceased, to the employee's beneficiary or estate).

6.11.3. Incontestability

6.11.3.1. General. Incontestability is a provision of law that allows erroneous coverage to remain in effect under certain conditions. See 5 CFR 870.104. Coverage allowed to stand due to incontestability becomes valid coverage. Erroneous coverage always involves more coverage than an employee is entitled to receive or more than the employee elected. Incontestability does not apply to premiums being withheld for less coverage than an employee elected since such underwitholding is considered an overpayment of salary, annuity, or compensation. For purposes of incontestability, erroneous coverage may occur under the following circumstances:

6.11.3.1.1. The employee was allowed to elect coverage when not entitled to do so;

6.11.3.1.2. The SF 50 was coded incorrectly, giving the employee more coverage than he or she elected;

6.11.3.1.3. The PRO collected premiums for a coverage that the employee did not elect on the election form; or 6.11.3.1.4 OPM erroneously continued an employee’s coverage beginning when the employee became an annuitant or compensationer.

6.11.3.2. Requirements of Incontestability. An employee becomes insured under the provision of incontestability only if both of the following conditions are met:

6.11.3.2.1. The erroneous coverage was in effect for at least 2 years between the time the error was made and the time the error is discovered, and

6.11.3.2.2. The employee paid the applicable premiums for the erroneous coverage while it was in effect.

6.11.3.3. If Incontestability Applies and the Individual Does Not Want Coverage. When incontestability applies, an employee may cancel the coverage, but only prospectively. The PRO will not refund the premiums for the erroneous coverage period unless the employee had erroneous Option C coverage and did not have any eligible family members. An employee may cancel erroneous Option C coverage retroactively and the PRO must refund any erroneous Option C premiums retroactive to when the employee ceased having eligible family members. The Barring Act does not apply.

6.11.3.4. When Incontestability Does Not Apply. If the erroneous coverage is discovered before 2 years, incontestability does not apply and the coverage is not valid. The PRO must void the coverage and refund the premiums.

7.0 FEDERAL LONG-TERM CARE INSURANCE PROGRAM (FLTCIP)

7.1 General

The Long-Term Care Security Act authorized OPM to design a long-term care insurance program for Federal employees and their families. See 5 U.S.C., Chapter 90. OPM created the FLTCIP and contracted with the John Hancock Life Insurance Company as the carrier that provides Long-Term Care (LTC) insurance. Long-Term Care Partners, LLC (LTCP), a subsidiary of John Hancock, is the exclusive administrator of FLTCIP. See 5 CFR Part 875 for additional information. LTC insurance provides coverage for eligible employees, annuitants, and qualified family members. Coverage applies to those who can no longer perform activities of daily living without assistance due to a chronic illness, injury, disability or the aging process as determined by the LTCP. LTC insurance pays a portion of the cost of covered services, such as home health care, adult day care, or nursing home or assisted living facility costs.

7.1.1. Duties of LTCP. The LTCP administers all aspects of the program. Eligible employees must submit their application directly to the LTCP for approval of coverage. The LTCP is responsible for:

7.1.1.1. Accepting and approving employee applications,

7.1.1.2. Answering employee questions about the program,
7.1.3. Maintaining their website to include current information, and 7.1.4. Transmitting applicable payroll data for automatic payroll deductions.

7.1.2. Duties of Federal Agencies. Federal agencies are responsible for the following:

7.1.2.1. Providing access to information about the FLTCIP to eligible employee,

7.1.2.2. Responding to questions from the LTCP including questions on the employment status of an applicant or enrollee,

7.1.2.3. Providing reports as OPM requires,

7.1.2.4. Complying with BALs and other OPM issuances, and 7.1.2.5. Deducting premiums as authorized by employees and remitting those payments on a biweekly basis to the LTCP.

7.2. Eligibility and Cost

7.2.1. Eligibility. Participation is voluntary and elections must be made through LTCP. Most Federal civilian employees are eligible to apply for the LTC coverage. If an employee is eligible for the FEHB program, the employee is also eligible to apply for LTC insurance through FLTCIP, even if not enrolled in FEHB. Retirees are eligible to apply. Eligibility also extends to qualified relatives including spouses and adult children of eligible employees and retirees, as well as parents, parents-in-law, and stepparents of current employees. Qualified relatives may apply for coverage even if the employee does not apply.

7.2.2. Cost of Coverage. The employee pays the full cost of LTC insurance and there are no Government contributions toward LTC insurance premiums. LTC premiums are based on both the employee’s age and the cost of options that the employee selects.

7.3. Coverage and Payment Options

7.3.1. Effective Date of Coverage. If LTCP approves the employee’s application for coverage, the LTCP will send approval notification to the employee and provide the employee with an effective date of coverage. If enrollment occurs during open season, the effective dates of coverage are announced. If enrollment occurs any time outside of open season, coverage is effective the first day of the month after the approval date of the application. Additional requirements apply for active workforce members who apply for coverage under abbreviated underwriting and for those employees whose eligibility changes prior to their announced effective date of coverage. See 5 CFR 875.404.
7.3.2. Payment of Premiums

7.3.2.1. Payment Options. An employee who qualifies for participation in the LTCIP may choose from three payment options:

7.3.2.1.1. Payroll deduction,

7.3.2.1.2. Automatic bank withdrawal, or

7.3.2.1.3. Direct billing.

7.3.2.2. Payroll Deductions. If premiums are paid through payroll deductions, deductions begin on the first full pay period on or after the effective date of coverage. Payroll deductions for LTC premiums occur each biweekly pay period until the employee separates, transfers, or elects a different payment option.

7.3.2.3. Correcting Underpayments and Overpayments. If the carrier determines that the employee has underpaid premiums, the employee will pay retroactive premiums to the carrier for the amount due. If the carrier determines that the employee has overpaid premiums, the carrier will reimburse the employee or reduce future premium payments by the amount of the overpayment. See 5 CFR 875.303.

7.3.2.4. Withholding Upon Return From Shutdown Furlough. An employee’s FLTCIP coverage continues during a shutdown furlough. The FY20 NDAA provides that employees are authorized to receive retroactive pay in the case of a shutdown furlough. Therefore, FLTCIP premiums not paid due to the lapse of appropriations are to be collected from retroactive pay. See BAL 22-202.

7.3.3. Transferring Employees. Employees transferring to a new agency must notify LTCP regarding where and when the transfer will occur. The employee’s current payroll deductions will continue until the separation action processes. An employee will automatically receive a direct bill from the LTCP for any premiums not collected through payroll deduction due to the transfer. Payroll deductions are not adjusted to “catch-up” uncollected premiums.

8.0 DISABILITY INSURANCE FOR EMPLOYEES OF THE UNIFORMED SERVICES UNIVERSITY OF THE HEALTH SCIENCES (USUHS)

Full-time civilian faculty members appointed to an Administratively Determined (AD) position of the USUHS School of Medicine receive mandatory coverage under a long-term disability insurance plan. In order to participate in the long-term disability insurance plan, the employee must be covered under the Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association College Retirement Equities Fund (TIAA-CREF) or the Fidelity Investments program. The employer and employee share the cost of the disability insurance and each contributes 50 percent of the premium. USUHS AD employees covered under FERS or CSRS are not eligible for the long-term disability insurance plan.
9.0 NATIONAL GUARD ASSOCIATION OF UNITED STATES (NGAUS) INSURANCE TRUST (IT) PROGRAM

Army and Air National Guard Technicians (Title 32 Technicians) may choose to participate in the NGAUS-IT, which provides disability and life insurance products through its underwriter, ReliaStar Life Insurance Company. Technicians should contact their HRO or NGAUS-IT for enrollment instructions and forms. Technicians who participate agree to have premiums deducted from their biweekly pay on the NGAUS-IT enrollment form. CSRs work closely with ReliaStar Life Insurance Company, which confirms the approval of enrollment and provides the CSR with start dates and amounts of payroll deductions. ReliaStar will notify CSRs of any revisions to premium deductions due to age or salary changes. CSRs enter the appropriate premium deduction information into the Defense Civilian Pay System. The PRO deducts premiums for the entire pay period, regardless of the day of termination, and proration is not required.

10.0 THRIFT SAVINGS PLAN (TSP)

10.1 General

The Federal Employees' Retirement System Act of 1986 established the TSP, a retirement savings and investment plan for Federal employees. See 5 U.S.C., Chapter 83, 5 U.S.C., Chapter 84, and 5 CFR Part 1600. TSP offers eligible employees traditional tax deferral advantages and a Roth-TSP option. The Federal Retirement Thrift Investment Board administers the plan. FERS, CSRS, and CSRS-Offset employees are eligible to participate in the TSP. TSP benefits depend on an employee’s retirement system. If the employee’s coverage is under CSRS, TSP is a supplement to the CSRS annuity. If the employee’s coverage is under FERS, TSP is part of the three-part retirement package that includes the FERS basic annuity and Social Security. See also TSP for additional information.

10.2 Establishing a TSP Account, Contribution Elections, and Automatic Enrollment

10.2.1. Employees Hired Between August 1, 2010 and September 30, 2020. Employees (including FERS or CSRS rehired employees) hired after July 31, 2010, are automatically enrolled in TSP. The PRO deducts 3 percent of the employee’s basic pay each pay period and deposits the funds into the employee’s TSP account. The employee must make a contribution election to stop or change the contribution. FERS employees also receive contributions from the Government. TSP invests all contributions in the age appropriate Lifecycle (L) Fund until the employee changes the contribution allocation with the TSP. See TSP Bulletin 10-7, TSP Bulletin 15-2, and TSP Bulletin 19-4.

10.2.2. Employees Hired on or After October 1, 2020. Employees (including FERS or CSRS rehired employees) hired after October 1, 2020 are automatically enrolled in TSP. The PRO deducts 5 percent of the employee’s basic pay each pay period and deposits the funds into the employee’s TSP account. This change will not affect the contribution rates for existing employees who were enrolled in TSP prior to October 1, 2020. See TSP Bulletin 19-4.
10.2.3. FERS Employees Hired Before August 1, 2010. The agency establishes a TSP account accruing Agency Automatic (1 percent) Contributions for FERS employees hired before August 1, 2010. Employees must make a contribution election in order to begin employee contributions and to receive Agency Matching Contributions.

10.2.4. CSRS Employees. CSRS employees may make a TSP contribution election at any time through their HRO in order to establish a TSP account. CSRS employees do not receive Agency Automatic (1 percent) Contributions or Agency Matching Contributions.

10.2.5. Contribution Elections. A contribution election is used by an employee to start, stop, or change employee contributions. The employee may elect to contribute at any time as instructed by the employing agency, by submitting a paper election form, by using electronic media, such as the Employee Benefits Information System. An election may not exceed the maximum contribution limit under 5 CFR 1600.22. The contribution election may be a percentage of basic pay or a dollar amount that is deducted each biweekly pay period. Percentages and dollar amounts must be expressed in whole numbers. Contribution elections are effective the first full pay period after the agency receives the election. For more information on TSP forms, visit the Civilian Forms section on the TSP’s website.

10.3. TSP Contributions

10.3.1. General. TSP contributions come from three sources: employee contributions, Agency Automatic (1 percent) Contributions, and Agency Matching Contributions. Additional information on employee contribution elections, contribution allocations, and agency automatic and matching contributions can be found in 5 CFR Part 1600 and 5 CFR Part 1601 or on the TSP website.

10.3.2. Employee Contributions. Employee Contributions are payroll deductions taken from an employee’s basic pay before taxes are withheld. The PRO withholds contributions each pay period in the amount directed by the employee (or the automatic enrollment amount if no election is made). See 5 CFR 1600.34. An employee is immediately vested in his or her own contributions and any accrued earnings on such contributions. Maximum contribution limits are as follows:

10.3.2.1. Internal Revenue Service (IRS) Limits. Contribution amounts are subject to the Internal Revenue Code (IRC) limitations on the maximum dollar amount of contributions. The limits set by the IRS may change annually and are published on the TSP website. See 5 CFR 1600.22 and TSP’s Contribution Limits.

10.3.2.2. Contribution Limits Through 2005. The maximum employee contribution for FERS, CSRS and CSRS-Offset participants was limited through 2005 to a percentage of basic pay. After 2005, the IRS began setting contribution limits. Additional information regarding FERS limits for 2005 and before can be found at 5 U.S.C. § 8432(a)(2), 5 U.S.C. § 8351(b)(2)(B), and 5 CFR 1600.22.
10.3.2.3. Catch-up Contributions. A TSP participant age 50 or older may be eligible to make tax-deferred or Roth catch-up contributions from basic pay that are separate from the participant’s regular contribution election. Except as provided in subparagraph 10.3.2.3.4, catch-up contributions for FERS employees are not eligible for Agency Matching Contributions.

Catch-up contributions may be made at any time during the calendar year if the employee is:

10.3.2.3.1. At least age 50 by the end of the calendar year,

10.3.2.3.2. Making regular TSP contributions at a rate that will result in the participant making the maximum regular contributions permitted under the IRC, and 10.3.2.3.3. The catch-up contribution does not exceed the contribution catch-up annual limit. See 5 CFR 1600.23.

10.3.2.3.4. Beginning the first pay period of calendar year 2021, the Spillover Method will take over for catch-up contributions. Eligible employee’s will no longer need to make a separate contribution election for catch-up contributions. Once the contribution limit has been reached, the employee’s contributions will “spill over” toward the catch up limit. Contributions spilling over toward the catch-up limit are eligible for Agency Matching Contributions, but only up to the 5 percent of pay to which participants are already entitled under subparagraph 10.3.4. See TSP Bulletin 19-5 and TSP Bulletin 20-1.

10.3.3. Agency Automatic (1 Percent) Contributions. Beginning with an employee’s first pay period, an agency contributes an amount equal to 1 percent of the employee’s basic pay to the employee’s TSP account each pay period. For employees hired on or after December 1, 2008, The TSP Enhancement Act of 2009 (established with PL 111-31) eliminated the waiting period for FERS employees to receive the Agency Automatic Contributions. See TSP Bulletin 10-7. The agency contribution is not deducted from the employee’s pay, nor is it used to determine tax owed by the employee. CSRS employees do not receive an agency contribution. Generally, most FERS employees become vested and entitled to the Agency Automatic Contributions, and associated earnings, after completing 3 years of service. If an employee:

10.3.3.1. Dies before separating from service, he or she is automatically vested in all of the money in the employee’s TSP account; or 10.3.3.2. Separates from Federal service, the employee must meet the TSP vesting requirement in order to keep Agency Automatic Contributions and associated earnings.

10.3.4. Agency Matching Contributions. Employees covered under FERS will receive Agency Matching Contributions on the first 5 percent of pay that the employee contributes each pay period to their TSP account. The agency matches the first 3 percent of pay the employee contributes dollar for dollar. The agency matches the next 2 percent of pay at 50 cents per dollar. The agency does not match the employee contributions above 5 percent. Employees covered under CSRS do not receive Agency Matching Contributions.
10.3.5. Contribution Allocations. Employees may make a contribution allocation directing how money deposited into the employee’s TSP account is to be invested. This applies only to future deposits and does not affect funds already in the account (an Interfund Transfer reallocates existing investments). The allocation directs the investment of employee contributions, Agency Automatic (1 percent) Contributions, and Agency Matching Contributions. The allocation remains in effect until superseded by a subsequent contribution allocation submitted by the employee. Allocations must be in 1 percent increments and the sum of the percentages elected must equal 100 percent. An employee may change an allocation using the TSP website or using ThriftLine (the automated system or speaking to a TSP Participant Service Representative). Employees may allocate investments among any of the following TSP investment funds:

10.3.5.1. Government Securities Investment (G) Fund,
10.3.5.2. Fixed Income Index Investment (F) Fund,
10.3.5.3. Common Stock Index Investment (C) Fund,
10.3.5.4. Small Capitalization Stock Index Investment (S) Fund,
10.3.5.5. International Stock Index Investment (I) Fund, and 10.3.5.6. Lifecycle (L) Funds.

10.4 TSP Loan Program

10.4.1. General. The TSP Loan Program allows employees to borrow money from their TSP account while actively employed by the Federal government. TSP participants must apply for a TSP loan and must meet the eligibility criteria set forth in 5 CFR 1655.2. Employees may not have more than two outstanding loans (one general purpose and one residential loan) at any time and must set-up loan payments through payroll deduction. Repayment must restore the original loan amount, plus interest. Deductions for repayment each pay period is in the amount set out in the Loan Agreement. An employee may make additional payments and may pay off the loan early by making payment directly to TSP.

10.4.2. Types of TSP Loans. There are two types of TSP loans authorized under the TSP loan program, the general purpose loan and the residential loan.

10.4.2.1. General Purpose Loans. General purpose loans may be used for any purpose. Obtaining the loan requires no documentation. The repayment term is 1 to 5 years.

10.4.2.2. Residential Loans. Residential loans may be used only for the purchase or construction of a primary residence. Residential loans require documentation regarding the cost of purchasing or constructing the residence and other documentation as requested by TSP. The repayment term is 1 to 15 years.
10.4.3. Borrowing Limits for TSP Loans

10.4.3.1. Minimum Loan Amount. The initial principal amount of any loan cannot be less than $1,000.

10.4.3.2. Maximum Loan Amount. The principal amount of a new loan must be less than or equal to the smallest of the following:

10.4.3.2.1. The employee’s own contributions and earnings on those contributions in the employee’s TSP account balance, not including any outstanding loan balance;

10.4.3.2.2. Fifty percent of the employee’s vested account balance, including outstanding loan balance or $10,000, whichever is greater, minus any outstanding loan balance; or 10.4.3.2.3. $50,000 minus the employee’s highest outstanding loan balance, if any, during the last 12 months.

10.5 In-Service Hardship Withdraw

Employees who meet eligibility requirements may make a financial hardship withdrawal from their TSP account. An employee cannot return or repay the money removed from the TSP account. See 5 CFR 1650.32, TSP In-Service Withdrawal Basics, and TSP In-Service Withdrawals for Financial Hardship.

10.5.1. Prior to September 15, 2019. After making the withdrawal, the employee cannot make employee contributions to their TSP account for six months. FERS participants will not receive any Agency Matching Contributions for the period during which the employee is not making employee contributions. However, Agency Automatic (1 percent) Contributions will continue.

10.5.2. On or After September 15, 2019. The rule requiring employee contributions to be suspended for six months is eliminated. A financial hardship withdrawal will have no effect on an employee’s contributions. After making the withdrawal, restarting the TSP contributions is the employee’s responsibility. See TSP Bulletin 19-9.

10.6 Correction of Late Contributions

10.6.1. Late Contributions. A late contribution is a contribution that is timely deducted from an employee’s basic pay, but is not timely reported to the TSP for investment. A late contribution may also result from an employee contribution that was timely reported to TSP, but was not timely posted to the participant’s account by TSP because the payment record submitted contained errors. See 5 CFR 1605.2.
10.6.2. Corrections. The PRO must submit late contributions to TSP as soon as the error is discovered. The PRO must show the “as of” date for the contributions. Breakage for both the employee and agency contributions is calculated by TSP. See 5 CFR 1605.15.

10.7 Correction of Employing Agency Errors

10.7.1. General. Agency errors occur when an agency either erroneously submits less contributions to a TSP participant’s account than it should have or more than it should have. An error is an act or omission by TSP or the employing agency that is not in accordance with applicable statutes, regulations, or administrative procedures. It does not mean an act or omission caused by events that are beyond the control of TSP or the employing agency. It is the responsibility of the employing agency to determine whether it has made an error that entitles a TSP participant to a correction for missed or insufficient contributions. See 5 CFR 1605, subpart B.

10.7.2. Missed or Insufficient Contributions. Types of errors resulting in missed or insufficient contributions include, but are not limited to, when the agency actions prevent an employee from making an election to contribute, when the agency fails to implement an election properly submitted, or when the agency fails to make agency automatic or matching contributions. See 5 CFR 1605.11. If, as a result of an agency error, a participant does not receive all of the TSP contributions to which he or she is entitled, the following applies:

10.7.2.1. Employer Makeup Contributions. An agency is required to correct any agency automatic (1 percent) contributions and agency matching contributions it failed to make. The PRO should promptly submit all missed contribution to TSP. TSP will calculate breakage due the participant and post the contributions and breakage to the participant’s account. See 5 CFR 1605.11. See subparagraph 10.6.2 for information concerning breakage.

10.7.2.2. Employee Makeup Contributions. Missed or insufficient contributions that are the result of an agency error are corrected prospectively. The agency must notify the TSP participant if he or she is eligible to make up the missed contributions and receive matching agency contributions (if applicable). Employee contributions may only be made through future payroll deductions from basic pay. Contributions by check, money order, cash or other form of payment directly from the participant to TSP or to the employing agency for deposit into TSP are not permitted. There is no payment of breakage on makeup employee contributions for missed or insufficient contributions. The employee will receive the tax benefit in the year the contributions are made up.

10.7.2.3. Notification to Employee. The PRO should issue a written notification to the employee indicating that the agency acknowledges that an error has occurred which has caused a smaller amount of employee contributions to be made to the participant’s account than should have been made. The agency must advise the employee that he or she may, but is not required, to elect to establish a schedule to make up the deficient contributions through future payroll deductions. An employee has 30 days from the date the notification was received to set up a schedule to make up any deficient contributions.
10.7.2.4. Repayment Schedule. An agency may not require a TSP participant to make up contributions in less than twice the number of pay periods over which error occurred. The maximum length of the repayment schedule may not exceed four times the number of pay periods over which the error occurred.

10.7.3. Removal of Excess or Erroneous Contributions. Generally, an agency must submit a negative adjustment record to TSP in order to identify and remove excess or erroneous contributions for each pay date. TSP will credit the agency with the actual value of the adjusted contribution. The agency must return the original amount of the employee contribution to the participant if applicable. Any positive earnings on employee contributions remain in the participant’s account. Positive earnings on agency contributions are forfeited to TSP. Excess or erroneous contributions submitted to TSP before January 1, 2000, may not be returned and remain in the participant’s account. See 5 CFR 1605.12.

10.8. Corrections Following an Award of Back Pay or Retroactive Pay Adjustment

10.8.1. Erroneously Separated Employee. An erroneously separated employee may request that any employee contributions not made during the period of erroneous separation be deducted from his or her back pay award. See 5 CFR 1605.13. If the employee elects to make up contributions for the back pay period, the HRO will either reinstate the employee’s contribution election on file at the time of separation, or the employee may submit a new contribution election if he or she would have been eligible to make such an election but for the erroneous separation. The TSP makeup contributions are subject to the following requirements:

10.8.1.1. Breakage is paid on all makeup contributions, both employee and agency. Unless otherwise required by the employing agency or the court or other tribunal with jurisdiction over the back pay case, breakage will be invested according to the participant's contribution allocation on the posting date. If there is no contribution allocation on file, breakage will be calculated using the share prices for the default investment fund in effect for the participant. See 5 CFR 1605.2.

10.8.1.2. The employee will receive the tax benefit in the year the contributions are made. The PRO must annotate retroactive employee contributions by year on the IRS Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement.

10.8.1.3. TSP will not accept retroactive contributions for erroneous separations directly from the Department of Justice Judgment Fund or by check, money order, cash or other form of payment directly from the participant or agency.

10.8.1.4. If, by error, back pay is paid to an employee prior to making TSP contribution deductions, an individual who is still employed with the agency may make up the missed contributions through future payroll deductions.
10.8.2. Other Retroactive Pay Adjustments. The agency must deduct TSP contributions from the pay adjustment using the employee’s election on file for the period of the pay award. Breakage is calculated based on the contribution allocation on file when the contribution would have been made. See 5 CFR Part 1605 and section 10.10.

10.9. Corrections Due to Misclassification of Retirement System Coverage

An employee that has his or her retirement system coverage misclassified by the employing agency is entitled to have their record corrected.

10.9.1. Misclassified as FERS. When the CSRS employee is misclassified as a FERS participant, the following applies to the corrected record:

10.9.1.1. Employee contributions that exceed any applicable contribution percentage for the pay periods involved may remain in the employee’s account. The employee may request the return of excess employee contributions made on or after January 1, 2000, but contributions made before January 1, 2000, must remain in the employee’s account.

10.9.1.2. TSP will forfeit agency contributions made to the CSRS employee’s account.

10.9.2. Misclassified as CSRS. When the HRO misclassifies a FERS employee as a CSRS participant, the following applies to the corrected record:

10.9.2.1. The employee may not elect to have the contributions made while misclassified as a CSRS participant removed from the account.

10.9.2.2. The employee may elect to make up contributions that he or she would have been eligible to make as a FERS employee during the period of misclassification.

10.9.2.3. The employing agency must make Agency Automatic (1 percent) Contributions and Agency Matching Contributions on employee contributions made while the employee was misclassified.

10.9.2.4. If the misclassified coverage is a Federal Erroneous Retirement Coverage Corrections Act (FERCCA) correction, the employing agency must submit makeup employee contributions on late payment records. The employee is entitled to breakage on employee contributions, Agency Automatic (1 percent) Contributions, and Agency Matching Contributions.

10.9.2.5. If the misclassification coverage is not a FERCCA correction, the employing agency must submit makeup employee contributions on current payment records. The employee is not entitled to breakage on employee contributions, but breakage is required for retroactive agency contributions.
10.9.2.6. If employee contributions were made up before OPM implemented regulations on FERCCA corrections and the correction is considered to be a FERCCA correction, an amount to replicate TSP lost earnings will be calculated by OPM and provided to the employing agency for transmission to the TSP record keeper.

10.9.3. Misclassifications That are Corrected to Federal Insurance Contribution Act (FICA) Only. If the HRO misclassifies the employee as either FERS or CSRS and later corrects the retirement coverage to FICA only, the employee is no longer eligible to participate in TSP. For regulations regarding employee and agency contribution in the employee’s account, see 5 CFR 1605.14(c).

10.9.4. Misclassified as FICA Only. If the HRO misclassifies the employee as FICA only and later corrects the retirement coverage to either FERS or CSRS, the employee may elect to make up contributions that he or she would have been eligible to make as a FERS or CSRS employee during the period of misclassification.

10.10 Breakage

10.10.1. General. Breakage, also referred to as “lost earnings,” is the loss incurred or the gain realized on makeup or late contributions. Breakage for both the employee and agency contributions is calculated, posted and charged to the agency or forfeited to TSP in accordance with 5 CFR 1605.2. This includes breakage on late contributions, makeup agency contributions, and loan payments. When breakage is payable, breakage calculations are subject to the following requirements:

10.10.1.1. The contribution is submitted to TSP for deposit more than 30 days from the original pay date.

10.10.1.2. The net contribution (employee and agency combined) is at least $1.00.

10.10.2. Posting of Multiple Contributions. If the TSP posts multiple makeup or late contributions, or late loan payments with different “as of” dates for a participant on the same business day, the amount of breakage charged to the employing agency or forfeited to the TSP will be determined separately for each transaction, without netting any gains or losses attributable to different “as of” dates. In addition, gains and losses from different sources of contributions or different TSP Funds will not be netted against each other. Instead, breakage will be determined separately for each “as of” date, TSP Fund, and source of contributions. This is done to provide clarity due to multiple occurrences and to provide the employee complete information in order to make accurate and sound decisions.
10.11 Contributions Missed as a Result of Military Service Under USERRA

10.11.1. Employee Contributions. Upon their return to service, FERS and CSRS Employees who separated from Federal civilian service or who were on AUS in order to perform military service may be eligible to make up employee contributions (including any catch-up contributions for employees age 50 or older) missed because of their military service. FERS employees are eligible to receive matching agency contributions.

10.11.1.1. The PRO must deduct employee contributions from future pay. Employees must meet conditions specified in 5 CFR 1620.40. The allowable amount of any makeup contributions will be offset by the dollar amounts an employee contributed to TSP while performing military service. Total contributions may not exceed the IRS limit in effect the year the contribution would have been made.

10.11.1.2. Upon reemployment or return to a pay status after military service, an employee has 60 days to elect to make up any missed contributions. Missed employee contributions are made up in accordance with 5 CFR 1605.11(c). Employees who wish to makeup contributions under this authority should review the information on the TSP website regarding Resuming and Making Up Contributions and 5 CFR 1605.31.

10.11.2. Agency Automatic (1 percent) Contributions. The agency must deposit the Agency Automatic (1 percent) Contribution a FERS employee would have been eligible to receive during the period of AUS or separation. The contribution is based on the basic pay the employee would have earned and is entitled to breakage.

10.11.3. Agency Matching Contributions. The agency must deposit matching contributions based on the amount a FERS employee contributed to the uniformed services account from his or her military basic pay. Amounts contributed from other sources (such as uniformed services incentive, special, or bonus pay) are not used to determine Agency Matching Contributions. The agency pays matching contributions on any makeup employee contributions made after the employee returns from military service (unless the maximum matching has already been received). Agency Matching Contributions are entitled to breakage.

11.0 POST-56 MILITARY DEPOSIT

11.1. General

11.1.1. Background. On January 1, 1957, Social Security began using military service in the computation of Social Security benefits. As a result, Federal (employee) retirees with an annuity that included credit for military service performed after 1956 lost credit for time spent in military service when they became entitled to Social Security benefits. In 1982, Congress enacted a law allowing Federal employees who were also veterans with post-1956 military service to pay a deposit into FERS or CSRS to avoid the loss of their military service credit.
11.1.2. Post-56 Military Deposit. An employee must pay a deposit prior to retirement for military service performed after December 31, 1956, or the military service will not count toward the CSRS or FERS retirement annuity. This deposit is referred to as the Post-56 Military Deposit. Making the Post-56 Military Deposit allows an employee to receive credit for military service under both Social Security and CSRS or FERS.

11.1.4. Post-56 Deposit Payments. The employee may make a Post-56 Military Deposit in installment payments or a lump sum payment. Installment payments must be in whole dollar amounts not less than $25 per pay period, except for the last payment that may be in any amount to complete repayment. Unpaid balances are subject to interest calculations, and OPM issues BALs concerning the rate of interest to use. The employee must submit payments, other than payroll deductions, directly to either pay.gov or:

- DFAS-Cleveland
  - ATTN: J3DCBB/559
  - 1240 East 9th Street
  - Cleveland, OH 44199

The payment must be in the form of a negotiable instrument made payable to “Disbursing Officer.” Mailed payments must be received by the disbursing officer by the close of business on the last regular business day before the interest accrual date. The date of receipt by the disbursing officer will constitute the date of payment, not the date of the postmark. The PRO computes interest on the unpaid balance on the employee’s interest accrual date.

11.1.4.1. Timing of Payment. Employees must complete the deposit for military service prior to separation from service. If an employee dies, but was eligible at the time of death to make a deposit, the employee's survivor may make the deposit in one lump sum to the former employing agency before OPM completes adjudication of the survivor annuity application.

11.1.4.2. Administrative Errors. An employee, who was eligible to make a deposit for military service but failed to complete the deposit prior to separation due to an administrative error may complete the deposit in a lump sum if OPM determines an agency error occurred. If, after separation, a retiree requests to make a deposit and OPM determines that an agency error occurred, OPM will issue a letter to the agency. This letter will explain the administrative error in detail and advise the agency to compute and accept the Post-1956 Military Service Deposit. See BAL 13-103.
11.2. FERS Post-56 Military Deposit (“Buy Back”)

11.2.1. General. A FERS employee may receive credit for post-1956 military service under FERS rules only if he or she makes a Post-56 Military Deposit equal to the applicable percentage rate based on the period of service and the military basic pay he or she earned during the period of military service, plus interest. (See Credit for Military Service.) The deposit is required in order to receive credit for military service performed after December 31, 1956. The deposit is necessary to get credit for both FERS eligibility and annuity computation purposes. No deposit is due for military service performed before January 1, 1957. The employee is not charged interest if the deposit is paid in full before the first interest accrual date (IAD). Interest accrual starts and is compounded annually beginning 2 years from the date of the first employment under FERS.

11.2.2. IAD. For FERS employees first employed prior to January 1, 1987, interest started to accrue on January 1, 1989. Therefore, the initial IAD for these employees is January 1, 1990. For employees first employed on or after January 1, 1987, interest began to accrue 2 years from the date the employee was first employed and subject to FERS. Therefore, the initial IAD for these employees is 1 year after the 2-year interest free grace period ends.

11.3 CSRS Post-56 Military Deposit (“Buy Back”)

11.3.1. General. A CSRS employee first employed on or after October 1, 1982, will receive credit for post-1956 military service only if he or she makes a Post-56 Military Deposit equal to 7 percent of the military basic pay earned during the post-1956 military service, plus interest. Employees first employed under CSRS before October 1, 1982, have the option of making deposits for post-1956 military service and avoiding a possible annuity reduction.

11.3.2. Interest Accrual Dates. For CSRS employees, interest begins to accrue on the military service deposits on October 1, 1985, or 2 years after an employee is first employed or reemployed after a period of military service in a position subject to CSRS. The IAD is the date each year when the PRO adds the accrued interest to the amount owed by the employee. The initial IAD is the date 1 year after the end of the interest free grace period. Thereafter, the IAD falls on the anniversary of the first IAD until the employee pays the deposit in full. The employee is not charged interest if the deposit is paid in full before the first IAD.
